As to the juſt Diſcontents and Diſſatisfactions of the Army, in relation to their Grievances, and their non-compliance to the late Orders for ſudden diſbanding by piece-meal, before more full and equal ſatisfacticn were given to the whole, we deſire you to look back to the Papers already publiſhed, of the Grievances themſelves, the Narrative of the Officers, and the late Papers from the General Council of War at Bury, and late General Rendezvous near Newmarket: And we think your late reſuming the Conſideration of theſe things (as to a further ſatisfaction) doth moſt juſtifie the Deſires and Proceedings of the Army, in the paſt particulars hitherto.

22 Caroli I.

And though had we (upon our firſt Addreſſes for our undoubted Rights and Dues) found a free and candid Reception, with a juſt Conſideration and reaſonable Satisfaction, or at leaſt a free Anſwer therein, we ſhould have been eaſily perſwaded to have abated or forborn much of our Dues, and not to have inquired into, or conſidered (ſo far as we have) either the poſſibilities there are for more preſent ſatisfaction of Arrears, or the credit of future Securities propoſed; yet ſince upon theſe former Addreſſes we have found ſuch hard dealing as in the ſaid Paper is ſet forth, and thoſe additional (though hitherto but partial) Satisfactions coming ſo hardly as they have, we find no obliging Reaſons in the leaſt to decline or recede from what is our due, but rather ſtill to adhere unto our deſires of full and equal ſatisfaction of all the things mentioned in the aforeſaid Papers, not only in behalf of our ſelves and the Army, but alſo the whole Soldiery throughout the whole Kingdom, who have concurred, or ſhall concur with us in the ſame deſires.

And to all our former deſires as Soldiers, we cannot but add this (wherein we find our ſelves ſo nearly concerned in point of Juſtice and Reputation) that more care, &c. ſtricter courſe may be taken for making good all Articles granted upon Surrenders, according to the true intent and meaning of them. As alſo for remedy and reparation in caſe of any Breach; and this without thoſe delays which divers have found as prejudicial to them, or more than if they had been totally denied the performance of them.

Nor will it now, we hope, ſeem ſtrange or unſeaſonable to rational and honeſt Men, who conſider the conſequence of our preſent Caſe, to their own and the Kingdoms (as well as our) future Concernment in point of Right, Freedom, Peace, and Safety, if from a deep ſenſe of the high Conſequence of our preſent Caſe, both to our ſelves, in future, and all other People, we ſhall, before disbanding, proceed in our own and the Kingdoms behalf, to propound and plead for ſome Proviſion for our and the Kingdom's ſatisfaction, and future ſecurity, in relation to thoſe things, eſpecially conſidering, that we were not a meer mercinary Army, hired to ſerve any Arbitrary Power of a State, but called forth and conjured by the ſeveral Declarations of Parliament, to the defence of our own and the Peoples juſt Rights and Liberties. And ſo we took up Arms in Judgment and Conſcience to thoſe Ends, and have ſo continued them, and are reſolved, according to your firſt juſt deſires in your Declarations, and ſuch Principles as we have received from your frequent Informations, and our own common ſenſe concerning thoſe our fundamental Rights and Liberties, to aſſert and vindicate the juſt Power and Rights of this Kingdom in Parliament, for thoſe common Ends premiſed againſt all Arbitrary Power, Violence, and Oppreſſion, and againſt all particular Parties or Intereſts whatſoever. The ſaid Declarations ſtill directing us to the equitable ſenſe of all Laws and Conſtitutions, as diſpenſing with the very Letter of the ſame, and being ſupream to it, when the ſafety and preſervation of all is concerned, and aſſuring us, that all Authority is fundamentally ſeated in the Office, and but Miniſterially in the Perſons; neither do or will theſe our Proceedings (as we are fully and in Conſcience perſwaded) amount to any thing not warrantable before God and Men, being thus far much ſhort of the common Proceedings in other Nations, to things of a higher nature than we have yet appeared to. And we cannot but be ſenſible of the great Complaints that have been made generally to us of the Kingdom, from the People where we march, of Arbitrarineſs and Injuſtice, to their great and inſupportable Oppreſſions.

And truly ſuch Kingdoms as have, according both to the Law of Nature and Nations, appear'd to the vindication and defence of their juſt Rights and Liberties, have proceeded much higher; as our Brethren of Scotland, who, in the firſt beginning of theſe late Differences, aſſociated in Covenant, from the very ſame Gronnds and Principles (having no viſible Form either of Parliament or King to countenance them;) and as they were therein juſtified and protected by their own and this Kingdom alſo, ſo we juſtly ſhall expect to be.

(We need not mention the States of the Netherlands, the Portugals, and others, all proceeding from the ſame Principles of Right and Freedom: And accordingly the Parliament hath declared it no reſiſtance of Magiſtracy, to ſide with the juſt Principles and the Law of Nature and Nations, being that Law upon which we have aſſiſted you.) And that the Soldiery may lawfully hold the hands of the General, who will turn his Cannon againſt his Army, on purpoſe to deſtroy them; the Seamen the hands of the Pilot, who wilfully runs the Ship upon a Rock (as our Brethren of Scotland argued). And ſuch were the proceedings of our Anceſtors of famous Memory, to the purchaſing of ſuch Rights and Liberties as they have enjoyed, through the Price of their Blood, and we (both by that, and the later Blood of our dear Friends and Fellow-Soldiers, with the hazard of our own) do now lay claim to.

Nor is that ſupream End (the Glory of God) wanting in theſe Caſes, to ſet a price upon all ſuch proceedings of Righteouſneſs and Juſtice. It being one Witneſs of God in the World, to carry on a Teſtimony againſt the Injuſtice and Unrighteouſneſs of Men, and againſt the Miſcarriages of Governments, when corrupted or declining from their primitive or original Glory.

Theſe things we mention, but to compare Proceedings, and to ſhew, that we are ſo much the more juſtifiable and warranted in what we do, by how much we come ſhort of that heighth and meaſure of Proceedings, which the People in free Kingdoms and Nations have formerly practiced.

Now having thus far cleared our way in this buſineſs, we ſhall proceed to propound ſuch things as we do humbly deſire, for the ſetling and ſecuring of our own and the Kingdom's common Right, Freedom, Peace, and Safety, as followeth.

The Parliament to be purged.

Firſt, That the Houſes may be ſpeedily purged of ſuch Members as for their Delinquency, or for Corruptions, or abuſe to the State, or undue Elections, ought not to ſit there: Whereof the late Elections in Cornwal, Wales, and other parts of the Kingdom, afford too many Examples, to the great prejudice of the Peoples Freedoms in the ſaid Elections.

A Period for their ſitting.

Secondly, That thoſe Perſons who have in the unjuſt and high proceedings againſt the Army, appeared to have the Will and Confidence, Credit and Power, to abuſe the Parliament and the Army, and indanger the Kingdom in carrying on ſuch things againſt us (while an Army,) may be ſome way ſpeedily diſabled from doing the like, or worſe to us (when disbanded and diſperſt, and in the condition of private Men) or to other the free-born People of England, in the ſame Condition with us; and that for that purpoſe the ſame Perſons may not continue in the ſame Power (eſpecially as our and the Kingdoms Judges in the higheſt Truſt) but may be made incapable thereof for the future.

And if it be queſtioned who theſe are, we thought not fit particularly to name them in this our Repreſentation unto you, but ſhall very ſpeedily give in their Names, and before long, ſhall offer what we have to ſay againſt them to your Commiſſioners, wherein we hope ſo to carry our ſelves, as that the World ſhall ſee we aim at nothing of private Revenge or Animoſities, but that Juſtice may have a free courſe, and the Kingdom be eaſed and ſecured by diſabling ſuch Men (at leaſt) from places of Judicature, who deſiring to advantage and ſet up themſelves and their Party, in a general Confuſion have endeavoured to put the Kingdom into a new flame of War, than which nothing is more abhorring to us.

But becauſe neither the granting of this alone would be ſufficient to ſecure our own, and the Kingdoms, Rights, Liberties and Safety, either for the preſent Age or Poſterity, nor would our propoſing of this ſingly, be free from the ſcandal and appearance of Faction or Deſign, only to weaken one Party (under the Notion of unjuſt or oppreſſive) that we may advance another (which may be imagined more our own,) we therefore declare,

That indeed we cannot but wiſh, That ſuch Men, and ſuch only might be preferred to the great Power and Truſt of the Common-wealth, as are approved at leaſt for moral Righteouſneſs. And of ſuch we cannot but in our Wiſhes prefer thoſe that appear acted thereunto by a principle of Conſcience and Religion in them.

And accordingly we do, and ever ſhall bleſs God, for thoſe many ſuch Worthies, who through his Providence have been choſen into this Parliament; and to ſuch Mens endeavours (under God) we cannot but attribute that Vindication in part of the Peoples Rights and Liberties, and thoſe beginnings of a juſt Reformation, which the firſt proceedings of this Parliament, appeared to have driven at and tended to, though of late obſtructed, or rather diverted to other Ends and Intereſts, by the prevailing of other Perſons, of other Principles and Conditions.

But yet we are ſo far from deſigning or complying to have an abſolute or arbitrary Power ſettled, for continuance, in any Perſons whatſoever, as that (if we might be ſure to obtain it) we cannot wiſh to have it ſo in the Perſons of any whom we could moſt confide in, or who ſhould appear moſt of our own Opinions or Principles, or whom we might have moſt perſonal aſſurance of, or intereſt in: But we do and ſhall much rather wiſh, that the Authority of this Kingdom in Parliaments (rightly conſtituted) that is, freely, equally, and ſucceſſively choſen, according to its original Intention, may ever ſtand and have its courſe: And therefore we ſhall apply our deſires chiefly to ſuch things as (by having Parliaments ſettled in ſuch a right Conſtitution) may give moſt hopes of Juſtice and Righteouſneſs to flow down equally to all in that its ancient Channel, without any Overtures tending either to overthrow that Foundation of Order and Government in this Kingdom, or to ingroſs that Power for Perpetuity into the hands of any particular Perſons or Party whatſoever.

And for that purpoſe, though (as we have found it doubted by many Men, minding ſincerely the publick Good; but not weighing ſo fully all Conſequences of things) it may, and is not unlike to prove that upon the ending of this Parliament and the election of a new, the Conſtitution of ſucceeding Parliaments (as to Perſons elected) may prove for the worſe many ways; yet ſince neither in the preſent purging of this Parliament, nor in the election of new, we cannot promiſe to our ſelves, or the Kingdom, an aſſurance of Juſtice, or other poſitive good from the hands of Men; but thoſe who for preſent appear moſt Righteous, or moſt for common good, having in them an unlimited Power fixed in them, during Life or Pleaſure, in time may become corrupt, or ſettle into Parties or Factions. Or on the other ſide, in caſe of new Elections, thoſe that ſhould ſo ſucceed, may prove as bad or worſe than the former Parliament to be purged.

Periods for their ſittings.

We therefore humbly conceive, that, of two Inconveniences the leſs being to be choſen, the main thing to be intended in this caſe (and beyond which humane Providence cannot reach, as to any aſſurance of poſitive Good) ſeems to be this, viz. to provide, That however unjuſt or corrupt the Perſons of Parliament Men, in preſent or future may prove, or whatever ill they may do to particular Parties (or to the whole in particular things) during their reſpective Terms or Periods, yet they ſhall not have the temptation or advantage of an unlimited Power fixed in them, during their own pleaſure, whereby to perpetuate Injuſtice or Oppreſſion upon any, without end or remedy, or to advance or uphold any one particular Party, Faction, or Intereſt whatſoever, to the oppreſſion or prejudice of the Community, and the enſlaving of the Kingdom to all Poſterity; but that the People may have an equal hope or poſſibility, if they have made an ill choice at one time, to mend it in another. And the Members of the Houſe themſelves may be in a capacity to taſte of Subjection as well as Rule, and may be enclined to conſider of other Mens Caſes, as what may come to be their own. This we ſpeak of in relation to the Houſe of Commons, as being intruſted on the Peoples behalf for their Intereſt in that great and ſupream Power of the Common-wealth, viz. the Legiſlative Power, with the Power of final Judgments, which being in its own Nature ſo arbitrary, and in a manner ſo unlimited, unleſs in point of time, is moſt unfit and dangerous (as the Peoples Intereſt) to be fixt in the Perſons of the ſame Men, during Life, or their own pleaſures: Neither by the original Conſtitution of this State, was it, or ought it to continue ſo, nor does it (where-ever it is and continues ſo) render that State any better than a Tyranny, or the People ſubjected to it any better than Vaſſals. But in all States where there is any face of common Freedom, and particularly in this State of England, (as is moſt evident both by many poſitive Laws and ancient conſtant Cuſtom) the People have a right to new and ſucceſſive Elections, unto that great and ſupream Truſt, at certain periods of Time, which is ſo eſſential and fundamental to their freedom, as it cannot or ought not not to be denied them, or with-holden from them, and without which the Houſe of Commons is of very little concernment to the Intereſt of the Commons of England. Yet in this we would not be miſunderſtood in the leaſt, to blame thoſe Worthies of both Houſes, whoſe Zeal to vindicate the Liberties of this Nation, did procure that Act for the continuance of this Parliament, whereby it was ſecured from being diſſolved at the King's pleaſure, as former Parliaments had been, as reduced to ſuch a certainty as might enable them the better to aſſert and vindicate the Liberties of this Nation, immediately before ſo highly invaded, and then alſo ſo much endangered. And this we take to be the principal Ends and Grounds for which in that exigency of Time and Affairs it was procured, and to which we acknowledge it hath happily been made uſe of; but we cannot think it was by thoſe Worthies intended or ought to be made uſe of to the perpetuating of that ſupream Truſt and Power in the Perſons of any, during their own pleaſures, or to the debaring of the People from their right of Elections, totally now, when theſe Dangers or Exigencies were paſt, and the Affairs and Safety of the Common-wealth would admit of ſuch a change.

Having thus cleared our Grounds and Intentions, as we hope, from all Scruples and Miſunderſtandings, in what follows we ſhall proceed further to propoſe what we humbly deſire, for the ſettling and ſecuring of our own and the Kingdoms Rights and Liberties, (through the Bleſſing of God) to Poſterity; and therefore upon all the Grounds premiſed, we further humbly deſire as followeth.

Thirdly, That ſome determinate period of Time may be ſet for the continuance of this and future Parliaments, beyond which none ſhall continue, and upon which new Writs may of courſe may iſſue out, and new Elections ſucceſſively take place, according to the intent of the Bill for Triennial Parliaments.

And herein we would not be miſunderſtood to deſire a preſent or ſudden Diſſolution of this Parliament, but only, as is expreſs'd before, that ſome certain Period may be ſet for the determining of it, ſo as it may not remain, as now, continuable for ever, or during the pleaſure of the preſent Members; and we ſhould deſire that the Period be now ſet for ending this Parliament, may be ſuch as may give ſufficient time for proviſion of what is wanting, and neceſſary to be paſſed in point of juſt Reformation, and for further ſecuring the Rights and Liberties, and ſettling the Peace of the Kingdom: In order to which we further humbly offer.

Parliaments not to be diſſolved at the King's Pleaſure.

Fourthly, That ſecure Proviſion may be made for the continuance of future Parliaments, ſo that they may not be Adjournable or Diſſolvable at the King's pleaſure, or any other ways than by their own Conſent, during their reſpective Periods, but at thoſe Periods each Parliament to determine of courſe as before. This we deſire may be now provided for, if it may be, ſo as to put it out of diſpute for future, though we think of right it ought not to have been otherwiſe before.

And thus a firm Foundation being laid, in the Authority and Conſtitution of Parliaments, for the hopes at leaſt of common and equal right and freedom to our ſelves, and all the free-born People of this Land. We ſhall hereby, for our part, freely and chearfully commit our Stock or Share of Intereſt in this Kingdom, into this common Bottom of Parliaments. And though it may, for our particulars, go ill with us in the Voyage, yet we ſhall thus hope, if right be with us, to fare better.

Theſe things we deſire may be provided for by Bill or Ordinance of Parliament, to which the Royal aſſent may be deſired; and when His Majeſty in theſe things, and what elſe ſhall be propoſed by the Parliament, neceſſary for ſecuring the Rights and Liberties of the People, and for ſettling the Militia, and Peace of the Kingdom, ſhall have given his Concurrence to put them paſt diſpute, we ſhall then deſire, that the Rights of His Majeſty, and his Poſterity may be conſidered of, and ſettled in all things, ſo far as may conſiſt with the Right and Freedom of the Subject, and with the ſecurity of the ſame for the future.

Fifthly, We deſire, that the right and freedom of the People, to repreſent to the Parliament, by way of humble Petition, their Grievances (in ſuch things as cannot otherwiſe be remedied than by Parliament) may be cleared and vindicated. That all ſuch Grievances of the People may be freely received, and admitted into Conſideration, and put into an equitable and ſpeedy way to be heard, examined, and redreſſed, if they appear real, and that in ſuch things for which Men have remedy by Law, they may be freely left to the benefit of the Law, and the regulated courſe of Juſtice, without interruption or check from the Parliament, except in caſe of things done upon the exigency of War, or for the ſervice and benefit of the Parliament and Kingdom, in relation to the War, or otherwiſe, in due purſuance and execution of Ordinances or Orders of Parliament. More particularly, under this Head, we cannot but deſire, that all ſuch as are Impriſoned for any pretended Miſdemeanor, may be put into a ſpeedy way for a juſt Hearing and Tryal, and ſuch as ſhall appear to have been unjuſtly and unduly Impriſoned, may, with their Liberty, have ſome reaſonable Reparation according to their Sufferings, and the demerit of their Oppreſſors.

Powers to Committees and Deputy-Lieutenants to be regulated.

Sixthly, That the large Powers given to Committees, or Deputy Lieutenants, during the late time of War and Diſtraction, may be ſpeedily taken into Conſideration; that ſuch of thoſe Powers as appear not neceſſary to be continued, may be taken away, and ſuch of them as are neceſſary may be put into a regulated way, and left to as little Arbitrarineſs as the nature and neceſſity of the things wherein they are converſant will bear.

Accounts.

Seventhly, We could wiſh that the Kingdom might both be righted and publickly ſatisfied in point of Accounts for the vaſt Sums that have been levied and paid; as alſo in divers other things wherein the Common wealth may be conceived to have been wronged and abuſed; but we are loath to preſs any thing that may tend to lengthen out future Diſputes or Conteſtations, but rather ſuch as may tend to a ſpeedy and general Compoſure and quieting of Mens Minds, in order to Peace, for which purpoſe we further propoſe.

Publick Juſtice and Oblivion.

Eighthly, That publick Juſtice being firſt ſatisfied by ſome few Examples to Poſterity, out of the worſt of excepted Perſons, and other Delinquents, having paſt their Compoſition, ſome courſe may be taken by a general Act of Oblivion, or otherwiſe, whereby the Seeds of future War or Fears, either to the preſent Age or Poſterity, may the better be taken away, by eaſing that ſenſe of preſent, and ſatisfying thoſe Fears of future Ruine or Undoing to Perſons or Families, which may drive Men into any deſperate ways for Self-Preſervation or Remedy; and by taking away the private Remembrances and diſtinction of Parties, as far as may ſtand with ſafety to the Rights and Liberties we have hitherto ſought for.

(There are, beſides theſe, many particular things which we would wiſh to be done, and ſome to be undone, all in order ſtill to the ſame Ends of common Right, Freedom, Peace and Safety, but theſe Propoſals aforegoing being the principal things we bottom and inſiſt upon, we ſhall, as we have ſaid before, for our parts, acquieſce for other particulars in the Wiſdom and Juſtice of Parliament.) And whereas it has been ſuggeſted or ſuſpected, That in our late or preſent Proceedings our deſign is to overthrow Presbytery or hinder the ſettlement thereof, and to have the Independant Government ſet up, we do clearly diſclaim and diſavow any ſuch deſign. We only deſire, that according to the Declarations (promiſing a proviſion of tender Conſciences) there may be ſome effectual courſe taken, according to the intent thereof, and that ſuch who upon Conſcientious Grounds may differ from the eſtabliſhed Forms, may not for that be debarred from the common Rights, Liberties, or Benefits belonging equally to all, as Men and Members to the Common-wealth, while they live ſoberly and inoffenſively towards others, and peaceably and faithfully towards the State.

We have thus freely and clearly declared the depth and bottom of our Hearts and Deſires, in order to the Rights, Liberties, and Peace of the Kingdom, wherein we appeal to all Men, whether we ſeek any thing of advanage to our ſelves, or any particular Party whatever, to the prejudice of the whole; and whether the things we wiſh and ſeek do not equally concern and conduce to the good of others in common with our ſelves, according to the ſincerity of our Deſires and Intentions, wherein, as we have already found the concurrent ſenſe of the People in divers Counties, by their Petitions to the General, expreſſing their deep reſentment of theſe things, and preſſing us to ſtand for the Intereſt of the Kingdom therein; ſo we ſhall wiſh and expect to find their unanimous Concurrence of all others who are equally concerned with us in theſe things, and wiſh well to the Publick.

And ſo truſting in the Mercy and Goodneſs of God, to paſs by and help any Failings and Infirmities of ours in the Carriage or Proceedings hereupon, we ſhall humbly caſt our ſelves and the buſineſs upon his good pleaſure, depending only on his Preſence and Bleſſing for a happy Iſſue to the Peace and Good of this poor Kingdom; in the accompliſhment whereof, we deſire and hope, that God will make you bleſſed Inſtruments.

By the appointment of His Excellency
Sir Thomas Fairfax, with the Officers of his Army.

June 16. 1647. This Day came to the Houſes of Parliament, from his Excellency and the Officers and Soldiers of the Army, a Charge againſt the Eleven Members of the Commons Houſe, whereby they are charged with obſtructing the buſineſs of Ireland, to have been Actors againſt the Army, and againſt the Laws and Liberties of the Subject, and obſtructing of Juſtice. The Members charged herewith, are theſe following, Denzil Hollis, Eſq; Sir Philip Stapleton, Sir William Lewis, Sir John Clotworthy, Sir William Waller, Sir John Maynard, Knights, Major General Maſſy, Mr. Glynn, Recorder of London, Colonel Walter Long, Colonel Edward Harley, and Anthony Nicholls, Eſq; Members of the Houſe of Commons.

The Charge follows at large, viz. With a Paper annexed from the General, &c. to the Commiſſioners of Parliament, of their further Propoſals to the Houſe.

June 16. 1647.

11 Members Impeached.

The Heads of a Charge delivered in the Name of the Army, under the Command of Sir Thomas Fairfax unto the Commiſſioners of Parliament, now with the Army at St. Albans, to be by them ſent up to the Parliament againſt Denzil Hollis, Sir Philip Stapleton, Sir William Lewis, Sir John Clotworthy, Sir William Waller, Sir John Maynard, Knights, Major General Maſſey, Mr. Glyn, Recorder of London, Colonel Walter Long, Colonel Harley, and Anthony Nichols, Eſq; Members of the Houſe of Commons, jointly or ſeverally as followeth.

Firſt, THat contrary to the Truſt repoſed in them, the Perſons above-named, Members of the Houſe of Commons, have jointly or ſeverally, Invaded, Infringed, or endeavoured to overthrow the Rights and Liberties of the Subjects of this Nation, in arbitrary, violent, or oppreſſive ways, (and in this caſe where no pretence was, or could be of the exigence of War, or other neceſſity, which might juſtifie or excuſe the ſame) and they have likewiſe endeavoured by indirect and corrupt Practices to delay and obſtruct Juſtice, to the great damage and prejudice of divers of the poor Commons of England, Petitioning for the ſame.

Secondly, That this Army being, until the middle of March laſt, in a quiet and orderly condition and poſture, free from any colour or appearance of Diſtemper or Diſorder, or from Offence to any, and ready (upon reaſonable ble ſatisfaction in their neceſſary Dues for Service paſt) either quietly to have Disbanded, or elſe to have engaged in the Service of Ireland, the Perſons above-named have jointly or ſeverally, endeavoured by falſe Informations, Miſrepreſentations, or ſcandalous Suggeſtions againſt the Army, to beget Miſunderſtandings, Prejudices, or Jealouſies in the Parliament againſt the Army; and by deluding, ſurpriſing, or otherwiſe abuſing the Parliament, to engage the Authority of Parliament to ſuch Proceedings, as to put inſufferable Injuries, Abuſes, and Provocations upon the Army, whereby to provoke and put the Army into a Diſtemper, and to diſoblige and diſcourage the ſame from any further engagement in the Parliament's Service. By all which, and other the like Particulars and Proceedings of theirs, the Peace of the Kingdom hath been imminently endangered, and the relief of Ireland retarded.

Thirdly, That whereas the Parliament might otherwiſe have had, out of this Army, an intire Force, and anſwerable to their proportion deſigned to have engaged for Ireland as aforeſaid, under their old Officers and Conduct, the Perſons above-named, for advancement of their own Ends, Faction, and Deſign, to the prejudice of the Publick, have jointly or ſeverally, under pretence of the Service of Ireland, endeavoured, by ſuch evil Practices as before, to break and pull this Army in pieces, to the weakening of the Power, and endangering of the Safety of Parliament and Kingdom, and have likewiſe endeavoured to put the Parliament and Kingdom to the trouble, hazard, delay, and vaſt expence of raiſing a new Force as for that Service.

Fourthly, That with the breaking of this Army as aforeſaid, they have in the like manner endeavoured, under the pretence of the Service of Ireland, to raiſe a new force, as before, to advance and carry on deſperate deſigns of their own in England, to the prejudice of the Parliament and Publick; and in purſuance of the ſame, have endeavoured to divert the Forces engaged as for Ireland, and unto ſuch their purpoſe as aforeſaid here in England; and have in like manner endeavoured to have gained a Power from the Parliament, for themſelves, or ſome of them, of diverting and miſimploying thoſe Forces aforeſaid, and to raiſe new Forces under pretence to guard the Parliament; and (not having obtained that) have in like manner endeavoured privately to liſt and engage Officers and Soldiers, or procure them to be liſted, and engaged without the Authority of Parliament, for the raiſing of and embroiling the Kingdom in a new and bloody War, and to interrupt and hinder the ſettling and ſecuring the Rights, Liberties, and Peace of the Kingdom, and for the ſettling, upholding, and protecting of themſelves and their Accomplices, in their unjuſt, oppreſſive, and factious Deſigns and Proceedings.

Fifthly, That they have jointly or ſeverally invited, encouraged, abetted, or countenanced divers Reformado's and other Officers and Soldiers, tumultuouſly and violently to gather together at Weſtminſter, to affright and aſſault the Members of Parliament in paſſage to and from the Houſe, to offer Violence to the Houſe it ſelf, and by ſuch Violence, Outrages, and Threats, to awe and inforce the Parliament.

The ſeveral Heads of Charge the Army will, by ſuch Soldiers as they ſhall appoint (when the Houſe of Commons ſhall admit thereof) make good in particulars each Head againſt ſome of the Perſons, and ſome one Head or more againſt each of the Perſons; and ſhall ſhortly give in the ſeveral particulars againſt each Perſon reſpectively, which ſhall be made good by Proofs, the Army deſiring to ſave and reſerve to themſelves the liberty of exhibiting any further Charge againſt all or any of the ſaid Perſons.

Shewing,

Further Propoſals from the Army.

Firſt, THat in purſuance of the Repreſentation delivered in, we have prepared the Heads of a Charge againſt divers Perſons, Members of the Houſe of Commons (to whom many Paſſages in the ſaid Repreſentation do relate) which we have delivered in to be ſpeeded to the Parliament, and ſhall (when the Parliament ſhall have admitted thereof) appoint fit Perſons on our and the Kingdom's behalf, to proſecute and make good the ſame.

Secondly, That if the Parliament ſhall be pleaſed to admit theſe things into Debate and Conſideration, at the deſire of the Army, in the behalf of themſelves and the Kingdom, and to proceed thereupon for a general ſatisfaction therein; We ſhall then deſire,

I. That the Perſons Impeached in the ſaid Charge may be forthwith ſuſpended from ſiting in the Houſe, without which we cannot reaſonably expect ſuch a Proceeding upon any the things we have propoſed, as may probably bring the ſame to an happy or timely Iſſue to the Kingdom or our ſelves, or as may prevent the preſent Deſigns and Practices, ſo imminently indangering the Peace of this Nation, if thoſe ſame Perſons (who have notoriouſly appeared moſt active in all the late Proceedings, to the prejudice and provocation of the Army, and hazarding thus far the Peace of the Kingdom) ſhall continue in the ſame power Judges of thoſe things relating to the Armies ſatisfaction, and peace of the Kingdom.

II. That there may be a Months Pay immediately ſent down to the Army, for a preſent ſupply, out of which the Army ſhall pay fourteen Days Quarter for time to come, and the other fourteen Days Pay ſhall be accompted as part of Arrears. And to this we muſt deſire a preſent reſolution to be with us on Thurſday next by Noon at fartheſt.

III. That if the Officers and Soldiers of the Army, who have engaged for Ireland, or thoſe who have deſerted the Army and come to London, have ſince then, received more than a Months Pay, there may be ſo much more Money ſent down to the Army (above the Months Pay aforementioned) as may make up that Months Pay to the Army equal to what ſuch Officers and Soldiers have ſo received at London or elſewhere.

IV. That no Officers or Soldiers who have ſo deſerted the Army, ſhall have any more paid them as for Arrears, until the reſt of the Army ſhall firſt be ſatisfied in point of Arrears.

V. Whereas there have been ſeveral Deſigns and Endeavours, without Authority from the Parliament, to raiſe and liſt new Forces within this Kingdom, to draw together the Forces engaged for Ireland, and march them towards London; and other ſecret Practices to engage the Kingdom in a ſecond War. We further deſire, That during the Debate and Tranſaction of this buſineſs betwixt the Parliament and the Army, the Parliament would not ſuffer any new Forces to be raiſed within this Kingdom, or any Forces to be invited or admitted out of any other Kingdom to this; or any thing elſe to be done, that may carry the face of a new War, or Preparations thereunto, which may indanger or interrupt the preſent Proceedings to the ſettlement of the Liberties and Peace of this Kingdom.

VI. That the Parliament would be pleaſed, without delay, to put the things contained in our ſeveral Repreſentations and Papers already given in, into a ſpeedy way of Reſolution and Diſpatch, the preſent poſture and condition of the Kingdom and Army; as alſo of His Majeſty himſelf, not admitting delays.

Signed
St. Alban's, June
17. 1647.

By the appointment of His Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, and Soldiers of the Army under his Command.

They ſpeak for themſelves in the Houſe.

After the reading of the Charge, &c. the Members ſeverally made ſome Defence thereunto, and deſired it might be put into a ſpeedy way of Tryal, the further Conſideration thereof was put off till another Day.

The City Commiſſioners are returned from the Army, and give an account to the Parliament.

The Houſe then alſo underſtood, that the Commiſſioners for the City of London were returned from St. Alban's, and that a Committee from the Common-Council were come to the Houſe, to acquaint them what was done; whereupon they were called in, and related to the Houſe the whole Tranſaction betwixt the General and Commiſſioners for the City; and alſo, that the Common-Council had appointed further to be done in the ſame; all which was well approved of by the Houſe, and Thanks returned them, deſiring them to go on in this great buſineſs of Mediation betwixt the Army, Parliament, and City.

This Day at St. Alban's two Petitions were preſented to the General, from the Counties of Bucks and Hertford; that of Bucks being accompanied with a hundred of the Petitioners, and above a thouſand Subſcriptions, at the delivery whereof, the Preſenter made a Speech to his Excellency, which is annexed to the Petition. See them both at large, as follows, viz.

To his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, Knight, Captain-General of the Forces raiſed for defence of the Kingdom.

The Humble Petition of the Inhabitants of the County of Bucks.

June 15. Bucks Petition to the General, againſt diſaffected Perſons to the Army, who are for diſbanding.

May it pleaſe your Excellency,

WE bleſs God for you, as the Inſtrument whom he hath raiſed up, and made eminent in putting an end to the ſad and dreadful War, wherein this Kingdom was involved not many Months ſince. Our Eyes are ſtill upon you, and our Prayers for you, That God would crown your Labours with an happy Period of our Miſeries, ending in the enjoyment of our native Liberties, which are the things we have choſen our Fellow-Subjects, ſerving in Parliament to obtain for us. They are the things for which we have adventured our Lives and Eſtates freely, being the firſt County that appeared for them.

They are the things we have ſo often Petitioned for, and could not have ſo much as expected a delay of Anſwer to theſe our juſt Deſires.

But to our Grief we ſpeak it, we have been rejected, and are become hopeleſs of Satisfaction, by ſome Men who have not only prevailed, in diſcountenancing our juſt Petitions (the proper way of the Subjects Addreſs) but have almoſt made it a Fault for the Subjects to Petition even for things that are due to them, by common Birth-right and the Law of the Kingdom, and which frequently have been confirmed unto us by ſeveral Ordinances and Declarations of Parliament. We are not ignorant, that even ſome Men amongſt them, whom in due time we ſhall not ſtick to name, are ſuch as by their ſubtle ſleights have endeavoured to render your Army odious to the Parliament and Kingdom, which, rather than they ſhall not obtain, they will not ſtick to inflame the Kingdom in a ſecond unneceſſary and unjuſt War; that being the only obſtacle to their wicked Deſigns, and the only help under God left us of having a firm Peace ſettled in this Kingdom.

Theſe things being come to this paſs, we take upon us the boldneſs to beſeech your Excellency, you being a Perſon whom your Juſtice, Courage, Fidelity, and Zeal for the common good, have made eminent, and given ſo great an Intereſt in the Hearts and Affections of all Men, who have any ſenſe of their common-good and juſt Liberties; that you will be pleaſed to mediate on our behalf to the Honourable Court of Parliament, for the obtaining of our ſo dear and near Concernments, without the enjoyment whereof even our Lives will be uncomfortable to us.

And although this our Addreſs may ſeem ſtrange or hazardous unto you, yet we doubt not but the Juſtice of our Deſires will preſerve you. As for our own parts, we are reſolved in the Mediation thereof, to aſſiſt you to the utmoſt of our Powers, &c.

This Petition of the County of Buckingham was preſented to his Excellency at St. Alban's, the 15*th* of June preſent, by about one hundred of the Petitioners, with the Subſcription of about one thouſand of the Inhabitants of that County thereunto. At the delivery whereof the Preſenter expreſſed himſelf to His Excellency as followeth.

May it pleaſe your Excellency,

APprehending a neceſſity for the ſudden furtherance of all lawful means, which may conduce to the removing our Counties and the Kingdom's Grievances, this our preſent Addreſs unto your Excellency is not ſo general as otherwiſe it might have been; yet we are confident we may fully diſcharge our Countries real and high eſteem of your unwearied and faithful endeavours for the Kingdom's Peace. And if your Excellency ſhall further pleaſe to improve your utmoſt Intereſt in the Honourable Court of Parliament, for the crowning of your former Atchievements with the future freedom of our Nation, we and our Poſterities ſhall acknowledge you. And if any diſaffected to the common Good ſhall endeavour, by means hereof, to render your Perſon and Army odious to the Parliament or Kingdom, we cannot but look upon that as an Injury of common Concernment, and them as Enemies to the publick Peace. And none ſhall be more ready to bring ſuch to the legal and juſt deſerved Cenſures than we, who have in this Petition, which we humbly preſent unto you, ſubſcribed by our ſelves; yours and the Kingdom's faithful Servants.

Ordered by the Lords aſſembled in Parliament, That theſe Orders be forthwith printed and publiſhed.

Scots Commiſſioners to go to the King.

A Letter this Day came from the Scots Commiſſioners deſiring, that ſome of them may have the Paſs of both Houſes to go to His Majeſty, which was aſſented unto. The Lord Lauderdale in particular was ordered to have the Speaker's Paſs, with his Retinue, to go to the King.

That the Forces at Timmouth and Newcaſtle ſhall have a Months Pay in like manner as the Army hath.

The Declaration and Charge of the Army were read again this Day, and ordered to be read again to morrow Morning.

This Day alſo another Petition was preſented to the General at St. Alban's, from the County of Hertford, which follows at large, viz.

To the Right Honourable His Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, Captain-General of the Forces raiſed for the Preſervation of the Kingdom.

The Humble Petition of divers Knights, Gentlemen, Freeholders, and other Inhabitants of the County of Hertford.

May it pleaſe your Excellency,

June 16.

WE do, with much Thankfulneſs, acknowledge the great Care and Pains that have been undergone by thoſe our Faithful and well-betruſted Worthies of Parliament, who even in the ſaddeſt of Times, when deſerted by many of their own Members, have not ſpared the hazard of their Lives, Eſtates, and Fortunes, for the preſervation of the juſt Liberties, Immunities, and Franchiſes of the Free-born Subjects of this Kingdom, being deſperately and ſtrongly invaded by a powerful and malignant Party; and have alſo made many ſolemn Proteſtations and Declarations of their Aims, Intentions, and Purpoſes, whereby we have been greatly encouraged to yield all chearful and due aſſiſtance in ſo neceſſary a Work; yet now, to our great Grief, obſerving, by reaſon (as we conceive) of the Machinations and Contrivances, of ſome deſperately diſaffected to the Weal and Quiet of the Publick in general, and to the Honour of your ever honoured Army in particular, many Obſtructions do daily intervene and fall in, whereby both they and we, notwithſtanding the ſtill real Intentions of our forenamed Worthies, there is yet clearly debarred the fruition of thoſe our often promiſed, much wiſhed for, pray'd for, ſought for Rights and Priviledges, whereof we had well hoped long ſince to have been partakers.

Wherefore we your ſaid Petitioners do moſt humbly intreat and beſeech your Excellency (whom God hath eminently and highly honoured, and we well know to have a tender and compaſſionate Care over the diſtreſſed of this miſerable afflicted Kingdom) to uſe your utmoſt endeavours, and withal expedition before the disbanding of the Army now under your Excellency's Command, thoſe Firebrands and Incendiaries, who have endeavoured to raiſe new Diviſions in the Kingdom, or by their ſlanderous Tongues to fix undeſerved Reproaches on the Army, may be brought to condign Puniſhment; and that we your Petitioners, with the reſt of your faithful Brethren in the Kingdom, may have a certain relief in our Grievances hereunto annexed.

And as in Duty bound we ſhall not fail to yield our beſt Aſſiſtance, with our Perſons, Purſes, and Prayers, &c.

Firſt, That divers Counties and Corporations in this Kingdom, viz. Devon, Cornwal, Wales, &c. formerly in open Hoſtility, and for the preſent wholly diſaffected to the proceeds of Parliament, have notwithſtanding retained equally, with the moſt cordial to the State, their Priviledges of electing Members, a thing very deſtructive to the ſafety of the Common-wealth, which is the chief end of Parliaments, and one main cauſe of many preſent Grievances; wherefore we deſire, that ſuch Elections may be revoked, and the Places declared uncapable of any ſuch Priviledge during the Seſſions of this Parliament, or until ſuch time as it ſhall appear, that their former Enmity and Rancour againſt the Parliament be laid aſide.

Secondly, That whereas the Honourable Houſes have raiſed up the Expectations of the Well-affected, by promiſing the improvement of their Time and Care, to apply Remedies againſt the oppreſſing Evils; as appears more fully in their Declaration of the 17th. of April, 1646. yet the ſaid Commons have, to their great Grief been fruſtrated of their hopes; and inſtead of being relieved, have (to their great Grief) been vexed, impriſoned, and otherways moleſted.

Thirdly, Our Petitions to the Parliament are not as in former Times either received or anſwered, whereby no redreſs can be had to our preſſing Grievances, as in particular thoſe againſt Tythes: That for the Enlargement of our Fellow-Commoners, long (and as we humbly conceive) unduly detained in Priſon.

Fourthly, The putting in of the malignant Neuters, and Perſons who have not ſhewn any Affection, or done any Service for the Parliament during theſe Troubles that have lain upon the Kingdom, into Places of Honour, Truſt, and Profit; as Governours of Towns, Forts, Juſtices of Peace, Commiſſioners of Exciſe, Committees of Accompts, &c. whereby the moſt cordial Friends of the Parliament are ſlighted, diſregarded, and upon very ſlender Cauſes Indicted, Committed, Impriſoned.

Fifthly, That the body of the Kingdom conſiſting much of Copyholders, who have for the moſt part been very cordial and faithful to the Parliament, may not now be left Finable at the Will of the Lords, in regard the generality of them have been very Malignant, and much diſaffected to Parliamentary, or through Reformation, and from whom they cannot but expect very ſevere Dealing.

Sixthly, That all Men who have received any State Moneys, as well Parliament-Men as others, may be called to an accompt for ſuch Moneys; and that Committees, not as now for the moſt part Neuters and Malignants, but of approved Fidelity, may be elected for that purpoſe.

Seventhly, That one Cordwell, a Man of a moſt notorious lewd Life and Converſation, and withal, a moſt deſperate Malignant, did procure a Warrant for the apprehending three Soldiers, under the Command of Colonel Alban Cox, brought them before one King of St. Alban's, a Juſtice of Peace, where their ſaid Colonel did appear with them, and made it very clear and apparent to the ſaid Juſtice, That what they did was by Command from their Captain; and no more than what was expreſly contained within their Ordinances, which the ſaid Juſtice did acknowledge, and was fully ſatisfied in, their Ordinances authoriſing them thereunto; yet notwithſtanding the ſaid

King would have committed them to Hertford Goal, had not their ſaid Colonel became bound for their appearing the next Seſſions; and the ſaid Cordwell did prefer a Bill of Indictment againſt them; and had it not been for two or three honeſt Men that ſerved of the Grand-Jury, the ſaid Bill had been found, to the great peril of their Lives, there being but little Favour or Mercy to be had for poor Soldiers, by the Juſtices of our County, &c.

This Petition of the County of Hertford was preſented to his Excellency at St. Alban's, the 16th. of June preſent, by above two hundred Knights, Gentlemen, and Freeholders of the County of Hertford, with the Subſcription of above one thouſand two hundred of the Inhabitants.

June 18. 1647. This Day Mr. Blackwell, and Mr. Aſhhurſt were ordered to be added to Mr. Greenhill and Mr. Pocock, for the receiving and iſſuing of the Monies appointed for the Officers now in Town.

Treaſurers added to pay the Soldiers.

That Colonel Gore, Mr. Arthur Bickerſtaffe, Mr. James Story, and Mr. Maximilian Bard be appointed Treaſurers for receiving and iſſuing out the Monies to the common Soldiers.

That one Peny in the Pound be allowed to the Treaſurers, for receiving and iſſuing out theſe Monies.

That the Field-Officers appointed by the Houſe, or any three of them, and the three Auditors, or any one of them, ſhall have power to ſign the Warrants for Officers.

A Guard for the Treaſurers.

That the Militia of the City of London ſhould be deſired to appoint two Companies of the Trained-Bands, to guard the Treaſurers for iſſuing and paying the Monies to the Officers and Soldiers aforeſaid.

A Letter this Day came from the Commiſſioners of Parliament at St. Alban's, with two Petitions incloſed, the one from the County of Bucks, and another from the County of Hertford, which were preſented on Wedneſday and Thurſday laſt to His Excellency, the effect whereof we gave you before.

City's Letter to the General, not approv'd of by the Houſe.

The Houſe was informed, That many of the Common-Council of the City were at the Door, they were called in, and preſented a Letter to the Houſe for their Approbation, to be ſent to Sir Thomas Fairfax. The Houſe had much Debate thereof, and ſome part thereof the Houſe approved not of; therefore ordered, that ſome Members of the Houſe ſhould go out to the Petitioners, and acquaint them, that the Houſe cannot approve of the ſending this Letter.

City ſends another Letter to the Army.

June 19. The Common-Council of London came down again to the Houſe of Commons, and deſired their approbation to a ſecond Letter to the Army. This buſineſs took up much Diſpute, and was the buſineſs of the whole Day; and at laſt it was ordered, that the Common-Council of the City of London ſhould be left to themſelves, to give what Anſwer, and write what Letters they think fit to Sir Thomas Fairfax, giving an Account thereof to the Houſes.

The Common-Council accordingly agreed on a further Letter, and ſent it to the General and Officers, by their Commiſſioners, to St. Alban's, this Afternoon.

The King to be removed to Richmond.

A Letter this Day came from the Commiſſioners attending His Majeſty, that they had ſent to Sir Thomas Fairfax, to know his Anſwer to the Votes of both Houſes, concerning the diſpoſal of the Perſon of His Majeſty to Richmond, which was communicated by a Meſſage from the Lords, to the Houſe of Commons.

Pay for Officers omitted out of the Liſt.

A Liſt of additional Officers that are to receive the benefit of the Monthly Pay, which was omitted out of the former Liſt, was this Day ordered to be approved of, and to receive the benefit of the general Order.

Lord-Mayor to ſuppreſs Tumults.

The Lord-Mayor of London, with the Concurrence of the Aldermen and Common-Council, publiſhed an Order this Day to Command the Trained-Bands and Auxiliaries to appear punctually at their Colours (taking notice of their former backwardneſs) for the ſuppreſſing of Tumults, or other unlawful Aſſemblies in the City.

Army at St. Alban's.

The Head-Quarters of the Army is ſtill at St. Alban's, and the General. There's no talk of drawing to a Rendezvous nearer London, as ſome would have it; all is very peaceable in the Army, and the unanimity betwixt Officers and Soldiers to be admired; nor any ſtop of Trade or Traffick to or from the City of London, in any part of the Army, in any kind, as ſome have ſuggeſted. The Months Pay promiſed the Army is much wanted, but it was this Day ſent from London to St. Alban's.

The King at Newmarket.

The King is ſtill at Newmarket, very pleaſant and chearful, and takes his Recreation daily at Tennis; His Majeſty ſeems to delight much in the Company and Diſcourſe of Cornet Joyce, who brought him from Holmby, and ſent a Meſſenger to St. Alban's on purpoſe for Cornet Joyce to come to Newmarket.

Mr. Peters diſcourſed with the King.

Mr. Peters likewiſe was at Newmarket, and had much Diſcourſe with His Majeſty; His Majeſty told Mr. Peters, that he had often heard talk of him, but did not believe he had that Solidity in him he found by his Diſcourſe, that he would have further Conference with him another time. Mr. Peters moved His Majeſty to hear him preach, but His Majeſty refuſed.

Major Boſvil's eſcape in a Woman's Apparel.

Major Boſvil that brought the Letters to the King from France, and was apprehended at Holmby, and brought up Priſoner to Newgate, and eſcaped thence in Womens Habit, came this Week to St. Alban's, and was not at firſt known or diſcovered; but upon ſome intimation who he was, Guards were ſet, and watch laid for him, but he got away privately and eſcaped.

June 16.

The Heads of the preſent Grievances of the County of Glamorgan, declaring the cauſe of their late Riſing and taking up Arms. Publiſhed for the ſatisfaction of all other Counties of England and Wales, who groan under the ſame, or like burthens of Oppreſſion and Tyranny, now exerciſed by that Arbitrary Power and Authority pretended to be derived from the Two Houſes of Parliament, throughout all His Majeſty's Dominions, by thoſe who ſtile themſelves Committees, contrary to Juſtice, and the known Laws of the Land, viz.

Firſt, THat their riſing was againſt all Committees, not as being Inveſted with a Power from the Parliament, but as abuſing that Power and Truſt in them repoſed by the Parliament, to the prejudice of this Country in particular, and His Majeſty's Subjects in general, contrary to the known Laws of the Kingdom.

Secondly, By making all Men of conſiderable Eſtates Delinquents, after an arbitrary and illegal manner, bringing others out of other Countries, meerly out of Faction to out-vote the reſt of the Gentlemen, who out of a juſt ſenſe of our Sufferings, deſire to ſpare their almoſt undone Country.

Thirdly,

A Rising in Arms in Glamorgan-ſhire, for the King and Sir Thomas Fairfax.

Thirdly, In that they being deſired to give an account of a vaſt Sum of Money raiſed from the Country, the ſame was denied; and if any preſumed to ſpeak to them in the behalf of the oppreſſed Country, they were preſently made Delinquents, and their Deſigns voted Scandalous and Malignant; by which we loſt all our liberty of free-born Subjects.

Fourthly, That they, after the arbitrary way, have continued Gariſons and Contributions to their own private Ends, contrary to paſt Ordinances of Parliament. That they have renewed an old Order, which was for the 25th part for the Relief of Ireland, intended but for one Year, and was expired before the reducement of this Country, converting the Money thus raiſed to their own private Uſes.

Fifthly, That the Committees have ſet an Order on foot, with Warrants directed forth for the Levying of 500 l. and odd Money, pretended to be for the Loſs of one in Ireland; which was converted to their own uſe.

Sixthly, That they, in all their Sequeſtrations made in the name, and to the uſe of the State, having ſequeſtred the Eſtates of moſt of the chief Gentlemen of that County, have not only enriched themſelves thereby, but their Servants and Retainers, who, as well as their Maſters, inſult over the Gentry. The Committees having never returned one Peny to the Parliament or State, out of all Sums they received.

Seventhly, They have committed ſome of the Clergy, and have Sequeſtred and forbidden to pay Tythes to all the ableſt and ſufficienteſt Divines in the County, for no other Cauſe, but that they out of their tender Conſciences, refuſed to take ſuch Oaths as were tendred them: And the Committees did not provide any other to diſcharge their Cures and Places.

Eighthly, The Committees have often given out in Speeches, That if they ſaw any likelihood of any Power to come againſt them, they would be ſure to ſecure the Perſons of all the Gentry, that they thought would be active, and ſend them on Ship-board, a Priſon (as they uſe it) as bad as the Spaniſh-Inquiſition, and at that preſent there were private Warrants iſſued for the ſeizing on the Perſons of ſome of the Gentry, and Horſe and Foot employed for that purpoſe.

Ninthly, The Gentry ſent a Letter unto Major-General Langhorne, by Major Weekes, expreſſing theſe their Grievances, and their readineſs to pay One Thouſand Three Hundred Pounds per Month, for the maintenance of his Soldiers, as they had formerly done; and that their Riſing was not to oppoſe him or his Army, but only to free themſelves from the ſervile Yoke of the Committees, and for the ſecurity of their Perſons. Inſtead of Anſwer to this Letter, Major-General Langhorne clapt up the Gentleman, and detains him yet Priſoner.

Tenthly, The Committees did exact as a Bribe, Twenty Pounds of a Reverend, Learned, and painful Divine, for ſparing to make him a Delinquent. And the Committees did threaten a Lunatick Mans Wife, to make her Huſband a Delinquent, unleſs ſhe would give them Thirty Pounds; which the Gentlewoman gave, leſt her Huſband ſhould be troubled in that Caſe. And another Man but ſaying, I pray God mend theſe Times, was threatened to be made a Delinquent.

Eleventhly, And thoſe who were Sequeſtred, if their Rents were not punctually paid on the Day they became due, the Committee would ſend their Agents with a Guard of Muſqueteers, and there leave them at Free-Quarter.

The ſeveral particular Grievances before-mentioned, and many others of the like nature, the Gentlemen will make good, by ſufficient credible Witneſſes upon Oath.

A riſing in Arms in Glamorgan-ſhire, for the King and Sir Thomas Fairfax.

This Day, being Munday June 21. in the Houſe of Commons Letters were read from Major General Laughorne, concerning divers that riſe in Glamorganſhire, and other parts of Wales, who declare themſelves for the King and Sir Thomas Fairfax; the chief Promoters whereof are ſaid to be Sir Edward Thomas, Baronet, Sir Richard Baſſet, Sir Henry Stradling, Major-General Stradling, Colonel Kemes, and others, who rumour their Forces to be about a Thouſand in all Wales, ready to join, but Major-General Laughorne is drawing Forces to ſuppreſs them in Glamorganſhire, with thoſe Foot that he hath, and intended ſpeedily to march to them with about Six Hundred Horſe. Theſe Letters were ordered to be taken into Conſideration the next Day.

Mutiny in Yorkſhire.

Another Letter was read from Major-General Poyntz, from York, deſiring larger Commiſſion to ſtop the Mutinying of the Soldiers, and advertiſing what Engagements he had undertaken to ſatisfie them, and deſiring Monies: Which was alſo ordered to be taken into Conſideration the next Day.

Votes for the King's going to Richmond.

A Letter was agreed upon this Day, and ſent by Sir Peter Killegrew to the Commiſſioners at Newmarket; and a Letter to the King, with the Votes incloſed for his going to Richmond.

Undue Elections and their Qualifications voted.

The Repreſentation of the Army was again read, and the Houſe of Commons inſiſted upon the firſt Branch, viz. That the Houſes may be ſpeedily purged of ſuch Members, as for their Delinquency, or for Corruptions, or abuſe to the State, or undue Elections ought not to ſit there; whereof, as was ſaid, the late Election in Cornwal, Wales, and other Parts of the Kingdom afford many Examples.

This Branch the Houſe went wholly through, and made ſeveral Votes, as followeth.

1. That no Perſon that hath been in actual War againſt the Parliament, or hath acted by the Commiſſion of Array, or voluntarily, either directly or indirectly aided the King in this War againſt the Parliament, or received Pardon from the King, ſhall preſume to ſit in the Houſe.

2. That if any ſuch ſhall preſume to ſit in the Houſe after this Day, who know themſelves to be guilty, they ſhall incur the diſpleaſure of the Houſe.

3. That the Committee for examining of ſuch Caſes be revived; which was compleated to a greater number.

4. That a Declaration be brought in to publiſh to the Kingdom, for all ſuch who have any ſuch Charge againſt any Members, to come in and be heard, and the Committee to report it.

5. That the ſaid Committee bring in their Reports on Friday next, concerning the Examination of thoſe Charges of Delinquency, againſt thoſe Members which they were appointed to examine.

6. That Sir Robert Harlow, and the other Committee for examining of Elections committed to them, bring in their Reports on Monday next.

Ordered all Officers who give falſe Certificates for their Arrears, ſhall forfeit the whole.

That 10000*l.* borrowed of the Treaſurers at Weaver's-Hall, be paid to the common Soldiers, to be repayed out of the Moiety at Goldſmiths-Hall (where formerly ordered) with all ſpeed.

The General conſents to the King's removal to Richmond.

A Letter was read in the Houſe from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, about the King's removal from Newmarket to Richmond, according to the Votes of the Houſe, whereunto his Excellency willingly ſubmitted.

Another Letter was likewiſe read from the Commiſſioners with His Majeſty at Newmarket, about the ſame buſineſs, of the King's removal, whereunto (they ſaid) His Majeſty had alſo condeſcended, and named Thurſday Morning next to remove from Newmarket towards Richmond.

Both Houſes ordered the ſpeedy fitting and preparing of Richmond, for His Majeſty's Entertainment and Accommodation.

Agitators to the Trinity-Houſe.

A Letter was alſo read in the Houſe from the Agitators of the Army, to the Society of the Trinity-Houſe, concerning the Navy; and of their verbal Anſwer to them.

Sir Rob. Pye his Troop.

Ordered that Sir Robert Pye's Troop do not remove their Quarters, or return to the Army, without the Order of both Houſes.

General's Proclamation againſt moleſting the Country.

We had this Day from St. Alban's (as yet the General's Head-Quarters, the Copy of a Proclamation by the General, that no Soldier moleſt any Country-man, their Perſons or Goods, in their Marches: And for better ſatisfaction, we will give you the Proclamation it ſelf, as followeth.

Sir Thomas Fairfax, Knight, Commander in Chief of the Forces raiſed by the Parliament.

WHereas divers Complaints have been made of ſeveral Abuſes, Diſorders, and Miſdemeanors lately committed by ſome Soldiers of this Army, both in their Quarters, and in their Marches through the Countries reſpectively, contrary to the Laws of War, and tending much to the diſhonour and prejudice of the Army; they taking liberty thereunto, under pretence of want of Pay: For prevention of the like, and all other Diſorders and Abuſes that may hereafter happen, or be committed under the ſame, or any other pretence, I do hereby ſtrictly Charge and Command all Soldiers of the Army, Horſe and Foot, and all others whom it may concern, not to offer any Violence, or do any Prejudice at all to any Country-man, or any other whomſoever (in their Perſon or Goods) either in their Quarters, or upon their March through the Countries reſpectively, as they tender the Honour of the Army, and as they tender the avoiding of the ſevereſt Puniſhment that may be inflicted upon ſuch Offenders by Council of War. And I do hereby further Charge and Require all Officers of the Army, both Horſe and Foot, to uſe their utmoſt endeavours to prevent the reſpective Soldiers under their Commands, from committing any ſuch Diſorders, and to queſtion ſuch Soldiers as ſhall ſpeak any thing in derogation to the Authority of the Parliament, and to bring all ſuch as are Offenders to condign Puniſhment for the ſame.

To the Martial-General, to be publiſhed at the Head of every Regiment, both of Horſe, Foot, and Dragoons, by beat of Drum, and ſound of Trumpet.

Tho. Fairfax.

This Day, being June 22. more Letters were read to both Houſes, from the General, and Parliament's Commiſſioners at St. Alban's, giving to underſtand, that the Monthly Pay for the Army came thither Saturday Night late.

And Mr. Sergeant Jermin, Mr. Bradſhaw, and Mr. Pryn ordered to prepare the Matter of Fact againſt him, and Mr. Beck to be the Sollicitor.

A Months Pay for the Nor-thern Forces.

And this Ordinance is to continue for a Year enſuing, viz. from the 25*th.* of March laſt, to the 25*th* of March 1648.

On June 23. 1647. The Commons received a Letter from Colonel Birch, a Member of their House, that in his Paſſage towards Hereford, he fell into the Quarters of ſome of Colonel Rainsborough's Forces, Colonel Birch ſtaid and releaſed.

Forces, and (upon an Order to ſtop Officers in Commiſſion that paſs the Guards) he was ſent to the General.

The Houſe debated the buſineſs, and appointed a Letter to be ſent from the Houſe to his Excellency, that if he was not freed, he might be forthwith diſcharged, to proſecute the buſineſs in Ireland; and not long after this we underſtand that Colonel Birch was diſcharged by the General, and uſed with great reſpect.

Debate about the 11 Members.

The Commons this Day went on upon the Repreſentation of the Army, and inſiſted upon the ſecond Branch; in which fell the Charge againſt the Eleven Members of their Houſe; it took up a long Debate.

Some Motions were made, about ſending Commiſſioners to the Army about it: Other Motions about a Letter to be ſent to the General; and at laſt it was reſolved upon the Queſtion, That the Houſe adjourn for an Hour; and a Committee in the mean time to draw up a Letter to be ſent to his Excellency, that the Houſe is ready to receive from him any particular Charge againſt the ſaid Members: And accordingly a Letter was brought in, paſſed, and ſent to his Excellency, That what ſhall be particularly charged againſt their Members, with Teſtimony and Witneſſes ſhall be received, and the Houſe to proceed in a legal way therein.

The Queſtion was put, whether to Morrow Morning the Houſe ſhould debate the third Propoſition thereof, and it paſſed in the Negative.

The fourth Propoſition was carried alſo in the Negative.

And the fifth Propoſition was ordered to be debated to Morrow.

The Army's real to the City.

The Committee of Common-Council returned this Night from the Army, and brought a Letter from the General further to ſatisfie the City of the real Intentions of the Army towards them.

City to ſend to the General for a good Correſpondence.

June 24. 1647. The Common-Council of this City came this Day to the Houſe, and acquainted them with a Remonſtrance and a Letter ſent from his Excellency's Army; and in proſecution thereof they deſired, 1*ſt*. That they may have further leave to ſend ſome of their Members again to the Army to hold a good Correſpondence, as Commiſſioners for the City with them.

2. That all Forces liſted by Order of the Committee of Safety, and the Committee of the Militia may be diſcharged.

3. That the diſcontented reduced Officers and Soldiers may be put out of the Lines of Communication.

The two firſt the Houſe upon ſome Debate agreed.

To the laſt they ordered, That they had put it into ſuch a way, as they in their Judgments had thought fit.

The Letter from the General, another from the Commiſſioners of the Army, and the Remonſtrance from the Army, were all this Day read and debated. The Remonſtrance follows at large, viz.

An humble Remonſtrance from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, and the Army under his Command, concerning the preſent ſtate of Affairs, in relation to themſelves and the Kingdom; with their Deſires and preſent Reſolutions thereupon.

Preſented to the Commiſſioners at St. Alban's, to be by them humbly repreſented to the Parliament.

OUR Deſires, as Soldiers, in behalf of our ſelves and other Soldiers that have faithfully ſerved the Parliament in this Kingdom, as alſo our remaining Diſſatisfactions in relation thereunto, may be clearly collected out of our ſeveral Papers that have been formerly preſented to the Parliament concerning the ſame; to which Particulars we have not yet received any further ſatisfaction.

In our laſt Repreſentation it may appear what our Deſires are as Members of the Common-wealth, in behalf of our ſelves and all others, for the clearing, ſettling, and ſecuring of the Rights, Liberties, and Peace of the Kingdom, for the juſtneſs, reaſonableneſs, neceſſity, and common Concernment whereof unto all, we dare appeal to the whole Kingdom, and the World; yet we have hitherto received no Anſwer thereunto, nor can hear of no Conſideration taken thereupon, to put the things contained therein into any way of Reſolution or Diſpatch.

We have ſince that, in purſuance of the firſt and ſecond Heads of our Deſires in the ſaid Repreſentation, delivered in a Charge againſt divers Members of the Houſe of Commons, for divers Deſigns and Practices to the abuſe and diſhonour of the Parliament, the inſufferable injury of the Army, the infringement of the Rights and Liberties both of Soldiers and Subjects, the breach or hazard of the Peace of this Kingdom, and the hindering of the Relief of Ireland, &c. Upon which, though the main things charged, with the miſchievous Deſigns, and further dangerous Conſequences of them; as alſo the conſtant and continued Activity of all or moſt of the Perſons charged in relation to thoſe things, be for the moſt part ſufficiently and notoriouſly known, eſpecially to the Parliament it ſelf; yet we find neither any thing done, upon what is ſo known, nor any way reſolved on, or admitted by the Parliament, for the examination or diſcovery of what is leſs evident unto them: But rather (as if neither the things Charged, nor the preſent ſad Effects, nor future ill Conſequences thereof were at all conſiderable) the whole buſineſs ſeems to be ſlighted, paſt over, or ſet aſide.

Laſtly, We did with theſe deliver in another Paper (whereof here is a Copy annexed) containing divers juſt and neceſſary things, which we did deſire might be provided for, and done for the better proceeding in the Premiſſes with more ſafety to our ſelves and the Kingdom, and with more aſſurance or hopes of a timely and happy iſſue.

To which things deſired (which we think all Men will judge reaſonable, juſt, and neceſſary) we have yet received no Anſwer, or Reſolution, nor can find any Conſideration at all had of them, ſave that a Months Pay is ſent down for the Army, (whilſt thoſe that have deſerted the Army, receive at London much more) and that ſome Votes have been paſſed for annulling the Orders of the Committee (pretended) for Safety, about Liſting of Men, and drawing of Forces together; which Votes we find rendred but vain and illuſive, by the continued under-hand Practices of thoſe whom we have Charged, and their Accomplices, in liſting and engaging Men for a new War; and by a later Days Votes, not admitting that the Forces ſo liſted or engaged, ſhould by publick Order be diſmiſſed or diſcharged, which, with other things, we cannot but attribute chiefly to the prevalent Inſtance of the ſame Perſons.

Now whereas we find that our firſt Deſire in the Paper laſt mentioned (for preſent ſuſpending the Perſons impeached from ſitting in the Houſe) is judged by ſome to be againſt the courſe and priviledge of Parliament, or of ill conſequence in the precedent of it, the Charge being but general, and no particular Proof as yet produced to render the proceedings Legal, we cannot but remind the Parliament.

An. 1647.

1. That as the moſt and many things charged (with the ſad Effects and Conſequences of them) ſo the conſtant and continued activity of all or moſt of the Perſons charged in relation thereunto, in miſinforming, deluding, abuſing, or ſurpriſing the Houſe, and otherwiſe, are ſufficiently known to the Parliament it ſelf, ſo as the Houſe might upon their paſt and preſent cogniſance of the ſame, moſt juſtly proceed to ſuſpend them, as in many other Caſes upon far leſs occaſions, (which never could have produced ſuch ſad effects to the Kingdom) they have done many other of their Members, meerly for Words ſpoken, or things moved in the Houſe (alledged to be but againſt Order or Cuſtom of the Houſe) and this without any Tryal, Proof, or Charge, but meerly upon the Houſes own Cogniſance of the things, as we could inſtance in many Caſes ſince the Parliament began.

2. (Whereas many of the things to which the Charge relates, are things ſpoke, moved, or done in the Houſe, ſo as we have yet no clear way opened, particularly to charge or mention them, or to produce Proofs to them, without ſome pretence againſt us of breach of Priviledge; and therefore (though we think no Priviledge ought to protect evil Men in doing Wrong to particulars, or Miſchief to the publick, yet) we have been hitherto ſo tender of Parliament Priviledges, as that we have only remonſtrated the evil of ſuch things done; and ſuppoſing the Houſe to have been (as we did and do believe, and if the way were open, without breach of Priviledge, ſhould not doubt to prove it was) ſomeways miſinformed, deluded, ſurpriſed, or otherwiſe abuſed, in thoſe things by evil Members, we have frequently, in former Papers (before the Charge) put the Parliament upon it, (who without colour of breach of Priviledge might do it) to find out and diſcover who they were that had ſo abuſed them, and to diſengage the Honour of Parliaments from the evil Practice, and Deſigns of ſuch Incendiaries.)

Now ſince the ſame Difficulties or Prejudices be yet in our way (as to the particular Charge or Proof of thoſe things againſt the Members and the Parliament) though ſo often put upon it in our former Papers, yet through the powerful Intereſt of the Perſons guilty, hath not taken any cogniſance, what Members or others have ſo abuſed them, to draw the Parliament to ſuch Diſhonour and Inconveniencies, we cannot but again more fully and clearly aſſert, (as we have in former Papers, and ſhall yet more particularly, if need be, remonſtrate) That divers things lately done and paſſed from the Parliament againſt this Army, as particularly the Order for ſuppreſſing the Petitioners, that high Declaration againſt it, and againſt all that ſhould proceed in it, puting the faithful Servants of the Parliament and the Kingdom out of the protection of the Law, and expoſing them as Enemies to the State, &c. to the forfeitures of the Eſtates, Liberties, Life and all, but for going about in an humble, peaceable, and inoffenſive way, to deſire what was undeniably their due, and dearly earned; and many other ſuch like Proceedings both againſt the Army and others, do carry with them ſuch a face of Injuſtice, Oppreſſion, Arbitrarineſs, and Tyranny, as we think is not to be parallel'd in any former Proceedings of the moſt arbitrary Courts, againſt any private Men, but hath brought in inſufferable diſhonour upon the Parliamentary Authority and Proceedings, (which we are, and others ought to be, deeply ſenſible of) hath tended to diſoblige all Men, eſpecially Soldiers, from the ſame, to deſtroy all juſt freedom, either of Soldiers or Subjects, and hath conduced to all other the ſad Effects, and worſe Conſequences expreſſed in the Charge; and gives us and others cauſe to conclude, That thoſe Worthies who have formerly acted, and carried on things in Parliament for publick Good, Right, and Freedom, are now awed or over born by a prevailing Party of Men, of other private Intereſts, crept in, and that neither we, nor any other can reaſonably expect Right, Freedom, or Safety, (as private Men) or to have things acted in Parliament for publick Good, while the ſame Parties continue there in the ſame Power, to abuſe the name and authority of Parliaments, to ſerve and proſecute their private Intereſts and Paſſions, and, under the priviledge of Parliaments, to ſhelter themſelves under the worſt of Evils or Miſchiefs they can do, though to the ruine of the Kingdom.

We are in this Caſe forced (to our great grief of Heart) thus plainly to aſſert, The preſent Evil and Miſchief, together with the future worſe Conſequences of the things lately done, even in the Parliament it ſelf (which are too evident and viſible to all) and ſo in their proper Colours, to lay the ſame at the Parliament's Doors, until the Parliament ſhall be pleaſed, either of themſelves to take notice, and rid the Houſes of thoſe that have any way miſinformed, deluded, ſurpriſed, or otherwiſe abuſed the Parliament, to the vehement preſſing and paſſing of ſuch foul things there; or ſhall open to us and others, ſome way how we may regularly, and without the ſcandal of breaking Priviledges, come to charge and proſecute thoſe particular Perſons, that (in truth) have ſo abuſed the Parliament (as well as our ſelves) even for thoſe Miſinformations, and other evil and indirect Practices or Proceedings in Parliament, whereby they have abuſed the ſame, as in our ſaid Charge and former Papers is ſet forth. And here, if we may, we ſhould humbly offer it to conſideration, whether it were not a neceſſary expedient, for prevention or remedy of ſuch Evils in future, that in things ſo clearly deſtructive to the common Right and Liberties of the People, and the ſafety of the Kingdom, there ſhould be a liberty for Diſſenting Members in the Houſe of Commons (as it is allowed in the Houſe of Peers) to enter their diſſent, and thereby acquit themſelves from the guilt or blame of what Evils may enſue; that ſo the Kingdom may regularly come to know who they are that perform their Truſt faithfully, and who not. And this Proviſion for future, as alſo our deſires for Remedy in the preſent Caſes, as it were clearly good and neceſſary in the reſpects premiſed, ſo we think the ſame may well be without further prejudice or diſcouragement in any other reſpects to ſucceeding Members of Parliament; Provided always, That no Man ſhall be queſtioned or cenſured for any thing ſaid or done in Parliament, any further than to excluſion from that Truſt? which is all that in the preſent caſe we ſhould deſire upon any ſuch Grounds.

And that future liberty of entering the ſence, we do not here propoſe as a thing we any way inſiſt on to the prejudice of Parliament Priviledges, we only offer that to Conſideration, and that from good Wiſhes to the Priviledges of Parliament, to render them more laſting, by being leſs innocent; and indeed, whoever moſt adores or tenders thoſe Priviledges, will beſt expreſs his Zeal towards them, in taking care they be not abuſed or extended to private Wrongs or publick Miſchief; for we clearly find, and always Men may ſee it, That Parliament Priviledges, as well as Royal Prerogatives, may be perverted and abuſed, or extended to the deſtruction of thoſe greater Ends for whoſe Protection and Preſervation they were admitted or intended, viz. the Rights and Priviledges of the People, and ſafety of the whole; and in caſe it be ſo, the abuſe, evil, or danger of them is no leſs to be contended againſt; and a remedy thereof no leſs to be endeavoured than of the other.

And whereas the Injuſtice in that particular, of the Declaration againſt the Army, for their juſt and innocent Petition, may ſeem to have been recompenſed in the late expunging thereof out of the Journal Books, we confeſs that hath been ſo in great meaſure, as to the preſent or particular Injury unto the Army therein; and we cannot but acknowledge ſo far, That the Juſtice that lies in thoſe Votes, for expunging thereof, and for their own and the Armies particular reparation, we ſhould never wiſh more, nor ſcarce have inſiſted on ſo much to any diſhonour of Parliament in future; we ſhould rather have been ſatisfied with the Parliament's declaring, how, and by whom they had been miſinformed, ſurpriſed, and otherwiſe abuſed, in the framing, propoſal, or paſſing thereof as it was; but as to that particular, or any other of that Nature, we ſay as followeth, viz.

1. We never did nor do value or regard our own Injury or Reparation, in any compariſon to the conſequence of the one, to the prejudice of the other, or to the future ſecurity of the common Right and Freedom of this Nation; and accordingly, we do not account any Reparation conſiderable, that extends but to our ſelves in the preſent Caſes, and does not in ſome ſort ſecure our ſelves, and all others, from danger of the ſame, or worſe Injuries or Oppreſſions (as private Men) from the Wills or Paſſions of the ſame Perſons that have offered and acted ſuch things againſt us, while an Army.

An. 1647.

2. We cannot but imagine and conſider (according to general report) how the expunging of that Declaration was carried and obtained; and upon what Grounds and Intentions it was given way to; but had thoſe that procured it, been all for expunging it, and that freely, yet how can we expect better, but that the ſame Men, who at one time carried ſuch a Declaration, and another time expunged it, may the next Day obtain the like or worſe (upon any occaſions wherein it may ſerve their private Ends or Intereſts) if they continue in the ſame Power and Sway, and be let paſs in deluding and ſurpriſing the Parliament, as they have done in the paſt Particulars.

3. The apparent diſhonour and prejudice brought upon the Parliament, in having ſuch a Declaration ſo paſt, as they ſhould ſoon after (without any alteration in the pretended Ground of it find cauſe (for ſhame of the World) to expunge, we think, ſhould engage thoſe Members, in point of Honour, to find out and diſcover how and by whom the Parliament had been abuſed, or otherwiſe brought into ſuch an Inconveniency; and the Parliament may in this ſee the Temper, as by-ſtanders do the prevalence, of thoſe Members that abuſed the Parliament in that Declaration, who will and can make the authority of Parliament to lie under the diſhonour of it, in a bare expunging or retracting, rather than admit of any Conſideration to acquit the authority of Parliament, that will tend to fix the blame on thoſe particular Members that had deſerved it; and this certainly would be admitted, and done rather than to ſlight it over with a bare expunging, were not ſome Men more tender of, and more ſwayed with ſuch Conſiderations and Conſequences as may tend to the prejudice of Perſons, than ſuch as tend to the general prejudice and diſhonour of Parliaments.

4. As to thoſe Particulars included in our Charge, which depend on things done without the Parliament, we are ready, and ſhould moſt willingly proceed to the particular charging and proving thereof, if firſt (from the juſtice of the Houſe in a preſent Proceeding againſt the Perſons charged for thoſe things that are already known to the Houſe, being done in it) we could find encouragement to expect any good iſſue upon thoſe other things, and did we not, on the contrary, find that notwithſtanding what is ſo known to the Houſe, as before expreſs'd, the ſame Perſons continue in ſuch Power and Prevalency, both in the Houſe, and in all the Committees of the higheſt Truſt, as leaves little hopes of Right or Satisfaction to the Army or Kingdom in other things, and much leſs in any juſt Proceedings againſt themſelves, while they continue Judges of their own and our Concernments, ſo as we cannot (while they remain in the ſame power) expect any thing but a continued perverting and making advantage of all things, and eſpecially of thoſe delays which a regular proceeding againſt them would neceſſarily endure, altogether to our own and the Kingdom's prejudice and danger, to diſable or weaken us for thoſe things, which the ſafety and ſettling the Rights, Liberties, and Peace of the Kingdom requires, and to ſtrengthen themſelves by underhand Practices and Preparations at home and abroad, the better to oppoſe us, and to engage the Kingdom in a new War, thereby to accompliſh their Deſires, or at leaſt to ſave themſelves from Juſtice in a common confuſion. We ſay, were it not for theſe and ſuch other Conſiderations, that leave little hopes of Juſtice to our ſelves or the Kingdom, while they continue in the ſame Power, and render all delays dangerous and deſtructive to our ſelves and the peace of the Kingdom, we ſhould be contented that the buſineſs concerning the Members we have charged ſhould be laid aſide, till thoſe other things were firſt ſettled which our Declaration does propound, for the common Rights and Liberties of the Kingdom.

But finding things ſtill ſo carried, and that while they were Judges in their own Cauſes, they (with that Party which they make) will do what they pleaſe, and yet render it a Breach of Priviledge to be accuſed for it as they are, as we have before expreſs'd, we cannot, upon all theſe Conſiderations, and for all the Reaſons before expreſs'd, but inſiſt upon it, that the Members charged may firſt be forthwith ſuſpended from ſitting in the Houſe, otherwiſe we cannot expect any fair proceding againſt them upon a more particular Charge, nor think there is any good intended to our ſelves or the Kingdom.

22 Caroli I.

As to our deſires of having the Army preſently paid up equally with thoſe that have deſerted it, we appeal to all Men, for the Juſtice, Reaſonableneſs, and Neceſſity thereof: The Juſtice, in that the former Service (for which thoſe Arrears are due) hath been, at leaſt, as faithfully and diligently performed by the Army, as by thoſe late Deſerters of it: And in our preſent poſture (though they have appear'd indeed more officious or ſerviceable to the Perſons or Wills of particular Men, than we, yet) we are ſure the Army is, and, we hope, will at laſt appear to be more faithful to the true Intereſt of Parliaments and the Kingdom (which we were at firſt called out and engaged for) than they in deſerting the Army have hitherto appeared. For the reaſonableneſs of our Deſires, though we have grounds to claim more than they, or rather that they, or ſome of them, ſhould forfeit their Arrears, yet we ask for preſent but equal; nor ſhould we at preſent inſiſt on that ſo much (as to the Officers) if our Soldiers were but firſt paid up. Our neceſſity to inſiſt on that is obvious to every Man; and therefore, unleſs we ſhould betray our own and the Kingdom's Cauſe, we cannot but poſitively inſiſt upon it, that the Army ſhould forthwith be paid up, at leaſt, equally to thoſe Deſerters of it, which if denied or delayed, we ſhall be thereby enforced upon preſent ways of Remedy, and Right to the Army therein.

And whereas the Parliament hath lately ordered, and publickly declared, That all that ſhall deſert the Army, ſhall have preſent ſatisfaction in their Arrears (the Officers three Months Pay, the Soldiers all their Arrears, deducting for Free-Quarter) which ſtill continues unrecall'd, we cannot but look upon it as a moſt clear evidence of the continuing Malice and prevalence of ours and the Kingdom's Enemies; and we muſt and do inſiſt upon it, that that Order or Declaration may forthwith be publickly recalled, otherwiſe we cannot believe that any thing but ruine and deſtruction is deſigned to our ſelves, and all other in the Kingdom, who every where call upon us not to Disband, till we ſee the Rights, Liberties, and Peace of the Kingdom ſettled, according to the many Declarations by which we were firſt called forth and invited to engage in the late War.

Next we cannot but take notice, that inſtead of granting or anſwering our deſires in the laſt Paper, in order to the better and more ſafe proceeding to a Compoſure and Settlement of all things, for the good and peace of the Kingdom, and for prevention of any new War, the Army being firſt commanded to forty Miles diſtance from London, His Majeſty's Perſon is demanded immediately to Richmond Houſe, within eight Miles of London, which, as we cannot but impute it to the prevailing Intereſt of the ſame Enemies to our and the Kingdom's Peace, ſo all Men may eaſily diſcern with us, how directly it tends (in purſuance of their former private Deſigns upon the King, e're he came from Holmby) to put His Majeſty within reach of thoſe Mens Power, who have under-hand liſted about London already, a very conſiderable number both of Horſe and Foot, and are daily liſting and engaging more, both there, and in many Parts of the Kingdom, to ſerve their Deſigns; and therefore we appeal to all unengag'd Men, whether we can in this give way to have the King put ſo far within thoſe Mens Power, without giving them the long ſought for advantage of His Majeſty's Perſon, whereby to embroil this Kingdom in a new and bloody War, and ſtrengthen themſelves in their miſchievous Deſigns, the better to uphold and eſtabliſh their Faction and intended Domination: So that in this caſe we cannot but importune the Parliament (as they tender the Peace and Safety of the Kingdom, and the avoiding of Jealouſies or worſe Inconveniencies in the Army) that they would aſſume the conſideration of that buſineſs concerning the Perſon of the King, and not propoſe any place for him nearer to London, than they would have the Quarters of the Army to be.

And whereas (by the procurement of the ſame Perſons, or others of their Party) there have been ſcandalous Informations preſented to the Houſes, and induſtriouſly publiſhed in Print, importing, as if His Majeſty was kept a Priſoner amongſt us, and barbarouſly and uncivilly uſed, we cannot but declare, that the ſame, and all other Suggeſtions of that ſort, are moſt falſe and dangerous, and abſolutely contrary, not only to our declared deſires, but alſo to our Principles, which are moſt clearly for a general Right and juſt Freedom to all Men; and therefore upon this occaſion we cannot but declare particularly, that we deſire the ſame for the King and others of his Party,

An. 1647. Party, ſo far as can conſiſt with common Right or Freedom, and with the ſecurity of the ſame for future. And we do clearly profeſs, we do not ſee how there can be any peace to this Kingdom, firm or laſting, without a due conſideration of Proviſion for the Rights, Quiet, and Immunity of His Majeſty, His Royal Family, and His late Partakers; and herein we think, that tender and equitable dealing (as ſuppoſing their Caſes had been ours) and a Spirit of common Love and Juſtice diffuſing it ſelf to the good and preſervation of all, will make up the moſt glorious Conqueſt over their Hearts (if God in Mercy ſee it good) to make them and the whole People of the Land laſting Friends.

To draw to a Concluſion, ſince we can yet obtain no Satisfaction or Anſwer to the things deſired, as before, but contrariwiſe find all things carried on by the prevailing Intereſt of thoſe our Enemies, to the prejudice and danger of our ſelves and the Kingdom, ſince (notwithſtanding ſome Votes of Parliament againſt the late Orders of the Committee of Safety for liſting of Forces, and notwithſtanding the earneſt Deſires and Endeavours of the City, concurrent with our own, to have the ſame prevented and remedied, yet) the ſaid Committee of Safety being continued ſtill in the ſame Power, we find that by the appointment or contrivance, and under the Protection or Countenance of the ſame Perſons whom we have Charged and their Accomplices, there are ſtill manifold Practices, under-hand, to liſt and raiſe new Forces, and, notwithſtanding the diſcovery thereof to the Parliament, from the City, yet the ſame Perſons have prevailed ſo far in the Houſe, as not to admit the Queſtion for diſcharging of them, but the ſame Practices ſtill continue, and with double diligence are enforced; ſince alſo divers Forces (pretended to have been engaged for Ireland) are by the ſame Perſons ordered to Rendezvous about Worceſter, there to lay the Foundation of a new Army; and to that purpoſe, their Emiſſaries and Correſpondents in all Counties are buſie and active to raiſe Forces for them: And though for theſe things the Actors of them have no preſent publick Authority, yet they have ſome way ſuch Countenance, and aſſurance to be juſtified in Parliament (if Queſtion'd for it) as that they have the Confidence to act openly: Since they have likewiſe their Emiſſaries or Agents in Scotland, France, and other Countries, very active to draw Foreign Forces for their aſſiſtance: Since in the mean time they are endeavouring by Spies, and ſecret Agents in all our Quarters, to inveigle and invite the Soldiers of this Army to deſert their Officers, and come to London, and for that purpoſe do improve the advantage of that Order bt Declaration of Parliament aforementioned, for ſatisfaction of Arrears to ſuch as ſhall deſert the Army; and we find they have the publick Purſe ſo much at their diſpoſal, as to make good that and other of their Undertakings of that Nature; and yet ſuch as have ſo deſerted the Army, and received their Arrears, are not diſcharged or diſpers'd, but continued together in Bodies, and under Command in and near the City; as in particular, ſome of Sir Robert Pye's Men, Colonel Gervis, Captain Farmer's, and others, ſtill Quartered upon Kent: Since likewiſe they have their Agents and Correſpondents labouring with the King, to make Contracts with him, to engage and declare for them, or at leaſt to declare himſelf a Priſoner amongſt us, whereby to ſtir up and engage his Party againſt us: Since in all theſe reſpects we find all dilatory ways (which they induſtriouſly deviſe) to be deſigned and made uſe of only to our diſadvantage, weakening, and ruine, to the Kingdom's prejudice and to their own advantage, and ſtrengthening their Deſigns, the better to prepare for a new War.

And laſtly, conſidering the multitudes of Reformado's, and other Soldiers ſwarming about the City (whom the Perſons we have charged, and their Accomplices, have at their beck, to bring up to Weſtminſter when they pleaſe) and that by their frequent tumultuous Confluences thither (beſetting and ſometimes blocking up the Parliament-Doors, threatning and offering Violence to the Perſons of the moſt faithful Parliament-Men) the juſt freedom of Parliament ſeems to be taken away, or at leaſt for the preſent abridged; inſomuch as thoſe Members who have ſerved the Kingdom hitherto, with moſt Faithfulneſs, Diligence, and Integrity, for the Publick Good, many of them dare ſcarce come to the Houſe, or it they do, they come in fear and peril of their Lives; and when they are there, are awed, diſcouraged, or diſabled from diſcharging their Conſciences, or doing their Duties to the Kingdom.

Upon all theſe Conſiderations, we are clearly convinced and ſatisfied, That both our Duty and Truſt for the Parliament and Kingdom, calls upon us and warrants us, and an imminent neceſſity for our own and the Kingdoms ſafety, and preſervation from a new War, enforceth us to make or admit no longer delays, but upon thoſe Foundations God hath given us, with vigour and ſpeed, to endeavour in ſome extraordinary way, the vindicating of Parliament Freedom from tumultuous Violence, the breaking of thoſe Deſigns and Preparations, that otherwiſe threaten a preſent embroilment of the Kingdom in more Blood and War, and a future perpetual enſlaving of it under Faction and Tyranny; and ſo, if God ſee it good, to put the Parliament into a freedom and capacity, with His Majeſty's wiſhed and hoped concurrence, to ſettle the Rights, Liberties, and Peace of the Kingdom.

Upon all theſe Grounds, and for all theſe Ends premiſed, we ſhall be enforced to take ſuch Courſes, extraordinary, as God ſhall enable, and direct us unto, to put things to a ſpeedy Iſſue, unleſs by Thurſday Night next we receive aſſurance and ſecurity to our ſelves and the Kingdom, for a more ſafe and hopeful proceeding in an ordinary way, by having thoſe things granted, which, in order thereunto, we have before inſiſted upon; and ſhall here, for more brevity and clearneſs, expreſs our ſelves as followeth.

1. That the Declaration, inviting Men to deſert the Army, and promiſing their Arrears in caſe they do ſo, be recalled and annulled.

2. That the Army may be preſently paid up, equally to thoſe that have deſerted it.

3. That His Majeſty's coming to Richmond may be ſuſpended until things be better ſettled and compoſed; and in the mean time no place may be appointed for His Majeſty's Reſidence, that may be any nearer to London, than the Parliament will allow the Quarters of the Army to be.

4. That the Members charged may be forthwith ſuſpended, or ſequeſtred the Houſe.

5. That thoſe that have deſerted the Army, may be inſtantly diſcharged and diſpers'd, and receive no more of their Arrears till the Army be firſt ſatisfied.

6. That both Parliament and City may be ſpeedily and effectually freed from thoſe multitudes of Reformado's and other Soldiers before-mentioned, that flock together about London, and a ſpeedy diſpatch and diſcharging of them from the City.

7. That all ſuch Liſtings or Raiſings of new Forces, or drawing together of any, as is before-mentioned, and all preparations towards a new War, may be effectually declared againſt and ſuppreſt; as alſo all Invitations or endeavours to draw in Foreign Forces.

8. That the preſent perplexed Affairs of the Kingdom, and theſe concerning the Army, as alſo all the things deſired in our late Repreſentation, in behalf of the Kingdom, may be put into ſome ſpeedy way of Settlement and Compoſure.

An. 1647.

The Remonſtrance was agreed on by the Officers aforeſaid; and afterwards, by Direction from the General and Council of War, delivered to the Parliament by Colonel Sir Hardreſs Waller, Colonel Rich, and Major Tomlinſon.

Parliament's Deſires.

An Ordinance for giving a Day of Relaxation to Apprentices was read, and upon the Queſtion committed.

The King to ſtay his Journey to Richmond.

A Meſſage from the Lords, deſiring the Commons aſſent to a Letter to His Majeſty, that by reaſon of ſome late accident humbly to intreat His Majeſty either to ſtay at Royſton, where He appointed to lie this Night, and to Morrow at Theobald's, or return to Newmarket.

The Commons concurred therein, and a Letter was ſent accordingly.

A Copy of this Letter to His Majeſty was ordered to be ſent, incloſed in a Letter to His Excellency, and another Copy to the Commiſſioners in the Army.

The Conſideration of the Eleven Members were ordered to be reſumed to Morrow.

Parliament againſt ſuſpending the eleven Members.

The Houſe this Day, June 25. reſumed this Debate, and after much time ſpent, ordered, that by the Law of the Land no Judgment can be given to ſuſpend theſe Members, or any of them, from ſitting in the Houſe, upon the Papers preſented from the Army, before the Particulars be produced, and Proofs made.

Reſolved further upon the Queſtion, that it doth not appear, that any thing hath been ſaid or done, within the Commons Houſe, by any of the Members in queſtion, touching any Matters contained in the Papers ſent from the Army, for which the Houſe can in juſtice ſuſpend them.

The Exciſe-Houſe for Fleſh to be pulled down.

This Day order was given for the pulling down the lately erected Exciſe-Houſe in Smithfield, the Exciſe of Fleſh ending Wedneſday laſt, for which many in London made Bonfires, the Officers and Workmen coming to take down the Houſe, a great number of the common People, in a ſhort time, came about them, and fell to ſharing the Materials, ſome carried away pieces of Timber, others the Glaſs-Windows, and others the Bricks, and what elſe they met withal.

Barkhamſtead the Head-Quarter.

From the Army there came Intelligence, that Yeſterday the General removed his Head-Quarters from St. Alban's to Barkhamſtead, twenty ſeven Miles from London, where they expect the reſult of the Parliament concerning their deſires; and accordingly either remove further or approach nearer to London. His Majeſty came that Night to Royſton; the Houſe have ſent to His Majeſty to ſtay at Royſton, or go back to Newmarket, but His Majeſty, 'tis ſaid, is not willing to go back.

The King ſtays at Royſton.

A Letter was read in the Houſe from His Majeſty, that according to the Order of both Houſes, he would ſtay at Royſton that Night, and give them a further account of his removal when it ſhall be.

An Order was made by the Houſe, giving power to the Commiſſioners of Parliament in the Army, to confer with the Commiſſioners from the City in the Army.

Four full Companies to guard the Parliament.

The Militia of London were deſired to ſend Four full Companies for the Guard of the Houſes to Morrow.

The Army advances towards London again, but declares not to the terror of Parliament or City.

This Day, being June 26. Letters were read from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, and others, from the Parliament's Commiſſioners in the Army, giving an Account of the Armies near advance towards London, with the Grounds thereof, and that they intend not thereby any wiſe to awe the Parliament, or be a terror to them or the City; and renewed their deſires, That the Members charged by them may be ſuſpended the Houſe; and that then they will give in a more particular Charge, with the Proofs and Atteſtations to make good the ſame.

A Letter from the General to the City, not to advance nearer than Uxbridge.

There came likewiſe a Letter from the General, and Officers of the Army, to the Lord-Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council of London, to ſatisfie them of their nearer advance toward London, and to aſſure them, that as they deſire in all things a right underſtanding betwixt the Parliament, City, and Army, they will inviolably keep and obſerve their Faith and Promiſe to the City; and that they intend not in this their approaches any prejudice to the City, but will be ever tender of their Peace and Welfare as their own, their only aims being to obtain a firm Peace, and not a new War.

The Head-Quarter of the Army, this preſent Saturday, is at Uxbridge, where alſo the General is: It was agreed by a Council of War, the laſt Night, the Army ſhould not advance nearer London than Uxbridge.

The King at Hatfield.

His Majeſty is at the Earl of Saliſbury's Houſe at Hatfield, whither he came this Day from Royſton.

The 11 Members withdraw.

The Houſe had much Debate this Day upon a Motion from the Eleven Members charged by the Army, that they might have liberty to abſent themſelves from the Houſe; and it was at laſt condeſcended unto, and the Members accordingly all of them left the Houſe this Day.

To haſten the Treaty with the Army.

A Letter was agreed upon by both Houſes to be ſent to their Commiſſioners in the Army, deſiring them to improve their additional Power with Fidelity and Expedition in treating with the Army.

Liſt of Officers.

An additional Liſt of Officers were preſented to the Houſe, and ordered thereupon they ſhould have the benefit of the 25000 l. with the reſt.

A Day of Recreation.

The Ordinance with the Amendments, for the Day of Relaxation to Scholars and Apprentices, this Day paſſed the Houſe.

We had further, by Letters this Day from Uxbridge, to this purpoſe.

Intelligence.

By a miſtake Soldiers Quarter nearer London than the diſtance of Uxbridge.

‘The General removed from Barkhamſtead to this Place yeſterday. The Head Quarters is like to be here till Munday or Tueſday. His Majeſty removed from Royſton to Hatfield this Day. To Morrow we ſhall hear what entertainment his two Chaplains, Dr. Hammond, and Dr. Shelden, either afford to him, or receive from him, who went Yeſterday to Royſton to His Majeſty. A Council of War ſate at Uxbridge all the laſt Night, and underſtanding that through a Miſtake ſome Regiments had enlarged their Quarters nearer London than was intended, viz. as far as Harrow on the Hill, Hayes, Brentford, Harlington, Feltham, and Hanworth, there were Orders immediately ſent to ſtop the Regiments, and to bring them to Quarter in Line about fifteen or ſixteen Miles diſtant from London, and the General and Officers have reſolved, that there ſhall be no further advance of the Army, or any Quarters of it nearer London, before notice thereof given to the Parliament and City.

Uxbridge, June 26. 1647.

June 28. 1647. This Day Letters were read in both Houſes from the Commiſſioners with the King, giving to underſtand, that the Duke of Richmond was come to His Majeſty to Hatfield, Dr. Shelden, Dr. Hammond, and ſome others, &c.

Duke of Richmond, Dr. Sheldon to be removed from the King; and the King to go to Holmby.

The Houſes debated this buſineſs, and ordered, that His Majeſty ſhould be deſired from both Houſes to remove from Hatfield back to Holmby.

That the Commiſſioners attending His Majeſty do remove the Duke of Richmond, Dr. Shelden, Dr. Hammond, and all other Perſons that ought not to come near the King, according to their Inſtructions.

To keep Malignants from the King.

That a Letter be writ to the General, to give order, that the Guards attending His Majeſty be obſervant to the Commands of the Commiſſioners, in relation to their Inſtructions, and in keeping Malignants from His Majeſty.

The Houſe of Commons received Letters from the Army, of what they deſire further, in relation to the ſafety of the Kingdom, which deſires were as followeth.

The deſires of the Army to the Parliament, in reference to the 11 Members and Priviledge of Parliament.

WHereas we underſtand the Houſe hath voted, that it doth not appear, that any thing hath been ſaid or done by the Eleven Members within the Houſe, touching any Matter contained in the Papers from the Army, for which the Houſe can in Juſtice ſuſpend them, though if way were given and opened, without breach of Priviledge, for us to charge them with, and for others to be examined freely, to teſtifie unto ſuch things, we ſhould not doubt to make ſuch Proceedings and Practices of theirs in the Houſe to appear; for which, according to former Precedents, they juſtly might and ought to be ſuſpended, yet we are ſo tender of Priviledges of Parliament, as that we ſhall at preſent forbear to reply, or preſs further upon that point for the Houſes Proceedings therein, upon their own Cognizance.

2. Whereas the Houſe of Commons hath voted, That by the Laws of the Land, no Judgment can be given to ſuſpend thoſe Members from ſitting in the Houſe, upon the Papers preſented by the Army, before Particulars produced and Proofs made, though we think good Reaſons may be given, and Precedents found to the contrary, even in the Proceedings of this Parliament; as in the Caſe of the Earl of Strafford, the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, the Lord-Keeper Finch, and others. Yet we do declare, that we have both Particulars and Proofs againſt them ready to produce, but conſidering that the Proceedings thereupon will probably take up much time; and the preſent unſettled Affairs of the Kingdom, in relation to thoſe great matters propoſed by us, do require a ſpeedy Conſideration, we ſhall be willing that theſe greater and more general Matters of the Kingdom be firſt conſidered of and ſettled, before the Cenſure of thoſe Members be determined; and therefore becauſe they may apprehend it ſome prejudice to them to have their particular Charges given in, and lie upon them ſo long undetermined, we ſhall be willing to forbear the giving in of the Particulars againſt them, till they may, without interruption to the general Affairs, be immediately proceeded upon: But if the Houſe do think fit the Particulars againſt them be firſt delivered in, we ſhall be ready to do it.

3. Whereas we underſtand, that the Members charged have deſired leave from the Houſes to withdraw themſelves, we cannot but take notice of the Modeſty thereof ſo far, as that we are contented therewith, for the preſent more quiet proceeding to ſettle the perplexed Affairs of the Kingdom (which, without any private Animoſities againſt Perſons is our greateſt End in what we do, only we declare, that) as we ſuppoſe the Gentlemen themſelves, from the ſame Grounds that induced them to offer this, will ſtill forbear to offer the contrary, till the Matters concerning them be heard and determined, or to make any new interruption or diſturbance to the proceeding upon, or ſettlement of the general Affairs of the Kingdom; ſo we hope, and ſhall confidently expect, that the Wiſdom and Juſtice of the Houſe will not admit any things to the contrary, or leave it to an hazard thereof, but will uſe ſufficient Care and Caution againſt ſuch things, and for the bringing thoſe Members to Trial, when the Houſe ſhall judge it ſeaſonable and ſafe, as before expreſs'd.

Uxbridge, June 27. 1647.

By the appointment of his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, and his Council of War.

Signed, John Ruſhworth.

The Houſe debated theſe Deſires, and, in anſwer to part of them, paſſed theſe Votes, That they do declare, That no Officer or Soldier of the Army, from and after the publication of this Order in the Army, ſhall leave the Army without the particular licenſe and diſcharge of the General.

And ſuch as ſhall be found after the Ten Days Publication, contrary to this Ordinance, ſhall loſe their Arrears. This Ordinance was read the firſt time, and committed to a Committee.

The Commons received further this Day, a Meſſage from the Lords, to acquaint them with divers Complaints from Foreign Ambaſſadors and Strangers, who ſuffer much for want of a Court of Admiralty, which the Lords think fit ſhould be ſpeedily ſettled, and and which the Commons ordered to take into Conſideration. Alſo to acquaint them with the Dutch Ambaſſadors Letter, and the Lords Votes, that they think fit to grant him a Paſs (as deſired) to go to His Majeſty, and another to return to his own Country, with his Retinue, Six Horſes, and other Neceſſaries, and ſecurity for his Family, which he leaves here. To which the Commons concurred.

Ordered, that it be referred to a Committee to make enquiry what malignant Miniſters have been admitted by the Committee of Plundered Miniſters into Livings, contrary to the Order of the Houſe, and to report the Names of ſuch to the Houſe, and a Committee was appointed for that purpoſe.

The Army draws back.

Letters came this Day to the Houſe from the Commiſſioners with the Army, and a Letter from the General and Council of War of the Armies drawing further back from the City of London, removing their Head-Quarters from Uxbridge to Wickham.

The General's Letter was as followeth.

The General's Letter.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

By the Votes you pleaſed to communicate to me this Morning, I find the Parliament hath taken into their Conſiderations thoſe Propoſitions of the Army which neceſſarily craved ſome ſatisfaction before the withdrawing of it. And that their Progreſs already made (though but in part) meets with ſuch a Compliance in my Council of War, that it begets in them a general Confidence of the Houſes ſpeedy and full Anſwer to the remaining Propoſition. And therefore to teſtifie the readineſs of this Army to obſerve the Commands of Parliament,

The Head-Quarters at Wickham.

They have reſolved to remove the Army to a farther diſtance, and the Head-Quarters to be this Night at Wickham, believing that this forwardneſs on their part, to ſatisfie both the Parliament and City, will not retard but haſten the Reſolutions of the Houſes, with a full ſatisfaction to the Particulars not yet anſwered; and alſo acquit this Army of many Jealouſies and unjuſt Aſperſions caſt upon it.

To the Right Honourable Lords and Commons,
Commiſſioners for the Parliament in the Army, to be communicated to both Houſes of Parliament.

The Army deſire to ſpeed the Treaty with the Parliament's-Commiſſioner's.

This Day likewiſe the General and Council of War at Wickham ſent a Paper to the Commiſſioners in anſwer, to one from them the Day before, ſignifying, that they were very ſenſible of the many Inconveniences, which delay (in the ſpeedy ſettlement of the Affairs of the Kingdom) may produce, and therefore were ready, according to the Parliament's deſire to appoint Officers to treat with them, that delay might not reſt on their Parts; and withal further intimated, that the Army is not ſatisfied, and do conceive themſelves and the Kingdom unſafe, until the laſt Propoſitions delivered in unto the Houſe be fully anſwered. And therefore deſire to know their pleaſures concerning them, before they proceed to a Concluſion in any thing upon the Treaty.

A Months Pay.

July 1. 1647. Referred to the Committee of the Army, to conſider how a Month's Pay may be ſpeedily advanced to the Army.

It was ordered, that the Committee formerly appointed to conſider of an Accommodation in Matters of Religion ſhould meet, and to report their Opinion with all convenient ſpeed.

Some endeavour to bring in the Scots Army.

An Information was given of Alderman Couſins of Newcaſtle upon Tine, and others, their being now in Scotland, in nature of Agents for Presbytery, endeavouring to bring the Scots into this Nation. This was referred to Examination of the Committee of the North.

Ordered, that the Lords be deſired to expedite the Propoſition to be ſent to the King.

To put Officers and Soldiers out of the Line.

The Ordinance for putting Officers and Soldiers out of the Line, was read the ſecond time and recommitted.

July 2. 1647. This Day a Petition was preſented to both Houſes, from the Lord-Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council of the City of London, which take as follows at large, viz.

To the Right Honourable the Lords and Commons aſſembled in High Court of Parliament.

The humble Petition of the Lord-Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common-Council aſſembled.

Humbly Sheweth,

THat the Petitioners cannot but call to mind the deliverance which they and the whole Kingdom did juſtly expect from this Parliament, after ſo many Years ſuffering under the Power of an Arbitrary Government, both in their Spiritual and Temporal Concernments; and they do humbly acknowledge, that this Parliament hath removed many Obſtacles, and are confident would, by this time, with God's Bleſſing, have reſtored the Kingdom to its juſt Liberties, and ſettled a ſure foundation for its future happineſs, if they had not been diverted by the great Contrivers of the Kingdom's Slavery, who, rather than ſubmit to the Juſtice of this High-Court, have raiſed and maintained a bloody, unnatural, and long War againſt the Parliament of England. In the ſuppreſſion whereof, as much Blood hath been ſpilt, ſo a great Treaſure hath been ſpent, and the Kingdom is ſtill left involved in many Engagements and Debts, both to their Brethren of Scotland, (who like true Chriſtian Brethren, came in to its Aid againſt the common Enemy) and alſo to a multitude of Officers, Soldiers, and others the well-affected People of this Land, who did engage in the defence and ſupport thereof. And although the Petitioners, in the Obligation which the Cauſe of God, and the publick Safety did caſt upon them, have all this time both freely contributed and chearfully ſubmitted to many great and unuſual Aſſeſſments, which alſo could not be levied but in an extraordinary way; yet they cannot be unſenſible how much arbitrary Power hath been, during theſe Diſtempers, exerciſed by Committees and others, by whom the good Subject hath been oftentimes more oppreſſed, than the Delinquent ſuppreſſed, and who have managed the Receipts and Revenues which were deſigned to maintain the publick Charge, ſo diſorderly and ineffectually, that the Kingdom cannot but be unſatisfied concerning the due employment thereof, and doubt that much of the publick Money hath been employed to private Ends, and remain obſcured in the hands of ſuch as were intruſted with the Collection of thoſe Aſſeſſments, and the improvement of all Sequeſtration to the publick and beſt advantage. And indeed, the Petitioners have reaſon to attribute much of the late Diſcontent and Diſorders of divers Officers and Soldiers, unto the want of ſuch Monies, as if duly collected and faithfully managed might have in good part, if not fully ſatisfied the Soldiery; and do humbly conceive, that the Parliament hath ſo much the more reaſon to enquire into the ſame, becauſe that from this defect, hath riſen thoſe late Attempts of ſome of the Soldiery; and there is ſuch uſe made of the Vote paſſed by the Parliament, for their ſatisfaction, to invite and draw together very great numbers of Officers and Soldiers from all Parts of the Kingdom, under pretence of ſharing the Money ſo obtained, that it may very much endanger the Peace and Safety of the City.

The Petitioners therefore, for remedy of the ſaid Grievances, and prevention of thoſe Dangers which otherwiſe may be feared, and for ſettlement of this miſerable and diſtracted Kingdom, do humbly pray,

1. That preſent Command be given, that no Officer of War, or Soldier, other than ſuch as are already come in, do enter the Line of Communication, under any pretence to ſhare in the Moneys lately appointed by Parliament, towards the ſatisfaction of any Arrears.

2. That ſuch Officers and Soldiers who are already paid according to the late ſeveral Ordinances of Parliament in this behalf made, if their uſual Habitation and Employment have been within the Line, be enjoyned forthwith to betake themſelves to their Calling, or ſome honeſt Condition of Living, and be prohibited from their looſer and tumultuous wandering and meeting within this City, and other Places adjacent, under Penalty of loſing their Arrears. And that ſuch Officers and Soldiers as have Dwellings or other Relations in the Country, be required to depart the Line within two Days after Publication, and to return to their Homes or Habitations, and there to apply themſelves to their ſeveral Callings, upon the like forfeiture of their Arrears, except ſuch whoſe preſent and lawful Occaſions may require their continuance, to be approved of by a Committee for that purpoſe to be appointed. And that the Parliament would pleaſe to make ſome ſpeedy and certain Proviſion for the ſatisfying of all Arrears unto the Soldiery, who have ſerved the Parliament, within ſome ſhort and convenient time to be paid in the ſeveral Counties and Places of their Abode, according to the Conditions of their Entertainments.

3. That all Officers and Soldiers who have been in Arms againſt the Parliament, or others, who have aſſiſted or contributed thereunto, be enjoined upon pain of Impriſonment, within twenty four Hours after publication, to repair to their ſeveral Habitations, and fall to their lawful Callings; and that ſuch Officers, Soldiers, and others, as have no Habitations nearer, be commanded forthwith to withdraw themſelves, and to continue, at leaſt, twenty Miles from London, for the ſpace of forty Days, except ſuch as by a Committee authoriſed and appointed to that purpoſe, ſhall have Licenſe, upon juſt Cauſe by them allowed, to remain in or near London, ſo long time until they have diſpatched ſuch buſineſſes as they ſhall have in or near the City; which ended, then preſently to retire twenty Miles from the City, upon pain of Impriſonment, as aforeſaid.

4. That ſuch Commanders and Soldiers as according to former orders of the Parliament have come in from the Army, having received their Monies, may be otherwiſe diſpoſed of as the Parliament ſhall think fit.

5. That all Perſons whatſoever, that are poſſeſſed of any Monies or Goods belonging to the Publick, may be injoined to bring the ſame within one Month after Publication, into ſuch publick Treaſury as is or ſhall be appointed for that purpoſe, under Penalty to forfeit treble the Value, which ſhall be duly proved to be ſo concealed, the half of the Forfeiture to be given to ſuch Perſons as ſhall make proof of ſuch Concealment, and the other half to be applied to the Service of the State.

6. That all Revenues (as well ſuch as are due by Sequeſtration or otherwiſe) be managed under ſuch Commiſſions, and by ſuch Perſons, as notwithſtanding any Priviledge of Parliament, or otherwiſe, may be held to ſuch Rules as are or ſhall be preſcribed therein, by Ordinance of Parliament, and be liable (for breach thereof) to anſwer the ſame in due courſe of Law, and that no arbitrary Power may be exerciſed to the contrary, by any Perſon whatſoever.

7. That the Parliament would for the preſent pleaſe to lay aſide all buſineſſes of leſſer Conſequence, of private Concernment, and improve their Time and utmoſt endeavour, that ſuch Laws may be prepared for His Majeſty's Royal Concurrence, as may ſettle the Government of the Church, ſecure the People from all unlawful and arbitrary Power whatſoever in future, and reſtore His Majeſty to his juſt Rights and Authority, according to the Covenant; without all which the Petitioners can never expect any laſting eſtabliſhment; that ſo this long divided and diſtracted Kingdom may attain to the Bleſſings of Peace and Unity in Church and Common-wealth.

8. And that the People may be the better ſecured to enjoy the intended Effects of ſuch Laws, as ſhall be ſo made with the Royal aſſent, that eſpecial care be taken that all Officers of State, and other Miniſters of Juſtice, may be Perſons of Honour, of conſiderable Intereſt, and of known Integrity to the Parliament and Kingdom.

9. That the Parliament would pleaſe to provide for the carrying on of the Affairs in Ireland, by a ſpeedy tranſporting the Forces which lie ready on the Sea-ſide, and ſuch others as ſhall be willing to engage in that Service, and by ſuch continual Supplies as are requiſite to reduce that Kingdom to the Obedience of the Crown of England, and reſcue the good Party left there, out of the bloody hands of thoſe barbarous Rebels. And for the better encouragement of the Subjects of this Kingdom to continue their Supplies for that Service, that with as much ſpeed as conveniently may be, the Parliament will pleaſe to take care that the People be eaſed of ſuch extraordinary Charges and Burthens as have long lain, and ſtill remain upon this Kingdom.

10. That by juſt and good means the Correſpondence with our Brethren of Scotland, may, according to the National Covenant, be maintained and preſerved.

11. That this Honourable Houſe would pleaſe to give Order for a ſpeedy examination of all unlawful Elections and Returns of the Members thereof, and purge the Houſe of all ſuch as have been unduly choſen, or have been in Arms or in Action againſt the Parliament, and provide for the ſupply of their rooms, according to the Laws of the Land.

12. That ſome ſpeedy courſe may be taken for the deciding of all Cauſes formerly determinable in the Court of Admiralty, the Trade and Navigation of this Kingdom, and the Correſpondence with Foreign Nations being very much prejudiced, diſturbed, and endangered for want of due proviſion herein, as hath formerly been at large repreſented unto the Honourable Houſe.

13. And laſtly, That ſatisfaction being made by Delinquents, according to the Wiſdom of Parliament, an Act of Oblivion may be paſſed for an utter abolition and final Reconcilement of all Parties and Differences; and for

for the quiet ſettling of Peace, Love, and Unity among the Subjects of this Kingdom.

All which the Petitioners ſubmit unto the Wiſdom of this Honourable Houſe.

Anſwer to the City Petition.

This Petition was read in both Houſes, and the Preſenters had Thanks for their conſtant and good Affections to the Parliament, with this further Anſwer, that the particulars of the Petition were many and long, and a great part thereof under Conſideration already, and the reſt they would ſpeedily conſider on.

A Petition of Cheſter to pay off the Garriſon.

A Petition of the Inhabitants of Cheſter was read, and ordered, that it be referred to the Committee of Cheſter to advance ſo much Money upon the Credit of the Ordinance for 60000 l. per Menſem, as will pay the Arrears of the Soldiery of the Garriſon of Cheſter, ſince the 25*th.* of March laſt, to be paid to the Soldiery of the Garriſon, that they may conſider of leſſening that Garriſon; and the Petitions then tendered from the ſaid County be referred to this Committee.

Several Orders were then alſo made in reference to the Affairs of Ireland, viz. That 2600 l. be paid out of Weavers-Hall, to the Lord of Ormond, being part of the Moneys formerly ordered him out of Goldſmiths-Hall.

That 7000 l. be paid out of Weavers-Hall, for the tranſporting of the Regiment of Horſe, of Colonel Ponſonby's into Ireland, and for Proviſion and Arms for them before their Tranſportation.

Soldiers come off from the Army, to be reduced into Regiments for Ireland.

That the Forces that are come off from the Army be muſtered, and ſpeedily advance for Ireland, and that they be reduced into Regiments, according to the numbers the Regiments for Ireland are to conſiſt of, and herein they are to have reſpect to the Colonels that have the moſt Forces in their Regiments.

Receive a Months Pay in part.

That thoſe Forces drawn off from the Army, and engaged for Ireland, ſhall have a Month's Pay, as part of the Arrears due to the Forces of the Army, that are drawn off, out of the 10000 l. formerly appointed for ſuch as did draw off from the Army.

That after the receipt of this Months Pay, the ſeveral Forces for Ireland, are to march to the Sea-ſide, where they ſhall receive Conditions promiſed by former Vote: And the Committee of Ireland is to ſee this performed accordingly.

Commiſſioners for Munſter.

That three Commiſſioners be ſent into Munſter, and referred to the Committee of Iriſh Affairs to conſider of fit Perſons.

A Petition from Eſſex.

One of the Knights of the Shire of the County of Eſſex, preſented a Petition this Day to the Houſe, of the Gentry and others of the Diviſion of Lexon in Eſſex, and Parts adjacent, the Gentlemen who brought the Petition were called in, and were acquainted that the Houſe did take notice of delivering it, which was very Parliamentary; that the Petition was very Modeſt, and full of good Intentions and Expreſſions to the Publick; for which, and all the conſtant good Affections, they had the hearty Thanks of the Houſe given them.

The Petition from Norfolk and Suffolk was likewiſe preſented to the Houſe, and ordered, that when the Generals therein ſhall be reduced to Particulars, and tendered to the Houſe, they will conſider of them, and do Juſtice upon whomſoever they concern. The Petition follows at large, viz.

The Humble Petition of the peaceable and well affected Inhabitants of the Counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, together with the City and County of Norwich, earneſtly endeavouring after the Proſperity of this our High Court of Parliament, and the ſpeedy eſtabliſhment of the Peace, Liberties, and Freedoms of the Kingdoms; preſented to the Honourable Houſe of Commons, upon Friday July 2. by above a hundred Gentlemen and Free-Commoners, in the name of many thouſand that did ſubſcribe it. With the Reſolutions of the Houſe of Commons thereunto annexed.

To the Honourable Houſe of Commons aſſembled in Parliament.

The Humble Petition of the peaceable and well-affected Inhabitants of the Counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, together with the City and County of Norwich.

Sheweth,

THat your Petitioners cannot but with all Thankfulneſs acknowledge the great Goodneſs of God in caſting our Lot in a free Nation, wherein ſo high and honourable a Court as a Parliament, is appointed to interpoſe between the People and all Tyranny and Oppreſſion, and the ſpecial manifeſtation of this Goodneſs, in calling together this Parliament in a time of ſuch imminent danger of the loſs of all the Subjects Liberties; and likewiſe we cannot but be ſenſible of the ſpecial concurrence of the Divine Power with your Counſels, Endeavours, and Agents, whereby many Grievances were redreſſed, Burthens removed, and the decays of our Nation began to be repaired, (and the Hearts of all the well-affected filled, with large hopes of beholding again the Glory of the Free-born Engliſh Nation.) But with grief of Heart we are conſtrained to declare to this Honourable Court, that our living Hopes begin to fade, and are almoſt exchanged into dying Fears, while we ſadly behold the ſame Corruptions in the Courts of Judicature ſtill remaining, that the Subjects have for many Years groaned under; the diſplacing of many Men of known Fidelity, in their engagement for the preſervation of the Subjects Liberties, out of the Militia of the great City of our Kingdom, (and the undermining the fundamental Liberties of our Nation, by diſcouraging of the Free-Commons of England from preſenting, in the moſt humble way, their Grievances; all which we humbly conceive to proceed from ſome Members ſitting in this Honourable Houſe, againſt whom the Free-Commons of England have not had liberty to bring in their Accuſations and Charges. Wherefore while we are groaning under afflicting Fears, that the ſad apprehenſions of thoſe growing Miſeries ſhould ſo foment Jealouſies in the Peoples Hearts, that the old deſign againſt the Kingdom's Liberties is now acted and managed in a new Form, that thereby the diſtraction of the Kingdom ſhould be augmented, and the Subjects prevented of their enjoyment of a ſafe, well grounded, and long-expected Peace.) We cannot but humbly implore this Honourable Houſe,

That the Corruption in the Courts of Judicature might be ſpeedily conſidered by this Honourable Houſe. That the Places of Truſt in our yet diſtracted Kingdom might be committed to thoſe who have faithfully intereſted themſelves in the common Cauſe of preſerving the Subjects Liberties. And that the removal of every ſuch Perſon or Perſons out of any Places of Truſt whatſoever might be ſpeedily debated and determined. That a Declaration be forthwith publiſhed to the Kingdom, to declare the Liberty and Duty of all and every the Free-Commoners, to preſent to you all manner of Grievances whatſoever, with ſuch offers of Remedy as the Wiſdom of God ſhall direct them to propound; as alſo the Liberty of every Free-Commoner to repair freely to this Honourable Houſe, with all Accuſations and Charges againſt any Member whatſoever ſitting in Parliament. And that every Member remaining under any Charge (either of Incapacity of admiſſion into the Houſe, or unfaithfulneſs in his Truſt) might immediately be ſuſpended from acting in the Affairs of the Kingdom (whereſoever Proofs of any ſuch Charge be offered) till he be either judged or acquitted; that hereby every Subjects Heart and Mouth might be void of all exceptions againſt this Honourable Houſe, that ſo all Miſunderſtandings between you and your Army might be prevented, and the hopes of all thoſe utterly fruſtrated, that under any pretence whatſoever (to maintain their own Intereſts) would foment Diviſions between you and them, to the embroiling the Kingdom again in Blood; that then a happy Peace might be built upon the Foundations of Judgment, Juſtice, and Righteouſneſs, and the Glory, Freedom, and Happineſs of our Nation, may countervail all the Blood and Treaſure that hath been expended in their juſt proſecution.

And your Petitioners ſhall ever pray, &c.

Die Veneris, 2. July 1647.

A Member of the Houſe did tender a Petition to the conſideration of the Houſe, entituled, The humble Petition of the peaceable and well-affected Inhabitants of the Counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, together with the City and County of Norwich; the which was read.

Reſolved, &c.

That an Anſwer be returned to this Petition.

Reſolved upon the Queſtion, by the Commons aſſembled in Parliament, that this ſhall be the Anſwer.

‘That when the Generals ſhall be reduced to Particulars, and ‘tendered to the Houſe, they will take them into due Conſideration, ‘and do Juſtice upon them whomſoever they concern.

Mr. Gourdon and Mr. Heveringham are appointed to deliver the Petitioners this Anſwer.

A Pamphlet diſclaimed as followeth.

Letters came this Day from the General's Head-Quarters at Wickham, whereof one was a Paper, or Declaration of the General and Council of War, diſclaiming a ſcandalous Pamphlet, intituled, Heads preſented by the Army to the King's Majeſty, the 19*th. of* June laſt; and another ſcandalous Paper. Their Anſwer thereunto is as followeth, viz.

This Day was read a Paper delivered to the Commiſſioners for the City of London, July 1. from the General and Officers of the Army, diſclaiming a Pamphlet, intituled, Heads preſented by the Army to the King's Majeſty, on Saturday, June 19. 1647.

WHereas we find a Pamphlet lately printed and publiſhed, bearing the Title of Heads preſented by the Army to the King's Majeſty, on Saturday June 19. 1647. though we think it will, of it ſelf, appear a confuſed, heedleſs Piece; ſo ſurreptitiouſly crept forth, and in ſuch a pure Pamphlet-Dreſs, as we hope it will gain little belief to our prejudice; yet to avoid any Jealouſies or doubtful Thoughts, which it might poſſibly breed in any honeſt Mind, we cannot but take notice of it; and for vindication of the Army, we do hereby declare, That the ſaid printed Pamphlet is moſt falſe, ſcandalous, and injurious to us and this Army, neither hath there been any ſuch Paper preſented to His Majeſty by or from this Army: And the ſame we profeſs and declare, with great deteſtation, concerning another written Paper, whereof we had a Copy ſhewed to us Yeſterday by the Commiſſioners of the City, intituled, Articles agreed upon between the King and the Army, the 26*th of* June. And we deſire all that wiſh well to the Army, or the King, or Peace of this Kingdom, that they would do their beſt to find out and diſcover the Authors and Publiſhers of the ſaid Papers and Pamphlets, or any thing elſe of that Nature that may be divulged concerning the Army, to interrupt or prejudice the preſent ſettling and compoſure of Affairs. And we hope it will not be further needful or expected from us, that we ſhould give particular Anſwer to every ſuch ſcandalous Paper, which the Malice of our Enemies may forge againſt us; but that what we have publiſhed to the World in our Repreſentation and other Papers avowed by us, may ſerve to clear our Intentions, until we ſhall appear to act ſomething to the contrary.

Signed By the appointment of his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, Wickham, July 1. and his Council of War.

And their Lordſhips thought fit to have Prince Rupert, Prince Maurice, the Marquis of Newcaſtle, Lord Jarmin, Sir John Stranguidge, and others, to the number of twenty five in all, to be left out of that Qualification, and put into the next. The further Conſideration was referred till another time.

Treaty with the Army.

By Letters from the Commiſſioners with the Army it was this Day certified, that the Treaty goes fairly on, and thereupon we have great hope of a fair Compoſure. The manner of their Proceedings in the Treaty, with the Copies of the ſeveral Papers, from the firſt Meeting, is as followeth.

A Method for the Treaty with the Army.

At the Treaty begun, Wickham, July 2. 1647. Preſent of the Commiſſioners of the Parliament, Earl of Nottingham, Lord Wharton, Field-Marſhal Skippon, Sir Henry Vane, Junior, Sir Thomas Widrington, Colonel White, Thomas Scawen, Eſq; and Thomas Povey, Eſq;

For the Method of Proceedings it is offered by the Commiſſioners of Parliament, that ſeeing the Treaty is to be had upon the Papers and Deſires ſent from the Army to the Houſes, and the Votes of the Houſes ſent to their Commiſſioners reſiding with the Army,

1. That in all Matters to be treated on, there ſhall be a free Debate had by Conference.

2. That the Reſults of ſuch Debates, in Points that relate to the Deſires of the Army, ſhall be by Commiſſioners of Parliament delivered to the Commiſſioners of the Army, in Writing, to be preſented to the Council of War, for their Conſideration, that a ſpeedy Concluſion may be thereupon had.

3. That in this Treaty nothing ſhall be taken for the Deſire, Opinion, or Reſolution of the Commiſſioners on either part, but what is given in Writing, Signed by their reſpective Secretaries.

4. That in the managing of the Treaty, and for the more ſpeedy expedition, that at any time Papers, Signed as aforeſaid, may be ſent and received betwixt the Commiſſioners upon imergent occaſions.

5. That we ſhall be deſirous to hear from the Commiſſioners of the Army, the way and method wherein they intend to proceed in the managing of the Deſires of the Army, wherein we ſhall not doubt, but that they will take ſuch Courſes as may tend to the greateſt Expedition.

6. That Meetings of the Commiſſioners ſhall be from time to time by mutual Agreement of the Commiſſioners, or upon the deſire of either Party reſpectively, at ſuch place within the Head-Quarters, as the Commiſſioners for Parliament ſhall appoint.

For the Method of proceeding, the Commiſſioners of the Army do anſwer.

The Army's method to treat.

1. TO the firſt, we agree fully. 2. To the ſecond, we agree. 3. To the third, we wholly agree. 4. To the fourth, we agree. 5. To the fifth, we ſhall willingly perform what is deſired, at leaſt in parts from time to time as there is occaſion; but we deſire that there may be no ſtop to the proceeding in the Treaty, upon any part of things to be treated on in expectation of a general Method for the whole. 6. To the ſixth, we wholly agree.

This Paper following was delivered in by the Commiſſioners of the Army, in Anſwer to ſome verbal Objections made by the Commiſſioners of the Parliament, at a private Debate or Conference.

A Paper delivered in by the Commiſſioners of the Army.

HAving heard the objections of your Lordſhips, and the reſt of the Commiſſioners to the things we propoſed, as wanting in the late Votes of the Houſes, in relation to the deſire of the Army ſent from Uxbridge, June 27. 1647. We are ſatisfied to lay aſide ſome of theſe particulars, and to inſiſt only on theſe following, which we humbly deſire the Parliament would be pleaſed to conſider.

Things wanting in the late Votes of the Houſes, in relation to the Deſires of the Army, ſent from Uxbridge, June 27. 1647.

To the firſt deſire, That either the Declaration mentioned in that Article, may be recalled, or elſe that it may be further declared, that thoſe that ſhall contrary to the order of June 28. leave the Army, ſhall not have any benefit of that former Declaration for preſent payment of Arrears.

To the ſecond, That the proviſion may be quickned with Effect.

To the third, Whereas on Tueſday June 28. it was voted, that thoſe that had left the Army, ſhould forthwith, be either ſent over into Ireland, or disbanded; and it was referred to the Committee for Ireland to conſider how that Vote may be put in Execution, and report their Opinion on Thurſday Morning then next following, now ſince we hear not of any Report made thereupon, or any further care taken therein (after 5 or 6 days Relapſed) we humbly deſire, that in caſe they be not without further delay ſent and ſhipt for Ireland, they may forthwith be diſcharged, and diſperſt.

To the fourth, We deſire that the Ordinance for the purpoſe in that Article preſſed, may be ſpeedily paſt, and put in Execution.

To the ſixth, We deſire, that the Eſtabliſhment intended for preſent Maintenance of the Army (as alſo Proviſion for Arrears) may be haſtned with Effect.

Little being yet done in relation thereunto, we have ſeveral things of weight to offer, which we conceive will very much conduce to the preſent preſerving of the Peace, and ſafety of this Kingdom; for the preventing of a new War, and to the ſending of ſome preſent relief for Ireland, which we ſhall next offer.

'That by the appointment of the General and Army under his Command, and in their Names, they were to preſent a particular Charge or Impeachment againſt the Eleven Members. Which being done, and they deſired to withdraw, the Members impeached were ſent for in, and the Charge read in the Houſe, but the Day being far ſpent, the Debate thereupon was put off till Thurſday next; at which time the Officers of the Army were to attend, and receive an anſwer from the Houſe.

A Paper delivered in by the Commiſſioners of Parliament, Wedneſday, July 7. 1647.

THat finding the Expectation of the Parliament and the Kingdom to be very great upon the ſpeedy Progreſs and happy Iſſue of this Treaty; in conſideration whereof, we have made it our care conſtantly to attend at the appointed times of meeting, and to preſs and diſpatch all therein: And we cannot but take notice, that the Proceedings on your part, have been and are very ſlow, and that little or nothing have been done in the Treaty ſince our entrance thereupon; and therefore in diſcharge of our Duty, and the Truſt repoſed in us, we do very earneſtly deſire, that the Treaty may be effectually proceeded on with all expedition, and the times for meeting punctually kept, there being nothing that ſhall be wanting in us, according to the power given us, to further a work of ſo great Importance, and which may perfect a right Underſtanding betwixt the Parliament and the Army.

Signed by the appointment of the Commiſſioners reſiding with the Army.

George Pyke, Secretary.

An anſwer of the Commiſſioners of the Army, to the Paper of the Commons of Parliament, about a ſpeedy Proceeding.

BY the laſt Paper delivered in unto us from your Lordſhip's, at Reading, the 7th of July, we perceive you find that the expectation of the Parliament and Kingdom is great upon the ſpeedy Progreſs, and happy Iſſue of this Treaty. We anſwer that we do really apprehend the ſame things with you; neither can we but witneſs, that you have conſtantly attended the appointed times of Meeting, and preſs'd Diſpatch therein; nevertheleſs, we cannot but be very ſenſible, that you ſeem to reflect on us further than there is juſt Cauſe, in your taking notice that the Proceedings herein ſhould be ſlow and dilatory on our part, as if we ſhould not ſeem to deſire and labour the quick and ſpeedy ſettlement of the Affairs of the Kingdom, in a ſafe and well-grounded Peace, as cordially as any Perſons whatſoever. We ſhall therefore deſire you to remember with what forwardneſs we have in the firſt place preſented to you thoſe things which we did in our Hearts conceive neceſſary in order to a Treaty, and without which granted, we could not with ſafety to the Kingdom, and ſatisfaction to our ſelves, proceed in Treaty; and further preſs'd you to preſent them to the Parliament with ſpeed, that a quick diſpatch might be had therein, as being, in our Thoughts, the chiefeſt and ſureſt way to prevent the engaging this Kingdom in a ſecond War, when, contrary to our Expectations, we have found little effectually done in relation to our deſires in thoſe things moſt concerning the ſafety and peace of the Kingdom.

To the end therefore we may acquit our ſelves of being guilty of the delay you mention, and that it may appear to all Men where the ſtick is, of not proceeding in the Treaty, to a ſettlement of the Peace of the Kingdom, ſo much thirſted after by us all, we thought fit to remind you of theſe following Propoſals, which we have formerly inſiſted upon, and to which ſatisfaction is not given.

1. That there is nothing done with effect, notwithſtanding the Votes of the Houſe, to the diſperſing of the Reformado Officers, who ſtill continue in and about London, ready to head Forces, to the apparent hazard of a new War.

2. That notwithſtanding the Votes of the Houſe for the ſpeedy ſending into Ireland, or diſbanding thoſe Forces which left the Army, and their ſpecial Order to the Committee at Derby-Houſe to take ſpeedy care therein, yet they are ſtill continued in Bodies in and about London; and, as we hear, are daily liſting more Force, pretending the Service of Ireland.

3. That notwithſtanding the Votes of the Houſe, of the tenth of June, and thoſe ſince of the 5th of July, for the preſent purging of the Houſe, yet divers Perſons compriſed in thoſe Votes ſtill continue to ſit there.

So long as we remain unſatisfied in the two firſt of theſe Particulars, we cannot be ſecured from thoſe Doubts we have expreſſed of the danger of a new War; eſpecially if it be conſidered, that the end of inviting ſo many

Refor

Reformado Officers to London, was to lay a foundation of a new War; and was principally carried on by the deſign of ſome of thoſe Members of the Houſe of Commons we have impeached. And likewiſe that divers of the Officers and Soldiers which left this Army, were procured by promiſes of Pay, and other Engagements, which were likewiſe deſigned by the ſame Perſons aforementioned, if poſſibly they might, thereby have broken this Army.

And for the laſt, What comfortable effect may we expect of a Treaty, ſo long as the Parliament (the ſupream Judicatory of the Kingdom) is conſtituted of ſome that are Men of Intereſts, contrary to the common good thereof, from whom we can expect nothing but banding, and deſigning to obſtruct and fruſtrate all Proceedings (contrary to their Intereſts) though never ſo eſſential to the happy ſettlement of the Kingdom; and if a ſeaſonable Remedy be not given herein, we deſpair of any good to the Kingdom by way of Treaty.

Reading, July 7. 1647.

Signed by the appointment of the Commiſſioners of the Army.

William Clerke, Secretary.

Wedneſday, July 7.

Wedneſday being the laſt Day of the Term, whereby the Speakers of both Houſes could not be abſent from the Chancery, and the Members having other extraordinary occaſions in relation to the Term, therefore the Houſe adjourned till Thurſday.

This Day Monſieur Beleure, the French Ambaſſador, came to Cauſum, and was entertained with very great reſpect at Court, and had Audience of His Majeſty in the Preſence Chamber.

Judges for the Circuits.

Thurſday, July 8. Reports was this Day made to the Houſe, of the Liſt of the Judges for this next Circuit, and paſſed as followeth, Baron Trevor and Juſtice Pheſant, for Norfolk Circuit; Juſtice Bacon, Sergeant Creſwell, for Eſſex Circuit; Juſtice Rolle, for Lincoln Circuit; Baron Atkin, Sergeant Clarke, for Oxford Circuit; Juſtice Godbolt, Sergeant Wild, ——— Sergeant Jermin, Sergeant Green, for other Circuits.

Ordered further, that the Committee appointed for preparing Inſtructions for Judges do meet this Afternoon, and bring them in on Munday morning next.

Militia of London to raiſe Horſe.

The Sheriffs of London, and certain of the Militia, came down to the Houſe this Day, and acquainted the Houſe, that they were commanded to preſent a Petition, which was read, and it was to deſire 20000 l. out of Weavers-Hall, for defraying the Charge of the Militia, and that the Ordinance paſt the 11*th.* of June laſt, for raiſing Horſe for defence of the City, may be renewed, the time being expired.

The Houſe ordered, that the Power of the Militia of London, which they ſhall have by this Ordinance, ſhall not exceed the raiſing of one Regiment of Horſe to the number of Six hundred.

Guard.

That the Militia of London be deſired to give order, that the Guards appointed to attend the Houſes, may be at the Houſes by Seven of the Clock at fartheſt, daily.

Friday, July 9. This Day Letters were read in both Houſes from His Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, concerning the King and the Peace of the Kingdom; the buſineſs being of that Concernment, we will give you the Letters verbatim, as followeth.

An. 1647.

The General's Letter to the Parliament, concerning the King.

Mr. Speaker,

I Was ſent unto by the King on Friday laſt, to deſire the Parliament to give way to him to ſee his Children, and that they might for that purpoſe be ſent to him: if I may be bold humbly to offer my Opinion, I think the allowance of ſuch a thing may be without the leaſt prejudice to the Kingdom, and yet gain more upon His Majeſty than denying it; and if it be in the Prayers of every good Man, that his Heart may be gained, the performance of ſuch Civilities to him is very ſuitable to thoſe Deſires, and will bear well with all Men, who (if they can imagine it to be their own Caſe) cannot but be ſorry if His Majeſty's natural Affection to his Children, in ſo ſmall a thing ſhould not be complied with; and if any queſtion ſhould be concerning the aſſurance of their return, I ſhall engage for their return, within what time the Parliament ſhall limit.

Upon that occaſion, give me leave, I beſeech you, to take notice of ſome Reports ſpread abroad, as if my ſelf, and the Officers of the Army, were upon ſome underhand Contract or Bargain with the King; and from thence occaſion is taken to ſlander our Integrity, and endeavour a miſunderſtanding betwixt the Parliament and their Army; the fidelity of which to the Parliament and Kingdom, and their affection to it, are the great Objects of many Mens Envy; becauſe they ſee nothing ſo likely to ſettle Right and Freedom with Truth and Peace to us and Poſterity, and to hinder their deſigns againſt the ſame, as an harmony and good accord between the Parliament and Army, which is the joy of good Men, and it ſhall be our ſtudy to preſerve againſt all Deſigns, and Deſigners to the contrary.

To prevent therefore all Miſunderſtandings of that kind, I thought with all clearneſs to declare unto you, That we have done nothing, nor ſhall do any thing which we deſire to hide from you or the World, or ſhall not avow to the Faces of our greateſt Adverſaries.

Our Deſires concerning a juſt Conſideration and Settlement of the King's Right (His Majeſty firſt giving his Concurrence to ſettle and ſecure the Rights and Liberties of the Kingdom) we have already publickly declared in our Repreſentation and Remonſtrance. Since the firſt of thoſe Papers ſent unto the Parliament, there have been ſeveral Officers of the Army, upon ſeveral Occaſions, ſent to His Majeſty, the firſt to preſent him a Copy of the Repreſentation; and after that ſome others, to tender him a Copy of a Remonſtrance; upon both which, the Officers ſent were appointed to clear the ſence and Intention of any thing in either Paper, whereupon His Majeſty might make any queſtion. Since then there have alſo been ſome Officers at ſeveral times ſent to His Majeſty, about his remove from Hatfield, to diſſuade, if poſſibly, from Windſor, or any place ſo near London, to ſome place of further diſtance, anſwerable to what we had deſired of the Parliament. In all which Addreſſes to His Majeſty, we care not who knows what hath been ſaid or done; for as we have nothing to bargain for or ask, either from His Majeſty or the Parliament, for advantage of our ſelves, or any particular Party or Intereſt of our own, ſo in all theſe Addreſſes to His Majeſty, we have utterly diſclaimed and diſavowed any ſuch thing; but the only intent and effect of thoſe our Addreſſes hath been, to deſire His Majeſty's free Concurrence with the Parliament, for eſtabliſhing and ſecuring the common Rights and Liberties, and ſettling the Peace of the Kingdom, and to aſſure him, (that the Publick being ſo provided for, with ſuch His Majeſty's Concurrence) it is fully agreeable to our Principles; and we ſhould be deſirous and endeavour, that (with and in ſuch ſettling of the Publick) the Rights of His Majeſty's Royal Family ſhould be alſo provided for, ſo as a laſting Peace and Agreement might be ſettled in this Nation; and that as we had publickly declared for the ſame in general Terms, ſo if things come to a way of ſettlement, we ſhould not be wanting (in our Spheres) to own that general deſire, in any Particulars of natural or civil Rights to His Majeſty's Perſon or Family, which might not prejudice, or again endanger the Publick; and in the mean time, that His Majeſty ſhould find all perſonal Civilities and Reſpects from us, with all reaſonable freedom that might ſtand with ſafety, and with the Truſt or Charge lying upon us concerning his Perſon.

You have here the utmoſt Sum of what hath paſſed from us to His Majeſty, and we could wiſh all Men did rightly underſtand (without miſrepreſentation) every particular wherein (as we know nothing not agreeable to Reaſon, Juſtice, Honeſty, or Conſcience, ſo) we thought our ſelves concerned the rather to ſay and do as we have towards His Majeſty, ſince he came within our Quarters, becauſe of thoſe common Prejudices ſuggeſted againſt us, as if we were utter Enemies to Monarchy, and all Civil Order or Government. And for that Particular of the Duke of Richmond, and the two Chaplains lately permitted to attend His Majeſty, it was not done without much reluctancy, becauſe therein we doubted we might be miſunderſtood by the Kingdom's beſt Friends.

But upon His Majeſty's continuing importunity for it (as a thing very nearly concerning his inward and outward Contentment, and conceiving thoſe Perſons ſuch (as we hoped) would not do ill Offices to prejudice the peace of the Kingdom, we did give way to it, and the Perſons, before they came, had notice of permiſſion. And as we then thought, ſo we ſtill do think, that to allow him ſome ſuch Company of Perſons leaſt dangerous, whom former Acquaintance may make him take pleaſure in, and the allowance of ſome ſuch Chaplains of his own, are things both reaſonable and juſt; and the debarring of that liberty in the latter, we doubt, will but make him more prejudiced againſt other Miniſters.

In general, we humbly conceive, that to avoid all harſhneſs, and afford all kind uſage to His Majeſty's Perſon, in things conſiſting with the peace and ſafety of the Kingdom, is the moſt Chriſtian, honourable and prudent way: And in all things (as the Repreſentation and Remonſtrance of the Army doth expreſs) we think that tender, equitable, and moderate Dealing, both towards His Majeſty, his Royal Family, and his late Party (ſo far as may ſtand with ſafety to the Kingdom, and ſecurity to our common Rights and Liberties, is the moſt hopeful courſe to take away the Seeds of War, or future Feuds amongſt us for Poſterity, and to procure a laſting Peace and Agreement in this now diſtracted Nation; to the effecting and ſetling whereof (with a ſecure Proviſion firſt to be made for the common Rights and Liberties of the Kingdom, and a due care to preſerve and propagate the Goſpel of Truth and Peace amongſt us) we ſhall hope, that neither the Parliament, nor His Majeſty, will be wanting. And if God ſhall ſee it good to make us any way Inſtrumental thereunto, or that we may otherwiſe ſee the ſame accompliſh'd, we ſhall then think our ſelves indeed diſcharged from the publick Engagements, we have been called out unto, more clearly and effectually then (before ſuch things were ſetled) we could have thought our ſelves to be, and to demonſtrate our clearneſs from ſeeking Self advantages in what we did, we ſhall henceforth account it our greateſt happineſs and honour (if God ſee it good) to be diſingaged and diſmiſs'd, not only from our Military Charges, but from all other Matters of Power or Publick Employment whatſoever.

I have in theſe things ſpoke not in my own Name alone, but in the Name (becauſe I find it to be the clear ſence of the generality, or at the leaſt of the moſt conſiderable part) of the Army; and I am confident, you and the Kingdom will never find it otherwiſe. I ſhall leave it to your favourable Conſtruction, and commit all to the Goodneſs of God for an happy Iſſue. I remain your humble Servant,

Reading, July 8. 1647.

Tho. Fairfax.

Ordered, that the Charge of the Army ſhall be debated to Morrow Morning the firſt buſineſs, and nothing to Intervene.

Saturday July 10. An Ordinance paſſed both Houſes for diſbanding Soldiers, and others pretending to be reduced Officers and Soldiers, to depart the Lines of Communication by the 15*th.* of July next, and that they ſhall not return to London within the ſpace of two Months, and the execution of the ſaid Ordinance was referred to the Committee of Militia of London.

Reduced Officers and Soldiers to depart the City.

The Houſe had debate concerning ſome late Tumultuous Meetings in London, and declared againſt all ſuch unlawful Meetings, giving alſo power to the Committee of the Militia of London, to ſuppreſs all ſuch Meetings, upon pretence of Liſting or otherwiſe, and commit ſuch of them as they ſhall think fit.

Tumultuous Meetings and Liſtings.

A further Order was made, that no Officer of War or Soldiers ſhould come within the Lines of Communication, other than thoſe that are already in, upon pretence of ſharing in the Money lately ordered for Officers and Soldiers Sheriffs of London and Army.

The Sheriffs of London with certain of the common Council attending the Houſe this Day, acquainted them with a Letter they had received from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, concerning the Proceedings of the Treaty with the Army, (ſince Printed) which was read, and the Houſe gave them Thanks for communicating the ſame to them.

The Houſe this Day again read the particular Charge againſt the Eleven Members, and had a large debate thereupon, Forenoon and Afternoon, but came to no concluſion, referring the further Debate till Monday next.

A Petition by Colonel Maſſey, and a Certificate from the Committee of Accompts, of the Arrears due unto Colonel Maſſey, were read and debated, and thereupon the Houſe ordered him 2000 l. as part of his Arrears out of Weavers Hall and Goldſmiths Hall.

The King is ſtill at the Lord Cravens Houſe by Cauſum, and the Head Quarters of his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax's Army ſtill at Reading.

Monday July 12. The Houſe of Commons (as was ordered) further proceeded in the debate of the particular Charge againſt the Eleven Members, and upon the reſult of all, they voted it a Charge, and that the ſaid Eleven Members ſhould give in their anſwer thereunto by Monday next, at which time the Houſe will conſider of putting the ſame into ſome ſpeedy way of tryal, as is deſired.

Council appointed for the 11 Members.

The Houſe ordered that Maſter Chute, Mr Pryn, Maſter Glover, Mr. Hale, ſhall be Council for the accuſed Eleven Members of the Houſe, that were included in the late Votes of adhereing to the Kings Party, were ordered to preſent their Caſes to the Houſe on this Day; but by reaſon of other extraordinary Occaſions the Houſe ordered the Caſes of thoſe Members ſhould be read and debated on to Morrow Morning.

Iron Chain.

It was referred to the Committe of the Army, to examine why there was not a Chain put upon the 200000 l. at Weavers-Hall, as there was upon the 200000 l. raiſed for the Scots.

The Houſe of Peers ſent a Meſſuage to the Commons, and therewith a Letter from His Majeſty to the Duke of York, Intimating His Majeſties Deſires to ſee His Children, which their Lordſhips thought fit, did condeſcend unto, deſiring the Commons Concurrence, His Majeſties Letters was read in the Commons Houſe, and is as follows.

The Kings Letter to the Duke of York.

JAMES, CAUSAM, 4 July, 1647.

I Am in hope that you may be permitted, with your Brother and Siſter, to come to ſome place betwixt this and London, Where I may ſee you, to this End therefore I command you to ask leave of the two Houſes, to make a Journey (if it may be) for a Night or two, but rather than not to ſee you, I will be content to come to ſome convenient place to Dine, and go back at Night: And foreſeeing the fear of your being within the power of the Army, as I am, may be objected to hinder this my deſire, I have full aſſurance from Sir Thomas Fairfax, and the Chief Officers, That there will be no Interruption or Impediment made by them for your return, how and when you pleaſe. So God bleſs you.

Your Loving Father,

CHARLES R.

Send me word as ſoon as you can,
of the time and place where I
ſhall have the Contentment of ſeeing you, your Brother and Siſter.

The Kings Children to go to the King.

The Commons upon Debate of this Letter, and what was propoſed by the General in a Letter the laſt Week concerning the ſame, Voted and agreed upon by both Houſes, that His Highneſs the Duke of York, and the reſt of the Kings Children, ſhall have leave to go to His Majeſty, and continue with him for two Days, and then return, and the Earl of Northumberland to go with them, and take care of them.

Clifford's Tower.

The Lord-Mayor of York ſhall have the Care, Charge, and Cuſtody of Clifford's-Tower, in York.

Reduced Officers.

A Petition was this Day preſented to the Houſe, in the name of many reduced Officers who had not received any part of their Arrears, but nothing done upon it.

Private Liſtings.

The Committee appointed formerly to conſider of Private liſting of Forces in London, was ordered to meet this Afternoon, and to ſend for one Farr and Naſſe, and examine them throughly.

Tumults.

The Committee for drawing an Ordinance to prohibit all riotous and tumultuous Meetings, were ordered preſently to withdraw, and to bring in the Ordinance with all ſpeed, that ſo Tumults may be prevented for the future.

Mutiny in Ireland.

To ſpeak a little of the ſad Subject of Ireland, by Letters from Dublin, it is certified, That the Soldiers there (for want of Money) have been very Mutinous: And a Mutiny lately by ſome of Colonel Kinaſton's Men proceeded ſo high as to endanger Dublin, but the Mutineers, through the vigilancy of the Governour Colonel Jones, (who himſelf nearly eſcaped a Shot) were at laſt appeaſed, vowed Oblivion, and promiſed amendment, upon which they were again received into Favour; and upon their ſubmiſſive Petition their particular Grievances were referred to a Court-Marſhal.

Demanding Advance and Arrears.

The Soldiers of Sir John Burlaſſe's new Model Regiment fell into a general Mutiny in the Field, and ſent a Petition demanding Advance-Money and Arrears, &c. by a Drum, but Colonel Jones returned Anſwer, That he having ſent their Petition to the Commiſſioners, did let them know, that for pity they were taken in the Service, that there was no need of them, and if they did not immediately depart peaceably to their Quarters, that Regiment ſhould be disbanded, and they proceeded againſt according to their Demerits. This ſo ſtartled them, that they preſently march'd home in order.

Regiments reduced in Ireland.

The eleven Regiments of Foot, of the old Army, are reduced into ſeven, viz. the Earl of Kildare, Lord Moors, Sir Henry Tichburne, Sir John Burlaſſe, Colonel Willoughby, Colonel Bayley, and Colonel Flower, in all about four thouſand. The Horſe are not yet reduced, but will be ſuddenly.

A Defeat given to the Garriſon of Trim.

An unhappy Diſaſter hath lately befallen the Garriſon of Trim; four Troops of the Rebels having the opportunity of a Fog, and the advantage of a ſleepy Centinel, early in the Morning ſwept away forty Horſe of honeſt Captain Hunt's Troop, and above eighty Head of Cattel from under the Walls of Trim. The Governour, Colonel Fenwick, was abſent on buſineſs, ſo that there's the end of a very faithful Troop, if not recruited with Horſe from England, which will be difficult. But to recompence this Loſs, Colonel Conway and Colonel Trevor, of Haringford, having joined their Forces on a deſign againſt the Garriſon of Charlemont, had ſuch good Succeſs, that beſides killing divers, they brought away eight hundred Cattel, and two hundred Horſes, many being ſerviceable Horſes, which hath almoſt undone that Garriſon; ſo that if a reaſonable number marched to that Place, they might have it for asking; and a Place which is the only Garriſon or Place of Strength that can give a pretence of continuing any Forces in Ulſter.

The Ambuſcade routed, and good Plunder.

A Troop of Colonel Coote's Horſe, with Ten of Captain Moor's Troop, having notice of an Ambuſcado of Rebels near the Garriſon of Plare, fell upon them, routed them, killed ten in the execution, and took ſixteen Horſe, and had like to have entered their Garriſon with them, which was Welden-Caſtle, from whence they brought ſixty Cows, and Garrons beſides.

A Defeat given to Owen Roe Neale.

June the 22*d*. Colonel Chudley Coote marched out of Drogheda with five hundred Horſe and Foot, to the City of Cavin, and by the break of Day, on Monday Morning, the one and twentieth fell into Owen Roe O Neale's Quarters. Of the Ulſter Men took two of the Ryly's Priſoners, and one Mr. Dawley, being Gentlemen of very good Note, and leading Men amongſt the Rebels, killed twenty five, for they ſtood not one quarter of an Hour, but run into the Bogs, took fourteen Troop Horſes, five hundred Cows, one thouſand Sheep, and two hundred and fifty Plough-Horſes. This is the third piece of Service his Regiment hath done.

Intelligence from Scotland.

From Scotland Letters tell us, There have been great endeavours to raiſe Forces to come into this Kingdom, and at Edinburgh ſeveral Meetings have been of the Eſtates, where it was debated, and once all Night, what ſhould be done by that Nation, as to the Affairs of England, but no material thing was determined, only that in caſe an Army ſhould be raiſed, that David Leſhly ſhould be General; but as to the raiſing of an Army, the difficulties to be got over were too many, and ſo nothing done except private Liſtings.

Tueſday, July 13. 1647. This was the firſt Day of Relaxation (according to Ordinance of Parliament) for Scholars and Apprentices; and the Shops, for the moſt part, were ſhut up throughout the City.

Here follows the Petition of many hundred Young-Men and Apprentices of the City, to the Houſe of Commons, viz.

The Humble Petition of many Thouſands of Young-men and Apprentices of the City of London, to the High and Honourable the Knights, Citizens, and Burgeſſes in the Supream Court of Parliament aſſembled, preſented the 13*th. of* July 1647.

To the High and Honourable the Knights, Citizens, and Burgeſſes in the Supream Court of Parliament aſſembled.

The Petition of divers Young-men and Apprentices of the City of London.

Humbly Sheweth,

THat whereas upon the firſt of March laſt paſt, your Petitioners preſented (to this Honourable Houſe) an humble Petition ſubſcribed with many thouſand Hands, containing many things of publick Concernment, both in relation to the Kingdom in general, and your Petitioners in particular, as may appear by a Copy of the ſame hereunto annexed; at the reading of which, your Honours were pleaſed to promiſe the taking the ſame into ſerious Conſideration, in convenient time. In hopes of which your Petitioners have, with all Humility and Modeſty, according to our Duty, waited ever ſince for the accompliſhment of the ſame, forbearing all clamorous and tumultuous Conventions, whereby your Honours might in the leaſt have been diſturbed in the quiet and peaceable proſecution of your weighty Affairs. And we cannot but with all Thankfulneſs acknowledge what you have already acted towards the ſatisfaction of our juſt Deſires in part; but finding to the great Grief of our Hearts, that in matter of greateſt Concernment, inſtead of hoped Redreſs, our heavy Grievances are increaſed, by the late Ejection of Men of known Fidelity out of their ſeveral Offices in the City Regiment of Trained Bands and Auxiliaries, to the great Grief of moſt honeſt Men, who have been Eye-witneſſes of their Faithfulneſs and Forwardneſs in the diſcharge of their ſeveral Truſts, and without any Crime laid againſt them, ſo much as to give a pretended Ground of this their unjuſt expulſe. Likewiſe inſtead of compoſure of Differences, we find that encouragement is given to Men of turbulent and ſeditious Spirits, to ſtir up Diviſions, by rendring thoſe that concur not with them in every Punctilio, (in point of Judgment) as Men unworthy to enjoy their Birthrights, Priviledges, or Subſiſtance in the Kingdom, notwithſtanding they have given never ſo eminent Teſtimony of their ſincere Affections to the Common-good, whereby thoſe too officious Incendiaries ſeem more to drive at their particular Deſigns, than the conſervation of Peace and Unity in the Commonwealth: And hereby, together with their late induſtriouſneſs, in ſtriving to exaſperate the City againſt the Army, have endeavoured, what in them was, to embroil the Kingdom in a ſecond War, moſt dreadful to all well-minded People to think of: Neither is it the leaſt of our Grief to remember the late abuſe of the Authority of this Houſe, by the too great influence of ſome Arbitrary Spirits, in the late abuſing and ſlighting Petitioners, contrary to their former Declaration, touching the Liberty of the Subject, the very foundation of which was by this means moſt miſerably ſhaken: Nor can we be unſenſible of the Miſery ſome Free born Subjects yet undergoes, by being detained in Priſon from time to time, without being brought to a legal Tryal, notwithſtanding their ſeveral Appeals to this Honourable Court. Upon theſe and other preſſing Conſiderations, we aſſume the boldneſs once more to preſent theſe our enſuing Requeſts to this Honourable Houſe.

Firſt, That you will be pleaſed, with all convenient ſpeed, according to your Promiſe, to take the ſeveral Heads of our former Petition into ſerious Conſideration.

Secondly, That your Authority ſo apparently abuſed, contrary to Right and Equity, by thoſe that have of late effected the Ejection of Men of known Fidelity and Account out of Places of ſo important Truſt, may be forthwith redeemed out of their hands; and that thoſe that have been ſo unreaſonably expulſed, may be again reſtored to their Places, till ſufficient ground may be made apparent to the contrary.

Thirdly, We further pray, That you will be pleaſed to declare againſt all manner of Invectives of the Clergy, or others, tending to the aggravation of Differences amongſt peaceable Spirits.

Fourthly, And that thoſe Priſoners who have appealed to this Honourable Court for Juſtice, may be forthwith put into a way of impartial Tryal.

And Laſtly, That the ſum of all your Endeavours may tend to the ſweet Compoſure of Differences on all ſides, ſo far as it may be congruent to the Rules of Piety and Equity.

And your Petitioners ſhall ever pray, &c.

This Petition was read in the Commons Houſe, and thereupon, It was ordered, That Sir John Danvers, Alderman Atkins, and Colonel Ven, do acquaint the Petitioners, That the Houſe is at this time upon the Conſideration of ſettling the Peace and great Affairs of the Kingdom, and that they will conſider of it in convenient time.

Which the above-named Members did accordingly, and withal declared, That the Houſe did with Thankfulneſs take notice of the civil and modeſt behaviour of the Petitioners in the delivery of their ſaid Petition.

Another Petition was likewiſe talked of to be preſented from another party of Apprentices of the City, ſtiled, The Petition of divers Young-men and Apprentices of the City of London, which is as followeth, viz.

To the High and Honourable the Knights, Citizens, and Burgeſſes in the Supream Court of Parliament aſſembled.

The Petition of divers Young-men and Apprentices of the City of London.

Humbly Sheweth,

THat out of the grounded Confidence we have of the readineſs of this Honourable Houſe to hear and repair the Grievances of all thoſe for whoſe welfare you are choſen and betruſted to take care and provide; and being encouraged unto the ſame by ſeveral good Ordinances and Declarations of your own to that purpoſe.

We whoſe Names are hereunto annexed, although the meaneſt Members of this great Common wealth, yet having by Birthright a right of Subſiſtence here, conceived our ſelves (in our proportion) to have as real an Intereſt in the Kingdom's Enjoyments, as thoſe who in reſpect of Place or other Accidents are above us. As alſo many of us, having under the direction of your Honours grave Counſel and Guidance, freely adventured our Lives for the preſervation of our Native Rights, and the juſt Priviledges of our dear Country againſt the publick Violaters of the ſame. Upon theſe and other ſerious Grounds, we are bold at this time to make our humble Addreſſes to the Honourable and Supream Court of Judicature (the only Refuge, under God, we have to fly to.) And in the firſt place, we cannot but with all Thankfulneſs take notice of the unwearied Pains, together with many great and almoſt intolerable Difficulties by you undergone in the faithful diſcharge of your Truſt, in bringing about the eſtabliſhment of a well-grounded Peace; the perfection of which (in relation to the common Enemy) ſeems now, by the Bleſſing of God, to be brought near to a wiſhed Period: Yet the conſummation of this Work being (as it were) the Crown of all your Labours, we humbly conceive it may deſervedly challenge from you a more than ordinary reſpect, which we doubt not but that your grave Wiſdoms are very ſenſible of; yet (Noble Senators) let it ſeem no preſumption, if we your poor Petitioners, in all Humility, make known the grounds of ſome Fears and Jealouſies to us apparent in that particular. And thoſe are (among other great Grievances) chiefly derived from the preſent ſenſe we have of the too much prevailing of that Party, who have in the late Wars declared themſelves diſaffected to the peace and welfare of the Kingdom, who now ſeem to be in hopes of obtaining that by Policy which they have not been able to do by force; cunningly contriving to aggravate and increaſe Differences between the well affected Party, and ſtriving to bring an Odium upon all good Men, under the diſtinctions of ſeveral Terms of Obloquy and Diſgrace, by ſuch ſubtle endeavours labouring to avert the edge of Juſtice from themſelves (who come deſervedly under the ſtroke of it) and to turn it upon thoſe who are moſt innocent; ſtrongly endeavouring (and have already effected it in part) to juſtle all honeſt, faithful, well-affected Men out of Places of Truſt, Office, and Authority, and to put in Neuters, Ambodexters, or Perſons apparently diſaffected: By all theſe means together, with the advantage of the Kingdom's preſent unſettledneſs, they ſeem to be in a more than probable expectation of getting the Reins once more into their own hands, to the evident endangering of the Commonwealths ſpeedy Ruin, and to the great Grief of your poor Petitioners, and all others who deſire the Peace and Safety of this diſtracted Kingdom. And further we are bold to make known, (as more particularly relating to the condition of your Petitioners) That whereas we at our being made Free of the City, are enjoined by Oath to maintain the Liberties and Priviledges of the ſame City, which notwithſtanding we are in a great meaſure diſabled to do, by the intruſion of divers illegal and undue Cuſtoms and Monopolies (partly about the election and removal of our Magiſtrates) crept in, to the diminution of the ancient Liberties of this famous City, whoſe juſt Immunities, we are confident, your Honours have been, and are very tender of.

Wherefore your Petitioners humbly pray, that this Honourable Houſe taking into conſideration the Premiſſes, would be pleaſed, by your mature Prudence and Care, to endeavour (as much as poſſibly you can) to take away all occaſions of Breaches between the well-affected Party: And that ſuch as have in theſe late Times of Trouble (by adventuring their Lives or otherwiſe) approved themſelves faithful to their Country's common Good, may, without reſpect to Differences, no way prejudicial to the Common-wealth, impartially enjoy their Birthright Priviledges, and be equally capable with others of the freedom to officiate in Places of Truſt, which they are or ſhall be choſen unto. And on the contrary, that all thoſe who have diſfranchiſed themſelves, by traiterouſly adhereing to the Enemy, may be diſabled from bearing Office, or voting in the election of Officers in the Common-wealth. And we further crave, (with ſubmiſſion to your Honours grave Approvements) that in regard of the Kingdom's preſent unſettledneſs, it may not be left deſtitute of a truſty and ſufficient Guard to ſecure it from Inteſtine Broils and Foreign Invaſion. And as for your Petitioners more particular Grievances, as they are Members of this City, we humbly pray, That you would be pleaſed, by your Authority, ſo to provide, that we (as we are or ſhall be capable of it) may be enabled to enjoy the benefit of all ancient Charters and Grants, made and confirmed by ſeveral Acts of Parliament, for the enlargment of our Freedoms and Priviledges; and that whatſoever hath been illegally intruded, may be taken away and made void. And laſtly, As ſome have already deſired, we likewiſe pray, That (if ſo ſmall a thing may be worthy the intention of this Grave and Honourable Aſſembly) you would be pleaſed to appoint ſome time of lawful Recreations for Servants, as your Wiſdoms ſhall think fit.

And your Petitioners, as they have many of them already (according to their Duty) freely adventured their Lives, and whatſoever was dear to them for the common Safety of their Country, ſo they ſtill profeſs their readineſs to give their beſt aſſiſtance to the ſuppreſſing all arbitrary and tyranical Power, and to the upholding the fundamental Rights and Liberties of free-born Engliſh Men, and the juſt Priviledges of this Honourable Houſe, against all that ſhall ſet themſelves in oppoſition of the ſame.

And be ever bound to pray, &c.

Whatſoever is contained in the Petition, the Subſcribers will be ready to make good by particular Inſtances, when they ſhall be lawfully called to the ſame.

Garriſons.

A Report was this Day made to the Houſe of Commons, concerning the Garriſons to be continued and diſmantled in this Kingdom. And they

The Houſe of Lords likewiſe ſent the Petition of the Earl of Kildare to the Houſe of Commons; and for their Concurrence to an Order for advancing Monies to his Lordſhip.

Not proper for the Lords to meddle with Money.

The Houſe of Commons ordered, that in reſpect their Lordſhips had paſt an Order for Monies (which the Houſe of Commons conceiving was no ways proper for their Lordſhips to intermeddle with) they ordered, that the ſaid Petition ſhould be rejected: But the next Order was for advancing 200*l.* to His Lordſhip.

Six of the Petitioners being at the Door of the Houſe of Peers, were all immediately called up to the Bar, where one of them, in the name of the Subſcribers, ſpake as followeth,

My Lords,

If it may pleaſe this Honourable Houſe, we are commanded by the Young-Men and Apprentices of the City of London, to preſent your Honours with this their humble Petition, being in purſuance of their Covenant with God which is upon them, humbly craving your charitable Conſtructions; their Ends being ſingle, for the Glory of God, the peace of the Kingdom, and vindication of the Parliament.

To the Right Honourable the Lords in the High Court of Parliament aſſembled.

The Humble Petition of divers well-affected Young-Men and Apprentices of the City of London, &c.

Humbly Sheweth,

That your Petitioners have, with the forwardeſt, been ever ready in this common Cauſe of Religion, Laws, and Liberties, to adventure their Lives for the preſervation thereof, which we hoped, after ſo much expence of Blood, and (by God's Providence) ſuch happy ſucceſs of your Armies, would have been ſettled to us and our Poſterities in a laſting Peace; yet, to the Grief of our Hearts, your Petitioners cannot but take notice, how in theſe unhappy Times of Diſtraction, divers diſcontented Perſons labour to ſow new Seeds of Diſcord and Diviſions among us, whereby Incendiaries and Malignants are encouraged, your faithfulleſt Friends diſcountenanced, the Priviledges of Parliament violated, Magiſtracy oppoſed, the Publick Worſhip of God ſlighted, and the Liberties and Properties of the Subject much endangered: All which your Petitioners laying ſadly to Heart, and having more before their Eyes the Glory of God, and the happineſs of His Majeſty's Kingdoms, than their own private Intereſts (which we ſhall readily Sacrifice for the Publick) do in all Humility moſt humbly pray,

1. That according to our ſolemn League and Covenant, His Majeſty's Royal Perſon may be defended; and that His juſt Power and Greatneſs (in the preſervation and defence of the true Religion and Liberties of the Kingdoms) may be eſtabliſhed.

2. That the Rights and Priviledges of Parliament may be vindicated, and the lawful Liberties and Property of the Subjects preſerved and maintained.

3. That the Government of the Church may be ſpeedily ſettled, Conventicles (the Seminaries of Separation) ſuppreſs'd, and a toleration of licentious Liberty effectually declared againſt.

4. That all Incendiaries, Malignants, and evil Inſtruments, which hinder the Reformation of Religion, dividing the King from his People, or one of his Kingdoms from another, or make any Faction or Parties among the People (contrary to the ſolemn League and Covenant) may be brought to publick Tryal, and receive condign Puniſhment.

5. That all Obſtructions in the ordinary Courts of Juſtice may be removed, and the inſufferable abuſe of Committees and their Officers conſidered.

6. That the Arrears of your Soldiery of this Kingdom may be ſatisfied, and ſecurity granted for their further Indemnity, for all Acts done by them, Tempore & loco belli.

7. That the Army now on foot may be disbanded, or otherwiſe diſpoſed of, that ſo this almoſt exhauſted Kingdom may be freed from thoſe many grievous Taxes and Oppreſſions it now groans under.

8. And whereas there have been, and ſtill are, great Abuſes, and inſufferable Injuries done to your Petitioners by the ſale of Freedoms, and Foreigners intruding into the Suburbs and Places near adjacent to this City, whereby your Petitioners are much diſcouraged in their Service, the Free-Men of this City prejudiced, and the Franchiſes and Liberties thereof infringed. We therefore humbly beſeech this Honourable Aſſembly to reſolve on ſome courſe (as in your Wiſdom ſhall think fit) as well for the expulſion of ſuch as have ſo unduly crept in amongſt us, as for the future prevention of the like inſufferable Injuries that may redound to your Petitioners hereafter.

And your Petitioners being always ready to adventure their Lives and Fortunes for your Defence and Preſervation, ſhall ever pray, &c.

Die Mercurii 14. Julii 1647.

The Anſwer of the Houſe of Peers was thus:

Members preſent their own Caſes.

Thurſday, July 15. 1647. The Houſe of Commons debated the Repreſentation of the Members preſented the Day before, upon the Votes, how far they had Correſpondency with the King, and pleading how they were forced by the power of the King's Party upon them to do what they did. The Houſe made an entrance herein, referred the buſineſs to a Committee, for whom the Houſe voted Inſtructions for their proceeding therein.

Members of the Houſe Preſent their Caſe.

Upon reading the Caſes preſented by divers Members, it was ordered, That the Caſe of Sir Charles Egerton, be referred to the Committee where Mr. Corbet hath the Chair, to confer with and examine him, and all Circumſtances upon the ſaid Caſe. The Houſe declared, That all ſuch Members of this Houſe as have preſented their Caſes, and as ſhall within four Days preſent their Caſes, in reference to the Votes concerning ſuch Members as are not to ſit in the Houſe, ſhall not incur any further Danger or Penalty, other than their being diſabled to ſit this Parliament.

That ſuch of their Members as had liberty to preſent their Caſes in twenty Days time, and do accordingly, ſhall incur no other Danger or Penalty, than being diſabled to ſit during this Parliament.

That the ſtate of the ſeveral Caſes of John Doyly, and Bennet Hoskins, Eſq; Sir Philip Percival, Tho. Cholmly, and Tho. Davis, Eſq; Members, were all of them read, and referred to the ſame Committee.

His Excellency's Letter is as followeth.

Mr. Speaker,

H*Aving this Day received theſe encloſed Papers from the Northern Forces, under Colonel General* Poyntz*'s Command, with ſome other Papers from Colonel* Thornhagh*'s Regiment, (which is already marcht up to* Bucks*) wherein they expreſs their Reſolutions to aſſociate themſelves with this Army, for the more ſpeedy and happy effecting a true, laſting, and well grounded Peace, to the King, Parliament, and Kingdom, and in Order to that, have delayed* Obedience to the Command of many of their Officers, who for ſome Reaſons beſt known to themſelves have refuſed to join with them in their juſt Deſires; and have alſo, as formerly, now again Petitioned me to exempt them from further Obedience to any other Command, then what may conduce for the obtaining of the juſt Deſires, and Eſtabliſhment of the Peace of the Kingdom, as in the incloſed Papers is more fully expreſt, and further deſiring to march up ſpeedily to the Army; all which being of ſo great Concernment to the Kingdom, and not well admitting of delay, I thought fit to repreſent unto you with ſpeed their ſeveral Papers and Deſires, that I might receive your Pleaſure concerning the things they deſire, and your Commands for their preſent Diſpoſal, to the end they may be the better kept in Diſcipline and Obedience, and ſuch Diſorders prevented, as by reaſon of their want of Officers, they may be ſubject to run into, and likewiſe to continue them in the North, leaſt by their Motion to the Army, they might draw to a greater concourſe and burthen of Soldiers Quarters upon theſe Parts, than they will be well able to bear, and thereby the Diſaffected in thoſe Parts, (during their abſence) may take that advantage to make Inſurrections or any Diſturbance of the Peace there: For the Prevention whereof and Diſpoſition of the whole, as well in order to the Peace of the Kingdom, as ſpeedy Relief of Ireland*, I ſhall humbly make bold to Offer my Opinion, that ſince there are many ſeveral diſtinct, and through (theſe late Diſtractions) diſjoyned Forces within this Kingdom, which were ſufficient, together with this Army (be-* ing United and well managed) both to preſerve the Peace of this Kingdom, and give preſent Releif to Ireland (without putting the Kingdom to the Charge of raiſing new Forces at preſent for that Service) that the Parliament would ſpeedily put all the Force under one, and the ſame Command, Diſcipline, and equal Eſtabliſhment for future pay and maintainance, which being done, it would give much Encouragement to ſome of the Forces, that may be ſpared out of all the Forces mentioned, from England to go more cheerfully into Ireland, and if with this there were ſome preſent Courſe taken to provide for Arrears, for ſuch Forces as might be ſpared for Ireland, there might in probability be an effectual Relief ſent over into Ireland before this Summer be quite ſpent: All which I humbly tender to your Conſideration, and deſire your ſpeedy Anſwer, that no time may be loſt in ſo good and neceſſary a Work, both for the quiet of this Kingdom, and Releif of Ireland; wherein none ſhall be more ready to expreſs their forwardneſs, than

Your moſt Humble Servant,
Thomas Fairfax

July 15. 1647.

A Declaration and Repreſentation from the Forces of the Northern Aſſociation to his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, and by him preſented to the Parliament.

A Declaration of the free Conſent and Coherence of the Soldiers in the Northern Aſſociation, with the Army now under the Command of his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax.

WHereas there hath been an Expreſs of the real and Honourable intentions and Grounds off and from the Army manifeſted, (in moſt juſt and honeſt Terms to the Houſes of Parliament and Kingdom) cleering to every indifferent and ſound judgment the cauſe of their Proceedings, for the Kingdom, and in it their own Dues, and interreſted ſatiſfactions: We having by Gods Providence, the opportunity to ſhew our Affections no leſs ready and inclinable to maintain and confirm the lawful obtaining of our Right and Juſt Priviledges, by themſelves ſo declared to be: We therefore declare as in Duty bound, for the Mercies we have received from God, and the Faithful Service we owe to the Kingdom, to joyn and aſſociate our ſelves with the Southern Army, under the Command of his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, for the ſpeedy and happy effecting a true, laſting, and well grounded Peace, wherein may conſiſt the Preheminence of all Honour and Welfare, both to the King, Parliament, and Kingdom, and that there may be no miſapprehenſions, as uſually publick Reſolutions and Reſolves are lyable unto at the firſt appearing, in the Eyes of Men unacquainted in the Buſineſs, and in the Eyes of thoſe (who being prepoſſeſſed of guilt cunningly oppoſe.) We further declare our ſelves free from any ſecret Intentions, in reference to the promotion of any particular Deſign, or our own particular Intereſts, but are abſolutely raiſed and moved to a neceſſary compliance with that Army, upon thoſe good and infallable Principles, which tendeth to the promotion and protection of Juſtice, and the Liberty of the Subject, as hitherto (by the management of the Affairs of ſo great Importance) have appeared; we ſhall no leſs endeavour to defend with our Lives and Eſtates, the lawful Deſigns of thoſe well affected Soldiers, then we would oppoſe a Forreign Invaſion, or prevent an indirect or unwarrantable War, our Warrant being the ſame for either, Nature or Law, and the Covenant binding thereto.

We ſhall therefore Proſecute the diſcovery of all Perſons Complotted and Combined againſt us, that we may keep our Friends and Nation free from any inforced Injury or prejudice whatſoever; eſpecially we giving to underſtand that we have not any Intentions to ſpill the Blood of any man, or to wrong them in their proper Goods, or intrench upon the Conſcience of any, our cheifeſt care being in this our Declaration and Intention at preſent and for the future, to provide for a Correſpondency with that Army, to live or die, rejoyce or ſuffer with them, as we are mutually engaged; our expectations

An. 1647. tions of Rewards being no other than the ſalving of thoſe Grievances Publiſhed from that Army (with our own) the Soldiers Honour and Livelihood repaired, their Services thankfully requited, and all corrupt Perſons in Authority in Courts of Judicature, and Offices of the Kingdom, expunged, and all ſuch ſeveral good Acts, as ſhall be for the preſent and future concernment of the Kingdom, eſtabliſhed, which as they are moſt Satisfactory to the generality, ſo we deſire not to require an addition of Redreſſes of any particular mans Wants or Sufferings whatſoever, but attend on the general buſineſs in hand, for the accompliſhment of the Army's, our own, and the well affected of the Kingdoms Deſires and juſt Demands, the neceſſity, Juſtice, and Sincerity whereof, we deſire to vindicate as our Lives.

Pontefract July 5. 1647.

The Humble Repreſentation of the Soldiers of the Northern Aſſociation, preſented firſt to his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, and to be by him preſented to the Honourable Houſes of Parliament.

1. THat the Honourable Houſes of Parliament would be pleaſed to look upon the Repreſentative deſire and grievances of his Excellencies Army, as our deſires and grievances, which we humbly deſire may be fully (not feignedly) granted and redreſſed.

2. That whereas the Parliament was pleaſed to declare againſt their juſt Deſires contained in their Repreſentations, and proceed to disband before redreſs of their Grievances; We humbly deſire that the Rerepreſentations of the aforeſaid Deſires, and Obſtruction of the juſt Satisfactions, their Deſires and Grievances being ours, may be brought forth to Legal Tryal.

3. That the Illegal impriſonment of ſeveral Officers, and the endeavours uſed by ſome to impriſon others for ſpeaking in the behalf of his Excellency's Army, and their juſt dues, may be repaired, and the Occaſioners thereof dealt with according to their Deſerts.

4. That thoſe who endeavoured to render his Excellency's Army odious by Aſperſions, and thereby to deprive them of that Honour which they have ſo dearly bought, and to incenſe the Kingdom and Soldiers againſt them, may be proceeded againſt according to juſtice.

5. That ſuch Proviſion may be made for better ſupply of us for the future; whereby we may be enabled to diſcharge our Quarters, that ſo we may not for neceſſary Food be beholding to the Parliaments Friends, who have ſpent their Eſtates in the Service, whoſe Preſervation is the thing we deſire, and in whoſe happineſs we rejoyce.

To his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax Captain General of all the Forces raiſed for the Parliament of England, Dominion of Wales.

The Humble Deſires of the Soldiers of the Northern Aſſociation.

Sheweth,

THat whereas your Excellency's Petitioners have, for ſome few years paſt, ſerved the Parliament and Kingdom in the late unnatural Wars, and having undergone the ſame with all cheerfulneſs, and readineſs, notwithſtanding the ſad diſcontentment, and the ſad ſufferings which we have undergone, being not at all thereby ſo diſcouraged as to manifeſt any viſible diſtemper, or unwillingneſs unto the aforeſaid Service; our Conditions being at preſent ſo uncertain, that we know not to whom to repair as, our Cheif Conductor, and by reaſon of the ſame we are expoſed to an incapacity of being made partakers of the fruits of our unwearied Travails and dangerous Services, out of the experience that we had of your Excellency's care for the Satisfaction and Preſervation both of Soldiers and Subjects, we are emboldened to preſent theſe as follows.

That your Excellency would be pleaſed to make our Satisfaction and Preſervation, ſervation, the Object of your Excellency's care, together with the Army at preſent under your Excellency's Command, and reſident with you.

That to the end we may be exempted from further Obedience to any other Command than what may conduce for the obtaining of our juſt Dues and Priviledges, the eſtabliſhing of the Peace of the Kingdom, and with which your Excellency's advice and approbation ſhall concur.

That your Excellency would be pleaſed to recommend this annexed Repreſentation of our Deſires to the Parliament, to prevent miſunderſtanding betwixt the Parliament and the Soldiers of this Kingdom, for the obtaining of their juſt Deſires, and putting an end to theſe preſent Diſtractions.

The Humble Petition of the Nottinghamſhire Horſe.

Sheweth,

THat although we the Regiment under the Command of our Honoured Colonel, Colonel Thornhagh, never had ſo much our own deſires as to ſerve under the Command of your Excellency in that your Gallant and Faithful Feild Army; yet having received a reſolution went to the juſtice of our Cauſe by your Excellency's Virtual preſence, in the Commiſſions of our Honoured Commanders, we may without vanity profeſs, that in our Orbs we have moved for the advancing and procuring this Kingdoms Peace and Liberty ſo cheerfully, that we cannot doubt your Excellency's Countenance and aſſiſtance, which we humbly Implore in our Humble Addreſſes to this Parliament; profeſſing that ſuch is our reſentment of the Injuries done unto you, as done unto our ſelves, neither will we hope to ſtand, if you fall, nor fear falling if you ſtand, when nothing is controverted, but the ſame for which we firſt engaged, and dare not recede from, (viz.) That the Priviledge of Parliament of Free-born Subjects, and Reformation of Charters and Common-Wealths: And as to the better affecting of theſe, the neceſſary and juſt vindication of the too much ſlighted Soldiery, amongſt which your humble Petitioners, who have from the beginning of our Engagements, which bears Date almoſt with the beginning of theſe Wars, ſerved the Parliament almoſt theſe five Years, and have not received for our Service paſt 6 s. per Week in Mony nor free Quarter, one Week with another, and that there is at this time due unto this Regiment 40000 l. and upwards, that we have not received above one Months pay; and having for our preſent accommodation and maintenance no other ſubſiſtence, then what a ſmall and Harraſſed County of Charity (which is Malignant) will afford in Meat and Drink: A ſlender Requital as we conceive for our loſs of Blood.

Our Humble Requeſt unto your Excellency is, that you will recommend our further Addreſſes unto the conſideration of the Honourable Houſes of Parliament, whereby we may obtain the Wages of our Blood, our Arrears, and ſuch preſent Maintenance, as firſt when we engaged under their Service were promiſed, and yet that we may not hereby be underſtood, to be unconcerned in, or diſengaged from the paſt or future neceſſity of the Army, in the plain and honeſt Proſecutions of their Propoſitions and Deſires in the late Declarations, and that we, according to our proportion of time and Arrears may be ſatisfied, as the Army ſhall be for their proportions.

The Humble Petition of the Nottinghamſhire Horſe &c.

Humbly ſheweth,

THat whereas we the Regiment under the Command of our Noble, and and ever Honoured Colonel Francis Thornlagh (a Member of the Houſe of Commons) have for the ſpace of 5 Years, or thereabouts, with faithfulneſs ſerved the Kingdom, by the Authority and Command of the Parliament, againſt theirs and the Kingdoms Enemies, having been according to our Employment acceſſaries to what ever hath been done, as to the dear purchaſing of Peace and Liberty to the Poor (yet Free-born) People of this Kingdom, and are notwithſtanding in arrears at the leaſt 40000 l. for the voluntary (yet conditional) Service, which with the Expence of ſome Blood we have performed, neither have we ever received our Monies, or free Quarter in a Sum (if the total of all was here remiſed, as might, computed, make every Week) worth 6 s. unto us, ſince we have born Arms; Our preſent Quality now being ſuch as renders us unable to ſubſiſt, or compel a Livelihood by any regular way of our poor exhauſted County; neither are we aſſured of the Wages of our Blood, our juſt, well deſerved and often promiſed Arrears.

We therefore humbly pray, for whatſoever ſhall be granted (in relation to the Soldiers and Peoples good) to that Faithful Army of Yours, under the Command of Sir Thomas Fairfax (who have been alike faithful to their Truſt) according to the proportions of their Arrears and time, and in the mean while, that ſuch pay, as in the New-Model was allowed to all, (but never paid to us) may be duly depoſited for our preſent Maintenance.

And we ſhall ever pray, &c.

Scots Declaration againſt the Army.

From Scotland tis certified, that the General Aſſembly are now Sitting; they have great Deſigns in hand, which a ſhort time will give to underſtand further of; a Grand Declaration is likewiſe drawing up by them concerning the Affairs in England, in relation to the King, Parliament, Kingdom, but againſt the Army.

Of the Affairs of Diſtreſſed Ireland, Letters this Day came out of Munſter, tell of ſeveral late Prizes got by our Forces from the Rebels, but the Complaint of want of Mony and Bread is very great; one of the Letters mention as followeth.

Good ſtore of Cattle, &c. taken from the Rebels in Ireland.

We had a Party ſent out the 24. of May, which returned the 25. with 600. Head of Cattle, Sheep, and Garrons. The 28. of May we ſent out another Party, which returned the 31. with 2000. and odd Cows and Oxen, and in Sheep and Garrons ſo many as made them up 6000. and odd. The third of June we ſent forth another Party, which returned the fifth, with about 600. Head of Cattle, beſides 1500. Sheep, which the Soldiers killed at their return; They alſo took in a place called Caſtle Thomas, while the laſt Party was abroad. We had a hundred Horſe to make good a Paſſage, which being careleſs, the Enemy drew ſome Musketeers through a Wood, between them and home, ſo their Horſe fell upon them in the Front, and the Musketeers in the Rear, and killed betwixt 30. and 40. of them. All our Mony is gone, and our Proviſion will not laſt paſt ſix or eight Days, ſo that except there come a freſh Supply out of England, in the mean time, I know not what the Soldiers will do for Bread, for Wheat is far dearer here than it is in England, and in many places not to be bought for Mony, and without Wheat to make Bisket, the Army will never be able to continue in the Feild. It is true the Lord Inchiqueen doth what lieth in him, but he wanteth Aſſiſtance. We are now forced to leave the Feild, and go to Garriſon for want of Wheat and Mony.

Yet want of Bread.

Youghall, July 1. 1647.

From

Dublin Caſtle deſigned to be betrayed.

From Dublin they write of a late Plot by ſome of the Popiſh Calvary to betray Dublin Caſtle, but was diſcovered July 13 at Night by an Intercepted Letter: Divers mentioned in the Letter to be the Cheif Actors herein, were taken into Cuſtody until the Buſineſs ſhould be fully examined. Preſton with all his Forces is marching up towards our Quarters, his expectations were great (its conceived) upon the deſign of Dublin Caſtle.

Owen Roe is with a great Force in Canought.

The Eleven Members offer freely to withdraw.

Tueſday, July 20. This Day Mr. Green, a Member of the Houſe of Commons, acquainted the Houſe that he had a Meſſage to deliver the Houſe of the Deſires of the Eleven Impeached Members, which the Houſe voted to receive, and to be read, which was as followeth, Whereas his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, and the Army do declare, that the proceeding upon particular Proofs to make good the Charge, will probably take up much time, and the preſent Affairs of the Kingdom, in relation to thoſe great matters propoſed by them, do (as they ſay) require a ſpeedy Conſideration, and that they propound, that thoſe greater and general Matters of the Kingdom be firſt conſidered of and ſettled: And in regard it is ſuppoſed, that the abſence of theſe Members will make way for the preſent more quiet Proceedings, to ſettle the perplexed Affairs of the Kingdom.

That they are ſo far from making any Interruption or Diſturbance to the proceeding upon, or Settlement of the general Affairs of the Kingdom, that they deſire,

1. That they may have leave to be abſent themſelves from the Houſe for the ſpace of ſix Months, to go about their particular Buſineſs.

2. That they may have liberty, or ſo many of them as ſhall deſire it, to go beyond the Seas, and have aſſes granted during that ſpace time.

3. That by that time the ſaid ſix Months ſhall be expired, they conceive, that the great and weighty Affairs, tending to the Peace and Settlement of the Kingdom, will be over, and the Houſe Judge it ſeaſonable to call them to a Tryal.

The Houſe debated their Deſires, and upon the whole paſſed theſe Votes following.

Votes concerning the Eleven Members.

1. That leave be given to Denzil Hollis, Eſq; Sir Philip Stapleton &c. for the ſpace of ſix Months, to be abſent from the Houſe, and to go into the Country, to follow their neceſſary occaſions of Buſineſs, as they ſhall think fit.

2. Secondly that Denzil Hollis, Sir Philip Stapleton, &c. or any of them, have leave to go beyond the Seas, provided, that they return to the Parliament within the ſpace of ſix Months after this preſent, to attend the Houſe upon the Buſineſs concerning the Charge brought into the Houſe (from Sir Thomas Fairfax and the Army) againſt them.

That Mr. Speaker grant Warrants to Denzil Hollis, Eſq; to Sir Philip Stapleton, &c. or any of them, that ſhall deſire to go beyond the Seas, and to return within ſix Months after this preſent time.

The Houſe was informed that there was a great Multitude of People

ple upon the Stairs coming up to the Doors of the Houſe, which kept a great Tumult there, to the Diſturbance of many of the Members of the Houſe: Ordered that the Guards attending the Houſe ſhould diſperſe theſe People, that the Serjeant at Arms do from the Houſe acquaint the rude Multitude, that it is the pleaſure of the Houſe, that they diſperſe and remove themſelves.

That 100 Halberds be brought into the Houſe.

That a 100 Halberds be brought into the Houſe for the Service thereof.

That the Militia be deſired, that the Captain of the Guards that come down to guard the Houſe, may have Directions conſtantly to ſuppreſs ſuch People, as come for the diſturbance of the Houſe.

That Colonel Web do come down daily, and ſee the Guards placed for the beſt advantage, and Service of the Houſe.

Letters this Day from the Parliament Commiſſioners in the Army came to the Houſe, and therewith ſome further Propoſals of the General and Counſel of War, which are as followeth.

Further Propoſals from the Army.

1. THat there be an effectual Declaration forthwith publiſhed to the whole Kingdom, againſt the inviting, bringing, or coming in of any Foreign Forces under any pretence whatſoever.

2. That the Army may be paid up equal with the Deſerters thereof, according to the late Votes in Parliament: And that the Army may forthwith be put in a conſtant courſe of Pay, that they may not be ſo Burthenſome and Oppreſſive to the Country; for the more ſpeedy performance whereof, we deſire that the Houſe of Peers would be pleaſed to Concur with the Deſires of the Houſe of Commons (ſo often propoſed to them) for the reviving the Committee of the Army, that ſo the Aſſeſments, and great Sums in Arrears, both in the City and elſewhere, may be by their Endeavours collected for the ſpeedy and neceſſary ſupply of the Army: And alſo that the Treaſurers, and the Committee at Weavers Hall, may be ſpeedily called to Account, in what manner, and by what Warrants, the two hundred hundred and thirty thouſand pounds, lately intruſted in their Hands, have been in ſo ſhort a time conſumed.

3. That the Militia of the City of London, and the Committee of the ſame, may conſiſt of ſuch Perſons, and ſpeedily be returned into thoſe Hands, who formerly, during the worſt of times, have therein given large Teſtimonies of their Fidelity to the Parliament and Kingdom, which, beſide the real Security it will be to the Parliament and Kingdom, in preventing of Dangers re-preparing towards a new War, would conduce ſo much to the removing of Jealouſies, and give ſuch ground of Confidence to the Army, as that we might the better diſpoſe of it to larger Quarters, in ſeveral Parts, for the eaſe of the Country.

4. According to, and in the purſuance of the particular mentioned under the fifth Head of the Repreſentation of the Army, We do earneſtly deſire, that all Perſons Impriſoned in England, or Dominion of Wales, not for Delinquency in relation to the late War, but for other Miſdemeanours, and whoſe Impriſonment is not by the Regulated Courſe of Law, but by order from either Houſes of Parliament (or of Committees flowing from them,) they be put into a ſpeedy, regular, and equitable way of Tryal, Or (if the neceſſity of Settling the general Affairs of the Kingdom admit not their preſent Tryal) then they may have preſent Liberty, upon reaſonable ſecurity for their appearance at a certain Day, to anſwer what ſhall be Charged againſt them in a Legal way; and that when they ſhall be Tryed, if they appear wrongfully, or unduly Impriſoned, they may have Reparation according to their Sufferings.

In particular, We deſire this may be done, in behalf of Lieutenant Colonel John Lilburn, Mr. Overton, and others (in their Condition) Impriſoned in and about London.

An. 1647.

A Letter to the Lord Mayor, Court of Aldermen, and Common Council of the City of London.

My Lord, and Gentlemen,

I*N the carrying on of the great Buſineſs of the Kingdom, towards a general and happy Settlement, it has been a fixed Principle with us, to make it our firſt Endeavours with the Parliament, that all things which threaten an Engagement of the Kingdom in a ſecond War, might be removed, before we could have a confident Expectation of a good Iſſue upon a Treaty with their Commiſſioners; which Courſe of ours, although it might have ſome appearance of delay, yet by Men that are zealous of the Kingdoms good, (we hope) no Endeavours will be judged unneceſſary, that may ſecure the Kingdom from the danger of any new Embroilments.*

We are now come thus far, that the moſt material Particulars which we have in preparation to propoſe, for the general Settlement of the Affairs of the Kingdom, have been Communicated to the Parliaments Commiſſioners, and, we hope, they are ſatisfied, that they contain in them things tending to a general Good, and to lay a hopeful Foundation for common Right and Freedom to the People of this Land for the future, and for a laſting Peace amongſt us: But before we can ſecurely intend, and without Interruption apply our ſelves unto the Proceedings and Diſpatch of the Treaty thereupon, we have delivered into the Hands of their Commiſſioners, the Paper which conſiſts of three Particulars, in the laſt whereof (which is the Militia of the Militia of the City) you being moſt immediately concerned, to the end you may ſee we would ask nothing which relates to you without giving you a juſt Account thereof, and all the poſſible ſatisfaction therein; we have alſo given a Copy thereof to your Commiſſioners, to be herewith ſent unto you: We ſhould not deſire this, or any thing of that Nature, were we not perſwaded that what we deſire is ſeaſonable, and for yours and the Kingdoms good and quiet; and we ſhould willingly have been ſilent (as to this) but conſidering the juſt Jealouſies which lie againſt ſome Perſons, now authorized in that power amongſt you, and thoſe attempts which have been made by ſome, who would have engaged your City to a new War, had not your Lordſhip and Court of Aldermen, and Common Council, by your Wiſdom prevented it, by getting thoſe Votes, which were paſſed by the Militia, made Null. We cannot but in a caſe of this Importance, but deal freely with you, in deſiring your Concurrence with ours to the Parliament, that the Militia may be changed into thoſe Hands, out of which it was taken; of whoſe Care and Fidelity to the Publick, there hath been ſo long and ſo large Experience, as few Ages have Paralleld; and if the Intereſt we have ſo long ſought for be ſtill the ſame, let it not ſeem ſtrange that we deſire, both of Parliament and City, that thoſe may be in Places of ſuch a Truſt, who have given the beſt Proof of their Courage and Conſtancy in Proſecution of the ſame.

Having thus far declared our ſelves with all Freedom and Cheerfulneſs to you, as we do not doubt of your good acceptance of our Intention therein; ſo we deſire your forwardneſs into a work ſo much tending to mutual Confidence, and to prevent the Deſigns of any, who would be glad to put Obſtructions in the way to a happy Concluſion, and envy nothing more than the continuance of a right Underſtanding between you and us.

Signed, By the appointment of his Excellency
Reading, July 19. Sir Thomas Fairfax, and his

May it pleaſe your Lordſhip,

W*E made a diſpatch unto you laſt Night very late by the Poſt, and gave you then a general Account of our Proceedings.*

And after the reading of the Propoſals mentioned in that diſpatch, had ſome Papers brought unto us, by Sir Hardreſs Waller, and other Officers, containing ſome Deſires of the Army, in order to their preſent Security, which Papers before they were tranſcribed, were ſent for back again.

We expect the return of them this Day, and ſhall thereupon tranſmit them to your Lordſhip with all ſpeed.

Statutes.

Whereas divers Perſons, really affected to the Zeal and Peace of this Kingdom, many whereof have engaged their Eſtates and Lives with the Parliament in the late War, are now Impriſoned, indicted, and otherwiſe grievouſly vexed (and many others liable to the like trouble) by force and pretence of ſeveral Statutes, eſpecially intended againſt thoſe, who repair not to ſome Church or Chappel to hear the Book of Common-Prayer, or againſt thoſe who are Popiſh Recuſants, and by their not going to Church might be diſcovered, and thoſe who ſhould hold any Conventicles of Meetings, to plot and conſpire ſome miſcheif to the State: Now foraſmuch as the Parliament hath declared againſt the Book of Common-Prayer, and that the ſaid Act againſt Conventicles was not intended againſt the People meeting only for Religious Exerciſes: We therefore deſire that all Perſons proceeded againſt, upon the Statute of 31. Eliz. or upon any other Statute or Acts whatſoever, of the ſame Tenor with the Premiſes, may be forthwith diſcharged from their Impriſonment, Indictments, or any other Moleſtation whatſoever by Vertue of the forementioned Statutes, unleſs ſuch Perſons ſhall be proved Popiſh Recuſants, (and that by ſome other way than by their not coming to Church) or to have, in ſuch Private Meetings as aforeſaid, ſome dangerous deſign, Conſpiracy and Practice againſt the State.

Judges to releaſe Perſons ſo Impriſoned.

And for a more effectual Courſe, we deſire the Parliament would be pleaſed to give Orders accordingly to all the Judges of Aſſizes, for this next Circuit throughout the Kingdom of England, and Dominion of Wales, (as part of their Inſtructions) to acquit all Perſons Suffering as aforeſaid, by Vertue or under pretence of the ſaid Statutes, otherwiſe then as before excepted, and to give the whole matter ſo in Charge, that all Juſtices of the Peace, and whom elſe the ſame ſhall concern, may not henceforth attempt to bring the like trouble upon any other of the Well-affected People of this Kingdom under the like pretence, as they will anſwer the contrary at their Peril.

Fryday, July 23.

This Day according to the former Order, an Ordinance was reported to the Houſe for the diſpoſal of the Militia of the City into the old Commiſſioners hands; was read the firſt and ſecond time, and committed.

Accordingly the Houſe ſat in the Afternoon, and the new Ordinance for the Militia with the Amendments was Reported, and after much debate, paſſed, and ſent to the Lords, who concurr'd herein alſo with the Commons, by which Ordinance, that of the 4th. of May for the new Militia is revoked, and the old Militia Men again Inſtated with the ſame Power and Authority to all Intents and Purpoſes, as the Militia formerly had, to continue during the Pleaſure of the Parliament.

Ordered likewiſe that Colonel Manning's Troop of Horſe ſhould attend the Houſe for a Guard.

Private Subſcribing of hands againſt the Army.

Letters came this Day from the Army, giving to underſtand that the General had his Head Quarters Yeſterday at Aleſbury ; at which place (upon notice given to the General and Council of War, of a private Engagement and Subſcribing in the City of London, and an Agitation at Skinners-Hall, againſt the Army, of very bad Conſequence, as the Condition of Affairs now ſtands), A Paper was drawn up by the General and Council of War, and ſent to the Commiſſioners of Parliament and City, concerning their deep ſenſe of that underhand Deſign, and that they look upon it as the laſt and moſt deſperate Engine to put all in Confuſion.

Likewiſe another Paper was ſent to the Commiſſioners of the City, deſiring that they would repair up to London, to take care to prevent the working of thoſe, or any ſuch like Underminings, of which the City Commiſſioners ſeemed very ſenſible, and expreſſed much Affection to the Army, and that Afternoon took their leave, and departed towards London.

ſies, and ſome Aſperſions caſt upon the Army, hath Publiſhed a Proclamation againſt entertaining Cavaliers in the Army; all which Papers are as follow.

Aleſbury, July 23. 1647.

Several Papers from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, and the Army under his Command, delivered to the Commiſſioners of Parliment and City, at Aleſbury, July 23. 1647. occaſioned by a late Petition and Engagement of ſome Citizens, Commanders, Officers, and Soldiers of the Trained Bands, and Auxiliaries, &c. Being the laſt and moſt deſperate Deſign againſt the Kingdom and Army, with a Copy of the Engagement. Alſo a Proclamation from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, againſt the entertaining of Cavaliers in the Army.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

The General's Letter to both Houſes, about the Petition and Solemn Engagement of Citizens, Commanders, Officers, &c.

VVE received this encloſed Paper the laſt Night, from the Hands of a very Well-affected Citizen; It was delivered him by an Officer of the City Militia, who being invited to meet ſome Citizens at Skinners-Hall upon Wedneſday next, with divers others to Sign the ſame, and offering to diſpute againſt the matter of it, to ſhew how dangerous and illegal it was, was ſilenc'd, and told that it was not to be diſputed, but to be Signed and Joyned in, there being divers Citizens and others at the ſame place for that Purpoſe, which when underſtood, he took this Printed Copy away with him.

By the Contents of which, when you read it, you will eaſily perceive what it tends to, and how deſperate and dangerous it is to the hazard of the whole Kingdom; ‘and to fruſtrate all thoſe Endeavours of the Parliament, the Army, and the Kingdom for an happy Settlement; and likewiſe to precipitate all into a New and ‘Bloody War: We cannot therefore but acquaint you, that we look on this as a ‘Buſineſs ſet on Foot by the Malice of ſome deſperate Minded Men, this being ‘their laſt Engine for the putting all into Confuſion, when they could not accompliſh ‘their wicked Ends by other Means. To this have all ſecret Liſtings tended, and we wiſh that the needleſs and ſuperfluous Liſting of Auxiliaries, and Connivance of the continuance of Reformadoes about the Cities of London and Weſtminſter, have not had the ſame aim: And by this, we hope, it will appear, that our Jealouſies and Fears of ſome ſuch deſperate Deſigns to be hatched in, and about the City, (conſidering the temper of Men there) have not been groundleſs, nor our deſires to draw near the City of London with the Army, to diſappoint and break all ſuch Plots, and to free the Parliament from the violence of them, have not been without juſt Cauſe; and we deſire all indifferent Men to judge, whether our withdrawing from the City, in Obedience to the Parliaments Command, was for theirs and the Kingdoms Security, or not: We wonder that divers Men did calumniate that our marching ſo near the City, and put ſo bad Repreſentations upon it, as that it tended to force the Parliament, or to Plunder the City: Seeing our doing ſo, was to break that black Deſign, which now begins to ſhew it ſelf in its Colours. Whereas indeed our Conſciences witneſs with us, that our Aims were Clear, and Honeſt, tending to Reſtore the Parliament unto its juſt Liberty, which was much abated in the Eyes of all the Kingdom; and no doubt by the Authors and Contrivers of this new Covenant and Engagement; ſome whereof have been ſo far from aſſiſting to put the Reformadoes, and other dangerous Perſons out of the Lines, that now they are called to joyn in this Conſpiracy: We intreat you to give the Parliament a full Repreſentation of theſe things, which that you may do, we have ſent you the Papers, together with ſuch Informations, as may give them an opportunity to diſcover the bottom of this Buſineſs: We were marching from London, (when we received this Information) in Obedience to the Parliament, and to give the City more Content, and to ſtop the Mouths of Slanderers: But if ſuch Deſigns ſo Deſtructive to the Parliament, and the Work in Hand, be ſuffered to go on, or that the Parliament be Interrupted in the Freedom of their Debates and Proceedings, as we hear within theſe few Days they were, by thoſe that are invited to partake in this Confederacy: We beg it of the Parliament, as they tender their own ſafety, the Peace of the Kingdom, and preventing of a ſecond War; as they would not have the Kingdom loſe the Fruit and Benefit of all the Blood and Treaſure that has been ſpilt in this Cauſe, that they would not ſuffer their Freedom and Liberty to be Endangered by ſuch Deſigns as theſe, they having an Army, which by the Bleſſing of God, in ſpight of all that theirs and the Kingdoms Enemies can do, will ſtand and fall with them, and be found Faithful and Obedient to them in all things, and as ready to Relieve Ireland, when the Peace, and Rights of this Kingdom are Settled. We write not this, to deſire the Parliament to invite us to march up to them; we care not how great a Diſtance we are from London, if it be the Parliaments pleaſure, and conſiſts with their Security, and the breaking off thoſe Combinations, which are hatcht in the Bowels of the City. We are haſtning our Propoſals which are for the general Settlement, and which (we are confident) will ſatisfie all that love Truth and Peace; but we ſee plainly, we need no more to intend Security, than have cauſe to expect to bring things to a happy Iſſue by Treaty, while ſuch Deſigns are on Foot: We pray you therefore, that the Parliament would ſpeedily, and throughly inquire into, and break theſe Deſigns; wherein as in all things elſe, we ſhall be ready to ſerve them, as they ſhall judge it needful, and when they ſhall Command us.

Alesbury, July 23. 1647.

BY a Printed Paper come to our Hands (a Copy whereof you receive herewith) you will ſtill find, and clearly and evidently perceive, that ſome evil Spirits, within the City of London, maliciouſly Diſaffected to the Peace of this Kingdom, do ſecretly and maliciouſly endeavour to bring about that Miſcheif upon the Kingdom, which we have ſo much feared, and by all our ſeveral Addreſſes to you, ſought to prevent, which indeed are of that dangerous conſequence, as we can expect no other iſſue from, than the unavoidable engaging the Kingdom in a ſecond War, if not timely and effectually prevented by your Wiſdom and diligence: We muſt further obſerve unto you, that whatſoever deſign is intended in the aforeſaid Paper, is contrary to the Authority of Parliament, and in direct Oppoſition to the Proceedings of the Army (which the two Houſes have owned as theirs, and approved of their Fidelity, by committing the Forces of the Kingdom of England, Dominion of Wales, and Iſlands of Guernſey and Jerſey, under the General's Care and Command) and therefore cannot be effected, but by force of Arms againſt the Parliament, and their Armies, which in probability may involve the whole Kingdom in Blood, but muſt neceſſarily begin within your Bowels, and draw the Seat and State of War upon you, and your City.

Alſo we deſire you would conſider, whether we have not juſt Cauſe to ſuſpect, that an evil Party lurks within the City, ready to Diſtemper it, and the whole Kingdom upon every Occaſion; and whether it be probable ſuch Perſons deſire a happy cloſe between the King and the Parliament (at leaſt ſuch as will be for the Kingdoms good) when they take upon them the boldneſs, to make new Offers to His Majeſty, with ſolemn Engagements to make good the ſame, during the time that the Parliament had given us leave to make Tender of, and Treat with their Commiſſioners, about thoſe things which tend to a general Settlement: And therefore we cannot but deſire, that you would take a ſpedy Courſe timely to ſuppreſs this great Evil, and to prevent all of this Nature for the future, by making ſome of thoſe Examples, who have been Active to carry on this Buſineſs: We have not had time to enquire into Particulars, but ſhall give you only one Inſtance, of a Meeting at Skinners-Hall concerning this Buſineſs, where ſome Perſons have been very Active, (the Names of ſome of whom we have given to your Commiſſioners) and alſo the Names of other Citizens, who will teſtifie their carriage there.

Laſtly, we cannot but deſire you to concur with us in our Deſires to the Parliament, to put the Militia into the Hands of thoſe that had it before, without which we can have no aſſurance, that the City will be free from Deſigns of this Nature, nor can we expect to ſee a happy Cloſe.

Signed, By the Appointment of his Excellency Sir Tho. Fairfax, and his Council of War.

The Printed Paper, or the Copy which the General encloſed in his to the Lords and Commons, is as follows, viz.

To the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, the Right Worſhipful the Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in the Common or Guildhall of the City of London, Aſſembled.

The Humble Petition of the Citizens, Commanders, Officers, and Soldiers, of the Trained Bands, and Auxiliaries, the Young Men, and Apprentices, of the Cities of London and Weſtminſter, Sea-Commanders, Seamen, and Watermen, together with divers of the Commanders, Officers, and Soldiers, within the Line of Communication, and Pariſhes mentioned in the Weekly-Bill of Mortality.

Sheweth,

THat your Petitioners (taking into ſerious Conſideration, how Religion, His Majeſties Honour and Safety, the Priviledges of Parliament, and Liberties of the Subjects, are at preſent greatly endangered, and like to be deſtroyed, and alſo ſadly weighing with our ſelves, what means might likely prove the moſt effectual, to procure a firm and laſting Peace, without a further Effuſion of Chriſtian Engliſh Blood, have therefore entred into a ſolemn Engagement, which is hereunto annexed, and do humbly and earneſtly deſire, that this whole City may joyn together, by all lawful and poſſible means, as one man, in hearty Endeavours, for His Majeſties preſent coming up to his two Houſes of Parliament, with Honour, Safety, and Freedom, (and that without the nearer approach of the Army) there to Confirm ſuch things, as he hath granted in his Meſſage of the 12th. of May laſt, in Anſwer to the Propoſitions of both Kingdoms; and that by a Perſonal Treaty with his two Houſes of Parliament, and the Commiſſioners of the Kingdom of Scotland, ſuch things as yet are in difference, may be ſpeedily Settled, and a firm, and laſting Peace Eſtabliſhed: All which we deſire may be preſented to both Houſes of Parliament, from this Honourable Aſſembly.

And we ſhall pray, &c.

A Solemn Engagement of the Citizens, Commanders, Officers and Soldiers of the Trainbands and Auxiliaries, the Young Men and Apprentices of the Cities of London and Weſtminſter, Sea-Commanders, Seamen, and Watermen; together with divers others, the Commanders, Officers, and Soldiers, within the Lines of Communication, and Pariſhes mentioned in the Weekly Bill of Mortality.

WHereas, We have entred into a Solemn League and Covenant, for Reformation and defence of Religion, the Honour and Happineſs of the Kingdom, and the Peace and Safety of the three Kingdoms of England, Scotland, and Ireland; all which we do eminently perceive not only to be endangered, and like to be deſtroyed: We do therefore in purſuance of our ſaid Covenant, Oath of Allegiance, Oath of every Freeman of the Cities of London, and Weſtminſter, and Proteſtation, ſolemnly engage our ſelves, and Vow unto Almighty God, that we will to the utmoſt of our power, cordially endeavour, that His Majeſty may ſpeedily come to his two Houſes of Parliament, with Honour, Safety, and Freedom, (and that without the nearer approach of the Army) there to Confirm ſuch things, as he hath granted in his Meſſage of the 12th. of May laſt, in Anſwer to the Propoſitions of both Kingdoms, and that by a Perſonal Treaty with his two Houſes of Parliament, and the Commiſſioners of the Kingdom of Scotland, ſuch things, as are yet in Difference, may be ſpeedily ſettled, and a firm and laſting Peace eſtabliſhed; for the effecting hereof, we do proteſt, and reoblige our ſelves, as in the preſence of God the ſearcher of all Hearts, with our Lives and Fortunes, to endeavour what in us lies, to Preſerve, and Defend His Majeſties Royal Perſon and Authority, the Priviledges of Parliament, and Liberty of the Subject, in their full and conſtant Freedom the Cities of London and Weſtminſter, Lines of Communication, and Pariſhes mentioned in the Weekly-Bill of Mortality; and all others that ſhall adhere with us to the ſaid Covenant, and Oath of Allegiance, Oath of every Freeman of London and Weſtminſter, and Proteſtation: Nor ſhall we by any means admit, ſuffer, or endure, any Neutrality in this Common Cauſe of God, the King, and Kingdom, as we do expect the Bleſſing of Almighty God, whoſe Help we crave, and wholly devolve our ſelves upon, in this our Undertaking.

Upon this, an Order from the General went to the Cheif Officers of his Army, for expunging the Names of all Cavaliers out of their Muſter Rolls, which take as follows, (viz.)

The Order of the General for expunging Cavaliers out of the Muſter Rolls.

I Do hereby require, the Cheif Officer, preſent with every Troop and Company, to make ſtrict enquiry, what Cavaliers have been liſted and entertained in their Troops and Companies, ſince the Muſter precedeing the laſt Muſter; and that all ſuch Cheif Officers ſhall preſently upon ſuch enquiry as before, put forth their of Troops or Companies, ſuch Cavaliers, as they ſhall find in their Troops, or Companies from ſuch Muſters as before; and before they receive any Pay upon this laſt Muſter, they ſhall expunge the Names of all ſuch Cavaliers out of the Muſter Rolls, as they ſhall have put out of their Troops or Companies. And if it ſhall hereafter appear that any Cheif Officer, preſent with their Troop or Company, ſhall neglect to put forth, or caſhire ſuch Cavaliers in manner as before, or receive any for the time to come, upon Proof thereof made, he ſhall be liable to a Council of War, and be accordingly proceeded againſt.

The Army and the King removes.

The General this Day removed his Head-Quarters, from Aleſbury, to Bedford. The King removed on Thurſday from Cauſam to the Earl of Devonſhire's Houſe at Latimer, and from thence to the Earl of Bedford's Houſe near Wooburn in Hertfordſhire.

The King's Children.

The Commons concurr'd with the Lords, in their Votes for removing the King's Children to Sion-Houſe.

A Petition was this Day preſented to the Houſe from the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council of the City of London, in theſe words, which take at large.

The humble Petition of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London in Common-Council aſſembled: To the Right Honourable the Lords and Commons aſſembled in High Court of Parliament. Whereunto is annexed two Petitions; the one entituled, The humble Petition of divers well-affected Citizens of the City of London; the other entituled, The humble Petition of divers Young Men, Citizens, and Apprentices of this honourable City. They are as followeth, (viz.)

To the Honourable the Houſe of Commons aſſembled in High Court of Parliament:

The humble Petition of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London in Common-Council aſſembled,

Humbly ſheweth,

A Petition of the Lord Mayor, &c. to both Houſes, for re-eſtabliſhing the Militia which was eſtabliſhed by an Ordinance of the 4th. of May laſt.

THat the Petitioners have, by Ordinance of Parliament dated the 23d. preſent, taken notice of the pleaſure of both Houſes for conſtituting a new Committee for the Militia of the City of London and the Liberties thereof, and of all other places within the Lines of Communication and the Weekly Bills of Mortality, and for determining of a former Ordinance for the Militia of this City, &c. dated the 4th of May laſt; which being taken into ſerious conſideration, the Petitioners could not but call to mind how far both Houſes of Parliament had formerly honoured the City, when they firſt eſtabliſhed the Committee for the Militia, and ſince enlarged or altered the ſame, to take the ſenſe of this Court before they finally reſolved thereupon; which Confidence the Petitioners are not conſcious to themſelves to have forfeited. And next, being ſenſible by two Petitions preſented to this Court, (the Copies whereof are annexed) the one entituled, The humble Petition of divers well-affected Citizens of the City of London; and the other entituled, The humble Petition of divers Young Men, Citizens, and others Apprentices of this City: what a general Diſtemper this ſudden Change hath already made, and may further raiſe in this City; beſides that hereby the City is for the preſent put out of all regular poſture of Defence.

The Petitioners could not but return unto this honourable Houſe, and humbly and earneſtly pray, That the Militia which was eſtabliſhed by Ordinance of the 4th. of May laſt as aforeſaid, and then ordered to continue for one whole year, may be re-eſtabliſhed; that ſo the preſent Fears and Diſtempers in the City may be diſperſed and appeaſed: Whereunto, as the Petitioners humbly conceive this to be the only preſent ſafe means, next under the mighty Hand of God, ſo they will not doubt, but that the ſaid Militia, as hitherto they have done, will in all things perform their Duties according to their Truſt.

And the Petitioners ſhall pray, &c.

To the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, the Right Worſhipful the Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London in Common-Council aſſembled:

The humble Petition of divers well-affected Citizens of the City of London,

Sheweth,

The Petition of divers well-affected Citizens, &c. to the Lord Mayor, &c. for continuing the Militia.

THat whereas we have lifted up our hands to the High God, for the Reformation and Defence of Religion, His Majeſty's juſt Power and Authority, the Liberties of the Subjects, and the Priviledges of Parliaments; and ſeriouſly conſidering the late Tranſactions to violate all theſe, and to weaken the zeal and forwardneſs of this City, and this Honourable Court in the maintenance of the ſame, by endeavouring to remove the preſent Militia, confirmed by Authority of a Free Parliament for a Year, and made choice of by this Honourable Court.

In this Streight and Exigency we are bold in all humility, yet with all earneſtneſs, to pray, That this Honourable Court would ſadly weigh the preſent Dangers; and, as in former times it hath been your Honour to be inſtrumental for the Preſervation of this miſerable and dying Kingdom, by the interpoſition of your Courage, and Power, and Wiſdom, in a time of need, ſo you would not ſuffer it to be buried in perpetual Oblivion and Reproach, by yielding up that Militia, which, by the good Providence of God, and the Authority of a Free Parliament, hath been inveſted in your hands, the only viſible means, under God, we have now left for the Security of our Religion, Lives, and Liberties.

A Petition of divers Young Men Citizens of London, &c. to the L. Mayor, &c. that none be put in places of Truſt but ſuch as ſtand well-affected to the Covenant, &c. And to have the Militia continued.

To the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, the Right Worſhipful the Aldermen, and the Worſhipful the Commons in Common-Council aſſembled:

The humble Petition of divers Young Men, Citizens, and others Apprentices of this Honourable City,

Humbly ſheweth,

That your Petitioners being ſadly affected with the Diſtractions of theſe Times, (wherein divers diſcontented perſons, for the advancement of their own Intereſts, labour to ſow new Seeds of Diviſion and Diſcord among us, whereby Incendiaries are encouraged, the Well-affected diſcountenanced, the Priviledges of Parliament violated, the publick Worſhip of God ſlighted, the Liberties and Properties of the faithful Subjects of this Kingdom, and eſpecially of this City, much endangered, and the long-deſired-for end of theſe Troubles (by His Majeſty's gracious compliance with, and his ſafe and honourable return to his Parliament, (which we hoped was almoſt obtained) now retarded, and for the preſent altogether fruſtrated) have preſented their humble Petition to both Houſes of Parliament, a Copy whereof is hereunto annexed, the which they have thought it their duty likewiſe to tender unto this honourable Court; being confident, that as their deſires in theſe their humble Addreſſes ariſe from no other ends whatſoever but the Glory of God, and the diſcharge of their Conſciences, in purſuance of that Solemn League and Covenant which lies upon them, To endeavour to their utmoſt, in their places and callings, to uſe all lawful ways and means for the conſervation and maintenance of the Juſt Rights and Priviledges of Parliament (lately ſo much violated), the preſervation and defence of his Majeſties Royal Perſon and Authority, together with the true Religion and Liberties of this Kingdom, and for the diſcovery and bringing to condign puniſhment all evil Inſtruments whatſoever, which labour, by fomenting groundleſs Fears and Jealouſies, to divide and make parties amongſt the people, thereby to retard the Settlement of Church and State: ſo we doubt not but this honourable Court (who have been inſtrumental to invite us, both by Example and Perſwaſion (according to ſeveral Ordinances and Declarations of Parliament) to engage our ſelves to the proſecution of the ſaid Ends, wherein you have already done very much, to your everlaſting Praiſe and Commendation) will ſtill with all Reality, Conſtancy, and undaunted Magnanimity, purſue the ſame, and likewiſe encourage thoſe that ſhall, according to their Duty, labour to promote the ſame ends. Wherefore we humbly pray,

That this honourable Court would be pleaſed to uſe their utmoſt endeavours, by their Addreſſes to the Parliament, and otherwiſe, as they in their Wiſdoms ſhall think fit, for the furthering of your Petitioners deſire contained in the abovementioned Petition.

We cannot likewiſe but with all thankfulneſs take notice of what this honourable City has done for the putting in execution of ſeveral Ordinances of Parliament, That none be put into any place of Truſt, either in Church or Commonwealth, but ſuch as have taken, and now ſtand well affected to the Covenant, to which we are confident that you will ſtill adhere.

And whereas there have been, and ſtill are, ſeveral factious perſons, who ſtile themſelves The Well-affected of this City, (though unworthy of that Name) who labour to traduce the Actions thereof, thereby to bring an Odium upon it, and to lay it open to their malice; a freſh inſtance whereof we have in a Petition preſented to the Parliament, pretended to be the Petition of the Young Men and Apprentices of the City, as likewiſe by a Petition pretended to be preſented to Sir Thomas Fairfax, the which we are ready to produce, and refer the conſideration of them to this Honourable Court: And further pray, That as both the Militia of the City hath been legally choſen by this Honourable Court, according to Ordinance of Parliament, and the Common Council legally choſen by the ſeveral Wards (according to the ancient Cuſtom of this City) you would be pleaſed to retain the ſame power, both Civil and Military, in your own Hands. And that you would be pleaſed (for the prevention of many eminent Dangers, to which this City may be liable, by reaſon of theſe diſtractions, to take ſuch effectual and ſpeedy Courſe, for the ſafeguard and defence thereof, that the fear either of any Mutiny within, or any unwarrantable Power from abroad, may in ſome meaſure be taken away, whereby Trade (the main ſupport of this City, now mightily impaired) may be again revived, and the Franchiſes and Liberties of this Honourable City (to which we are the apparent Heirs) maintained and defended.

An. 1647.

And as your Petitioners are in Duty bound, both by that relation which they ſtand in to the Honourable City, as by that ſolemn Engagement whereinto they have entred, ſo they will be always ready, to hazard their Lives for the defence thereof, and not ſuffer themſelves directly or indirectly, by any Terrour, or perſwaſion, to be drawn from their Duty herein.

July 26.

The Humble Deſires of the Citizens, Young Men, and Apprentices of the City of London; preſented to both the Honourable Houſes of Parliament, July 26. 1647. Together with the Ordinances of Parliament.

1. IT is our humble Deſire, in regard Religion, our Lives, Liberties, and Eſtates, are ſo much endangered, and the Peace and Safety of this City and Kingdom, that the pretended Ordinance for the Change of the Militia of the City of London may be preſently repealed before the riſing of the Houſes; and that former Ordinance, that was conferred for a Year by a free Parliament, upon the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council, and by them legally choſen, may be Eſtabliſhed: In which regard we do conceive, that no Juſtice, though it run in never ſo free a Channel, can lawfully diſpoſſeſs them of it, unleſs it ſhall appear to be abuſed contrary to the Truſt repoſed in them.

2. It is likewiſe deſired that the City of London may immediately be vindicated againſt a late pretended Declaration of both Houſes, which declares all thoſe Traitors, and ſo to forfeit Life and Eſtate, who ſhall, after Publication thereof, act thereupon to get Subſcriptions, and that the ſaid Declaration be now preſently reverſed and cancell'd.

3. That both Houſes of Parliament do preſently make an Order upon ſome ſpecial Penalty, for the calling in of all their Members of either Houſes to diſcharge the Truſt the Kingdom has repoſed in them, eſpecially Eleven late accuſed Members, againſt whom there has been nothing proved of their Accuſation to this Day. That yet again we may come to be ſo happy, as to enjoy the healing influence of a full, and free Parliament in theſe diſtracted Times.

Theſe Particulars we cannot but inſiſt upon, ſince the Diſtractions amongſt us begin to grow ſo high, and the Honour, and Priviledges of Parliament, the Peace and Safety of the City and Kingdom are ſo greatly violated.

Much Time was ſpent in this Buſineſs, and at laſt the Lords and Commons concurred in two Ordinances, as followeth.

REſolved by the Lords in Parliament, that they do Adjourn their Houſe until Friday next.

John Brown, Cler. Parl.

Tueſday, July 27. Early this Morning the Houſe of Commons met again, and Adjourned till Friday eight of the Clock, ſo did the Lords likewiſe.

Middleton routeth the Gourdons.

Letters out of Scotland certified, that Major General Middleton, hath had a late Encounter with ſome of the Gourdons in the Weſt of Scotland, Killed forty, and took thirty Priſoners.

A Faſt in Scotland.

The General Aſſembly of the Kirk of Scotland, Ordered a Publick Faſt to be kept throughout that Kingdom, the laſt Lords Day, and ſet forth certain Reaſons for the ſame; ſome whereof, having relation to this Kingdom, I ſhall here inſert them.

The Motives thereunto.

1. THat notwithſtanding the Solemn Engagement in the Covenant, our Obligations of great and ſingular Mercies, and our many warnings by Judgments of all ſorts, yet not only do we come far ſhort of that Sobriety, Righteouſneſs, and Holineſs, that becometh the Goſpel of Jeſus Chriſt; but Ungodlineſs, and Worldly Luſts, abound every where throughout the Land, unto the Grieving of the Lords Spirit, and Provoking the Eyes of his Glory, and to make him encreaſe his Plagues upon us, and to puniſh us ſeven times more, becauſe we continue to walk contrary unto him.

2. That the Lords Hand is ſtill ſtretched out againſt us, to the Judgment of the Peſtilence, which ſpreads not only in the ſeveral places in the Country, but continueth, and increaſeth in many of the moſt Eminent Cities in the Kingdom.

3. The great Danger that threatens Religion, and the Works of Reformation in theſe Kingdoms, from the Number, Policy, and Power of the Sectaries in England, which are like, not only to interrupt the Progreſs of Uniformity, and the Eſtabliſhing of the Ordinances of God in their Beauty and Perfection, but to overturn the Foundation already laid, and all that hath been built thereupon, with the expence of ſo much Blood and Pains.

1. And therefore we are earneſtly to pray the Lord, that the ſolemn League and Covenant may be kept, and inviolably, notwithſtanding all the Purpoſes and Endeavours of open Enemies, and ſecret Underminers to the contrary.

2. We are to intreat the Lord in the behalf of the Kings Majeſty, that he may be reconciled to God, and that he may be now furniſhed with Wiſdom and Counſel from above, that he be not involved in new Snares, to the Endangering of himſelf, and theſe Kingdoms, but that his Heart may incline to ſuch Reſolutions, as will contribute for Settling of Religion and Righteouſneſs.

3. We are alſo to intreat the Lord, in the behalf of the Parliament of England, of the Synod of Divines, and of all ſuch in the Land, as do unfeignedly mind the Work of God, that they may not be diſcouraged, nor ſwerve in the Day of Temptation, but that each of them in their Stations, and according to their Places and Callings, may be furniſhed with Light and Strength from Heaven, for doing of their Duty with Faithfulneſs and Zeal.

4. We are to Supplicate for direction to our Committee of Eſtates, that they may diſcern the Times, and know what is fitting to be done for ſecuring our ſelves, and encouraging our Brethren.

5. We are to pray for a Spirit of Light, and of Love unto our Aſſembly, that they may be inſtrumental in preſerving Truth, and advancing Holineſs amongſt our ſelves, and for carrying on the Work of God amongſt our Neighbours.

Finally, That the Lord would pour out upon all ſorts of Perſons in theſe Kingdoms, a Spirit of Grace, and Supplication, that it may repent us of all our iniquities, that we may be reconciled unto the Lord, that ſo all Tokens of his Wrath may be removed from amongſt us, and he may bleſs us with the ſweet Fruits of Truth and Peace.

Wedneſday, July 28. Maſter Whitlock, and Mr. Jagger Preached before the Commons in Margarets, Weſtminſter.

The City keeps a Faſt.

Receiveth a Letter of kindneſs from the General.

Apprentices appear.

The Common Council ſate in Guildhal in the Morning, and about 10. of the Clock aroſe and kept a Humiliation in Baſſingſhaw Church, having formerly deſired Mr. Aſh, Mr. Calamy, and Mr. Anthony Burges to preach; the Sermons were ended about five at Night; the Common Council met again, and read a Letter from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, ſetting forth his good affection and tender care of the good of the City, and ſhewing his great diſlike of the Petition, and the means uſed to promote the ſame. At the ſame time many Young Men, and others attended the Common Council to expreſs their readineſs, to ſtand up for the juſt Priviledges of the City, and defend it againſt all Oppoſers.

The City ſend ſix Commiſſioners to the General, not to advance.

A Letter was then drawn up, and a Meſſenger diſpatch to his Excellency, and ſix Commiſſioners appointed to go after the next Morning. In the Letter the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council, declare their inclinableneſs to Peace, intreating his Excellency, that the Army might not advance this way, nor intermeddle with the Rights and Priviledges of the City, conceiving that their ſtrengthning of the City for the Safety and Preſervation thereof, was no juſt Cauſe to provoke the Soldier: And as for the Petition, the Parliament had already declared their ſenſe thereof, and therefore it was needleſs for them to do it, and the rather, for that it had never been formally preſented to them.

The Committee of the Militia of the City of London, and Lines of Communication, this Day Ordered, that no Perſon or Perſons, whatſoever, ſhall preſume to make any diſturbance to the Parliament: And it was further Ordered, that if any Perſon or Perſons ſhould preſume to make ſuch diſturbance to the Parliament, the Commander in Cheif of the Guard, which ſhall be there preſent, ſhall proſecute their Commiſſions to Kill and Slay, &c.

Intelligence that the Army advances. The Drum beats for Trained-bands, and others to go to the works.

There coming Intelligence that the Army began to advance, Orders were given for the Trained-Bands to go to the works, and for the better raiſing of Auxiliaries to help and defend the City. A Proclamation was made by beat of Drum throughout the ſame, Requiring all, and every the Inhabitants, that are able to bear Arms, and are not Liſted of the Trained-bands, to appear the next Morning at ſeveral places, and ſuch as had Arms to bring them with them, and ſuch as had none ſhould receive them there.

The Houſes met, but no Speakers came.

Friday, July 30th. This Day according to Order of Adjournment, the Members of the Houſe of Commons met in the Houſe, and likewiſe the Lords, but the Speakers of neither Houſe appeared, and after much time ſpent in expectation, and no Speaker coming, at length the Members of the Houſe of Commons (then preſent) proceeded to the Election of a new Speaker, and Voted Mr. Pelham, a Counſellor of Lincolns Inn (and a Member of that Houſe) to be Speaker (pro tempore.) The Lords alſo made Choice of the Lord Gray to be Speaker of their Houſe (pro tempore) in the place of the Earl of Mancheſter.

The Commons choſe a new Speaker.

And a new Serjeant.

Mr. Bickhead the Serjeant at Arms being abſent with the Mace, when the Commons made Choice of their Speaker, they choſe Maſter Norfolk to be Serjeant at Arms, and had the City Mace for the preſent uſe, ſhortly after came Mr. Bickhead with his Mace, and tendered his Service, but another being put in the Place, he was excluded.

The Commons Votes as followeth.

After this the Houſe proceeded to debate on the preſent great Affairs, touching the City and Kingdom, and Voted,

The King to come to London.

Firſt, That the King come to London.

To raiſe Forces.

2. That the Militia of the City ſhall have full power to raiſe ſuch Forces as they ſhall think fit, for the defence thereof.

To make a Commander in cheif.

3. That they may make Choice of a Commander in Cheif, to be approved of by the Houſe, and ſuch Commander to preſent other Officers, to be approved of by the Militia.

Major General Maſſey.

Reformadoes to be reduced into Regiments.

After this the Sheriffs and Common Council (who attended the Houſe all this Morning) returned into the City of London, and at a Common Council this Afternoon, taking into Conſideration the great Service done by Major General Maſſey, and particularly that at Glouceſter, they made Choice of him to Command in Cheif: And it was ordered by the Militia, that all Reformadoes and other Officers, &c. ſhould the next Day at two of the Clock in the Afternoon, appear to be Liſted in St. Jameſes Feilds, and that the Forces already Liſted for defence of the City be put into a Regimental way.

This Day came a Letter from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, to the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council of the City of London; a Copy whereof I ſhall here give you.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

The General's Letter to the City of his advance towards London, with his Demands.

YOU may pleaſe to remember, the forward compliance of this Army with your Deſires, to remove to this diſtance, and that upon the aſſurance you gave them of your Concurrence with their declared Deſires, for the Settling of the Liberty and Peace of this Kingdom, (againſt which you never yet offered us one Exception, or any ground of Diſſent) as alſo of your great Tenderneſs and Reſolution to ſecure the Parliament, and their Priviledges from any Violence or Attempt; the cheif Reaſon given us of your late Liſting of new Forces, and wherein we did moſt Acquieſt.

That upon this Confidence, we had diſpoſed of the Army into ſeveral parts of the Kingdom, for the eaſe of the whole, ſome of them to above a hundred Miles diſtant; we had given up our ſelves to the effecting ſuch Propoſals as might tend to the Comfortable Settlement of this poor Kingdom, and we were in a hopeful Way for ſpeedy relief for Ireland.

We cannot then but be deeply ſenſible of the unparralleld Violation acted upon the Parliament upon Monday laſt, by a Multitude from your City, becauſe therin the Guards ſent from the City, did not only neglect their Duty for the ſecurity of the Parliament from ſuch Violence, and the whole City to yield any Relief to the Houſes in that extremity, but I am aſſured from Eye and Ear Witneſſes, that divers of the Common Council gave great encouragement to it, which doth not only gainſay your former Profeſſions, but does Violence to thoſe many Obligations, that by your Charter, Proteſtation, and ſundry otherways laid upon you to protect the Parliament: For my part, I cannot but look on you (who are in Authority) as accomptable to the Kingdom for your preſent Interruptions of that hopeful way of Peace and Settlement things were in for this Nation, and for relieving Ireland, occaſioned by a late diſtructive Engagement, eſpecially by the latter Prodigious and Horrid Force done upon the Parliament, tending to diſſolve all Government; upon which Score, we, and the whole Kingdom, ſhall have Cauſe, to put every thing of the like nature, that may happen to the Parliament, to any who are Friends to them and this Army, except by your Wiſdom, Care, and Induſtry, the chief Actors in the Premiſes may be Detected, Secured, and given up to the procuring of Juſtice for the ſame, and the beſt Endeavours uſed to prevent the like for the future. And ſo I reſt.

Your moſt aſſured Friend, to ſerve you,

Thomas Fairfax.

Saturday, July 31. This Day, after the Houſe was ſate, a Meſſage came from the Lords, for the Concurrence of the Commons to their Votes, for removing the Kings Children into the City of London, for their better Security; their going to Sion being retarded by reaſon of the preſent Commotions.

According to the Order Yeſterday of the Militia, for Liſting Reformadoes, and Officers, there was a great appearance in St. Jameſes Feilds. Order was given for ſtaying of Horſes from going out of the City, many Horſes were Liſted.

23 Caroli I.

A Declaration of the L. Mayor, &c.

A Declaration of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London in Common-Council aſſembled.

HOW, and by what Authority, and under what pretences, His Majeſty was ſurprized at Holmby, where he was placed by Conſent of both Kingdoms; and how thence removed, and at laſt brought into the Army, under whoſe Power his Royal Perſon hath ever ſince been kept, and carried to and fro, notwithſtanding that his ſurprizal was diſowned by the General for himſelf and all the Officers about him, and for the Body of the Army, and that ſince both Houſes of Parliament had required his Royal Perſon to be brought to Richmond, and there left in the hands of the Commiſſioners of Parliament who attended him at Holmby: Contrary to all which, the Army yet deſire, That no place might be propoſed for His Majeſty's reſidence nearer London than where they would allow the Quarters of the Army to be. All theſe things we doubt not but by this time are ſo evidently known and apparent to the whole Kingdom, that we ſhould not need to inſiſt upon any particular diſcovery thereof: And we believe that the right-underſtanding and well-affected People of this Kingdom, who remember and ſtill adhere unto the Covenant which they have made with God, have all along obſerved in what manner the Army, in the poſture whereinto they have put themſelves, have ever ſince proceeded with the Parliament and City, and ſought to improve their Intereſts throughout the whole Kingdom. We for our parts ſhall not preſume to deliver any thing of our Senſe upon that which hath been altered, acted, or conſented unto by both Houſes, at the inſtance, interpoſition, or importunity of the Army; but only deſire hereby to give a true Account unto the Kingdom upon what Grounds and Reaſons we have been led to concur with the Army in many of their late deſires to the Parliament (which happily may have been looked upon with ſome admiration), and what our juſt Ends and Aims were in ſending down and continuing a Committee of Aldermen and Citizens in the Army all this time.

The City-Remonſtrance and Petition of the 26th. of May, 1646. Our Petition and Repreſentation of the 19th. of December 1646. and our Petition of the 17th. of March 1646. In the two laſt of which the Disbanding of the Army was particularly and eſpecially inſiſted upon, have, we are confident, ſatisfied all moderate and unbyaſs'd men, that we were deſirous upon the firſt opportunity which God gave us, to expreſs our great zeal for the ſettlement of Peace in this Kingdom, by eſtabliſhing of the true Religion, reſtoring His Majeſty to His juſt Rights and Authority, maintaining the Priviledge of Parliament, eaſing the great Charge of the Kingdom, ſecuring the People in their lawful Liberties and Properties, and relieving our diſtreſſed fellow-Subjects and Proteſtants in Ireland; And in order hereunto, we have given two ſuch ſignal Teſtimonies, in that we were the principal Leaders and Encouragers to the firſt advancing of 200000 l. towards the ſatisfaction of our Brethren of Scotland, when they had agreed to return to their Country, and to this latter ſudden raiſing of the like Sum of 200000 l. for the Payment of this Army, and the Affairs of Ireland, when the Parliament had reſolved upon the disbanding and diſpoſing of ſo many of the Army as the Kingdom had no further uſe of, as we will hope that all men have been clearly convinced of our ſincere intentions, as much as lay in us, and as far as it was fit for us to appear therein, to improve our utmoſt endeavours to make the way open to a happy compoſure of all things. And when the Army refuſed to disband, and had poſſeſſed themſelves of the Perſon of the King, thereby juſtifying that bold ſeizure of him, which the General at firſt diſclaimed as aforeſaid; and that the Army was upon their March, or, as they called it, drawing near to London; and that this City was in a manner ſummoned by a Letter of the 10th. of June laſt, under the Hands of the General, and other prime Officers of the Army, although the Parliament were at that time ſenſible enough of the ſtrange carriage of the Army towards them; and notwithſtanding the Army's lying ſo near to the City did very much hinder and impair the Trade thereof, to the great prejudice of the City in particular, and of the Kingdom in general: yet we, to ſhew how much we were deſirous to avoid the occaſion of a new War, did make bold often to addreſs our ſelves to the Parliament, and joined with the Army in many of their demands to the Honourable Houſes, ſent down a Committee of Aldermen and Citizens to reſide in the Army to maintain all good Correſpondence on both ſides; and although the Army a long time hovered near the Parliament and City, we ſtill omitted no endeavours or good Offices on our part, as far as we could well appear for them, to manifeſt how careful we were to uphold a good underſtanding between the Army and the City. What violation the Priviledges of the Houſe of Commons ſuffered when the Eleven accuſed Members were enforced by the Army to withdraw themſelves, after it was declared upon the Queſtion, That by the Laws of the Land no Judgment can be given to ſuſpend thoſe Members, or any of them, from ſitting in the Houſe, upon the Papers preſented from the Army, before particulars produced, and proofs made. And in what manner the Parliament have (to ſatisfie the Army) as it were renounced all foreign Aid, under what pretence ſoever, even ſuch as are under the ſame Covenant with them. Theſe things, we ſay, being tranſacted by the Repreſentative Body of the whole Kingdom, and publick every where, it is evident what great Influence (to ſay no more) the Army hath throughout had upon the Councels of Parliament: And for this City, it hath ſuffered it ſelf to be ſo bounded by the Army in relation to any Preparation for its own Guard and Defence, whil'ſt yet the Army is recruited, and the Soldiery of the whole Kingdom invited to join with them, that the City hath been very much expoſed to hazard and danger thereby. Yet, although this Army be inveſted with the whole Power of the Land-Forces of this Kingdom under Pay of the Parliament, when there is nothing left that can probably make any conſiderable Reſiſtance, and that it was expected they ſhould fall roundly upon thoſe things which concerned the Publick only, as they profeſſed from the beginning; the Army, contrary to that which they declared in their ſaid Letter of the 10th. of June laſt unto the City, and their Declaration or Repreſentation of the 14th. of June, That they would not go beyond their deſires at that time expreſſed, and for other particulars would acquieſce in the Wiſdom and Juſtice of the Parliament: now demand the Militia of the City of London, which had been eſtabliſhed by Ordinance of Parliament of the 4th. of May laſt, to continue for one whole year in the hands of ſuch as by their Authority were nominated by the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons in Common-Council aſſembled, and deſire the ſame to be put into other hands; and ſo far prevail with the Parliament, that they immediately conſented thereto, although formerly they never made choice of, enlarged, or changed the Militia at London, but they ſtill were pleaſed firſt to communicate the ſame unto the Court of Common Council of this City: But we humbly and thankfully acknowledge, That upon our humble Petition the Parliament preſently recalled the ſame, and re-eſtabliſhed the Militia appointed by Ordinance of the 4th. of May laſt as aforeſaid. And therefore being thus awakened by this unexpected and undeſerved interpoſition of the Army in the Militia of the City, which we muſt proteſt to be ſubject to no other cognizance but of the King and Parliament; and having experience how ſtrongly the Army have ever inſiſted upon any thing they once demanded, we cannot but foreſee how far our Proceedings in this buſineſs may be miſrepreſented to the Kingdom, and miſunderſtood by thoſe, who from the great profeſſions of the Army, have, or do expect from them a ſpeedy Settlement of the Peace of the Kingdom, and ſo may be poſſeſſed with ſomething, as if we, by conteſting for our Militia, did ſeek to retard the ſame. And this hath caſt us upon this Declaration, wherein although we have unwillingly been enforced to touch upon ſome proceedings of the Army with the Parliament and this City, which preceded their intermedling with our Militia, yet we could not omit the ſame, that we might make it clear to the Kingdom what little reaſon the Army had, when they had obtained ſo much from the Parliament, and that the City had ſo far complied with them, at laſt to demand the change of that Militia which never moved in any thing without our cognizance, and ſo could never give the Army any juſt cauſe of exception. And we well hope, that all the Kingdom will be fully ſatisfied hereby how extremely deſirous we have been all along to avoid giving any juſt cauſe of offence or provocation, and be convinced that we could not in Honour do leſs than we have done to preſerve our Intereſt in ſo great a part of our Government. For our parts, we call God to witneſs, we have a brotherly ſenſe of the many great preſſures under which the Country muſt needs lie, by quartering the Army; and when the Army ſhall be ready, of which they have given the Kingdom ſo great hopes, to offer any thing to the Parliament, for the Settlement of the Publick, none ſhall more readily and zealouſly join with them therein than We, who from the bottom of our hearts abhor the thoughts of a new War. But if this Vindication of our Right in the Militia of the City ſhall be thought by the Army to be a juſt cauſe for them, either to divert them from falling ſpeedily upon that which concerns the publick Peace, or to caſt them upon extraordinary Courſes, let God, the Kingdom, and the whole World, be Judge between Them and Us.

As for that Petition and Engagement which hath been lately ſet on foot in the Name of divers Citizens, Commanders, Officers and Soldiers of the Trained Bands and Auxiliaries, the Young Men and Apprentices of the Cities of London and Weſtminſter, Sea Commanders, Seamen, and Watermen, together with divers other Commanders, Officers, and Soldiers within the Line of Communication and Pariſhes mentioned in the Weekly Bills of Mortality, directed unto the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons, in the Common or Guild-Hall aſſembled. Upon which the Army alſo have by their Letter of the 23d. of July laſt, given us their Senſe. To this we have no more to ſay, but that, for as much as we can collect, we find this Petition and Engagement to be occaſioned from the Intelligence which came from the Army, that they would demand the alteration of the Militia of this City; at which if our City, and other the Inhabitants, took the Alarm, the Diſtemper which it begot cannot be charged on the Government of the City: Neither can we ſee why the Army ſhould take notice thereof, it being only intended to the Common-Hall, but never preſented, even as the Petition of their Soldiery was to their General, which being taken notice of by the Parliament, as it was in agitation, was then ſo deeply reſented by the Soldiery, that from thence hath followed the putting of the Army into that poſture wherein now it is. Having thus cleared our ſelves from any deſign to embroil our ſelves or the Kingdom in a new War, we find our ſelves obliged (by which alſo we hope the whole World will be the more fully ſatisfied of our deſires for a ſpeedy, firm, and juſt Peace) to declare unto the whole Kingdom the bottom of our hearts and affections, as in relation to His Majeſty, whom we have always, and ſhall ever acknowledge to be our true and only Sovereign, although his Royal Perſon have, during theſe Diſtractions, been divided from us. Our Remonſtrance, Repreſentation, and Petition before-mentioned, and a later Petition to both Houſes on the 17th. of March laſt, preſently after His Majeſty came to Holmby, have, we doubt not, already juſtified us, That in all our Addreſſes to the Parliament, upon all occaſions which did concern the Publick, we have ever remembred to expreſs our earneſt deſires for His Majeſty's honourable and ſpeedy Return to His Houſes of Parliament; and ſince His ſurprizal we have with much longing attended what the Army would propound concerning His Majeſty in particular, according to the greater expectation which they have raiſed in the People, from that which they have hinted in their Declaration or Repreſentation, and other Papers of their Intentions towards His Majeſty: But upon what great Affairs, conducing to the ends the Army at firſt profeſſed, the time hath been hitherto ſpent, and nothing done, but to get the whole Power of the Kingdom and City into their hand, is ſufficiently apparent.

We therefore do in the preſence of Almighty God profeſs, That there is nothing in the World that we more deſire, than that His Majeſty may be put and left free, in ſuch an honourable Condition and Capacity, as His Perſon may appear to be at Liberty, to receive and treat upon ſuch Propoſitions as ſhall be preſented unto Him from the Parliaments of both His Kingdoms; For our Conſciences tell us, that whil'ſt His Royal Perſon is environed by an Army, and remains under the power thereof, we cannot expect that either His Majeſty's Princely Heart can give that free aſſent unto thoſe things which ſhall be propounded unto Him as is requiſite; or if He do, cannot hope with good reaſon that we and our Poſterity ſhall without alteration enjoy the ſame; and therefore we are reſolved earneſtly, yet with humility, to apply our ſelves to the Parliament to this purpoſe, and hope that all good Subjects, who are touched with any due ſenſe of that Duty and Allegiance which by the Law of God and Man they owe unto their King, will unanimouſly join with us therein.

We cannot omit alſo to declare unto the Kingdom, how we have ſadly obſerved, ſince the Eleven accuſed Members withdrew themſelves, and that the Army hath daily grown upon the Parliament, that a very great and conſiderable number of other Members of the Houſe of Commons have alſo retired themſelves, to the endangering of the Kingdom, which never more needed a full Council: And therefore we ſhall make our ſpeedy Addreſs to the Honourable Houſe of Commons to call in the Members of their Houſe, reſiding in the Army, or retiring to their Dwellings by leave of the Houſe, or otherwiſe: And we ſhall particularly inſiſt upon the re-admiſſion of the Eleven Members, lately driven out of the Houſe of Commons by the violent Purſuit of the Army, contrary to the ſenſe of the ſame Houſe, the Law of the Land, and the Priviledges of Parliament; wherein alſo we are confident, all good Engliſh-Men, and lovers of their Country, will adhere to them and us.

We ſhould Expreſs our ſelves further to vindicate this City before the Kingdom, from the Aſperſions which may have, throughout theſe Diſtractions, been caſt upon this City to have been the firſt Promoters and Contrivers of this unnatural War, which God for the Sins of this Nation hath brought upon the Kingdom: But that God is our Witneſs, how deſirous we have been at all times, and ſtill are, of a ſafe and well-grounded Peace; and with what Fellow-feeling we have looked upon the Miſeries, which this long War hath brought upon our Fellow-Subjects throughout the Country.

And thus, as we have herein truly and clearly ſtated the matter of difference (if it can be called any) between us and the Army, to wit this alone, that we could not ſubmit the Militia of this City to be altered at the pleaſure of an Army, after it had been ſo Orderly Settled in the Hands of ſuch as were Entruſted therewith for one whole Year, when there was a full and free Parliament; ſo we find it more than time, that the whole Kingdom were poſſeſſed with the true State thereof: And therefore, and to this end, we have been neceſſitated to this Declaration, whereby we are confident, the whole Kingdom will clearly diſcover, upon whom the guilt of a New War (which we do ſtill and will ever Abhor) muſt juſtly lie: So, and no otherwiſe ſhall we expect a Bleſſing from Almighty God, in our juſt Defence (if we muſt be put upon the ſame) then as from the bottom of our Hearts we ſincerely deſire an happy and ſpeedy Peace, by the Settlement of true Religion in this Kingdom, by re-eſtabliſhing His Majeſties juſt Rights and Authority, by upholding all lawful Priviledges of a free Parliament, by maintaining the Fundamental Laws of the Land, by reſtoring and ſecuring the Subject unto, and in his juſt Right and Property, and by freeing this long oppreſſed Kingdom of all Taxes and the enforced Free-Quarters towards the maintenance of an Army, which of a long time hath had no viſible Enemy to encounter: And from this Reſolution by the Bleſſing of God, we ſhall never recede for any Earthly Conſideration or advantage whatſoever.

A Letter from both Houſes of Parliament to his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, concerning the City of London, and other things relating to the Peace of the Kingdom.

The Generals Letter to the Commiſſioners of Parliament.

May it pleaſe your Excellency,

THE Houſes having this Day received from their Commiſſioners a copy of your Letter to them dated at Bedford, July 29. with a copy of another Letter of the ſame Date, writ to the City of London, in both which, though there be no account at all of the motion of your Army, yet the Houſes underſtand by the Letters from their Commiſſioners in which the Copies were encloſed, and otherwiſe, that you have given Orders for the marching of the Army towards London upon pretence of defending the Houſes from the danger of Tumults; upon conſideration whereof the Houſes have commanded us to let you underſtand, that as they cannot but have a deep ſenſe of the undue Liberty which ſome Apprentices of the City of London, and others, from whom they might have expected more obedience, have taken to themſelves to violate the juſt Authority, Priviledges, and Freedom of Parliament, in which the ſafety of the whole Kingdom is concerned, and ſo they doubt not but the ſenſe of ſo great an Offence will at laſt ſtrike all their Breaſts that have been acceſſary thereunto, with a Deteſtation of any practices of the like nature for the future: And as the Houſes cannot imagine, that the Diſorder Committed by ſome Apprentices, or thoſe that mingled with them, had the allowance of the City of London, ſo they have ſince received full ſatisfaction by the ſtrict Orders given out by the Lord Mayor and Common Council of the City, to all Maſters to have care of their Servants, and by their Declaration proclamed in the ſeveral parts of the City, for the preventing and ſuppreſſing of Tumults, that they ſhall ſit with much Freedom and Security from any diſturbance for the Future. And therefore the Houſes ſeeing no cauſe to command that Army, or any part thereof, to march up for their defence, but rather judging (by the Diſtractions raiſed at the News thereof) that the motion of the Army near the City, is like to precipitate the City and Army in a deſperate and Bloody Engagement, not only to the diſturbance of the Parliaments Sitting, but alſo to the deſtruction thereof, and of all Authority, by caſting the whole Kingdom into Confuſion. For prevention thereof, they have ſent you this encloſed Order, requiring you, as you tender the Freedom of Parliament, the ſafety of the City and whole Kingdom, to give exact Obedience thereunto, this being all we have in Command, we reſt.

CHAP. XVII.

Proceedings in Parliament from Auguſt 1. to Sept. 4. 1647.

Carol. I.

The Heads of the Propoſals agreed upon by his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax and the Council of the Army, to be tendred to the Commiſſioners of Parliament reſiding with the Army, and with them to be treated on by the Commiſſioners of the Army: Containing the Particulars of their Deſires in purſuance of their former Declarations and Papers. In order to the clearing and ſecuring of the Rights and Liberties of the Kingdom, and the ſetling a juſt and laſting Peace. To which are added ſome further particular Deſires (for the removing and redreſſing of divers preſſing Grievances) being alſo compriſed in, or neceſſary Purſuance of their former Repreſentations and Papers appointed to be treated upon.

I. THAT (things hereafter propoſed, being provided for by this Parliament) a certain Period may (by Act of Parliament) be ſet for the ending of this Parliament (ſuch Period to be put within a Year at moſt) and in the ſame Act Proviſion to be made for the Succeſſion and Conſtitution of Parliaments in future, as followeth:

1. That Parliaments may biennially be called and meet at a certain Day, with ſuch Proviſion for the Certainty thereof, as in the late Act was made for Triennial Parliaments; and what further or other Proviſion ſhall be found needful by the Parliament to reduce it to more Certainty; and upon the paſſing of this, the ſaid Act for Triennial Parliaments to be repealed.
2. Each Biennial Parliament to ſit 120 Days certain (unleſs adjourn'd or diſſolv'd ſooner by their own Conſent) afterwards to be adjournable or diſſolvable by the King, and no Parliament to ſit paſt 240 Days from their firſt Meeting, or ſome other limited Number of Days now to be agreed on; upon the Expiration whereof each Parliament to diſſolve of courſe, if not otherwiſe diſſolv'd ſooner.
3. The King, upon Advice of the Council of State, in the Intervals betwixt Biennial Parliaments, to call a Parliament Extraordinary, provided it meet above 70 Days before the next Biennial Day, and be diſſolv'd at leaſt 60 Days before the ſame; ſo as the courſe of Biennial Elections may never be interrupted.
4. That this Parliament and each ſucceeding Biennial Parliament at or before Adjournment or Diſſolution thereof, may appoint Committees to conti-

An. 1647. nue during the Interval for ſuch purpoſes as are in any of theſe Propoſals referr'd to ſuch Committees.

5. That the Elections of the Commons for ſucceeding Parliaments may be diſtributed to all Counties, or other Parts or Diviſions of the Kingdom, according to ſome Rule of Equality of Proportion, ſo as all Counties may have a Number of Parliament Members allow'd to their Choice, proportionable to the reſpective Rates they bear in the Common Charges and Burthens of the Kingdom, according to ſome other Rule of Equality or Proportion, to render the Houſe of Commons (as near as may be) an equal Repreſentative of the whole; and in order thereunto, That a preſent Conſideration be had to take off the Elections of Burgeſſes for poor decay'd or inconſiderable Towns, and to give ſome preſent Addition to the Number of Parliament Members for great Counties that have now leſs than their due Proportion, to bring all (at preſent) as near as may be, to ſuch a Rule of Proportion as aforeſaid.

6. That effectual Proviſion be made for future Freedom of Elections, and Certainty of due Returns.

7. That the Houſe of Commons alone have the Power from time to time to ſet down further Orders and Rules for the Ends expreſt in the two laſt Preceding Articles, ſo as to reduce the Elections of Members for that Houſe to more and more Perfection of Equality in the Diſtribution, Freedom in the Election, Order in the Proceeding thereto, and Certainty in the Returns, with Orders and Rules (in that caſe) to be in Laws.

8. That there be a Liberty for entering Diſſents in the Houſe of Commons with Proviſion, that no Member be cenſurable for ought ſaid or voted in the Houſe further than to Excluſion from that Truſt; and that only by the Judgment of the Houſe it ſelf.

9. That the Judicial Power, or Power of Final Judgment in the Lords and Commons (and their Power of Expoſition and Application of Law, without further Appeal) may be clear'd: And that no Officer of Juſtice, Miniſter of State, or other Perſon adjudg'd by them, may be capable of Protection or Pardon from the King without their Advice or Conſent.

10. That the Right and Liberty of the Commons of England may be cleared and vindicated as to a due Exemption from any Judgment, Tryal, or other Proceeding againſt them by the Houſe of Peers without the concurring Judgement of the Houſe of Commons: As alſo from any other Judgment, Sentence, or Proceeding againſt them, other than by their Equals, or according to the Law of the Land.

11. The ſame Act to provide, That Grand Jury-Men may be choſen by and for ſeveral Parts of Diviſions of each County reſpectively, in ſome equal way (and not to remain as now, at the Diſcretion of an Under-Sheriff to be put on or off) and that ſuch Grand Jury-Men for their reſpective Counties, may at each Aſſize preſent the Names of Perſons to be made Juſtices of Peace from time to time, as the Country hath need for any to be added to the Commiſſion, and at the Summer Aſſize to preſent the Names of three Perſons, out of whom the King may prick one to be Sheriff for the next Year.

II. For the future Security to Parliament and the Militia in general, in order thereunto, That it be provided by Act of Parliament,

1. That the Power of the Militia by Sea and Land during the Space of ten Years next enſuing ſhall be order'd and diſpoſed by the Lords and Commons aſſembled, and to be aſſembled in the Parliament or Parliaments of England, by ſuch Perſons as they ſhall nominate and appoint for that purpoſe from time to time during the ſaid Space.

2. That the ſaid Power ſhall not be order'd, diſpos'd, or exercis'd by the King's Majeſty that now is, or by any Perſon or Perſons by any Authority deriv'd from him, during the ſaid Space, or at any time hereafter by his ſaid Majeſty, without the Advice and Conſent of the ſaid Lords and Commons, or of ſuch Committees or Council in the Intervals of Parliament, as they ſhall appoint.

3. That during the ſame Space of ten Years the ſaid Lords and Commons may by Bill or Ordinance raiſe and diſpoſe of what Monies, and for what Forces they ſhall from time to time find neceſſary; As alſo for Payment of the Publick Debts and Damages; and for all other the publick uſes of the Kingdom.

4. And to the end the temporary Security intended by the three Particulars laſt precedent may be the better aſſured, it may therefore be provided,

That no Subjects that have been in hoſtility againſt the Parliament in the late War, ſhall be capable of bearing any Office of Power or publick Truſt in the Common-wealth during the ſpace of Five Years without the Conſent of Parliament, or of the Council of State; or to ſit as Members or Aſſiſtants of either Houſe of Parliament, until the Second Biennial Parliament be paſt.

III. For the preſent Form of diſpoſing the Militia in order to the Peace and Safety of this Kingdom and the Service of Ireland,

1. That there be Commiſſioners for the Admiralty with the Vice-Admiral and Rere-Admiral, now to be agreed on, with Power for the forming, regulating, appointing of Officers and providing for the Navy, and for ordering the ſame to, and in the ordinary Service of the Kingdom; And that there be a ſufficient Proviſion and Eſtabliſhment for Pay and Maintenance thereof.

2. That there be a General for Command of the Land-Forces that are to be in Pay both in England, Ireland and Wales, both for Field and Garriſon.

3. That there be Commiſſioners in the ſeveral Counties for the ſtanding Militia of the reſpective Counties (conſiſting of Trained-Bands and Auxiliaries not in Pay) with Power for the proportioning, forming, regulating, training, and diſciplining of them.

4. That there be a Council of State with Power to ſuperintend and direct the ſeveral and particular Powers of the Militia laſt mention'd for the Peace and Safety of this Kingdom, and of Ireland.

5. That the ſame Council may have power as the King's Privy-Council, for and in all foreign Negotiations; provided that the making of War or Peace with any other Kingdom or State ſhall not be without the Advice and Conſent of Parliament.

6. That the ſaid Power of the Council of State be put into the Hands of truſty and able Perſons now to be agreed on, and the ſame Perſons to continue in that Power (ſi bene ſe geſſerint) for a certain Term not exceeding Seven Years.

7. That there be a ſufficient Eſtabliſhment now provided for the Salary Forces both in England and Ireland, the Eſtabliſhment to continue until two Months after the meeting of the firſt Biennial Parliament.

IV. That an Act be paſſed for diſpoſing the Great Offices for Ten Years by the Lords and Commons in Parliament; or by ſuch Committees as they ſhall appoint for that purpoſe in the Intervals (with Submiſſion to the Approbation of the next Parliament) and after Ten Years they to nominate Three, and the King out of that Number to appoint One for the Succeſſion upon any Vacancy.

V. That an Act be paſſed for reſtraining of any Peers made ſince the 21ſt day of May, 1642. or to be hereafter made, from having any Power to ſit or vote in Parliament without conſent of both Houſes.

VI. That an Act be paſſed for recalling and making void all Declarations and other Proceedings againſt the Parliament, or againſt any that have acted by, or under their Authority in the late War, or in relation to it; And that the Ordinances for Indempnity may be confirmed.

VII. That an Act be paſſed for making void all Grants, &c. under the Great Seal, that was conveyed away from the Parliament ſince the time that it was ſo conveyed away (except as in the Parliaments Propoſitions) and for making thoſe valid that have been or ſhall be paſſed under the Great Seal, made by the Authority of both Houſes of Parliament.

VIII. That an Act be paſſed for Confirmation of the Treaties between the two Kingdoms of England and Scotland; and for appointing Conſervators of the Peace betwixt them.

IX. That the Ordinance for taking away the Court of Wards and Liveries be confirmed by Act of Parliament; provided his Majeſty's Revenue be not damnified therein, nor thoſe that laſt held Offices in the ſame, left without Reparation ſome other way.

X. An Act to declare void the Ceſſation of Ireland, &c. and to leave the Proſecution of that War to the Lords and Commons in the Parliament of England.

XI. An Act to be paſſed to take away all coercive Power, Authority, and Juriſdiction of Biſhops and all other Eccleſiaſtical Officers whatſoever, extending to any Civil Penalties upon any: and to repeal all Laws whereby the Civil Magiſtracy hath been, or is bound, upon any Eccleſiaſtical Cenſure to proceed (ex officio) unto any Civil Penalties againſt any Perſons ſo cenſured.

XII. That there be a Repeal of all Acts or Clauſes in any Act enjoyning the Uſe of the Book of Common-Prayer, and impoſing any Penalties for neglect thereof, as alſo of all Acts or Clauſes in any Act, impoſing any Penalty for not coming to Church, or for Meetings elſewhere, for Prayer or other Religious Duties, Exerciſes or Ordinances, and ſome other Proviſion to be made for diſcovering of Papiſts and Popiſh Recuſants, and for diſabling of them, and of all Jeſuits or Prieſts from diſturbing the State.

XIII. That the taking of the Covenant be not enforc'd upon any, nor any Penalties impoſed on the Refuſers, whereby Men might be reſtrained to take it againſt their Judgments or Conſciences; but all Orders or Ordinances tending to that purpoſe, to be repealed.

XIV. That (the things here before propoſed, being provided, for ſetling and ſecuring the Rights, Liberties, Peace and Safety of the Kingdom) his Majeſty's Perſon, his Queen, and Royal Iſſue, may be reſtor'd to a Condition of Safety, Honour and Freedom in this Nation, without Diminution to their Perſonal Rights, or further Limitation to the Exerciſe of the Regal Power then according to the Particulars foregoing.

XV. For the Matter of Compoſition.

1. That a leſs Number out of the Perſons excepted in the two firſt Qualifications (not exceeding Five for the Engliſh) being nominated particularly by the Parliament, who (together with the Perſons in the Iriſh Rebellion, included in the third Qualification) may be reſerved to the further Judgment of the Parliament as they ſhall find Cauſe, all other excepted Perſons may be remitted from the Exception, and admitted to Compoſition.

2. That the Rates of all future Compoſitions may be leſſened and limited, not to exceed the ſeveral Proportions hereafter expreſſed reſpectively. That is to ſay,

1. For all Perſons formerly excepted, not above a Third Part.

2. For the late Members of Parliament under the firſt Branch of the fourth Qualification in the Propoſitions, a Fourth Part.

3. For other Members of Parliament in the 2d and 3d Branches of the ſame Qualification, a Sixth Part.

4. For the Perſons nominated in the ſaid fourth Qualification, and thoſe included in the tenth Qualification, an Eighth Part.

5. For all others included in the ſixth Qualification, a Tenth Part: And that real Debts either upon Record, or proved by Witneſſes, be conſider'd and abated in the Valuation of their Eſtates in all the Caſes aforeſaid.

3. That thoſe who ſhall hereafter come to compound, may not have the Covenant put upon them as a Condition without which they may not compound, but in caſe they ſhall not willingly take it, they may paſs their Compoſitions without it.

4. That the Perſons and Eſtates of all Engliſh not worth 200 l. in Land or Goods, be at liberty and diſcharged: And that the King's menial Servants that never took up Arms, but only attended his Perſon according to their Offices, may be freed from Compoſition, or to pay (at moſt) but the proportion of one Years Revenue, or a twentieth Part.

5. That in order to the making and perfecting of Compoſitions at the rates aforeſaid, the Rents, Revenues, and other Duties and Profits of all ſequeſtred Eſtates whatſoever (except the Eſtates of ſuch Perſons who ſhall be continued under Exception as before) be from henceforth ſuſpended and detained in the Hands of the reſpective Tenants, Occupants and others from whom they are due, for the ſpace of ſix Months following.

6. That the Faith of the Army, or other Forces of the Parliament given in Articles upon Surrenders to any of the King's Party may be fully made good; and where any Breach thereof ſhall appear to have been made, full Reparation and Satisfaction may be given to the Parties injur'd, and the Perſons offending (being found out) may be compell'd thereto.

XVI. That there may be a general Act of Oblivion to extend unto all (except the Perſons to be continued in Exception as before) to abſolve from all Treſpaſſes, Miſdemeanours, &c. done in proſecution of the War; and from all Trouble or Prejudice for or concerning the ſame (after their Compoſitions paſt) and to reſtore them to all Privileges, &c. belonging to other Subjects, provided as in the fourth Particular, under the ſecond general Head afore-going concerning Security.

And whereas there have been of late ſtrong Endeavours and Practices of a factious and deſperate Party to embroil this Kingdom in a new War, and for that purpoſe to induce the King, the Queen, and the Prince to declare for the ſaid Party, and alſo to excite and ſtir up all thoſe of the King's late Party to appear and engage for the ſame, which Attempts and Deſigns, many of the King's Party (out of their deſires to avoid further Miſery to the Kingdom) have contributed their Endeavours to prevent (as for divers of them we have had particular Aſſurance:) We do therefore deſire, that ſuch of the King's Party who ſhall appear to have expreſſed, and ſhall hereafter expreſs that way their good Affections to the Peace and Welfare of the Kingdom, and to hinder the imbroyling of the ſame in a new War, may be freed and exempted from Compoſitions, or to pay but one Years Revenue, or a twentieth Part.

Theſe Particulars aforegoing are the Heads of ſuch Propoſals as we have agreed on to tender in order to the ſetling of the Peace of this Kingdom, leaving the Terms of Peace for the Kingdom of Scotland to ſtand as in the late Propoſitions of both Kingdoms, until that Kingdom ſhall agree to any Alteration.

Next to the Propoſals aforeſaid for the preſent ſetling of a Peace, we ſhall dedeſire that no time may be loſt by the Parliament for diſpatch of other things tending to the Welfare, Eaſe and juſt Satisfaction of the Kingdom, and in ſpecial manner:

I. That the juſt and neceſſary Liberty of the People to repreſent their Grievances and Deſires by way of Petition, may be cleared and vindicated, according to the fifth Head in the late Repreſentation or Declaration of the Army ſent from St. Albans.

II. That (in purſuance of the ſame Head in the ſaid Declaration) the common Grievances of this People may be ſpeedily conſidered of, and effectually redreſſed, and in particular,

1. That the Exciſe may be taken off from ſuch Commodities, whereon the poor People of the Land do ordinarily live, and a certain time to be limited for taking off the whole.

2. That the Oppreſſions and Encroachments of Forreſt-Laws may be prevented for the future.

3. All Monopolies (old or new) and Reſtraints to the Freedom of Trade to be taken off.

4. That a courſe may be taken, and Commiſſioners appointed to remedy and rectifie the Inequality of Rates lying upon ſeveral Counties, and ſeveral parts of each County in reſpect of others, and to ſettle the proportion for Land-Rates to more Equality throughout the Kingdom; in order to which we ſhall offer ſome further Particulars, which we hope may be uſeful.

5. The preſent unequal troubleſome and contentious way of Miniſters Maintenance by Tithes to be conſidered of, and ſome Remedy applied.

6. That the Rules and courſe of Law, and the Officers of it may be ſo reduced and reformed, as that all Suits and Queſtions of Right may be more clear and certain in the Iſſues, and not ſo tedious nor chargeable in the Proceedings as now; in order to which, we ſhall offer ſome further Particulars hereafter.

An. 1647.

7. That Priſoners for Debt, or other Creditors (who have Eſtates to diſcharge them) may not by embracing Impriſonment, or any other ways, have advantage to defraud their Creditors, but that the Eſtates of all Men may be ſome way made liable to their Debts (as well as Tradeſmen are by Commiſſions of Bankrupt) whether they be impriſoned for it or not. And that ſuch Priſoners for Debt, who have not wherewith to pay, or at leaſt do yield up what they have to their Creditors, may be freed from Impriſonment; or ſome way provided for, ſo as neither they nor their Families may periſh by their Impriſonment.

8. Some Proviſion to be made, that none may be compelled by Penalty or otherwiſe to anſwer unto Queſtions tending to the accuſing of themſelves, or their neareſt Relations in Criminal Cauſes; and no Man's Life to be taken away under two Witneſſes.

9. That Conſideration may be had of all Statutes, and the Laws or Cuſtoms of Corporations, impoſing any Oaths either to repeal, or elſe to qualifie and provide againſt the ſame ſo far as they may extend or be conſtrued to the Moleſtation or enſnaring of religious and peaceable People, merely for Nonconformity in Religion.

III. That according to the ſixth Head in the Declaration of the Army, the large Power given to Committees or Deputy-Lieutenants during the late times of War and Diſtraction, may be ſpeedily taken into conſideration to be recalled and made void, and that ſuch Powers of that nature as ſhall appear neceſſary to be continued, may be put into a regulated way, and left to as little Arbitrarineſs as the Nature and Neceſſity of the things (wherein they are converſant) will bear.

IV. That (according to the ſeventh Head in the ſaid Declaration) an effectual courſe may be taken that the Kingdom may be righted, and ſatisfied in point of Accompts for the vaſt Sums that have been levied.

V. That Proviſion may be made for Payment of Arrears to the Army, and the reſt of the Soldiers of the Kingdom who have concurr'd with the Army in the late Deſires and Proceedings thereof: And in the next place for payment of the publick Debts and Damages of the Kingdom; and that to be perform'd, Firſt, to ſuch Perſons whoſe Debts or Damages (upon the publick Account) are great, and their Eſtates ſmall, ſo as they are thereby reduced to a difficulty of Subſiſtence; In order to all which, and to the fourth Particular laſt preceding, we ſhall ſpeedily offer ſome further Particulars (in the nature of Rules) which we hope will be of good uſe towards publick Satisfaction.

Auguſt 1. 1647.

Signed by the Appointment of his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax and the Council of War.

J. RUSHWORTH.

A

A Meſſage to the King's Majeſty from both Houſes of Parliament for his coming to London: Alſo the Votes of both Houſes, in anſwer to Papers deliver'd by the Scots Commiſſioners, coming from his Majeſty; With a Declaration of the Lords and Commons of the Committee of the Safety and the Militia of London, to the whole Kingdom, of the Reſolutions of the Parliament and City. Ordered by the Committee of Lords and Commons for the Safety of the King and Parliament, City and Kingdom; and alſo by the Committee of the Militia of the City of London and Parts adjacent, that the ſaid Declaration be Printed and Publiſhed.

Tho. Partington, Clerk.

To the King's Moſt Excellent Majeſty.

May it pleaſe your Majeſty,

We your Majeſty's moſt humble and loyal Subjects, the Lords and Commons aſſembled in the Parliament of England, have agreed upon theſe encloſed Votes, and do humbly preſent them to your Majeſty; Remaining Weſtm. Aug. 2. 1647.

Your Majeſty's moſt humble and loyal Subjects,
HUNSDON, Speaker of the Houſe of Peers pro tempore.
H. PELLAM, Speaker of the Houſe of Commons.

The Votes are as follow, viz.

Whereas the King hath been ſeized upon, and carried away from Holmby without his Conſent, or the Conſent of the Houſes of Parliament, by a Party into the Army, where his Majeſty yet remaineth; the Lords and Commons in Parliament aſſembled, do deſire That his Majeſty will be pleaſed immediately to come to ſuch Places as both Houſes of Parliament ſhall appoint: And they do declare, That he ſhall there be with Honour, Freedom, and Safety; and that they with the Commiſſioners of the Kingdom of Scotland will make their Addreſſes unto his Majeſty for a ſafe and well-grounded Peace.

Reſolv'd upon the Queſtion, by the Lords and Commons aſſembled in Parliament, That London be the Place whither the King ſhall be deſired to come, where both Houſes of Parliament and the Commiſſioners of the Kingdom of Scotland may make their Addreſſes to him for a ſafe and well-grounded Peace.

John Browne, Cler. Parl.
Hen. Elſynge, Cler. Parl. D. Com.

Right Honourable,

The Committee of Eſtates of the Kingdom of Scotland having ſent us frequent Directions ſince theſe late Commotions, to give them a true Account from time to time of his Majeſty's Condition; In purſuance thereof, we deſired the Earl of Lauderdale to repair to his Majeſty at Wooburne, where we expected that he ſhould have been uſed with that Reſpect which is due to a Commiſſioner of the Parliament of Scotland: But we are herein extreamly diſappointed: For on Saturday Morning early before his Lordſhip was out of his Bed, a great many Soldiers ruſhed into his Chamber, and coming to his Bed ſide, deſired him ſpeedily to be gone without any Delay.

He repreſented unto them his Employment, that he was there in the Capacity of a Commiſſioner of Scotland to attend his Majeſty: That he had reſolved to go away that Morning; and intreated he might have the liberty firſt to ſpeak with his Majeſty, which they would not grant; but violently inſiſted, that what they demanded might forthwith be put in Execution, and would not hearken to any Reaſon he offered unto them, telling him it was paſt diſpute: It was reſolved upon, what they did therein would be owned by the Army, and they would maintain it with other Expreſſions of this kind.

An. 1647.

We do acknowledge the Civility of the Commiſſioners of both Houſes, who acted their parts in diſſuading them from ſo unwarrantable an Action; and one of the Commiſſioners in particular repreſented unto them the Danger thereof, acquainting them that he had been an Embaſſador abroad, and did very well underſtand that this Injury done by them to a Commiſſioner of the Parliament of Scotland was of a very high nature; intreating, that if they apprehended any thing from Scotland, the Breach might not be made upon the Kingdom of England's part: and that they would not give juſt Cauſe by this Action to the Kingdom of Scotland to make War againſt England: But no Argument did prevail: So at length the Earl of Lauderdale was forced to depart, having publickly proteſted before the Commiſſioners of both Houſes, that he was debarred Acceſs to the King of Scotland, and his Liberty taken from him, contrary to the Law of Nations, and a particular Agreement betwixt the Kingdoms.

We have formerly repreſented unto the Honourable Houſes, how his Majeſty was carried away from Holmby by a Party of Sir Tho. Fairfax's Army (which the Soldiers before-mentioned did on Saturday laſt before the Earl of Lauderdale and ſome of the Commiſſioners of both Houſes, own to be the Act of the whole Souldiery of the Army.) We did likewiſe acquaint the Houſes, how our Letters to Scotland were intercepted by ſome of that Army.

August 2. 1647.

A Declaration from his Excellency Sir Tho. Fairfax and his Council of War, concerning their Proceedings in the Propoſals prepared and agreed by the Council of the Army; together with the Heads of the ſaid Propoſals, containing the Particulars of their Deſires in purſuance of their former Declarations and Papers, in order to the clearing and ſecuring of the Rights and Liberties of the Kingdom, and the ſetling of a juſt and laſting Peace: To which are added ſome further particular Deſires for the removing and redreſſing of divers preſent Grievances; being alſo compriſed in, or in neceſſary purſuance of their former Repreſentations and Papers appointed to be treated on.

The Declaration follows, viz.

SINCE our drawing back to Reading, we have applied our ſelves with all Diligence to frame and haſten an intire Body of all the particular Propoſals, which we would tender to the Commiſſioners of Parliament reſiding with the Army, to be treated on in purſuance of thoſe General Deſires expreſſed in our former Declarations and Papers, for the ſecuring of the Common Rights and Liberties, and a preſent ſetling of the Peace of the Kingdom. In which Buſineſs, (notwithſtanding the many Interruptions and Diſturbances with daily Advertiſements of the indirect Practices and Preparations of the Committee of Militia and others in and about the City of London, and elſewhere, tending to a new War, have occaſioned, to the diverting or retarding of our Proceedings therein; yet) we have made a Progreſs as ſpeedy as the Nature and Weight of ſuch a Work would admit: And having finiſhed the ſame, we have delivered in an Abſtract of the Heads thereof unto the ſaid Commiſſioners of Parliament to be treated upon.

But the late pernicious Engagement ſet on foot in the City, and (much more) that prodigious Violence done to both Houſes of Parliament on Monday laſt, having wholly taken us off for the preſent, and rendred all Proceedings in the way of Treaty thereupon meerly vain and hopeleſs, until it ſhall pleaſe God the Parliament be righted and vindicated againſt that Violation done to it, and reſtored into a Condition of Freedom, ſo as the unqueſtion'd Members of it may repair together with Safety, and proceed according to their juſt Freedom; We have thought good in the mean time to make this publick Tender of the Heads of the Propoſals to the Conſideration of the whole Kingdom; wherein, though all Circumſtances requiſite to be determined in an actual Settlement, be not ſo fully and perfectly expreſſed as upon the Treaty intended (if not interrupted as before) they might ſpeedily have been, yet all Men may ſee and underſtand in theſe the Effect and Bottom of our Deſires: Whereupon we have ſincerely ſtudied that a preſent Peace might be ſetled; which ſame thing (with and after ſuch Vindication of the Parliament as may again render it into a Capacity to eſtabliſh the ſame) we ſhall ſtill faithfully endeavour to the utmoſt of our powers, and accordingly ſhall expect the chearful and hearty Concurrence of all thoſe who are or ſhall be ſatisfied concerning the Integrity of our Intentions to the Peace and Welfare of the Kingdom in theſe Propoſals; or who ſhall (for the main) deſire or approve of the ſame things with us in order to a Settlement. And to theſe Propoſals which we here firſt tender as neceſſary to a Peace; and upon which, we deſire the Seal of Peace (in the Reſtitution of his Majeſty and others to their Rights; and in an Act of Oblivion to be paſs'd.) We cannot but add the further Expreſſion of our Deſires in ſome other particulars, which though not Eſſential to Peace, as neceſſarily to precede the ſetling of it, yet being Matters of very publick, and (moſt of them) of general, Grievance to the Kingdom (which we every-where find the Out-cries of) and being conſtrained in, or purſuance of, the ſame things expreſſed in our former Repreſentations and Papers: We ſhall deſire, that (the Parliament being ſet free) no time may be loſt for a ſpeedy Conſideration of them, ſo as the former things for the preſent ſetling of Peace be not delayed thereby.

A Declaration of the Lords and Commons of the Committee for the Safety and the Militia of London, to the whole Kingdom, of the Reſolutions of the Parliament and City.

FOR the better Satisfaction of the Kingdom, the City of London, (who have been the principal Maintainers of the Army) now advancing againſt them, is for Peace, and hath omitted nothing to ſhew their Deſires to maintain a good Underſtanding with the Army; what the City doth in ſtanding upon their Guard, is for their own Defence, and not to engage in a new War, but to put a ſpeedy Period to the Kingdoms Troubles, and haſten Ireland's Relief: They profeſs they have, and ſhall always endeavour to procure the Soldiers Indempnity, and that they may have their Arrears paid them; and have no other end, but that God may have his Glory, the King's Majeſty ſetled in his juſt Rights, the Parliament enjoy their Privileges and Freedoms, and the Subject their Fundamental Laws, Liberty and Peace: and this being the Reſolution of this City, they are confident no Perſon of Honour, good Conſcience, and Lover of their Country, will draw Sword, or uſe Violence againſt them, but rather ſtand for their Defence and Safety.

Ordered by the Committee of Lords and Commons, for the Safety of the King, Parliament, City and Kingdom; and alſo by the Committee of the Militia of the City of London and Parts adjacent, that this Declaration be printed and publiſhed.

A Letter from a Gentleman in the Army concerning the King's Majeſty and the Proceedings of the Army, dated at Colebrook Aug. 2. 1647.

Right Honourable,

‘THE General's Head-Quarters are yet here at Colebrook; but this day they are intended to march to a Rendezvous at Hownſlow-Heath: part of the Horſe are gone over into Kent, of the General's own Regiment, under Major Desborough; the other part are in Eſſex; Thoſe (we hear) have ſeized on the Fort at Tilbury called the Block-houſe. As for the Block-houſe at Graveſend, that we hear is not much tenable, and of little uſe to be kept, except it be guarded when taken.

“The King is reſolv'd to remove from Latimer to a Houſe near Windſor, which his Majeſty hath made choice of, and I ſuppoſe will not be denied him.

“The Army hath contracted their Head-Quarters cloſer out of the ſeveral Counties where they were quartered; the laſt being now come up, and (I ſuppoſe) will be at the Rendezvous this Day on Hounſlow-Heath.

‘This Night it is to be reſolv'd by a Council of War what ſhall be done in matter of Advance againſt the City, when to approach and where.

‘There is no Anſwer ſent from the General or the Council of War, to the Letter from the Parliament, by reaſon that they do not take notice of the Houſes ſitting.

‘I am ſorry to ſee things ſo high.

‘I am grieved at the very Heart to ſee the imminent Dangers hanging over us, if God divert not the Deluge of Blood threatning us.

‘Colonel Juleday had notice that Sir Samuel Luke was at his Houſe at Cople in Bedfordſhire near Bedford, and thereupon he ſent out a Party of his Regiment thither, who (as we hear) have taken him Priſoner.

‘Divers Members of both Houſes are with the Army, and more with the Head-Quarters.

‘The Council of War have had ſome Debates about a Declaration; but as yet it is not concluded. I hear they intended to ſummon the City of London firſt; but the Truth is (I ſuppoſe) it is not fully reſolv'd by the General and Council of War in that particular.

'The Printed Declaration from the City of London was yeſterday brought 'to the General, and read at a Council of War.

'The Lord Lauderdale (one of the Scots Commiſſioners) is put away 'from the Court, not being admitted to the King before he went from 'Wooburne.

'God ſend a Compoſure of theſe unhappy Differences.

Dear Sir,

I Have a ſad Subject to write unto you of, which makes me tremble: It is briefly thus; That Colonel Sir Robert Pye's Troop quartered at Deptford within a Mile of this Town; and at ſome other adjacent Villages a Party of Horſe came upon them, (as it is ſaid, they came over Henly-Bridge, and ſo into Kent, and ſo wheeled about this way) they came to parly with the Soldiers, intending (as it is believed, to have taken them Priſoners) but upon the Parly ſome of them came to ſuch high Words, they called them Run-away Rogues; the others retorted to them again; and the mean while ſome got to Horſe; but at laſt it came to Blows: Some they took in purſuit, four were ſlain in the Purſuit, and divers wounded of Sir Robert Pye's Men. Here are Blows ſtruck, here is Blood ſhed; the Lord direct the Parliament, and the City, and the Army, to ſtudy how to compoſe theſe freſh Diviſions, leſt poor England be overwhelmed in the Red Sea of Sub-diviſions.

An Alderman declared then in a Speech the danger of a new War.

There was alſo a Petition in the Name of many thouſand well-affected Citizens, praying that ſome means might be uſed for a Compoſure, &c. at which time Colonel General Poyntz and ſome other Officers of the new Liſt attended for Orders of the Militia, came into Guild-hall Yard amongſt the Petitioners, and in a cruel manner with their Swords hacked and hewed many of them, and mortally wounded divers, whereof ſome are ſince dead: So the Petitioners were forced to fly, and Poyntz and the reſt left to triumph in their Bloody Deſign. After this, an Alderman of the City made a very gallant Speech in the Common-Council, declaring the Danger of a new War, both to the City and Kingdom; and but little was concluded, although the Common-Council ſate till Nine at Night, only agreed to ſend a Letter to his Excellency the next Day.

To the Right Honourable his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, General of all the Forces raiſed by the Parliamentary Power within the Kingdom of England.

The Humble Remonſtrance and Petition of many the Well-affected within the County of Devon.

SHEWETH,

THAT whereas the Petitioners now at length, after ſo many evident Demonſtrations and Teſtimonies of the Good Hand of God towards this Nation in its greateſt Extremities and loweſt Condition, giving it a Power to reſcue its almoſt Enthralled Liberties: And by the Guidance of your worthy ſelf, making ſucceſsful, to the overthrowing of the Common and Deſperate Adverſary of the publick Weal, did expect the Reſtitution of our priſtine Freedom, in the Removal of all Illegal Burdens, the Aboliſhment of all Arbitrary Proceedings in Courts Judicatory; and the caſting out of ſuch baſe-hearted Men from Places of publick Concernment, that to advantage their own private Intereſts, and build their own Houſes, though in the Ruine of their Neighbours, yea, the Deſtruction of the Kingdom, follow their Deſigns with much Heat and Eagerneſs of Spirit, cannot yet but with much Sadneſs and Trouble of Heart repreſent to your Excellency, with the reſt faithful in the Land, the Heavy Preſſures and Intolerable Grievances which your poor Petitioners groan under, even in this the very Day of our Hopes, that thoſe who have been thought uſeful, and have employed themſelves to the endangering of their Lives, and waſting their Eſtates in the Kingdoms Extremity, are now reputed unworthy to be entruſted, nay, to live in a peaceable manner, beſides their Neighbours, but are hall'd before Magiſtrates and impriſoned, when nothing can be found worthy of Death or Offence in them; they have Interrogatories for their ſelf-Condemnation, propoſed to them little inferiour, if not exceeding the Cuſtomary Proceedings in the High-Commiſſion Court; But if any that prove more zealous, entruſted in the Execution of Juſtice than others, being earneſt in extirpating of Vice, and dealing ſo faithfully in their Truſts, be found a little differing in Judgment about theſe Out-ſide Controverſies in the Land, though blameleſs in Converſation and Office, are thruſt out, and others unable to govern their own Houſes or Heads placed in; and are thought more meet to officiate in Places of ſuch high nature; and contrariwiſe, ſuch who formerly, becauſe of their Malignity to the Parliament, were judged unmeet to lodge within a Garriſon without Confinement of Body, have ſince been chief Examiners of ſome of your Petitioners and Promoters of their Hardſhips, and are now raiſed not only to Places of Judicature in the Country, but ſet as Steerſmen at the Kingdom's Helm; from whom, if Providence prevent not, inſtead of Safety, we may expect nothing but Shipwrack; ſo that in very deed the utmoſt we can yet ſee into, after ſo large Expence of Blood and Treaſure, is only the Exchange of Men in places, but not of Manners; old Burdens with new Names, and new Men with old Corruptions, the Root and Spring from whence moſtly our Sorrows (becauſe of our Oppreſſions) do ariſe, is the late Undue Election of Burgeſſes in our neighbour County of Cornwall, and elſewhere, where private Relation with Affection to Perſons more than the publick Good, did both make the Choice, and gave the Voice, and of ſuch as any faithful Heart would bleed to conſider what dangerous Effects their Conſultations might produce, being Men devoted to Senſuality, ſtrong in Wine, weak in Wiſdom, minding more their Luſts than their Labour, their Honour than their Honeſty; and what their Evils, Tendency, and Event of a Kingdom's power repoſed in the Hands of ſuch Perſons may be, let the World be ſilent if it can: You are not ignorant (Right Honourable) what a ſore Diſtemperature the Diſeaſe of the Head to the Body Naturals; and can it be leſs in the Politicals? From the Conſideration of the Premiſſes, your Petitioner's humble Suit is, That ſeeing your Excellency was primarily entruſted with that Power now under your Command for the Redemption of the Subjects Birth-right of Liberty, You would ſtill in purſuance thereof endeavour all poſſible Ways and Means to work its Eſtabliſhment: Seeing now God calls you thereto through the Defect of thoſe from whom our Hope for Relief now fails us: For it cannot enter into our Thoughts that God ſhould leave a People beyond poſſibility of Recovery, when thoſe that are entruſted with the Rule of a Nation are corrupted through the Diſaffection of ſome, may judge your Proceedings unwarrantable: And ſithence your Excellency, with the Strength commanded by you, is eyed as the only Viſible Support the Kingdom ſurvives by, your Petitioners humbly ſupplicate you would uſe it to the prevention of a new War, leſt through a further Embroilment, this already almoſt waſted Land come to utter Deſolation and Ruin, however that you be not perſwaded to lay it by till the Kingdom, with its Ruler be committed to the Care and Charge of ſuch faithful Perſons of Truſt and Integrity, as may ſecure this Nation from their fear of future Oppreſſion, and render us a happy People in the due and impartial Adminiſtration of Juſtice; in proſecution of which, and every your juſt and honourable Deſigns, your Excellency ſhall have both the Prayers and Perſons of your Petitioners engaged.

The City ſends a Letter to the General for an Anſwer to their Letters by ſix Aldermen and 12 Common-Council Men.

Upon Auguſt 3. the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council of the City of London, having agreed upon a Letter to ſend to the General, ſix Aldermen and twelve of the Common-Council went with the ſame early this Morning, and preſented it to the General at Colebrook: The Letter was as followeth.

A Letter agreed upon by the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council Men of the City of London, to be ſent to the General at Colebrook.

Right Honourable,

That the Army approacheth near.

UNto all our peſent Unhappineſs we have this added; That we have not yet received any Anſwer from your Excellency to our two laſt Letters, although the Army be approached ſo near unto us, and that ſome of our Committee have daily attended to that purpoſe: But we are reſolved to omit nothing unattempted, though all Diſcouragements do manifeſt, as we have always profeſt, how much we deſire Peace and abhor a new War;*

Yet they abhor a new War.

War; and to this end we have added ſix Aldermen and twelve Commons to the Committee we formerly appointed to attend your Excellency; from whom your Excellency will pleaſe to receive our Senſe of the great Offence that the Army hath taken againſt this City, and give ear and credit unto thoſe things which they delivered unto your Excellency and your Honourable Council of War on our behalf: We have no more to ſay, but to purſue them with our Prayers, that God will give a Bleſſing to their and our Endeavours; and avert his heavy Judgments from this City, and encline your Noble Heart to weigh ſeriouſly the Miſeries of a new War; wherein whatſoever ſhare is allotted to this City, the Deſolation will have an Influence upon the whole Kingdom.

London, Aug. 2. By the Command of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London.

MICHELL.

In Anſwer to the Letter from the City the Army preſents the City-Commiſſioners with a Declaration and Propoſals.

Upon the preſenting of this Letter the Commiſſioners for this City had preſented them a Declaration by the General and Council of War on behalf of themſelves and the whole Army, ſhewing the Grounds of their preſent Advance towards London: They likewiſe preſented them a Copy of the Grand Propoſals of the Army for a ſettled Peace, and a ſhort Declaration thereunto added; both which are to be ſeen at large at the beginning of this Month; and theſe they received as the Grand Deſires and Propoſals of the Army, and Declaration of their Proceedings and Intentions.

Auguſt 2. 1647.

A Declaration of his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax and his Council of War on behalf of themſelves and the whole Army; ſhewing the the Grounds of their preſent Advance towards the City of London.

WHEN this Army was formerly led by the manifold Diſpenſations of God's Providence, and the Grounds then declared, to advance towards the City of London; we held it our Duty to yield the Kingdom the Sum of thoſe Deſires which we had to propoſe on behalf of it our ſelves, wherein we ſhould acquieſce: And having received from the Parliament ſome Hopes of due Satisfaction therein; and ſome Aſſurance from the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council of the City of London, of their ready Concurrence with us in thoſe things; and alſo great Reſolution profeſſed by them of their Care and Tenderneſs to preſerve all the Rights and Priviledges of Parliament; ſafe, free, and inviolated from Attempts of all kind; we do appeal to God, to the City and to all Men, what a ſpeedy Compliance to their Deſires for our Removal to a further Diſtance, found in this Army for preventing all Fears, Jealouſies and other Inconveniences to the City; and to give clear Teſtimony that we had nothing in our Breaſts but Thoughts of Peace, and the Good and Welfare both of Parliament, City and Kingdom, notwithſtanding many falſe and ſcandalous Reports raiſed that we ſought our ſelves, that we had vile and wicked Ends; and that nothing would ſatisfie the Soldiers but the Plunder of the City; the contrary whereof did manifeſtly appear when they ſo readily marched back upon Hopes of Satisfaction in their Deſires of publick Concernment.

Having then upon the aforeſaid Confidence ſo withdrawn, and out of a juſt ſenſe of the Countries ſuffering (by Quartering) removed the Head Quarters of the Army above Forty Miles from London, and diſperſed the reſt well nigh Two Hundred Miles, for the more eaſe of all Parts, and that we might give the better ſatisfaction to the Kingdom. And being in this ſecure way, and labouring after the ſudden ſettlement of the Kingdom, we had even brought to Perfection the particular Propoſals (included in the Generals of our firſt Repreſentation) to be ſent to the Parliament for a final concluſion of all our Troubles. And alſo had made good progreſs towards the preſent relief of diſtreſſed Ireland, by aſſigning a competent Force, both of Horſe and Foot, forthwith to have advanced for that Service.

But the Kingdoms and our Enemies being moſt vigilant and active to prevent and fruſtrate thoſe good Intentions and Endeavours of ours, that they might carry on their former Evil Deſigns and underhand Practices, and alſo preſerve themſelves from the hand of Juſtice, they have endeavoured to caſt the Kingdom into a new and bloody War. And for that end have procured the under-hand Liſting of ſeveral Reformado's, and others; have contrived, promoted, and cauſed to be entred into by ſeveral Perſons, a wicked and treaſonable Combination; as it is ſufficiently manifeſted by a Declaration paſſed thereupon by Both Houſes of Parliament the 23*d. July* laſt, for the prevention of the Diſturbances that were like to enſue thereupon; from which kind of Diſorders the City had been well preſerved, during the ſpace of almoſt Four Years, whilſt the Militia was in the hands of the old Commiſſioners; whereby it appears, there was cauſe for the Army to intreat the Parliament, that the Militia might be returned into the hands it was in before; as alſo for divers other good Reaſons.

1. The old Commiſſioners of the Militia (that have been ſince left out) were not only Perſons without all Exception, having been formerly choſen and approved by the Parliament and City, but alſo Men of whom the City, Parliament, and Kingdom have had above Four Years Experience in the faithful diſcharge of their Truſt; Men that ever, from the beginning, in the worſt of Times, and in the occaſions of greateſt Difficulty, had faithfully and conſtantly ingaged for, and with the Parliament in this Cauſe; Men that were always moſt deſirous of a Peace, but of a ſafe and well grounded one, and that had always teſtified a great Care to prevent all occaſions of embroiling the Kingdom in a new War.

Now that on a ſudden this Truſt which they had ſo faithfully diſcharged ſo long, ſhould be taken out of their hands, and put into the hands of others, ſome whereof (at the beſt) have been very cool in the Service of the Parliament at the beginning of this War: That this ſhould be preſſed, and in a manner forced upon the Parliament, with ſuch importunity from the Common-Council, that ſome out of every Ward ſhall be aſſigned to ſollicite the Members of the Houſe of Commons, every Day as they went in and out of the Houſe, with Profeſſions that they would never leave the Door of the Houſe 'till they were ſatisfied in their Deſires. That they would not be contented with the Militia of the City of London only, unleſs they might have Power alſo over that of the Suburbs and Out-parts: And all this before the Peace of the Kingdom was ſettled, or the Propoſitions ſent to the King for that purpoſe.

Theſe things miniſtred great cauſe of Suſpicion, that this alteration of the Militia was in order to a Deſign, and to make the Terms of the Peace, and Agreement with the King (on which the Security of the whole Kingdom, and their Poſterity, is to be bottomed) more ſuitable to the private Bargainings and Undertakings of ſome Men, than to the publick Welfare of the whole Kingdom, in its Security and Proſperity, for the preſent and in future Times. But this Deſign diſcovered it ſelf more clearly by ſuch things as accompanied the purſuit of this alteration of the Militia, and enſued upon the obtaining thereof. At the ſame time that the alteration of the Militia of London was ſet on foot, the ſame Perſons with as much earneſtneſs preſſed for the diſbanding of this Army, before any thing was ſettled for the Security and Liberty of the Kingdom. At the ſame time the Common-Council was new modellized, and a Lord Mayor choſen that might ſuit with the preſent

Deſign in hand. At the ſaid time (under colour of Differences in ſome circumſtances of Church Government) it was earneſtly endeavoured, that ſuch as had been conſtantly true, and moſt faithful to the Intereſt of the Kingdom, ſhould be diſabled to have any Employment in Church and Common-Wealth, either in England or Ireland, and without any ſuch Colour or Pretence, divers Perſons were left out of the Common-Council and Militia of eminent Deſerts and Fidelity, and others brought into their rooms, that had either teſtified an ill Affection, or little Affection to the Parliament and their Cauſe: And ſuch as ſeeking to withdraw themſelves from all Imployment in the beginning of this War, now at the winding up thereof, are ambitious to thruſt themſelves into Imployment, with a deſign (as may juſtly be ſuſpected) to fruſtrate and overthrow, in the cloſe of all, the fruit and effect of all the Coſt and Blood that hath been ſpent and ſpilt in this Cauſe: And after that with difficulty, and not without reluctancy in the Houſes of Parliament, they had obtained the Power of the Militia in the City of London, and alſo in the Out-parts, for the ſpace of one Year, many Officers and Under-Officers in the Trained-Bands, of known Truſt and Fidelity were diſplaced, and others of more doubtful Affections placed in their rooms, little care was taken of the Honour of the Parliament, which was continually trampled under foot, and their Authority affronted by every rabble of Women, Apprentices, Reformado's, and Soldiers; which latter ſort of Perſons were thereby ſo encouraged to riſe higher and higher in their tumultuous Carriages againſt the Houſes, 'till at length it is riſen to the height of barbarous and monſtrous Violence againſt the Parliament, that they might ſet themſelves on Work, and the Kingdom on Fire again. And now at length the deſign appears open-faced, and though the Militia be made as the principal ground of the Quarrel, yet by the late Vows and Engagements ſet on foot before any alteration of the Militia, and the preſſing ſo much the Meſſage of the 12th. of May, and the King's coming to London to confirm the ſame, ſhew, that the Militia is deſired but in order to that deſign, and to force the Parliament (being wholly in their Power) to ſuch terms of Peace as they pleaſed.

2. In the next place, when the Intereſt of Common-Council, in their change of the Militia ſhall be claimed as the Birth-right of the City of London, (which they never had any colour to pretend to, ſaving by the Indulgency of the Parliament unto them, ſince this Parliament, in reſpect to the great uſe they have had of them, and the many good Services they have received from them.)

It is time for all the Kingdom to look to their Birth-rights, if ſuch a Claim ſhall be held up againſt Both the Houſes of Parliament: That upon no occaſion whatſoever, nor in no time of danger and diſtraction whatſoever, they may appoint thoſe that ſhall have the Power of the Militia of London, without the conſent of the Common-Council; eſpecially when as the Houſes ſhall ſit under their Power.

The late Example may evidence to all the World, who ſhall be Maſters of the Parliament's Freedom and Reſolutions: And common reaſon will teach every Man, who ſhall be Maſter's of the Birth-rights of the whole Kingdom, when there ſhall be no Army on foot, when they have the confidence to diſpute for the Maſtery, notwithſtanding ſuch an Army as this, to check and ballance them in behalf of the Kingdom and Parliament.

3. Laſtly, The Army diſcerning how intimate ſome of the new Militia were with ſome of the Eleven accuſed Members, how forward they were to comply and act with them in their Endeavours to raiſe a new War; how they made Eighteen or Nineteen Votes in order thereunto, together with them in one Night.

All which the Common-Council and Parliament diſliked and revoked; how notwithſtanding afterwards they ſecretly promoted their Deſigns by private Liſtings, which now appear to have been ſtill working under Ground.

The Army, we ſay, obſerving this, and having nothing more in their Thoughts and Deſires, than to ſettle a ſpeedy, ſafe, and well-grounded Peace, and to prevent a new War, found it neceſſary to deſire, That the Militia might be put into the hands wherein it was formerly, who had approved themſelves both to the Army, Parliament, and Kingdom, to be ſober-minded Men, and not given to any Practice whereby a new War might be kindled.

To the intent that the Army being ſecured by that means from that danger, might with the more confidence retire further from the City, inlarge their Quarters, for the greater eaſe of the Kingdom, and intend wholly the ſettling of a ſure Peace in this Kingdom, and a ſpeedy and effectual relief of Ireland; which was almoſt brought to a Period, and nothing in the ſight of Man could have hindred, but this curſed Practice of Violence upon the Parliament, under pretence of the Militia; which, according to our deſire, being reſtored again into the hands of the old Commiſſioners, by an Ordinance of Both Houſes, dated the 21*ſt.* of July (in purſuance of the aforeſaid treaſonable Combination) ſeveral Petitions were preſented to the Common-Council of the City of London, in the Name of the Apprentices and others, importing their deſires, that the Militia of the City might continue in the hands of the former Commiſſioners, according to the Ordinance of the 4th of May laſt.

Whereupon, Munday July 26. the Common-Council of the City preſents their Petitions to Both Houſes for changing the Militia, wherein the Houſe of Lords refuſe to alter their Reſolutions; the Houſe of Commons anſwered, they would take it into Conſideration the next Morning; notwithſtanding which, the City and Kingdom cannot be ignorant with what Rage and Inſolency the Tumult of Apprentices the ſame Day forced Both Houſes. They block'd up their Doors, ſwearing they would keep them in 'till they had paſſed what Votes they pleaſed; they threatned the Houſes, if they granted not their deſires, knocking, hooting, and hollowing ſo at the Parliament Doors, that many times the Members could not be heard to ſpeak or debate, not ſuffering the Houſe of Commons to divide for determining ſuch Queſtions as were put, crying out, that thoſe that gave their Votes againſt them, ſhould be ſent out to them, very often and loudly ſaying, Agree, agree, diſpatch, we'll wait no longer; and in this outragious manner they continued at the Houſe above eight Hours together, the City Guards there preſent, nor the City relieving them, by reaſon whereof the Houſe was forced to vote what that rude Multitude would demand, and then adjourned the Houſe till the next Morning; after which, the Houſe riſing, the Speaker, and many Members going out of the Houſe, they forced them back again into the Houſe, many of the Apprentices preſſing in with them, where they ſtood with their Hats on their Heads, and compelled the Speaker to take the Chair, and the Houſe to vote in their Preſence what they pleaſed; committing many other Inſolencies, as is publiſhed by the Speaker of the Houſe of Commons in his Declaration, and is too well known by all then preſent; and during the time of this execrable Violence done by the ſaid Apprentices, Weſtminſter-Hall and the Palace-Yard, was filled with Reformado's and other ill-affected Perſons deſigned to back them.

After this, the Houſes being Adjourned till Friday following, upon the Thurſday the Apprentices printed and poſted a Paper in ſeveral places of the City, requiring all their Fellows to be early at the Parliament the next Morning, for that they intended to Adjourn by Seven of the Clock, and that for a Month. Thus the Speakers, with many of the Members were driven away from the Parliament.

This in brief being the true State of things as they have broke forth within theſe few Days; (which are ſo contrary to all thoſe Pretences of Peace and Deteſtation of a new War of late, ſo frequently held forth on all ſides;) all Men may obſerve to what Maturity the long projected Deſign of ſome Men (of whom are thoſe that are Impeached by us) is now brought and may be traced in the ſeveral Steps thereof, as it hath tended to the enſlaving of this Kingdom, and the deſtruction of all ſuch well-affected People who would not comply with them therein; ſo as by what now is come to light, the juſtneſs of that Cauſe this Army had engaged themſelves in, and the great and wonderful Mercy of God in continuing them together, we aſſure our ſelves doth now clearly appear to all Mens Eyes and Apprehenſions, and will every Day more and more be acknowledged, even by thoſe that have heretofore made a Queſtion of it.

An. 1647.

And if when this Kingdom hath ſpent ſo much of its Blood and Treaſure, hath paſt through ſuch unheard of Dangers, and overcome ſuch Difficulties ſo many Years together. All that they muſt now hope for, and reſt in, muſt only be what the King grants in his Meſſage of the 12th. of May laſt: And if this muſt be impoſed upon Mens Judgments and Conſciences by an Oath, and now entered into in a tumultuous and unlawful way; and by Outrage maintained in deſpight and Contempt of the Parliament: If rather than this ſhould not be accompliſhed, the Parliament it ſelf muſt be violated, and forced into the Hands of ſuch of the Members thereof as have ſecretly abetted, and ſomented thoſe Practices to that end, that theſe hidden Councils and Works of Darkneſs might, when they come to their full Birth, have the Image of higheſt Authority in the face of them the better to gain credit thereunto, and ſecure the Authors of them from Puniſhment; ‘For the evidence of all which we refer our ſelves in the Particulars in our Charge againſt the Eleven Members, compared with thoſe Paſſages of late broke forth, before rehears'd; unto which we ſhall now only add, and leave it to the Conſideration of all wiſe and good Men, with what Artifice and Boldneſs theſe Members have ſerved themſelves of thoſe horrid Tumults and Violences of their own creating (inſtead of ſhewing their Deteſtation of them) again to intrude themſelves into the publick managing of Affairs; and inevitably to embroil the Kingdom in a new War, which their own Revenge and the compaſſing of their former Plots and Deſigns, makes them ſo greedily thirſt after.

If theſe things (we ſay) muſt be the End and Upſhot of all, what then remains to this poor Kingdom and all true-hearted Engliſh Men, but to joyn together as one Man with their Counſels, Eſtates and Lives in this way, as our laſt Refuge under God; which, by his wiſe and gracious Providence hath provided and reſerved by keeping up this Army even to a Miracle, ſo to prevent the aforeſaid Evils, and to procure to this Dying Kingdom yet a ſettled Peace and Happineſs, if it be his Bleſſed Will.

Theſe things being ſeriouſly conſidered by us, we have thought fit in the Name of the Army to declare, That all ſuch Members of either Houſe of Parliament as are already with the Army for the Security of their Perſons, and for the Ends aforeſaid, are forc'd to abſent themſelves from Weſtminſter, that we ſhall hold and eſteem them as Perſons in whom the publick Truſt of the Kingdom is ſtill remaining, that they cannot for the preſent ſit as a Parliament with freedom and ſafety at Weſtminſter; and by whoſe Advice and Counſels we deſire to govern our ſelves in the managing theſe weighty Affairs: And to that end we invite them to make Repair to this Army to joyn with us in this great Cauſe, we being reſolved, and do hereby faithfully oblige our ſelves to ſtand by them therein, and to live and die with them againſt all Oppoſition whatſoever; and in particular we do hold our ſelves bound to own that Honourable Act of the Speaker of the Houſe of Commons, who upon the Grounds he himſelf expreſſed in his Declaration ſent unto us, hath actually withdrawn himſelf; and hereupon we do further engage to uſe our utmoſt and ſpeedy Endeavours, that he and thoſe Members of either Houſe that are thus enforc'd away from their Attendance at Weſtminſter, may with Freedom and Security ſit there, and again diſcharge their Truſt as a free and legal Parliament: And in the mean time we do declare againſt that late Choice of a new Speaker by ſome Gentlemen at Weſtminſter, as contrary to all Right, Reaſon, Law, and Cuſtom: And we profeſs our ſelves to be moſt clearly ſatisfied in all our Judgments; and are alſo confident the Kingdom will herein concur with us, that as things now ſtand, there is no free nor legal Parliament ſitting, being through the aforeſaid Violence at preſent ſuſpended; And that Orders, Votes, or Reſolutions forced from the Houſe on Munday the 26th of July laſt, as alſo all ſuch as ſhall paſs in this Aſſembly of ſome few Lords and Gentlemen at Weſtminſter, under what Pretence and Colour ſoever, are void and null, and ought not to be ſubmitted unto by the Free-born Subjects of England.

And that we may prevent that Slavery deſigned upon us and the Nation, that the Kingdom may be reſtored to a happy State of a Viſible Government, now eclipſed and darkned, we hold our ſelves bound by our Duty to God and the Kingdom, to bring to condign Puniſhment the Authors and Fomenters of that unparallell'd Violence done to the Parliament; and in that, to all the Free-born Subjects of England, that are, or hereafter ſhall be: And therefore we are reſolved to march up towards London, where we do expect that the well-affected People of that City will deliver up unto us (or otherwiſe put into ſafe Cuſtody, ſo as they may be reſerved to a Legal Tryal) the Eleven Members impeached, that have again thruſt themſelves into the Management of Publick Affairs by this wicked Deſign.

And that all others will give us ſuch Aſſiſtance therein, that the Members of both Houſes may receive due Encouragement to return to Weſtminſter, there to ſit with all Freedom, and ſo to perform their Truſt, as ſhall conduce to the Settlement of this diſtracted Kingdom; and to inflict ſuch Puniſhments upon theſe late Offenders as ſhall deter any for the future to make the like Attempt.

Our Lives have not been dear unto us for the Publick Good; and being now reſolved by the Aſſiſtance of God, to bring theſe Delinquents to their deſerved Puniſhments, as that then, which there cannot be any thing of more Publick Concernment to the Kingdom, we truſt (if it ſhall come to that) our Blood ſhall not be accounted too dear a Price for the accompliſhment of it. And if any in the City will engage themſelves againſt us to protect theſe Perſons, and ſo put the Kingdom again into a new and miſerable War, the Blood muſt be laid to the Account of ſuch Perſons as the Authors thereof

And, Laſtly, Becauſe it is the main Engine of ours and the Kingdom's Enemies, to render us odious by poſſeſſing the Minds of Men, that we we gape only after the Plunder of this Great and Wealthy City; as the Experience of the contrary Carriage in all Towns that we have taken, yieldeth unto us a Teſtimony beyond the Example of any Army; ſo we do from our Hearts declare, that we abhor the Thought thereof: And we doubt not but the World ſhall ſee our Actions anſwerable to our Profeſſions; and that we ſhall not cauſe any Man to ſuffer but by his own Default; and that God will manifeſt we have only in our Eyes, that Juſtice may have a free Courſe, the Parliament a free Sitting and Voting, and a full Vindication of the late Violence done to them.

And as for the City of Weſtminſter, the Borough of Southwark, the Hamlets, and the reſt of the Suburbs, and Out-parts, as we are inform'd, that they are not ſo ready to engage themſelves in a new War as ſome would have them, ſo we are ſenſible of the hard Condition that they are brought into, even by them that claim a Right againſt both Houſes of Parliament (a ſtrange Claim againſt a Parliament, though more reaſonable againſt others) not to be ſubjected to a Militia without their own Conſent; and yet will not be contented unleſs they may have others ſubjected unto them, and lay what Burthens they pleaſe upon them without allowing them any part of Vote or Conſent with them; In which Points of Common-Right and Equity, we ſhall not be wanting (in a due way) to aſſiſt them for the obtaining of their juſt Deſires and Immunities; it being our chief Aim to ſettle Peace with Truth and Righteouſneſs throughout the Kingdom, that none may be oppreſſed in his juſt Freedom and Liberties, much leſs the Parliament it ſelf; which things being duly ſettled, we ſhall be as ready alſo to aſſure unto the King his juſt Rights and Authority, as any that pretend it never ſo much, for the better upholding of an ill Cauſe, and the Countenance of Tumultuous Violence againſt the Parliament, the which our honeſt, juſt, and neceſſary Undertakings, as we are reſolved to purſue with the utmoſt Hazard of our Lives and Fortunes; ſo we doubt not but we ſhall find God's accuſtomed Goodneſs and Aſſiſtance with us therein, till we have brought them to a good and happy Concluſion for this poor diſtracted and languiſhing Kingdom.

This day the Army did Rendesvouz on Hounſlow-Heath.

The great Preparation of the General and Army this Day, was for the general Rendezvous appointed to be upon Hounſlow-Heath, and a gallant appearance there was of at leaſt 20000 Men, Horſe and Foot, a gallant Train of Artillery, as the Commiſſioners themſelves for the City can teſtifie, who came thither to ſee the Army, but made but a ſhort ſtay, and returned for London.

A further Account of the general Rendezvous, we had by a Letter, to this purpoſe.

Intelligence from the Rendezvous.

Lords and Commons there preſent, and the Speaker, Will. Lenthall, Eſq;

This day the Army had a Rendezvous on Hounſlow-Heath, where was preſent the Earl of Northumberland, the Earl of Saliſbury, Earl of Kent, the Lord Grey of Wark, the Lord Howard of Eſtwrick, the Lord Wharton, Lord Say and Seal, and the Lord Mulgrave, and others of the Houſe of Peers, in all about Fourteen, the Speaker of the Houſe of Commons, and about a Hundred Members of that Houſe.

The Army drawn up in Battalia.

The Palſgrave viewed the Army.

The whole Army was drawn up in Battalia with Reſerves upon the Heath, near a Mile and half in length; the General, accompanied with the ſaid Lords and Commons, and other Gentry, rode along through the Army, and took a view of them from Regiment to Regiment, and the Members rode along before the Front; and as they paſſed each Regiment they were received with great Acclamations of the Soldiers, both Horſe and Foot, crying with a loud Voice, Lords and Commons, and a Free Parliament, ſhouting and hallowing, and throwing up their Hats. Having thus viewed the Army, the ſaid Lords and Commons took their Leave of the General, and part of them went to the Earl of Northumberland's Houſe at Sion; and others to the Lord Say's Houſe at Stanwell. Theſe were no ſooner parted but Intimation was given the General, that the Palſgrave was come into the Field: Whereupon the General, with his Life-Guard, and many Gentlemen attending him, went to meet him. With the Palſgrave came the Earl of Denbigh, the Lord Grey, and many other Gentlemen, and after ſome Ceremonies paſt between his Highneſs and his Excellency, they all likewiſe took view of the Army, and as they paſſed each Regiment, were received with the like Acclamations of the Soldiers, crying, Lords and Commons, and a Free Parliament.

The Head Quarters that Night at Thiſtleworth.

Well-affected incenſed againſt Poyntz.

Afterwards the General received a Letter of the Deportment of the Inhabitants of Southwark, their ſtanding out againſt the Deſign of raiſing a new War, crying out againſt the City for their forwardneſs therein, caſting themſelves upon the General's Protection, and deſiring ſome ſpeedy Aſſiſtance and Aid from him; whereupon, after Conſultation with the Council of War, one Brigade of the Army commanded by Collonel Gainsborough, was ſent to their Aid, and marched in the way over Kingſton-Bridge into Surrey, the reſt of the Army about Six at Night drew off the Field: The General's Head-Quarters that Night was at Thiſtleworth, and the Train of Artillery drew to Brentford, and the Army on this ſide the River about Brentford and Hammerſmith. General Maſſie, we hear, is very buſie in his new Command in the City, and ſent out Scouts, but beyond Brentford a Party of the King's Army took Four of them: Afterwards ſome of ours met with a Party from the City, and took one of their Colours. The Army is very much incenſed againſt Collonel Poyntz, for killing and wounding ſo many well-affected Citizens, that they are hardly to be kept from falling on him and the new liſted Men. This great Buſineſs is like to come to a ſpeedy Iſſue, God grant it may be done without Ingagement, and we hope it will, for the Citizens have ſent Six Aldermen and Twelve Commoners, with a very reſpectful Letter to the General, beſeeching a way of Compoſure.

Hounſlow, Auguſt 3. 1647.

Proclamation no Soldier on pain of Death to go to London.

The General made Proclamation, that no Soldier upon pain of Death ſhould go to London without Order. The Lady Pye petitioned the General for a Paſs for her Husband, Sir Robert Pye, to go beyond Sea, which was granted.

Another Letter from the City to the General at Thiſtleworth.

This Morning, being Wedneſday Auguſt the 4*th*. another Letter was preſented to the General at Thiſtleworth, from the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, &c. of London, in theſe Words:

The Letter followeth.

Right Honourable,

We have, by ſome of that Committee, which we ſent down unto your Excellency this Morning, received the Declaration of your Excellence, and your Council of War, on the behalf of your ſelves, and the whole Army, as we were ſitting in Council, about Five of the Clock in the Afternoon, and have heard the ſame read, and conſidered ſeriouſly thereupon; and by our Committee we have had a full Relation of all Paſſages between your Excellency and them; and foraſmuch as we obſerve from the ſaid Declaration, of the chief Cauſe that hath drawn your Excellency and your Army thus near the City, is to bring home thoſe Noble and Honourable Members of Both Houſes; who, becauſe of the Tumults at Weſtminſter the 26th. paſt, have retired themſelves, to the end they may be placed in Safety, and in Free Parliament at Weſtminſter, We chearfully and heartily join with your Excellency therein; and according as We ſhall find Directions from your Excellency, they ſhall find all Ports and Paſſes open to receive you and them, as alſo ſuch Guards of Two or Three Regiments as your Excellency ſhall think fitting, for their Conduct to the Two Houſes of Parliament; and the Parliament being ſate with Peace and Safety, We ſhall humbly ſubmit to their Direction, what Forces of yours and ours to continue for their future Guard; in which Service, we humbly offer the whole Strength of this City; all other Matters which in this ſtreight of Time we cannot go through, We wholly refer and ſubmit to be determined by Both Houſes, when they ſhall be ſet in ſafety at Weſtminſter, as aforeſaid, and in confidence that God will give a Bleſſing to theſe our Endeavours, for the taking away all Offences and Miſunderſtanding, We have recalled our late Declaration, Publiſhed in the Name of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common-Council aſſembled: And now we well hope, That your Excellency will receive ſuch ſatisfaction hereby, as that you will with-hold the Soldier from doing any Offence or Prejudice to the City, or Lines of Communication.

The City approves of the Armies march ſo near to London.

And order that the Ports and Paſſes to be open for the Army.

And recall their Declaration which provok'd the Army.

London, Aug. 3. 1647.

By Command of the Lord-Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons at London, in Common-Council aſſembled.

A Brigade of Horſe and Foot enter into Southwark, and plant Ordnance againſt the Gate at the Draw-bridge on London-Bridge, but is let down again by Order from the City, notwithſtanding Colonel Jeremiah Baines his oppoſition to the Army.

This Morning alſo about Two of the Clock, Colonel Rainsborough, Colonel Hewſon, Colonel Pride, and Colonel Roſſiter's Regiment, Commanded then by Lieutenant Colonel Twiſleton, with their ſeveral Regiments of Horſe and Foot, which is the Brigade commanded out on Hounſlow-Heath, marched into the Burrough of Southwark, without any Oppoſition, the Soldiers carrying themſelves very civilly, without doing hurt to any; and finding the City Gate on the Bridge ſhut, and the Port-cullis let down, as alſo a Guard within; they planted Two Pieces of Ordnance againſt the Gate, and ſet a Guard without, and in a ſhort time after the great Fort was yielded to them.

Now the City conſents to deliver up to the Army the Forts and Works on the Weſt ſide of the City, from St. Giles's in the Fields, to the Waterſide.

About Two of the Clock this Afternoon the Six Aldermen, and Twelve Commoners, before-mentioned, returned from His Excellency to the Common-Council at Guild-Hall, with the General's Demands, to have the Forts on the Weſt ſide of the City of London to be delivered up to him; and that Security being given, he would bring the Members of Both Houſes, who were forced from the Parliament, to Weſtminſter, to ſit in the Free Parliament; and of this an Anſwer was to be returned to the General by Six of the Clock at Night: And after a full debate thereupon a Letter was drawn up and ſent to His Excellency in theſe words:

The City's Letter followeth.

They draw off their Forces and great Guns from their Forts and Line.

Right Honourable,

B*Y thoſe of our Committee which came from you this Day, we underſtand your Excellency's and your Honourable Council of War, their Expectation to be poſſeſſed of all Forts from* Giles's Fort, and that to be one, down to the River-ſide, by Six of the Clock this Evening: And we took notice for what Reaſons your Excellency is led to inſiſt thereupon: For our Parts, that we may manifeſt how ready we are to comply with all things which may beget a good Underſtanding, We have readily conſented thereunto, as far as the Cognizance thereof belongs to this Court, and have given directions accordingly, to the Committee of the Militia, for drawing off all Forces and Ordnance, unto which Work they do now inſtantly apply themſelves, and We are confident your Excellency will find performance accordingly. The Committee of the Militia will alſo give order for quitting ſuch Forts on Southwark-ſide, as are not as yet in poſſeſſion of your Forces. And now, next under Almighty God, we do rely upon your Excellencies Honourable Word for our Safety, and to be protected from all Violence of the Soldiery.

The King's Majeſty's Declaration and Profeſſion, diſavowing any Preparations or Intentions in him to levy War againſt his two Houſes of Parliament: With his Majeſty's Letter to his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, delivered by Sir John Bartlett and Mr. Aſhburnham.

The Declaration follows.

CHARLES REX.

THERE having been many Rumours ſpread, and Informations given, which may have induced many to believe that we intend to make War againſt our Parliament: We profeſs before God, and declare to all the World, That we always have and do abhor all ſuch Deſigns, and deſire all our Nobility and Commons who are here upon the Place, to declare whether they have not been Witneſſes of our frequent and earneſt Declarations and Profeſſions to this purpoſe; whether they ſee any Colour of Preparations, or Councils that might reaſonably beget a Belief of any ſuch Deſign.

And whether they be not fully perſwaded, that we have no ſuch Intentions, but that all our Endeavours (according to our many Profeſſions) tend to the firm and conſtant Settlement of the true Proteſtant Religion, the juſt Rights of Parliaments, the Liberty of the Subject, the Law, Peace, and Proſperity of this Kingdom.

C. R.

The King's Majeſty's Letter to his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, delivered, as aforeſaid, by Sir John Bartlett and Mr. John Aſhburnham.

HIS Majeſty being advertiſed of many falſe Rumours raiſed of him, to comply with a Party to raiſe Forces againſt you and your Army,

His Majeſty doth hereby acquit himſelf of the great Scandal caſt upon him therein.

And for the Proceedings of ſome in London, and elſewhere, who have of late raiſed Tumults in the City and other Places,

His Majeſty doth utterly diſclaim the ſame, teſtifying a great Diſlike thereof.

His Majeſty doth account it too diſhonourable an Action to have Thoughts of being brought to London in ſuch a tumultuous manner.

Stoak, Aug. 4. 1647.

An Engagement of the Lords and Commons that went to the Army, with their Names thereunto ſubſcribed; ſome of which ſate in the Houſe in the Speaker's Abſence, followeth.

An Engagement of the Lords and Commons that went to the Army.

Die Mercurii 4to Auguſti 1647.

WE the Members of both Houſes of Parliament, who do abſent our ſelves from the Service of the Parliament by reaſon of the Force and Violence offered thereunto by a tumultuous Multitude, having received from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax a Declaration, entituled, A Declaration of his Excellency and his Council of War, on the behalf of themſelves and the whole Army, ſhewing the Grounds of their preſent Advance towards the City of London; And having peruſed the ſame, we look upon it as a Declaration full of Truth, the Matter of Fact being well known unto moſt of us who have been Eye and Ear-witneſſes thereof, full of Chriſtian, Noble and Publick Affection to the Good, Peace and Proſperity of this Kingdom, and full of Integrity and Faithfulneſs to the true Intereſt of the Engliſh Nation, and full of undaunted and generous Reſolution to aſſert the Honour and Freedom of the Parliament, and effectually to vindicate it from the Force and Violence whereby it hath been of late trampled under the Feet of a Rabble of People, unto which Force it is ſtill expoſed, ſo as it may be exerciſed upon them at pleaſure. And whilſt the Parliament remaineth in ſuch a Condition, although it be not diſſolvable but by Act of Parliament, yet it is ſuſpended from acting as a Parliament. In all theſe things, and generally throughout, our Senſe ſo fully agreeth with what is expreſſed in that Declaration of the Army, that we cannot but receive it with much Approbation, and alſo with great Thankfulneſs to God in the firſt place, and next under him to this ever-faithful Army, for that tender Senſe expreſſed therein of our Honour and Security, who abſent our ſelves from the Parliament in regard of that Force, and for that high Engagement of the Army to live and die with us in this Cauſe: Whereupon we cannot but mutually engage our ſelves, as hereby we do, to live and die with Sir Thomas Fairfax and the Army in the Vindication of the Honour and Freedom of Parliament: And we cannot but obſerve the ſpecial Providence of God in holding up ſo extraordinarily this Army, and reſerving it to take off the Reproach and Scorn of this Nation, and to raiſe up again from the depth of Contempt, that once ſo much honoured and high-eſteemed Name of a Parliament.

And whereas in the ſaid Declaration it is deſired, That we as Perſons upon whom their publick Truſt ſtill remaineth (though for the preſent we cannot exerciſe the ſame in a Parliamentary way) would adviſe his Excellency and his Council of War in ſuch things as may be for the Good of the Kingdom, and for attaining the Ends aforeſaid, we do declare, that we ſhall be ever ready to do it upon all Occaſions in ſuch a Capacity as we may, till we ſhall be enabled again to diſcharge our Truſt in a free Parliament, which we conceive we can never do until the Houſes of Parliament may be Abſolute Judges and Maſters of their own Securities: And that ſuch traiterous audacious Offenders as have endeavoured with ſo high a Hand to deſtroy the Higheſt Authority (as by the Particulars ſo fully and clearly expreſſed in the Declaration of the Army may appear) ſhall receive condign Puniſhment; or at leaſt the Parliament put in ſuch a Condition, as that they may be able to bring them thereunto: And we truſt in God through his accuſtomed Bleſſing upon this Army, and their Aſſiſtance in their honeſt and juſt Undertakings, the Parliament ſhall ſpeedily be put again into a Condition to ſit like a Parliament of England.

England: And we hope that every true-hearted Engliſh-man will put his helping Hand to ſo neceſſary, ſo publick, and ſo honourable a Work as is the vindicating of the Freedom and Honour of the Parliament; wherein the Freedom and Honour of all the free-born People of this Nation are involved.

The County of Hertford offers the General the aſſiſtance of 2 Regiments of Foot, and 2 of Horſe.

Many of the Gentry, on Auguſt 5. of the County of Hartford, came to the General, and acquainted him, that Two Regiments of the Trained Bands, conſiſting of 1300 in each Regiment, and Two Troops of Horſe of that County, were ready to attend His Excellency, and that day had a Rendezvous at Watford, to whom the General returned Thanks.

The Head-Quarters at Hammerſmith and the City Commiſſioners come there to the General.

The whole Army this Day advanced nearer London, the General removing his Head Quarters from Thiſtleworth, came to Hammerſmith, and at the end of the Town was met by the Commiſſioners of the City, who aſſured him, that the City were well ſatisfied upon the agreement of His Excellency's Advance, that the Forts from Giles's to the Water-ſide, were acquitted by them, and delivered to the Forces ſent by His Excellency, who now had the guard of them; and they deſired of His Excellency an Anſwer to their laſt Letter, whereupon His Excellency returned back to Sir Nicholas Criſp's Houſe, where a Letter was agreed on as followeth:

The Generals Letter to the City, in Anſwer.

The Members to ſit to morrow in Parliament.

The City to be preſerved from violence and the Nation from new Troubles.

My Lord and Gentlemen,

I Am very glad to find ſo ready a Compliance, in Anſwer to my laſt Deſire ſent to the Common-Council, and have accordingly given order for Three Regiments of Foot, and Two of Horſe to poſſeſs thoſe Forts you mention in your laſt, and to lie thereabouts. I am with the reſt of the Army marched up to Hammerſmith, in order to the ſecurity of the Lords and Commons, who, I ſuppoſe, will to morrow ſit in Parliament: The preſerving of their Privileges, and ſecuring them from Violence, that with freedom they may ſit and diſcharge their Truſts, hath been the cauſe of my near approach to your City; and whereas you are pleaſed to expreſs your hopes of Preſervation from Violence, you may be confident nothing ſhall paſs from this Army, but what ſhall be for the ſafety of this City: And I doubt not, though ſome diſaffected Perſons to the Peace of the Kingdom, have endeavoured to beget a miſunderſtanding between this Army and the City, hoping thereby to embroil the Kingdom in new Troubles, yet that this Army will always ſo behave themſelves, as to witneſs to the World the Integrity of their Hearts, in having no other deſign, but the quiet and happy ſettlement of a firm and laſting Peace, wherein both the whole Kingdom, and your City particularly, will have cauſe to rejoice in the goodneſs of God, the Accompliſhment whereof will truly glad the Hearts of this Army, and in particular of,

Your moſt humble Servant,

Tho. Fairfax.

The manner of Lords and Commons, (with the General on Horſeback) their going to Weſtminſter.

This Friday, Auguſt 6. in the Morning, the Members of Parliament, which were driven away by Tumults from Weſtminſter, met the General at the Earl of Holland's Houſe at Kenſington, and ſubſcribed the Declaration of the Army, and a further Declaration of their approving and joining with the Army in their laſt Proceedings, making null all Acts paſſed by the Members at Weſtminſter, ſince July the 26. laſt. Afterwards His Excellency, with the Lords, the Speaker of the Houſe of Commons, the Members of the ſaid Houſe, and many other Gentry, marched towards Weſtminſter, a guard of Soldiers, three deep, ſtanding from that place to the Forts. But by the way, in Hide-Park, the Lord-Mayor and Aldermen of London met His Excellency to congratulate the fair Compoſure between the Army and the City; and after a ſhort Ceremony paſſing by, His Excellency marched to Weſtminſter in this manner: Firſt came Colonel Hammond's Regiment of Foot; after came Colonel Rich's Regiment of Horſe; next Lieutenant General Cromwel's Regiment of Horſe; then came the General on Horſeback, attended with his Life-guard; and then came the Lords in Coaches, the Speaker of the Houſe of Commons, and the reſt of the Members of that Houſe; after theſe were paſt, Colonel Tomlinſon's Regiment of Horſe brought up the Rear-guard; and it is not to be forgotten, that every Soldier had in his Hat a Laurel. As his Excellency paſſed by, at Charing-Croſs ſtood the Common-Council of the City, who, by outward deportment, ſeemed to evidence a good Affection to his Ex-

Excellency as he marched along; and when he came to the New-Pallace at Weſtminſter, he alighted at Sir Abraham Williams's Houſe, and the Speaker and the Members, Lords and Commons, repaired to their reſpective Houſes.

The General and Members go into Sir A. Williams's Houſe in the New Palace-Yard, and went thence into the Two Houſes of Parliament.

Both the Houſes being ſate, with their wonted old Speakers, the Earl of Mancheſter for the Houſe of Peers, and William Lenthall, Eſquire, Speaker of the Houſe of Commons; the Houſe of Peers, upon Debate, paſſed an Ordinance for making His Excellency, Sir Thomas Fairfax, Conſtable of the Tower of London, and ſent the ſame down to the Houſe of Commons for their Concurrence.

Sir Tho. Fairfax made Conſtable of the Tower.

The Ordinance was read in the Commons Houſe, and upon Debate committed, and afterwards again reported, and paſſed with ſome Amendments.

The Houſe of Peers likewiſe agreed upon an Ordinance, and ſent down to the Commons for their Concurrence, for appointing Thurſday next a day of Thankſgiving, for the great Mercies of God, in reſtoring the Members of Both Houſes to their juſt Priviledges without the effuſion of Blood, and ſo for the Settlement of Peace in the Kingdom, to which the Commons concurred.

A Day of Thankſgiving for reſtoring the Members without Bloodſhed.

A Report was this Day made by the Commiſſioners that are come with the Army to London, of their Tranſactions with the Army, the Houſe gave them Thanks for their great Pains.

Both Houſes took into Conſideration, That His Excellency, Sir Thomas Fairfax, was, in order to the Safety and Preſervation of the Parliament and City, himſelf in Perſon at Sir Abraham Williams's Houſe in the Pallace-Yard: The Houſe of Peers ordered he ſhould be ſent for, to receive the Thanks of the Houſe, and the Commons did the like. The Commons ordered, that a Chair ſhould be brought into the Houſe, and that Sir Thomas Fairfax ſhould be deſired to come in, and that the Houſe ſhould give him Thanks for his great and faithful Services for the Kingdom, and in particular, for reſtoring the Members of Both Houſes to their former Freedom and Priviledges.

Sir Thomas Fairfax ſent for into the Houſe of Peers, and received the Thanks of that Houſe.

Sir Thomas Fairfax was accordingly brought into the Houſe of Commons, and by much Importunity, after the Houſe and His Excellency had ſaluted one another, the General ſate down in the Chair, and Mr. Speaker gave his Excellency the Thanks of the Houſe, as before ſpecified.

The General brought to the Houſe of Commons, and received the Thanks of that Houſe.

After the Houſe taking into Conſideration the great deſert of the Soldiers of the Army, they ordered that a Gratuity of a Months Pay ſhould be given to the Non-Commiſſion Officers and private Soldiers of the Army for this great Service.

The Parliament gives a Months Pay as a Gratuity to the Non-Commiſſion Officers and Soldiers.

The Houſe then had Debate, and a Committee was appointed to find out who were the chief Authors, Promoters, Abettors, and Countenancers of the late Deſign in forcing the Members from the Houſes by the Tumult, and deſigning a new War, and to ſtate the Matter of Fact againſt them, to the end they may be brought to ſpeedy and condign Puniſhment.

A Committe to examine the Promoters of the Tumult, which forced the Members from the Parliament.

Two Speeches made by the Speakers of both Houſes of Parliament to his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax General, after the Army had guarded the Members to ſit in ſafety on Friday the ſixth of Auguſt, 1647. And an Ordinance of both Houſes of Parliament, making his Excellency Conſtable of the Tower of London, and giving him power to make a Lieutenant: A Months Pay given to the Soldiers and Under-Officers of the Army, for a Gratuity: And the Votes concerning the Guards; with ſeveral Orders concerning the Army: Alſo an Order of both Houſes, appointing a Committee to examine the Mutiny on Monday ſevenight, whereby the Speakers and Members were driven from the Parliament; And a Thankſgiving appointed to be kept on Thurſday Aug. 12.

Die Veneris Auguſt 6. 1647.

HIS Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax having guarded the Lords and Commons (with the Speakers) of both Houſes to Weſtminſter, and the Houſes being ſate, they ordered the Right Honourable the Earl of Mancheſter, Speaker of the Houſe of Lords pro tempore, and William Lenthall, Eſq; Speaker of the Houſe of Commons, to acquaint his Excellency with Votes which were then made.

The Earl of Mancheſter (Speaker of the Houſe of Peers) his Speech to his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax.

A Chair being ſet (in the Houſe of Peers) by the Lords Seats for Sir Thomas Fairfax, in which the General ſate, and his Officers in the Houſe without the Bar; the Earl of Mancheſter declared to his Excellency as follows, viz.

'THAT he was commanded by the Lords to acquaint his Excellency how ſenſible their Lordſhips are of the many good Services which his Excellency hath done for the Kingdom; and that they had taken the Reaſons expreſſed in his Declaration of his coming to London into Conſideration, and do approve thereof; and that they had commanded him to give his Excellency Thanks for the conſtant Care which he hath always had of the Peace and Safety of the Kingdom, deſiring him to go on in taking care for the Security thereof for the future; deſiring that his Excellency will appoint ſuch a Guard for the Parliament as may be a ſufficient Security to the Members to ſit (in the Houſe) in Safety.

William Lenthall, Eſq; Speaker of the Houſe of Commons, made the like Speech to the General in that Houſe, his Excellency ſitting in a Chair near the Speaker.

Die Veneris, Auguſt 6. 1647.

An. 1647.

The Ordinance to make void all Acts done by Lords and Commons ſince July 26. when the Speakers and Members were were forc'd from the Parliament.

* A Vindication of the Army paſ'd the Lords Houſe.

This Day both Houſes of Parliament, Auguſt 9. being ſet, the Houſe of Peers ſent a Meſſage to the Commons for their Concurrence to the Ordinance for making null all Acts done from the 26th of July to the 6th of Auguſt; and likewiſe a Declaration for Vindication of the Army: Both paſſed the Lords Houſe: The Commons agreed to ſend Anſwer by Meſſengers of their own.

*The Commons entred into a large Debate of the ſaid Ordinance for making null all Acts ſo done; and the thing occaſioned many Arguments on both ſides, which took up the whole Days Debate, the Houſe being turned into a Grand Committee a great part of the Day to debate the ſame; and at laſt it was put to the queſtion, and voted, that the ſaid Votes, though forced from the Houſe, are not to be nulled but by a Repeal; and this Vote was carried but by two Voices: The further Debate of this Buſineſs was put off till to morrow.

Tithes.

Both Houſes this day paſſed an additional Ordinance concerning Tithes, that the Miniſters which are or ſhall be put into any Livings by Authority of Parliament, ſhall or may ſue for the Recovery of their Tithes, Rates, Rents or other Duties payable by Ordinance of Parliament; and it is further referred to all Juſtices of Peace reſpectively to be further aſſiſted herein according to Ordinance of Parliament, &c.

Sir Thomas Fairfax took poſſeſſion of the Tower as Conſtable thereof.

This Day his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax came to take poſſeſſion of the Tower of London, according to the Votes of both Houſes on Friday laſt; he was attended on by his Life-guard and a Party of Colonel Pride's Regiment of Foot: Coming to the Tower, the City-guard that were there, marched out, and about three Hundred of the General's Foot marched in, when alſo his Excellency went into the Tower, attended by many Commanders and other Gentlemen, and took poſſeſſion of his Command there as Conſtable.

The City ſent a Committee to the General to congratulate him; and Alderman Gibbs made the following Speech.

Giving the General Thanks from the City.

Sorry that they were in no better Equipage to receive his Excellency.

The Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council of London had appointed a Committee to congratulate his Excellency at the Tower, which Committee coming to the Tower, after Dinner Alderman Gibbs made a Speech to his Excellency, thereby intimating that the Lord Mayor, Aldermen and Common-Council of the City had commanded him to give his Excellency and his Army Thanks for their Love to and Care of the City of London; and that they could wiſh they were able to record his Praiſes to future Ages ſuitable to their Worth:

But invite him and his Officers to dinner.

That they are very ſorry that their coming into the City was ſo ſudden, that they could not attend his Excellency in ſuch an Equipage as they deſired: And laſtly, that he was deſired to recommend to his Excellency the Faithfulneſs and Care of Colonel Weſt Lieutenant of the Tower; and that they do deſire his Excellency, That on Thurſday next, if it may ſuit with the great Affairs of the Kingdom, the City do deſire that his Excellency with his general Officers, and Captains, would pleaſe to dine with them; and that all Names and Diſtinctions of Parties in the City and Kingdom may be laid aſide, and every one ſeek Peace and Unity, that the Army may ſtrengthen the Hands of the City, and the City the Army, by a firm Bond of Unity.

The General's Anſwer was an Excuſe.

To which his Excellency returned a loving and modeſt Anſwer, giving them thanks for the Expreſſions of their Love to him, and Care of the Peace of the Kingdom; That for a Lieutenant of the Tower, (though he that was now in, was a worthy Perſon) he had appointed a Gentleman of known Worth and Fidelity, a Citizen of good Eſtate, dwelling amongſt them viz. Colonel Tichburne, who is by his Excellency made Lieutenant of the Tower; That for him and his Officers coming to dine with the City, he would acquaint them with their Deſires at a Council of War, giving them Thanks, and deſiring that all may labour and ſtudy for Unity and Peace: After this his Excellency went to view what ſtore of Ordnance, Arms, Powder, Shot, Musket, Piſtols, and other Ammunition was in the Tower, attended by both the Lieutenants, Officers of the Ordnance, and many other Gentlemen of Quality; and after View taken of the Stores, he went up into the White Tower, and ſtayed above half an Hour, taking a View thereof, and then came down and gave Order to his Lieutenant to give away twenty Pounds to be divided as he ſhall think fit, among the Warders, Clerks, &c. belonging to the Officers of the Ordnance for their Pains; So his Excellency departed, and went that Night from London to the Lord Pawlet's Houſe by Turnham-Green, whoſe Son Sir John Pawlet married the General's Lady's Siſter, and ſtayed there this Night and Tueſday.

Colonel Tichburne appointed Lieutenant of the Tower.

The Armies Declaration of the Cauſe and Grounds of their coming to London debated.

Both Houſes again on Auguſt 10. ſitting, the Lords ſent a Meſſage to the Commons with a Declaration of Sir Thomas Fairfax and the Army, wherein they mention the Cauſe and Grounds of their coming up to London with the Army, which Declaration their Lordſhips had paſſed their Approbation of, and what was contained in it, deſiring the Concurrence of the Commons.

Several Queſtions put.

After long Debate upon it in the Houſe of Commons, and a Review of what was put to the Queſtion the Night before, the Queſtion was then put, Whether the Queſtion ſhould be put at that time, Whether they ſhould concur with the Lords as was deſired: It was carried in the Negative, and the further Debate thereupon to be the next day.

Great Seal continued in the Hands of the two Speakers.

An Ordinance paſſed both Houſes for the continuing of the two Speakers in the Management of the Great Seal for a Month longer.

25000 l. ſeized on by the Apprentices, and then ſent to the Tower, being for Ireland, was delivered back.

An Order likewiſe paſſed both Houſes that the 25000 l. which was ſtaid by the Apprentices, and ſent to the Tower, be delivered back and ſpeedily ſent for the Service of Ireland, to be diſpoſed of according to the former Orders; and that his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax be deſired to ſend 200 Horſe along with it, to convey it to the Water ſide, and which the General hath ſince taken Order for accordingly.

Two Ordinances of the Lords and Commons aſſembled in Parliament, for the relief and maintenance of Maimed Soldiers and Mariners, and the Widows and Orphans of ſuch as have died in the Service of the Parliament, during theſe late Wars.

Die Martis 10th. of Auguſt 1647.

WHereas by a former Ordinance, bearing Date the 28*th* of May laſt paſt, intituled, An Ordinance for Relief of Maimed Soldiers, &c. It is therefore Ordered and Ordained, by the Lords and Commons aſſembled in Parliament, That the Juſtices of Peace within the Kingdom of England, and Dominion of Wales, ſhall be hereby authorized to proceed, and ſhall or may at any time hereafter, at any Seſſions of the Peace, which ſhall or may at any time hereafter be holden within their ſeveral Diviſions, proceed for the putting the former Ordinance in execution, to all Intents and Purpoſes, as they might have done by Virtue of the ſaid Ordinance aforeſaid, at the next Quarter-Seſſions after the paſſing the ſame.

Scots do urge to maintain the Covenant.

Letters this Day from Berwick, give to underſtand, that the Convention of Eſtates of Scotland met at Edenburgh was but new begun, and ſo no Reſolutions yet known: The Clergy, in their Pulpits, urge highly the neceſſity of that Kingdom to maintain the Ends of the Covenant againſt all Violation. Some ſpeak of Scots Forces being on their march upon the Borders, but is nothing ſo; great entertainment of Soldiers lately hath been, but no Generaliſſimo yet agreed on.

Aug. 6. 1647.

The Declaration of General Maſſey, aud Colonel General Pointz, ſhewing the true Grounds and Reaſons that induced them to depart from the City, and for a while from the Kingdom. With their Reſolutions, what they intend for their own Safety, and the preſervation of Religion and Covenant, and the King and Kingdom.

BEing one of us elected lately by the Common-Council of the famous City of London, to be their Commander in Chief for defence of the King and Parliament, the Kingdom and the City: And being reſolved, both of us, to the utmoſt of our Power to defend the ſame, with, and above all the Covenant, which we have ſo often and ſo ſolemnly undertaken for the preſervation of Religion. And finding that by the Combination of another Party (which cloſely lay, as well by Policy as by Force to undermine us) that we were both left deſtitute of all promiſed Helps; and being not able thereby to perform the Work, conducing ſo much to the Covenant we had taken, that Religion in the firſt place might be kept inviolable and entire, but that, amongſt many others, we were expoſed to the greateſt Infamy and Danger that could almoſt fall on any Men, but eſpecially thoſe who, by the Mercy of God, have ſo faithfully and ſucceſsfully deported themſelves for the preſervation of the Kingdom: But thought it requiſite, as well for the general ſatisfaction of the Kingdom, as the particular Obligation of our own Honours, to give the World notice of the integrity and candour of our Intentions in this our following Declaration.

We take no pleaſure, in the firſt place (as many do who are againſt us) to inſinuate into the Affection of the People, by repeating what great things God hath done by us in the North and Weſt Parts of the Kingdom, eſpecially the latter, when all the Power and Arms of the united Weſt, having no leſs than the King himſelf and two Princes to be their Commanders, did ſit before the City of Glouceſter, which not long before a ſmall Party out of Wales, under the Command of the Lord of Ragland (ſince made Earl of Glamorgan) did make full account to maſter.

There is no delight taken to repeat with what Faithfulneſs and Courage that City was then, and afterwards preſerved by one of us, and the whole Kingdom (as Affairs then ſtood) in relation unto it. We need not to declare, that the moſt able, and the moſt forward of the Soldiers of the Kingdom being there ſorely hurt, or ſlain outright, I made a way not only to facilitate the Victories to come, but to put the chief Staff of Command into thoſe hands alſo who ſince have born it. For though that not long after the Earl of Eſſex did break not only the Head and the Heart of the King's Army at Newberry, he could not have the Honour to ſee the great Work accompliſhed in himſelf. It was the Virtue indeed and the Vigilance of Lucullus, to overcome the Puiſſant Mithridates of Aſia, a Monarch of more than three Kingdoms, and to break at firſt that mighty and almoſt invincible Body of his Horſe; but it was the Fortune afterwards of Pompey to ride in Triumph for it at Rome. Whilſt we declare the Virtues of one great Commander, we take not from the Merits of another: And we are confident there is no Breaſt of Honour can accuſe us of detraction in giving the Dead their due. We ſhall for our own Parts forbear to mention the Services atchieved for the State, both in Glouceſter-ſhire and the County of Wilts, at Newark, and in Cheſhire, &c. and what eſpecially was performed in Somerſet-ſhire, when firſt the great Body of General Goring's Horſe was beaten: Doubtleſs there will be hereafter a review of all, and Perſons that now lie dormant, will be rouſed up to tell the Miſtaken their Errors. But let others Voice out-praiſe, it ſhall be enough for us to declare our Integrity.

The firſt beginning of the Diſtaſte was, when one of us did uſe his beſt endeavours to appeaſe the Mutiny and Mutineers at York. There are no good Works but are attended with Envy; and Ambition is ſo heady, that it will know nothing more eminent than it ſelf. Services begun by command of the State, grew firſt into Suſpicion, and afterwards into Offence; it was a Crime to do any thing but what muſt be cried up by thoſe who would have all things to dance according to the Motions of their own Sphere. All things were made ſubject unto change, and under tenderneſs of Conſcience, even (that which is moſt to be lamented; becauſe moſt ſpiritual) our Religion alſo. And the other of us, when by Order of Parliament, being a Member of it, I was employed into the Army, to make experience what Forces could be drawn from thence for the Service of Ireland in which (I thank them) I had an eminent Place of Dignity conferred on me, where I left nothing unattempted for the diſpatching of that Service, well-knowing, how much it concerned the Honour of England, and the neceſſity of Ireland. Being there daily in the Heads of the Regiments, I obſerved in many of them, ſome threeſcore, and in others more or leſs of the Soldiers who heretofore had ſerved under my Command, who were willing all to adventure their Lives with me in that Service, and to that purpoſe they were drawn up: But ſo dough-baked were the Examples of ſome others in the Army, and their proceedings ſo left-handed, that what was reſolved on over Night, found no effect on the Morning following: But theſe things are ſo evidently known, and ſo apparent to the whole Kingdom, that we ſhall not need to inſiſt upon any further diſcourſe thereof.

Aug. 6. 1648. Maſſey's and Poyntz's Declaration.

It ſhall ſuffice, that ſince our departure, we will not preſume to deliver any thing of our own ſenſe, upon that which hath been altered, acted, or conſented unto, or ſhall be by the inſtant interpoſition, or the importunity of the Army; but only to give a true account unto the Kingdom, upon what Grounds and Reaſons we have been induced to forſake the City. For finding all things ſo uncertain, and nothing anſwering to what was promiſed or expected, we held it ſafer Wiſdom to withdraw to our own Friends, whom we have always found faſt and entire to their firſt Principles, than continue with thoſe who like Waves are beaten with every Wind, and do take or receive Counſels as their Fears do prompt them: But not without this confeſſion, that we acknowledge the General himſelf to be an excellent Perſonage, and free from thoſe violent Diſtempers and heats of Paſſion in which other Men do delight and periſh.

And we do proteſt, that as far as in us lies (whereſoever God ſhall call us) we will improve our utmoſt Abilities for the true ſettling of Peace in this Kingdom, for the reſtoring of the Covenant to Religion, and for the reſtoring of His Majeſty to His juſt Rights and Authority, and for the maintaining of the Priviledges of Parliament, and preſerving of the People in their lawful Liberties and Properties, and for the relieving of our diſtreſſed Brethren, the Proteſtants in Ireland. And we profeſs in the concluſion, that we have been neceſſitated to this Declaration, to give ſatisfaction to the World, that the Honour, Safety, and Happineſs of this Kingdom, ſhall be evermore the delight and earneſt of our Devotion and Endeavour: For we ſhall always labour to keep our ſelves in that Poſture both with Heaven and Earth, as to be ready to wade through a Sea of Blood, and increaſe it with our own, that the Goſpel of Truth may flouriſh, and that the Peace of the King, the Parliament, and the Kingdom may grow high and happy.

Papers from Scotland of Matters agitated by the General Aſſembly and the Committee of Eſtates at Edinburgh concerning the King, the Kirk, the Presbyterian Government, and the Kingdoms.

THE Kingdom of Scotland having humbled themſelves by a late ſolemn Faſt, wherein they have intreated the Lord concerning the King, Kingdoms and the Kirk; and prayed the Lord to remove the imminent Danger they are in by the Sword, Peſtilence and Famine; they do now lay out themſelves to act according to the Cuſtom of the Kingdom, every one in his Sphere therein.

In which Kingdom the Deſigns are carried on,

1. By the General Aſſembly of the Kirk.

2. By the Eſtates of Scotland.

3. By the Army: In all which as followeth, viz.

I. The General Aſſembly of the Kirk of Scotland met in Edinburgh, according as they were called the Fifth of Auguſt 1647. to ſettle the Great and Weighty Affairs of the Kirk, which through the late Wars are much out of order, there remaining ſtill an Epiſcopal Party in the Kingdom, who have too great an Influence even on no ſmall Perſons, whereby the Work will be the more difficult.

As for the Clergy who conforms to the Kirk and State, they have been very laborious in their Pulpits of late to promote the Unity of the Kingdom to the Power eſtabliſhed.

The Parochial Seſſions have had much Interruption in their Tranſactions with the People by reaſon of Delinquents returning, and Admittance, in hopes that they would have conformed.

The Claſſical and Provincial Synods have been much burthened with Buſineſs, whereby Parties have broken out into many Factions, eſpecially about the North-weſt of Scotland, where they have not yet had time to be ſetled ſince our late Troubles.

The General Aſſembly being ſet, divers Papers were preſented in the behalf of the Kirk of Scotland, and concerning the late Tranſactions upon the intended Declaration.

In order to which (after all Cuſtoms and Orders were obſerved, the Oaths, Covenants, and Proteſtations being taken for the right ordering of the ſetting down) they thought firſt to appoint ſeveral Committees for their ſeveral Proceedings to be committed to, concerning ſeveral Matters to be tranſacted, and a Grand Committee for this Buſineſs.

The main things propounded to be agitated herein are theſe:

1. Concerning the total Reducing of the whole Clergy in the Kingdom of Scotland to ſubmit to the Power in them eſtabliſhed by the King and Parliament.

2. Concerning Explanations of ſome things relating to thoſe come in by Compoſition.

3. Concerning divers Lords Barons, and Gentlemen, who have paſſed the School of Repentance.

4. Concerning the preſent Eſtate of the King's Majeſty, in relation to the Queen, to the Royal Iſſues, to the Army, and to themſelves.

5. Concerning the ſeveral Covenants of the Kirk of Scotland, and the Covenant of both Kingdoms.

7. Con-

An. 1647.

6. Concerning removing of the difference, particularly of Miniſters amongſt themſelves.

7. Concerning the rooting out of Hereſies and Errors out of the Kirk.

8. For repreſenting ſome Particulars to the Kingdom of England.

9. Concerning the conferring of the Treaties and Covenant.

10. For the ſetling of a firm Peace in the Kirk and Kingdom.

The Aſſembly have choſen, and are ſetling of Committees the better to prepare and facilitate the Buſineſs they are about; by reaſon whereof, time hath been ſo taken up, that no main Buſineſs could as yet be finiſhed.

The Grand Committee of Eſtates are met alſo at Edinburgh, and ſate down; but they met not ſo frequent as was expected; ſo that they have (as yet) little done.

The Army are now upon Treaty with the Gordons for their Compoſitions upon their coming in, and large Offers are made to them if they will ſubmit.

David Leſley hath alſo ſent to the Lord Ares of Stranaverne concerning ſeveral Particulars expreſſed in a Meſſage to his Lordſhip.

1. To know whether he will yield Obedience to the Parliament of Scotland, with his Forces and Strength.

2. That if he will ſubmit to the State to manifeſt the ſame by Declaration.

3. If he refuſeth to come in and ſubmit, he will march with his whole Army to reduce that Shire to the Obedience of the State.

4. That he ſend a ſpeedy Anſwer.

Edinburgh, Auguſt 13. 1647.

A Declaration and Remonſtrance of the preſent Engagement of the Kingdom of Scotland: With their Reſolutions and Intentions (according to their late Solemn League and Covenant to eſtabliſh the Presbyterian Government in the Church) to redeem his Majeſty from the Hands of Schiſmaticks, and place him in his Parliament with Honour and Safety, to procure the Peace of the Three Kingdoms, to vindicate the worthy Members of Parliament falſely impeached by the Army; with the true Priviledges of Parliament and Liberty of the Subject: All which are not only endangered, but by likelihood ready to be deſtroyed by the Power of an over-awing tyrannical Army, under the Conduct of Sir Thomas Fairfax: The Oath taken by the Parliament of Scotland, and by them preſcribed to be taken by all his Majeſty's Loyal Subjects.

WHereas it hath been cuſtomarily uſed at all National Aſſemblies, Parliaments and Councils; that at our firſt coming together, to take a Solemn Oath before God and Man; proteſting not to determine or execute any thing contrary to the Word of God, or prejudicial to the Honour of his Majeſty, only that all their Studies, Endeavours, Councils, and Determinations ſhould be employ'd to the Encreaſe of God's Glory, the Advancement of his Majeſty's Honour, and the Peace, Quiet, Freedom, and bleſſed Proſperity of Kirk and Common-wealth; which Oath and Proteſtation is as well for the Inducement of others (to wit, all his Majeſty's Loyal Subjects) as themſelves, ſince it is not in their Power to perform what they proteſt, without the Aſſiſtance of ſuch his Majeſty's Subjects, as ſhall be commanded by them, to the fulfilling of whoſe Commands, ſuch an Oath and Proteſtation binds.

And to the end none may be ignorant or plead Excuſe, after themſelves have taken the ſaid Oath and Proteſtation, they cauſed to be publiſhed in Print, that every Man may know what they have promiſed, and what they are to command; and likewiſe what every one's Duty is, and muſt be if he deſire to have a Share or Portion in their Religious Proteſtions.

An Oath taken by the Parliament of Scotland.

“FOraſmuch as the Honour, Greatneſs and Happineſs of the King's Royal Majeſty and the Welfare of the Subjects dependeth on the Purity of Religion (as it is now eſtabliſhed in this Kingdom) the Laws, Liberties and Peace thereof, which ought to be ſought by all good Chriſtians, loyal Subjects and true Patriots; and to be furthered and maintained by them againſt ſuch as by any means endeavour to ſhake or ſubvert the ſame.

“Therefore We Under-Subſcribers, and every one of us, do in the Preſence of Almighty God, promiſe and vow, That in this preſent Parliament we ſhall faithfully and freely ſpeak, anſwer, and expreſs our ſelves upon all and every thing which is, or ſhall be propounded ſo far as we think in our Conſcience may conduce to the Glory of God, the Good and Peace of the Kirk, and State of this Kingdom, and employ our beſt Endeavours to promote the ſame, and ſhall in no way adviſe, voice, nor conſent to any thing to our beſt Knowledge, which we think not moſt expedient and conducible thereunto: As alſo that we ſhall maintain and defend with our Lives, Powers and Eſtates, his Majeſty's Royal Perſon, Honour and Eſtate, as is expreſſed in our National Covenant, and likewiſe the Power and Priviledges of Parliament, and the lawful Rights and Liberties of the Subject, and by all good means and ways oppoſe and endeavour to bring to exact Trial all ſuch as either by Force, Practice, Councils, Plots, Conſpiracies, or otherwiſe, have done, or ſhall do any thing to the Prejudice of the Purity of Religion, the Laws Liberties, and Peace of the Kingdom: And further, that we ſhall in all juſt, in all honourable Ways, endeavour to preſerve Union and Peace betwixt the three Kingdoms Scotland, England and Ireland; and neither for Hope, Fear or other reſpect ſhall relinquiſh this Vow and Promiſe.

Thus conſidering how we ſtand engaged as well by this Oath, as our late ſolemn National League and Covenant, to maintain his Majeſty's Royal Perſon, Honour and Eſtate; and finding his Majeſty to be in apparent Danger, and environed with Sectaries, whoſe pernicious and deſtructive Principles are well known unto us to be directly againſt Monarchy, as may appear by their late deſperate Speeches concerning his Majeſty (as one Lilburne and many others) as, That the Houſe of Commons ſhould think of that great Murtherer of England; (meaning the King) for by the impartial Law of God there is no Exemption of Kings, Princes, Dukes, Earls, more than Coblers, Tinkers, or Chimney-Sweepers, &c.

And in another place, where they ſpeak more plainly; ‘We expect according to Reaſon, that ye ſhould in the firſt place declare and ſet forth King Charles's Wickedneſs openly before the World, and with all to ſhew the intolerable Inconveniencies of having a Kingly Government, from the conſtant evil Practices of thoſe of this Nation; and ſo to declare King Charles an Enemy; and to publiſh your Reſolutions never to have any more.

An. 1647.

By theſe and the like Speeches all reaſonable Men may underſtand what ſuch Sectaries (whatſoever they pretend) intend for his Majeſty's Safety and Honour, eſpecially ſince we are bound by Oath to deliver his Majeſty out of the Hands of ſuch Miſcreants.

1. We Vow and Covenant, to the utmoſt of our Lives and Eſtates, to effect the ſame.

2. Conſider the great Deſign they drive at, which is, to new mould the Houſe of Commons; better to effect which, they firſt ſuſpend eleven Members, and ſo more and more, ſuddenly introducing many of their own independent Members in their rooms; that ſo (if poſſible) they might promote their wicked Deſigns in a Parliamentary way.

3. Conſider that they intend the Ruin and Deſtruction of the Houſe of Lords, as may appear by many of the Sectaries printed Pamphlets and Petitions, as when they petition'd to the Houſe of Commons, where they ſay, 'That the Lords of this Realm ought not to ſit in Parliament, unleſs they do come in by Election, as Members of the Houſe of Commons do: And in a Pamphlet againſt the Houſe of Lords they thus ſay; 'That the Lords are but painted Puppits and Dagons; that our Superſtition and Ignorance, their own Craft and Impudence have erected no natural Iſſue of Laws; but the Muſhrooms of Prerogatives, the Wens of juſt Government, putting the Body of the People to pain, as well as occaſioning Deformity, Sons of Conqueſt they are, and Uſurpation, not of Choice and Election, intruded upon us by Power, not conſtituted by Conſent, not made by the People, whom all Power, Place and Office that is juſt; in this Kingdom ought only to ariſe. And in another Place thus; 'Why preſume ye thus, O ye Lords? Set forth your Merits before the People, remember your ſelves, or we ſhall remember ye? Which of you before this Parliament minded any thing ſo much as your Pleaſure, Plays, Maſques, Feaſtings, Huntings, Gamings, Dancings, &c. For what other have you been, but a meer Clog to the Houſe of Commons in all their Proceedings? How many neceſſary things have you obſtructed; how many Evils have you promoted? And again, 'That the Lords muſt ſtand to be choſen as Knights and Burgeſſes by the People as other the Freemen and Gentry of this Nation are. By all this is apparent that they intend the deſtroying of the Houſe of Lords.

4. They drive on for a Tolleration for all ſorts of Hereſies and Heretical Opinions; which they term Liberty of Conſcience: For they boldly aſſert, 'That it is the Will and Command of God, that ſince the coming of his Son the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, a Permiſſion of the moſt Paganiſh, Jewiſh, Turkiſh or Antichriſtian Conſciences and Worſhips being granted to all Men in all Nations and Countries.

And again, 'That Liberty of Conſcience is to be allowed by every Man to worſhip God in that Way or Manner as ſhall appear to them moſt agreeable to God's Word. By the Length of this Foot we may gueſs at the whole Body; and what Babyloniſh Confuſion this will be, let all true Chriſtians judge.

5. That they intend (paſt Intention, for they have done it already) to pull down Orthodox and Godly Miniſters placed in their Livings by Ordinance of Parliament; and to take upon themſelves (though the very Scum of the People) the Paſtor's Office; abuſe Godly Miniſters; ſaying, 'Their Miniſterial Calling is Antichriſtian, their Maintenance Jewiſh, their Preaching illegal, and their Perſons contemptible, preferring before them Grooms of Stables, Botchers, Coblers, and all Mechanicks how ignorant ſoever.

6. That having a Power (the Sword in their own Hands, as they have often bragged of) do protect their own independent Members (who are guilty of Capital Crimes) from a due and legal Trial, they drein the City of London, which now lies at their Mercy, of vaſt Sums of Monies, burthen their Suburbs by Free-quartering, and the like, retard the Relief of Ireland, elect Members of their own Factions, ſlight and ſet at nought the Houſe of Lords, keep the King ſtill at a diſtance from the Parliament, liſt Soldiers continually, and yet would make us believe they intend Peace, demand unreaſonable things of the Parliament, and more than they can honourably grant, ſeize upon all the ſtrong Holds and Forts of the Kingdom, and muſt not be denied any thing they ask.

They accuſe Members of known Integrity and Faithfulneſs to the Parliament and Kingdom, upon meer Surmiſes, and lamentable lame Informations of ſome of their Fantaſtick Brethren; they reſiſt the Solemn League and Covenant for uniting the two Kingdoms of Scotland and England, they diſſolve the Parliament, and ſeek to new caſt it in an Independent Mold. They countenance deſperate Malignants, who vindicate them in their Proceedings, and ſuffer them to be about the Perſon of the King.

Theſe things having taken all into our ſerious Conſiderations, truly weighing them in an equal Balance, and laying them to heart, We cannot but apprehend what Miſeries will be entailed upon us and our Poſterities, if we ſhall not ſtand as one Man, in the Name of all that have taken the Covenant with us, humbly to petition the Parliament for the ſpeedy disbanding of the Army ſo ſoon as their Arrears can be paid, Declarations againſt them revoked, and the Act of Indempnity enlarged; That thoſe Counties that were Petitioners to Sir Thomas Fairfax ſhould repreſent how ſurreptitiouſly the Petitions were gotten, by whom fomented, contrived and ſubſcrib'd, that they may come to condign Puniſhment for ſo high an Affront againſt the Parliament: that the Eleven Members may be again taken into the Houſe, or others legally and fairly choſen, to attend the Service of the Houſe, till the Charge can be proved againſt the Accuſed: That none may be admitted Members of Parliament, or have any Place of Truſt in the Kingdom, that refuſe to take the Solemn League and Covenant: That ſome Perſons of Truſt and Valour (as Field Marſhal Skippon, or Major-General Maſſey) may be put into Supreme Command for the Affairs of Ireland: That his Majeſty may be ſpeedily brought with Honour and Safety to the Parliament, that ſuch wholſome Laws may be enacted that may procure a Firm and Laſting Peace.

Elſe we ſhall be enforced ſpeedily according to our Covenant, to make ſuch Proviſions of Arms and other military Forces, as may ſecure our Religion, our King, Kingdom and Parliament; and make no Doubt of the Bleſſing of God, together with chearful Concurrence of all good People and well-affected of both Kingdoms, that deſire Freedom from Sects, Schiſms, and Hereticks, with inflamed Vigour and Alacrity to oppoſe their Enterpriſes, and maintain the Honour and Religion of both Kingdoms againſt all Tyrants whatſoever, to the comfort of God's People, to the reſcuing and vindicating our wronged Brethren, delivering them out of the Jaws of Deſtruction, and the eſtabliſhing of Truth and Peace in theſe three Kingdoms.

Letters from Colonel Lambert out of the North mention not any thing of the Scots Approaches, but Preparations; and ſuch likewiſe is ours for the Defence and Safety of the North, Colonel Lambert having got together in that ſhort time he has been there about 8000 Horſe and Foot.

The Houſe of Peers on Auguſt 11. ſent again this Day a Meſſage to the Commons for their Concurrence to the Declaration of Sir Thomas Fairfax and Army, and for nulling the forced Votes.

A Meſſage from the Lords concerning the Armies declaration debated, and an Expedient propoſed.

The Commons again reſumed the Debate thereof, and an Expedient was then reported to the Houſe for the nulling of the forced Votes by a Repeal; yet ſo, that the Mutineers, Fomenters of the intended War, may be proceeded againſt: This took up a great Debate; and at laſt it was committed to a Committee with the Ordinances from the Lords to make ſome Alteration therein, and to be reported to the Houſe again on Friday Morning next.

A Lieutenant in Southwark reviled for conſenting to let the Army in.

Mr. Britton, who was againſt the Army, ſent for.

A Petition was this Day read in both Houſes from a Captain-Lieutenant of Southwark Trained-Bands, complaining, that he had been much abuſed and reviled by ſome in the City, and in particular by one Mr. Thomas Britton, for ſtanding with Southwark not to oppoſe the Army. The Houſe, upon Debate hereof, ordered Maſter Britton to be ſent for into Cuſtody; and an Order of Thanks and Indempnity paſſed both Houſes for thoſe of Southwark; the like Orders for the Committee and Forces of Hertfordſhire, and for Colonel Blunt and his Forces in Kent: The Orders being but ſhort, for the better Satisfaction, we will give you them verbatim.

To inquire what Arms in this time of Diſtraction have been taken out of the Tower.

An Order was made by the Commons that it be referred to a Committee to conſider what Arms were taken ſince the late Diſturbance out of the Store of the Tower, Army and Navy, and that the ſame be again reſtored to each particularly.

From the Army we underſtand, that his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax came to the Head-Quarters at Kingſton upon Thames this Day, and thereupon called a Council of War, who had ſeveral things before them, in order to the ſpeedy Settlement of the Peace of the Kingdom.

The Head-Quarter this Night at Kingſton upon Thames.

Whereas there are great Complaints of divers Inhabitants in ſeveral Pariſhes where the Army is Quartered, of their being over-burthened with Soldiers, by reaſon of ſeveral Perſons of Eſtate, who have Protections to be freed from Quarter, having no Soldiers put upon them, whilſt the Soldiers aſſigned to Quarter in thoſe Pariſhes, put the reſt of the poorer ſort of Inhabitants to great Inconveniencies, and richer ſort go free and unburthened; it is therefore ordered by the Council of War, for prevention of the like Complaints and Inconveniencies for the future, that his Excellency be moved, that all Protections for exemption from Quarter be recalled : And that thoſe Perſons who had the ſame granted, do notwithſtanding bear their ſhare in Quartering, yet nevertheleſs ſhall have their Houſes free from Quartering of private Soldiers, provided they take care to provide Quarter elſewhere for the proportion of Soldiers which juſtly ought to be aſſigned to them; and all Officers in the Army are required to take notice of this Order.

We have had much Talk of late of ſome Riſing, or endeavours to raiſe Forces in Wales againſt the Army under Sir Thomas Fairfax; ſuch ſpeak of it as would have it ſo, for otherwiſe there is little ground of ſuch a Report; and this we can further aſſure you, that ſome Gentlemen of Note have been ſent out of South-Wales to the General, and attended him this Week, who give a very good account of the good Affections of the generality of thoſe Parts to the Army, and their deſires to join with them; and that they will be ready to teſtifie the ſame to the World as there ſhall be occaſion; deſiring the General would be pleaſed to grant them Commiſſions for the defence and ſafety of thoſe Parts, as there ſhall be occaſion.

Information of Forces riſing in Wales, pretending to join with the Army.

There was likewiſe a Petition preſented to his Excellency, at the Head Quarters at Kingſton, in the Name of the Company of Brewers of the City of London, complaining againſt the Exciſe of Beer and Ale, as a great Burthen to them, deſiring his Excellency would be a means for the taking off the ſame, but nothing yet we hear of done upon it.

Exciſe of Beer and Ale.

This Day, both Houſes, Auguſt 12. kept a ſolemn Thankſgiving; the Houſe of Peers met in their Houſe in the Morning, and from thence went to the Abby at Weſtminſter, where the Speaker and Members of the Houſe of Commons met their Lordſhips, and there had Two Sermons preached unto them by Mr. Marſhall and Mr. Nye.

Reformado Officers diſclaiming any hand in the late Tumult.

This Day divers Reformado-Officers in and about London, who diſclaim having any hand in the late Tumult or Deſigns of raiſing a new War, preſented a Petition to the General at Kingſton, as followeth:

To his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, Knight, General of all the Forces within the Kingdom of England, and Dominion of Wales.

The Humble Petition of divers Officers, whoſe Names are here under-written.

SHEWETH,

Their Petition followeth.

THat many of your Petitioners have faithfully ſerved the Common-wealth, during theſe Wars, as before and ſince the reducement under your Excellency's Command, for which there is great Summs due, and in Arrears unto them, as by theſe ſeveral Debenters, and otherwiſe may appear:

That ſome of your Petitioners neceſſitous Condition hath required their long and chargeable Attendance for Supply in London, yet to this Day hath not received One Peny, whilſt Perſons diſaffected to the freedom of the People, and who deeply acted in the late Tumults and Diſtempers, have received conſiderable Summs, by which moſt of your Petitioners are reduced to ſuch a miſerable condition of Living, that unleſs ſpeedily relieved, they muſt in all likelihood periſh.

Now, foraſmuch as your Petitioners have always been cordially affected to your Excellency's Proceedings, continually concurring in the Armies deſires, who, for oppoſing theſe late Tumults, Diſtempers, Mutinies, had their Lives daily expoſed to great hazard and danger.

Your Petitioners therefore moſt humbly pray your Excellency would vouchſafe to take them and their diſtreſſed Condition into your ſerious Conſideration, and out of your wonted Goodneſs, be a means they may be relieved with ſome conſiderable proportion of their Arrears, in ſuch way and manner as to your Excellency's Wiſdom ſhall ſeem meet,

And your Petitioners, as bound,
ſhall daily pray,

A Declaration of his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, and the Council of War, againſt a Printed Pamphlet, pretending Authority from the Army to diſpoſſeſs or interupt ſuch Miniſters as are put into Sequeſtred Livings, by a Parliament, or Authority derived from them.

Tumults put Sequeſtred Miniſters into their Churches, pretending the Authority of the Army, but diſclaim'd by the Army.

WHereas it appears, by ſufficient Proof, that many violent Tumults and Outrages are committed by ſeveral Perſons, againſt divers Miniſters, placed by Order or Ordinance of Parliament in Sequeſtred Livings, and for their ſuch violent Carriage to, and detaining from the ſaid Miniſters their Profits, there is pretended, by the ſaid Parties, Power and Authority from the General and the Army; and for the more plauſible juſtifying of their undue Pretences therein, have cauſed to be Printed and Publiſhed, a Pamphlet, Intituled, Two Petitions of the Sequeſtred Clergy of England and Wales, one to the King's Moſt Excellent Majeſty, and the other to Sir Thomas Fairfax, with a pretended Declaration of the General and his Council of War thereupon; of all which Actions we cannot but teſtifie a very ill Reſentment, and do hereby declare a diſlike of ſuch Proceedings, declaring not only againſt themſelves to have had any incouragement from us, but alſo any Ends or Intentions to that purpoſe, and to the further clearing of our ſelves herein, we ſhall henceforth endeavour the bringing to condign Puniſhment ſuch who have or ſhall expreſs the like, upon any pretence whatſoever.

Thanks to the Preachers on the Thankſgiving-Day.

Both Houſes, on Auguſt 14. ordered Thanks to be given to Mr. Marſhal and Mr. Nye, for their Sermons Yeſterday, and to print their Sermons. The Houſe of Commons further Ordered, That Mr. Marſhal and Mr. Nye ſhould be referred to the Members of the Houſe, that are for the County of Eſſex, to conſider of ſome Gratuity for their great Pains in the Service of the Publick, and in particular their attendance with the Commiſſioners along with the Army.

Sir James Hamilton, and Mr. Hamilton, being ſent up Priſoners to the Houſe, out of Wales, the Perſons that brought them up was ordered a Gratuity, and they ordered to be committed to Cuſtody till further Order.

The Apprentices Ordinance laid aſide.

A Meſſage this Day came from the Lords, that the new Commiſſioners of the Militia acting upon a forced Ordinance, commonly called, the Apprentices Ordinance, their Lordſhips declared, they acted unwarrantably. This Declaration was once read, and upon much Debate it was put to the Queſtion, and ordered to be laid aſide, and not to be read the ſecond time.

The Houſe of Commons, on Auguſt 17. again reaſſumed the Debate of the Declaration by the Lords, againſt the Proceedings of the Houſes, from the 26th of July, till the 6th of Auguſt, to be forced; and that Sitting not to be a Free Parliament: The Debate held very long in the Houſe about it; at laſt the Queſtion was put, whether the Queſtion ſhould be put or not, upon which the Houſe was divided, and it was affirmatively by two Voices; then the Queſtion was put, whether it ſhould be declared, that what was done in the time aforeſaid to be forced, and that Sitting no Free Parliament, and it was carried in the Negative by three Voices.

Young Men and Apprentices their Congratulation to the General.

This Day was preſented to the General, an humble Acknowledgment, and Congratulation of many Thouſands young Men and Apprentices of the City of London, to his Excellency, for his many great Services to the Kingdom and City of London, in order to the eſtabliſhing of a firm Peace; for all which Services they do thus expreſs themſelves; “ That as they cannot but with all Joy and Thankfulneſs acknowledge, ſo they doubt not but the Memorial of them “ will be a Crown of Glory and Honour upon his Excellency's Head, “ and upon the Heads of all his faithful Commanders and Soldiers to “ all Poſterity.

“ And although they cannot, as they would, manifeſt their Hearts in a viſible acting for his Excellency in the late time of Need, they deſire his Excellency be pleaſed to accept of their refuſals to join or comply with any thing bearing a face of Oppoſition to him, notwithſtanding the Threats of Death for ſo doing, as an undoubted Teſtimony of their Reſolution to live and die with his Excellency and Army, in ſettling His Majeſty's Rights, the Parliament's Privileges, and the Peace and Freedom of this Nation, the which they do ſtill return, and ſhall further manifeſt, as God ſhall give an opportunity, and his Excellency require it at their hands.

That the General well accepts their refuſal not to join with the Armies Oppoſers, though with threats of Death.

This acknowledgment was received with very good reſpect from his Excellency, and an Anſwer was returned by his Excellency, as followeth.

The General's Anſwer to the Apprentices.

Gentlemen,

I Have received your Congratulation of the late endeavours of this Army, and great Succeſſes with which God hath bleſt us againſt the open and ſecret Enemies, to the Intereſt of this Kingdom, manifeſting with many cordial Expreſſions, your good reſentment of our late Proceedings, in proſecution of thoſe publick Ends; for the accompliſhment whereof, you have not only declined and refuſed Compliance with the Kingdom's Enemies, but have freely tendered a joint Adventure of your ſelves with us, when occaſion ſhall require: All which I cannot but gladly receive with a thankful Acceptance, returning the like acknowledgment of your good and honeſt Offer, as you of our Endeavours; and do deſire that you will continue ſtill in your ſeveral Places, the promotion and purſuance of thoſe publick Ends aforementioned; and I doubt not but the ſame divine Providence that hath been our Guide hitherto, will ſtill direct us and all honeſt Men, going hand in hand with us, towards a happy concluſion of our preſent Troubles and Diſtractions, and ſettling of the King, Parliament, and Kingdom, in ſafety, peace, and freedom.

This Day the General came again to Kingſton, and the Council ſate cloſe about drawing up a Declaration or Remonſtrance, concerning their juſt and clear Proceedings in behalf of the Parliament, Kingdom, and themſelves, declaring alſo againſt the Members ſitting at Weſtminſter, and their Votes to be forced, and no Free Parliament, from July 26. to Auguſt 6.

The Council of War ſate cloſe at Kingſton, about a Remonſtrance of their Proceedings.

Mr. Nichols was this Day brought to the General; and alſo Colonel Ellis Leighton, who was alſo taken into Cuſtody at Kingſton, upon Information he was one that took up a Commiſſion in London for the raiſing of Forces to engage the Kingdom in a new War, and remains under reſtraint.

Colonel Ellis Leighton.

This Day, being Auguſt 18. came Letters to the Parliament, and a full Relation and Confirmation of the great Overthrow given to the Iriſh Rebels, under Preſton, at the relieving of Trym, Auguſt the 8*th*. by Colonel Jones, the Particulars are very large, and ſome account of this buſineſs hath been already given, what is ſince further certified we will give you as briefly as may be.

A Relation of the great Overthrow given to Preſton by Colonel Jones, at the relieving of Trym.

Sunday Auguſt 8. Colonel Jones, with his Army, conſiſting in all of 1500 Horſe, and about 5000 Foot, in purſuit of Preſton's Forces newly raiſed from Trym, came to a place called Linchesknock, within one Mile whereof the Enemy was drawn upon Dungan-Hill, a place to him of all Advantages, being a high Ground, whereunto adjoined a Wood and a Bog, their uſual Refuge in diſtreſs; the Enemy alſo ſtood poſſeſſed of great Ditches. The Enemy had lately before muſtered 7300 Foot, 1047 Horſe, as appeared by a Muſter-Roll after found.

The Battel near Trym.

About Twelve of the Clock the Armies joined, the Battel continuing about two Hours, our two Wings of Horſe, with ſome Foot, having broken both Wings of the Enemy, our main Body advanced and broke theirs, whereupon about 3000 of the Rebels betaking themſelves to the Bog, they there drew up into a Body, but Colonel Jones commanding the Bog to be ſurrounded with Horſe and Foot, our Foot following into the Bog, where they put to the Sword all not admitted to Quarter; ſuch of the Rebels as left the Bog fell into the Power of our Horſe.

Of the Slain, there was upon the place reckoned 5470, beſides thoſe after gleaned up, which were very many of the Enemies Foot. There could not eſcape above 500, being as they were inviron'd: Among thoſe Slain were 400 of Collogh Kittages Men. There was alſo put to the Sword, without Mercy, all formerly of our Party now found amongſt the Rebels, and all Engliſh, though never of our Party.

Priſoners taken

The number of Priſoners is of Colonels five, whereof is the Lieutenant-General of Lemſter, and the Earl of Weſtmeath, four Lieutenant-Colonels, ſix Serjeant-Majors, thirty two Captains, twenty three Lieutenants, twenty ſeven Enſigns, two Cornets, twenty two Sergeants, two Quarter-Maſters, two Gunners, the Clerk of the Store, thirteen Troopers, and two hundred thirty eight common Soldiers; Preſton their General hardly eſcaped with the Horſe; he loſt his Carriages and Cannon, being four Demi-Culverins, each carrying twelve Pound Bullet, and ſixty four fair Oxen attending the Train, which are to us of very great uſe, of which we have till now in that kind been very ſhort provided. There was alſo taken Preſton's Cabinet of Papers, much valued in the Diſcoveries therein made, and alſo their Colours.

Of ours were ſome Wounded, but not twenty Slain; of Note we loſt only two Cornets, and one Captain Gibbs.

A Day of Thankſgiving at Dublin.

All done, Colonel Jones commanded throughout the Army Thankſgiving to be given to the Lord of Hoſts, who did that Day wonderfully for his People, appointing Tueſday the 17*th* of Auguſt for a Day of Thankſgiving in all the Churches in Dublin.

After this Victory the Enemy quit and burnt divers of their Garriſons, viz. the Nas, Signiſtown, Harriſtown, Collanſtown, Caſtlewarning, and Moyglare, and much more had been gained of them, had there been Pay and Proviſion for our Army, whereby the Victory might have been proſecuted, but in want of both they were enforced to take homewards unexpectedly.

This was the greateſt Victory, with loſs to the Rebels. A Day of Thankſgiving in England, for the Succeſs in Ireland. Gratuities to Colonel Jones, and other Commanders.

This was the moſt ſignal Victory, with greateſt Loſs to the Rebels that ever was gained in Ireland ſince the firſt Conqueſt thereof by the Engliſh; for which the Lord make us truly thankful.

The Commons, upon conſideration of this great Victory, ordered Tueſday come Fortnight to be a Day of Thankſgiving for the ſame throughout the Kingdom.

And it was referred to the Committee of Ireland, to take into ſpeedy Conſideration, the ſending of requiſite Proviſions into Ireland, and to make Report thereof to the Houſe.

Anth. Nichols.

A Letter was read in the Houſe from Mr. Nichols, under reſtraint by the Army, and it was ordered thereupon, that a Letter ſhould be written to the General, to deſire that he may be diſcharged, or ſent up to London, to anſwer ſuch things as ſhall be objected againſt him.

Sir John Chiſley, the Scots Secretary ſtaid at Newcaſtle.

A Letter was read from the Commiſſioners of Scotland, at Worceſter-Houſe, in both Houſes, complaining of the great breach of the Union of the two Kingdoms, in ſtaying Mr. Chiſley, their Secretary, at Newcaſtle. The Houſe ordered a Copy of this Letter to be ſent to Sir Thomas Fairfax, and he to be deſired to give order for his Releaſe, if it be not already done.

Dr. Temple, and Mr. Simpſon were ordered to preach before the Houſe the Day of Thankſgiving for Ireland.

Conference to anull all Votes from July 22. to Aug. 6.

Both Houſes had a Conference, whereat the Lords gave Reaſons to the Commons for paſſing the Ordinance to null all the Votes in the time before-mentioned, as forced; the Commons after had debate thereof, and committed the Ordinance, and ſo adjourned till the next Day.

A Remonſtrance incloſed in the General's Letter to the Houſe of Peers.

This Day, Auguſt 19. Both Houſes being ſate, there were Letters brought to them, from his Excellency, and therein incloſed a Remonſtrance or Declaration of the General and Council of War; you may the better judge of the Remonſtrance by the Letter from the General to the Speakers of both Houſes, as followeth.

For the Right Honourable the Earl of Mancheſter, Speaker of the Houſe of Peers pro tempore.

My Lord,

THE tender and deep ſenſe which my ſelf and the Army have of the Difficulties and Dangers under which your Lordſhip, with the Right Honourable Lords, and Faithful and Worthy Members of the Houſe of Commons, lately driven away to the Army; as alſo our ſelves and all others that love the Peace of the Kingdom, and freedom of Parliaments, notwithſtanding the ſaid juſt and honourable Reſolutions, Proceedings, and Endeavours of the Right Honourable Houſe of Peers, do ſtill lie under, hath produced this Remonſtrance from us, whereof I have incloſed ſent your Lordſhips a Copy, and thoſe Conſiderations and Reſolutions therein expreſſed, which as they are, in the preſent caſe, moſt neceſſary for your Lordſhips and ours, and the Kingdoms ſafety, quiet, and welfare; ſo, we hope, we will appear juſt and honeſt, and accordingly be accepted and approved by your Lordſhips, as proceeding from the hearty Affections, and ſincere Intentions of your Lordſhips and the Kingdoms Servants here, and eſpecially of,

Kingſton, Aug. Your Lordſhip's Humble Servant,
14. 1647.

Tho. Fairfax.

The Letter to the Speaker of the Houſe of Commons was the ſame with this.

The Remonſtrance it ſelf is very large, but that which is moſt eminently driven at in it, is the purging the Parliament, by expunging ſuch Members as did Act and Vote in the time the Speakers and the reſt were forced from the Houſe, concerning whom the Remonſtrance runs thus.

Part of the Remonſtrance for purging the Houſe.

UPon conſideration of the juſtneſs of the Cauſe, and the neceſſity of the thing for the ſafety of the Parliament, Kingdom, and this Army, having no other way left timely to remedy the Difficulties we are put upon, or prevent the growing dangers of future Violence unto the Parliament, and diſturbances to the Kingdom, or to ſecure the Parliament in a quiet Proceeding to ſettle the Peace of the Kingdom. And, in ſuch caſe, the ſafety of the People, being the ſupream Law, we do proteſt and declare, that if any of thoſe Members, who, during the abſence of the Speakers and Members of both Houſes, forced away by the tumultuous Violence aforeſaid, did Sit and Vote in the pretended Houſes, then continuing at Weſtminſter, that hereafter intrude themſelves to ſit in Parliament, before they ſhall have given Satisfaction to the reſpective Houſes whereof they are, concerning the Grounds of their ſaid ſitting at Weſtminſter, during the abſence of the ſaid Speakers, and ſhall have acquitted themſelves by ſufficient evidence, that they did not procure, or give their conſent unto any of thoſe pretended Votes, Orders, or Ordinances tending to the raiſing and levying of a War, as is before declared, or for the King's coming forthwith to London, we cannot any longer ſuffer the ſame, but ſhall do that right to the Speakers and Members of both Houſes, who were driven away to us, and to our ſelves with them, all whom the ſaid other Members have endeavoured in an hoſtile manner unjuſtly to deſtroy, and alſo the Kingdom, which they endeavoured to imbroil in a new War, as to take ſome ſpeedy and effectual courſe, whereby to reſtrain them from being their own, and ours, and the Kingdoms Judges, in thoſe things wherein they have made themſelves Parties, by this means to make War, that both they and others that are guilty of, and Parties to the aforeſaid treaſonable and deſtructive Practices and Proceedings, againſt the freedom of Parliament and Peace of the Kingdom, may be brought to condign Puniſhment, and that at the Judgment of a free Parliament, conſiſting duly and properly of ſuch Members of both Houſes reſpectively, who ſtand clear from ſuch apparent and treaſonable breach of the Truſt, as is before expreſſed, &c.

The Lords return Thanks to the Army for the Remonſtrance.

This Remonſtrance was read in both Houſes, and the Houſe of Peers paſt a Vote, That they do approve of the ſaid Remonſtrance, and that a Letter of Thanks ſhould be ſent to the General.

Their Lordſhips likewiſe had another Letter read from the General, recommending the Condition of many Miniſters put into Sequeſtred Livings, by order of Parliament, that have of late been much moleſted by delinquent Miniſters.

Upon both which Matters, their Lordſhips cauſed this Letter to be ſent to the General in anſwer to the ſame.

For the Honourable Sir Thomas Fairfax, Knight, General of the Forces raiſed by the Parliament for the Safety of the Kingdom.

SIR,

The Lords Letter to the General, concerning the Remonſtrance, and the Lord's Approbation thereof.

THE Lords in Parliament having received a Letter and Remonſtrance from you, have commanded me in their Names to let you know, that they do approve of the ſaid Remonſtrance, and return you Thanks for the continuance of your Care for the preſerving the Honour and Freedom of the Parliament: And likewiſe have received another Letter, by which you do recommend to them the Condition of divers Miniſters ſettled by Ordinance of Parliament, who have been diſquieted and moleſted, and turned out of Poſſeſſion of their Houſes by force, through through the Practices of divers delinquent Miniſters: They do fully approve of your Care, for the Vindication of your Self and Army under your Command; and have commanded me to aſſure you, that they will ſpeedily take ſuch a courſe for the queſtioning of thoſe principal Offenders, whoſe Names they are certified of, and for the puniſhing of their ſaid Miſcarriages, as that others may be deterred thereby for the future, from the like Practices: This is all I have in Command, as Weſtminſter 20.

The Houſe of Commons had the Remonſtrance read, but did nothing upon it.

They had likewiſe read the Letter from the General, about the Miniſters diſturbed in their Places by delinquent Miniſters, and appointed another Ordinance to be drawn up for the continuing of ſuch Miniſters, ſettled by Ordinance of Parliament, and the ejecting the delinquent Miniſters, and to bring the diſturbers to condign Puniſhment.

Delinquent Miniſters.

Well-affected Miniſters.

This Day we had certain Intelligence of the apprehending Six of the Eleven Members as they were going beyond Sea, being taken within Six Miles of Callis: In brief it was thus; Major Redman being upon the Guard at Graveſend, had notice that ſome of the Eleven Impeached Members were paſſed by, and gone to Margaret's in Kent, hereupon he ſent Poſt after them, and as the Meſſenger came to Margaret's, they hoiſted Sail, and were a Mile at Sea, inquiry being made of the Fiſhermen what their Carriage was, they replied, The Gentlemen that went aboard were in very great haſte: One Fiſherman ſaying to them, I do not think but theſe are ſome Parliament-men flying. Whereupon one Captain Bennet who was in their Company, drew his Sword at him, but the Fiſherman being nimble of his Heels eſcaped. The Town underſtanding by the Meſſenger what they were, very readily, at the beat of a Drum, repaired to their Colours, and Forty of them, under the Command of Captain Lamming, a Valiant Seaman, put to Sea in a ſmall Veſſel, and within Six Miles of Callis overtook them, who ſeeing themſelves purſued, made hard to Windward to eſcape, but could not: Captain Lamming plying them hard with ſmall Shot, and a Frigate Man of War, one Captain Pierſon, coming in to the aſſiſtance, the Six Members pulling down Sail and yielded, viz. Mr. Denzil Hollis, Sir Philip Stapleton, Sir William Waller, Sir William Lewes, Sir John Clotworthy, and Mr. Walter Long, and demanded by what Warrant they were apprehended, Anſwer was made, pretending it to be by Sir Thomas Fairfax his Warrant. They earneſtly preſt a free Paſſage beyond Seas, and great Invitations had the Seamen to let them eſcape, but it would not be, ſo they deſired to be brought aboard Captain Batten at Deal, which accordingly they were, but they were diſmiſt and ſent to Sea by Captain Batten, and the Seamen who apprehended them found threatned, and ſufficiently reviled againſt by Parſon Major Kem.

Six of the Eleven Members ſeiſed on near Callis.

Captain Lamming put to Sea, and overtook Six of the Eleven Members, not having any Order.

They were brought aboard Captain Batten, and diſcharged to go to Sea again.

The Head-Quarters of the Army are ſtill at Kingſton: ſome talk of removing to Guilford. The King ſtill at Oatlands, but talk alſo of his removing to Hampton-Court, but not agreed on.

The King ſtill at Oatlands, the Head-Quarters at Kingſton.

This Day, Auguſt the 23*d*. the Committee of Lords and Commons appointed to find out and examine the late force againſt the Parliament, the buſineſs of the Engagement, and deſign of raiſing a new War, ſate cloſe in the Painted Chamber at Weſtminſter, and had before them ſeveral Citizens in Examination, whereof ſome as chief Actors, who ſtand committed to Priſon: and the Committee appointed to make their Report to the Houſe, how far they had proceeded herein the next Day.

Citizens examinations concerning the late Force.

The Houſe of Peers alſo met this Day, and received, by Meſſage, ſeveral Orders paſſed the Houſe of Commons at the laſt Sitting, which their Lordſhips debated and concurred in. One was an Ordinance concerning Miniſters.

WHereas divers Miniſters in the ſeveral Counties of this Kingdom, for notorious Scandals and Delinquency, have been put out of their Livings by Authority of Parliament, and Godly, Learned, and Orthodox Miniſters placed in their rooms; and whereas the ſaid ſcandalous and delinquent Miniſters by force, or otherwiſe, have entred upon the Churches, and gained poſſeſſion of the Parſonage-Houſes, Tithes, and Profits thereunto belonging, and and have obſtructed the payment of the Tithes, and other Profits due by the Pariſhioners unto the Miniſters places in the ſaid Churches, by Authority aforeſaid.

The Lords and Commons do Ordain, That all Sheriffs, Mayors, Bayliffs, Juſtices of the Peace, Deputy-Lieutenants, and Committees of Parliament in the ſeveral Counties, Cities, and Places within this Kingdom, do forthwith apprehend, or cauſe to be apprehended, all ſuch Miniſters as by Authority of Parliament have been put out of their Livings, and all ſuch Perſons as have been Aiders, Abetters, or Aſſiſters in the Premiſſes, and commit them to Priſon, there to remain until ſuch ſatisfaction be made unto the ſeveral Miniſters placed by the ſaid Authority of Parliament, for his or their damages ſuſtained; and likewiſe to reſtore, ſettle, and quiet the poſſeſſion in ſuch Miniſters, as have been placed by the ſaid Authority of Parliament.

And Laſtly, That if any ſuch ſcandalous or delinquent Miniſter, put out as aforeſaid, their Aiders or Abettors, ſhall at any time hereafter diſturb, moleſt, or hinder ſuch Miniſters as is put in into ſuch Church or Chapel as aforeſaid, in the exerciſing of the Office of his Miniſtry, upon proof thereof made upon the Oath of two Witneſſes, before the ſaid Sheriffs, Mayors, Bayliffs, Juſtices of Peace, Deputy-Lieutenants, or Committees of Parliaments, or any two of them, it ſhall and may be lawful to and for the ſaid Sheriffs, Mayors, Bayliffs, Juſtices of the Peace, Deputy-Lieutenants, or Committees of Parliament, or any two of them, to commit ſuch Offender or Offenders to Priſon for one Month, ſo often as he or they ſhall ſo offend.

Plague in Cheſter, greatly infected.

THat whereas the City of Cheſter is grievouſly infected and viſited with the Plague of Peſtilence in every Pariſh and Part thereof, very few Families being clear, by reaſon whereof almoſt all the Perſons of Ability have left the ſaid City, and there are remaining for the moſt part, only the Poor that have no means of Subſiſtence, being altogether deprived of Trading, which if they be not preſently relieved in an extraordinary way, are like to periſh for Want, and to endanger the Infecting the adjacent Counties: And whereas the County of Cheſter is exceedingly impoveriſhed by the late War, whereby they are diſabled for affording them any conſiderable Relief, it is ordered, That the reſpective Miniſters of every Pariſh of London and Weſtminſter, within the Counties of Cheſter, Kent, Suſſex, Surry, Southampton, Middleſex, Eſſex, Hereford, Cambridge, Suffolk, and Norfolk, do, upon the next Lord's Day after the receipt of this Ordinance, publiſh the diſtreſſed Condition of the poor Inhabitants of the ſaid City of Cheſter, and earneſtly move their People to contribute to ſo Charitable a Work for the relief of the poor diſtreſſed Inhabitants of Cheſter.

To be publiſhed for relieving ſeveral Counties.

Biſhops Lands.

There was likewiſe paſſed an Additional Ordinance concerning the Sale of Biſhop's Lands.

Intelligence from Edenborough. Commiſſioners to come to the Parliament, and to Sir Tho. Fairfax.

From the North this Day, by the Poſt Letters, came little of News. The Scotch Aſſembly ſits cloſe at Edenborough, but no great matters yet concluded on, only new Commiſſioners appointed, with ſome of the old to come unto the Parliament of England, and to Sir Thomas Fairfax. What their Inſtructions be, is not well known at preſent.

Falſe Alarm of the Scots drawing near.

From Newcaſtle they write, Auguſt 19. That they had an Alarm from Scotland, occaſioned by a Rumour, that the Scots were upon their March near to the Borders. Upon this, Orders was given for ſome Regiments to march into Northumberland, and Colonel Thornton's Regiment to come to this Town, which was at Durham Yeſterday; but upon certain Intelligence that the Alarm was falſe, and no Forces coming, nor deſigned, they received Orders for retreating back again into York-ſhire.

Ill-affected Miniſter at Newcaſtle.

The well-affected in Newcaſtle are much caſt down, that a malignant Party in that Town are ſo prevalent, domineering it over the honeſt Party, as they have lately done, in putting a Miniſter into the Pariſh of Gateſide, and a Clerk of the ſame Stamp, who was once a Maſter-Gunner in the Earl of Newcaſtle's Army.

Ireland, Succeſs by my Lord Inchiquin, as followeth.

This Day alſo from Cork, in the Province of Munſter in Ireland, came Letters to ſeveral Members of Parliament, of the late further Succeſſes obtained by the Lord Inchiquin in that Province, more particularly as followeth.

SIR,

Your conſtant Friendſhip engages me to give ſome Account of our Proceedings of late in this Province: We have kept the Field ever ſince Midſummer, in purſuit of the Rebels, and not being able to draw them to an Encounter, which my Lord Preſident deſigned; We took divers Caſtles in the County of Limerick, and his Lordſhip placed competent Guards in two of them, viz. Ballingarry and Caſtlemaketras, and deſtroyed the reſt; ſoon after this his Lordſhip withdrew into the County of Cork, in expectation to engage the Rebels Army before them, which happened accordingly, for that the Rebels laid Siege to Ballingarry, whereupon he marched with all poſſible ſpeed to the relief of the Place, but he that had the Command of the Caſtle, gave it up upon a Summons, within the time prefixed. But my Lord, by his Letter for his relief, being no way neceſſitated thereunto, for which he is now in queſtion, being diſappointed of our Engagement expected with the Army of the Rebels, the Lord Preſident marched towards thoſe Parts where he was moſt like to find them; he firſt met an intire Company commanded by Captain Den, of whom he ſlew Twenty three, took his Captain-Lieutenant, Enſign, and Twenty ſeven common Soldiers Priſoners, with Eighty ſpare Arms.

From hence his Lordſhip ordered his march towards the Rebels, near the River of Moylekerne, four or five Miles above Lymerick.

After three Hours diſpute we gained the Paſs, and having beaten off and routed their Forces, purſued them as far as we could, kill'd a Hundred upon the Place, wounded many, whereof ſome are ſince dead, took Two hundred ſerviceable Horſes, their Riders forſaking them, and kill'd and wounded many others, who at the firſt preſſed hard upon our Foot; here we got Two hundred Cows about the Lord Bourch of Caſtleconel's, and Sir Edmond Walſh's.

That Night we marched to Newcaſtle, a Garriſon of the Rebels, within half a Mile of the City of Lymerick, which was ſurrendred upon Summons, and Quarter only for their Lives; and here we reſted the remainder of that Night; ſome of our Troops purſued the Rebels over the River of Shanon.

The Party that got over were diſpoſed into ſeveral Diviſions, and gained a Prey of 8000 Head of Cattel, and at leaſt 5000 Sheep, the moſt part of them upon the Lands belonging to Brien's Bridge, with good Plunder: Our unexpected getting over the Shanon, ſtruck ſuch a Terror into the Rebels of Thomond, that they burnt the Earl of Thomond's Caſtle of Bunratty, which they had Garriſoned.

The Lord Preſident, with the Army, is now returned for a few Days to refreſh the Soldiers, who are generally bare-foot and extream naked; and he intends to march preſently out again towards the County of Tipperary, and the borders of Lemſter, whereof Colonel Jones hath the Command, which is conceived to be of much more advantage to the Service than any other Courſe, as well in ſpoiling the Enemies Quarters, as in driving Preſton's Forces, which, we hear are very ſtrong in thoſe Parts towards Dublin.

Ireland.

In the mean time the Forces of the Garriſon of Dungarvon and Capperquin, with Liſmore and Tallow, have marched under Lieutenant Colonel Michael Byren into Butler's County in Typerary by Order of the Lord Preſident, to make a Diverſion, and taken the Lord of Caher's Caſtle, called Grace Caſtle, ſtormed it, put the Rogues to the Sword, and got a good Prey of 2800 Head of Cattle, and Garrans or Horſes, with ſome ſtore of Sheep in the County of Limerick; we ſtormed and burnt the Abbey of Adare held by the Rebels, where four Friers were burnt and three taken Priſoners; and alſo the Garriſon of Owney belonging to the Heirs of Sir Edmund Welſh, with a Caſtle belonging to one Mr. Fox, where all that were within ſuffered Death, ſave Fox himſelf, who was let down by a Rope from the Battlements, which few would have attempted, hoping to make an Eſcape, but was knock'd on the Head by our Soldiers.

Dated at Cork,
Aug. 12. 1647.

Mr. Anthony Nicholl's Eſcape.

This day a Letter upon Auguſt 24. was read in the Houſe of Commons from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, and it was concerning Mr. Anthony Nicholls, one of the Eleven impeach'd Members ſent up Priſoner from the Army on Saturday laſt, and committed to Cuſtody with the Grounds of his Detainment by the Army, and a further Accuſation of High Treaſon againſt him: The Houſe had Debate of the General's Letter, and ordered that Maſter Nicholls ſhould be continued in ſafe Cuſtody.

But after a ſhort time, the Houſes were inform'd, that the ſaid Mr. Nicholls being committed to the Cuſtody of one Denham, one of the Serjeant's Deputies, was eſcaped from him.

The ſaid Denham was called in, and the Houſe demanded of him how he came to eſcape; he anſwer'd, that paſſing his Word as he was a Gentleman, to be a ſafe Priſoner, he gave him his liberty, and thereupon he eſcaped. The Houſe upon debate hereof, order'd that the ſaid Denham ſhould be committed: And order'd further, that all the Ports in England and Wales ſhould be ſtopped for the apprehending of the ſaid Mr. Nicholls; and this Order to be ſent to them with ſpeed: Alſo it was ordered, that the Paſs formerly granted by the Speaker, ſhould be revok'd and made void.

The Names of City Colonels in Arms againſt the Army, and countenancing the Force upon the Parliament.

This Day the Houſe of Commons received Mr. Corbet's Report from the Committee appointed to examine the Force upon the Parliament, &c. And the Examinations of Colonel Sowton, Colonel Vaughan, Colonel Chapman, Lieutenant-Colonel Baines, Captain Cox, and ſome others in Cuſtody about the Buſineſs, were reported; and upon particular Debates hereof, the Houſe ordered, that they do approve of the Commitment of the ſaid Perſons, and that they ſhall ſtill ſtand committed.

That an Impeachment of High-Treaſon be brought in againſt Colonel Chapman and Lieutenant-Colonel Baines; and a Charge of High Miſdemeanour againſt Colonel Vaughan.

The Report upon the Examination of Colonel Sowton and Captain Cox was put off, upon ſome Grounds, till another Day.

Reformado Officers to depart the City.

The Houſe had further Debate concerning an Ordinance for putting Reformado Officers out of the Lines of Communication.

A Petition was preſented to the Houſe by the Brewers of Ale and Beer within four miles of London, ſhewing that many of them were in Arrear to the Commiſſioners of Exciſe for Beer and Ale, and they look upon it as a great preſſure, deſiring the Exciſe might be taken off from that Commodity.

Brewers and Exciſe.

The Petitioners were called in, and Mr. Speaker, by order of the Houſe, acquainted them, that the Houſe had ordered, That if they paid not in their Arrears to the Commiſſioners of Exciſe by Friday next, that then the reſpective Summs owing by them to the Commiſſioners, ſhould be diſtrained for upon their Eſtates.

This Afternoon a Committee from the Houſe met the Lord-Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council at Guild-Hall in London, about the Loan of a Months Pay for the Army, formerly Voted to be given them for a Gratuity; the buſineſs was preſt to the City, but Anſwer was made, that it could not be granted, the City having for three Years paſt ſuffered very much, not only by way of Loans, and of advancing of Money, whereof a great part yet remaineth unpaid, but alſo by many other Aſſeſſments, Taxations, &c. Then it was replied; That there were yet great Arrears due from the City ſtill remaining unpaid, ſo that they might repay themſelves that way; but that was not approved of, only agreed, that a Committee may be appointed to examine what Arrears are yet behind, and how they may be gathered and made to be paid.

The City moved for the Loan of a months Pay for the Army, without effect at preſent.

From the Army we underſtand, that there is ſtill great Thoughts and Endeavours to ſettle the great Affairs of the Kingdom, by a ſuddain bringing on of the Propoſols, by removing Obſtructions within, ſo as beſt reaſon will take place; likewiſe by ſettling ſome number of Soldiers, and not many to avoid Charge, for ſecuring the Parliament and Tower of London, and conſequently the City from after Dangers and Diſturbances; and theſe done, which to effect better, will a while neceſſitate the Head-Quarter, and much of the Army to be near London.

Intelligence from the Army, of bringing on Propoſals.

The Army will ſhortly be diſperſed to Garriſons and Quarters remote, ſo as moſt conveniently they may be made fit to ſecure this Kingdom, and to ſend Forces for Ireland, in which buſineſs they go forwards apace with their Preparations.

The King hath been ſeveral Days at Oatlands, where he hath been much viſited by Citizens and others. This Day His Majeſty left Oatlands and came to Hampton-Court, where as yet he remains. Yeſterday His Majeſty went to Sion-Houſe, and Dined there with the Duke of York and the reſt of the Princes, and after Dinner went back to Oatlands.

This Day the King left Oatlands, and came to Hampton-Court, Auguſt 24.

Letters from France tell of Six of the Eleven Impeached Members landed at Callis, but that Sir Philip Stapleton ſoon after his Landing died at Callis of the Plague, the reſt are gone to Fluſhen, very much ſad at the ſuddain Death of Sir Philip.

Sir Philip Stapleton died of the Plague at Callis, and was much lamented; approved to be Valiant like his Anceſtors.

Wedneſday Aug. 25. This Day was the Monthly Faſt-Day; there preach'd before the Lords, Mr. Carrill and Mr. Spurſtowe; and before the Commons, Mr. Fowler and Mr. Robinſon; after the Sermons the Houſes met, and ordered Thanks to the Miniſters that preached, and to print their Sermons: And Mr. Bateman and Mr. Horton nominated to preach before the Commons next Faſt-Day.

The monthly Faſt-Day.

Thurſday, Auguſt 26. The Houſe this Day ordered a Writ to be iſſued forth for a new Election in the room of Mr. Pope, deceaſed, late Knight of the Shire for Merioneth.

Mr. Pope, a new Election.

City to collect the Arrears due to the Army.

Mr. Scowen reported from the Committee that had been with the Common-Council Tueſday laſt, about the advance of a Months Pay upon the Credit of the Arrears of the City, that their Anſwer was, That they had appointed a Committee to collect the Arrears of the City due to the Army; and that if they wanted Power, they had Directions to apply themſelves to the Parliament for it.

Exciſe.

The Houſe did further debate of this buſineſs, and an Ordinance was read for the regulation of the Exciſe, which was twice read and committed.

Pembroke-College.

An Ordinance was ſent from the Lords, for making Mr. Henry Langley to be Maſter of Pembroke College in Oxon; which upon Debate was alſo aſſented unto by the Commons.

How to ſecure the Parliament when the Army withdraws.

It was referred to a Committee to conſider what way was beſt for the ſecurity of the Two Houſes of Parliament when the Army ſhould withdraw, and to report to the Houſe.

JohnLilburne.

A Petition was preſented, in the Name of many Citizens, on the behalf of Lieutenant-Colonel John Lilburne, which was referred to the Committee, where Mr. Martin has the Chair, and to report with all convenient ſpeed.

No Private buſineſs.

Ordered, That the Houſe hear no private buſineſs 'till Monday come Seven-night.

Clamorous People not to paſs the Guards to the Houſes, by reaſon of the Infection.

And in reſpect of the danger of Infection, it was ordered, That the General ſhould be deſired to give Command to the Guards attending the Houſe, that they ſhould keep the Paſſages of the Houſe, Weſtminſter-Hall, from all clamorous Women, and ſuffer none to come to the diſturbance of the Houſe.

From the Army we underſtood, that the Head-Quarters were upon removing to Hammerſmith or Putney, the King at Hampton-Court: ſome further Propoſals are drawn up in further proſecution of the Remonſtrance of the Army. The Commiſſioners of Lords and Commons, who lately were with the Army, are again ordered to the Head-Quarters, which will much facilitate buſineſs no doubt.

Propoſitions for Peace being the ſame that were at New-caſtle.

The Houſe of Commons this Day, being Auguſt 27. took into Debate the Amendments ſent from the Lords, upon the Propoſitions of Peace to be ſent to His Majeſty, they are the ſame Propoſitions ſent formerly to His Majeſty at Newcaſtle. And ordered,

E. of Salisbury.

That the Earl of Salisbury's Name ſhould be put into that place of the Propoſitions, wherein the Earl of Eſſex is ſet down to be Conſervators of the Peace between the Two Kingdoms.

Qualifications of Perſons in the Propoſitions

That the Name of the Lord Herbert ſhould be put out, and the Name of Edward Earl of Wigon ſhould be incerted.

That they ſhould adhere to all the Names put in the firſt Qualification of the Propoſitions.

W. Shelden.

That the Name of the Lord Brudenel, and William Shelden of Bely, ſhould be contained in the ſecond Qualification of the Propoſitions.

That Sir Philip Muſgrave do ſtand in the fourth Qualification of the Propoſitions.

This with ſome ſmall Alterations being made and agreed on, the Propoſitions fully paſſed the Commons Houſe; and it was ordered, that a Conference be deſired with the Lords, upon theſe Amendments.

Propoſitions for Peace agreed unto, and to be Communicated to the Scots Commiſſioners.

The Lords and Commons accordingly had a Conference upon this buſineſs, and the Lords taking the Amendments into Conſideration, they concurred preſently with much affection in the ſaid Amendments to the Propoſitions; and it was ordered by both Houſes, that theſe Propoſitions, with the Amendments, ſhould be communicated this Afternoon, by the Committee of both Kingdoms, to the Scots Commiſſioners reſiding here, that ſo their Concurrence being likewiſe had to the Amendments, the Propoſitions may be forthwith ſent to His Majeſty, by Commiſſioners from both Houſes, for the ſpeedy ſettling a ſafe and well-grounded Peace in the Kingdom.

Mr. Doyley, a Member his Caſe reported.

The Committee to whom the Caſe of the Members for undue Election, or adherance to the King's Party were referred, reported the Caſe of Mr. Doyly, that he had attended them according to former Order, and had given his Anſwer, but it was no way ſatisfactory according to the Queſtions propounded to him: Hereupon a further Order was made, that the ſaid Maſter Doyley ſhould anſwer effectually, according to the former Power that Committee had to examine him, and the reſt in his Caſe.

What Members not to preſume to ſit.

That the Members that have given in their Caſes to the Houſe, and ſhall preſume to ſit in the Houſe, being included in the former Votes, ſhall have no benefit of the Order of the 15*th* of July laſt, for the diſabling of them only. Upon this ſome have left the Houſe:

The Houſe then adjourned their Sitting from this Day till Wedneſday next.

The Army ſate cloſe about Ireland.

The Houſes ſate not this Day, Auguſt 28. but from the Army we underſtood thus much, that the General and Council of War ſate very cloſe Yeſterday at Kingſton about Ireland, and for the ſending over a ſpeedy and conſiderable ſtrength into that Kingdom; a buſineſs the Army had before in their Thoughts, and were ſo far in Preparation of, as that had not the late Troubles in the City interrupted, we might have had before this time a gallant Force in Ireland, to proſecute the late Victory obtained againſt the Rebels by Colonel Jones. However, the Army, as well to teſtifie their real Intentions, in order to the Service of Ireland, as to the obtaining a firm Peace here, have again reſolved to ſet upon the Work; and as you may ſee by the Letter from the General, to the Speaker of the Houſe of Commons, (but not yet read in the Houſe, by reaſon of the Houſes Adjournment Yeſterday) they will have 6000 Foot, and 2000 Horſe in readineſs, when the Parliament ſhall appoint the Time and Place, with neceſſary Proviſions, and accommodation for their Tranſportation for the Service of Ireland.

The General's Letter to the Speaker followeth.

The General's Letter to the Speaker, that he will have in readineſs 6000 Foot, and 2000 Horſe, to go for Ireland, and deſires that Monies and Neceſſaries may be provided for them.

Mr. Speaker,

Upon conſideration of the preſent Advantage that may be made, through the goodneſs of God, of this laſt Succeſs, which it hath pleaſed the Lord to give to the Forces in Ireland, I have thereupon adviſed with my Council of War, how the Forces in this Kingdom might be improved for that Service; and I find that there will be in a readineſs for that Service, to the number of 6000 Foot, and 2000 Horſe, which, if they may have incouragement, will be ready to go as ſoon as you ſhall be pleaſed to Command them. I do therefore deſire you would move the Houſes to take ſome effectual Courſe for the providing of Monies and other Neceſſaries, and for the removing of all Obſtructions; and for the more clear and quick preceedings in this ſo important a Work, I ſhall appoint a certain number of Officers to wait upon ſuch as the Houſe ſhall appoint to conſult upon the whole buſineſs, if you ſhall think fit. I remain,

Your moſt humble Servant,

Tho. Fairfax.

For the Honourable W. Lenthall, Eſq;
Speaker of the Houſe of Commons.

The

Putney is now the Head-Quarter.

The General removed his Head-Quarters the laſt Night from Kingſton to Putney; they were at Kingſton too much preſſed and crouded by the great reſort of People upon the King's coming to Hampton-Court; but as the Head-Quarters are removed nearer London, for better convenience and expedition in the diſpatch of buſineſs between the Parliament and Army, and for no other end, ſo the other Quarters of the Army, that they might not give Offence or Jealouſie to the City, are enlarged every way to a further diſtance from the City.

Care for Proviſions for Ireland.

The Parliament's Commiſſioners went down to the Army Yeſterday. And this Day the General and Commiſſioners have conſideration of Putney, how Proviſion may be made for the Forces deſigned for Ireland, and in what time, that there may be no let to their ſpeedy diſpatch and tranſportation.

The old Mili*tia met.*

The old Militia of the City of London, met this laſt Night, and ſate at Guild-Hall.

Exciſe.

This Day an Ordinance of both Houſes, for eſtabliſhing the Duty of Exciſe upon all Commodities, except Salt and Fleſh, was publiſhed, which is as follows.

Ordinance for Exciſe.

THE Lords and Commons in Parliament aſſembled, by their late taking off the Exciſe wholly from Fleſh, and diſcharging all Salt made in this Kingdom from the payment of Exciſe, were confident they had given ſo full a teſtimony to the whole Kingdom, of their readineſs to eaſe all People, ſo far as might ſtand with the ſupport of the Publick, that they expected, That all Perſons would have, with Patience, attended the time of the Parliament for the removal of the reſt, and in the interim have duly paid ſeveral Duties of Exciſe upon all other Commodities, and ſubmitted unto all Ordinances of Parliament in that behalf; but being daily informed of the general oppoſition which is made againſt Collections of thoſe Duties of the Exciſe, which they have thought fit for ſome time to continue, and many Violences, Injuries, and Abuſes that are offered to the Commiſſioners, Sub-commiſſioners, and other Officers and Receivers thereof, in many Cities, Towns, Counties, and Places of the Kingdom; the ſaid Lords and Commons do therefore hereby declare, That as they have not taken off any part of the Exciſe, but only from Fleſh and Salt, made in the Kingdom as aforeſaid, ſo they cannot yet in reſpect of the great Duty and many Payments; for which theſe continued Receipts of the Exciſe are engaged and deſigned, neither in Juſtice, nor Honour, nor with the Safety of the Kingdom ſurceaſe the reſt; and if they be put unto it, muſt require Obedience and Conformity from all Perſons whatſoever unto the due Payment of all and every of them, according to the Ordinances of Parliament in that behalf made, what Cauſes did enforce the Parliament at firſt to reſolve upon this Impoſition, and for what Reaſons they are neceſſitated to continue the ſame, are fully ſet down in the Declaration of both Houſes of Parliament of the 22d. of February 1646, upon occaſion of the Tumults and great Riots which then lately before had happened, and were privily fomented in ſeveral Parts of the Kingdom againſt the Receipts of the Exciſe; and the ſame neceſſity for continuance thereof lying ſtill upon the Parliament, and the Tumults and Riots in oppoſition thereunto rather being increaſed than ſuppreſſed.

The ſaid Lords and Commons cannot but deeply repreſent the great Neglect of the Authority of Parliament amongſt the People; and if they ſhall continue in this Obſtinacy ſhall be enforced upon ſuch Remedies as ſhall ſpeedily bring the Contemners thereof unto condign and exemplary Puniſhment: But they do hope all well-affected Perſons will after Publication of this preſent Declaration; and upon review of the ſaid Declaration of the 22d of February 1646. before-mention'd; which therefore they have ordered to be reprinted and publiſhed herewith, be ſo ſenſible of their own paſt Miſcarriages, and ſo fully ſatisfied of the Parliaments Intentions in continuance of theſe Receipts, that they will preſently conform unto the Payment of all Duties of Exciſe, due or payable by every one of them, according to the Ordinances of Parliament, and not to divert the Parliament from thoſe great Affairs for the Settlement of the Peace of the whole Kingdom, upon which they are at preſent engaged by enforcing them to ſuch Courſes for vindicating the Authority of their Ordinances, as muſt needs hinder the Parliament in this great Work; but will alſo be ſeverely accounted for, with the Cauſers thereof.

For as this Duty is by Experience found to be the moſt eaſie and equal Way, both in relation to the People and to the Publick; ſo the Lords and Commons are reſolved through all Oppoſition whatſoever, to inſiſt upon the due Collection thereof. But when it ſhall pleaſe God to enable them to ſettle the Peace of the Kingdom, and to overcome the Engagements and Occaſions thereof in ſome good meaſure, they do hereby again declare, that they will then make it appear to the whole World how much more ready they are to eaſe the People of this Charge, than they could be willing to impoſe the ſame.

And for the ſpeedy re-eſtabliſhing of this Receipt according to the Ordinance of Parliament, or more vigorous carrying on thereof, the ſaid Lords and Commons do hereby require and enjoyn the Commiſſioners of Exciſe, their Sub-Commiſſioners, Collectors and Officers forthwith to apply themſelves in all Parts throughout all the Kingdom, to the due Collection of the Exciſe by ſeveral Ordinances continned, wherein, as they are hereby required to provide as conveniently may be, for the eaſe of the People in their Repair and Travel unto ſuch Places as they ſhall through every Hundred or Wapentake, appoint for the bringing in of this Duty, ſo in caſe of neglect of Appearance, all Perſons to take notice, that if any further Charge or Trouble befal them, it ariſeth from their own Default, and ſo muſt expect no other Relief, but to be proceeded againſt according to the Ordinance of Parliament, in due and vigorous Execution whereof, if any Tumults, Riots, or other Oppoſition, ſhall be hereafter attempted or acted againſt the ſaid Commiſſioners of Exciſe, their Sub-Commiſſioners, Collectors, Officers or others, in their Aid and Aſſiſtance.

It is hereby further ordain'd, That all Sheriffs, Juſtices of the Peace, Deputy-Lieutenants, Mayors, Bailiffs, Conſtables, Headboroughs, and all other his Majeſty's Officers in their ſeveral Counties, Liberties, and Juriſdictions, are alſo hereby ſtrictly enjoyned to be aiding and aſſiſting in the Collections of the Exciſe, and ſuppreſſing of all Tumults and Riots raiſed in Oppoſition thereunto, according to the ſeveral Ordinances of Parliament in that behalf made, as they and every of them will anſwer the contrary at their utmoſt Peril.

And Sir Thomas Fairfax, General of all the whole Forces of the Kingdom, is hereby deſired to order and enjoyn all Colonels, Captains, Officers and Soldiers under his Command upon Application made unto them or any of them, ſpeedily to ſuppreſs all ſuch Tumults, Riots or unlawful Aſſemblies, and to apprehend all ſuch Rioters and tumultuous Perſons, that they may be proceeded againſt according to Law: And foraſmuch as ſuch as are diſaffected to the Service of the Publick, have, and do give out as if the Charge of the Collection of the Exciſe were ſo great, as that half the Receipt and Income were conſumed upon Officers, the ſaid Lords and Commons do hereby declare, That upon an exact Examination, it doth clearly appear unto the Parliament, and they are well ſatisfied; whereof they aſſure the Kingdom, that until their late Obſtructions and Oppoſitions; the Charge in collecting the Exciſe, hath never amounted upon the whole Receipt to full two Shillings in every twenty Shillings received; And that the whole Kingdom may be fully poſſeſt of what great Service the Receipts of the Exciſe have been to the Commonwealth; the ſaid Lords and Commons do hereby declare, That towards the Relief of Ireland, ſatisfaction of their Brethren of Scotland, Maintenance of their Navy, and ſeveral Armies and Garriſons which they were neceſſitated to raiſe and keep up in divers Parts of the Kingdom for the Preſervation thereof, and in disbanding and diſcharging of ſeveral Armies, Forces and Garriſons, and for the Relief of wounded and maimed Soldiers, and the Widows and Children of ſuch as have loſt their Lives in the Service of the Commonwealth; and for other neceſſary Occaſions for the Defence of the Parliament and Kingdom, there hath been clearly received and converted to theſe publick Services only, and to no private Uſe whatſoever, the Sum of One Million three hundred thirty four Thouſand five hundred thirty two Pounds, ten Shillings and eleven Pence Half-peny; and by the Credit of this Receipt, there hath been taken up, and ſtands aſſigned divers very great Sums of Money, all which muſt be diſcharged before this Receipt can in Juſtice and Honour be laid down; and if the Kingdom do duly ſubmit unto the Payment of the Exciſe, will in ſhort time be very well overcome and paid off: And from hence it will be declared apparent of what great Benefit the ſame hath been to the Kingdom, and Eaſe alſo to the People, of whom theſe great Sums muſt otherwiſe neceſſarily have been raiſed, although with much Difficulty and Inconvenience, and in a far more burthenſome manner.

And laſtly, the ſaid Lords and Commons do hereby ordain and declare, That as well the ſaid Commiſſioners of Exciſe, their Sub-Commiſſioners and Under-Officers, as all other Perſons whatſoever who ſhall be aiding and aſſiſting to them or any of them, in the executing of the Ordinances of Parliament for Collection of the Exciſe, ſhall be defended and ſaved harmleſs and indempnified by Authority of both Houſes of Parliament: And in caſe any Perſon or Perſons whatſoever ſhall be ſued, indicted, proſecuted, or moleſted for any Act or Acts, Thing or Things done in purſuance of this Declaration, or any other Declaration or Ordinance of Parliament touching Exciſe, it is hereby declared and ordained, That in every Action, Suit, Indictment, Information or Proſecution whatſoever, wherein, or whereby they are or ſhall be ſo ſued, indicted, proſecuted or moleſted as aforeſaid, it ſhall be lawful to and for all Perſons, their Heirs, Executors and Adminiſtrators to plead the General Iſſue, and to give this or any other Ordinance of Parliament for Exciſe in Evidence in any of his Majeſty's Courts of Juſtice, or other Courts: And the Judges of all the ſaid Courts are hereby ſtrictly required and enjoyned to allow and admit of the ſame accordingly.

This Day from Hampton-Court came an Expreſs from Colonel Whaley, and it was to this Purpoſe.

Aug. 27. a Paper entituled His Majeſty's Declaration made publick, diſavowed by the King

THere was a Paper of the 27th Inſtant, intituled, His Majeſty's Declaration, made publick: It is patronized upon the King; but I aſſure you his Majeſty is much abus'd in it: He hath many times to my ſelf and others expreſſed not only his diſavowing, but utter diſlike of it. At firſt it ſomething troubled him; but it being ſo unlike any thing of his, and ſo contrary to his known Intentions, he was confident it wou'd not gain Credence with any; yet ſince hearing that divers both in City, and Country, and Army, were ſo fondly credulous as to deem it to be his Majeſty's, and ſo were much offended at it, It was the King's Command I ſhould certifie Friends how extreamly he is wrong'd: And truly Sir, you would do the King but Right, and I conceive no more but your own Duty to endeavour the finding out the Author, and making him exemplary; and I am confident the King expects ſo much Juſtice therein. Here is little News in Court more than this, That the King was a hunting in New Park, killed a Stag and a Buck, afterwards dined at Sion, ſtayed three or four Hours with his Children, and then returned to Hampton-Court, where there is great Reſort of all ſorts of People to him; but not ſo many Cavaliers as is reported; it is confeſſed no Gentleman is debarred the Liberty of kiſſing the King's Hand; yet no Stranger ſtays long: we have freſh and freſh Appearance; the Faces you ſee in the Morning, you ſeldom ſee in the Afternoon; at the fartheſt but the next day. The Lord Conway hath taken his leave of the Court for preſent. I have no more to acquaint you with: I ſhall only mind you, That to vindicate the King by diſcovering and puniſhing the Libeller, cannot but give great Satisfaction to his Majeſty.

We have but newly ſeen the Copy of a Letter from Colonel Lilburne, Governour of Newcaſtle, to the Eſtates of Scotland about the ſame; and which comes very fitly to be here inſerted.

For the Right Honourable the Committee of Eſtates in Scotland.

Colonel Lilburne's Letter to clear the buſineſs concerning Mr. Cheeſly's being ſtaid at Newcaſtle.

Right Honourable,

Receiving your Letter concerning Mr. Cheeſely, though his free Paſſage, before it came, was granted, and therein your Expectations anſwered, yet that a clear and right Interpretation may be had of the cauſe of ſtopping Mr. Cheeſely, and all miſinterpretations removed, I deſire to demonſtrate the grounds and reaſons of what I did, and give your Honours ample, and what further juſt ſatisfaction I can in the thing, that no Offence may be taken thereat. Firſt, My Intelligencers in the South told me of dangerous Riſings and Tumults in the City of London, againſt the Parliament, occaſioned by the Inſtigation of ſome particular Male-contented Perſons who endeavoured to imbroil this Kingdom in a new War, and was labouring to kindle a flame in your Nation, had ſent Agents thither to the work on foot, which ſeemed too probable, by that which fell from the Mouths of many of your Clergy in their Pulpits about the ſame time; and that the Speakers of the Parliament were, with moſt of the Members, driven from the Houſes, and glad to fly to the Army for ſafety; and they, with the Army, marching towards the City, with a reſolution to ſuppreſs the Tumults, and Mr. Cheeſely coming in the mean time, before I had received any Expreſs from the Army, how the ſtate of Affairs ſtood, before I knew Mr. Speakers, and the reſt of the Members were ſafely returned to the Houſes, and ſhewing me a Paper without a Seal, which he pretended to be the Speaker's Paſs, which I knew not, nor him neither, and not having the General's Paſs, nor letting me ſee your Commiſſioner's Paſs, but only at laſt told me that he had it, but did not ſhew it me at all, I was doubtful that he might have been Party engaged in that dangerous Combination againſt the Parliament and Army, and going to do ſome ill Office in your Kingdom; and therefore, upon theſe grounds, and ſome other, I thought it my Duty, in diſcharge of the Truſt repoſed in me, to deſire Mr. Cheeſely to ſtay here till I ſend an Expreſs, which I did with all ſpeed, to Major General Lambert in Yorkſhire; upon the return whereof, Mr. Cheeſely had free Paſſage, and no longer ſtayed; and therefore I hope not ſuch Conſtructions will be put, as that there was the leaſt intention in me, or any thing conduced to it, to violate the happy Friendſhip and Union betwixt the Two Nations; and with all Cordialneſs and Reality have I endeavoured, and ſhall with all my Power, ſtudy to preſerve, Newcaſtle, Aug. 21. 1647.

A Petition was preſented to the Commons, in the Name of the Inhabitants of the City of Briſtol, and contain many things of very weighty Concernment, we will briefly give you the heads of their deſires as follows:

1. That the Parliament would provide for the Settlement of a firm and laſting Peace in the Kingdom, according to the full opportunity now before them, and divert all occaſions of, and preparations unto a ſecond War. And that ye would ſo ſuccour Ireland, as that Kingdom alſo may at length be relieved out of its bleeding, dying Condition.

2. That you would anſwer the juſt deſires and grievances of the Army, vindicate them from all Aſperſions and Calumnies, give them all due Reparations, and continue them undisbanded till the Kingdom ſhall have the happy experience of the well-ſettled Peace.

3. That the juſt Rights and Liberties of the Engliſh Subjects may be ſecured from all Violence, Oppreſſion, Injuſtice, Tyranny, and the free courſe of Juſtice paſs upon all ſuch Infringers of our Liberties, as either have been, or ſhall be Impeached and Convicted.

4. That ye would free us from any unlawful Power, and from endeavours to ſuppreſs the Petitions of the Subjects.

5. That ye would remove out of the Houſe of Parliament, out of Committees, and places of Adminiſtration of Juſtice, all ſuch as are juſtly made incapable by ſeveral Votes and Ordinances.

6. That ſuch who have given undoubted Teſtimonies of their Abilities and Faithfulneſs, may be intruſted and continued in the ſeveral Places of Power, Rule, and Concernment in the Kingdom.

7. That ye would be tender in impoſing the Covenant, either upon any of the Members, or upon any other Subject in this Kingdom, whoſe Conſciences dare not ſubſcribe unto it.

8. That they would provide for the ſuccouring of tender Conſciences, and not ſuffer them to be grieved, and brought unto Bondage by any rigid Impoſitions, but protect them by the Laws in their Civil Rights, ſo long as they live peaceably, and without offence.

9. That to prevent Feuds, Factions, future Inſurrections and Tumults, and to procure a laſting Peace to this Nation, they would propoſe to ſuch as have partaked with the King their utmoſt Penalty; and they fully ſatisfying it, may be owned again as Subjects, all former actings to be obliterated.

10. That they would ſeriouſly conſider our Fellow-Subjects, that are caſt into Priſons, and lie languiſhing there, and provide for the hearing of their Cauſes, that either they may be acquitted by Law, and have reparations for their Loſſes and Sufferings, or elſe fall under the Cenſure of it, if they ſo demerit.

11. That long and lingering Impriſonments may be remedied by a ſpeedy Tryal.

12. That the Widows and Fatherleſs, and thoſe who have loſt Eſtates and Limbs for their Affections to, and in the Service of the Parliament, may be conſidered and relieved.

13. That Accompts may be given for the millions of Money that have been expended.

Laſtly, That they would find out a way for the deciding of Controverſies and Suits of Law, without ſo much expence of Time, Trouble, and Charges, and bring the Laws, if poſſible you may, into a leſſer Volume, and to ſpeak our own Language.

The Petition being read in the Houſe, the Petitioners were called in, and Mr. Speaker gave them this Anſwer: "That though there "be ſome things in this Petition, that the Houſe cannot ſo well ap- "prove of, to be preſented by Petition, yet there are ſome things in "which they have expreſſed their good Affections to this Houſe, and "to the Kingdom; and that for their good Affections they ſhall "have the Thanks of this Houſe.

Mr. Baynton, a Member, charged with liſting of Horſe in the City, commanded to withdraw out of the Houſe.

The further Report was then made to the Houſe, from the Committee appointed to examine the late Tumults and Force upon the Parliament; the chief buſineſs of the Report was concerning Mr. Baynton, a Member of the Houſe, who is charged with the ſigning of a Warrant for raiſing of Horſe in the City, and after long debate, it was ordered, that Baynton ſhould forthwith withdraw the Houſe, which was done accordingly.

And ordered further, That Mr. Baynton ſhould be ſuſpended the Houſe till further Order: And the further report of this buſineſs was ordered to be to morrow Morning.

Several Members ſummoned being concerned in the levying of a new War.

Saturday September 4. The Houſe of Commons this Day, as was before ordered, proceeded further in the Report from the Committee for examination of the late Tumult and Force upon the Parliament, and the whole Day was ſpent in this particular buſineſs; ſomething was firſt conſidered of in the caſe of Mr. Baynton; and this, as a leading Caſe, brought on the Report, how far ſome other Members of that Houſe had engaged, or were concerned in the late Tumult or deſign of a new War; and upon this Debate ſeveral of the Impeached Members were concerned; and at laſt it was voted and ordered, that Summons from the Houſe of Commons ſhould be made out for Mr. Denzil Hollis, Sir William Waller, Sir John Clotworthy, Major General Maſſy, Colonel Walter Long, and Mr. Anthony Nichols, Members of that Houſe, to attend the Houſe the 16th of October next, to anſwer ſuch things as ſhall be objected againſt them.

Mr. Glyn attended the Houſe, put off till the next day.

The Debate about the Diſpatch of the Propoſitions took up ſome time; and the Non-concurrence of the Scotch Commiſſioners was ſome Obſtruction to the ſame; but it was ordered, that the Committee of both Kingdoms ſhould this Afternoon deſire the Scotch Commiſſioners poſitive Anſwer; for that the Houſes do adhere to their former Reſolutions of ſending the Propoſitions to his Majeſty to morrow.

Scots Commiſſioners obſtruct the Propoſitions to the King.

A Report was made to the Houſe, and Complaint againſt a dangerous Pamphlet lately printed of one Mr. John Biddles's 12 Arguments upon the Deity, ſaid to be no leſs than Blaſphemy, denying the Third Perſon to be God. From Putney, the Head-Quarters of the Army, we underſtand, that the Council of War, and Commiſſioners of Parliament, ſit daily about disbanding, and about the Buſineſs of Ireland, which would be ſoon perfected if Moneys could be raiſed: No Moneys for pay of the Army being ſent them in all this time much diſcontents the Soldiery.

His Majeſty is preparing an Anſwer to the Propoſitions.

From our Commiſſioners who preſented the Propoſitions to the King at Hampton-Court came Letters, which tell, that His Majeſty is preparing an Anſwer to ſend to the Houſe; and hath already in effect declared his ſenſe of the Propoſitions. That to ſeveral of the Propoſitions he is willing to aſſent, ſettle Presbyterie in this Kingdom for three Years; the Militia as he before offered, &c. But others he is no ways ſatisfied in, or can aſſent unto, but deſires to put himſelf upon the Propoſals of the Army, and that they may be taken into Conſideration by the Houſes.

The Commiſſioners return with His Majeſty's Anſwer to the Propoſitions.

Monday, September 13. This Day the Houſes ſate not, having adjourned until Tueſday. The Commiſſioners are returned from Hampton-Court with his Majeſty's Anſwer to the Propoſitions; and by which we gather that his Majeſty waveth the Propoſitions now ſent him, or any Treaty upon them, flies to the Propoſals of the Army, and urgeth a Treaty upon them, and upon ſuch other Propoſals as his Majeſty ſhall make; and that upon this Treaty his Majeſty profeſſeth his Reſolution to whatſoever ſhall concern the ſetling the Proteſtant Profeſſion, with Liberty to tender Conſciences, and the ſecuring of the Laws, Liberties and Properties of all his Subjects, and juſt Priviledges of Parliament for the future.

His Majeſty willing to treat apart with the Scotch Commiſſioners.

The Commiſſioners of Scotland his Majeſty alſo waveth in this Treaty; but ſaith, That for what concerns that Kingdom, mentioned in the Propoſitions, his Majeſty is willing to treat upon thoſe Particulars apart with the Scotch Commiſſioners.

What Entertainment this Anſwer of his Majeſty's hath with the Parliament, we ſhall tell you further anon. A Copy of this Anſwer his Majeſty hath alſo ſent to the General Sir Thomas Fairfax.

The Treaty with the Parliaments Commiſſioners and Commiſſioners of the Army upon the Propoſals of the Army, and the Buſineſs of Ireland goes forwards; but the latter is like to be very much retarded through want of Moneys. This was a very buſie Day at the Head-Quarters at Putney upon the Treaty.

Numerous Addreſſes to the General about Grievances.

Numerous are the Addreſſes that have been and are daily made by Petitions and otherwiſe to the General upon particular Grievances, which takes up much time in anſwering; and wherein the General's Care and Condeſcenſion is great.

Agitators Paper to the General on behalf of Perſons in Priſon.

The Agitators of the Army preſented a Paper to the General in the behalf of many who now lie in Priſon, and have much ſuffered for Words ſpoken in time of War. They are as followeth:

The Paper at large.

May it pleaſe your Excellency,

HAving received Information from ſome Perſons of good Affections and Fidelity to the Army and Kingdom, that ſeveral Perſons are now under unmerciful Sufferings by confiſcating their Goods and Impriſonment of their Perſons for Words ſpoken againſt the King (acting by tyrannical Practices in the late War, they having been Soldiers.)

We being made ſenſible of their Miſery, not knowing how ſoon it may be our Condition, there as yet being no Proviſion for their or our own Indempnity.

For want of which, our Enemies have ſo great Advantage of all the well-affected in the Kingdom, that if not timely remedied, they will recover more upon our Words, than we of them by our Swords.

We are engaged to ſupplicate your Excellency in the behalf of theſe Priſoners named in this encloſed Paper, That you would be pleaſed to uſe ſome Means for the reſtoring them to their Freedom, and to deliver them from their tyrannical Sufferings, according as your Excellency will find agreeable to Juſtice and Reaſon.

In Anſwer to which the General writes to the Houſe of Commons.

The General in anſwer to this writ a Letter to the Houſe of Commons: Of which further anon.

By Letters from the North this Day came thus:

M.G. Lambert writes to the L. Mayor of York to admit Major Carter Governour of Clifford's-Tower.

'MAjor General Lambert hath written ſeveral times to the Lord Mayor of York for the admitting Major Carter Governour of Clifford's-Tower, and his Company, (or 60 thereof) to be there; but the Mayor of York ſeems unwilling, ſtanding upon other Authority.

'Yeſterday there were ſeveral Rules and Orders agreed upon at a Council of War at Wakefield for Equality of quartering and regulating the Army in Quarters, which the Major General thought not fit to put in Execution without firſt acquainting the Committee therewith; ſuch Fairneſs, Civility and Moderation doth he uſe, moving equally to all, according to Juſtice; and endeavouring (now the Sword is ſheathed) to win and overcome

'come by Love. He endeavours to reconcile Differences between Party and Party.

'The Clergy are very importunate with him for the Aſſiſtance of Soldiers to give them poſſeſſion of Tithes; but he rather takes the Trouble upon himſelf by fair Means to work Reconciliation: A Man ſo compleatly compoſed for ſuch an Employment (rebus ſic ſtantibus) could not have been pitched upon beſides.

The Clergy importune him for aſſiſtance to get poſſeſſion of their Tithes.

'The two Northumberland Troops under Major Shafto and Captain Shafto, that engaged with their Officers for Ireland, pretending they have been wronged by their Officers in point of Pay, have relinquiſhed their Service, and left their Officers: They are now appointed to quarter in Northumberland, and with the Money they ſhould have had at their Tranſportation they are ſhortly to be diſbanded.

The Northumberland Troops relinquiſhing the Service of Ireland order'd to be diſbanded.

'The Major General will go in Perſon into that County to diſband them: Nevertheleſs Major Shafto reſolves to that Service. About Eighteen of his Troop remain with him; and within ſix Weeks he intends to compleat a Troop. Quarters are aſſigned them, and all Encouragement given. Colonel Ponſonby lies for a Wind in Lancaſhire and Cheſhire. Captain Peper's Foot-Company appointed by Parliament to be diſbanded, on Munday laſt met together (the Captain and Lieutenant being abſent) and diſbanded themſelves. The Company was appointed to be commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Laſſels for the Safety of Helmeſley-Caſtle, &c.

The M. G. will go in perſon to diſband them.

'We begin to do Juſtice a-pace, keep Councils of War often, puniſh Offenders. At a Council of War yeſterday one Mac-Ro an Iriſh Man, a notorious Drunkard, Swearer, and one that ſlighted the Commander in Chief, was tried. He was clearly convicted; and it was ſo bad, that all cried out againſt it. His Sentence was to be bored through the Tongue with a red-hot Iron, to ſuffer Fourteen Days Impriſonment with Bread and Water, to be caſheered the Army, made incapable of ever ſerving the Parliament again, to deliver up his Horſe and Arms. Another Delinquent was alſo tried for being diſorderly in his Quarters, and other Crimes, and was adjudged to a Weeks Impriſonment, to ſtand in the Market-place during the time of the Market at the Head-Quarters for the Space of an Hour with his Faults written in Great Letters on his Breaſt. Theſe are ſtrange things here, and much gazing at it; ingenuous People both Martial and Civil, are much taken with it. It hath wrought much Good amongſt the Soldiers already; the Officers do confeſs it, and the Country are ſenſible of it: Money and Juſtice will work great Reformation.

The Council of War puniſh Offenders.

'Colonel Thornton's Regiment of Foot are to quarter in Richmondſhire, in the Dales, it being thought juſt they ſhould bear ſome Burthen in quartering as well as the reſt. Major Copperthwait reſolving to try their Courage, went to draw his Men to their Quarters; but was reſiſted by the Inhabitants in a reſolute manner, particularly about 150 roſe againſt Captain Dyneley's Company, and endeavoured to keep them out in Swale-Dale. Some Knocking there was, but no great Hurt; yet the Soldiers were fain to betake themſelves to a Church for Safeguard, and ſent to the Major General for Relief. The Major General hath firſt uſed all fair Means to perſwade them to it, and hath wrote to them about it; but if that prevail not, ſome other courſe will be taken. His Anſwer was to the firſt, he deſired the ſame, and did nothing therein but in proſecution of his Duty and Truſt: To the ſecond, that he would wait on his Lordſhip in the Morning, but the great Affairs he had in hand for the publick Service would not permit him to accept it.

Tueſday, September 14.

This Day the Houſe ſitting, his Majeſty's Anſwer to the Propoſitions was read in both Houſes, which being not large, take Verbatim.

The King's Anſwer at large.

CHARLES REX,

HIS Majeſty cannot chuſe but be paſſionately ſenſible (as he believes all his good Subjects are) of the late great Diſtractions, and ſtill languiſhing and unſettled State of this Kingdom; and he calls God to Witneſs and is willing to give Teſtimony to all the World of his Readineſs to contribute his utmoſt Endeavours for reſtoring it to a happy and flouriſhing Condition.

His Majeſty having peruſed the Propoſitions now brought to him, finds them the ſame in Effect which were offered to him at Newcaſtle. To ſome of which, as he could not then conſent without Violation of his Conſcience and Honour; ſo neither can he agree to others now, conceiving them in many reſpects more diſagreeable to the preſent Condition of Affairs than when they were formerly preſented to him, as being deſtructive to the main principal Intereſts of the Army, and of all thoſe whoſe Affections concurr with them: And his Majeſty having ſeen the Propoſals of the Army to the Commiſſioners from his Two Houſes, reſiding with them, and with them to be treated on in order to the clearing and ſecuring the Right and Liberties of the Kingdom, and the ſetling a juſt and laſting Peace. To which Propoſals, as he conceives his Two Houſes not to be Strangers, ſo he believes they will think with him, that they much more conduce to the Satisfaction of all Intereſts, and may be a fitter Foundation for a laſting Peace than the Propoſitions which at this time are tendred to him.

He therefore propounds (as the beſt way in his judgment in order to Peace) that his two Houſes would inſtantly take into Conſideration thoſe Propoſals, upon which there may be a perſonal Treaty with his Majeſty, and upon ſuch other Propoſitions as his Majeſty ſhall make, hoping that the ſaid Propoſals may be ſo moderated in the ſaid Treaty as to render them the more capable of his Majeſty's full Conceſſions, wherein he reſolves to give full Satisfaction unto his People for whatſoever ſhall concern the ſetling of the Proteſtant Profeſſion, with Liberty to tender Conſciences, and the ſecuring of the Laws, Liberties and Properties of all his Subjects, and the juſt Priviledes of Parliament for the future: And likewiſe by his preſent Deportment in this Treaty, he will make the World clearly judge of his Intentions in the matter of future Government: In which Treaty his Majeſty will be pleaſed (if it be thought fit) that Commiſſioners from the Army (whoſe the Propoſals are) may likewiſe be admitted.

His Majeſty therefore conjures his two Houſes of Parliament by the Duty they owe to God and his Majeſty their King, and by the Bowels of Compaſſion they have to their Fellow-Subjects, both for relief of their preſent Sufferings, and to prevent future miſeries; that they will forthwith accept of his Majeſty's Offer, whereby the joyful News of Peace may be reſtor'd to this diſtreſſed Kingdom.

And for what concerns the Kingdom of Scotland mentioned in the Propoſitions, his Majeſty will very willingly treat upon thoſe Particulars with Scotch Commiſſioners, and doubts not but to give a reaſonable Satiſfaction to that his Majeſty's Kingdom.

Upon reading of the King's Anſwer, both Houſes order'd to communicate it to the Scots Commiſſioners. The Lords ordered to take it into conſideration on Tueſday next. The Commons ordered to conſider what is firſt to be done for the ſetling of Peace and Safety of the Kingdom on Friday next.

Upon reading which Anſwer both Houſes order to communicate it to the Scots Commiſſioners.

This Day alſo was read in the Houſe of Commons a Letter from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, and it was to give the Houſe to underſtand the ſad Condition and Sufferings of divers well-affected Perſons in the Kingdom, and particularly the Caſes of James Symball, Francis Ward, Robert White, and Roger Crag, committed for Words ſpoken in time of War, as they are preſented to the General, with many others, deſiring the Houſe to take their Condition into Conſideration; and if they be committed merely for ſpeaking Words againſt the King in time of War, it would do well if the Men might have ſome Enlargement, ſo as they may not periſh by a languiſhing Impriſonment and ſuch cruel Uſage as ſome of them ſuffer, eſpecially conſidering the Offences for which they ſuffer were but in Expreſs of Zeal for this Cauſe, and that upon apparent Provocation from ſuch as were profeſſed Enemies, &c.

Letter from the General on behalf of ſeveral Perſons committed for Words ſpoken in time of War.

After reading of which Letter the Commons ordered that this Buſineſs concerning the Perſons mentioned, which were committed by Juſtice Bacon and Serjeant Creſwell be referred to the Conſideration and Examination of the Committee of Indempnity to relieve them as they ſhall ſee Cauſe, if they have power, otherwiſe to make ſpeedy Report to the Houſe.

A Report was made from the Commiſſioners reſiding with the Army, how far they had treated with the Commiſſioners of the Army, upon the Propoſals of the Army, and that they had given them to underſtand, how far ſome things in thoſe Propoſals were againſt the Votes and Declarations of the Houſes; That the Commiſſioners of the Army having received the ſame, had promiſed very ſpeedily to deliver them back to the Commiſſioners of Parliament, in ſuch manner as they deſire to have them to be preſented to both Houſes. And that the further meeting upon this Treaty is appointed on Thurſday next.

Petitions preſented againſt Tythes.

Several Petitions were preſented to the Houſe from Hertfordſhire, Oxfordſhire, Colcheſter, and ſome others, againſt payment of Tythes, which were read in the Houſe, and ſome debate thereupon.

A Petition was then likewiſe preſented to the Houſe, from divers Inhabitants of London and Southwark, deſiring a further purging of the Houſes of Parliament, to all that acted when the Speakers and other Members went away, by reaſon of the Tumult. This being a weighty buſineſs, it was reſolved to be taken into Conſideration to Morrow.

Thurſday Septemb. 16. All which they the rather deſire from Grounds of Reaſon and Evidence from the Speeches of many in the City, and Deſigns and Hopes of the Parliament's and Army's Enemies to raiſe the Army into Diſtempers, and the Country about them into Confuſion.

Letters were this Day read in the Houſe from the Lord Inchiquin, giving Account of the taking of twelve Caſtles in the County of Tiperare, and the Town and Caſtle of Cahir, which was thus taken: His Lordſhip paſſing over Sewor near Cahir, one of his Troopers plundering near the Town, was diſcover'd, wounded, and taken. Colonel Hepſley in a Diſguiſe was admitted to go into the Caſtle to dreſs him, who before had diſcovered ſome Defects in the outward Bawn and Timerouſneſs of the Warders. The Colonel after led on a Party to ſtorm, and took that Bawn and ſome out Turrets, and within few Hours had the Caſtle ſurrendred on Quarter only for Life. Above 20000 l. worth of Corn burnt in that Country, the Cattle drove away, ſo that our Soldiers make hard ſhift for Victuals. From Cahir his Lordſhip marched September 12. to the City of Caſhiel, formerly the Metrapolitan of the Province, where the Inhabitants (amazed at the reducing of Cahir) left open the Gates, and fled to the Cathedral, a large ſpacious Pile, ſeated upon a Rock fully manned. His Lordſhip intends to endeavour the reducing of it, then to fall upon Fethard, and from thence to Conmel. The Gentry in the Country deſire to be admitted to a Contribution; and his Lordſhip deſires Supplies for his Soldiers from hence.

Letters of the 23. from Cheſter ſay, That Colonel Jones went to Field with 21 Pieces of Ordnance, ſuch as the Ways would paſs: Owen Rowe, with his Forces, not having advanced nearer than he quartered, moſt of the time ſince Preſton was defeated, its conceived will keep himſelf in his Securities, and not fight but upon advantage.

Col. Jones in the Field with 21 Pieces of Ordnance.

The Forces in Arms in Scotland to be diſbanded the 10*th of* October unleſs the Committee of Eſtates ſhall think fit to continue them.

The Northern Letters this Week confirm what we had in the laſt, That the Forces in Arms in Scotland are to be disbanded the tenth of October next; unleſs in the Interim the Committee of Eſtates ſhall ſee fit to continue them, as in theſe particular Caſes, that their Kingdom may be in any danger of Trouble, the Perſon of the King in any Hazard, or their Nation likely to come into any Diſhonour. As to the disbanding, Duke Hambleton and his Party were very forward: The Kingdom raiſes 200000 l. Scotch, to pay the Soldiers who quarter upon them, until they do; and thoſe that will not disband, are to be judged Mutineers, and no part of the Army.

Richmondſhire prevailed with to quarter Soldiers.

Thoſe we mentioned laſt Week that live in the Dales of Richmondſhire, and refuſed to give Quarter to the Forces of Major General Lambert, have been ſo won by the Sweetneſs of the Major, that they are content not only to give Quarter, but to deliver up their Arms unto him, who will no doubt uſe this with much Meekneſs, and no hurt to them.

Two Troops that refuſed to go to Ireland disbanded.

The two Troops that came from Colonel Pudſonby, and would not go for Ireland, being convened before the Major General, he told them, He doubted ſome had done ill Offices in diſwading them from going for Ireland; and therefore he would pick out thoſe, and puniſh them: To which they anſwer, One and All. The Major General tells them plainly, he would (if they were upon thoſe Terms, puniſh One and All) and with exemplary Puniſhment: which ſo terrified the Gentlemen, that they were all content to be disbanded, with a little Money.

220 Horſe to quarter in Northumberland, to ſuppreſs the Moſs Troopers.

The County of Northumberland, who beſides former Sufferings, have this ſtill continued, the Vexation of thoſe old Thieves, with plenty of new added, called Moſs Troopers. Theſe are of late better horſed and armed than formerly, and lately made an Attempt upon the Fields of the High-Sheriff, whilſt he was buſie at the Aſſizes attending the Judge, carried away many of his Cattle. The Major General, with the conſent of the County, who were to be quit of all other, ſent 220 Horſe, who are to quarter ſo as to preſerve the Country, and fall upon thoſe Night-workers; and if they ſcatter and deſtroy them, they will do an excellent good Work for the poor and middle ſort of People, if not to the great ones alſo.

Tueſday, September 27.

The Ordinance for ſuppreſſing ſcandalous and unlicens'd Pamphlets (this Day) paſſed the Houſe of Peers, with ſome Amendments, which were aſſented unto by the Commons: That it may be the better taken notice of, we will briefly give you the Summ thereof thus:

The Ordinance for ſuppreſſing ſcandalous Papers and Pamphlets.

THE Lords and Commons taking notice of the many ſeditious, falſe and ſcandalous Papers and Pamphlets daily printed and publiſhed, to the great Abuſe and Prejudice of the People, and inſufferable Reproach of the Proceedings of the Parliament and their Army, for the better ſuppreſſing thereof, and Prevention of the like Inconvenience in time to come, Do ordain, That what Perſon ſoever ſhall make, write, print, publiſh, ſell, or utter, or cauſe to be made, written, printed or publiſhed, ſold, or uttered any Book, Pamphlet, Treatiſe, Ballad, Libel, Sheet, or Sheets of News whatſoever (except the ſame be licenſed by both, or either Houſe of Parliament, or by ſuch Perſon or Perſons, as ſhall be thereunto authorized by one or both Houſes of Parliament:) For every ſuch Offence the Author to pay forty Shillings, or be impriſoned in the common Goal for the County or Liberty for forty Days; the Printer to pay twenty Shillings, and ſuffer the like Impriſonment for twenty Days;

Days, and likewiſe to have his Preſs and Implements of Printing ſeized and broken in pieces: The Bookſeller or Stationer, to forfeit and pay ten Shillings, or ten Days Impriſonment: And the Hawker, Pedlar, or Ballad-ſinger, to forfeit and loſe all his Books, Pamphlets, and printed Papers expoſed to Sale; and alſo to be whipped as a common Rogue in the Liberty or Pariſh where the ſaid Offender ſhall be apprehended, or the Offence committed.

The Execution of this Ordinance is committed to the Committee of the Militia of London, Middleſex, Surrey, and all Mayors and other Head Officers within the Kingdom.

An Ordinance was then likewiſe read for levying the Arrears to the Army of the City of London; which was committed, and ordered to be brought in on Thurſday.

A Letter from the General Council of the Army for a preſent Supply of Money.

A Letter was read in the Houſe, agreed upon by the General Council of War at Putney, on Monday, directed to Lieutenant-General Cromwell; and was as follows:

SIR;

INformations come to this Meeting from all Regiments, of the great Extremities the Armies lie under for want of Money; their Expectation being ſo often deceived, that they cannot admit any further delay.

Sir, We cannot but in much Sadneſs repreſent this unto you, fearing that the Conſequence of thoſe Delays will prove very dangerous (if not fatal) to the Army and Kingdom: No Promiſes can be further uſeful; its only a preſent Supply of Money that can help us, and give ſatisfaction to the Soldiery; to whom, without this, we cannot well return; and if any Tumult or Outrages fall out, to the great hazard of the Army and Kingdom, for want of this Supply, we have diſcharged our ſelves before God and Men: And we deſire you to repreſent this as our Senſe to the Parliament.

The State of the Matter of Fact of what paſſed between the Ships of England and Sweden was read, and ordered, that the State of the Matter of Fact be delivered unto the Swediſh Agent, and the Lords Concurrence deſired herein; which was accordingly aſſented unto by them.

This Day was a Common-Hall in London for the chuſing of a Lord-Mayor. There was in Nomination Alderman Warner, Alderman Andrews, Sir Jacob Garret, Sir Thomas Soames, and Alderman Reynoldſon; and after it was put to the Voice, it was in competition between the three firſt. The Aldermen would have two preſented to the Commons, whereof they to chuſe one, according to late Cuſtom: But the City Charter being read in that Particular, it appeared, that the Commons came to chuſe (and not to preſent) a Mayor for the Year enſuing; and they choſe Alderman Warner both for the next Year enſuing, and in the room of Sir John Gaire, for the remaining part of this time.

A Report was alſo made of the Declaration formerly ordered to be drawn for not queſtioning any more that were active in this late Force under ſeveral Qualifications, which was read and committed.

And it was then ordered, That no Members of the Houſe, reduced Officers, or any Delinquents ſhall receive any benefit by this Declaration, nor be any wiſe freed by it, if any be found guilty of the ſaid Tumult.

Chapter of the Confeſſion of Faith to be debated every Wedneſday.

From the Head-Quarters at Putney this day came Intelligence to this purpoſe: ‘That on Thurſday, September 30. the General Council of the Army, according to former Order, met in the Church at Putney, where, after much Debate, a Declaration was agreed upon to be preſented to the Commiſſioners reſiding with the Army, to be by them preſented to the Parliament to this effect:

Declaration agreed on by the General Council of the Army at Putney.

‘That ſince, according to their Deſires in a Paper delivered to the Commiſſioners reſiding with the Army of the 16th of September the Arrears due from the City to the Army are not paid in, they renew their Deſires.

That the Arrears due from the City to the Army may be paid.

‘Firſt, That the Parliament would take the whole Matter of the ſaid Paper into Conſideration, and be pleas'd to grant to the General, and ſuch Officers and Soldiers as he ſhould appoint full Power (with the Directions of the Committee for the Army) to levy the ſaid Arrears by way of Diſtreſs.

Or the Army to levy the ſame by way of Diſtreſs.

‘Secondly, That the Parliament would be pleaſed to ſet down a certain Penalty to be levy'd upon every Perſon who ſhall put the Committee and Army to the Trouble of diſtraining, by their not paying of their Arrears without it.

‘Thirdly, That the Parliament will give the like Power for the levying all Arrears due to the Army, with the like Increaſe by way of Penalty upon all ſuch Perſons in other Countries and Places, who ſhall not pay the ſame without the Trouble and Charge of Diſtreſs.

The like Levy to be made in other Counties.

‘And ſince the Continuance of the Army about London, in regard of the Dearneſs of Commodities, is much more heavy than in Places more remote, they deſire that the Houſes would be pleaſed to think of ſome Courſe for their own ſafe guarding; ſo as the Army may be ſet free from the Neceſſity of Quartering about London any longer than till a Months Pay ſhall be obtained; which Declaration was accordingly preſented to the Houſe this Day, and read.

That to eaſe the City, the Army do remove further, and the Parliament to take care of their own Safety.

Nor ſhall any ſuch Perſon as aforeſaid (without the Allowance of both Houſes of Parliament) hereafter be choſen or continued to be in any of the aforeſaid Offices, or of the firſt or ſecond Company, or of the Chamber or Common-Council of any City, Borough, or Town-Corporate, as aforeſaid: And to the intent that this Ordinance be duly executed and obſerved, the Examination of all Complaints in this kind and Determination upon the ſame, is left to the Committee of Lords and Commons for Indempnity; provided always that this Ordinance do continue and be in force for the ſpace of Five Years only, next enſuing the Date hereof; and that it do not extend to any Perſon or Perſons who have been or ſhall be unduly ſequeſtred, and have been or ſhall be therefore diſcharged of the ſaid undue Sequeſtration by both Houſes of Parliament, or by the Committee of Lords and Commons for Sequeſtrations.

The Agreement between M. G. Lambert and the Dales-men, who at laſt ſubmit to quarter Soldiers in Richmondſh. in Swale-Dale, Coverdale, &c.

The Letters from the North this Week relate the Agreement made between Major-General Lambert and thoſe of the Dales in Richmondſhire more fully than what we gave you the laſt Week, who refuſed to quarter any Soldiers of that Aſſociation. The Propoſitions of which they agreed, were, First, That they ſhould agree to the preſent receiving into Quarters ſuch Numbers of Horſe and Foot as the Commander in Chief ſhall appoint.

Secondly, That the ſaid Forces ſhall continue there till the Inhabitants of the Dales ſhall bring in their Arms and Ammunition, to be ſecured as the Commander in Chief ſhall appoint.

Thirdly, That this being done, they ſhall quarter proportionably with the reſt of the County; only thoſe adjacent Towns and Places that have ſuffered by the Rendevouz and cloſe quartering of our Forces, and upon this Occaſion, ſhall be totally freed from quartering for three Months; and the Dales Men to bear their Proportion.

Four chief Dales Men, Ringleaders, to be ſent up to Sir T. Fairfax.

Fourthly, That three or four of the chief Ringleaders (Men of Eſtates) ſhould be ſent to his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, to anſwer the Contempt.

Tonnage and Poundage.

The Houſe of Commons this fifth day of October ſpent much time about the Ordinance for Tonnage and Poundage, which was read the ſecond time; and the Houſe adjourned into a Grand Committee about the ſame; and ordered the ſame to be read again on Thurſday next.

The Commons paſt an Order ſent down from the Lords about Monies for Maſter Prince.

Archbiſhop of Armagh to have 100 l. a Quarter allowed him.

They had likewiſe a Meſſage from the Lords in behalf of Doctor Uſher, late Archbiſhop of Armagh, deſiring ſome Allowance for his Maintenance. And it was ordered, that 100 l. a Quarter ſhould be allowed him, until he be otherwiſe provided for by ſome Living or Benefice.

Col. Thornhaga, who raiſed a Regiment of Horſe at his own Charge, ordered repayment.

A Certificate was reported to the Houſe of Commons of Colonel Thornhaga, a Member of that Houſe, ſigned by the Committee of Nottingham, That the ſaid Colonel had advanced a Regiment of Horſe for the Service of the Parliament, at his own Charge, which amounted unto 1030 l.

The Houſe hereupon ordered him repayment thereof.

A Petition againſt Members that ſat in the Vacancy of the Speaker.

The Houſe this Day received another Petition from many Citizens of London, againſt thoſe Members of the Houſe that ſat there in the vacancy of the Speakers.

The Petition was read; and afterwards the Petitioners called in, and had anſwer given them, That the Houſe had formerly debated on this Buſineſs, and hath ſetled the ſame: That the Houſe adhered to their former Votes, with this further Declaration, that it is the Duty of Engliſhmen to acquieſce in the Judgment of Parliament: And ſo deſired the Petitioners would do the like.

From the North we had by Letters of the Proceedings of Colonel Lambert, further thus:

M.G. Lambert takes care to ſettle Quarters in the North. And amongſt the Dales Men who have brought in their Arms.

OUR greateſt Agitation for the preſent is about ſettlement of Quarters in the reſpective Countries, about ſuppreſſing the Moſs-Troopers, hearing and redreſſing Complaints and Grievances, which are very many. The Dales Men have delivered in their Arms to the Officers appointed; which they did freely and ſuddenly, to be eaſed of their Burthen; and now they go hand in hand with the reſt of the County. Major Sanderſon's, and Colonel Lilburne's Troops are appointed to march into Northumberland, and quarter there, and have Instructions concerning ing keeping of Guards, and uſing all Means to ſuppreſs the Moſs-Troopers: And Captain Wilkinſon's, and Captain Bradford's Troops, and Sir Robert Collingwood's Regiment, are to march out of that County into the County of York, to be placed in Quarters. In the Biſhoprick of Durham are quartered 900 Foot, being their Proportion, which are of the Garriſon Soldiers of Newcaſtle; alſo they are to be quartered in places moſt convenient to do the Duty of the Garriſon; and the County where they quarter are to have 4 d. a Day each Soldier, for diſcharge of their Quarters; and the County to be freed from all others. By the incloſed Petition is diſcovered how experimentally ſenſible the County of Cumberland is of the great Abuſes of the Moſs-Troopers; and Care is taken for their Relief: For Major Cholmley's and Captain Bayar's Horſe, being about 170, are appointed to quarter in that County, and have the like Inſtructions as the Forces in Northumberland for their ſuppreſſion.

Rippon, Octob. 1. 1647.

To the Right Honourable Major-General Lambert, Commander in Chief of all the Northern Forces.

The Humble Petition of the Inhabitants of Heathward, Aſhdaleward, and Cumberlandward, in the County above-mentioned,

Humbly ſheweth,

THat the Proximity of our Inhabitants to the Borders of both Kingdoms, renders us liable to the intolerable, cruel, and unheard of Outrages of ſome Border-Inhabitants, who under the Notion of Moſs-Troopers, in great Companies aſſemble themſelves even at Noon-day, Feloniouſly to drive away our Cattle, to rifle our Houſes, abuſe our Wives, threaten our Servants, if reſiſted, burn our Houſes, butcher our Children, and murther our ſelves; which doleful Tragedies may publiſh to the World our unparallelled Miſery better conceived than expreſſed.

Inhabitants complaining of the barbarous carriage of Moſs Troopers driving away their Cattle at Noon time of the Day.

Wherefore we addreſs our ſelves to your Honour, as the neareſt and only Means of our future Safety and Defendance out of the mercileſs Hands of theſe barbarous and Godleſs Enemies: Humbly beſeeching your Honour, that Major Cholmley, whoſe known Faithfulneſs, Vigilancy, and bold Adventures hath long curbed their Inſolency during his continuance in this County, may ſtill be imployed in this Service, with accommodation for himſelf and his Troop, from the remoteſt Parts of the ſaid County, proportionably with us, who are neareſt expoſed to ſuch apparent Danger; and ſhall daily pray.

This Petition was ſubſcribed by at leaſt 2000 Hands.

Upon Wedneſday, October 6. there was a Petition preſented to both the Houſes of Parliament, about ſending of able gifted Men (tho' not Clergymen) to preach the Goſpel in the barren places of this Kingdom. The Petition, for better Satisfaction, is as follows.

A Petition for able gifted men, tho' not Clergymen, to preach.

An. 1647.

To the Right Honourable the Houſe of Peers in Parliament Aſſembled.

The Humble Petition of many Citizens of London, and others,

Sheweth,

The Petition on their behalf at large.

THat your Petitioners are deeply ſenſible of the extream want of preaching the Goſpel throughout this Kingdom, there being many hundreds of Towns and Villages altogether deſtitute of any preaching Miniſtry, and many others not well ſupply'd: By reaſon whereof, Ignorance, Drunkenneſs, Prophaneneſs: Diſaffection to the Parliament, and to others in Authority, do every where abound, here being ſcarce ſo much as any Face of Religion in many places.

That there is a great Cry of People from ſeveral Counties of the Kingdom for Men to preach to them the Word of Eternal Life.

And there are many Men of competent Gifts and Abilities, of good Life and honeſt Converſation, who being willing to employ their Talents in the Lord's Work, and to ſubmit themſelves for Approbation to moderate and judicious Men, are yet by occaſion of ſome Scruples about Ordination, diſcouraged from engaging in this Work of publiſhing the Goſpel, wherein they might be helpful unto many. And ſeeing that in the Days of Queen Elizabeth, upon occaſion of Peoples Neceſſities, many ſuch Men were ſent forth to publiſh the Goſpel, who had no formal Act of Miniſterial Ordination paſſed upon them; whoſe Endeavours the Lord bleſſed, to the Good of many Souls, and the furthering of the Kingdom's Peace. And ſince alſo, we nothing doubt, but the Propagation of the Goſpel through this Nation, and the Information of Men in the things of their Peace, and the Peace and Safety of the Kingdom, are worthy of your greateſt Zeal, and are not the leaſt of your Care.

Therefore your Petitioners humbly pray,

‘ That thoſe who ſhall be approved of as Men meet to diſpence the Myſteries
‘ of the Goſpel, by ſuch judicious, moderate, and able Men, whom you in Wiſ-
‘ dom ſhall appoint thereunto, may receive from this Honourable Houſe ‘ Encouragement and Protection in preaching the Goſpel in any place of this ‘ Kingdom, or Dominion of Wales, where Need requires.

‘ That ſo the Word of the Lord may have free Courſe, and be glorified, ig‘ norant Men may be inſtructed, Drunkenneſs, Prophaneneſs, and Diſaffection
‘ to the Parliament, and to others in Authority, may be abandoned, and both ‘ the Spiritual and Temporal Peace and Proſperity of all ſorts of Men be the ‘ more advanced.

For which your Petitioners ſhall ever pray, &c.

The Anſwer of the Houſe of Lords,

This Petition being read in the Houſe of Peers, the Lords gave this Anſwer, That they did take well that good Affection of the Petitioners to the Advancement of the Goſpel, and have appointed to take into conſideration their Petition.

and of the Houſe of Commons.

And upon the reading of the ſame in the Houſe of Commons, Thanks were returned to the Petitioners for their good Affection to the Kingdom; and the Petition referred to a Committee, who are to conſider of a way for examining ſuch as ſhall be ſo allowed.

For ſetling Preſbyterial Government, with eaſe to tender Conſciences.

The Ordinance for ſetling the Government of the Church in a Preſbyterial Way this Day reported to the Houſe, took up the Debate of the whole Day, and ordered to be committed, and to be brought in again with a Clauſe for giving eaſe to tender Conſciences of ſuch as are Godly, and make a Conſcience of their Ways, &c. and this to be ſent along with the other Propoſitions for his Majeſty's Aſſent.

Ordinance for Guernſey.

A Meſſage this Day came from the Lords, That their Lordſhips had returned the Ordinance for Guernſey, with ſome ſmall Amendments, deſiring the Concurrence of the Houſe of Commons therein; and after the reading thereof the Amendments were aſſented unto.

Tonnage and Poundage.

The Houſe was this Day, October 7. in a Grand Committee upon the Ordinance for Tonnage and Poundage, it being a Buſineſs of great Concernment; and no other Buſineſs was done in the Houſe.

Of Proceedings of the Council of the Army at Putney.

This Day the general Council of the Army met at Putney. We cannot at preſent give a particular Account of their Proceedings, but underſtand the chief was in further relation to what they did, the laſt Week, about pay for the Army, and the Arrears due from the City of London.

That Col. Jones is gone again into the Field, with 21 Pieces of Ordnance. Oneal and Preſton joyn Forces Popes Nuncio under ſuſpicion.

There hath been little from Ireland now this Fortnight, but from Cheſter they write, That Colonel Jones is again gone out into the Field with 21 Pieces of Ordnance, ſuch as the Way would paſs. Owen Oneale and Preſton are again joined together, and ſeem formidable, but moſt unexperienc'd Soldiers, and but badly armed; they expect both Moneys and Arms from beyond the Seas. The Pope's Nuncio has made large Promiſes to them; but they begin to ſuſpect him, although there are none in the World more eaſie to be wrought upon by Religious Pretences than the Iriſh. Sometimes they pretend to give us Battel; but upon our Forces approach they retire into Woods and Bogs. Colonel Jones is wary of their Ambuſcades, but reſolute (having once got all the Forces he can) ſpeedily to give them Battle, and to fight it out; for which he hath fair Encouragement, having beaten up the Quarters of the Enemies next unto him, with great loſs to the Enemy; and good Booties are brought in whereſoever our Forces make their Intradoes into the Country of the Rebels.

Commiſſioners of the Cuſtoms.

Upon Friday, October 8. The Houſe had much Debate concerning the preſent Commiſſioners of the Cuſtoms, and ſome Intimation was given, how that ſome of them had had a hand in the late Buſineſs of the City againſt the Parliament and Army: But this Buſineſs admitted only of debate.

Of the Winter Fleet.

A further Report was made to the Houſe of the Winters Fleet that is to be ſent out, a great part of it being left uncompleated at the laſt Debate; which the Houſe now finiſhed, and agreed upon the reſt of the Officers that are to command that Fleet.

The Reſults of the Council of the Army on Thurſd. Oct. 7.

A Report was made of the Reſults of the General Meeting of the General Council of the Army on Thurſday laſt, and their deſire in relation to their Pay and Arrears; which were thus:

As to Arrears.

Firſt, That the Arrears of the Army may be paid out of the Sale of Deans and Chapters Lands, and the remainder of the Security of Biſhops Lands, and Sale of Foreſt Lands.

Months Pay.

Secondly, That the Months Pay due to the Army may be ſpeedily collected by ſuch as both Houſes ſhall approve of.

Thirdly, That the Propoſitions may be drawn up, and ſpeedily ſent to his Majeſty for his Concurrence.

Referred to the Committee of Army.

The Houſe upon their Debate ordered, That the Months Pay ſhould be referred to the Committee of the Army, as to the collecting thereof, which took up the whole Debate of the Day.

The Houſe of Commons was called this day; 150 Members did not appear.

This Day, being October 9. the Houſe, according to former Order met, and called over the Roll of the Members of that Houſe; by which it appeared, that there were one hundred fifty odd Members abſent upon the calling of the Houſe.

Fin'd 20l. a Man.

The Houſe hereupon ſpent the whole Day in Debate of this Neglect or Contempt, and at laſt ordered, That ſuch Members as have not appeared according to Summons, ſhall pay the Sum of 20*l.*

Committee further to examine them.

Afterwards a Committee was appointed to examine the abſence of theſe Members, whether they can object any ſufficient Cauſe why they have not obeyed the former Summons of the Houſe, and to report their ſeveral Caſes to the Houſe.

Order for a further Summons of their Members to appear Nov. 3.

The Houſe further ordered, That there be a further Day appointed to ſummon the Members, and that the third of November next ſhould be the Day for thoſe Members of the Houſe that have not appeared upon Summons according to the former Order of the Houſe, and the Summons of the Sheriff of the ſeveral Counties in that behalf; and the Debate as to this Buſineſs was the ſole Buſineſs of the Day.

The Duke of Richmond and others came to his Majeſty at Hampton-Court: Their ſtay was ſhort.

From Hampton-Court we underſtand thus much, that the Duke of Richmond, Marquiſs of Hartford, Marquiſs of Ormond, Earl of Dorſet, Earl of Southampton, Lord Seymour, and ſome others, came on Thurſday laſt to His Majeſty to Hampton-Court. Great was the Expectation at Court upon their Arrival, and that they came to perſwade or mediate with his Majeſty to paſs the Propoſitions: Many thought otherwiſe. But their ſhort ſtay at Court rendered the General Expectations in theſe Particulars fruitleſs.

The Reaſon wherefore the King ſent for them.

In brief, his Majeſty had ſent for them to adviſe and conſult withal as his Privy-Counſellors; and it ſhould ſeem they had Thoughts to ſettle there for a time in Council with his Majeſty: But this diſtaſting, in that there is no Satisfaction as yet given on his Majeſty's behalf to the Parliament or Army, it was declared againſt by the Army: And theſe Privy-Counſellors ſtaid with his Majeſty only Friday, and left the Court this Saturday Morning, ſome for London, and ſome elſewhere.

The Council of the Army at Putney gave Audience to a German Prophet; pretending to make an Agreement between King, Parliament and Army.

From the Head-Quarters at Putney we underſtood further of the Meeting of the General Council of the Army on Thurſday laſt, That they firſt gave Audience to an High-German, who pretends to be a Prophet, and would preſcribe a way for the ſetling of a firm and laſting Peace: His chief Motion was to a general Agreement and Concurrence, between King, Parliament, and Army: But this was not the thing they met for. After this there was a Debate about ſome further Explanations of the Propoſals, and likewiſe about the raiſing of Moneys from the City for the Pay of the Army.

The Northern Forces in diſtreſs for want of Pay.

The Condition of the Northern Forces was preſented to be in great diſtreſs for want of Pay; which being taken into ſerious Conſideration, it was reſolved upon to recommend their Agents to the Committee of the Army, that they would be pleaſed to procure an Order, That the ſaid Forces may have one Months Pay out of the firſt Moneys that can be had for the Pay of this Army, and the Forces that have concurred with it.

Munday October 11.

The Deſires of the Army in relation to their Pay and Arrears.

This Day the Houſe of Commons took into further Conſideration the Deſires of the Army in relation to their Pay and Arrears expreſſed in their laſt Paper from the General Council at Putney October 7. the Heads of which Paper of their Deſires we gave you formerly; but having ſince met with a true Copy from the Original, and not yet in print, we will give it you as followeth:

To the Right Honourable the Commiſſioners of Parliament appointed to reſide with the Army, to be humbly repreſented by them to both Houſes of Parliament.

The Deſires are as follows.

WHereas by a Paper delivered to the Commiſſioners of Parliament reſiding with the Army, from, and in the Name of this Council (bearing date the 23*d* Day of September) we did upon the Grounds, and for the Reaſon therein expreſſed, deſire, that if the Arrears due from the City to this Army, ſhould not by the time then limited be paid in, the Parliament would think of ſome Courſe (by way of Penalty) to increaſe the Sum, and give Power to the General (with Directions from the Committee of the Army) to levy upon the Refuſers, both the Sum formerly due, and alſo the additional Penalties. Now, foraſmuch as the ſaid Arrears are not yet paid in, nor levy'd, we hereby renew our humble Deſires to the Parliament.

Firſt, That they would take the whole Matter of the ſaid Paper into Conſideration; and amongſt other things therein contained, would be pleaſed to grant to the General, and ſuch Officers and Soldiers as he ſhall appoint, full Power (with Directions of the Committee for the Army) to levy the ſaid Arrears by way of Diſtreſs.

And foraſmuch as the levying of the ſaid Arrears, barely by way of Diſtreſs, without ſome Penalty upon ſuch as ſhall ſtand out until they be diſtrained, would be an Encouragement to all others in future (both in the City and elſewhere) to withhold the Payment what's due from them as long as they can, when they ſhall find that the worſt is but to pay at laſt the bear Sum due when they ſhall be diſtrained for it. We therefore deſire,

Secondly, That the Parliament would be pleaſed to ſet down a certain Penalty (of double the Sum due or ſome other Proportion) to be levied upon every Perſon who ſhall put the Committee and Army to the Trouble of diſtraining, by not paying their Arrears without it, and give the ſame Power for levying the ſaid Penalties as for the Arrears themſelves; And that they would likewiſe ſet ſome Penalty upon all Collectors, who ſhall appear to have made default in their Duty, in not demanding or not levying the Arrears within the repreſentive Limits, and give the like Power for levying ſuch Penalties upon them: And whereas there are conſiderable Arrears due from ſeveral Counties and other Places to the Army, which ſeem to be with-held out of the ſame Deſign or Diſaffection, and upon the ſame Preſumptions: We therefore deſire,

Thirdly, That the Parliament would ſet down the like Courſe, and give the like Power for the levying of all Arrears due to the Army, with the like Increaſe by way of Penalty upon all ſuch Perſons in other Counties and Places who ſhall not pay the ſame without the Trouble and Charge of the Diſtreſs.

Fourthly, That the Houſes would be pleaſed to think of ſome Courſe for their own ſafe guarding, ſo as the Army may be ſet free from the Neceſſity of quartering about London any longer than till the Months Pay ſhall be obtained.

Laſtly, Whereas the Army hath ſo long lain cloſe about London, to the great Oppreſſion of theſe Parts adjacent, where the Charge of quartering Soldiers (in regard of the Dearneſs of the Commodities) is much more heavy than in Places more remote: And ſince for that Reaſon the Soldiers lying in theſe Parts, will not be able, out of their ſmall Salary, to diſcharge Quarters (which 'tis deſired and intended they ſhould begin to do, ſo ſoon as there ſhall be a Months Pay ſent down for the Army: And, foraſmuch as (after the City-Works are ſlighted, and a Months Pay obtained) there will be little Occaſion for the Continuance of the Army hereabouts, ſave in relation to the guarding of the Parliament.

We therefore deſire, &c.

Putney, Octob. 7. 1647.

Concerning a better Eſtabliſhment for the Army.

The Commons, the better to debate theſe Deſires from the Army, and to ſettle a Courſe for a better Eſtabliſhment for the Army, the Houſe was turned into a Grand Committee; and after long Debate, it was voted, That the Army or Forces appointed for Ireland, be paid out of the Office of Exciſe, Goldſmiths-Hall; and for the further Support, as Occaſion ſhall offer and call for: For the Arrears of the Army, the Remainder of Biſhops Lands was ordered (that is, ſo much as is not pre-engaged) for the 800 and odd thouſand Pounds publick Faith, with Redemption; alſo the Lands called the Deans and Chapters, are alſo to be ſold; and that Money muſt alſo pay Arrears; but there is an Exception, that Impropriations are not (as in Biſhops Lands) to be ſold; but reſerv'd either for the Church, that is, the Preachers; or if Tithes be not continued, then for the People: alſo the Fee-Farm Rent as was formerly paid to the Dean and Chapter, which was above the Tenth of what the Land was worth, at a Rack Rent; for all muſt be racked. All this paſſed as the Houſe was a Committee.

10000 l. to Sir Tho. Mauliverer for raiſing of two Regiments, &c.

The Commons upon the Petition of Sir Tho. Mauliverer Baronet, who hath raiſed two Regiments of Foot and a Troop of Horſe for the Service of the Parliament, and had loſt a great Eſtate, and had done conſiderable Services for the Kingdom, ordered 10000 l. to be paid him upon Accompt, in part of his Arrears.

Two Members of the Houſe of Commons appearing after the Day of Summons, were ordered to pay the Sum of twenty Pounds apiece, according to the late Vote of the Houſe of Commons, before they could be re-admitted into the Houſe; but the Houſe being afterwards ſatisfied of their having the Leave of the Houſe to be abſent, and of their neceſſity of their being in the Country, the Houſe ordered that their twenty Pounds apiece ſhould be reſtored.

The Petition from the Committee of Accompts was ordered formerly to be heard on this day; but, by reaſon of other Buſineſs, deferred.

Tunnage and Poundage.

That the preſent Commiſſioners do advance 30000 l. and reimburſe themſelves out of the Cuſtoms.

The Commons this day, October 12. ſpent much time in debate of the Ordinance for Tunnage and Poundage; the Reſult of which was, that the Houſe doth declare That if the preſent Commiſſioners of the Cuſtoms ſhould advance the Sum of 30000 l. for the preſent Service of the State, they ſhall not be removed till they ſhall be repaid the ſame with Intereſt, and all their Monies due unto them ſince their Employment in that Service.

The Houſe being informed that the Commiſſioners of the Cuſtoms attended at the Door to know the Pleaſure of the Houſe herein, ſome Members were ordered to go out and acquaint them with this Declaration of the Houſe.

Which Propoſitions the Cuſtomers accept.

The Members that were ordered to acquaint the Commiſſioners of the Cuſtoms with the Declaration of the Houſe concerning the Advance of 30000 l. for the preſent Service of the State, reported to the Houſe, that they had acquainted the Commiſſioners of the Cuſtoms with the ſaid Declaration; and that they were willing to advance the ſaid Sum upon that Declaration.

Hereupon the Houſe ordered that they would accept of the Advance of the ſaid Sum of 30000 l. by the Commiſſioners of the Cuſtoms.

They ordered that the Grand Committee, before whom the Ordinance for Tunnage and Poundage doth lie due in the ſaid Ordinance to be brought in, obſerve the Votes of the Houſe now paſſed.

Arrears of Aſſeſſments.

An Ordinance for bringing in the Arrears of the Aſſeſſments for Sir Tho. Fairfax's Army; The Order for the Committee of the Army to be impowered with the ſame Power as the Commiſſioners appointed to reſide in the Army for perfecting what they ſhall leave imperfect, were ſent to the Lords for their Concurrence, and aſſented unto.

Militia in Hertfordſhire.

A Petition was this day read from divers of the Committee of the Militia of Hertford and others, was read.

The Houſe ordered that a Member of their Houſe ſhould prepare and bring in an Ordinance with the Names of the Parties therein to whom the Power of the Militia of that County ſhould be intruſted.

Ordered, That Lieutenant-Colonel John Lilburne's Buſineſs be reported on Friday Morning next.

Another Letter was this Day read in the Houſe of Commons from the General-Council of the Army about Free-Quarter and Pay for the Army: The Letter it ſelf for better Satisfaction was as followeth.

Mr. Speaker,

A Letter from the Army to the Speaker about Free-Quarter and Pay.

T*HE great Senſe we have of the Cries and Groans of the People under Free-Quarter, and unutterable Calamities that muſt inevitably befal this poor Kingdom, preſſes us ſore, and invites us to make this earneſt Addreſs unto you, that you would pleaſe to take it into your preſent Conſideration to make out a Proviſion for a conſtant Pay of thoſe Forces you intend to keep on foot for the Security of this Kingdom, and the preſent Reducement of diſtracted* Ireland: And becauſe his Excellency and this Army are obliged by their Engagement to take care of all thoſe Forces which have mutually engaged with them in theſe late Services, We do offer our Opinions whether it may not much conduce to your Affairs ſpeedily to prepare Monies for the diſbanding of ſuch as you intend not to be of the Number of that ſtanding Body of Horſe and Foot for the Ends aforeſaid; that ſo your Forces being contracted, the Kingdom may be the better encouraged and more enabled to make good their Pay, and the Army to be diſpoſed to their reſpective Garriſons, and ſuch Quarters, that the Price of Commodities may not be inhanced in any part of the Kingdom (much leſs ſo near the populous City) which is Occaſion of this contracted Poſture. Truly Sir, we might preſs you with that Months Pay which hath been ſo often promiſed, and we did believe was before this depoſited in your Treaſury; and that great Neglect (which muſt next Summer) that no part of it is drawn in; and that, if the City be the Failers, the ſad Precedent it gives to the whole Kingdom. We might mention to you the Neceſſity of the Soldiery, and the great Advantages ſome that ſtudy Anarchy and Diſtractions, take upon it, to make their Impreſſions upon this Army. But nothing is ſo difficult and grievous to us as to conſider how the poor Soldier (for his mere Subſiſtence) is compelled to grind the Face af the Poor, to take a Livelihood from them, who are fitter to receive Alms, to undo Families, threaten the Ruin of the whole, and all Propriety, and to be an abhorring to himſelf which ſome ingenious of them acknowledge) and this for want of that conſtant Supply and Pay, whereby they might chearfully, and with Content to the People, diſcharge their Quarters, and ſo eaſe both the Country and their own Minds of an intolerable Burthen.

of

This being that which the Neighbour States both of the Netherlands and others, make their prime Scope, and whereby they enjoy ſo much Peace and Quiet under a warlike Poſture: This being the only and plain Medium to ſtop the Cries and Groans of ſo many thouſands ready to periſh, and to heal the Wounds of this deſolate Nation, that will otherwiſe bleed to Death, and inevitable Ruin.

Sir, We do humbly conceive that the preſent and ſpeedy Diſpatch of what we offer is the only Baſis and Foundation for the reſt of your Affairs how weighty ſoever they ſeem to be, and without which you cannot aſſure this Kingdom's Safety: We ſhall only add, that for the bringing in of your Aſſeſſments, it may be moſt contenting and effectual, to paſs it by the way of the High-Sheriff, &c. as is uſed to be in the Caſe of Subſidies, the Name and Power of Committee-preaching being ſo unpleaſant to the People, and the High-Sheriff being ſo reſponſible both for his Eſtate and Power in the County.

We would not have put thus much Trouble upon you, but that it is to eaſe you and the Kingdom of a greater, and to diſcharge our ſelves before God and Men as thoſe that have moved every Stone by our ſeveral Addreſſes to accompliſh that without which the Kingdoms Peace and Security cannot be eſtabliſhed.

We do further offer unto you the Neceſſity of a preſent auditing the Arrears of the Army; and that the Committee for the Army may be forthwith diſpatched with full Inſtruction to that purpoſe, according to your late Vote, which being put into a way, would give great Satisfaction to the Soldiery.

And we ſhall again remember you of our humble Deſires, that the Arrears and publick Faith of the Army and Soldiery of the Kingdom may be ſatisfied out of Deans and Chapters Lands, &c. or ſuch other viſible Way as ſhall be contenting to the Soldiery; and what ſhall be reſolved upon in this behalf, to be inſiſted upon with the reſt of the Propoſitions.

Putney, Oct. 7. 1647.

By the Appointment of his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax and the General Council of the Army.

John Ruſhworth. Secr.

The Commons, upon reading of this Letter, referred the ſame to the Committee appointed to provide for the Forces of England and Ireland.

Ordinance for bringing in Arrears due to the Army.

Both Houſes this day paſſed an Ordinance for the more effectual bringing in the Arrears of the Aſſeſſments for Sir Thomas Fairfax's Army, That all the ſeveral Sums of Money that are in Arrear and unpaid upon the ſeveral Ordinances for Sir Thomas Fairfax, be forthwith aſſeſſed, collected and payed according to the ſaid Ordinances.

Letter from Col. Jones for preſent Supply of his Army now marched out againſt the Enemy.

Letters came this Day to the Houſe of Peers from Colonel Jones, Governour of Dublin, of the great Extremity of want of Supplies for the Soldiery who are now in a Body gone out towards the Enemy, and what Service might be probably done in ſhort time (had he good Accommodation) againſt the Rebels, aſſuring that nothing ſhall be wanting in him to do his utmoſt, declaring his Reſolution to fight with the Enemy if he can force them to it.

Their Lordſhips ordered to communicate the ſaid Letter to the Commons, That a ſpeedy Supply may be ſent over to Colonel Jones.

Malignant Miniſters in Oxford and in St. John's College there pray for the Biſhops, &c.

The Commons were acquainted that divers malignant Miniſters in Oxford and elſewhere, particularly at John's College, did read the Book of Common-Prayer, pray for the Biſhops, and uſe malignant Expreſſions; after Debate whereof, a Committee was ordered to examine all Complaints in that nature, and to make Reports to the Houſe; and accordingly a Committee of the Houſe was choſen, and ordered to ſit in the Afternoon.

The Lords paſſed ſeveral Inſtructions this Day, one for Mr. Caſtle of Woodham in Eſſex, Mr. Plant, and others.

Two Ordinances for repair of Churches. Dr. Du Molin to be Divinity-Lecturer at Oxford.

They likewiſe paſſed two Ordinances, and ſent them to the Commons for their Concurrence; whereof, one for the repairing of Churches in all Parts of the Kingdom, and the other for Dr. Du Moline to be Reader of the Divinity Lectures at Oxford. They paſſed an additional Ordinance for the Militia of Weſtminſter.

An Order for the Earl of Portland in the Buſineſs of the Iſle of Wight.

An Order for the Agent of the Duke of Florence to be freed from the Exciſe for his own Particular.

Intelligence from the North.

Not much News from the North this Week, but that much means have been uſed to foment Differences there, and very pretty Stories told at London to encourage a Belief thereof. The Lord Lowden is coming for London from Scotland, the Lord Lannerick being come before: the Scottiſh Army do not diſband at the 12*th* inſtant, as appointed: Some Forces of Sir Thomas Fairfax's Army are deſigned [illegible] march into the North; we hope Care will be taken for pay of them, and all will be quiet.

Intelligence from Dublin of Col. Jones's joyning with Col. Monk.

Letters from Dublin September 28*th* give to underſtand thus much, That Colonel Jones hath been in the Field ſome Weeks, hath gotten Aſſurance That Colonel Monk with 500 Horſe, and about 1000 Foot, was coming to the Rendezvous agreed on, and that in few Days they will meet, and then advance towards Owen Roe Mac Cart, who is now General of all the Iriſh, Preſton having quitted his Generalſhip, and accepted of the Government of Kilkenny and Waterford, and tranſmitted unto Roe all that ſmall Number recollected after his Defeat. It ſtill holds from the Report of thoſe taken, that Owen will not hazard a Battle, and the Seaſon now not fit for Sieges, Colonel Jones will in all probability deſtroy and lay waſte where he goes.

Presbyterial Government, how far to be ſet up.

This Day, bing October 13. both Houſes ſat upon the Buſineſs of Religion, and how far the Presbyterial Government ſhall be ſet up in this Kingdom, and his Majeſty's Concurrence to be deſired to the ſame; and ſeveral Votes paſſed hereupon. The Lords proceeded thus far in a Grand Committee:

'That the King be deſired to give his Conſent to ſuch Act or Acts 'of Parliament as ſhall be preſented to him for ſetling the Presbyterial Government, according to the Matter of the ſeveral Ordinances of Parliament already agreed upon for the Directory or 'Church-Government, to continue for the ſpace of three Years, 'from the time of the King's Aſſent given to the ſaid Act or Acts, 'with a Proviſion to be made, that no Perſon ſhall be liable to any 'Queſtion or Penalty, only for Nonconformity to the ſaid Government, 'or to the Form of Divine Service appointed in the ſaid Ordinances: 'And that ſuch Perſons as ſhall not voluntarily conform to the ſaid 'Form of Government and Divine Service, ſhall have liberty to 'meet for the Service and Worſhip of God, and for Exerciſe of Religious Duties and Ordinances in any fit and convenient Places, ſo as 'nothing be done by them to the diſturbance of the Peace of the 'Kingdom.

'And provided, That nothing in this Proviſion ſhall extend to any 'Toleration of the Popiſh Religion, not to exempt any Popiſh Recuſant from any Penalties impoſed on them for the exerciſe of the ſame. 'And alſo that it ſhall not extend to tolerate the Practice of any 'thing contrary to the Principles of Chriſtian Religion, contained in 'the Creed, commonly called the Apoſtles Creed, as it is expounded 'in 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, and 15 Articles 'of the Church of England, according to the true Senſe and Meaning of them, and as they have been cleared and vindicated by the 'Aſſembly of Divines now ſitting at Weſtminſter; nor of any thing 'contrary to the Point of Faith; for the ignorance whereof Men 'are to be kept from the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, as they 'are contained in the Rule and Direction paſt for that purpoſe by 'both Houſes, October 20. 1645. And alſo provided, That nothing 'herein ſhall extend to excuſe any Perſons from the Penalties of the 'Statutes of primo Eliz. Cap. 2. for not coming to hear the Word of 'God on the Lord's Day in any Pariſh-Church or Chapel, unleſs he can ſhew a reaſonable Cauſe of his Abſence, or that he was preſent to hear the Word of God preached or expounded unto him elſewhere.

The Commons likewiſe inſiſting upon the Buſineſs of Religion, paſt ſeveral Particulars: As, 'That Presbytery be eſtabliſhed; and 'for the time, until the end of the next Seſſions of Parlirment after 'this, or the end of the ſecond Seſſions of Parliament.

'That the Tenths, and all other Maintenance belonging to any 'Church or Chapel, ſhall be only for the uſe of thoſe that can ſubmit to the Presbyterian Government, and none other: That Liberty of Conſcience, or Worſhip granted, ſhall extend to none that 'ſhall print, preach, or publiſh contrary to the firſt 15 Articles of 'the 39, except the Eighth, which mentions the Three Creeds made 'many Years after the Apoſtles: That nothing contained in this Ordinance ſhall extend to any Popiſh Recuſant, or taking away of any 'Penal Laws againſt them.

The Lords ordered this Day, that the Marquiſs of Wincheſter have three Months time longer to be abroad. They made a Committee to diſpoſe the Moneys collected for the ſuffering and diſtreſſed: Ordered a Committee to draw up into Form thoſe things which were paſt of the Propoſals concerning Delinquents: This Committee is to conſider and draw up ſomewhat tending to the Propagation of the Parliament: Alſo about Juſtices of Peace and Grand Jury-men.

Further Debates and Proceedings in Matters of Religion as to the Presbyterian Government.

Both Houſes, October 14. again further proceeded in the Buſineſs of the Propoſitions to be ſent to the King. The Lords had before them the further Report concerning Religion and Church-Government, much to the effect you had before. They alſo debated concerning the determination or end of Seſſions of Parliament, and inclined to Triennial, as formerly and this Seſſion of Parliament, to end within a Twelvemonth after paſſing the Bill, and the next Seſſions to be three Years after, and ſo Triennially according to the former Votes.

Indulgence to tender Conſciences.

The Commons further proceeded in the Buſineſs of Religion and Church-Government, and agreed, ‘That ſuch tender Conſciences ‘ſhould be freed by way of Indulgence from the Penalty of the Statute ‘for the Presbyterian Government, for their Nonconformity, who do ‘meet in ſome other Congregation for the Worſhip of God on the ‘Lord's Day, and do nothing againſt the Laws and Peace of the ‘Kingdom; and that none others ſhall be freed from the Penalties of ‘the Statute 1 Eliz. Cap. 2.

From Hampton we received the Copy of a Letter from his Majeſty, to his Excellency about the King's Children remove from Sion-Houſe, The Letter is as follows.

The King's Letter to the General about his Children.

CHARLES REX.

WE have received great Content in the frequent repair to Us hither of Our Children from Sion; and herein, that the Earl of Northumberland (under whoſe Care they are) is now towards a remove with them to Saint James's, ſo as there they will be at a greater diſtance from Us. We are deſirous you will add this acceptable Civility to your former ones, as to write effectually to the Two Houſes of Parliament, that my Lord of Northumberland may be authorized once in ten Days, or ſome ſuch time, to give Us the ſame Satisfaction of letting Our Children viſit and remain with Us here for a Night or two; the diſtance from London, Winter Weather, and ſhortneſs of Days, not permitting ſuch returns as they have hitherto obſerved. We ſhall account this a further Comfort to Us, and acknowledge it accordingly.

Given at Our Honour of Hampton-Court, the tenth of October, 1647.

To Sir Thomas Fairfax,
General.

Friday, October 15.

Tonnage and Poundage.

The Commons this Day further conſidered of the Ordinance for Tonnage and Poundage, ſpent a great part of the time about the ſame, and ordered to conſider thereof on Tueſday next.

Church-Government.

The Commons then likewiſe proceeded in that part of the Propoſitions to be ſent to the King, concerning Church-Government, and the Vote before-mentioned, giving Liberty to ſuch Perſons, as ſhall not conform to the Government and Divine Service by Ordinance of Parliament eſtabliſhed, ſhall have liberty to meet for Religious Duties otherwiſe, ſo as nothing be done to the diſturbance of the Peace of the Kingdom. They have made this Additional Vote:

Indulgence to tender Conſciences explain'd.

'That this Indulgence ſhall not extend to exempt any Perſons from 'any Penalty by Law impoſed, or to be impoſed upon them, for abſenting themſelves upon the Lord's Day from hearing the Word of 'God, unleſs they can ſhew a reaſonable Cauſe of their Abſence, or 'that they were preſent elſewhere to hear the Word of God preached or expounded unto them. And this Debate took up the whole 'time this Day.

Debate at the Council of Officers for the Soldiers to abate for free Quart. A Trooper 12 d. per diem. A Foot Soldier 4 d. per diem.

The General Council of the Army we underſtand met again at Putney yeſterday, and ſat in the Church all the Afternoon; the General was then alſo at Putney, but ſat not in the Council. A long Debate was had about Arrears and free Quarter; and it was reſolved on, that every Trooper of the Army ſhould abate 12 d. per diem, and every Foot-Soldier 4 d. per diem, in lieu of free Quarter: And in caſe any prove that they paid their Quarters, conſideration is to be had thereof. Nothing elſe of Publick Concernment concluded on, that we hear of.

No Indulgence to the Common-Prayer.

The Commons on October 16. further proceeded in the Debate of that Propoſition concerning Religion, and made a further additional Vote, 'That the Indulgence, as to tender Conſciences before-mentioned, ſhall not extend to tolerate the uſe of Common-Prayer in any 'Place whatſoever.

The Lords Alteration in ſome of the Propoſitions.

The Lords ſent a Meſſage to the Commons, and thereby acquainted them, That their Lordſhips had ſent down the Propoſitions to be ſent to the King; wherein they had made ſome Amendments, as Perſons therein to be excepted againſt, and the third part of their Eſtates to be as a Compoſition for their Delinquencies, and in this Qualification to be excepted againſt, with ſome other Alterations, the Sum whereof we gave you before.

The Houſe hereupon ordered, That theſe Propoſitions to be ſent to the King, be referred to a Committee; and accordingly a Committee was appointed to conſider how theſe Propoſitions agree with the former Propoſitions, and wherein they do diſagree, and report the ſame to the Houſe on Monday next; which was the Buſineſs of the Day.

Intelligence from Hampton Court. To remove ſome Officers about his Majeſty.

We had ſome News farther this Day by Letters from Hampton-Court, briefly thus: The News of an Order of Parliament for removing ſuch Officers from about his Majeſty as have lately flocked thither, hath much diſtaſted the Cavalry, and they ſpeak big Words upon it. Some have been likewiſe buſie to get Commiſſion for the Scotiſh Army to come again into England. 'Tis much to be ſuſpected ſomething is doing of great Deſign this way, and a Meſſenger diſpatched, or very ſuddenly to be diſpatched for France about it. If thoſe who have the Charge of the Cinque-Ports be careful (and take this timous Advice) it is poſſible they may intercept ſomething worth the diſcovery; and take this further Item, That if there be any Attempt to paſs any of our Ports, a diſguiſed Gentlemen, Tall, and Black Hair, about Thirty Years old, one that varies Garb, ſometimes like a Frenchman, a Dutchman, and ſometimes for a Scot, and that can ſet his Tongue accordingly, examine him well; for ſuch a Man hath been obſerved to follow the Court lately, and fouly ſuſpected to be employed about deſperate Deſigns.

Col. Whaley affronted by a Yeoman-waiter at Court.

One thing we had almoſt forgot, that Colonel Whaley making known the Order of Parliament for Cavalry to depart the Court. One Robins, one of the Yeoman-Waiters, not only refuſed to go, but he gave the Colonel very courſe and uncivil Language, and at laſt offered to ſtrike him: Whereupon tho Colonel drew his Sword; and Robins complained to the King.

The Heads of 16 Propoſitions ſent by the Commons to the Lords, to be ſent to the K.

The Commons, October 18. proceeded in the Propoſitions to be ſent to the King; and the Committee to whom the Papers ſent down by the Lords on Saturday laſt, in order to the Propoſitions to be ſent to his Majeſty (conſiſting of Sixteen Heads) were referred, made their Report of them to the Houſe: And for better ſatisfaction of the Commons Proceedings herein, we will give you the Heads of the ſaid Propoſitions ſent down to the Lords as followeth:

Fifteenthly, For an Act of Oblivion. And the laſt for his Majeſty to return to his Parliament, and to have his Rights, Queen and Princes reſtored and eſtabliſhed.

The Commons inſiſted upon the Propoſitions, but not altogether in order as as they lay: They paſſed the Seventh and Eighth, made ſome Alterations in the Ninth concerning the Navy, that it ſhould not be in the Hands of a High-Admiral, but of Commiſſioners. Something was alſo in Debate about a High-Conſtable, but laid aſide.

They then took into Conſideration the Tenth Propoſition about Election of Great Officers, and upon debate committed the ſame to a Committee, who are to conſider of all Offices, and a Proviſion for ſuch as have been out of their Offices for adhering to the Parliament, and of a Negative Voice, according to the Debate of the Houſe, concerning all Offices of Publick Truſt; and to proceed for the appointing of Ambaſſadors and Agents to reſide abroad upon Foreign Negotiations; this Committee to meet this Afternoon about the ſame, to bring it in to morrow Morning.

Then the Houſe proceeded to the Tenth Paper for ſetling of the Church-Government, which was thought fit to be waved until afterwards. They likewiſe debated the Eleventh Paper concerning Delinquents; the Houſe had great Debate, and firſt conſidered of the Seven nominated out of Mercy, there being others thought to be more conſiderable than ſome of theſe, and divers as conſiderable as any of them; and it was voted to be referred to the former Committee to prepare a Propoſition upon the Debate now had in the Houſe, concerning Delinquents excepted from Pardon for Life.

Much Debate was, whether thoſe exempted out of Mercy ſhould be nominated; if named, what number? or whether it ſhould not be expreſſed, Such as both Houſes of Parliament ſhall think fit? And at laſt it was referred to a Committee to bring in a Paper (concerning the Branch) according to the Senſe of the Houſe.

Againſt Stage-Plays, to be ſuppreſſed.

Several Complaints have been made to the Houſe of the bold Attempt of Stage-Players playing at Publick Houſes in the City, contrary to Ordinance of Parliament. And an Ordinance was this Day reported to the Commons, and paſt, for the more effectual ſuppreſſing of Stage Plays; the Players to be apprehend, carried to Priſon, and effectually proceeded againſt.

Freeborn, John Lilburne complains of the Houſe of Peers as his Accuſers and Judge.

Lieutenant Colonel John Lilburne this Day attended the Committee about his Buſineſs, made a long Speech, and hath ſince delivered his Caſe to the Committee, and his Speech in Writing, complaining againſt the Lords as Accuſers and Judges againſt him, declaring their Proceedings illegal, and gave in many Precedents, which he undertakes to prove. His Expreſſions were in Law very high.

The French Ambaſſador had Audience of the King to take his leave.

From Hampton-Court Letters this Day ſay, ‘That on Saturday laſt ‘Monſieur Belliver Preſident of the French Parliament, who hath been ‘ſo long Embaſſador Extraordinary here from the King of France, was ‘with his Majeſty to take his leave; and alſo his Brother, Monſieur ‘Creeveghn Beliver, who is lately come from France hither to lie Leaguer; and they had both Audience; and after two or three Hours ‘departed from the Court.

A Paper preſented to the General by the Agents of five Regiments of Horſe.

From Putney we had to underſtand of certain Papers preſented to the General this Day by the Agents of Five Regiments of Horſe, as the Caſe of the whole Army, but is indeed, as ſome ſay, the Act of theſe Agents only, and, it's conceived, will not carry the Approbation of the Army, there being ſome things in them very high, if not againſt the Senſe of the Army in general, as you will hear further at the next General Council. With theſe Papers they likewiſe preſented a Letter to the General; which we will here give you, with the General's Anſwer, as followeth.

The ſaid Agent's Paper.

May it pleaſe your Excellency:

F*Rom the deep Senſe of our Duty to God, to our native Country, to your Excellency, to this Army, to our ſelves, and to Poſterities to come, we find ſuch Obligations upon our Conſciences, written naturally by the Finger of God in our Hearts, that we cannot behold the Honour of God to be impaired, the Works of his Hands, the Land of our Nativity, Your Excellency, this Army, our ſelves, or Poſterities, ready to be ſwallowed and devoured up in Confuſion, Thraldom and Ruin, and to ſit ſtill, and not ariſe in Strength of his Might, to contribute our beſt Endeavours for the Prevention thereof; for God hath given no Man a Talent to be wrapt up in a Napkin, and not improved; but the meaneſt Vaſſal in the Eyes of the Lord, is equally oblig'd and accountable to God with the greateſt Prince or Commander under the Sun, in and for the uſe of that Talent betruſted unto him: And therefore we preſume, that your Excellency (who do acknowledge your ſelf a Creature of, and Servant to the ſame God) will not think it ſtrange, or judge us diſobedient or refractory, that we ſhould, as we have preſumed, ſtate the Caſe of the Army, how declined from its firſt Principles of Safety, what Miſchiefs are threatned thereby, and what Remedies are ſuitable, for Prevention of which herewith we do humbly preſent and offer unto your Excellency: For, Sir, ſhould you, yea, ſhould the whole Parliament or Kingdom exempt us from this Service, or ſhould command our Silence and Forbearance, yet could not they nor you diſcharge us of our Duties to God, or to our own Natures; for we muſt be accountable, and Judgment will come for the Deeds done in our Fleſh, whether Good or Evil; and he that hath not improved and put forth his Talent to uſe, ſhall be bound Hand and Foot, and caſt into the Lake of eternal Vengeance: Therefore, whether God or Man in this Caſe muſt be obeyed, judge you: So that we are bold from our Senſe of your Excellencies Piety, Honeſty, and Uprightneſs to God, and to your Country, that in this our diſcharge of our Duties to both, we ſhall not incur your Diſpleaſure or Diſcountenance, but that you will freely commit us and the Iſſue of our Endeavours to God, and if it be of him it will ſtand; and from our Conſciences we atteſt and profeſs in the Preſence of this All-ſeeing Deity, as we deſire Safety in this Life, or in that which is to come, we have no other than cordial and faithful Intents and Reſolutions, to the undoubted Safety and Weal of our native Country, to the Parliament, your Excellency, and this Army, in this Buſineſs, repreſented in theſe encloſed Papers: And we utterly abhor and renounce all ſecret or private Signs or Intereſts under the ſame, together with all that is contrary to the plain and vulgar Senſe expreſſed in the Premiſſes thereof: And if by any one your Excellency ſhall be ſuborned, that we are Tranſgreſſors of all Order and Form, and in that Senſe only to look upon us, we deſire to mind* mind your Excellency, that the Law of Nature and Nations, atteſted in our publick Declarations and Papers, may be an Anſwer to ſuch for the Juſtification of our preſent Expedient; for all Forms are but as Shadows, and ſubject to the End; and the Safety of the People is above all Forms and Cuſtoms, &c. And the Equity of Popular Safety is the thing which juſtifieth all Forms, or the change of Forms, for the Accompliſhment thereof, and no Forms are lawful longer than they preſerve or accompliſh the the ſame.

If our Duty bind us when we ſee our Neighbour's Houſe on fire, to wave all Forms, Ceremonies, or Complements forthwith (not waiting for order or leave) to attempt the quenching thereof, without further ſcruple, as thereunto called of God, we ſay, if we be ſo obliged and called in the Caſe of a particular, then much more are we obliged and called, when we behold the great Manſion-Houſe of this Commonwealth, and of this Army (wherein all the Families of the Nation are contained) on fire, all ready to be devoured with Slavery, Confuſion and Ruin, and their National native Freedom (the Price of their Treaſure and Blood) wreſted out of their Hands, as at this preſent appeareth to our beſt Underſtandings. And therefore in this Exigency and Streight of Extremity, we, from the very Dictates of Divinity, Nature, and Reaſon ingraven in our Hearts, could not otherwiſe chuſe, with Quiet and Peace to our Conſciences (which no mortal Man can take from us, or ſuppreſs the over-powering Motives thereof) but conſider with our ſelves what we ſhould do to award thoſe threatning Miſchiefs from this Nation and Army; and to that end we find nothing more effectual than to knit our ſelves together with this fixed Reſolution, to part with our Lives, and all that is near and dear unto us, before we part with our Freedoms: And in relation thereunto, we the Agents to five Regiments of your Horſe, have, after our weak manner, in this our Repreſentation directed to our reſpective Regiments, and to the whole Army, diſcharged our Duties; and we preſume we have not erred from the equitable Senſe of our Solemn Engagement, or from the juſt Maxims and Matters contained in our Declarations, Remonſtrances, &c. from the which we are reſolved not to recede. Thus humbly craving your Excellencies favourable Conſtruction in our innocent Intentions and Endeavours, we (as we always have been) cordially remain.

Hempſtead, Octob. 15. 1647.

Signed by the Agitators, for Lieutenant-General, Commiſſary-General, Colonel Fleetwood's, Colonel Rich's, and Colonel Whaley's Regiments.

The General Council of the Army debated the Papers of the Agitators of 5 Regiments called The Caſe of the Army.

The General Council of the Army we underſtand met again at Putney yeſterday, and the General with them: at this Council there was a great Debate concerning the Papers preſented to the General from the Agitators of the five Regiments of Horſe, and ſince printed.

This Debate diſcovered ſo much Reſolution and Integrity in the General and Officers, that it produced ſeveral Votes; and it is believed ſome of thoſe Officers who were chief Actors in this Buſineſs will be made exemplary. A Major and three others are ſent for.

The particular Reſults of the General Council were as followeth:

A Committee of Officers to conſider of the Paper entitul'd The Caſe of the Army.

Fifthly, That the reſpective Regiments of Horſe may be cleared from thoſe Troopers that have been liſted ſince the Army's marching through the City, and an Order to iſſue from the General to that purpoſe; that ſo there may be a way made for thoſe of the Train as Conductors, &c. that are to be reduced; and when thoſe are diſpoſed of, others that have left their Charge in other Parts to joyn Iſſue with the Army, may be provided for; but thoſe that are to be laid aſide are to have the Benefit of one Months Pay, and there to be diſcharged.

And this in ſhort was the Sum of that Days Work at the General Council.

The Committee to read over the Paper, and repreſent what is truly ſtated or falſely ſuggeſted. What good thing and what evil.

This Friday the Committee appointed by the General Council of the Army yeſterday, met, and reſolved upon the firſt Head referred to them, That thereof the Members of that Commmittee ſhould read over the Paper mentioned, and repreſent to their Conſideration what they found truly ſtated therein, or what falſely ſuggeſted; what good things they find offered therein, and what otherwiſe; as alſo what evil Intentions they find couched in any Paſſage of the ſaid Papers, and what may be ſaid to clear Miſtakes, or diſcover ſuch Intentions.

Upon the ſecond Head,

Compoſitions.

Reſolved that it be repreſented to the next General Council, That this Committee doth conceive that this is not like to be effectual for the End therein expreſſed, to propound the Courſe therein offered to the Parliament, unleſs withal there may be offered ſomething for the ſetting down of more moderate Rates for Compoſition than in the late Propoſitions of both Kingdoms.

Commiſſioners of Scotland.

A Letter was this 23*d* of October read in the Houſe of Commons from the Commiſſioners of Scotland reſiding here, whereby they gave the Houſe to underſtand, that a Command was laid upon them to attend his Majeſty. Some Debate was had of this Letter, &c. and the Commiſſioners, viz. the Lord Lowden, newly come from Scotland, Lord Lannerick and the reſt, yeſterday went from London to Hampton-Court to his Majeſty. We cannot at preſent ſay any thing as to the Tranſaction of this Buſineſs.

The

Advance of Monies for a Months Pay for the Army.

The main Buſineſs of this Day was concerning the Advance of Monies for ſending a Months Pay to the Army; and ordered, that whereas the Sum of 150000 l. is charged upon the Receipts of the Grand Exciſe by Ordinance of Parliament, dated in the Month of May laſt, for the Payment and disbanding of the Army. That the Committee of the Eaſtern Aſſociation do lend the Army 20000 l. to be repaid 'em.

They likewiſe paſſed a ſecond Order, That whereas the Sum of 20000 l. is charged upon the Receipts of the Grand Exciſe, and is to be paid in ſhort time to the Eaſtern Aſſociation, It was ordered that the Committee of the Eaſtern Aſſociation do lend and advance to the Committee of the Army for the preſent the Sum of 20000 l. and that the Committee of the Army do confer with the Committee of the Eaſtern Aſſociation how to ſatisfie and re-pay the ſaid 20000 l. out of the Aſſeſſments of the reſpective Counties of the ſaid Eaſtern Aſſociation.

The Propoſition concerning the Court of Wards, was ordered to be reported this Day; but by reaſon of other great Occaſions of providing Monies for the Army, it was referred till Monday next.

Tithes of Dean and Chapters Lands to maintain preaching Miniſters.

Some further Debate was had in proſecution of the Propoſitions concerning Religion; and it was voted, That the Tithes belonging to Deans and Chapters ſhall be imploy'd towards the Maintenance of a preaching Miniſtry.

The Houſe then alſo ordered that Mr. Bridges of Yarmouth be deſired to preach before the Houſe of Commons the fifth of November next.

Upon Munday October 25. the Commons further proceeded in the Buſineſs of the Propoſitions to be ſent to the King, and further debated about the Pay of the Arrears to the Soldiery of the Kingdom, and voted, that (beſides what was voted the laſt Week) they ſhall be paid out of two parts of three of the Lands of Delinquents, comprehended in the three firſt Qualifications; and that in order to this, his Majeſty be deſired to paſs an Act for ſecuring the Arrears of the Soldiery of the Kingdom, who have ſerved under the Parliament to be paid out of the Remainders of Biſhops Lands, all the Foreſt-Lands in England, and out of the Eſtates of thoſe in the three firſt Qualifications as aforeſaid.

Out of Delinquents Lands, Biſhops, and Foreſt-Lands.

Court of Wards.

They then alſo debated a further Propoſition concerning the Court of Wards, and voted that his Majeſty be deſired to paſs an Act for nulling the Court of Wards; and that 20000 l. per Annum be allowed in lieu thereof.

That the Parliament name all chief Officers and Deputy-Governours in Ireland.

They paſſed alſo another Propoſition to ſend to the King, That both Houſes of Parliament ſhall nominate all Deputies, Governours, and Chief Officers in the Kingdom of Ireland.

The like Power as to England.

And the like power to be given to both Houſes for appointing all the chief Officers in this Kingdom.

Edenburgh, October 15.

Scots deſign to keep up their Army till March next.

THE Committee of Eſtates being frequently met to take into conſideration the diſbanding of the Army preſently within the Kingdom, according to a former Act of the Committee of the eleventh of September laſt: And conſidering the Dangers at this time imminent to Religion, his Majeſty's Perſon and Authority, the Union betwixt the Kingdoms, and Peace of this Kingdom, which were fully repreſented to them in the Remonſtrance of the Commiſſioners of the General Aſſembly in the Letters from their Commiſſioners at London, and in the Informations ſent hither from ſeveral Places of the Kingdom: And having at length debated thereupon, do find it neceſſary in regard thereof, that the Army be kept up till the meeting of Parliament in March next to come: And we therefore remit and refer the Conſideration of the diſbanding the Army till that Meeting. And in the mean time, that the Burthen of the Entertainment of the Army do not appear greater than really it is, the Committee of Eſtates have thought fit to make known to all his Majeſty's good Subjects, That this Day the Lord-General, the Lieutenants-General, and General Majors, to teſtifie the willingneſs of the Army to eaſe the Kingdom as much as can be, Have for themſelves, in the Name of the whole Officers and Soldiers under their Command, and contained in the Eſtabliſhment of the Army, freely quit and diſcharged to the Kingdom the Proportion of their Pay underwritten, from the tenth of October inſtant, to the tenth of March next to come; (viz.) the Foot-Soldier quits daily Twelvepence Scots; the Trooper, Two Shillings Scots; the Dragoons, proportionably; and the Officers above a Lieutenant, quits the third Part of their Pay; which Offer the Committee hath accepted, and with that Deduction ordains the Army be entertained from the ſaid tenth of October, till the ſaid tenth Day of March next, according to the Rule of Maintenance; the Accompts whereof are to come in to the General Commiſſary as formerly; and the Retention of the Annual Rents to be proportionable to the Maintenance. And whereas by the aforeſaid Act of the eleventh of September, the Shires were ordained to advance preſently new Three Months Maintenance. The Committee, in regard of the Courſe taken by this Act, diſcharged the Advance of the ſaid Three Months Maintenance, and all Execution to paſs for Payment thereof.

And Ordains theſe Preſents to be printed and publiſhed at the Market Croſſes of the ſeveral Boroughs of the Kingdom, and to be ſent to the Committees of War of the Shires, that none pretend Ignorance thereof.

Arch. Primroſe.

Of the Proceedings in the North, and the Forces there, by Letters from York came as followeth:

Intelligence from the Forces in the North, Octob. 23.

Soldiers puniſhed.

AS the News with you is barren, ſuch is it here in theſe Parts: Our Motions are according to your great Wheels: Our greateſt Buſineſs is to ſtudy equality in quartering the Forces, that we may prevent Oppreſſion as much as may be, and of a heavy Burthen make it as light as we can; and yet Murmurings are not wanting, notwithſtanding the Forces are as equally as can be diſtributed into the whole Aſſociation. Three Soldiers of Captain Tod's Company were ſentenced at the laſt Council of War at Knaisborough to run the Gantlop, and further Puniſhment for plundering, Some Soldiers of Captain Forby's Company, that were ſecretly enticed to aſſiſt Mr. Marbenfield to get the Title of Biſhopsmounckton into his Poſſeſſion, were tryed the laſt Council in regard they fell upon ſome Countrymen, and beat and wounded them at the Inſtigation of the ſaid Mr. Marbenfield; each Soldier was ordered for the preſent to pay a Fortnight's Pay towards the Satisfaction of the Perſons beaten and wounded, and had any Goods taken from them; and the further Tryal of the Soldiers put off till next Council. The Commander in Chief had ſome Conference with ſome Juſtices of the Peace about the Buſineſs, being a Caſe wherein the Civil and Military Authority were both concerned; and the Concluſion was, That the General would be pleaſed to take care to puniſh the Soldier for his medling in ſuch an unlawful Act (which will be done;) and that they would ſee the Breach of Peace by Mr. Benfield alſo puniſhed, ſo that there is a good Correſpondency kept between both the Authorities. The Commander in Chief having appointed a proportionable number of Forces to be quartered in the City, according to Quality, though at firſt they ſeemed unwilling, yet the Gentry of the Country, and ſome of the City, having met this Day about that and other Buſineſſes with the Major-General, it is agreed, and they are willing to bear their juſt Proportion with the reſt; and a good Correſpondency is between all.

York Octob. 23. 1647.

Tonnage and Poundage.

The Commons ſpent much time this 26*th* Day of October, in a Grand Committee about the Ordinance for Tonnage and Poundage.

Propoſitions to the King. To be finiſhed and ſent away to the K. within ten Days.

This Day alſo the Commons finiſhed the Propoſitions to be ſent to the King, and ordered, That the ſeveral Heads (which formerly we have mentioned) be drawn into Propoſitions to ſend to the King, and the ſame to be diſpatched and ſent away within Ten Days, and the Lords Concurrence to be deſired, and the Scotch Commiſſioners alſo to be made acquainted therewith, and their Concurrence deſired.

Conference between Lords and Commons about the Propoſitions,

And upon this Buſineſs a Conference was had with both Houſes, whereat the Commons delivered back the Papers ſent down by the Lords, containing Sixteen Heads of the Propoſitions to ſend to the King, with the Amendments of the Houſe of Commons upon them. And to thoſe Sixteen the Commons added Four more; to which they likewiſe deſired their Lordſhips Concurrence, (viz.)

' Firſt, For taking away the Court of Wards.

' Secondly, For Payment of the Soldiers Arrears.

Thirdly,

An. 1647.

‘ Thirdly, For reſtoring ſuch Gentlemen to their Places, who have ‘ been diſplaced for adhering to the Parliament. And, ‘ Fourthly, For Deans and Chapters Lands to be diſpoſed of as ſhall ‘ be agreed on by both Houſes of Parliament.

The Lords ordered to take this Buſineſs into Conſideration on Thurſday following; and the Lords to be ſummoned to meet in a full Houſe about the ſame.

The Lead of the Steeple at Worceſter taken off.

The Commons ordered, That the Lead that covers the Steeple at Worceſter ſhould be taken off and diſpoſed of; and that an Ordinance be brought in for that purpoſe.

A Member of the Houſe, that had accidentally been in a viſited Houſe, had leave to be abſent, and his 20 l. excuſed.

From the North we had further this Day the Copy of a Petition to both the Houſes of Parliament, about electing an Univerſity for the better Benefit of the Northern Parts of the Kingdom at York. The Petition, for better ſatisfaction, is as followeth.

To the Honourable the Lords and Commons Aſſembled in Parliament.

The Humble Petition of the Inhabitants of the County and City of York, and of the Northern Parts of the Kingdom of England,

Sheweth,

Petition to lay a Foundation for an Univerſity in York, and Means to be allowed to maintain the ſame.

THE earneſt and humble Deſires of the ſaid Petitioners, that by the Juſtice, Wiſdom and Favour of this High and Honourable Court, there may be Liberty granted, and ſome Means allowed and appointed for laying a Foundation of an Univerſity, College, or Colleges within the City of York, for the Education of Scholars in Arts, Tongues, and all other Learning that may render them fit for the diſcharge of their Miniſteriel Function in the Church of God, to the Glory and Honour, and the Advantage of theſe and other Parts of the Kingdom. In which Deſire (that your Petitioners may not ſeem raſh or unreaſonable) they offer theſe enſuing Conſiderattons.

Firſt, That howſoever the Kingdom enjoys the Benefit and Bleſſing of Two moſt Famous Univerſities; which as they are ſo, we ſtill hope they ſhall continue the Glory of Europe: Yet we humbly conceive that they are not commenſurate to the Largeneſs and Neceſſity of the Kingdom, which appeareth by the deplorable want of a Learned and Faithful Miniſtry in very many Congregations, which (for want of Scholars, or choice of Schools) are betrayed to the Ignorance of illiterate Men, through whom the ſad Proverb is fulfilled upon us; The Blind lead the Blind, and both fall into the Ditch.

Secondly, As we the Inhabitants of the Northern Parts of the Kingdom, find our Share in this common Want and Calamity to be very great; inſomuch that we have been looked upon as rude and barbarous People, in reſpect of thoſe Parts, which by reaſon of their Vicinity to the Univerſities, have more fully partaked of their Light and Influence; ſo we cannot but be importunate in this Requeſt. In which, if we may prevail, we hope it will be a ſpecial Means of waſhing from us the ſtain of Rudeneſs and Incivility, and rendring of us (to the Honour of God and this Kingdom) not ſo much inferiour to others in Religion and Converſation.

Thirdly, We humbly declare, That many of us, who would gladly offer up our Children to the Service of the Church of God in the Work of the Miniſtry, and ſhould hope to accompliſh our Deſires of a cheaper, and more convenient venient way of Education (in point of diſtance) were allowed us, cannot fulfil our Wiſhes in that behalf, in regard of the diſtance and dearneſs of the Southern Univerſities, whoſe Charge we are by continual Impoveriſhment rendred daily more unable to bear.

Fourthly, We cannot but apprehend it very neceſſary, not only to the Good of theſe Parts, but to the Peace and Happineſs of the whole Kingdom, that all poſſible Care be had of reforming the Northern Parts, now abounding with Popery, Superſtition, and Prophaneneſs, the Fruits of Ignorance, that they may not remain a Seminary or Nunnery of Men, fit to be Inſtruments of any irreligious and unreaſonable Deſign, for the overthrow of Religion and Liberty; which Reformation cannot be expected without a learned and painful Miniſtry, which we almoſt deſpair of, being ſupplied from the South, whither we ſend many Scholars, but find Veſtigia pauca retrorſum, and thoſe (for the moſt part) ſuch as others have refuſed.

Fifthly, We humbly repreſent York as the fitteſt Place for ſuch a Work, in regard of its healthful Situation, cheapneſs of Victuals and Fewel; which however by the late and preſent Preſſures upon the Country, now grown dearer, we hope ſhall recover the former Rate and Plenty (if God ſhall vouchſafe us the Bleſſing of Peace) ſome good degree of Civility, the convenient diſtance of it from the other Univerſities, and the Borders of the Kingdom, the advantage of a Library, which is there already, and convenient Buildings for ſuch a Uſe.

Upon theſe Conſiderations your Petitioners humbly deſire, That the Foundation of ſo good and neceſſary a Work, though the Revenues of the Archbiſhoprick, Dean, Dean and Chapters, be diſpoſed of for other Publick Uſes, this High and Honourable Court would be pleaſed to allow and appoint that place which is commonly called the Bredon, now a College of Vicars-coral, and Singing-men, with the Maintenance belonging to that Corporation; as alſo what other Revenues they in their Favour and Wiſdom ſhall think moſt fit. And we doubt not but (by the Bleſſing of God, the Diligence and Bounty of Men well affected to Religion and Learning) this Work may be brought to ſuch Perfection, as may tend very much to the Honour of God, the Happineſs and Advantage, not only of thoſe Northern Parts, but the whole Kingdom.

Letters from Dublin this Day tell of ſeveral good Succeſſes lately by Colonel Jones.

A large Account of Col. Jones's March againſt the Enemy, and of the Caſtles, Cows, &c. taken.

He went from Dublin October 2. with 3600 Foot, 1000 Horſe, and Seven Pieces of Ordnance, by the way of Trim; near to which Place met him Three Troops, and 500 Foot under Colonel Coote; marching by Port Leſter the ſixth, they took Caſtle Richard, put Captain Martin into it with 190 Foot; after he took Caſtle Denour, and the Rebels quit Maygate Caſtle. This Day Colonel Monk's Forces joined, who in all made 2200 Horſe, and 5500 Foot: Then they went before Port Leſter, which had in it choice Men, put by Owen Roe, with aſſurance of Relief. This Caſtle being look'd upon as a Bulwark, it was ſummoned, but refuſing, it was battered until a great part fell down with ſome Soldiers; the reſt at ſight leap'd into the River, which rounded two ſides, Woods the other, and ſwam away; all found were put to the Sword, they denying to yield until battered. The eighth they took and burnt the Caſtle Ballietoger, with many others, and then came before Athboy, a ſtrong Town within five Miles of Trim to the North-weſt; which place was well fortified, having ſix Caſtles or Towers, alſo the Church fortified, and might well have held out a Siege of two Months; but the Reſolution of ſome were ſuch, as not ſtaying for Command, charged the Guard, entred the Town with ſuch Courage, that the Town was taken in two Hours, having in it 500 fighting Men: Colonel Bailey is made Governour, his Regiment put into it, and Colonel Pudſonby's Horſe to buſie the Enemy with continual Alarms, in caſe the Army withdraw.

As for Owen Roe, the Rebels General, he appears not; and ſome that are taken, ſay, he cannot get his Men to engage, becauſe he hath no Money; and our Army intends as long as poſſibly they can get by any way to make Spoil of what is theirs, in all Places where they come. 2000 Cows were brought in by Sir Thomas Armſtrong to the Camp; and what is kill'd of it, care will be had to ſalt and dreſs it well: And for other more healthful Proviſions, Colonel Monk brought a Months with him; and like Care was taken from Dublin.

The monthly Faſt day.

Oct. 27. was the monthly Faſt-Day: There preach'd before the Houſe at Margaret's Weſtminſter, Mr. Herle, and Mr. Sterril. The Houſe after Sermon met, and gave the Miniſters Thanks, and ordered their Sermons to be printed.

The Commons ordered that on Wedneſday next the Houſe do conſider of the Ordinance for ſetting poor People on work.

That on Friday next the Houſe conſider of the Ordinance againſt hainous Sins and Blaſphemies.

The Lords ſpent much time this 28th Day of Octob. upon the Propoſition as ſent from the Commons.

Truſtees for Sale of Biſhops Lands preſent Obſtructions in the Sale.

The Houſe was inform'd that divers of the Truſtees for the Sale of Biſhops Lands were at the Door, had ſomething to preſent to the Houſe: They were called in, and preſented a Petition with a Paper of Obſtructions in the Sale of Biſhops Lands, which they deſired the Houſe to take into ſpeedy Conſideration, it being of great Importance to the Kingdom: The Houſe hereupon fell into Debate hereof; and at laſt ordered to refer this Petition and the Obſtructions annex'd, to a particular Committee, which was named for this purpoſe.

The Truſtees were called, and the Houſe acquainted them with what they had done in their Buſineſs.

Several Impeachments againſt 7 Lords.

Several and particular Impeachments were this Day brought unto the Houſe of Commons, and read, againſt the ſeven Lords that are impeached and in Cuſtody, which were aſſented unto, and ordered to be ſent to the Houſe of Lords.

Likewiſe againſt Sir John Maynard.

An Impeachment likewiſe againſt Sir John Maynard was read and aſſented unto.

Col. Midhop committed to the Tower.

The Houſe was inform'd that Colonel Midhop, one that was very active in the Buſineſs of the City againſt this Army, was in Town and apprehended; they thereupon ordered that the ſaid Colonel Midhop ſhould be committed to the Tower and impeach'd of High-Treaſon.

Captain Penroſe.

The Houſe ordered upon a Report this Day made, that Captain Penroſe ſhould be Captain of the Ship Hector for this Winter Guard.

King's Children to go to the King.

A Meſſage this Day came from the Houſe of Peers to acquaint the Houſe that the King's Children intended to go to his Majeſty, and to ſtay with him till Monday next; and that the Earl of Northumberland did deſire he might have always Leave to acquaint both Houſes of Parliament with their going.

The Ordinance ſent from the Lords for this purpoſe was read and aſſented unto.

More Papers from the diſſenting Agitators to clear their Undertakings.

The diſſenting Agitators of the Army of the five Regiments put forth ſome further Papers this Day to clear their Undertakings in the Propoſals to the General and General Council the laſt Week: And as for clearing of that Jealouſie that this Undertaking of theirs is only a Deſign to divide the Army, the ſaid Agitators give this Anſwer for themſelves and declare as follows.

As for that unworthy Scandal, that we intend to divide the Army, We do profeſs that we abhor Thoughts of any ſuch Deſign. We beſeech you conſider, Is it to divide the Army to perſwade them all, and uſe our utmoſt Endeavours to unite them, in inſiſting upon the firſt Principles whereupon we all engaged? Shall it be counted a Deſign to divide, to endeavour ſuch a ſpeedy Settlement of what we have declared that the Deſigns of the Common Enemy to divide us, and perſwade us to deſert the publick Intereſt might be prevented? Believe it (Gentlemen) to perſwade you to ſit ſtill while you want Pay, and the People their Rights, is to nouriſh Diſcontentments in the Army and the People, and to divide betwixt the People and the Army, and one Part of the Army for another, : Doth not Experience witneſs that while you ſit ſtill, Diſtractions increaſe daily; ſome blame one, ſome another; there are Seeds of Diviſion daily ſown; and hath not the King his Agents in all our Quarters to kindle and blow up the Coals of Heart-burnings and Diviſions? We queſtion not but the All-ſeeing God will bear witneſs to the Simplicity of our Intentions.

Upon Friday, October 29. The Houſe ſpent the whole time in a Grand Committee about the Ordinance for Tunnage and Poundage.

Alderman Warner ſworn Lord Mayor.

This Day the new Lord Mayor of London, Alderman Warner was again ſworn at Weſtminſter according to Cuſtom, for the Year enſuing, the Term of the old Lord Mayor expiring this Day.

Debate of the Papers from the Agitators.

From Putney we underſtand that the General Council of the Army met again, as appointed, on Thurſday, and ſate very cloſe from Morning until Night, but the General ſate not with them, being not well, and at Turnham-Green. The Buſineſs of the Day was to be upon the further Debate of the Papers from the Agitators of the five Regiments, and this they firſt inſiſted upon; but upon this Debate, ſome other things fell in, and were moved to the General Council, which occaſioned a very high Debate; but the Particulars are not thought fit to be mentioned until the further Senſe of the General Council be known concerning the ſame.

And to that purpoſe the General Council appointed further to meet again this Friday, as a Committee, to adviſe and conſult on the Matter; and on Saturday they ſit in a Council of War.

Prince Elector.

Oct. 30. A Report was made of the Obſtructions of receiving the 8000 l. per Annum allowed to the Prince Elector, and a Propoſition made for having the ſame out of the two Thirds of Papiſts Eſtates; and it was thereupon ordered, that the ſaid Propoſition be referred to a Committee choſen for that purpoſe.

Arrears of the Army.

Letters from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax to the Houſe of Commons concerning the Arrears of the Army, were to have been read this Day; but by reaſon of other Buſineſs, deferred till Munday next.

Princeſs Elizabeth eldeſt Daughter to the Queen of Bohemia.

The Report concerning Princeſs Elizabeth, eldeſt Princeſs to the Queen of Bohemia was alſo to have been made this Day, but put off till Friday next.

Propoſitions for the King.

A Meſſage was ſent from the Lords to the Houſe of Commons, deſiring thereby that the Houſe would agree to a free Conference concerning the Propoſitions to be ſent to his Majeſty.

The Commons accordingly met the Lords at this Conference, and afterwards a Report was made to the Houſe of the Conference, the Sum whereof was, That their Lordſhips had agreed to all the Propoſitions ſent up unto them from the Houſe of Commons, but three, viz.

To that concerning Delinquents, giving Reaſons for the ſame; the ſecond concerning the Arrears of the Soldiery, which they had returned with one Amendment; and the third concerning Religion.

The Houſe took into debate their Lordſhips Exceptions and Alterations to theſe three Propoſitions, and voted, Firſt, To agree to the Propoſitions concerning Religion as it went firſt from that Houſe.

Secondly, To the Propoſition concerning the Arrears of the Soldiery.

Thirdly, And to the Propoſitions concerning Delinquents as it alſo paſs'd the Commons.

A Committee was hereupon appointed to conſider of theſe Alterations, and to prepare Reaſons to ſatisfie their Lordſhips why the Houſe of Commons adhere to their Votes as they were ſent up from that Houſe, and to deſire their Lordſhips concurrence.

CHAP. XX.

Munday, Novemb. 1. 1647.

The Care of Providing Neceſſaries for the Soldiers in Ireland referred to a a Committee.

THE Houſe of Commons this Day took into debate the Buſineſs of Ireland, and the ſending of Clothes and other Proviſions thither; and ordered that an Eſtimate ſhould be drawn up and preſented to the Houſe, of all the Shooes, Stockins, Cloaths and Proviſion that is neceſſary to be ſent thither; and this was referred to the Committee of Ireland.

An Addition was then made to this Committee, and ordered to ſit conſtantly, and take ſpecial care for the ſpeedy bringing in the Arrears of Ireland.

Lilburn's Committee.

The Houſe appointed many Members of the Houſe to be added to the Committee concerning Lieutenant-Colonel John Lilburn's Buſineſs.

Comittee of Accompts. Officers Charges to be defrayed.

They ordered, that the Officers belonging to the Committee of Accompts ſhall have their Charge defrayed, and paid them out of the firſt Monies that came into the Committee.

Information of a Deſign to raiſe Forces.

An Information was this day given to the Houſe of Commons of an Endeavour of ſome Men to procure Hands to an Engagement for raiſing of Forces againſt the King, and Parliament, and Army, which was referred to the Conſideration and Examination of a Committee.

Col. Monk to execute martial Law.

An Ordinance paſs'd, giving power to Colonel Monk to execute Martial Law.

Conference about the Propoſitions to be ſent to his Majeſty.

Both the Houſes this Day had a Conference about the Propoſitions to be ſent to his Majeſty; the Commons gave Reaſons for paſſing the three Propoſitions formerly mentioned, without Alteration; their Lordſhips conſidered of the Reaſons, and they concurred in the moſt part; and to what the Lords diſſented in, the Commons afterwards concurred; and the Matter or Heads of all the ſaid Propoſitions were ordered to be referred to a Committee of Lords and Commons to draw into Form, and will be finiſhed by the end of this Week to ſend to his Majeſty.

The Commons ſent a Meſſage to the Lords to deſire their Lordſhips Concurrence for Colonel Hammond Governour of Wight Iſland to be added to the Committee thereof; and act as one of the Committee upon the former Ordinances, in which their Lordſhips concurred.

Col. Hammond added to the Committee for the Iſle of Wight.

General Lambert gone into Craven.

Letters from York this Week give to underſtand that M. G. Lambert was gone thence to Craven, but the Head Quarters continue at York; Col. Collingwood's Regiment hath received the Monies promiſed by the Committee, and are marching into the North Riding; Capt. Barwick's are to move from thence back to York; the City to have none elſe; three Troops of Major Smithſon's are to march out of the Eaſt Riding into the County of Nottingham, and all proportionably eaſed; Major Sanderſon and Capt. Lilburn's Troop are in Northumberland, and preſerve the Country; Maj. Sanderſon hath gotten poſſeſſion of Twiſdale-Caſtle, and placed a Guard in it; at their Approach the old Thieves fled by Night, and quitted it Oct. 23. Major Sanderſon ſent into the Dale to apprehend the moſt notorious; ſix were taken of the arch Ones then, and ten before; divers of the Moſs-Troops are fled into Scotland, others bound for Ireland.

Letters from Edinburgh give to underſtand that the Committee of Eſtates have ſentenc'd and beheaded the Laird of Harthill the 26th paſt at the Croſs at Edinburgh, one who was very active in the Rebellion in the North: The Day before he was beheaded, an Inſtrument was brought from the King's Majeſty for his Pardon and Relaxation; the Magiſtrates of the City ſeemed to make ſome ſcruple; but after Conference with ſome of the Committee of Eſtates, there being neither Preſident nor a full Number, they proceeded to execution; and he was beheaded without the Company of a Miniſter, in regard he refuſed to petition a Relaxation from their Excommunication: He died very boldly, made a Speech to the People, ſhewing much affection to his Majeſty; after he threw two Papers among the People, which mention ſtrangely new Troubles in England.

The Laird Harthill executed at Edinburgh.

We had from the Head-Quarters of the Army this day a further Paper of Propoſals from the Agitators of the five Regiments, and the Agitators of four other Regiments of Horſe, and ſeven Regiments of Foot joining with them. The Paper, for better ſatisfaction, is as folows:

Agitators Propoſals from 4 Regiments of Horſe, and 7 of Foot as followeth.

Having by our late Labours and Hazards made it appear to the World at how high a Rate we value our juſt Freedom; and God having ſo far owned our Cauſe as to deliver the Enemies thereof into our Hands, we do now hold our ſelves bound in mutual Duty to each other, to take the beſt care we can for the future, to avoid both the Danger of returning into a ſlaviſh Condition, and the chargeable Remedy of another War: for it cannot be imagin'd that ſo many of our Country-men would have oppoſed us in this Quarrel, if they had underſtood their own good: So may we ſafely promiſe to our ſelves, that when our common Rights and Liberties ſhall be cleared, their Endeavours will be diſappointed that ſeek to make themſelves our Maſters: Since therefore our former Oppreſſions, and ſcarce yet ended Troubles have been occaſioned, either by want of frequent National Meetings in Council, or by rendring thoſe Meetings ineffectual, we are fully agreed and reſolved to provide that hereafter our Repreſentatives be neither left to an Uncertainty for the time, nor made uſeleſs to the Ends for which they were intended: In order whereunto, we declare,

1. That the People of England being at this day very unequally diſtributed by Counties, Cities and Burroughs, for election of their Deputies in Parliament, ought to be more indifferently proportioned, according to the Number of the Inhabitants; the Circumſtances whereof, for Number, Place and Manner, are to be ſet down before the End of this preſent Parliament.

2. That, to prevent the many Inconveniences apparently ariſing from the long continuance of the ſame Perſons in Authority, this Parliament to be diſſolved upon the laſt Day of September, which ſhall be in the Year of our Lord 1648.

3. That the People do of courſe chuſe themſelves a Parliament once in two Years, viz. upon the firſt Thurſday in every ſecond March, after the manner as ſhall be preſcribed before this preſent Parliament end, to begin to ſit upon the firſt Thurſday in April following at Weſtminſter, or ſuch other place as ſhall be appointed from time to time by the preceeding Repreſentatives, and to continue till the laſt Day of September then next enſuing, and no longer.

4. That the Power of this, and all future Repreſentatives of this Nation, is inferiour only to theirs who chuſe them, and extend, without the Conſent or Concurrence of any other Perſon or Perſons, to the enacting, altering, and repealing of Laws, to the erecting and aboliſhing of Offices and Courts, to the appointing, removing, and calling to account Magiſtrates and Officers of all Degrees, to the making War and Peace, to the treating with Foreign States, and generally, to whatſoever is not expreſly, or impliedly reſerved by the Repreſentatives to themſelves; which are as followeth:

1. That Matters of Religion, and the Ways of God's Worſhip, are not at all intruſted by us to any Human Power, becauſe therein we cannot admit or exceed a Tittle of what our Conſciences dictate to be the Mind of God, without wilful Sin: Nevertheleſs, the publick way of inſtructing the Nation, ſo it be not Compulſive, is referred to their Diſcretion.

2. That the Matter of impreſting and conſtraining any of us to ſerve in the Wars, is againſt our Freedom, and therefore we do not allow it in our Repreſentatives; the rather, becauſe Money, the Sinews of War, being always at their diſpoſal, they can never want numbers of Men apt enough to engage in any juſt Cauſe.

3. That after the Diſſolution of this preſent Parliament, no Perſon to be at any time queſtioned for any thing ſaid or done, in reference to the late Publick Differences, otherwiſe than in execution of the Judgments of the preſent Repreſentatives or Houſe of Commons.

4. That in all Laws made, or to be made, every Perſon may be bound alike, and that Tenure, Eſtates, Charter, Degree, Birth, or Place, do not confer any Exception from the ordinary Courſe of Legal Proceedings, whereunto others are ſubjected.

5. That as the Laws ought to be equal, ſo they muſt be good, and not evidently deſtructive to the Safety and Well-being of the People.

Theſe Things we declare to be our native Rights, and therefore are agreed and reſolved to maintain them with our utmoſt Poſſibilities, againſt all Oppoſition whatſoever; being compelled thereunto, not only by the Examples of our Anceſtors, whoſe Blood was often ſpent in vain for the recovery of their Freedoms, ſuffering themſelves, through fraudulent Accommodations, to be ſtill deluded of the Fruit of their Victory, but alſo by our own woful Experience, having long expected, and dearly earned the Eſtabliſhment of thoſe certain Rules of Government, are yet made to depend for the Settlement of our Peace and Freedom, upon him that intended our Bondage, and brought a cruel War upon us.

Signed by the Agitators of Nine Regiments of Horſe, and Seven of Foot.

Debate about raiſing Money for the Army.

Tueſday, November 2. The Houſe was all this Day in a Grand Committee, conſidering how to advance Money for the Payment of the Army, that there may be no free Quarter in the Kingdom; and little other Buſineſs was done in the Houſe.

Letter from the L. Inchequin concerning the Soldiers Wants.

The Committee of the Admiralty, received Letters from the Lord Inchiquin from Munſter, their Lordſhips have, according to order, ſent over Colonel Sterling, who is preparing towards his Journey; and that by reaſon of the Winter Seaſon, their Soldiers cannot march to do that Service which they would, had they Clothes, Hoſe and Shooes, which they exceedingly want.

Committee to take care of preſerving Papers and Records.

Laſtly, That as for the Parliament, there is an Act of Indempnity, ſo for the King's Party, there may be a general Act of Oblivion to extend to all but the (Seven) Perſons under Exception.

A Hint given of ill Intentions, and private Diſcourſe forbidden.

This Day, being Friday, November 5. was ſolemnly obſerved in Commemoration of the great Deliverance of Gunpowder-Treaſon. After Sermon the Houſe ſate, and a Letter was read concerning Colonel Midhop, Major Sterling, and Major Marſhall, Priſoners, that there are many dangerous Men come daily to them, and have private Diſcourſe with them, and ſome hint given of an ill Intention of them: The Houſe ordered, that the ſaid Colonel Midhop, and the reſt have no private recourſe to them, nor any admitted to tamper with them.

King's Negative Voice.

Then the Houſe debated concerning the King's Negative Voice in Parliament, and had much debate, and referred the Senſe of the Houſe thereupon to a Committee.

The General Council of the Army ſat this Day at Putney, and the General with them, and had much debate of the Heads of the Propoſals before-mentioned. They ſat alſo again about the ſame on Saturday, but have not yet finiſhed them.

The Commiſſioners of Scotland for a Perſonal Treaty with the King.

Upon Saturday, November 6. The Commiſſioners of Scotland reſiding here, ſent a Letter the laſt Night to the Houſes about the King, and for a Perſonal Treaty with his Majeſty; which Letter was read, but nothing yet done upon it: For better Satisfaction we will give you the Letter.

For the Honourable William Lenthal Eſq; Speaker of the Houſe of Commons.

Their Letter to the Parliament to that purpoſe.

SIR;

‘Upon the removal of his Majeſty from Holdenby againſt his Will by a Party of the Army under Sir Thomas Fairfax, we expreſſed our Senſe, and the Reſentment of the Kingdom of Scotland of that violent Action: So the Committee of Eſtates of the Parliament of Scotland, finding that his Majeſty is ſtill kept under within the Power of that Army, thought themſelves bound to know certainly of his Condition; for which purpoſe we applied our ſelves to his Majeſty, that from himſelf we might know the Truth thereof; who was pleaſed to ſhew us his Uſage ever ſince he came from Newcaſtle; but for his preſent Condition he really profeſſeth he cannot but refer us to know it from the Two Houſes of Parliament, and the Army.

‘Both Houſes, by many Profeſſions and Engagements, have declared to the Kingdom of Scotland, that they would take care of the Preſervation of his Perſon, his juſt Power and Greatneſs, which both Kingdoms have ſworn not to diminiſh; and the Parliament of Scotland, upon the King's going to

'Holdenby, did declare againſt all Harm, Prejudice, Injury, or Violence to be done to his Royal Perſon. Therefore in purſuance of the truſt committed to us, we make this Addreſs to the Honourable Houſes, conceiving it needleſs to apply our ſelves to the Army, who we ſuppoſe are and ought to be under their Command, deſiring to know the certainty of his Majeſty's Condition, and the rather, for that we are informed there are Intentions in the Army for removing him from Hampton-Court.

'The Kingdom of Scotland finding that their Stability and Happineſs doth ſo much depend upon the Safety and Preſervation of his Majeſty's Royal Perſon; and being reſolved that no Alteration of Affairs ſhall ever ſeparate them from the Duty and Allegiance they owe unto his Majeſty, nor from their conſtant Reſolution to live in all Loyalty under his Government, have often ſhewn their earneſt Deſires, and contributed their utmoſt Endeavours towards the Compoſure of theſe unhappy Differences: And the Houſe of Parliament having by their Votes of the 26th of October laſt, intimated unto us their Reſolution to apply themſelves to his Majeſty, and that they are preparing Propoſitions to be tendred to him; we deſire that they may be expedited and communicated to us, that according to our many Engagements and Relation, there may ſtill be a Conjunction of Councils in thoſe things that are for the Common Peace, and Joint Intereſt of both Kingdoms.

'And for the aſſiſting them for clearing of his Majeſty's Doubts, and for clearing and giving mutual Satisfaction, we do deſire in the Name of the Kingdom of Scotland, that there may be a Perſonal Treaty with his Majeſty, as the beſt and readieſt Means to obtain the joint Deſires of both Kingdoms; and for that effect, that the King might be invited to come to London, with that Honor, Freedom and Reſpect due to his Majeſty; or at leaſt remain at Hampton-Court, and not to be under the Power and Reſtraint of the Soldiers, where both Kingdoms may make their free Applications to him without any Danger of ſuch Stop or Affront as hath been already committed againſt a Commiſſioner of Scotland; and for which no Reparation hath been yet made, and that his Majeſty be no more carried about at their Pleaſure.

'Theſe we conceive to be the moſt probable and effectual Means for attaining a happy Peace, and ſetling of Religion, reſtoring his Majeſty to his Juſt Rights, and continuing and ſtrengthning a good Underſtanding betwixt theſe Kingdoms, which are moſt earneſtly deſired by the Kingdom of Scotland; and ſhall be conſtantly and faithfully endeavoured by,

Debate to ſettle for future a conſtant Pay for the Army.

Upon Monday, November 8. The Houſe of Commons ſpent much time in a Grand Committee, to ſettle a Courſe for the future conſtant Pay to the Army; and they had many things in Conſideration before them to this purpoſe: And this was one then agreed on, That Commiſſioners ſhall be choſen for every County, to receive the Accompts of the Sub-Committees for Sequeſtrations, that a juſt Accompt may be given of thoſe Moneys; and that Members of the Houſe are to bring in the Names of able ſufficient Men for each County to be Commiſſioners.

A Conference about a ſpeedy diſpatch of the Propoſitions for a Peace.

Papiſts.

A Meſſage was ſent up to the Lords to deſire a ſpeedy Concurrence for diſpatch of the Propoſitions to the King: To which the Lords concurred, and met preſently; and they were delivered to their Lordſhips, as paſſed by the Commons Houſe. Thoſe added are, 1. 'For the due Obſervance of the Lord's-Day. 2. Againſt Innovations in Religion. 3. For an Oath or Conviction of Papiſts, different from that of Abjuration, but for diſcovery of that, and for that end. 4. For Education of the Children of Papiſts in the Proteſtant Religion. 5. Againſt Pluralities.

Royal Aſſent.

Likewiſe the Preface to the whole, is to perſwade with his Majeſty for the Royal Aſſent, declaring, that his Majeſty ought not to deny to paſs what is preſented from the Two Houſes of Parliament. The Lords concurred in them all, with ſome ſmall Amendments.

 Reſolved by the General and Council of Officers, in regard of the danger of divers Principles in the Army, and many Diſtempers ariſing, that there ſhall be a Rendevoz. And all Officers and Agitators to reſort to their ſeveral Commands.*

The General Council was again holden at Putney this Day, the General preſent. After much Debate concerning the danger of their Principles, who ſought to divide the Army, and divers Particulars in the Agreement of the People taken notice of, it was reſolved, * That in regard the General ſhortly intended a Rendevouz of the Army; and foraſmuch as many Diſtempers were reported to be in the ſeveral Regiments, whereby much Diſſatisfaction was given both to the Parliament and Kingdom, through ſome Miſrepreſentations; to the end a right Underſtanding might be had, and the Soldiers quieted, in order to their Obedience to his Excellency for the Service of the Parliament and Kingdom, it was thought fit to deſire his Excellency, That for a time the ſaid Officers and Agitators ſhall reſort to their ſeveral Commands and Regiments, to the ends aforeſaid, there to reſide until the ſaid Rendevouz be over, and until his Excellency ſhall ſee Cauſe to call them together again according to the Engagement; and which was done accordingly.

Of Col. Jones's Succeſs in Ireland.

'Several Relations we have had of the good Succeſs of Colonel 'Jones, Governour of Dublin, againſt the Iriſh Rebels; and indeed 'they have been ſingularly eminent: But ſince others have mentioned 'the ſame ſo largely, we need ſay the leſs, and will paſs it over with 'one ſhort Letter, but an effectual one, from Dublin, as follows:

The taking 'in of theſe Places is of a very great Concernment to this Army; and now a 'great part of it are quartered in many of theſe Garriſons, which will keep our 'Soldiers in Action, and be a continual Annoyance unto the Enemy: As alſo 'the Enemy cannot lie long before any Place, if he would dare to beſiege any 'of them, becauſe he will want Proviſions. Thus taking leave, I ſubſcribe my 'ſelf, Tueſday, November 9. A Letter was this Day in the Houſe of Commons, from his Excellency Sir Tho. Fairfax; and it was as followeth:

BEing very much troubled at the ſad Diſtractions of the Kingdom for want of Pay, and ſuch other neceſſary Satisfaction as we have long waited upon; for not taking it much Pleaſure to ſay whence the Cauſe of all this Trouble comes, as to uſe my Endeavour to give a timely and effectual Remedy to ſo much thereof as is of neareſt Concernment to me, I thought fit to let you know, that by the Advice of the General Council of the Army, I have appointed a Rendevouz very ſpeedily; and they have very unanimouſly offered to repair to their ſeveral Charges, and improve to their utmoſt Endeavours with theſe ſeveral Regiments, for the quieting of them, and recovering of the ancient Diſcipline of the Army, thereby to render it more ſerviceable to the Parliament and Kingdom. And to the end your Expectations, and the Deſires of all good Men may be anſwered by a good Iſſue in this Work of ſuch Concernment to the Kingdom, I think fit, by the ſame Advice, to offer uto you theſe Particulars incloſed, beſeeching you, That if more weighty Buſineſs of the Kingdom do not lett, you would bring them to a ſpeedy Determination; that ſo your Care of the Army may appear, and my ſelf and my Officers be thereby enabled to let the Soldiers ſee we take ſuch Conſideration of them as becomes us, and have engaged our ſelves unto: And I doubt not, but thereby we ſhall be enabled to let you ſee, that this Army will appear, as it hath ever profeſt, to be really ſeeking the Good of this Kingdom, and approving it ſelf faithful in your Service; which hath been, and ever ſhall be, the Deſire of,

A Paper by way of Petition, was this Day brought to the Houſe of Commons; and it was from the Agents of the Party who drew up the Caſe of the Army, thus directed; To the Honourable the Supream Authority of this Nation; with a printed Paper incloſed, of the Caſe of the Army; which they deſired the Houſe would conſider of.

A Paper from the Agents that drew up the Caſe of the Army.

After the Houſe read and debated the ſame, they voted, That the Matter contained in theſe Papers are deſtructive to the Priviledges of Parliament, and the Fundamental Government of this Kingdom.

An Explanation of the Paper of the Army, dated* Nov. 5. ſent to the Parliament; wherein the Intention of the Army was miſtaken by ſome.

The General Council again met at Putney. The chief Work of the Day was about the appointing of a Committee to take into Conſideration the Engagements, Declarations, and Papers of the Army, and upon them to collect a Summary of thoſe things that concern the Good of the Kingdom, to the Liberties of the People, and the Intereſt of the Army: And further, to conſider the Caſe of the Army ſtated, and a Paper commonly called, The Agreement of the People; and to conſider how far any thing contained in the ſame were conſiſtent with the ſaid Engagements, and Declarations, and Intereſt aforeſaid.

This Summary, ſo concluded by the major part of the Committee, to be repreſented to the General for his Order to communicate the ſame to the ſeveral Regiments at their reſpective Rendevouz.

The Council then made an Explanation of the late Paper ſent to the Parliament; That if any by that Letter bearing Date November 5. did make any Conſtruction, as if they intended that they were againſt the Parliaments ſending Propoſitions to the King, they did declare, That it was no part of their Intentions in the ſaid Letter, but that the ſame is utterly a Miſtake of their Intention and Meaning therein, which was only to aſſert the Freedom of Parliament.

This Explanation was occaſioned by reaſon of ſome Diſſatisfactions of, and Exceptions made by divers worthy Members of that Council to the aforeſaid Letter, and hoping thereby to clear up their Intentions to the World, that the ſaid Letter was no Violation of their Engagements, or contradictory to their Declarations.

A Letter to this purpoſe came now from Scotland.

Intelligence from Scotland, dated Nov. 2. 1647. * Concerning the new Application to be made to the K. with Propoſitions.

I Have received none from you this Week; I fear miſcarriage; I never omitted to write to you by the weekly Packets. All Buſineſs is dull here; the Committee met but twice a Week, and ſometimes no Quorum; which prevented the Sentence of Death, which was expected ſhould have been paſſed on a proper Gentleman, one Gorden Laird of Newton, the laſt Friday. I find a Reſervedneſs in thoſe who before have been ſomewhat free: The Votes communicated to the Scotch Commiſſioners October 16. * concerning the new Application to be made to the King, raiſing ſome diſſatisfaction here, as being in a way more different and dividing than the former; and ſome Apprehenſions are taken in, leſt you ſhould have wrought the King to a Compliance with you, the rather becauſe the Commiſſioners thought they had not ſuch Reception as they expected, in the laſt delivering to him a Paper much to the ſame Effect; if not, beſide the ſtrained Preface, in totidem verbis, the ſame with the Inſtructions, whereof I ſent you a Copy formerly; yet the Royal Party ſeem leſs ſollicitous, and by ſome Words that fell from the Earl of Lindſey, I apprehended he was well pleaſed with ſomething he had received from Lanrick; in which, if I am not miſtaken, there was ſomething from the Queen, the laſt Faſt; the Cauſes whereof I ſent you in print, October 26. produces Railings and Reproaches, enough to burthen the Thoughts of any honeſt Chriſtian, though not an Engliſhman. The Clergy of both Parties are equally invective againſt the Parliament and Army in the Neighbour-Land; and under the pretence of the prevalency of the evil Spirit of Error, endeavour to render them and their Proceedings moſt odious to this People, who are apt to believe any thing of News or Story that the Prieſts ſay. Unleſs I would enlarge upon this Subject, I have nothing elſe; the Place, and Time, and preſent Affairs afford no more: 'Tis time therefore, had I no other Cauſe, and the intercepting of my Letter, to make my Retreat; which within four or five Days I will begin towards you: If Providence in the mean time caſt any thing of Conſequence, you ſhall by Words or Writing receive an Account thereof from,

Fearing the Army hath wrought the K. to a Compliance with them.

The Clergy in Scotland's invective againſt the Parliament and Army in England, to render their Proceedings odious.

The fifth part of all Delinquents Eſtates to be allowed to their Wives and Children.

The Houſe upon Thurſday, November 11. took into Debate who ſhould have the Benefit of the Ordinance of Sequeſtrations for their fifth Parts, and declared hereupon, That the Wives and Children of all ſuch Delinquents as are ſequeſtred, without Exception, ſhall have the fifth part of the ſaid Eſtates ſequeſtred; and the Committee of Lords and Commons for Sequeſtration, the Committee of Sequeſtrations, the Committee of plundered Miniſters, and all other Committees in the ſeveral Counties of the Kingdom, are to take a ſtrict Courſe that all ſuch may have their fifth Parts allowed them when deſired.

Wounded and maim'd Soldiers in Hoſpitals.

A Petition was read in the Houſe in the Name of the poor wounded Soldiers of the Savoy-Hoſpital.

Another Petition was read in the Name of 1000 poor maimed Soldiers, that are in the ſeveral Hoſpitals of London, complaining of their great Neceſſity, for want of Means they are even ready to ſtarve; both which were referred to a Committee; who were ordered to find out a way to ſend them down to their ſeveral Countries from whence they came; and the Committees to be enjoyned to make Proviſion for their reſpective Counties.

Dean and Chapters Lands not to be engaged to pay Soldiers Arrears.

The Houſe then debated the Deſires of the Army; and the Queſtion being put, Whether Deans, Deans and Chapters Lands, except Glebes, Tythes, Impropriations, and Preſentations, Charitable Uſes and Augmentations allowed by the Committee of plundered Miniſters, ſhould be given in Security to the Army and Soldiery of the Kingdom for their Arrears; and it paſſed in the Negative Vote.

Intelligence frome the North concerning the Moſs-Troopers: Some taken, others fled into Scotland.

By Letters from the North, dated November 8. we had further, thus: 'The laſt of September Major Sanderſon's Troop marched over the Waſ-moors, and got to Newcaſtle by break of Day the next Morning, where Captain Lilburne's Troop met them; but they were both diſappointed of their Expectation; for the very Night before Major Cholmley's Troop had been there, and gotten ten of the Thieves, which they thought to have had; and he gave them ſuch an Alarum, that they fled towards the Borders of Scotland: Therefore Major Sanderſon, with his own Troop, marched through the Dale to Liddelſide, to catch ſome, if poſſible. Captain Lilburne's Troop hath lighted upon very foul Moſſes, and tiring many Horſes could go no further; and after they had marched ſeven Miles, divided his Troop into three parts; they fell ſeverally into Liddelſide; the Rogues had Scouts upon the Hills, having ſcarcely overcome the Fright that Major Cholmley put them in. Our Men rode cloſe in with the Scouts; yet the Rogues got to Horſe from their ſeveral Haunts, ſome leaving their Saddles, Boots, Swords and Piſtols for haſte, which were Prizes for our Soldiers, and many of themſelves hardly eſcaped, though they were within three Bow-ſhots of Scotland. Our Men knew not the Fords of the River. When they got into Scotland, they vapoured, and drew a Party of twenty Horſe together: But the Major would not without Order or Inſtruction march with his Troop thither, leſt Exceptions ſhould be taken from thence; but marched to Eaſt-Northerly, &c. ſeven Miles ‘up along the Border of Scotland, ſearching the Thieves Neſts for Arms, which they found; and the Major thought to have quartered that Night at Lanton, but found it very inconvenient and unſafe; and therefore marched eight Miles more into the Country, within four Miles of Carliſle. The Thieves had ſtollen ſixty Sheep four Miles from Carliſle, and drove them all Night, and were gotten within a Mile of Scotland, when they eſpied our Men by the River betwixt them and Scotland; which made them thruſt the Sheep into an Houſe in Liddelſide, where they were found by thoſe that followed the Tread, before our Men marched thence; ſo there was a ſeaſonable Interpoſition to ſave them: And upon the Troops return they took two of the Thieves Receptors, and carried them to Hexham-Gaol, which is almoſt filled with theſe Birds of Prey.

News of his Majeſty's eſcape from Hampton Court, Nov. 11. Thurſday.

This Night came the unexpected News of his Majeſty' Eſcape from Hampton-Court. About nine of the Clock, the Officers who attended him, wondring he came not forth of his Chamber to Supper, where he had been writing moſt part of the Night before, went in, and miſt him within half an Hour after his departure.

Poſts are ſent into all Parts of the Kingdom to diſcover and ſtay him. It is not known which way he went.

A Letter from L. G. Cromwell of his Majeſty's eſcape from Hampton Court.

A Letter upon Friday, November 12. was read in the Houſe of Commons, from Lieutenant-General Cromwell at twelve a Clock at Night, directed to the Speaker, acquainting him, ‘That his Majeſty had withdrawn himſelf from Hampton-Court at nine the laſt Night: The manner is variouſly reported, and we will ſay little of it at at preſent, but that his Majeſty was expected at Supper when the Commiſſioners and Colonel Whaley miſs'd him: Upon which they entred the Room, and found his Majeſty had left his Cloak behim in the Gallery in the private way: He paſſed by the Back-Stairs and Vault towards the Water-ſide. He left ſome Letters upon the Table in his Withdrawing-Room of his own Hand-writing; whereof one was to the Commiſſioners of Parliament attending him, to be communicated to both Houſes; and followeth in theſe Words:

Hampton-Court, November 11. 1647.

His Majeſty's Letter at his departure from Hampton-Court.

Liberty being that which in all times hath been, but eſpecially now is, the Condition, the Aim and Deſire of all Men, common Reaſon ſhews, that Kings, leſs than any, ſhould endure Captivity; yet I call God to witneſs, with what Patience I have endured a tedious Reſtraint; which ſo long as I had any hopes that this ſort of my Suffering might conduce to the Peace of my Kingdoms, or the hindring of more Effuſion of Blood, I did willingly undergo; but now finding, by too certain Proofs, that this my continued Patience would not only turn to my Perſonal Ruin, but likewiſe be of much more Prejudice than furtherance to the Publick Good, I thought I was bound, as well by Natural as Political Obligations, to ſeek my Safety, by retiring my ſelf for ſome time from the Publick View, both of my Friends and Enemies. And I appeal to all indifferent Men to judge, if I have not juſt Cauſe to free my ſelf from the Hands of thoſe who change their Principles with their Condition, and who are not aſhamed openly to intend the Deſtruction of the Nobility, by taking away their Negative Voice, and with whom the Levellers Doctrine is rather countenanced than puniſhed: And as for their Intentions to my Perſon, their changing and putting more ſtrict Guards upon me, with the diſcharging moſt of all thoſe Servants of mine, who formerly they willingly admitted to wait upon me, do ſufficiently declare. Nor would I have this my Retirement miſſ-interpreted; for I ſhall earneſtly and unceſſantly endeavour the ſetling of a ſafe and well-grounded Peace where-ever I am, or ſhall be, and that (as much as may be) without the Effuſion of more Chriſtian Blood: For which how many times have I deſired, preſs'd to the Head, and yet no Care given to me? And can any reaſonable Man think that, according to the ordinary Courſe of Affairs, there can be a ſetled Peace without it, or that God will bleſs thoſe, who refuſe to hear their own King? ſurely no. Nay, I muſt further add, that, beſides what concerns my Self, unleſs all other chief Intereſts have not only a Hearing, but likewiſe juſt Satisfaction given unto them, to wit, the Presbyterians, Independants, Army, thoſe who have adhered to me, and even the Scots, I ſay, they cannot; I ſpeak not of Miracles, it being in my Opinion a ſinful Preſumption in ſuch Caſes to expect or truſt to them, but by a ſafe and laſting Peace. Now, as I cannot deny, but that my Perſonal Security is the urgent Cauſe of this my Retirement, ſo I take God to witneſs, that the Publick Peace is no leſs before my Eyes; and I can find no better way to expreſs this my Profeſſion, I know not what a wiſer Man may do, than by deſiring and urging, that all Chief Intereſt may be heard, to the end each may have juſt Satisfaction. As for Example; the Army, for the reſt, though neceſſary, yet I ſuppoſe are not difficult to conſent ought, in my Judgment, to enjoy the Liberty of their Conſciences, and have an Act of Oblivion or Indempnity, which ſhould extend to the reſt of my Subjects; and that all their Arrears ſhould be ſpeedily and duly paid; which I will undertake to do, ſo I may be heard, and that I be not hindred from uſing ſuch Lawful Honeſt Means as I ſhall chooſe. To conclude: Let me be heard with Freedom, Honour and Safety, and I ſhall inſtantly break through this Cloud of Retiremement, and ſhall ſhew my ſelf ready to be Pater Patriæ.

Order to ſearch for Perſons ſuſpected to be privy to his Majeſty's withdrawing.

Information was alſo given to the Houſe, that many that had relation and acceſs to his Majeſty were privy to this Deſign, and conſequently had Knowledge of his Majeſty's withdrawing himſelf from Hampton-Court. The Houſe hereupon ordered, That Sir Ed. Ford, Sir John Barkley, Mr. Aſhburnham and Doctor Goff, ſhould be ſent for in ſafe Cuſtody.

They alſo ordered, That the Committee of the Admiralty ſhould ſend Poſt to the ſeveral Poſts, Harbours, and Creeks, as the General had alſo done, to make ſtop of all that ſhould paſs for a certain time, and eſpecially his Majeſty's Perſon, if he ſhould come; and likewiſe of all his Attendance that come with him, notwithſtanding any Paſs whatſoever that his Majeſty or any other hath to to be tranſported.

It was likewiſe ordered, That it ſhould be referred to the Rear-Admiral of the Seas, to ſearch all Ships and Boats for his Majeſty's Perſon, and to apprehend all Perſons that attend upon him.

Committee appointed to receive Information concerning the ſame.

A Member of the Houſe of Commons gave ſome Information this Day to the Houſe of Commons concerning his Majeſty's being in or near London; which took up much time in Debate; and at laſt a Committee was appointed to receive the Information of the ſaid Member, and to report the Buſineſs to morrow.

The

Carol. I.

The manner of his Majeſty's eſcape reported. Commiſſioners attending his Majeſty, Thanks for their Fidelity.

The Commiſſioners attending his Majeſty made a Report this Day of the manner of his Majeſty's Eſcape from Hampton-Court, to their great Amazement; whereby nothing could reflect upon them.

The Houſe hereupon ordered, That the Speaker of the Houſe ſhould give the Commiſſioners attending upon his Majeſty, the Thanks of the Houſe for their Fidelity in the tranſacting of that which both Houſes had intruſted them with in relation to his Majeſty.

The Speaker, according to the Order of the Houſe, the Commiſſioners being preſent, gave them the Thanks of the Houſe accordingly.

Committee of the Revenue to take care of thoſe attending his Majeſty.

The Houſe then debated the Buſineſs concerning the Debts of thoſe that had relation to his Majeſty, and had run themſelves into by reaſon of want of their Pay: And the Houſe thereupon ordered, That the Committe attending his Majeſty ſhould take ſpecial Care for diſcharging the ſaid Debts, and that the Committee of the Revenue ſhould enable them with Money to that purpoſe.

Saturday, November 13.

The General's Letter concerning his Majeſty's Eſcape.

A Letter this Day came from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, dated yeſterday, to both Houſes of Parliament, concerning the King's Eſcape; which followeth:

SIR;

THis Morning Colonel Whaley hath been with me, and given me an Account, as far as yet he underſtandeth, of all Circumſtances appearing about the King's going away; all which, the Commiſſioners, of both Houſes, as he ſaith, do know as fully as he; and therefore they being, as he foretelleth me, gone to acquaint the Houſe therewith, I forbear for this Day to command his Attendance of the Houſe; eſpecially in regard that there is yet ſome need of the continuance of his Guard and Care to Hampton Court, for the ſafe keeping of thoſe whom he hath ſecured, to be examined concerning the King's Eſcape; about whom I deſire the Houſe would take ſome Order what ſhall be done with them, for the Examination of them, or otherwiſe. I ſhall to morrow go to Ware, according to former Reſolution, to Rendevouz the Army, and ſhall be there until Monday towards Night to receive your Command.

Putney, Nov. 12. 1647.

Your very humble Servant,

T. Fairfax.

For the Honourable William Lenthall, Speaker of the Houſe of Commons.

Order againſt private detaining his Majeſty's Perſon.

The Houſe hereupon debated concerning ſuch as detained the King's Perſon in ſecret; and to the end he might not be detained in whoſe Hands he is now in, the Houſe ordered, That it ſhould be Confiſcation of any Man's Eſtate, and loſs of his Life, to detain his Majeſty privately, and not to reveal him to both Houſes of Parliament.

20000 l. to be advanced for the Army.

The Houſe after paſſing of this Vote, ordered to ſit again in the Afternoon about the Advance of Money for the Army; and they ordered, That a Committee ſhould be appointed to treat with the Commiſſioners of Exciſe concerning the advance of the 20000 l. part of the 50000 l. formerly charged upon the Exciſe for the Army, and to report their Anſwer on Monday morning to the Houſe.

An. 1647.

A Months Pay to be ſpeedily ſent to them.

They then likewiſe ordered the Letters ſhould be ſent to the Committees of the ſeveral Counties, for advance of the Arrears of the Army, to the end a Months Pay may be ſpeedily ſent down to them.

Monday, November 15.

This Day both Houſes received Letters from Colonel Hammond, Governour of the Iſle of Wight, giving to underſtand that his Majeſty was come to that Iſland, and had freely put himſelf under the Protection of Colonel Hammond. The Cauſe of his coming, manner of arrival, with other Circumſtances, you have fully in the Letter from Colonel Hammond as followeth.

Col. Hammond's Letter of his Majeſty's Arrival in the Iſle of Wight.

My Lord,

I Hold it my Duty to give your Lordſhip an Account of the King's unexpected coming into this Iſland, and of the manner of it; which was thus:

This Morning as I was on the way paſſing from Carisbrook Caſtle to Newport, Mr. Aſhburnham and Sir John Barkley overtook me; and, after a ſhort Diſcourſe, told me, That the King was near, and that he would be with me that Night; That he was come from Hampton-Court upon information that there were ſome intended to deſtroy his Perſon, and that he could not with ſafety continue any longer there; and that finding his Caſe thus, choſe rather to put himſelf in my Hands, being a Member of the Army; whom, he ſaith, he would not have left, could he have had ſecurity to his Perſon, than to go to any other Place. Being herewith exceedingly ſurprized at preſent, I knew not what Courſe to take: but upon ſerious Conſideration, weighed the great Concernment that the Perſon of the King is of, in this Juncture of Affairs, to the ſettlement of the Peace of the Kingdom, I reſolved it my Duty to the King, to the Parliament, and Kingdom, to uſe the utmoſt of my Endeavours to preſerve his Perſon from any ſuch horrid Attempt, and to bring him to a place of Safety; where he may alſo be in a Capacity of anſwering the Expectation of Parliament and Kingdom, in agreeing to ſuch things as may extend to the Settlement of thoſe great Diviſions and Diſtractions abounding in every Corner thereof. Hereupon I went immediately with them over the Water, taking Captain Basket, the Captain of Cows Caſtle, with me, and found the King near the Water-ſide: And finding my ſelf no way able to ſecure him there, I choſe, he deſiring it, to bring him over into this Iſland, where he now is.

My Lord, My Endeavours, as for my Life, ſhall be to preſerve and ſecure his Perſon. And I humbly deſire I may receive the Pleaſure of the Parliament in this great and weighty Matter; and that the Lord will direct your Counſels to his Glory and the Kingdom's Good and Peace, ſhall be my Prayer; and my Endeavour ſhall be ever to expreſs my ſelf in all things in my Power.

Cows, Nov.
13. 1647.

My Lord,

Your Lordſhip's, and the Kingdom's
moſt humble and faithful Servant,

Robert Hammond.

For the Right Honorable the Earl of Mancheſter, Speaker of the Houſe of Peers pro tempore.

There was alſo another Letter concerning the ſame Buſineſs from Captain Basket, Governour of Cows Caſtle.

And upon Debate of both theſe Letters, it was referred to a Committee of both Houſes further to conſider of the Buſineſs, and to draw up Inſtructions for Colonel Hammond about the diſpoſe of his Majeſty during his ſtay there.

Another from Capt. Basket concerning the ſame.

Both referr'd to a Committee.

Captain Rolph, that brought the Letter from Colonel Hammond, had 20 l. given him by the Commons: And he that brought Captain Basket's Letter, had 10 l. given him.

The Parties rewarded that brought the ſaid Letters.

Tueſday, November, 16.

This Day both Houſes received Letters from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, giving account of a Rendevouz of part of the Army yeſterday between Hartford and Ware; the Particulars as thus certified.

Rendevouz of the Army near Ware.

'Monday the 13th Inſtant, according to appointment, the Rendevouz of the firſt Brigade of the Army was held in Corkbuſh-field between Hartford and Ware, Hartford being the Head Quarters, Saturday and Sunday. The General went from thence to the Rendevouz; where, according ro order, there met, of Horſe, the General's Regiment, Colonel Fleetwood's, Colonel Rich's, and Colonel Twiſtleton's; of Foot, the General's, Colonel Hammond's, and Colonel Pride's: And beſides theſe, upon the Seducements of the new Agents, Colonel Harriſon's, and Colonel Lilburne's Regiments. The General expreſſed himſelf very gallantly at the Head of every Regiment, to live and die with them for thoſe Particulars which were contained in a Remonſtrance read to every Regiment; and notwithſtanding the Endeavours of Major Scot and others to animate the Soldiers to ſtand to a Paper, called, The Agreement of the People, they generally, by many Acclamations, declared their Affections and Reſolutions to adhere to the General; and as many as could in a ſhort time they had allowed, ſigned an Agreement drawn up for that purpoſe, concerning their being ready from time to time to obſerve ſuch Orders as they ſhould receive from the General and Council of the Army.

'But it may not be forgot, that upon the General's coming into the Field, Colonel Eyre, Major Scot, and others, were obſerved inſinuating divers ſeditious Principles unto the Soldiers, incenſing them againſt the General and General Officers; upon which Order was given for the Commitment of Colonel Eyre and others into the Marſhal's Hands, Major Scot committed to the Cuſtody of Lieutenant Chillende, and ſent up to the Parliament, he being a Member of the Houſe of Commons. Some inferiour Perſons were likewiſe committed for diſperſing factious Papers, as the Agreement of the People, &c. among the private Soldiers, and finding thoſe Perſons who pretend moſt for the freedom of the People, had diſperſed divers of thoſe Papers amongſt Col. Lilburne's Regiment of Foot, the moſt mutinous Regiment in the Army; ſtrict Command was given for them, to tear them, and caſt them away, which was done; and Captain-Lieutenant Bray, who was the only Officer above a Lieutenant left among them, the reſt being driven away by the mutinous Soldiers, and one of them wounded, was taken from the Head of that Regiment, and committed to Cuſtody; it being alledged, that he had led on the Soldiers to that Rendevoz, contrary to Orders. And afterwards, a Council of War being called in the Field, divers Mutineers, for Example-ſake, were drawn forth, three of them were tried and ‘condemned to Death; and one of them, whoſe turn it fell to by Lot, was ſhot to Death at the Head of the Regiment, and others are in hold to be tried.

‘Colonel Rainsborow and ſome others, preſented a Petition, and the Agreement of the People, to his Excellency at his firſt coming. Colonel Harriſon's Regiment, who had Papers in their Hats, with this Motto, England's Freedom, and Soldiers Rights, when they underſtood their Error, by the General's ſevere Reproof, of their ſo doing, tore them, and expreſſed their Reſolution to be obedient to his Excellency's Commands.

Others convinced of their Error ſubmit.

Another Rendevouz intended.

‘There is to be a further Rendevouz of the Army Wedneſday and Thurſday next about Windſor, and at Kingſton.

Conference had upon the General's Letter.

Both Houſes had a Conference upon the General's Letter; and the Lords recommended ſeveral Votes to the Commons for Concurrence: As, That a Letter of Thanks be ſent to the General; for which they named a Committee of Four: Alſo, That the late Proceedings in London and elſewhere, tending to the dividing the Army, and to ſo much Sedition, be examined.

That they will think of ſudden Pay for the Army alſo for the future; That they will cauſe a ſatisfactory way for Arrears to be declared, and make the Act of Indempnity full; That Major Scot might give an Account of his Doings, and that Colonel Rainsborough may not go to Sea until he have cleared himſelf.

5000 l. to be advanced for his Majeſty's preſent occaſion.

And it was further ordered, That 5000 l. be forthwith advanced by the Committee of the Revenue for his Majeſty's preſent Neceſſities and Accommodation; and that it be referred to a Committee to conſider of the manner of diſpoſing all Moneys iſſued out for his Majeſty's Uſe, to the end an Account may be given thereof.

That the King's Houſhold all be diſſolved, and that it be referred to a Committee to conſider of ſuch Perſons as ſhall attend on his Majeſty.

Col. Whaley challeng'd.

A Letter was read in the Houſe of Commons in the Nature of a Challenge from Mr. Murrey to Colonel Whaley; and the Houſe, after ſome Debate, ordered Mr. Murrey to be ſent for into Cuſtody.

Wedneſday, November 17.

Letters of Thanks and Inſtructions for Col. Hammond paſſed.

The Letter of Thanks to be ſent to Colonel Hammond was reported and paſſed; and the Inſtructions concerning his Majeſty paſſed both Houſes.

The Lords ſent a Meſſage to the Commons with a Liſt of ſuch Attendance as might attend his Majeſty in the Iſle of Wight, the Commons referred the Liſt to the Committee of the Revenue.

Sir Francis Willoughby 700 l.

They likewiſe recommended the Condition of Sir Francis Willoughby, a Gentleman of Quality and Reputation to the Houſe of Commons, who ordered, that the Sum of 700 l. ſhould be advanced unto him for the preſent, out of the Moiety of the Receipt at Goldſmiths-Hall.

Ordinance for the Poor to be read.

The Ordinance was ſent down from the Lords concerning the ſetting Poor and Vagrants on Work; which was ordered to be read on Saturday next.

The

Sheriffs nominated.

The Commons ſpent moſt part of the time of this Day in nominating Sheriffs for the ſeveral Counties of England and Wales: They ordered, That the Account of Sheriffs ſhould be paſt in the Exchequer without paying any Fees; and that the Committee formerly appointed for eaſing the Charge of Sheriffs, ſhould be revived, and the Charge of Sheriff to be defrayed by the Revenue, and to conſider how Sheriffs may be diſcharged of all old Engagements, and that the Committee do bring in an Ordinance to this purpoſe.

Thurſday, November 18.

This Day the Speaker of the Houſe of Peers received a Leeter from his Majeſty from the Iſle of Wight, to be communicated to both Houſes, &c. A further Account whereof you ſhall have in the next Days Proceedings.

There was alſo a ſecond Letter from Colonel Hammond to both Houſes concerning his Majeſty; which is as follows:

Another Letter from Colonel Hammond concerning the King.

My Lord;

Since my laſt, which gave your Lordſhip an Account of his Majeſty being in this Iſland, I have had a Meeting with the Gentry thereof, who expreſs a great deal of Chearfulneſs in their Deſires and Endeavours of preſerving his Majeſty's Perſon, and Obedience unthe Authority of Parliament.

I have alſo given Orders, which are diligently obſerved, that no Perſons go out of the Iſland without a Paſs; and that no Boat bring over any Perſon whatſoever, not belonging to this Iſland, but whom they cauſe to be brought to me to be examined, that I may thereby be the better able to preſerve the King's Perſon in Security, as alſo to prevent the Confluence of People that otherwiſe, upon the occaſion of his Majeſty's Preſence, would flock hither, to the diſturbance of the Peace of this Iſland; which at preſent, through the Bleſſing of God, is in a quiet and peaceable Poſture, having earneſt Expectation upon the continuance of their Peace, by a general Settlement of the Peace of the Kingdom; for Conveyance of which unto them, they look at your Lordſhips as the bleſſed Inſtruments.

My Lord, Give me leave to acquaint you, that the Accommodations of the King at this time, are no ways ſuitable to his Quality; which makes me bold to offer to your Lordſhips, if it be thought fit, that his uſual Allowance may be continued to him for his better Proviſion whilſt he ſhall abide in this Place.

I ſhall not further trouble your Lordſhip, than to aſſure you, that in all things in my Power, which may expreſs my Duty to you and the Kingdom, I ſhall ſtudy to declare my ſelf,

From the Caſtle of Carisbrook. Nov. 16. 1647.

Your Lordſhip's, and the Kingdom's

moſt humble and faithful Servant,

Robert Hammond.

There

Governour of Plimouth's Letter read. 10000 l. to be advanced for the ſaid Garriſon.

The Governour of Plymouth's Letter was this Day read in the Houſe, complaining of the great Neceſſity of that Garriſon.

The Houſe hereupon ordered the Sum of 10000 l. to be advanced and paid out of the Ordinance of 60000 l. per menſem, for the Army, which are collected in the ſaid County; and that this 10000 l. be imployed for reducing the ſaid Garriſon, and diſcharging the Supernumerary Forces therein, and for other things to the ſaid Garriſon.

Expences of his Majeſty's Houſhold referred to the Committee of the Revenue.

The Houſe had much Debate concerning the Expence of his Majeſty and his Houſhold; and upon the whole Debate it was ordered to be referred to the Committee of the Revenue to report the State of the King's Expences, what it will amount to above 50 l. per diem formerly ordered.

A Report was made to the Committee to whom the Mutiny at the laſt Rendevouz was referred, his Excellency's Letter to the Lords, the Paper in the Troopers Hats, of England's Rights and the Subjects Freedom.

Abettors of Sedition in the Army to be puniſhed.

The Houſe hereupon ordered, That a Committee ſhould be appointed to examine the Proceedings of the London Agents, which the ſaid Letter made mention of, and all other Abettors and Actors of ſuch ſeditious Proceedings, and how ſome Exemplary Juſtice may be done upon them.

Declaration to be drawn up concerning the ſame.

The Houſe likewiſe ordered that a Declaration ſhould be drawn up concerning this whole Buſineſs.

Another Rendevouz near Kingſton.

Thurſday, November 18. ‘Another Rendevouz of the Army was upon the Hare-Warren near Kingſton; there were preſent according to Order, the Lieutenant-General Commiſſary Ireton, and Colonel Whaley's Regiment of Horſe, Colonel Rainsborough's, Colonel Barkſteeds, Colonel Overton's, and Colonel Hewſon's of Foot, and the General's Life-guard; there appeared nothing of Diſcontentment, but a ready Agreement to his Excellency's Remonſtrance and Subjection to his Excellencies Commands.

To his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax Knight, General of all the Parliament's Forces within the Kingdom of England, and Dominion of Wales, The humble Repreſentation of the Officers and Soldiers in Colonel Sir Hardreſs Waller*'s Regiment.*

The Repreſentation of Sir Hardreſs Waller*'s Regiment preſented to the General.*

‘WE the Officers and Soldiers of the ſaid Regiment, humbly repreſent unto your Excellency, even with ſadneſs of Heart, our deep Senſe of imminent Ruin both to Army and Kingdom, threatned not only by the long-born Extremities of the one, and inſupportable Preſſures of the other, but alſo, by the diſmal appearance of Diſcontents, Diviſions, and Fractions amongſt our ſelves, accompanied with ſome diſorderly Actings, derogating from the Authority and Command of your Excellency, whereby the united Compoſure of this Army is ſomewhat disjointed, and the wholſome Rules of Diſcipline and Government dangerouſly declined: The which, if not timely remedied, will doubtleſs render this Army, which God hath often honoured with remarkable ‘Teſtimonies of his Preſence under the proſperous Conduct of your Excellency, no better than an headleſs confuſed Multitude; wherefore, ſenſibly apprehending the woful Effect of Diſunity and Diſorder, we preſume it abſolutely neceſſary out of Duty to God, due Reſpect to your Excellency, and tender regard to the Weal both of Army and Kingdom, to improve our utmoſt Endeavours to prevent the miſerable Conſequences which inevitably enſue Diviſions, and the monſtrous Confuſion which unavoidably attends Diſorder; and do hereby teſtifie, that as God hath made your Excellency the chief Head of this Army, whom, without Flattery, we honour and eſteem for Integrity, Fidelity, and Self-denial, ſo we acknowledge our ſelves obliged to ſubmit unto your Excellency's Commands; withal, profeſſing our hearty Deſires to preſerve the Band of Unity, and real Intentions to continue our accuſtomed Obedience: In which Reſolution we hope not to be ſingular, but to joy in the joint Concurrence of the whole Army, that ſo, our Hearts and Hands being firmly conjoined, as one Man, we may unanimouſly purſue thoſe juſt Ends of common Right, Freedom and Safety to the Kingdom, of Security and Satiſfaction to the Army, which we engaged for, inſiſted on, declared and remonſtrated to the People, and reſolved to perſiſt in the Proſecution of the ſame, to all honeſt and direct Means, without ſwerving from our firſt Principles; in tranſacting whereof, we reſt fully confident of your Excellency's Faithfulneſs and mutual Perſeverance with thoſe, who cordially intend the Publick Good. In order to which we humbly ſubſcribe our ſelves,

Your Excellency's faithful Servants for the Service of the Kingdom,

Hardreſs Waller Colonel, Edw. Salmon Lieutenant-Colonel, Thomas Smith Major:

And farther ſubſcribed by the reſt of the Officers and Soldiers of the Regiment Unanimouſly.

The other was from Colonel Lambert's Regiment, and much to this purpoſe.

Lieutenant-General Cromwell gives account of the Proceedings of the late Rendevouz.

Lieutenant-General Cromwell gave the Houſe an Account of the Proceeding of the late Rendevouz; and how by God's great Mercy, and the Endeavours of his Excellency, and Officers of the Army, the Army was in a very good Condition, and Obedience to his Excellency and the Superior Officers of the Army, and ſubmiſſive to the Authority of Parliament.

The Houſe returns him Thanks for his good Service.

The Houſe ordered to give Lieutenant-General Cromwell Thanks for his good Service at the Rendevouz on Tueſday laſt. Mr. Speaker accordingly gave him the Thanks of the Houſe.

The Houſe ordered, That Thanks ſhould be given to all the Officers of the Army that were Active in ſuppreſſing the mutinous Actings.

A Meſſage was ſent to the Houſe of Lords, for deſiring their Lordſhips to appoint a Committe to go with the Propoſitions to his Majeſty on Monday next.

The Houſe ready to receive and anſwer Addreſſes from the Army.

They ordered, That Lieutenant-General Cromwell ſhould be deſired to declare to his Excellency, That the Houſe of Commons will be at all times ready to receive and give ſuch Anſwer as is fitting in a Parliamentary way, to ſuch humble Addreſſes as ſhall be made from the Army to the Houſes by his Excellency.

We told you of another Letter from his Majeſty about a Perſonal Treaty; which Letter was this Day read in the Houſe of Commons, but nothing done upon it. For better Satisfaction we will give you the Letter it ſelf.

A Letter from his Majeſty about a perſonal Treaty.

CHARLES REX.

HIS Majeſty is confident, that before this time, his Two Houſes of Parliament have received the Meſſage which he left behind him at Hampton-Court the eleventh of this Month; by which they will have underſtood the Reaſons which inforced him to go from thence; as likewiſe his conſtant Endeavours for the ſetling of a ſafe and well grounded Peace whereſoever he ſhould be; and being now in a place, where he conceives himſelf to be at much more Freedom and Security than formerly, he thinks it neceſſary, not only for making good of his own Profeſſions, but alſo for the ſpeedy procuring of a Peace in theſe languiſhing and diſtreſs'd Kingdoms, at this time to offer ſuch Grounds to his Two Houſes for that effect, which upon due examination of all Intereſt, may beſt conduce thereunto.

And becauſe Religion is the beſt and chiefeſt Foundation of Peace, his Majeſty will begin with that Particular.

That for the aboliſhing Archbiſhops, Biſhops, &c. his Majeſty clearly profeſſeth that he cannot give his conſent thereunto, both in relation as he is a Chriſtian, and a King; for the firſt he avows, that he is ſatisfied in his Judgment, that this Order was placed in the Church by the Apoſtles themſelves, and ever ſince their time hath continued in all Chriſtian Churches throughout the World, untill this laſt Century of Years; and in this Church in all times of Change and Reformation it hath been upheld by the Wiſdom of his Anceſtors, as the great preſerver of Doctrine, Diſcipline, and Order in the Service of God. As a King at his Coronation, he hath not only taken a Solemn Oath to maintain this Order, but his Majeſty and his Predeceſſors in their Confirmations of the great Charter, have inſeparably woven the Right of the Church into the Liberty of the Subjects; and yet he is willing it be provided, that the

the particular Biſhops perform their ſeveral Duties of their Callings, both by their Perſonal Reſidence and frequent Preaching, in their perſonal Exerciſe, no Act of Juriſdiction or Ordination, without the Conſent of their Presbyters, and will conſent, that their Powers in all things be ſo limited, that they be not grievous to the tender Conſciences of others. He ſees no reaſon why he alone, and thoſe of his Judgment ſhould be preſſed to a Violation of theirs: Nor can his Majeſty conſent to the Alienation of Church-Lands; becauſe it cannot be denied to be a Sin of the higheſt Sacrilege; as alſo that it ſubverts the Intentions of ſo many pious Donors, who have laid a heavy Curſe upon all ſuch prophane Violations, which his Majeſty is very unwilling to undergo: And beſides the Matter of Conſequence, his Majeſty believes it to be a Prejudice to the Publick Good, many of his Subjects having the Benefit of renewing Leaſes at much eaſier Rates than if thoſe Poſſeſſions were in the Hands of private Men, not omitting the Diſcouragement it will be to all Learning and Induſtry, when ſuch eminent Rewards ſhall be taken away, which now lie open to the Children of meanneſt Perſons. Yet his Majeſty conſidering the great preſent Diſtempers concerning Church-Diſcipline, and that the Presbyterian Government is now in practice, his Majeſty, to eſchew Confuſion as much as may be, and for the Satiſfaction of his Two Houſes, is content that the ſame Government be legally permitted to ſtand in the ſame Condition it now is for Three Years; provided that his Majeſty and thoſe of his Judgment, or any other who cannot in Conſcience ſubmit thereunto, be not obliged to comply with the Presbyterial Government, but have free Practice of our own Profeſſion, without receiving any Prejudice thereby; and that a free Conſultation and Debate be had with the Divines of Weſtminſter, Twenty of his Majeſty's Nomination being added unto them; whereby it may be determined by his Majeſty and the Two Houſes, how the Church-Government after the ſaid time ſhall be ſetled, or ſooner, if Differences may be agreed, as is moſt agreeable to the Word of God, with full Liberty to all thoſe who ſhall differ upon Conſcientious Grounds from that Settlement; always provided, that nothing aforeſaid be underſtood to tolerate thoſe of the Popiſh Profeſſion, nor exempting any Popiſh Recuſant from the Penalties of the Laws; or to tolerate the Publick Profeſſion of Atheiſm or Blaſphemy, contrary to the Doctrine of the Apoſtles, Nicene and Athanaſian Creeds, they having been received by, and had in Reverence of all the Chriſtian Churches, and more particularly by this of England, ever ſince the Reformation.

Next the Militia being that Right, which is inſeparably, and undoubtedly inherent to the Crown by the Laws of this Nation, and that which former Parliaments, as likewiſe this, have acknowledged ſo to be, his Majeſty cannot ſo much wrong that Truſt, which the Laws of God and this Land hath annexed to the Crown, for the Protection and Security of his People, as to diveſt himſelf and Succeſſors of the Power of the Sword; yet to give an infallible Evidence of his Deſire to ſecure the Performance of ſuch Agreements as ſhall be made in order to a Peace, his Majeſty will conſent to an Act of Parliament, that the whole Power of the Militia both by Sea and Land, for and during his whole Reign, ſhall be ordered and diſpoſed by the Two Houſes of Parliament, or by ſuch Perſons as they ſhall appoint, with Powers limited for ſuppreſſing of Forces within this Kingdom, to the diſturbance of the publick Peace, and againſt Foreign Invaſion; and that they ſhall have Power during his ſaid Reign, to raiſe Moneys for the purpoſe aforeſaid; and that neither his Majeſty that now is, or any other by any Authority derived only from

An. 1647. him, ſhall execute any of the ſaid Powers during his Majeſty's ſaid Reign, but ſuch as ſhall act by the Conſent and Approbation of the Two Houſes of Parliament: Nevertheleſs his Majeſty intends, that all Patents, Commiſſions, and other Acts concerning the Militia, be made and acted as formerly; and that after his Majeſty's Reign, all the Power of the Militia ſhall return intirely to the Crown, as it was in the Times of Queen Elizabeth and King James of bleſſed Memory.

After this Head of the Militia, the Conſideration of the Arrears due to the Army is not improper to follow; for the Payment whereof, and the Eaſe of his People, his Majeſty is willing to concur in any thing that can be done without the Violation of his Conſcience and Honour.

Wherefore if his Two Houſes ſhall conſent to remit unto him ſuch Benefit out of Sequeſtrations from Michaelmas laſt, and out of Compoſitions that ſhall be made before the concluding of the Peace, and the Arrears of ſuch as have been already made, the Aſſiſtance of the Clergy, and the Arrears of ſuch Rents of his own Revenue as his Two Houſes ſhall not have received before the concluding of the Peace, his Majeſty will undertake within the Space of Eighteen Months the Payment of Four Hundred Thouſand Pound for the Satisfaction of the Army; and if thoſe Means ſhall not be ſufficient, his Majeſty intends to give way for the Sale of Foreſt Lands for that purpoſe.

This being the Publick Debt, which in his Majeſty's Judgment is firſt to be ſatisfied: And for other Publick Debts already contracted upon Church-Lands or any other Engagements, his Majeſty will give his Conſent to ſuch Act or Acts for raiſing of Moneys for Payment thereof, as both Houſes hereafter ſhall agree upon, ſo as they be equally laid; whereby his People, already too heavily burthened by theſe late Diſtempers, may have no more Preſſures upon them than this abſolute Neceſſity requires.

And for the further ſecuring all Fears, his Majeſty will conſent, that an Act of Parliament be paſſed for the diſpoſing of the great Offices of State, and naming of Privy-Counſellors for the whole Term of his Reign, by the Two Houſes of Parliament, their Patents and Commiſſions being taken from his Majeſty, and after to return to the Crown, as is expreſs'd in the Articles of the Militia. For the Court of Wards and Liveries, his Majeſty very well knows the Conſequence of taking that away, by turning of all Tenures into common Soccage, as well in point of Revenue to the Crown, as in the Protection of many of his Subjects being Infants: Nevertheleſs, if the Continuance thereof ſeem grievous to his Subjects, rather than he will fail on his part in giving Satisfaction, he will conſent to an Act for taking of it away, ſo as a full Recompence be ſetled upon his Majeſty and his Succeſſors in perpetuity; and that the Arrears now due be reſerved unto him towards the Payment of the Arrears of the Army.

And that the Memory of theſe late Diſtractions may be wholly wiped away, his Majeſty will conſent to an Act of Parliament for the ſuppreſſing and making null of all Oaths, Declarations and Proclamations againſt both or either Houſe of Parliament, and of all Indictments and other Proceedings againſt any Perſons for adhering unto them. And his Majeſty propoſeth, as the beſt Expedient to take away all Seed of future Differences, that there be an Act of Oblivion to extend to all his Subjects.

As for Ireland, the Ceſſation therein long ſince determined; but for the future, all other things being fully agreed, his Majeſty will give full Satisfaction to his Houſes concerning that Kingdom.

And although his Majeſty cannot conſent in Honour and Juſtice to avoid all his own Grants and Acts paſs'd under his Great Seal ſince the 22d of May 1642, or to the confirming of all the Grants and Acts paſſed under that made by the Two Houſes, yet his Majeſty is confident, that upon peruſal of Particulars, he ſhall give full Satisfaction to his Two Houſes to what may be reaſonably deſired in that particular.

And now his Majeſty conceives, that by theſe his Offers, which he is ready to make good upon the ſettlement of a Peace, he hath clearly manifeſted his Intentions to give full Security and Satisfaction to all Intereſts, for what can juſtly be deſired in order to the future Happineſs of his People, and for the perfecting of theſe Conceſſions, as alſo for ſuch other things as may be propoſed by the Two Houſes; and for ſuch juſt and reaſonable Demands as his Majeſty ſhall find neceſſary to propoſe on his part, he earneſtly deſires a perſonal Treaty at London with his Two Houſes, in Honour, Freedom and Safety; it being, in his Judgment, the moſt proper, and indeed only Means to a firm and ſetled Peace, and impoſſible without it to reconcile former, or avoid future miſunderſtandings.

All theſe being by Treaty perfected, his Majeſty believes his Two Houſes will think it reaſonable that the Propoſals of the Army concerning the Succeſſion of Parliaments, and their due Elections ſhould be taken into Conſideration.

As for what concerns the Kingdom of Scotland, his Majeſty will very readily apply himſelf to give all reaſonable Satisfaction, when the Deſires of the Two Houſes of Parliament on their behalf, or of the Commiſſioners of that Kingdom, or of both joyned together, ſhall be made known unto him.

For the Speaker of the Lords Houſe pro tempore, to be communicated to the Lords and Commons in the Parliament of England, at Weſtminſter, and the Commiſſioners of the Parliament of Scotland.

Raiſing Money for the Army debated.
Col. Hewſon's Regiment ſent into the City.

This Day, according to former Order, the Houſe conſidered of raiſing Pay for the Army.

This Day a Letter was read from his Excellency, directed to the Committee of the Army, acquainting them that Colonel Hewſon's Regiment had Order to march into the City for Quarters, and to be ſerviceable to them in raiſing of the Arrears of the City. The General likewiſe ſent a Letter to the Lord-Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council of London.

The

A Letter to be ſent to the Lieutenant-General to forbid Col. Hewſon's marching into the City.

The Houſe had much Debate hereupon; and at laſt it was ordered, That Lieutenant-General Cromwell ſhould write to Colonel Hewſon, that he may forbear marching into the City with his Regiment for the preſent. Hereupon the Houſes appointed a Committee of Lords and Commons to go to the City, and acquaint them with the Letter from his Excellency, and with the Inconveniences that muſt of neceſſity follow, if they take not ſpeedy Courſe for collecting the Arrears. They are likewiſe to preſs them concerning the Advance of the Arrears of the 60000 l. per menſem, and to pay it in from time to time, as the ſeveral Counties in the Kingdom do.

The Lords Meſſage concerning the Propoſitions to be ſent to his Majeſty, aſſented to.

The Lords deſired by Meſſage, that the Committee of both Kingdoms may meet, and preſs the Scots Commiſſioners Anſwer, concerning the ſending of the Propoſitions, which was aſſented unto.

Mr. Murry and others to attend his Majeſty.

Mr. Murrey was ordered to go and attend his Majeſty; Mr. Maxwell and Mr. Mawle were ordered not to go. Mr. Babington was ordered to be incerted into the Liſt of the King's Servants.

Ordinance for ſetting the Poor on work, committed.

The Houſe of Commons this Day, according to former Order, had the Ordinance for ſetting Poor, Needy, and Vagrants on work, Read the ſecond time, which took up much Debate; and at laſt it was committed to a Committee choſen for that purpoſe.

The Common-Council return thanks to the Houſe for preventing the quartering of Soldiers in the City.

The Houſe being informed that many of the Common-Council of the City of London were at the Door, they were called in: And in the Name of the City they gave the Houſe Thanks for their timely Notice, and ſpeedy prevention of quartering Soldiers in the Lines of Communication. And as for the further Anſwer of the City, concerning the collecting of the Arrear of Aſſeſſments for the Army, they delivered it in by Writing; and had likewiſe given a further Account thereof by a Letter to his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax.

After they had withdrawn, and the Houſe heard the ſaid Anſwer read, which took up ſome Debate; at laſt a Committee was appointed to prepare an Anſwer unto the City to the ſame.

Arrears of Aſſeſſments in the City to be collected with all ſpeed.

The Houſe then voted, That the City of London ſhould go on to collect the Arrears of Aſſeſſments, and to bring them in with all convenient ſpeed.

Scots Commiſſioners, preſs to haſten their Anſwer concerning the Propoſitions to his Majeſty.

The Houſe voted, That the Scots Commiſſioners Anſwer ſhould be further deſired to the ſending of the Propoſitions to his Majeſty, which ſhould have gone this Day; and that the Committee of both Kingdoms, ſhould preſs them for an Anſwer with all ſpeed, that ſo there may be no delay in ſending the Propoſitions to his Majeſty.

The ſetling a conſtant Pay for the Army debated.

The Houſe then ordered, That they ſhould take into conſideration the Buſineſs of the Army, of ſetling a conſtant Pay for them, to the end the poor Country may not be any longer oppreſſed with free Quarter.

There came this Day Letters to both Houſes from Colonel Hammond in anſwer to the Votes of both Houſes, about ſending Sir John Berkley, Mr. Aſhburnham, and Colonel Leg, up to the Houſe; concerning which Colonel Hammond gives this Anſwer following.

Col. Hammond's Letter about ſending S. John Berkley, Mr. Aſhburnham, and Col. Leg to the Houſe.

My Lord;

'THis Morning I received, by the Hands of a Meſſenger from the General, a Paper of Votes and Reſolutions of both Houſes of Parliament, bearing Date die Martis, 16 Novemb. 1647. relating to the Security of his Majeſty's Perſon, which although they came not to me with Directions from the Houſes, yet I thought it my Duty to take notice of them, by what Hand ſoever received, as their Commands, and accordingly to ſee them put in Execution.

'As concerning that Vote, not permitting ſuch as have been in Arms, or aſſiſted againſt the Parliament, to come into this Iſland, it tending much to the Security of his Majeſty's Perſon, and the preſerving the Peace of this Iſland, I have, as I acquainted your Lordſhips in my laſt Letter, before I received theſe Votes, given Orders to that effect, which are carefully put in execution, commanding all Maſters of Boats belonging to Hampſhire and this Iſland, that they land neither Perſons nor Goods in any part of this Iſland, ſave only at Yarmouth-Caſtle, Cows-Caſtle, and Ryde; at which Place I have alſo appointed a Guard; to whom Order is given, as to the other Two Caſtles for the examining of all Perſons ſo landing, and to detain and ſecure any that cannot give a very good Account of themſelves and their Buſineſs.

'As concerning your Lordſhip's other Votes, now they are come to my Hands, I ſhall with the beſt of my Endeavours ſee them put in execution.

'My Lord, Yeſterday there came to me an Officer belonging to the Sergeant of the Houſe of Commons, with particular Warrants for the apprehending and bringing up in ſafe Cuſtody the Perſons of Mr. John Aſhburnham, Mr. William Leg, and Sir John Barkley, who came hither with the King. The ſaid Warrants required my Aſſiſtance to him in the execution of them, but with no other to me from either or both Houſes to that purpoſe: And finding the Matter to be of very great Importance, I have deſired the Meſſenger to forbear the execution of his ſaid Warrants, till I have given the Houſes to underſtand, that in caſe the ſaid Warrants ſhould be ſerved and put in execution, it would be impoſſible for me to anſwer the Expectations and Commands of Parliament, in preſerving the Perſon of the King in Security, to be diſpoſed by them, unleſs I ſhould keep him cloſe Priſoner; which is a Buſineſs of that Nature, that it is neither fit nor ſafe for me to do, eſpecially for my ſelf.

'The Grounds from whence I gather this, are plainly thus, The King hath declared himſelf to me, That he came from Hampton-

'Court, for no other Cauſe, but for the Preſervation of his Perſon, 'which was, as he apprehended, in ſuch Danger, that he could 'not with ſafety continue longer there: That if he could have 'been there with Safety, he would not have parted thence, nor 'from the Army, and that he choſe this Place rather than any o'ther, when he was at Liberty to have gone whither he plea'ſed, that he might ſtill continue under the Protection of the Ar'my, my ſelf being a Member thereof; and that he might have 'Conveniency of free Intercourſe between himſelf and the Par'liament for the Settlement of a General Peace; to which he 'profeſſes greater Inclinations and Deſires than ever, and that there 'ſhall be nothing wanting on his part, that may be reaſonably ex'pected from him.

'He further ſaith, That in caſe theſe Gentlemen be taken from 'him, and puniſhed as Evil-doers, for counſelling him not to go out 'of the Kingdom, but rather to come to a Place where he now is, 'for the Ends aforeſaid, and for their endeavouring accordingly in 'attending him hither, he cannot but himſelf expect to be dealt 'with accordingly, his Caſe being the ſame.

'My Lord, I ſhall further let you know, That beſides the Care 'I ſhall always have of theſe Gentlemen, they have engaged their 'Honours not to depart from me, ſo that I am moſt confident of 'their Security. And truly, were not their Ends the ſame with 'their Pretences, in relation to the Place of this Kingdom, I am 'confident they would never have adviſed, nor conducted the 'King to this Place. Beſides, were they at this time removed from 'the King, there would be none left for his Attendance; which, 'beſides the Offence, how great the Inconvenience would be to 'him, your Lordſhips cannot be ignorant.

'And further give me leave to add, if ſo unworthy a Servant of 'your Lordſhips as I am, and that which concerns my Honour, 'were at all worthy your Conſideration, whether it would not 'much reflect upon me in caſe theſe Gentlemen ſhould be thus re'moved from hence. The King and themſelves have freely thrown 'themſelves upon me for ſafety upon Confidence, as they pleaſe to 'ſay, of my Honour and Honeſty, and the Satisfaction they expect 'it would have given the Parliament, the King being neceſſita'ted to remove.

'My Lord, My Duty to you and the Kingdom, whoſe Good and 'Peace I moſt deſire, and ſhall moſt faithfully endeavour, calls for 'this Account; which, with my ſelf and theſe Gentlemen, I leave 'to your Lordſhip's Conſideration, with this Concluſion, That what'ever is commanded by Authority, eſpecially that of the Parliament, 'though never ſo contrary to my Senſe or Honour, ſhall never be 'diſobeyed.

My LORD,

Carisbrook-Caſtle,
Nov. 19. 1647.

Your Lordſhip's moſt faithful,
and humble Servant,

Ro. Hammond.

'Since the Concluſion of my Letter, I received the Letter and 'Votes of both Houſes, of the 16*th* preſent, which ſhall be care- 'fully put in execution.

Your Lordſhip's moſt faithful

and humble Servant,

Robert Hammond.

A Petition in favour of the Agreement of the People read.

A Petition directed to the Houſe of Commons, ſtiling them, The Supream Authority of the Nation, in favour of the Agreement of the People, &c. was this Day preſented to the Commons, and read.

The Petitioners were called in, and demanded, whether they were Soldiers or Citizens, and would avow this Petition, &c.

And upon Debate voted ſeditious, and ſome of the chief Promoters committed.

The Preſenters avowed the Petition; and the Houſe had much debate hereupon; and at laſt voted, That this Petition is a ſeditious and contemptuous Avowing and Proſecution of a former Petition and Paper annexed, ſtiled, An Agreement of the People, formerly adjudged by the Houſe to be deſtructive to the Being of Parliaments, and Fundamental Government of this Kingdom: That Tho. Prince, S. Chidley, be committed Priſoners to the Gate-houſe, and that J. Ives, Tho. Taylor, Will. Learner, be committed to the Priſon of Newgate; and that a Letter be ſent to the General, to deſire him to proſecute the Examinations of that Buſineſs to the bottom, and to bring ſuch guilty Perſons as he ſhall think fit, to condign and exemplary Puniſhment.

Soldiers in Briſtol ſeize one of the Aldermen of that City.

A Letter this Day came from Briſtol, informing the Houſe, That the Soldiers there had ſecured an Alderman of that City, and would not diſcharge him till they had a Months Pay, and an Ordidinance of Indempnity for that Act.

The General deſired to prevent ſuch Abuſes.

The Houſe hereupon ordered a Letter to be ſent to his Excellency, to deſire him to give Order forthwith for the diſcharge of the ſaid Alderman, and give direction to prevent the like Abuſes for the future by the Soldiers there.

A Letter was accordingly brought in, and ſigned by Mr. Speaker, and ſent with all ſpeed. The reſt of this Day was ſpent in a Grand Committee concerning the ſetling a Pay for the Army.

Wedneſday was the Monthly Faſt-day.

the ſending of the Propoſitions, and with the ſeveral Salvoes in the large Treaty, relating to each Kingdom particularly, and to preſs them for their further and ſpeedy Anſwer thereunto.

The Seals to be taken off his Majeſty's Bedchamber at Hampton-Court.

The Houſe being informed, That his Majeſty's late Bed-chamber at Hampton-Court was ſealed up by Order of the Commiſſioners then attending his Majeſty, they ordered that the ſaid Seals ſhould be taken off, to the end the Furniture therein may be made further uſe of for his Majeſty's Occaſions.

The Houſe being informed, that the Aſſembly of Divines were at the Door, they were called in, and preſented a Catechiſm; which they called a ſhorter Catechiſm.

400 Copies of the Aſſemblies Catechiſm to be printed.

The Houſe hereupon ordered, That 400 Copies thereof ſhould be printed for the Service of the Houſe, with the ſeveral Places of Scripture in the Margents.

They ordered likewiſe, That the Aſſembly ſhould with all convenient ſpeed give an Anſwer to the Queries formerly ſent from that Houſe unto them.

The Aſſembly required to give a ſpeedy Anſwer to the Queries formerly ſent unto them.

The Aſſembly was called in, and Mr. Speaker, by command of the Houſe, gave them Thanks, &c. The Houſe further acquainted, that the Houſe did expect that the Aſſembly give a ſpeedy Anſwer to the Queries formerly ſent unto them, and deſired them to go on in perfecting thoſe things which the Houſe had referred unto them.

A Letter this Day came from his Excellency, preſented to him from the County of Buckingham, complaining of the inſufferable Burthen of Free-Quarter; which was read and debated, and ordered to be referred to the Grand Committee that is to ſit to morrow to conſider of the taking off of free Quarter, and ſetling a conſtant Pay for the Army.

Merchant Adventurers willing to advance 10000 l. towards a Months Pay for the Army.

A Report was made, That the Merchant-Adventurers of London, were willing to advance the Sum of 10000 l. upon the Security offered by Parliament, towards the making up of a Months Pay to the Army.

The Houſe being informed, that 10000 l. would be wanting to compleat a Months Pay; hereupon they ordered, that the Merchant-Adventurers ſhould be deſired to lend 10000 l. more; and if they could not, then 5000 l. and the Committee of Exciſe to be deſired to lend the other 5000 l.

There came this Day a Letter from Sir Thomas Fairfax, to the Lord-Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council of London; and it was a Reply of a Letter to the General from the City, about the quartering of Soldiers: The Contents are as follow.

The General's Letter in reply to one from the City about quartering of Soldiers.

To the Right Honourable the Lord-Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council of the City of London aſſembled.

My Lords and Gentlemen;

'MY laſt to your Lordſhip at Kingſton, was not intended to 'charge you with the Arrears of the City, or to put the 'levying thereof upon any other, beſides thoſe that are impowered 'and charged by the Parliament for that purpoſe. But the Buſineſs 'of ſending for their Aſſiſtance ſome Soldiers into the City being 'reſolved on, as the beſt way, and of preſent Neceſſity for the 'timely and effectual diſpatch of that Service, I thought fit by 'the Letter to acquaint you therewith, both as a reſpect to your 'Lordſhip and the City, and that by you the City might the better 'underſtand the Grounds and Intentions of that Reſolution, to 'prevent any Inconveniencies from Miſapprehenſions thereof; nor 'did I expect, that either that Reſolution, or the Letter, inſtead 'of a vigorous and ſpeedy Diſpatch in a Buſineſs ſo juſt and neceſſary, 'ſhould beget any Interpoſals or Intercourſe tending to further 'Delays: But ſince the Parliament hath thought fit to put a ſtop, 'for the preſent, to that way of Proceeding, which here was conceived 'moſt neceſſary and agreeable to their Orders, and to undertake 'ſome other effectual Courſe in the Buſineſs, I ſhall wait 'the hoped Iſſue thereof; and if your promiſed concurrent 'Endeavours, prove not timely anſwerable to their Undertakings 'to your Profeſſions, and the Army's and Kingdom's Expectations, 'I much doubt the Conſequence, whatever you or I can 'can do to prevent them, will be every way ſad, and that no more 'to the Parliament Kingdom or Army, than to the City it ſelf; 'the Safety and Proſperity of which, ſhall be always endeavoured, 'as much as lies in the Power of,

Debate about conſtant Pay for the Army.

The Houſe ſat this Day in a Grand Committee, as was appointed, about providing a conſtant Pay for the Army, and ſpent the greateſt part of the Day in debate thereof; and ordered, That the Supernumerary Forces in this Kingdom, both in relation to Ireland, and the number to be continued up in this Kingdom, be forthwith disbanded.

Conference with the Lords about a Treaty with his Majeſty.

The Houſe of Peers ſent a Meſſage to the Commons to deſire a Conference in the painted Chamber, where both Houſes met accordingly; and the Earl of Mancheſter, Speaker of the Houſe of Peers pro tempore, acquainted the Commons, that he was commanded by the Lords to let them know, that their Lordſhips had taken into Conſideration the Deſires of the King's Majeſty in his Meſſage to treat with the Parliament; and alſo the Scots Papers, delivered in by the Commiſſioners of the Kingdom of Scotland, preſſing for the Treaty with his Majeſty.

And their Lordſhips had alſo conſidered the Deſires of the Kingdom, to be delivered from all Burdens and Fears, and to have the Government of the Kingdom ſetled and cleared, that the Kingdom may be preſerved by Peace.

That their Lordſhips had commanded him to acquaint them, that they do propound to the Commons, four Propoſitions may be ſpeedily ſent to his Majeſty to be paſſed, for the Safety and Security of the Parliament and Kingdom, and to treat with his Majeſty upon the reſt.

The Propoſitions are theſe following.

The Propoſitions to be ſent to his Majeſty.

1. ‘THAT a Bill be drawn up by Conſent of both Houſes, for his Majeſty to paſs into an Act for the ſetling of the Militia of the Kingdom.

2. ‘That a Bill be paſſed for his Majeſty's calling in of all Declarations, Oaths and Proclamations againſt the Parliament, and thoſe who have adhered to them.

3. ‘For paſſing an Act that thoſe Lords who were made after the Great Seal was carried to Oxford, may be made uncapable of ſitting in the Houſe of Peers thereby.

4. ‘That Power may be given to the Two Houſes of Parliament, to adjourn as the Two Houſes of Parliament ſhall think fit.

That

☞ Note, That Folio [913] follows this.

That his Majeſty giving the Kingdom Security by paſſing theſe Four Propoſitions, there may be a Perſonal Treaty with his Majeſty and the Parliament of both Kingdoms, for paſſing of the reſt of the Propoſitions.

That their Lordſhips think this to be the moſt probable way for a ſpeedy Agreement between his Majeſty and the Kingdoms, and therefore deſire the Concurrence of the Houſe of Commons therein.

The Commons Concurrence deſired to a Perſonal Treaty.

The Commons appointed to debate this Buſineſs the next Day.

General Council of the Army ſit at Windſor.

From the Head Quarters at Windſor we underſtand further, that Yeſterday the General Council of the Army ſat in the Town-Hall at Windſor; after much Debate, it was referred to a Committee to draw up a Model and preſent it to the next Council, for a Repartition and diſpoſing of the Counties in the Kingdom ſo for the Payment of the Army, that they may be conſtantly paid out of Aſſeſments, and the Country eaſed of Free Quarter. Mr. Saltmarſh at this Council took his Leave of the Army.

Mr. Saltmarſh takes his leave of the Army.

There was preſented to the General a Repreſentation under the Hands of Collonel Lilburne, and the reſt of the Officers of that Regiment, and it was as followeth:

May it pleaſe Your Excellency,

The Repreſentation of Col. Lilburne's Regiment to the General.

Amidſt the Army-Diſtractions, and Diſtempers in the Army and Kingdom, which ſaddens our Hearts, and preſents nothing to our View but Diſorder and Confuſion, our Experience and Commemoration of Divine Providence propitious to your Excellency and the Army, even from the firſt of your Undertakings to this very Moment, is that alone that refreſheth us; nor needs the Collection of our Memories, or that we look far backwards for an Occaſion of Praiſe; That late Mercy, not the leaſt, whereby a being was regained for us, deſerves a perpetual Remembrance. And, was not England concerned in the Caſe of our Regiment, is it imaginable, that Diſobedience was complotted there alone, or that they were the only Maintainers and Abettors of no Subjection to Authority? Surely if their Deſign to diſengage thoſe committed to our Charge by your Excellency, from us as unworthily Commands, had been there limited, we hope we ſhall rather have given way to their Deſires, though cauſeleſs, and withdrawn our ſelves, than in the leaſt hazard the Loſs of one Drop of Blood to continue our Employments. But if we ſeem more ſenſible of thoſe Dangers that were almoſt inevitable than others do, in regard we were the firſt that taſted of them, and were likely to be ſwallowed up by them, we humbly deſire your Excellency's Pardon; and, for a clear Manifeſtation of our Integrity to your Excellency and the Weal Publiſhed, Leave to preſent to your Excellency,

1. That as Soldiers and Members of this your Excellency's Army, we owe all Obedience and Subjection to your Excellency's Authorities and Commands; from which we humbly conceive neither Birthrights, nor other Priviledges whatſoever, whereof we have or ought to have an equal ſhare with others, can or ought in the leaſt to diſoblige us: and that we ſhall rather ceaſe to be Soldiers, which is all the Liberty we deſire, than diſpute your Excellency's Power, or admit of any Cor-rival or Competitor therein. Nor do we ſuppoſe to have declared any thing more herein, than what always hath been, and muſt of neceſſity continue to be our Duty: For, beſides that it is eſſential both to the being and well-being of an Army, to obey Orders according to the Diſcipline of War, we yet owe more reſpect unto your Excellency, of whoſe Care and Trouble for us and the whole Kingdom we are Witneſſes, than is thereby required from us: And ſince Neceſſity pleads for ſome particular Perſon to whom the Care and Conduct of an Army muſt be committed, if we were at Liberty herein, whom ſhall we deſire but your Excellency?

2. We cannot but remind your Excellency, how that Neceſſity indeed, and the Diſſatisfaction of the Army in their Juſt Deſires, drew them to a ſolemn Engagement, and thereby the Counſels of the Army, being in ſome things altered from what they were before, have lately been endeavoured to be made a Precedent to alter them again; and Malecontented Spirits take Occaſion hereby to divide the Army into Parties and Factions, endeavouring to turn every Man's Sword againſt his Fellow, pleading Neceſſity when there is none, and for ſuch Things as are in themſelves very diſputable whether Juſt or Unjuſt, and which is more than probable, may be more deſtructive to the Commonwealth, if granted, than the refuſal of them will be. It is therefore our humble Deſire unto your Excellency, that you will ſtill continue to mediate on our behalf, for the obtaining of thoſe our juſt and neceſſary Deſires in our former Petitions, Remonſtrances, and Declarations mentioned; that ſo the whole Army may be ſatisfied, and return to its preſtine way of Government, wherein they have been very ſucceſsful under your Excellency.

Laſtly, Whereas the Prevalency of particular Perſons in the Parliament, who have ſufficiently manifeſted their Diſſatisfaction to the Weal Publick, hath for prevention of Factions and Parties in that Honourable Aſſembly, manifeſted the Reaſonableneſs of ſetting a Period to this preſent Parliament; and before that can be with Safety, many things of great Concernment to the Kingdom are firſt to be tranſacted there, whereof your Excellency and the Army have already ſeveral times deſired Conſideration to be had by this Parliament. It is our hearty Deſires, That both Parliament and Army would jointly reſolve, and accordingly act with all Expedition, to the finiſhing of that great Work that lies upon them, and hath long been by the People expected from them: And that the whole Kingdom may be proſperous in the Enjoyment of a Free Parliament, and every particular Perſon in his own proper Intereſt; that the World may bear us Witneſs, that we do not only declare for, but proſecute the obtaining of their Liberty and Freedoms: That ſo ſoon as a firm Peace can be ſetled, the great Burden of maintaining Soldiers in this Kingdom may no longer continue, to the great Charge and Trouble of the People, and the impairing of that Eſteem which the Price of our Blood in our former Atchievements have affectionately wrought in their Hearts towards the whole Army, whereof both Members, and careful Tenderers of their Reputations, are,

Your EXCELLENCY's

Pardons to be paſſed for ſeveral Convicted Perſons in Northampton-Goal.

A Meſſage this Day came from the Lords, deſiring the Commons Aſſent to an Ordinance for authoriſing Mr. Sollicitor to draw up Pardons to be paſſed under the great Seal to ſeveral convicted Perſons, Priſoners in Northampton Goal, which was aſſented unto.

Their Lordſhips deſired the Houſe to take ſome ſpeedy Courſe for ſetling of a Conſtant Pay for the Army, to the End the Country may not be burdened with Free Quarter. The Commons were accordingly ſenſible of that great Grievance; and a Courſe will, we hope, be ſuddenly taken to eaſe the Country in this Particular.

The Houſe conſidered of the great and intollerable Abuſe of ſeveral Printed Pamphlets that come forth daily without any Licence, in Contempt of the Authority of Parliament, and to the great Abuſe and Scandal of the Parliament and Kingdom.

Order for Suppreſſing Scandalous Pamphlets.

And in particular the Pamphlets entituled, Mercurius Pragmaticus, Mercurius Melanthlicus, and other Sheets Printed without Licence; and upon a long Debate of this Buſineſs, it was Ordered, That a Committee of the Houſe of Commons ſhould be Appointed to find out the Authors and Commit them, and alſo the Printers, and ſuch as make Sale of them, and to give Warrants to ſeize the Preſs, Implyments, and other Materials of Printing, and to Employ ſuch as they think fit for this Purpoſe.

The Reader is further deſired, as to this Buſineſs, to take Notice, that the Licencer, Mr. Gilbert Mabbot, notwithſtanding his Care againſt Malignant Sheets, hath his Name forged to many of them, of purpoſe to make him odious to the Parliament and Kingdom; but a Committee being appointed to ſuppreſs ſuch unlicenced and ſcandalous Pamphlets, he hopes to have Vindication and Reparation againſt ſuch as have ſo abuſed him, and this Abuſe to be taken off for the Future.

The Houſe then, according to former Order, this Day, conſidered of their Lordſhips Deſires at the Conference Yeſterday, to have the Four Bills before-mentioned tendred to his Majeſty, &c. and upon his paſſing of them, to admit of a Perſonal Treaty with his Majeſty upon the reſt of the Propoſitions. And upon a long Debate of this Buſineſs, it was Voted, to Agree with their Lordſhips in granting a Perſonal Treaty with his Majeſty, after he hath Signed the ſaid Bills; and they to be forthwith drawn up and diſpatched to his Majeſty.

The Commons agree with the Lords for a Perſonal Treaty.

Monday, November 29.

This Day many Citizens of London, and others, attended the Houſe with a ſecond Petition, by ſome party who petitioned the laſt Week, and for which ſome ſtand committed.

A Second Petition from the ſame Party that Petitioned in Favour of the Agreement of the People.

In this Petition they ſeem to regret many things, and accuſe the Houſes of Partiality, in that they one while will receive Petitions, and then will not, with much more to that Purpoſe; and pray that it be forthwith declared what Burdens they may pray the Honourable Houſe may be taken off, and what Freedoms to be ſetled, that when they think they are doing their Duty, they may not ſuffer as Tranſgreſſors.

Secondly, That the Five Perſons Committed for the former Petition into Priſons among Thieves and Murderers, may be diſcharged; and that it may not be forgotten, That the Matter of their Petition is the ſame in many things, which was burnt by the Influence of corrupt Members.

This Petition being known to the Lord Mayor and Militia of London, before it came up, it was certified to the Lords and Commons by them; and that in regard it was believed many would come along with it, they offered the Aid of ſome Companies; which the Houſe took well, and Ordered, That in ſuch Caſes they might have Power, and ſent their Order accordingly. The Houſe Ordered to Read, Debate, and give Anſwer to this Petition Thurſday next.

The Lord Mayor gives Notice thereof before it came up.

The Houſe Ordered, That the Lord Mayor of London have Thanks given him for ſending down a Guard to the Houſe this Day. And further Ordered, That the Committee of Lords and Commons for the Buſineſs of the London Agents, ſhall be a cloſe Committee, and have Power to ſend for all ſuch Perſons as they ſhall find Juſt Cauſe for, upon Information, and Commit them to Cuſtody until the Buſineſs be reported to the Houſe.

Thanks returned to his Lordſhip for the ſame.

The Lords ſent down the Liſt of the Sheriffs, and paſt them all but Two only excepted.

The Lords agree to the Liſt of Sheriffs Two only excepted.

Letters came this Day to the Houſe from the Lord Inchequin, and others, of a very great Victory obtained againſt the Iriſh Rebels in Munſter. Some of the Letters concerning the ſame have been ſince Printed; yet, for better Satisfaction, we will give you the Copy of One Letter from Kingſale touching the ſaid Victory, not before Printed, as followeth:

Letter from Kingſale of a great Victory obtained againſt the Rebels in Ireland.

BROTHER,

I Adviſed you of the ſad and deſperate Condition of our Army, and conſequently the poor Proteſtant Party of this Province. Now ſo it is, the Wonders of the Lord of Hoſts have been again manifeſted unto us. The Thirteenth preſent being Saturday laſt, having Marched toward the Enemy quartered at Clantark or near adjoining, Six or Seven Miles from Megallo they met the Rebels, and preſently were enforced to join Battle, they being Three to One of ours at leaſt, and had by Force or Accident the Advantage of Ground, ſo that our Ordnance could not bear or be made ſerviceable for the Day, but rather a very great Hindrance: Having joined Battle, and our Ordnance being guarded with 400 Foot, and Three Troops of Horſe, our main Battle was put hardly to it, and by the Cowardiſe of ſome like to be routed, and put to the worſt, to the total Loſs of the Province: But the Divine Providence had otherwiſe decreed, my Lord Inchequin in his own Perſon, with what Horſe might be ſpared or gotten together, made a deſperate Attempt upon their Body, and gave them a Rout: Collonel Gray, with a poor handful of bare-leg'd Men recover'd our Ordnance, whereby the whole Rebels Force for this time is diſſolved. Collonel Gray is ſlain, Capt. Love, and ſome other Commanders of our Party dangerouſly wounded, and about 150 Common Soldiers and Gunners ſlain on our part, and doubtleſs many wounded. The whole Number when they began, on our ſide, could not make 4000; but God gave the Purſuit unto the Remainder of ours upon the Enemy for the ſpace of Seven Miles in Three ſeveral Ways, as long as Day did laſt. The certain Intelligence is, That there were ſlain of the Rebels 2500 upon the place, beſides the Wounded that crawled into Buſhes and Ditches for preſent Shelter: but it is thought 4000 at leaſt were ſlain upon the Place and in Purſuit, amongſt whom their Lieutenant General Kilketto, and his Lieutenant Collonel Hillanders were found, and 200 of their Officers kill'd and taken Priſoners. My Lord is ſtill in the Field, and doth not doubt but to bring the Province into that Subjection, as that he that ſucceedeth him ſhall have little to do.

Thus hath God in his Mercy given me leave to write once more unto you, which if the Enemy had prevailed could not have been expected, for we had all periſhed in few Days, Root and Branch. Our Enemies in England, nor here, have not prevailed; for our God was jealous of his Glory, turning their Plots of Deſtruction to his own Honour and our Safety. The Veſſel is commanded away with a Packet, I cannot enlarge; this that I write you may rely upon as gathered from the ſureſt Intelligence. God keep you.

Pay of the Army again Debated.

THE Houſe this Day ſat in a Grand Committee, to conſider of raiſing a ſetled Pay for the Army.

Capt. Piggot, that brought the Letters from the Lord Inchequin, called in.

Captain Piggot, that brought the Letters from the Lord Inchequin, was this Day called in to the Houſe, and made a Relation of that great Victory; and afterwards preſented to the Houſe Two Letters under the Lord Digby's Hand, which was found in the Lord Taaff's

Cabinet; One of the Letters, and the moſt material One, we will give you as follows:

To the Lord Viſcount TAAFF.

Lord Digby's Letter to the Lord Viſcount Taaff.

My Dear Lord,

RElying upon your Conſtancy to what you have promiſed, I ſhall go on boldly and induſtriouſly in the ways of ſerving you; and I make no Queſtion, but I ſhall either ſucceed in drawing the Party you are now engaged with, under his Majeſty's Power, in which Caſe the chief Military Command in this Kingdom will be in your Hands, as I could wiſh: Or elſe, in caſe it be fit, you in Duty and Loyalty to his Majeſty to quit this Country, I ſhall ſettle you ſuch Conditions of Honour and Advantage Abroad, as you ſhall confeſs I have been no ill Manager of your Intereſts: Two Things only I have to recommend unto your Care; the One, That you endeavour to draw to you into Munſter, ſuch Leimſter and Ulſter Forces, as you are ſure are poſſeſt with the ſame Reſolutions that you are. The Other, That you will not let any appearing Advantage, or the Height of your Spirit tranſport you to hazard a Fight with your Forces this Summer; but to ſtand unalterably upon the warieſt Defence you can; carrying always in your Mind, that both all our Hopes for his Majeſty's Service in this Kingdom, and in caſe thoſe fail, thoſe of our own being conſiderable abroad, depend upon your preſerving that Army. One Thing more I ſhall beg of you, That ſince our Duty to his Majeſty's Intereſts, and to our own Honour, having already received Money, oblige us to tender our Service in the firſt place to France, that you will not make your ſelf ſo familiar with Don Diego, as to draw Suſpicion from the French Agents of your dealing doubly, which will be ruinous to all our Undertakings, if once our Honours ſhould be in that kind diſparaged. This is all I have to ſay at preſent, more than to conjure you to rely upon this Truth, That you could not in the World have fix'd upon a Friend ſo careful of your Intereſts, as you ſhall find,

Wexford, this Laſt of Auguſt, 1647.

My LORD,

Your Lordſhip's moſt Humble Servant,

G. DIGBY.

Lord Inchequin 1000 l. Gratuity for his good Service. Capt. Piggot to have 50 l. for bringing the Letters from the Lord Inchequin.

The Houſe ordered the Lord Inchequin ſhall have a Thouſand Pound given him to buy him Horſes, as an Earneſt of Favour of that Houſe, for his great Service to the Kingdom of Ireland, and in particular in this late Victory. That Captain Piggot have Fifty Pound beſtowed upon him for bringing theſe Letters from the Lord Inchequin.

Letter of Thanks to be ſent the Lord Inchequin, and the Officers under his Command.

A Letter of Thanks was Ordered to be drawn up and ſent to the Lord Inchequin. That a Letter of Thanks be ſent to the Officers under the Command of the Lord Inchequin, and likewiſe concerning their Indempnity for their general Engagement.

That Ten Thouſand Pound, be ſent over to the Province of Munſter, out of the firſt Money that comes in for Ireland, to remain as a Stock for Security of Proviſions to be ſent thither.

Ordinance paſt for re-imburſing Monies advanced by the Merchant Adventurers.

An Ordinance was read for re-imburſing the Merchant Adventurers, the Sum of Fifteen Thouſand Pound, advanced for the Service of the Army, and Eight Thouſand Pound diſburſed for the Service of the State, which was aſſented unto.

Another for the Commiſſioners of Exciſe.

An Ordinance was read for re-imburſing the Commiſſioners of Exciſe the Sum of Five Thouſand Pound, towards compleating a Month's Pay to the Army, which was aſſented unto.

From the General's Head Quarters at Windſor, we underſtood of ſome Letters from his Majeſty to his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax; the Letters being but ſhort, we will give you them as followeth:

Charles Rex.

His Majeſty's Letter to the General.

HAving left Order at our Remove from Hampton-Court, that a Copy ſhould be given you of what we had then written to both Houſes of Parliament, touching the Cauſes of Our withdrawing, and the Continuance of our Reſolutions to improve every Occaſion of the Satisfaction of all Chief Intereſts, that ſo a happy Peace may ſettle in our Dominions: In purſuance whereof, we have lately ſent a Meſſage to both Houſes from this Place, and a Copy of it to you. And being deſirous, in order to that bleſſed Work, to give you our preſent Senſe upon the Condition of Affairs as they now ſtand, we have thought fit to appoint Sir John Berkly to repair unto you, and to communicate the ſame to you. And we ſhall be glad by him to receive a mutual Communication of your Senſe alſo, upon this Subject; not doubting but you eaſily perceive, by the late Diſorders, into what a depth of Confuſion the Army and the Nation will fall, if timely and effectual Preventions be not uſed; and therefore we have now again propoſed, as the only Expedient, a Perſonal Treaty for the compoſing of all Differences, and fulfilling the Deſires of all Intereſts; to which if you will Employ your Credit, as you cannot but expect the beſt Return that ever our Condition ſhall be able to make you.

Given at Cariſbrook-Caſtle, the 29th Day of November, 1647.

For Sir Thomas Fairfax, General.

Charles Rex.

Another Letter of his Majeſty to the General.

THE Free Liberty which you willingly afford us to have the uſe of our Chaplains, make us at this time not only to acknowledge your former Civilities, but likewiſe now to acquaint you, that Three of our Chaplains, to wit, Dr. Sheldon, Dr. Holdſworth, and Dr. Heywood, are newly landed in this Iſland, not doubting but that they ſhall have the ſame Protection that formerly they had; which ſtill will ſhew the Continuation of your good Reſpect unto us, which we upon all fitting Occaſions ſhall not be backward to acknowledge. So we bid you hearty Farewell.

For Sir Thomas Fairfax, General.

Wedneſday, December 1. 1647.

The Common Council of London's Petition, acknowledging the Parliament to be the Supream Power.

THIS Day a Petition was preſented to both Houſes from the Common Council of London, Acknowledging the High Court of Parliament to be the Supream Power and Judicature in this Kingdom, conſtituted for the Defence and Contrivement of the Safety and Freedom of this Nation; unto whom all other Powers and Societies of Men ought to Submit. And Acknowledging the unwearied Pains, unceſſant Labour, and conſtant Endeavours of this preſent Parliament, in the common Cauſe of God and this Kingdom; diſavowing all engaging in Differences, excuſing their Declarations, &c. That the Free Quartering of the Army about the City hath occaſioned the Dearneſs of Proviſions, and given Opportunity to Evil Minded Perſons to foment Differences.

Wherefore the Petitioners humbly Pray, That the Honour, Power, and Priviledges of Parliament may, by their Wiſdom and Juſtice, be inviolably preſerved. That the Army may be ſo provided for, that they may be enabled to remove their Quarters to a further diſtance from the City, whereby the Price of Proviſions may be abated, and Trade encouraged; That Free Quarter may be prevented, and Supernumerary Forces disbanded; That a more vigorous Courſe may be taken in ſetling of the Peace and Government in this Kingdom, ſo long deſired; That the Covenant may be duly obſerved; That all well-affected Perſons that have adhered to the Parliament may be effectually protected and defended; That the Recorder, Aldermen, and other Citizens now Impriſoned, ſo as it may ſtand with the Honour and Wiſdom of Parliament, may be enlarged.

Which the Petitioners ſhall eſteem a great Favour to this City; and that all the late unhappy Proceeding, as unto this City and Members thereof, may be forgotten and obliterated; That the Petitioners may enjoy the Splendor of the former Favours, and be thereby enabled to be the more Serviceable to the Preſervation of Parliament and City, re-uniting all that are well affected thereunto.

Both Houſes gave the Petitioners Thanks.

Both Houſes gave them Thanks for the Expreſſion of their good Affections to the Parliament: That as to the Deſires in their Petition, in ſome of them Order hath been taken already; ſome are under Conſideration, as that concerning Free Quarter, and other: and as to their laſt Deſire, touching ſome Members of the City that lye under Reſtraint, the Houſe will ſpeedily do therein what may conſiſt with the Juſtice and Honour of this Houſe.

The Houſe was this Day in a Grand Committee about taking off Free Quarter, and ſpent much time in debate thereof.

The Four Propoſitions drawn into Bills Read the firſt time.

The Houſe then took into Debate the Four Propoſitions, which the Committee appointed for that Purpoſe had drawn into Bills to be ready for the Royal Aſſent.

1. The Bill for Adjourning the Houſe was Read the firſt time.
2. The Bill for making all Proclamations and Declarations void againſt both Houſes of Parliament, was Read the firſt time.
3. The Bill for making all Things Void under the Great Seal at Oxford, and Confirmed ſuch Things as are Paſt under the Great Seal with the Parliament, was Read the firſt time.
4. A Bill about the Militia, and the Payment of the Publick Debts of the Kingdom, were Read the Firſt Time.

Meſſage from the Lords, deſiring the Propoſitions may be communicated to the Scots Commiſſioners.

A Meſſage this Day came from the Lords, deſiring, if the Houſe did Paſs the Four Propoſitions, that they may be communicated to the Scots Commiſſioners. The Houſe Ordered to ſend Anſwer hereunto by Meſſengers of their own.

A Bill was Read for raiſing Monies for Payment of the Forces to be continued in this Kingdom, the Dominion of Wales, and the Kingdom of Ireland.

It being ſomewhat late, ſome Debate was, whether Candles ſhould be brought in; and then the Queſtion was put, Whether the Bill for ſetling the Militia ſhould be now Read? and it Paſt in the Negative.

They Ordered, That theſe Bills ſhall be Read the ſecond time to Morrow Morning.

Thurſday, December 2.

Conſtant Pay for the Army, and taking off Free Quarter again debated. The Petition in Favour of the Agreement of the People again Debated.

The Houſe this Day was in a Grand Committee, to conſider of raiſing a Conſtant Pay for the Army, and for taking away Free Quarter, and afterwards Sat as a Houſe.

According to former Order, the Houſe this Day conſidered the Petition of ſeveral Citizens, in Favour of the Agreement of the People, and much time was ſpent in Debate thereof.

An. 1647.

At laſt the Houſe came to this Reſolution, that it is the Right of the Subject to Petition the Parliament; and the Right of the Parliament to Judge of ſuch Petitions; and that Petitioners are bound to Acquieſce in ſuch Anſwer as the Houſe ſhall give unto ſuch Petitions; and the Houſe did expect, and hope, the Petitioners would Acquieſce in this Anſwer accordingly.

That the Four Propoſitions be Read the Second Time to Morrow.

Impeachment againſt the Earl of Lincoln Read the Firſt Time.

The Houſe then Ordered, That the Impeachment againſt the Earl of Lincoln ſhould be Read, which accordingly was Read the Firſt Time.

Meſſage to the Lords for longer time to bring their Impeachment againſt the Seven Lords.

Saturday, December 4.

The Members ſat long this Day in Expectation of the Speaker, who came very late, and was not able to Sit above a Quarter of an Hour.

The Houſe Adjourned it ſelf till Tueſday next, and in the Afternoon met again in a Grand Committee, about the Buſineſs of Free Quarter, and to ſettle a conſtant Pay to the Army. The Committee alſo for ſuppreſſing Scandalous and Unlicenced Pamphlets met again this Afternoon.

This Day Two Letters of the Lord Digby to the Lord Taaff, came out in Print by Order of the Houſe: We gave you One of them before; and, for more fuller Satisfaction, we will give you the other now.

Another Letter of the Lord Digby to the Lord Taaff.

To the Right Honourable the Lord Viſcount Taaff.

My Lord,

I Count it one of the greateſt Unhappineſſes that hath befaln me, that I muſt go out of the Kingdom without conferring with a Perſon upon whom I ſo much depend, both in what concerns his Majeſty's Service, and my own particular Intereſts in this Kingdom; and who, if I do not flatter my ſelf, does me the Favour, in ſome Meaſure, to depend upon my Reſolutions, either in order to the Affairs of this Kingdom, or of Employment beyond the Sea: where I do renew unto your Lordſhip the Aſſurance, that in caſe we cannot ſucceed ſo in the way of his Majeſty's Service from this Kingdom, as that you may be encouraged to ſet up your Reſt in it, I ſhall not take more Care of mine Honour and Fortunes, than of yours; if you will rely upon my Care to negotiate for you, as I do upon the Aſſurances you have given of not ſeparating from me in the ways of our Fortune. I am moſt confident you will find an excellent Correſpondence of Friendſhip in L. Muskery, both towards you and me. And I do ſtedfaſtly now rely alſo upon my Lord Dillons, and Sir James Dillon's adhering to our Fortunes, in Caſe we cannot ſucceed in the Way now propoſed, of uniting this Party to his Majeſty's Authority; with the Particulars of which, Mr. Wintourgrant, whom I have deſired to ſtay here till he hears again from me a ſudden Account of all things. In the mean while, and ever, be confident that I am moſt faithfully and unalterably, Kilkenny, 20 Aug.

My LORD,

Your Lordſhip's Affectionate Humble Servant,

G. DIGBY.

Letters from the Head Quarters at Windſor concerning disbanded Soldiers.

From the Head Quarters of the Army at Windſor, we had by Letters this Day to this Purpoſe:

‘That whereas an Order from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, was ſent to the Collonels of the ſeveral Regiments of Horſe and Foot, to diſcharge all ſuch Soldiers as were entertained in the Army ſince the Engagement at New-Market, and Cavaliers lately entertained. The Collonels and Officers of the ſeveral Regiments did accordingly yield a punctual Obedience to the ſaid Order, and diſmiſſed the Soldiers accordingly; in ſome Thirty, in ſome Forty in a Company: Which Soldiers ſo Disbanded, came in great Companies to the Head Quarters at Windſor, deſiring either to receive Monies to bear their Charges home, or elſe to be re-admitted to their ſeveral Regiments, in regard moſt of the Perſons ſo appearing had ſerved the Parliament in ſeveral parts of the Kingdom, from the beginning of the War, though they were but lately entertained in this Army. And it being intended that they ſhould have Monies to bear their Charges home; yet it happened, they came to the Head Quarter when the ſecond part of the Money deſigned for the Month's Pay, was not come to the Head Quarter: So that there was a Neceſſity to return them back to their ſeveral Colours, except Cavaliers or diſorderly Perſons, till ſuch time as Monies came down to pay them a Proportion of Pay, to carry them Home to their ſeveral Countries, many of them being above 200 Miles from their ſeveral Homes, and accordingly they were diſmiſſed. And the Monies which were expected on Tueſday, came not down to the Head Quarters till Saturday.

An. 1647.

Several of Col. Lilburne's Men tryed for the late Mutiny.

On Friday at the Head Quarters there was a Council of War, where were ſeveral Men tryed of Col. Lilburne's Regiment, concerning the former Mutiny and Miſcarriages, for which the Man was Shot to Death at the Randezvous at Ware ſuffered; and a Corporal of that Regiment was at this Council of War alſo condemned to ſuffer Death, and Six or Seven more were ſentenced to run the Gantlet, which was this preſent Saturday put in Execution at Windſor; but the Execution of this Man for Death is put off till the Tryal of Capt. Bray, and ſome others, the Ringleaders of that Mutinous Party, and Contemners and Scorners of all Diſcipline in an Army, be tryed and received their Judgment, to the End no more Soldiers who are acceſſary do ſuffer Death, till ſome of the principal Officers and Agents, who engaged the Soldiers in that Action, do partake of the ſame Sentence, if ſo found Guilty. And on Friday Capt. Bray was called to the Council of War, and received his Tryal in Part; but he carried himſelf with that Pride and Arrogancy, that it was a ſcandal to all honeſt Men that were Witneſſes of his Carriage, contemning Authority, reviling others, and deſiring to be tryed upon a Scaffold in the hearing of the Multitude. His further Tryal is put off till another Day.

Saturday the General Council did meet at Windſor, though ſomewhat late, and had ſome Debate concerning a Declaration about the Grievances of Free Quarter, and the disbanding of ſupernumerary Forces without reaſonable Satisfaction, as a thing contrary to the Engagement; but principally of the concurrent Deſign in all parts to with-hold Pay from the Army, to the intent to make it odious to the Kingdom, which neceſſitates the Army to think of ſome Courſe how to eaſe the Country of Free Quarter, and yet to have the Army paid.

A bold Robbery was this Night attempted by Twenty reſolute Fellows, to rob the King's Revenue in the Chequer-Chamber, Weſtminſter; but it was diſcovered a little before by a Waterman; upon which Scouts were ſent to aſſail the Aſſailants, if they came on; and accordingly the Robbers were interrupted in their Deſign about Two of the Clock on Sunday Morning: Sixteen of them eſcaped by Water, but fought ſtoutly for their Paſſage; the other Four were taken, ſorely wounded.

Proceedings in Parliament from December 6. to January 1. 1647.

Monday, December 6.

Caroli I.

THIS Day the Houſe Sat, not having Adjourned on Saturday laſt until to Morrow, by Reaſon of the Illneſs of the Speaker of the Houſe of Commons.

Tueſday, December 7.

Petition of the County of Hartford.

The Houſe ſitting this Day, the Commons had Notice that many of the Inhabitants of the County of Hertford were at the Door, they were called in, and preſented a Petition to the Houſe in the Name of the ſaid County, complaining of the heavy and intollerable Burthen of Free Quarter, deſiring that they may be eaſed of it, and for that purpoſe that the Houſe would be pleaſed ſpeedily to conſider thereof, they being almoſt ready to ſink under the ſame.

The Petitioners had Thanks for their good Affections.

After the Petition was Read and Debated the Petitioners were called in, and Mr. Speaker, by command of the Houſe, gave them Thanks for their conſtant good Affection to the Parliament; and as for taking off of Free Quarter, the Houſe hath been long, and now is in Debate thereof, and they hope to give the Petitioners and the whole Kingdom, ſpeedy Eaſe of that Burthen and Oppreſſion.

Information againſt a Delinquent committed.

The Houſe had then Debated upon an Information given in againſt a Member of the Houſe of Commons to be a Delinquent, and had been in Arms againſt the Parliament; they Ordered thereupon, That the ſaid Member ſhould be referred to the Committee appointed to conſider of the ſeveral Caſes of Members, and to report the ſame with all convenient ſpeed.

Petitioners of Buckinghamſhire, Hertfordſhire and Middleſex Thanks.

The Houſe was then informed, That ſeveral Inhabitants of the County of Buckingham were at the Door to preſent a Petition to the Houſe, they were called in, and did preſent the ſame Petition with the Hertfordſhire Men, for taking off of Free Quarter; and the ſame anſwer as to the other was given them ſeverally. Alſo of the County of Middleſex preſented a third Petition to the ſame purpoſe, and were called in and had the ſame Anſwer.

Debate concerning the Great Seal.

The Houſe had then much debate concerning the Diſpoſal of the Great Seal of England, the former Term to the Speakers being near expired; and it was Ordered, That the Speakers ſhall be continued Commiſſioners thereof, till Twenty Days after the next Term.

A Repreſentation of the Army.

The Houſe was then informed, That Col. Sir Hardreſs Waller, and Col. Whaly were at the Door to preſent ſome Things of Concernment from the Army to them: They were called in; and Col. Sir Hardreſs Waller acquainted the Houſe, That himſelf and Col. Whaly were Commanded by his Excellency and the General Council of the Army, to preſent a Repreſentation of the Army to them, and in reſpect the Buſineſs is of very great Concernment to this Kingdom, he deſires that it

An. 1647.

it might have a preſent Reading and Conſideration, and himſelf with Col. Whaly would wait upon them for an Anſwer.

Col. Sir Hardreſs Waller and Col. Whaley being withdrawn, the Houſe Ordered that it ſhould be Read, which took up much time in Debate, and at laſt it was Ordered, That a Committee ſhould be appointed to conſider of the ſame, and what things therein are moſt fit and requiſite for the Conſideration of the Houſe, and to report the ſame to Morrow Morning. And accordingly a Committee was choſen for that Purpoſe.

This Repreſentation is ſince Printed; yet for Satiſfaction of Country Friends, and ſuch as have not ſeen the ſaid Repreſentation at large, we will collect the chief Heads thereof, and give you them as followeth:

Firſt, They take notice how little hath been done in Parliament for ſecuring thereof, Settlement of the Kingdom, and Satiſfaction of the Soldier, ſince the Return of the Speakers, who have now for Four Months ſat ſecure.

2. That through this Delay, ſtrange, and dangerous Attempts have been to divide the Army, and new embroil the Kingdom, and the Cauſe of not making more Speed imputed to the Army. 3. That notwithſtanding the Army is again ſetled. 4. That the General to do that, engaged they ſhould have Content as Soldiers, which prevented Blood, though to the Diſcontent of ſome evil Spirits, who by with-holding Pay, labour to make it inſtead of Protection, an Hurt to the Kingdom; which rather than they, viz. the Officers, will have the Odium longer, they incline to lay down, or withdraw; yea, with not Hazard of the Publick, but their own Arrears, but that they find not that which will acquit them before God. 5. But finding the main Obſtruction to be Pay, the Want of which Occaſions Free Quarter, which to prevent, many Addreſſes have been made to the Parliament, but what through the Difficulty, Delay, Slowneſs, or Neglect of thoſe intruſted, eſpecially thoſe in London, to part with Money, beſides no Eſtabliſhment proportionable ſetled, nor Means to raiſe it, which cauſes the Burden of Free Quarter, the Diſcontent and Diſorder of the Soldier, and in Garriſons many of them have ſtarved, others ready ſo to do, and to leave the Hold to who will take them. 6. If this Army and other Soldiers have deſerved this, they deſire to be told it, deſiring that all may know, that would they have ſet up a Party of their own with diſregard to the Publick they could, and yet can put themſelves, and other Soldiers into a way of Pay, and made their Oppoſers in City and Country willing to have followed them with Satiſfaction, and not only have ſuppreſs'd, but deſtroy'd adverſe Parties, and all this with Reaſon and Juſtice enough; whereas they have on the contrary ſtudied the Preſervation of all, and are confident at laſt to be no Loſers by it. 7. They ſay, The Parliament have had ſufficient Cautions and Warnings, and though when Danger continued it was largely acknowledged, yet no other or further Care. Somewhat is wrapt up in that Vote, that all Supernumerary Forces be Diſbanded, which they are ſo willing unto, as upon ſuch Terms as is after expreſt, to be the firſt; but there being 20000 of thoſe, the Queſtion how can they ſuddenly be ſo diſcharged, as not to be diſcontented and apt to engage againſt the Parliament; and though Money be ready, yet ſome time muſt be for ſtating their Accompts, which is neceſſary to avoid a clear Inconvenience by Clamour, which Experience hath ſhewed. And though they wiſh diſbanding Supernumeraries, yet they fear it will be a long work, and therefore deſire or propound that the Parliament do forthwith enlarge the Pay to the Number of the whole for Five or Six Months, by the Addition of Forty Thouſand Pound a Month, and according to the Rates of the Sixty Thouſand Pound. And they promiſe, 1. That no Free Quarter be taken within a Month after paſſing the Ordinance. 2. That it continue but Six Months, and that as Money comes in they ſhall be diſbanded. 3. That in caſe any Committee fail, that the General and the Committee of the Army may name others. 4. That the Forces that cannot be diſbanded, may be aſſigned to Counties, and be paid according to due Muſters. 5. That Security for Arears being ſetled, Commiſſioners may be ſent down to ſtate Accounts, and that there there be an Office, Two Regiſters, and Four Clerks for that End, with Salary; and this Way they conceive beſt, becauſe there muſt be Free Quarter until paid, which is a greater Grievance than the pay expreſt.

Having thus acquitted themſelves of not Guilty of Free Quarter, and ſeeing the ill Conſequences of removing from about London, until things of this kind be ſetled, unleſs the parts near London ſhould be undone, they offer that the Army may quarter in London, or part of it; that is upon the Remiſs, until they have paid Arears and full Penalties.

As for Satisfaction of Arears, they offer Two Thirds of all Delinquents, alſo Deans and Chapters Lands for Indempnity; that there may be Committees in the Country as well as at London; Deſires are expreſt alſo for maimed Soldiers and Apprentices, and all this with all poſſible Speed.

But if Content be not given by the end of this Week, they can't give Account of the Army; but let the Soldier and the Kingdom know, that they cannot ſatisfy their Juſt Expectation; and thereupon deſire the Diſcharge of Soldier may be tranſmitted to others. And for the City of London, if they do not right, they deſire that they may be made to pay Arears and full Penalties, and to ſatisfy to the adjacent Counties for above 100000 l. Damage, and the late impeached, and other offending Citizens may make good the ſame; which not done they cannot withdraw the Army, finding the Common Council to intercede or plead Juſtification for thoſe Impeached Perſons.

Wedneſday, December 8.

Repreſentation of the Army reported.

A Report was this Day made to the Houſe from the Committee appointed to conſider of the Repreſentation of the Army, That it was the Opinion of the Committee, That the Supernumerary Forces in the Kingdom ſhall be disbanded.

Committee to treat about disbanding ſupernumerary Forces.

Hereupon the Houſe Ordered, That a Committee of Six in Number ſhall go down to the Army, and treat with his Excellency and the general Council of the Army, concerning the Disbanding of Supernumerary Forces in the Kingdom, to know what Forces they are, and how much Money will diſcharge the ſaid Forces.

Inſtructions were likewiſe drawn up for the Commiſſioners that are to go down to the Army, and upon the Queſtion aſſented unto, the Houſe further Ordered, Sixty Thouſand Pound a Month for Payment of the Forces of England and Ireland.

1. That the Sixty Thouſand Pounds a Month, ſhall be ſetled according the former Taxes, for Pay of the Forces formerly ordered to be kept up for the Safety of the Kingdom, and for Ireland.
2. That all the disjointed Forces ſhall receive a Month's Pay, and be disbanded.
3. Every County to Pay and Disband their Proportion, according to their Seſments, and they to be ſent and have Free Quarter of the Counties where they are appointed, until they be paid.
4. The Counties to be re-imburſed out of the Seſments, and where it wants to have the Security of Sequeſtrations, and if that will not do it, the Exciſe to be added.
5. Thoſe that have been entertained ſince Auguſt 6. laſt, to be diſbanded without Pay.

Meſſage to the Lords for their Concurrance to the Ordinance for 20000 l. to the Merchant Adventurers.

The Commons ſent a Meſſage to the Lords for their Concurrence to the Ordinance for the Twenty Thouſand Pounds, &c. from the Merchant Adventurers, to which the Lords concurred; to the Ordinance for Tonnage and Poundage, to which the Lords concurred with ſome Amendments; for the Great Seal to continue in the Two Speakers Hands, till Twenty Days after the next Term, as formerly, to which the Lords agreed; and to an Ordinance for Monies disburſed in Ireland.

The Lords Meſſage for Six Months Liberty for Mr. Mountague.

The Lords alſo ſent a Meſſage to the Commons, for Mr. Walter Mountague to have his Liberty continued Six Months longer, upon the ſame Bail as now it is; alſo for the Members of the Houſe of Commons of the Committee for examining the London Agents to ſit that Afternoon, and ſo de die in diem, at Pleaſure.

The Houſe Ordered, That no private Buſineſs ſhould be heard in the Houſe for Eight Days.

News from the Iſle of Wight.

Many fond and groundleſs Stories have been raiſed lately from the Iſle of Wight, it were ridiculous to mention any of them; that which the Letters from thence certify is no more but this, That his Majeſty is in good Health, though Solitary, and ſpends much Time in Retirement.

Intimacy between Coll. Hammond and his Majeſty.

The Iſlanders keep their Guards ſtrictly, and alſo the Iſland-Paſſes; his Majeſty and Col. Hammond very intimate, the Collonel ſhewing all Duty and Reſpect. When the New Old Attendants came to Court, his Majeſty, as is uſual, was Private, but underſtanding of their Arival he came out, ſhewed Chearfulneſs, gave all of them his Hand to kiſs; Mr. Aſhburnham and Col. Legg are with him; alſo old Servants and Chaplains.

Letters from Ireland.

Letters from Dublin, dated the end of the laſt Month, give to underſtand thus much; That Col. Jones is marched into the County of Wicklow with 400 Horſe, and 1000 Foot, his Deſign is to get what Corn he can, and to harraſs that County, ſtill preſuming that the beſt way to make a ſure and ſudden end of the Troubles of Ireland; he took with him a Fortnight's Proviſions, which he intends to ſpend before his Return. Little Actions hath been ſince the Ruines made upon us by the Enemy, only Capt. Otway brought in laſt Week a Prey of 300 Cows, 140 Garrons, and 1000 Sheep: The Enemy hath Attempted to fortify the Banes, to prevent our March into Kilkenny Quarters, but to little purpoſe.

Thurſday, December 9.

Meſſage from the Lords concerning Tonage and Poundage.

A Meſſage this Day came from the Houſe of Lords, deſiring the Commons Aſſent unto the Ordinance for Tonage and Poundage, with ſome Amendments, which they had returned with the ſaid Ordinance; the Amendments were Read and Debated, and the further Conſideration of that Buſineſs referred to a Committee.

Another concerning a Letter from his Majeſty.

A Meſſage this Day came from the Lords, acquainting the Houſe of Commons that they had received a Letter from his Majeſty, which they thought fit to communicate to the Houſe of Commons, deſiring that it may be communicated to the Scots by the Members of both Houſes, that are of the Committee of both Kingdoms.

The Letter was read, and ordered to be communicated according to their Lordſhips Deſire. The Letter, for better Satisfaction, is as followeth:

His Majeſty's Gracious Meſſage to both Houſes of Parliament.

Charles Rex.

His Majeſty's Letter to both Houſes of Parliament.

HAD his Majeſty thought it poſſible that his Two Houſes could be employed in things of greater Concernment than the Peace of this miſerable diſtracted Kingdom, he would have expected, with more Patience, their Leiſure in acknowledging the Receipt of his Meſſage of the Sixteenth of No- vember laſt: But ſince there is not in Nature, any Conſideration proceeding to that of Peace, his Majeſty's conſtant Tenderneſs of the Welfare of his Subjects, hath ſuch a Prevalence with him, that he cannot forbear the vehement Proſecution of a Perſonal Treaty, which is only ſo much the more deſired by his Majeſty, as it is ſuperior to all other Means of Peace. And truly, when his Majeſty conſiders the ſeveral Complaints he daily hears from all Parts of this Kingdom, that Trade is ſo decayed, all Commodities are dear, and Taxes ſo inſupportable, that even natural Subſiſtence will ſuddenly fail.

His Majeſty, to perform the Truſt repoſed in him, muſt uſe his uttermoſt Endeavours for Peace, though he were to have no Share in the Benefit of it: And hath not his Majeſty done his part for it, by deveſting himſelf of ſo much Power and Authority, as by his laſt Meſſage he hath promiſed to do, upon the concluding of the whole Peace: And hath he met with that Acknowledgment from his Two Houſes, which this his great Grace and Favour juſtly deſerves? Surely the blame of this great retarding of Peace muſt fall ſomewhere elſe, than on his Majeſty.

To conclude, if ye will but conſider in how little time this neceſſary good Work will be done, if you the Two Houſes, will wait on his Majeſty with the ſame Reſolutions for Peace, as he will meet you, he no ways doubts but that ye will willingly agree to this his Majeſty's earneſt Deſire of a Perſonal Treaty, and ſpeedily deſire his Preſence amongſt you; where all things agreed on, being diveſted into Acts, till when, it is moſt unreaſonable for his Majeſty or his Two Houſes to deſire, each of other the leaſt Conceſſion, this Kingdom may at laſt enjoy the Bleſſing of a long wiſht-for Peace.

To the Speaker of the Houſe of Peers, pro tempore, to be communicated to the Lords and Commons in Parliament of England at Weſtminſter, and the Commiſſioners of the Parliament of Scotland.

Dated from Cariſbrook-Caſtle in the Iſle of Wight, December 6. 1647.

Their Lordſhips deſired farther by their Meſſage, the Commons Concurrence to an Order for Mr. Walter Mountague to have Six Months Liberty upon his former Bail, which the Houſe of Commons agreed unto.

Meſſage concerning Mr. Walter Mountague agreed to.

The Houſe, according to former Order, took into Debate the ſeveral Articles of Impeachment againſt the Seven Lords formerly Impeached by that Houſe, and ſome of the Proofs of the ſaid Impeachment were Read, which took up the reſt of this Day's Debate, the further Conſideration of that Buſineſs is to be reſumed to Morrow.

Articles againſt the Seven Lords debated.

Petition of the maimed Soldiers in the Savoy.

A Report was this Day made concerning ſome Poor and Maimed Soldiers in the Savoy Hoſpital, that they are in great Neceſſity for want of Fewel this hard Weather, and that there is Money in Arrears unto them from the Committee appointed formerly for Wood; and the Houſe took Order for ſupplying them with Wood, and to have their Arrears paid from the ſaid Committee.

Longer time to bring up the Impeachment againſt the Seven Lords deſired.

The Houſe Ordered, That a Meſſage ſhould be ſent to the Lords, for deſiring their Lordſhips to appoint a further Day for the Houſe of Commons to bring up the Impeachment againſt the Seven Members of their Houſe formerly Impeached by them.

An Ordinance was read for the paying the Sum of 1800 l. to the Garriſon of Plimouth, out of the Ordinance for 60000 l. per Menſem, for paying the Arrears and diſbanding the ſaid Garriſon, was read and aſſented unto.

Saturday, December 11.

Iriſh Gentlemens Petition.

The Houſe of Commons this Day being informed, That divers Gentlemen of Ireland were at the Door, they were called in, and preſented a Petition to the Houſe, in the Name of the Nobility and Gentry of Ireland, remaining in London, complaining of the ſad Condition of Ireland, for want of Monies and other Neceſſaries for the Soldiers.

The Petitioners Thanks for their Care.

The Petitioners were called in, and the Houſe gave them Thanks for their great Care of that Kingdom; and acquainted them, That their Petition and the whole Buſineſs of Ireland was ordered to be conſidered of, on Tueſday Morning next.

Report made concerning the Ordinance for Tonage and Poundage.

A Report was this Day made from the Committee appointed to conſider of the Lords Amendments, ſent down Yeſterday to the Ordinance for Tonage and Poundage; and upon Conſideration thereof, the Houſe Ordered to adhere to the ſaid Ordinance, as it firſt went up to that Houſe to the Lords; and a Conference was deſired to ſatisfy the Lords why they cannot agree to thoſe Amendments, which was accordingly done. Much Debate was concerning the preſent Commiſſioners of the Cuſtoms; the Reſult whereof was, That an Ordinance ſhould be drawn to re-imburſe and aſſure the preſent Commiſſioners of the Cuſtoms, all ſuch Monies as they have, or ſhall advance for the Service of the State, with Eight Pounds per Cent. per Annum; and to declare the preſent Commiſſioners to be Commiſſioners of Tonage, yet neverthe leſs to be diſplaced when the Houſe ſhall think fit, there being firſt Proviſion made for ſuch Monies in Arrear to them.

Mr. Scott added to the Committee of Lords and Commons.

They Ordered Mr. Scott, a Member of the Houſe, to be added to the Committee of Lords and Commons for Sequeſtrations, in the room of Mr. Recorder, now in the Tower. The Houſe then Adjourned until Monday next.

Letters from the Head Quarters at Windſor containing an Anſwer to the Votes of both Houſes.

From the Head Quarters at Windſor we had by Letters this Day to this Purpoſe, On Thurſday Night Col. White, Mr. Scawen, Mr. Hodges, Mr. Allen, and Col. Birch came to the Head Quarters; Friday they conferred with his Excellence and Officers, about the Matters contained in the Votes of the Houſes.

To that concerning the diſbanding of Forces admitted ſince the Sixth of Auguſt, it was anſwered, That the General had above a Week ago given order for the immediate diſcharging of all ſuch: but as for Officers put in ſince that time, it was conceived neceſſary to continue them.

To that there be no more acceſs of Forces to any Regiment, the General will take care there be none: And if any be, that they be diſcharged without Pay or Oppreſſion of the Country by their Quarters.

To that what Supernumeraries are to be diſbanded, 1. That a full Anſwer cannot be given until the Forces be continued within the Eſtabliſhment be particularly ſet forth. 2. That they cannot give a full Account without diſtracting the Soldiers, ſo as to point out all the Forces to be diſbanded as Supernumeraries, until the Parliament ſhall have aſſured the ſtating and regiſtring of their Accounts before diſbanding; declaring a reaſonable Proportion of their Arrears, in hand at diſbanding, and aſcertained the Security of the Remainder. 3. To give a particular Account of the Forces they cannot at preſent, or at all, without conſiderable Time and Means to take and return exact Muſters of them; and alſo Authority and Inſtructions to fit Perſons for ſtating their Accounts as to Arrears ſeverally due.

Theſe are the Heads of what hath paſſed, and there is nothing more conſiderable at the Head Quarters at preſent.

There was likewiſe Two Papers preſented to the General at Windſor; the one a Repreſentation from the Officers and Soldiers of Coll. Thornghaghis's Regiment, and the other from the Officers and Soldiers of the Three Troops of Dragoones in Col. Okey's Regiment now in Lincolnſhire, the Copies whereof we ſhould have given you, but muſt omit the ſame this time.

New Plot diſcovered.

The Houſe ſitting this Day, the Speaker of the Houſe of Commons acquainted the Houſe with a Diſcovery made to him the Night before, of a new Plot or Deſign on foot for the raiſing of an Army within the City, who were to act ſtrange things upon the Parliament: The Circumſtances diſcovered, carry a ſtrong Preſumption of Truth along with them in a great part.

The Examination thereof referred to a Committee.

The Commons, upon ſome debate, referred the Examination of this Buſineſs to a Committee, who were to examine the Party that informed Mr. Speaker thereof, and all other Witneſſes relating to this Buſineſs.

Mr. Hudſon committed upon Account of the ſaid Plot.

A Letter alſo was read from the Lieutenant of the Tower, acquainting the Houſe that he had apprehended one Mr. Hudſon, that came to ſpeak with Dr. Hudſon, and other Delinquents in the Tower, and that he is informed he is a Man of dangerous Condition, and had a hand in this Deſign, deſiring to know the Pleaſure of the Houſe concerning him.

His Commitment approved of by the Houſe.

The Houſe hereupon approved of the Lieutenant of the Tower's ſecuring the ſaid Mr. Hudſon, and that he ſhould be indempnified for the ſame by that Houſe.

Letters from the Commiſſioners at Windſor.

Letters came this Day from the Parliament's Commiſſioners at Windſor, giving the Houſe to underſtand how far they had proceeded with the General and Army upon the Houſes Inſtructions, and that they are now come near to an Agreement; an Account whereof we will give you fully anon.

The laſt Week we mentioned Two Papers or Repreſentations to the General from Col. Thornhagh's Regiment, and Col. Oake's Dragoones, but we will now therefore, for better Satisfaction, give you the Papers at large.

To His Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax.

The Humble Repreſentation of the Officers of Col. Thornhagh his Regiment, in behalf of themſelves and Soldiers.

Repreſentation of Col. Thornhagh's Regiment.

THAT, not re-minding your Excellency of former Engagements, and the Difficulties we have paſſed through in relation thereunto, we have Received, Conſidered, and unanimouſly Subſcribed to your laſt Remonſtrance and Engagement, in the behalf of Kingdom and Soldiers; as to which we are bold, humbly to repreſent as followeth:

1. That we ſhall with all Chearfulneſs and Conſtancy remember what we have engaged to in reference to the ſaid Remonſtrance, and act accordingly.

2. That we doubt not but we are of the Army, and equally repable with them of all Priviledges as Subjects and Soldiers, as to the new Eſtabliſhment of a conſtant Pay, to avoid Free Quarter, and Indempnity and Security for Arrears.

3. And ſeeing Free Quarter a thing ill reſented by all Country-men, and grievous to the Soldiers, begets ſome unavoidable Quarrrels; and we have Power enough, and do improve it to the utmoſt againſt offending Soldiers, yet cannot ſo clearly find by the Articles of War, how to deal with diſcontented and offended Country-men, who are ready to take all Advantages to abuſe Soldiers by diſmounting, ſetting in the Stocks; we humbly pray that we may receive Inſtructions how to carry our ſelves in ſuch Caſes.

4. That whereas we have not received more than Fourteen Days Pay this Six Months, and the Aſſignment long ſince for a Month's Pay in Derby and Nottinghamſhire, which we cannot yet receive; chiefly, as we apprehend, becauſe we are upon them at Free Quarter, from which the Countries conceive themſelves diſcharged by the Ordinance, paying theſe Proportions of the Sixty Thouſand Pounds per Month.

That ſome ſpeedy and effectual Courſe may be taken for conſtant and ſetled Pay, to enable us to diſcharge Quarters.

May it Pleaſe Your Excellency,

Col. Okey's Dragoons.

WE the Officers and Soldiers in the Three Troops of Dragooners in Col. Okey's Regiment now in Lincolnſhire, as we cannot in the firſt place, but with abundance of Joy and Happineſs, gratefully acknowledge your Excellency's extraordinary continued Care, and unparallel'd Vigilancy in the Preſervation of your Army in a Spirit of Unanimity and Concord, ſo we cannot on the contrary but admire, and are amazed to conſider the treacherous and under-hand Proceedings of a Generation of upſtart Agents, who endeavouring to advance their own particular Deſigns and Intereſts, and to introduce a Parity into this Kingdom and Army, from that curſed Principle of Machivell, Divide & Impera, for they are notable Politicians, but we fear bad States Men; thereby to make your Excellency's unwearied Endeavours to preſerve us in our preſtine Reſolutions, and late ſolemn Engagement null and ineffectual; a Crime of that Nature, that we profeſs we want a Name to render it, as it is moſt tranſcendently odious and abominable, and which we abhor with our very Souls. For our parts, we have on purpoſe called our Troops together, having acquainted them with the nature of theſe Mens Actions, have read the Remonſtrance of your Excellency and the General Council of the Army, and your Excellency's Deſire of their Reſolutions therein. And to our great Satiſfaction, and we hope your Excellency's alſo, we received at the Randezvouſe at Langton in the County of Lincoln, in the Center of our Quarters, ſo large a Demonſtration of their joint Concurrence with your Excellency and the General Council by Acclamations and throwing up of Hats, that they have reſolved to live and die with your Excellency, according to their firſt Engagement, and not to adhere in the leaſt to the Counſels and Practiſes of thoſe ſurreptitious Agents, who under the Pretence of Freedom, would freely and willingly captivate us to their Anarchical Liberty. Thus we have thought good to acquaint your Excellency with our Cordial Reſolutions herein, beſeeching your Excellency to look upon us as ſuch who account it our chiefeſt temporary Happineſs to be until Death,

Your Excellency's moſt Humble Servants; and moſt Faithful Soldiers,

John Garland, Captain.
John Daubern, Lieut.
Rob. Line, Cornet.
Tobias Bridges,
John Barrow, Lieut.
Sam. Ady, Cornet.

Andrew Caſſe, Cornet.

A Letter this Day came from the Scots Commiſſioners from Derby-Houſe, with a large Paper therein incloſed, in the nature of a Declaration; which being very large, took up much time in reading. The further Conſideration of this Letter and the incloſed, was ordered to be reſumed to Morrow.

Letters from Windſor about disbanding Supernumeraries

We had to underſtand this Day by Letters from Windſor of a good Agreement between the General Council of the Army, and the Commiſſioners of Parliament, about the disbanding of Supernumeraries, removing the Army further off, the taking off Free Quarter, &c. And to that Purpoſe, that a Narrative was agreed on by the General Council of the Army, at the Meeting of the Parliament's Commiſſioners at Windſor, Tueſday and Wedneſday laſt; the Sum of all, for better Satisfaction, we will give you as followeth.

And firſt, at the Meeting on Tueſday, theſe particular Heads were agreed upon:

Heads agreed on for disbanding Soldiers.

As to that Head for the disbanding of all Officers and Soldiers entertained ſince the 6th of Auguſt, it is declared by the General and General Council, That as to any Soldiers ſo added, the General above a Week ſince hath ordered the diſbanding them; and will take care it be obſerved.

But as to the Officers ſo entertained in any vacant rooms, it is thought fit they ſhould be continued, for the better Government of the Soldiery.

As to the Acceſſion of Forces above the Eſtabliſhment, the General both hath, and will take Care there ſhall be no ſuch Acceſſion; and if any be found, they to be immediately diſcharged without Pay.

As to the disbanding of Supernumeraries, the General and Council are no way againſt it, but to their uttermoſt further it; only deſire before Disbanding theſe Things to be provided for:

1. That Security be ſetled for the Arrears of the Soldiers.
2. That their Accounts be ſtated, and Defalcation made for Free Quarter, according to the Votes of the Houſes, and Debentures given for that part of their Arrears not paid at disbanding.
3. That Indempnity for maimed Soldiers, Widows and Orphans of Soldiers Slain, Freedom of Apprentices, and Freedom from Oppreſſion may be provided for.

As to the Pay of Supernumeraries that have joined with the Army, it is deſired the Parliament would provide Three Months Pay for all at disbanding; and Security, as before, for the reſt. Or, That the Parliament would agree with the private Soldiers by Lump, what to pay them in full of all Arrears.

And Laſtly, As to the removing of the Army, and going into Garriſons and Towns, &c. it is declared, That the Army and all Supernumerary Forces ſo not disbanded, ſhall within Three Weeks, if the Parliament think fit, be drawn into Garriſons; ſo as from thenceforth to take off all Free Quarter: And that they may have conſtant Pay from the time of their entring.

Thus far the General and General Council of the Army proceeded with the Committee of Parliament on Tueſday laſt. The Buſineſs was much diſputed before it came to this Iſſue. Tueſday Morning was ſpent in ſeeking God for a Bleſſing; and it produced this happy Satisfaction.

An. 1647.

Dean and Chapters Lands to be Security for Payment of Soldiers.

After this the General Council met again on Wedneſday, in the Caſtle; and after ſome debate of the Matter of Security, they came to this Reſolution:

That as to the Security of Deans and Chapters Lands, the only viſible Security as they conceive, (yet that upon which they underſtand the greateſt Scruple lies heavy) they valued it above a Million, but cannot offer any other in lieu of it, becauſe they know no other to be charged to ſuch a Value, which would not neceſſitate the continuance of a Burthen upon the People for the Soldiers ſakes. But if though the Parliament can find a way to redeem Deans and Chapters Lands, after they are granted, it may be done, the deſiring them but as Security only.

This is the Sum of what the Commiſſioners are to preſent to the Parliament as the Sence of the General and General Council of the Army as to this Buſineſs. We had further from Windſor the Copy of a Petition to the General out of the County of Surry.

To his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax.

The Humble Petition of the Farmers in the County of Surry, Humbly ſheweth, Petition of the Farmers of the County of Surry againſt the Burden of Soldiers.

THAT whereas your Petitioners all Rack-rented, have for nigh Six Years paſt born the Charge of Free Quartering Soldiers without any deduction of Rent of the Landlords part, till now of late ſince the Army's advance from London; this Charge being doubled, with ſome of us treble, our Rent ſo decayeth our Eſtates, that little Subſiſtance is for our ſelves, for our Families, and for thoſe many Labourers employed by us, left us for the preſent, and for afterwards likely none at all, unleſs your Excellency relieve us. For your Petitioners, though rack'd in their Rents already, and unable longer to pay our Rents, and to continue to bear this Charge of quartering without Allowance, are ſtill charged as Owners, and the Landlords as yet go free, and moſt of them refuſe abſolutely to bear any part of this Charge upon tender of their Rents, unleſs they ſhould be enforced thereunto by Ordinance of Parliament: And many of them have threatned, and ſome of them have already commenced Suits in Law to recover their full Rents; and others of them have ſealed Leaces of Ejectment for the cutting off ſuch of their Tenants as deſired Deduction of Rent for this Charge; which, as your Petitioners are informed, hath heretofore in many other Parts of this Kingdom been found by the Landlords, &c.

The Premiſes conſidered,

May it pleaſe Your Excellency, In reference to a Petition of this Nature, before preſented to your Excellency by the Tenants of Blethinly in the ſaid County, whereupon they were promiſed Relief, if refuſed by the Landlords, effectually to move the Two Houſes of Parliament for ſome ſpeedy Courſe to be taken, that the ſeveral Landlords may for the times paſt, and for the future, bear the Charge of Quartering either wholly, as in other Taxes they have ordered, or in ſome other Proportion as to your Excellency's Wiſdom ſhall ſeem moſt meet; reſpecting Stock of the one, and the Fee-Simple Eſtate of the other.

And Your Petitioners ſhall Pray.

The General accordingly hath ſent to the Houſes recommending the ſaid Petition to their Conſideration.

Saturday,

Saturday, December 18.

Mr. Marſhall and Mr. Nye to be Chaplains to the Commiſſioners in the Iſle of Wight.

The Houſe this Day received a Meſſage from the Houſe of Lords, deſiring the Concurrence of the Commons for Mr. Marſhal and Mr. Nye to go as Chaplains to the Commiſſioners that go to the Iſle of Wight with the Four Bills and Propoſitions to his Majeſty.

The Committee of Goldſmiths-Hall reported ſeveral Ordinances of Delinquent Compoſitions, which took up much part of the time this Day.

Col. Needham's Petition.

A Petition was preſented to the Houſe of Col. Needham's, late Governor of Leiceſter, ſetting forth, That in regard he was much in Arrears to the Service of the State, and that he had received Monies for the States Uſe, the Houſe would order him to make his Accounts to the Committee of Leiceſter, where he received the Monies; the ſaid Petitioner having waited long to give up his Accounts: And that he might have ſome Satisfaction towards his Arrears out of the ſame.

He further deſired, that in regard he had loſt much in his Eſtate for Affection to the Parliament, That he might have the Remainder of his Arrears and his Loſſes certified by the Committee of Nottingham, in which County his Sufferings were to receive Satisfaction, when the Houſe pleaſe to take into Conſideration the Loſſes of thoſe who have ſuffered in their good Affection to the Parliament.

Col. Needham's Petition referred to a Committee.

The Petition was read in the Houſe, and upon ſome debate it was ordered to be referred to the Committee at Goldſmiths-Hall to audit the Accounts of his Reports. And further ordered a Sum of Money to be paid to the ſaid Collonel Needham at preſent, in part of his Arrears.

Intelligence from the Head Quarters at Windſor. Againſt Barth. Symonds.

From the Head Quarters at Windſor we had further Intelligence to this Purpoſe, That on Wedneſday laſt, at a Council of War there was one Bartholomew Symonds, of Col. Lilburne's Regiment condemned to dye; he was one who was the chief Ringleader of the Mutiny at the Rendezvous near Ware; where when Major Gregſon ſpake to the Soldiers of Col. Lilburne's Regiment to ſubmit to the Diſcipline of the Army, he cryed out, That the Major was againſt the King; and thereupon divers Soldiers in the Regiment threw Stones at the Major, and broke his Head.

Capt. Bray.

There was alſo one Bell condemned to run the Gantlet twice, for being active in that Mutiny. Captain-Lieutenant Bray and Major Cobbet have been ſeveral Days this Week at their Tryal before the Council of War; but no Iſſue put to either.

Monday, December 20.

Commiſſioners to go to the Iſle of Wight to have 200 l.

The Commiſſioners appointed to carry the Propoſitions to his Majeſty, being to take their Journey this Day, the Houſe of Commons ordered, That the ſaid Commiſſioners ſhould have the Sum of 200 l. paid unto them out of the Receipt of the King's Revenue, toward the defraying of their Charges in that Service.

The Houſe alſo appointed a Committee to examine the Propoſitions now to be ſent to his Majeſty, and they were ordered forthwith to withdraw; which they accordingly did.

Dr. Uſher, Biſhop of Armagh, continued Preacher at Lincolns-Inn.

A great Debate was this Day in the Houſe, whether Dr. Uſher ſhould continue preaching at Lincolns-Inn, he having formerly adhered to the Enemy againſt the Parliament: And the Houſe was divided; and it was carried in the Affirmative, he taking the Negative Oath.

Delinquent Miniſters to be ſilenced.

But, that Delinquent Miniſters ſhould not take Encouragement at this, they ordered in the ſecond place, That it ſhould be referred to a Committee of plundered Miniſters, to ſend for and examine ſuch Miniſters as have adhered to the Enemy, and preach now in the Kingdom; and ſuch as have of late, and now do cauſe the Book of Common-Prayer to be read, and to take care for ſilencing of them.

Reverſion of Dean and Chapters Lands no Security for the Arrears of the Army.

The Houſe had then a great Debate, whether Dean and Chapters Lands ſhould be part of the Security for the Arrears of the Soldiery, as deſired. And the Queſtion was put, Whether the Reverſion of Deans and Chapters Lands, the preſent Rents reſerved, all Impropriations, Tithes, Advouſons, and Preſentations excepted, ſhall be given as Security for Payment of 600000 l. aſſigned formerly for Security for the Arrears of the Soldiery, in caſe the 600000 l. ſhall not ariſe out of the former Securities? And the Houſe was divided, and reſolved in the Negative Voice.

The Houſe ſpent the reſt of the Day in hearing the Report of Fines and Compoſitions from Goldſmiths-Hall.

They ordered to take the Buſineſs of the Army into further Conſideration to Morrow.

There paſt ſome Votes on Saturday laſt, in Relation to the Report from the Army; and alſo concerning the Scots Commiſſioners Declaration; which for want of room was the laſt Week omitted, but we will now give you them.

Security agreed for Arrears of the Soldiers.

The Houſe, according to former Order, reſumed the Report of the Commiſſioners lately come from the Army, which held a long time; and agreed to the Security deſired for the Arrears of the Soldiers, the Moiety of the Exciſe in Courſe, Remainder of Biſhops Lands, and Forreſt-Lands. And they Ordered, That the Sum of Six Hundred Thouſand Pounds ſhould be charged on the ſaid Security for the Payment of the Arrears of the Soldiers.

The Houſe then ordered to riſe and meet again to conſider of the large Declaration incloſed in a Letter Yeſterday from the Scots Commiſſioners, which is in very high Language, to the Parliament of England, preſſing hard for a Perſonal Treaty with his Majeſty, and their Proteſt againſt the ſending the Four Bills. We will give you a brief Account of ſome of the Expreſſions in that Declaration, as followeth:

Some Expreſſions in the Scots Declaration againſt ſending the 4 Bills to his Majeſty.

> There be ſome things which properly concerns the Kingdom of England, their Rights, Laws and Liberties. But there be other Matters, which in their own Nature, as being common to both, or by Covenant, or Treaty, concerning both Kingdoms; wherein, unleſs we ſhould forget our Duty to God, to the King's Majeſty, to our Native Kingdom, and to this Nation, our common Concernment and Intereſt cannot be denied. For as Scotland was invited and engaged in this War upon Grounds and Reaſons of common Intereſt; ſo we truſt it will not be offenſive, that in making Peace we claim from the Houſe an Improvement of the very ſame Principles, and a Performance of the Treaties they have made with us; that the ſame meaſure of Conjunction of Intereſts be given to us, which was had of us and promiſed unto us; wherein the very Laws of Nations, and the Rule of Common Equity doth plead for us. Yet in the Application of this Rule, we ſhall not ſtretch our ſelves beyond our Line, the expreſs Condition of our ſolemn League and Covenant, the Duty of our Allegiance, and the Treaties and Declarations between the Kingdoms; which are ſo many ſtrong Obligations, as all who have Honour or Conſcience, muſt acknowledge ſhould be inviolably obſerved.
> Having laid this as a moſt juſt and ſolid Ground of our Proceedings, we ſhall firſt ſpeak of the beſt and moſt probable Means to procure a good Agreement with the King, for ſetling Religion and a laſting Peace: And next to the Propoſitions poſitions which are to be the Foundation of the Peace, and Safety of both Kingdoms. And it is ſtill our Opinion and Judgment, that the moſt equal, faireſt, and juſt way to obtain a well-grounded Peace, is by a Perſonal Treaty with the King: and that his Majeſty for that end, be invited to come to London, with Honour, Freedom, and Safety.

And as it is very far from our Thoughts and Intentions in expreſſing our Differences upon the Propoſitions, to Provoke or give Offence, ſo we truſt, that our Freedom in diſcharge of Truſt committed to us, proceeding from our Zeal to Religion, Loyalty to our King, and Love to Peace, ſhall receive a candid Interpretation from the Honourable Houſes. And that they will, in their Wiſdom, not ſlight the Deſires of a Kingdom, who in the time of England's greateſt Danger, eſteem'd no Hazard too hard for their Aſſiſtance; and are now ſeeking nothing but the Performance of the mutual Obligement, Declarations and Treaties between the Two Kingdoms, and to prevent the Dangers which may enſue upon the Violation and Breach of ſo ſolemn Engagements.

The Houſes of Parliament have frequently profeſſed, That the chief End of their Wars was the Reformation and Eſtabliſhment of Religion, according to the Covenant. And they have often promiſed and declared to the King, and to all the World, not without deep Atteſtations of the Name of God, that no trouble or Succeſs ſhould ever make them wrong or diminiſh the Power of the Crown; which were the chief Motives and Arguments that induced Scotland to engage with them in this War. Let therefore that be given to God, which is God's, and to Cæſar that which is Cæſar's; whereby it may be evident that you are not unmindful of the ſolemn Vows you made to God in the time of Diſtreſs, for Reformation of Religion; and it may alſo really appear, that the Advantages and Power which Succeſs put into our Hands, hath not leſſened your Loyalty to the King. And, according to your many Profeſſions, and near Relations, let us really and cordially cheriſh and ſtrengthen the Union between the Two Kingdoms under his Majeſty, by all the Pledges of Reciprocal Kindneſs; that ſo Religion and Righteouſneſs may flouriſh; and both Kingdoms, languiſhing under the heavy Preſſures and Calamities of an un-natural War, may live in Peace and Plenty.

As we cannot agree to this way of ſending theſe Four Bills to his Majeſty for his Aſſent, before any Treaty upon the reſt of the Propoſitions, ſo we are extreamly unſatiſfied with the Matter of theſe new Propoſitions lately communicated unto us, for the Reaſons expreſſed in our Anſwer unto them, which we do herewith deliver unto your Lordſhips, to be preſented to both Houſes of Parliament; and we do deſire that they would take the whole Buſineſs into their further Conſideration, and that there be a Perſonal Treaty with his Majeſty here at London, upon ſuch Propoſitions as ſhall be agreed upon, with Advice and Conſent of both Kingdoms, according to the Treaty.

The Commons Concurrence deſired to the Lords' Anſwer to the ſaid Declaration.

Captain Lieutenant Ingram, of the Life-Guard, being preſent, uſed ſome Expreſſions, That the Court-Martial had nothing to do to try him: Which gave ſuch Offence, that he was commanded forth, and upon Debate, he was Suſpended his preſent Employment to make an Acknowledgment of his Fault within Seven Days, or to be Caſhier'd the Army. The General Council is now Sitting: To Morrow is appointed for a Faſt: and on Thurſday they fall upon Buſineſs of Importance; of which you ſhall then hear further.

The like is to be for the ſeveral Counties of the Kingdom.

Strange have been the Rumours ſpread of late from the Iſle of Wight; one while of the King's being eſcaped thence, and then a fearful Story of the Prince of Orange with a great Fleet of Ships to begirt that Iſland. Of both theſe Stories take this punctual Account, as it is certified by Letters from thence: 'There is no probable Grounds to ſuppoſe the 'King's Eſcape, for that he ſtands engaged in his Word not to ſtir 'thence; and affirms, That that was the Place he firſt deſigned, when 'he apprehended it not ſafe to continue any longer at Hampton-Court, 'and that if he were at Liberty to chooſe any Place in his Three Kingdoms, he would not remove thence, except to London upon a Perſonal Treaty. Capt. Rolfe, and Capt. Carter's Companies are not yet 'gone over into the Iſland; the Aſſeſments whereof are to pay thoſe 'Companies.

Falſe Reports from the Iſle of Wight.

Concerning the Fleet of Hollanders come into the Road of the Iſle of Wight, this Letter will give Satiſfaction.

Letter concerning the Fleet of Hollanders at the Iſle of Wight.

Much Honoured Sir,

AFter humble Salutations, although neither my Predeceſſors nor my ſelf were ever required to give Account of the Approach of any of the Allies Ships of this Kingdom, to whom we are Servants; yet in theſe diſtracted Times, I thought my ſelf bound in Duty to give you Notice, That there are arrived on Saturday Night in St. Attan's-Road, Two Ships and Two Galliots: Alſo Three Frigots in the Cow-Road, all which have Soldiers and Proviſions in them, belonging to the Weſt-India Company of Holland, and are Bound to Braſill, for the Relief of that Country. This I thought good to adviſe you of, to take away the Fears and Jealouſies in this Iſland, which may grow by approaching of ſuch a Fleet in theſe diſtracted times, &c.

Friday, December 24.

A Letter from the General.

A Letter this Day came to the Houſe from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, with a Paper incloſed of the Reſult of the Council of War at Windſor the 23d of this Inſtant December, concerning the Ordinance of Parliament about Quartering the Soldiers in Inns and Victualing-Houſes, &c.

The Debate thereof refered to a Committee.

The Houſe debated about this Buſineſs; and Ordered, that it ſhould be referred to the Committee of the Army, to confer and conſider with his Excellency and the Officers of the Army concerning that Buſineſs; and to return their Reſults thereupon to the Houſe.

Committee for the Militia to take care to prevent Abuſes offered to ſuch as open Shops on Holy Days.

A Petition was preſented to the Houſe in the Name of ſome Free-men within the Cities of London and Weſtminſter, who this time Twelve Months were much abuſed for opening their Shops on the Day called Chriſtmas-Day, and Holy Days, though an Ordinance of Parliament had paſſed to that Purpoſe. The Houſe hereupon Ordered, That the Committee of the Militia of London, Weſtminſter, &c. ſhall take care in a ſtrict manner to prevent the like Inconveniencies for the future; and that this be Printed and Publiſhed for better Notice.

Delinquent Miniſters to be put out of the Lines of Communication.

The Houſe Ordered, That the Militia of London, Weſtminſter, Southwark, &c. ſhould take ſtrict Courſe to put out of the late Lines of Communication, all Delinquent Miniſters, according to the Ordinance in that behalf.

Committee to draw up an Anſwer to the Scots Papers.

The Houſe Ordered, That a Committee ſhould be named to draw up an Anſwer to the Scots Papers, and that they prepare it by Friday next.

Letter from the General concerning Col. Rainſborough.

The Houſe received another Letter from his Excellency, concerning Col. Rainſborough's ſpeedy going to his Charge at Sea; and the Queſtion was put, Whether Col. Rainſborough be required forthwith to go to his Charge at Sea as Vice-Admiral? And the Houſe was divided, and carried in the Affirmative, that he ſhall go.

From the Head Quarters at Windſor we had further, by Letters in relation to ſome things before-mentioned, and other Prticulars to this Purpoſe:

'Tueſday laſt, December 21. the General Council of the Army met in the Caſtle at Windſor; the greateſt part of that Day was ſpent in ſeveral Declarations made by divers Officers, concerning the preſent Juncture of Affairs; many Exhortations to Unity and Affinity, and Motions made for paſſing by Offences that had, through Weakneſs come from Brethren.

GeneralCouncil Endeavour Union, and to paſs by Offences committed.

'Major White laid hold of this Opportunity, made an Acknowledgment that he had ſpoken ſome Words raſhly at Putny, for which he was Cenſured by that Council; deſired that he might be lookt upon as one who deſired the Good of the Army; and, that being received into Favour, he ſhould readily ſubmit to the Diſcipline of the Army. This was unanimouſly approved of, and the Major accordingly re-admitted into the General Council.

Major White deſired to be admitted into Favour.

'Wedneſday, December 22. was, according to Appointment, kept as a Solemn Faſt by the General and Officers; the Duties of the Day were performed by divers of the Officers, amongſt whom there was a ſweet Harmony: The Lieutenant General, Commiſſary General Ireton, Col. Tichburne, Col. Hewſon, Mr. Peters, and other Officers, pray'd very fervently and pathetically; this continued from Nine in the Morning till Seven at Night. In the Evening a Motion was made, That whereas Col. Rainsborough had acted ſome Things which gave Offence, that in regard of his preſent Acknowledgment, his former Service might not be forgotten; but that the Council would move the General to write to the Houſe, that he would repreſent to the Parliament as their Deſire, that he might be made Vice-Admiral; which was aſſented to by all, and a Letter written to Mr. Speaker accordingly.

A Faſt kept by the General and Officers of the Army.

A Motion made on behalf of Col. Rainsborough.

'Thurſday, December 23. the General Council of the Army again met; an Ordinance drawn up Tueſday laſt by the Houſe of Commons was read, and Exceptions taken at that part of it, that no Officer or Soldier ſhould Quarter in any Private Houſe, but only in Inns, Taverns, Ale-Houſes, and Victualing-Houſes. The Exceptions were, 1. That it is like to fall out oft-times, and in many Towns, that there will be more Men and Horſes to Quarter, than the Inns or Ale-Houſes have room for. That Soldiers muſt either pay for their Victuals and Horſe-Meat at ſuch Rates as the Inns where they Quarter will reckon, as to other Gueſts, or elſe give large Satisfaction to the Inn-Keeper for their Lodging and Stable-room; otherwiſe the Inn-Keepers Lodgings and Stable-room taken up by Soldiers, will loſe the whole Benefit of his Inn, which is his Livelihood: and if the Soldiers be to give him Satisfaction as other Gueſts, it will amount to more than his Pay comes to, though it ſhould be conſtant.

General Council of the Army except againſt the Ordinance for Quartering Soldiers only in Inns and Victualing-Houſes.

'This Day alſo the Council of War ſat about the Trial of Captain-Lieutenant Bray, Mr. Croſman, Mr. Allen, and others; But upon their Acknowledgment of their raſh and irregular Proceedings, and Promiſe to ſubmit to the Diſcipline of the Army for the time to come, they were diſmiſſed and ſent to their ſeveral Regiments.

Capt. Bray, and others, upon Submiſſion Diſcharged.

An. 1647.

Saturday, commonly called Chriſtmas-Day.

Miniſters complained of for reading the Common-Prayer and preaching on Chriſtmas-Day.

Both Houſes ſitting this Day, ſome Complaints were made to the Houſe of Commons of the countenancing of Malignant Miniſters in ſome parts of London, where they Preach and uſe the Common-Prayer-Book, contrary to the Ordinance of Parliament; and ſome Delinquent Miniſters were invited, and did Preach on this Day, becauſe Chriſtmas-Day. The Houſe upon Debate hereupon, Ordered, That the Committee for plunder'd Miniſters have Power given them to examine and puniſh Church-Wardens, Sequeſtrators, and others that do countenance Delinquent Miniſters to Preach, and to Commit them if they ſee Cauſe; and upon which ſome were taken into Cuſtody.

ScandalousPaper againſt the King, Parliament and Army.

A Printed Paper was this Day ſent to the Houſe, directed to Mr. Speaker, entituled, The People and Soldiers Obſervations on the Scots Meſſage to the Parliament concerning the King, 5 November, 1647. of which the Members had many Copies. The Houſe Ordered, That it ſhould be referred to a Committee to find out the Printer, and the Author or Authors of them; it being very Scandalous againſt King and Parliament, and Army.

A Meſſage came from the Lords with a Copy of a Letter from his Excellency, ſent formerly to their Lordſhips, concerning Col. Rainſborough, their Lordſhips not as yet concurring in the Vote of the Houſe of Commons Yeſterday, for Col. Rainsborough's ſpeedy going to Sea as Vice-Admiral.

Conference deſired concerning Col. Rainsborough.

The Houſe hereupon Ordered, That a Conference ſhould be deſired with their Lordſhips on Monday next, at which they were to be acquainted with the General's Letter the 22th of December Inſtant, upon the Deſire then of the General Council, that the ſaid Col. Rainſborough may preſently go down to his Charge as Vice-Admiral at Sea, and of the General's Deſire for that Purpoſe; and the Reaſons why the Houſe did Confirm the ſaid Deſires of his Excellency and his Council, concerning the ſame.

There hath been much talk in City and Country about the Death of Mr. Saltmarſh, Miniſter, and of his laſt coming to the Head Quarters at Windſor; and we have been very deſirous, as well to ſatisfy others, as to be inſtructed of the Truth of that Buſineſs, which we have now received to this Purpoſe:

Mr. Saltmarſh viſits the Army at Windſor.

'On Saturday, 4 December Inſtant, Mr. Saltmarſh being at his Houſe near Ilford in Eſſex, told his Wife that he muſt preſently go to Windſor, for that he had ſomething reveal'd to him from Heaven, he muſt preſently acquaint the Army withal: And that Night he came to London: On Sunday in the Afternoon took Horſe for Windſor; but miſtaking his Way, by reaſon of the Night, came not to Windſor until Monday Morning; and being come had Conference with ſeveral Officers there, uſing very ſtrange and various Expreſſions to them; and afterwards came to the Caſtle, where the General Council were to meet that Day, and meeting ſeveral other Officers, told them, That he had formerly come to them as a Lamb, but now in the Spirit of a Lion, to tell them what the Lord had revealed to him from Heaven, That though the Lord had done much by them and for them, yet he had now forſaken them, and would not proſper them, becauſe they had forſaken him, their firſt Principle, and impriſoned Saints, &c. with many other ſuch like Expreſſions.

His Deportment towards them.

'Afterwards

His Expreſſions to the General.

‘Afterwards he met with the General, and told him, with his Hat on, That he had formerly ſo much doted on his Perſon, he had offended God in it; but he had now no Command from God to honour him at all: and that God had revealed unto him, that he was highly diſpleas'd with him for impriſoning of Saints, and would not proſper him. And ſpoke of great Diviſions to ariſe in the Army, to the Ruine of them.’

The like to other great Officers.

‘The like Expreſſions he uſed to another great Officer in the Army, with his Hat on. And ſpoke alſo to a Miniſter of the Army, and others, to the ſame purpoſe.

Takes his Leave of the Army, and on the Saturday following dyes.

‘On Tueſday Mr. Saltmarſh took his Leave of the Army, and told them, He had now delivered his Meſſage and done his Work, and muſt leave them, never to ſee the Army more. That Day he came to London, and ſtayed there until Thurſday, when he returned to his Houſe near Ilford in Eſſex. On Friday, being ſomewhat ill, he told his Wife, He had now finiſhed his Courſe, and muſt go to his Father. On Saturday Morning he was taken Speechleſs, and in the Afternoon that Day died. And this in brief is the Sum of the Story.

There is not any News as yet come from the Commiſſioners that went to the King.

Monday, December 27.

The State of the Navy reported.

THIS Day a Report was made to the Houſe of Commons, of the preſent State of the Navy, which took up much Time; and after much Debate it was Ordered, That it ſhould be referred to the Committee of the Navy, to conſider how the Sum of Six Thouſand Pounds per Menſem may be raiſed towards the Pay of the Navy; and that they make Report thereof with all Speed to the Houſe.

The Houſe then had debate concerning a Conference to be had with the Lords, of the Grounds upon which that Houſe had Voted Col. Rainsborough to be re-inveſted in his former Employment as Vice-Admiral, and to deſire their Lordſhip's Concurrence therein. And a Conference was had accordingly, at which the Commons acquainted the Lords, that nothing appeared againſt the Vice-Admiral; that he had cleared himſelf in the Houſe, and that the General deſired his Diſpatch to Sea, which the Houſe had Ordered, and deſired their Lordſhips Concurrence. The Lords alſo had a Letter to that Purpoſe from his Excellency. Their Lordſhips had ſome debate about it, but concluded nothing.

Dr. Triggs Petition debated

Some Debate was had upon a Petition in the behalf of Dr. Trigg, and it was appointed to be taken into Conſideration another Day.

Delinquents Compoſitions reported.

The reſt of this Day the Commons ſpent in debate of Delinquents Compoſitions reported from Goldſmiths-Hall.

This Day there came a Letter from the Commiſſioners now attending his Majeſty with the Four Bills, giving to underſtand, that they had preſented the Propoſitions to his Majeſty, as you may ſee further by the Letter following from one of the Commiſſioners.

Letter from the Commiſſioners that preſented the Propoſitions to his Majeſty.

My Lord,

IN the purſuance of the Inſtructions and Commands from the Parliament, I did with the other Commiſſioners, preſent the Bills and Propoſition to his Majeſty, at Two of the Clock this Afternoon. The King was then pleaſed to ſay, That he was aſſured, that we could not expect a preſent Anſwer; but he would take the ſame into Conſideration, and give his Anſwer within few Days.

This is all the Account I can return your Lordſhip at preſent, which I deſire you will be pleaſed to communicate to the Houſe of Peers, from

For the Right Honourable the Speaker of the Houſe of Peers, pro tempore.

The Scots Commiſſioners were not at Court when the Four Bills were preſented to his Majeſty, but came the next Day and preſented a Declaration to his Majeſty of their Diſſent to the ſaid Bills. His Majeſty gave no Anſwer to the ſame then, but the ſaid Commiſſioners had afterwards private Conference with his Majeſty ſome Hours. The Declaration given in by the Scots Commiſſioners was to this Effect:

The Effect of Scots Commiſſioners Declaration.

‘That they had endeavoured by all Ways and Means to the Parliament of England, for furthering a happy Peace; having ſeen the Propoſitions, and underſtood of Bills brought to his Majeſty, which they apprehended prejudicial to Religion, the Crown, and the Union between the Kingdoms, and therefore in the Name of the Kingdom of Scotland, declare their Diſſent.

Report concerning his Majeſty's declaring his Mind as to the Four Bills.

There are ſome further Reports, as that his Majeſty ſhould declare himſelf, That if the Parliament will reſtore his Revenue, and Fifty Thouſand Pounds a Year for the Court of Wards, grant that ſome Divines Conſult with ſome of the Parliament at the end of three Years for ſetling of Religion; declare a Period to this Parliament now, to end in reaſonable time; agree that after Twenty Years the Militia remain as it ſtood before this Parliament; and an Act of Oblivion to all Parties be, that then he will grant the Four Bills.

Intelligence from the Head Quarters at Windſor.

‘From the Head Quarters at Windſor we underſtand that the chief Buſineſs now in Hand there, is about disbanding the Supernumerary Forces, according to Votes of Parliament; and that for the more effectual and ſpeedy doing thereof, the General hath ſent his Letters to Col. Lambert, Major-General Laughborne, Major-General Milton, Major Hopton, Col. Humpheries, Col. Duckenfield, and Col. Venables, concerning the disbanding Supernumeraries, as you may ſee by the Copy of the Letter following.

The General's Letter to Col. Lambert, concerning diſbanding Supernumeraries.

SIR,

FOR the ſpeedier eaſing of the Kingdom's Burdens, and to facilitate the disbanding of all ſuch Supernumerary Forces as being of long ſtanding in the Parliament-Service, have great Arrears due to them, and conſequently require ſome conſiderable part thereof at their disbanding; I muſt deſire you forthwith, upon receipt hereof, to take effectual Order for the preſent diſmiſſing and diſcharging of all ſuch Soldiers and Officers under your Command, as have been entertained ſince the end of March laſt: And with all poſſible ſpeed I deſire you to certify to me the Number of thoſe you ſhall have ſo diſmiſſed and diſcharged in every Troop or Company under your Command, as aforeſaid

Letter from Dublin.

From Dublin by Letters dated December 16. we had thus certified, ‘That Col. Jones is now before Arcklow in the County of Wicklow, which he doubts not to carry, notwithſtanding thoſe Diſadvantages which accompanies Winter-Action, and above all places in this Iſland of Ireland. His Regiment begins to conform, and in the midſt of their Heat ſaid, They would fight againſt the Rebels. Five Thouſand of Col. Coots and Col. Ponſonbey's Forces marched Yeſterday towards Col. Jones. There is certain Intelligence come hither, that the Romiſh Clergy at their laſt great Aſſembly at Kilkenny, prevailed againſt the Laity, and have made Owen Rowe Oneal Generaliſſimo of Ireland, and Preſton is extinct; which hath ſo diſcontented him, that he inclines rather to quit all Service, than to aſſiſt any farther. Sir Charles Coots is gone into the Field with what he hath of his own Forces in Conagh, and ſuch of the Lagan as can be got to March; to wit, a part of my Lord Folyot's, who is marched in Perſon with them, part of Col. Mervin's Foot Regiment, and Troops. Sir Robert and Sir William Stewards Regiments have refuſed to march; and therein have diſobeyed the Orders and Directions of Parliament; which conſidered with what elſe is on Foot in Ulſter, may give to think, that other Ale is there brewing than Engliſh.

Of the late ſucceſs and further proceedings of the Lord Inchequin in the Province of Munſter in Ireland, there came in Letters to this purpoſe:

A Letter of the Proceedings of the Lord Inchequin in Munſter.

Loving Couſin.

ON the Tenth currant I wrote to you a few Lines, wherein I ſent you a Catalogue of the Priſoners taken in the laſt Battel fought between our Noble General the Lord Inchequin, and the Lord Taaff the Rebel; I hope it came ſafe to your Hands. We long much to hear good News from England, that this poor Kingdom might have relief in its now ſtarving and miſerable Condition, for want of Money and Cloaths. It would make your Soul bleed to ſee the poor Common Soldiers march out with never a whole Rag to his Back, nor Shooe to his Foot, feeble and faint, for want of what ſhould ſuffice Nature; and yet they are as Valiant as any Men in the whole World; they ſhewed themſelves ſo in the late Battel, when all our Lives lay at ſtake, and when our poor, naked, hunger-ſtarv'd Souls were kept Eight or Nine Days in the Field, and all our Bread was ſpent, that the Lord knows in what a feeble Condition our Men were in, when the Battel was to be ſtruck; but never more willinger poor Wretches went on, for thoſe that were ſickiſh skipt for Joy. How great Cauſe then have theſe poor Souls to be relieved out of England, and ſuffer them not to periſh for want of Proviſion? for they are enforced to fight, not only for their own Food, but for many Thouſand Families that live in ſeveral Garriſons.

Yeſterday the poor Souls went out again, and their worthy General followed this Morning. The God of Hoſts go along with them, and cover their Heads in the Day of Battle. It's thought that he means to face Owen Rowe Oneal, the Enemies moſt conſiderable Body that now they have in the Kingdom. My Lord Inchequin takes with him but 1000 Foot, ſuch as are the luſtieſt amongſt all the Garriſons, and was fain to have a Gathering amongſt the poor Inhabitants to get ſo much Monies as to by them Broges to keep their Feet from being cut to pieces by Ice, for they have a long March in hand, as is ſuppoſed. He takes likewiſe all the Horſe with him that are in caſe to travel. Let all good People put up Prayers for them. By God's Mercy, I hope to write to you or bring you Notice of the Succeſs.

Inſurrection at Canterbury about keeping of Chriſtmas.

News came this Day of a great Inſurrection at Canterbury in Kent, about keeping of Chriſtmas-Day; The Mayor of the Town endeavouring to allay the Tumult, and exerciſing his Authority according to the Ordinance of Parliament againſt ſuch vain and ſuperſtitious Obſervations, was very much abuſed by the rude Multitude, had his Head broke, and was dragged up and down till at laſt he got into an Houſe. They broke into divers Houſes of the moſt Honeſt and Religious in the Town, broke their Windows, abuſed their Perſons, and threw their Goods about the Streets. Monday their Number increaſed to above a Thouſand, Two or Three hundred kept together, they ſent abroad for the Country to come in, blockt up Paſſages, ſeized upon the Magazine and Arms in the Town-Hall, made uſe of the Arms for themſelves and Party, kept Courts of Guard in Four or Five Places, examined Paſſengers; Two Scouts were ſent from Dover to obſerve Paſſages, and to inform the Mayor that Capt. Temple would ſend him Fifty Horſe for Aſſiſtance, but the Mayor could not be met withal, the Tumult was ſo great. At laſt the Cry was, For God, King Charles, and Kent.

The like Diſorders we underſtand have been in other Counties, and alſo in London, to the great Abuſe of the preſent Lord Mayor, and Scandal of the Civil Government of the City.

They further Ordered, that the Buſineſs of the Riot at Canterbury be referred to the Examination and Conſideration of a Committee, who ſhall have Power to ſend for Parties, and Witneſſes, &c. and to Commit if they ſhall ſee Cauſe, and to certify the whole Buſineſs to the Houſe.

The ſaid Committee to certify the whole Buſineſs to the Houſe.

They were likewiſe informed of a Riot at Eling, in the County of Middleſex, which the Houſe likewiſe referred to a Committee.

They further Ordered, That the Buſineſs of this Riot at Eling ſhall be referred to the Juſtices of Peace in the County of Middleſex, who are to proceed againſt them at the Seſſions, according to the Law of the Land, as Riotors; that ſo ſevere Puniſhment may be executed on them, to the Terror of others for the future.

The Riot at Eling referred to the Juſtices of Middleſex.

A Letter this Day came from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, that he had given a Commiſſion to Sir Arthur Hazlerig to be Governor of Newcaſtle. The Houſe approved thereof, and Ordered, that he forthwith repair thither, to take the Charge of the ſaid Place upon him accordingly.

Sir Arthur Hazlerig made Governor of Newcaſtle.

The Reader is not to Apprehend hereby, that his Excellency hath any Miſlike or Doubt of the Integrity, Judgment, or Valour of Col. Lilburne, the former Governor; but that himſelf is glad that the thing is ſo diſpoſed of, for ſuch Reaſons as are not convenient to be made Publick.

Col. Lilburne willing to reſign the ſaid Truſt.

May it Pleaſe Your Majeſty,

The Scots Declaration concerning the Four Bills preſented to his Majeſty.

THere is nothing which we more conſtantly Endeavour, and do more earneſtly Deſire, than a good Agreement and happy Peace between your Majeſty and your Parliaments of both Kingdoms; neither have we left any Means unaſſayed, that with united Councils with the Houſes of Parliament of England, and by making joint Applications to your Majeſty there might be a Compoſure of all Differences: But the New Propoſitions communicated to us by the Houſes, and the Bills therewith preſented to your Majeſty, are ſo prejudicial to Religion, the Crown, and the Union and Intereſt of the Kingdoms, and ſo far different from the former Proceedings and Engagements betwixt the Kingdoms, as we cannot concur therein. Therefore we do in the Name of the Kingdom of Scotland, diſſent from theſe Propoſitions and Bills now tender'd to your Majeſty.

The Lords alſo concur.

The Lords were deſired to concur herein, which they have done accordingly.

The Parliament's Commiſſioners return diſſatisfied.

The Parliament's Commiſſioners came back from his Majeſty to London this Day; but bring with them little Satisfaction from his Majeſty in anſwer to the Four Bills.

The Houſe Ordered, That Mr. Marſhall and Mr. Nye be deſired to come to Morrow Morning to Pray in the Houſe of Commons, to ſeek God for a Bleſſing upon their Conſultations and Debates, they tending to Things of great Concernment, that God would direct them therein.

And the Officers came to them, and aſſured them the Spirit of the Army was, That ſince God hath put an Opportunity now into their Hands of purpoſe to ſettle the Kingdom, if God ſhould honour the Army to be further helping to them, the Army would live and die with them and for them willingly. Whereby they were much joyed, and received their Expreſſions with abundance of Thanks.

'The chief Officers, Lieutenant-General Cromwell, Commiſſary-General Ireton, and others, Yeſterday, viz. Friday, dined with them, and with much Love parted with them when they took their Leave for London, and the Caſtle gave them a Salute with Five and Twenty Pieces of Ordnance.

'The Agreement was ſweet and comfortable, the whole Matter of the Kingdom being left with the Parliament. Major-General Lambert, Sir Arthur Hazlerig, Governor of Newcaſtle, and Major-General Milton were preſent at this parting, with many Officers.

The Governor to have Commiſſion to try the chief Actors in this Mutiny.

It was ordered further, That the General, Sir Thomas Fairfax be required to grant a Commiſſion to the Governor of the Iſle of Wight, to try the chief Actors in this Mutiny by Martial Law, or that ſhall make further Diſturbance; and ſuch as are not triable by Martial-Law, are to be tried by Commiſſion of Oyer and Terminer, ordered to be forthwith ſent down to that Purpoſe.

The Commiſſioners Report that preſented the Four Bills to his Majeſty.

THE Houſe of Commons ſat very cloſe this Day, from Morning until late at Night, upon debate of the King's laſt Meſſage, and the Report from the Commiſſioners that preſented the Four Bills to his Majeſty; and upon the Reſult of all (there being no Satisfaction given by his Majeſty's laſt Meſſage as to the Deſires of the Parliament, for paſſing the Bills, or any Inclination in his Majeſty appearing for a Compoſure in that way, but the Offer barely of a Perſonal Treaty, as alſo hath been much preſſed for by the Scottiſh Commiſſioners in their Papers, and who alſo diſſented to the Four Bills) after much Debate it was put to the Queſtion, Whether any Addreſſes ſhould be made hereafter to his Majeſty? and this with other Votes was then reſolved upon as followeth:

Votes for Non-Addreſſes to his Majeſty.

Firſt, That no more Addreſſes be made from the Parliament to the King; Nor any Letters or Meſſage received from him.

Secondly, That it ſhall be Treaſon for any Perſons whatſoever to deliver any Meſſage to the King, or receive any Letter or Meſſage from him, without Leave from both Houſes of Parliament.

Thirdly, That the Members of both Houſes of the Committees of both Kingdoms, have Power to ſit and act alone (as formerly the Committees of both Kingdoms had) for the Safety of the Kingdom.

Fourthly, That the Earl of Kent be added to this Committee in the Place of the Earl of Eſſex, deceaſed; and Sir John Evelyn and Mr. Fines in the Place of Sir Philip Stapleton, deceaſed, and Mr. Glyn, Recorder (now in the Tower.)

Fifthly, That a Committee nominated to draw up a Declaration to be Publiſhed to ſatisfy the Kingdom of the Reaſon of the Paſſing of theſe Votes.

Laſtly, That the Concurrence of the Lords be deſired to theſe Votes.

Agreement between the General and Parliament certified.

From Windſor this Day it was certified, That the Proſecution of their good Agreement betwixt the General and the Parliament's Commiſſioners, about Disbanding Supernumeraries, Free Quarter, and drawing the Army into the Towns and Garriſons by the Fifteenth of January Inſtant. The General, for further Satisfaction, hath declared by a Declaration as follows:

WHereas the Houſes of Parliament, for eaſing the preſent Burthens of the Kingdom, have Ordained, That all the Supernumerary Forces of the Kingdom above the Eſtabliſhed Army ſhall be forthwith Disbanded; and for that Purpoſe, and to the End that the Eſtabliſhed Army for the future may be conſtantly paid, and the Countries relieved from Free Quarter, have likewiſe Ordained the preſent raiſing of great Sums of Money, and the Army is appointed by the Fifteenth of January to draw into Towns, Cities and Garriſons. Publick Grievances Debated.

THE Houſe of Commons this Day conſidered of the Publick Grievances of the People, and how they may be remedied. And firſt of all they began with that of their own Members, that they ſhall be liable to pay their Debts; and paſſed this enſuing Order thereupon.

Protection of Members taken off.

The Commons in this preſent Parliament Aſſembled, having a tender regard to the General Good of this Kingdom, and conſidering the many weighty Affairs which hath prolonged this preſent Seſſion of Parliament; during which Time, by reaſon of the Priviledges of Parliament, the Proſecution of Juſt Suits may be too much delayed; for the preſent Remedy whereof, the ſaid Commons being willing to forbear for ſome time their own Intereſt and Priviledge for the Publick Good, Do Order, and be it Ordered by the Commons in this preſent Parliament Aſſembled, That no Perſon or Perſons under the Authority of the ſaid Houſe, except the Members thereof, ſhall from the Twentieth Day of this Inſtant January, Anno Domini 1647. during this preſent Seſſion of Parliament, have any Protection or Immunity by reaſon of any Priviledge of the ſaid Houſe of Parliament, or derived from the Members thereof, or any of them in any Action or Suit for Debt; or any Action or Suit grounded upon any Right or Title in any Lands, Tenements, or Heriditaments, or upon any Contract upon Borrowing or Lending, or Buying or Selling, or grounded upon any Security given or to be given by Leaſe, Mortgage, or otherwiſe, for any Sum or Sums of Money.

Members of Parliament ſubject to Actions at Law.

And it is hereby further Ordered, That during this Seſſion of Parliament, in the Caſes aforeſaid, the Members of the ſaid Houſe of Parliament, and every of them, their Lands, Tenements, Hereditaments, Goods and Chattels ſhall be ſubject to any Action, Suit, Proceſs, Execution, Decree, or other Demands whatſoever, in Law or Equity (ſo that the ſame extend not to the Impriſonment or Arreſt of the Perſon) or to Proſecution upon any Penal Law.

And be it further Ordered, That every Member of this Houſe having a Proceſs delivered him for Appearance in the Caſes aforeſaid, do accordingly make his Appearance; or in Default, this Houſe on Complaint thereof will take ſuch Courſe therein, as to Juſtice ſhall appertain.

A Committee appointed to receive Complaints in ſuch Caſes.

The Commons alſo further Ordered, that it ſhould be referred to a Committee of Complaints to receive all Complaints againſt ſuch Members of the Houſe who have Proceſſes delivered them in Caſes mentioned in the ſaid Order, and do make default thereof, and to report the ſame to the Houſe, that the Houſe may take Courſe therein for the Satisfaction of the Parties.

The

Committee of Grievances to be choſen.

The Houſe then alſo conſidered of ſome Courſe to be taken for Hearing the Grievances of the Subject, who (by Reaſon of the Publick Affairs that hath laid many Years upon the Parliament) could not have their particular Grievances redreſſed. And after much Debate, the Houſe ordered a Committee ſhould be choſen to conſider of the Grievances that have been promiſed to the People to be redreſſed, in all their Ordinances, Declarations and Votes; and likewiſe they are to conſider what Eaſe is fit to be given in relation to their Burthens, their Freedoms, and their Liberties: And likewiſe of reforming of Courts of Juſtice and Proceedings in the Law; and in all Matters of Trade, and of all other Things of Publick Concernment, which they ſhould hold fit and reaſonable for the Good and Weale of the People; and that they prepare Ordinances for the ſame, and preſent them to the Houſe: To the end the Subject may have Satisfaction accordingly.

Money to be provided for disbanding Supernumeraries.

They ordered that it ſhould be referred to a Committee to take care that Monies may be in readineſs in the ſeveral Counties of the Kingdom for disbanding Supernumerary Forces, and that they take care of the disbanding them, and of putting in Execution all other Things in relation to the perfecting of the ſaid Work.

Carisbrook-Caſtle to be furniſhed with Proviſions.

The Houſe Ordered, That Carisbrook-Caſtle in the Iſle of Wight, where his Majeſty now is, ſhould be furniſhed with Proviſions and other Neceſſaries; and likewiſe all the Forces and Caſtles in the Iſle of Wight, which was referred to a Committee to ſee done accordingly.

Votes concerning the King preſented to the Lords, and Ordinances paſt for Delinquents Eſtates.

The Votes concerning the King were this Day preſented to the Lords, and their Lordſhips ordered to debate them on Saturday next, in a full Houſe. Divers Ordinances paſſed for Delinquents Eſtates, and ſeveral Inſtitutions granted.

Sir W. Conſtable arrived in the Iſle of Wight. Capt. Burley ſecured in the Dungeon. His Majeſty diſcontented for the removal of his Chaplains.

From the Iſle of Wight it is certified, ‘That Sir William Conſtable and the reſt ſent from the General (to aſſiſt Col. Hammond, the Governor) are come thither. Capt. Burley, that cauſed the Drum to beat up at Newport for God and King Charles, and was chief Actor in the late Tumult in the Iſland, is now in the Dungeon in Carisbrook-Caſtle, and is to be tried by Martial-Law. His Majeſty ſeems much diſcontented ever ſince that Buſineſs, and that his own Servants and Chaplains are removed from him, and ſtirs not abroad out of the Caſtle; but hath been very earneſt with Col. Hammond, the Governor, to have Two of his Chaplains, (viz.) Dr. Hammond and Dr. Shelden, re-admitted; whoſe Requeſt in that Particular Col. Hammond hath recommended to the Parliament, and to Sir Thomas Fairfax, to know their Pleaſures. Some further Particulars by Letters from thence are thus certified.

Iſle of Wight ſetled firm to the Parliament yet Deſigns upon it by a Dutch Man of War and Antrim's Ships. His Majeſty's Perſon would be more ſecure in another Place.

‘Since the appeaſing of Capt. Burley we are in good Quiet: I believe the State's Men of War ſhould have been made uſe of. Though Portſmouth ſlighted the Scots Commiſſioners, yet they gave a free Salute to the Engliſh, as the Canons reported. This Iſle is ſettled firm to the Parliament; yet we think here, that another Place may be more ſecure for his Majeſty's Perſon. I believe Cartwright hath ſecret Intelligence. We hear that the Earl of Antrim's Ships are ſetting out from Ireland, perhaps hither, with ſome other Conjunction, which may be dangerous to this Place.

Wedneſday, January 5.

The Houſe of Commons having formerly paſt a Vote that all ſuch Delinquents, whoſe Eſtates Real and Perſonal were not worth Two Hundred Pounds ſhould be diſcharged from Compoſition for their Delinquency.

An Ordinance was this Day brought into the Houſe, in Proſecution of the ſaid Vote; which was Read, and Debated, and ordered to be Committed.

Col. Hammond and Sir Will. Conſtable to have reſpect to the Safety and Security of his Majeſty's Perſon.

The Houſe this Day conſidered of the great Danger that might enſue, by having diſaffected and unfaithful Attendants about his Majeſty at the Iſle of Wight in Carisbrook-Caſtle, upon ſome of whom a jealous Eye hath lately been caſt; and for prevention of any Inconveniencies hereby for the future, the Houſe hath Ordered, that all Power ſhould be given to Col. Hammond, Governor of the Iſle of Wight, and Sir William Conſtable, reſiding there, to place and diſplace ſuch as they ſhall think fit, in Relation to the Safety and Security of his Majeſty's Perſon.

Allowance for Attendants on his Majeſty.

They Ordered, That it ſhould be referred to the Committee of the Revenue, to conſider of an Allowance to be made to ſuch Attendants as now attend his Majeſty, or ſhall attend him by Ordinance of Parliament.

Firſt Fruits and Tenths to be aboliſhed.

An Ordinance was read in the Houſe of Commons, for aboliſhing the Payment of all Tenths and Firſt Fruits due to the Crown, and Arrears thereof, from the Subject; which was ordered to be read again the next Week.

Delinquents Compoſitions reported.

The reſt of this Day the Houſe ſpent upon reading the Compoſitions of Delinquents reported from the Committee of Goldſmiths-Hall.

The Houſe of Commons this Day paſſed ſome additional Directions for the Billetting of the Army, when they are upon a March or ſettled in their Quarters, and ſent them up to the Lords, who likewiſe concurred therein. We will for better Notice to all Men, inſert the Directions at large.

Directions for Billetting of Soldiers.

Thirdly, That after the ſaid Fortnight is expired, or after the Forces ſhall be furniſhed with Pay, as aforeſaid, in any Garriſons, Towns, or Cities, where any forces ſhall come, by Order as aforeſaid, to be a ſetled Quarter, ſo many of them as cannot be conveniently diſpoſed of to Inns, Ale-Houſes, Taverns or Victualing Houſes, ſhall be Billetted at other Houſes by the chief Magiſtrate of the Place, or (if he ſhall refuſe to do it) by the chief Officer preſent with the ſaid Forces; and in caſe of any Abuſe or Inequality therein, the ſaid Magiſtrate, or next Juſtice of Peace to have Power to order and alter the Proportions of Billetting to the ſeveral Inhabitants, as he ſhall find moſt fit and equal.

By Letters from Newport in the Iſle of Wight, in relation to the late Paſſages ſo much talk'd of, betwixt his Majeſty and Col. Hammond, upon diſmiſſing Mr. Aſhburnham and the reſt of the King's Party from Court, it was thus certified:

‘We have had a ſtrange Alteration here, The Parliament's Commiſſioners were no ſooner out of Town, but the Governor commands

'all the King's Party forthwith to depart the Caſtle: The unexpectedneſs of the thing cauſed ſuch a Confuſion amongſt us, that the King was ſoon acquainted with it; who ſending for the Governor, demanded of him the Cauſe of this ſo ſudden Change, whether it was ſuitable to his Engagement, and whether it became a Man of Honour and honeſty to deal thus with them that had ſo freely caſt themſelves upon him? He told the King, That both his Honour and Honeſty were in the firſt place to them that employed him; and next, that he thought the King could not but confeſs, that he had done more, as things ſtood, for him, than he himſelf could have expected. The King demanded, Whether the Commiſſioners were not at all privy to the Thing. He told him, No. He asked him by what Authority he did it? He told him, He had the Authority of both Houſes ſo to do: But being yet preſſed to it, he told him, That he believed the King was not ignorant of the Cauſe of his ſo doing: But he profeſſing the contrary, he was neceſſitated to tell him, That he now plainly ſaw his Majeſty was acted by other Counſels than ſtood with the Good of this Kingdom; he knew likewiſe of what Concernment the Perſon of the King was to the Kingdom, and that ſhould he endeavour to remove himſelf hence, theſe Gentlemen would be aſſiſting; which the King ſaid he doubted not: But, ſaid the King, will you infer this from my Anſwer? The King preſently commanded Mr. Aſhburnham to read it to all preſent; which done, the King gave the Governor Thanks for beſpeaking the Good-liking of the Houſes; For once, ſaid the King, I will dare to be a Prophet, for if ever the Houſes return an Anſwer, believe me not; but inſtead they will give the Governor Thanks, and ſend him Gratuities. Much paſt on both ſides, but finding the Governor fixt as to his Principles, they of the King's Party came forthwith to take leave, which was done with a great deal of Sadneſs, with Tears in their Eyes, and Mr. Aſhburnham cried down right.

'The King told the Governor, He could not anſwer what he had done. But he told him, He could; and that had he done amiſs let his Head anſwer for it, ſo that his Majeſty and his poor Kingdoms may be happy, he did not care how ſoon it was.

By Letters from York of the 8th of January it was thus certified:

Committee of York-ſhire met about Levying the Six Months Aſſeſment.

'This Day Ferdinand Lord Fairfax met here, together with the Committees of this County, for the Levying and Gathering the Six Months Aſſeſments upon the Ordinance for Sixty Thouſand Pounds per Menſem; and theſe Countries, as well as the reſt of the Kingdom, are in great Expectation for the Fifteenth of January, promiſing themſelves to be freed from Free Quarters then, according to the Ordinance of Parliament, upon the Payment of their Aſſeſment; but we do not ſee any viſible Courſe taken for the paying of theſe Forces to enable them to pay Quarters, which they would be as willing to do as any other Forces in the Kingdom, if they had wherewithal; and the Fifteenth of January is nearer to them than (we fear) Monies.

Fourteen Days Pay for the Northern Forces paid in.

'The Old Fourteen Days Pay, long ſince ordered by the Parliament to be paid to theſe Forces out of the Sequeſtrations, is now well nigh (with much ado, after divers Applications to the Committees, with the Sequeſtrators and Tenants of the Eſtates) gotten in: The Weſt and North Ridings have paid in their Proportions, and part of the

'Eaſt: The other part will be paid in about Three Weeks hence. It
'came very hardly; the Committee could not get it upon their Or'ders and Summons: Some Officers of the Army in each Riding were 'appointed to aſſiſt them; but that proved not fully effectual: Then
'a Party of Horſe were ſent to aſſiſt them, and to lie upon the Refu-
'ſers till they ſhould bring in their Rents, which hath been the Means
'for obtaining it.

Col. Malleverer continued Governor of Hull.

We had likewiſe the Copy of a Letter from the Garriſon of Hull to his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, about continuing their Governor Col. Malleverer, and is as followeth:

May it pleaſe Your Excellency,

The Town returns Thanks to the General for the ſame.

THE ample Manifeſtations of your good Affection towards this Corporation in the Return of Col. Malleverer to his preſtine Command in this Place, hath laid ſuch an Obligation upon us, as we cannot ſufficiently expreſs our Thankfulneſs for the ſame, for fear of the Inconveniencies often incident to ſuch ſudden Changes in Government, had poſſeſs our Hearts with many dubious Thoughts, which we muſt confeſs by his Reſtauration, and the fiducial Confidence we have of the Integrity of that Gentleman, is now removed. Our thankful Acknowledgment is all at preſent we can return for this Noble Favour; humbly entreating that your Excellency will be ſtill pleaſed to continue him amongſt us, rather than any other, of whoſe Fidelity we have had ſo great Experience. And in lieu of ſo high a Favour, be pleaſed to accept of our Cordial Engagements for our beſt Aſſiſtance unto him upon all Occaſions which may concern the Welfare of the Town or State: In Teſtimony whereof we do now and ever ſubſcribe our ſelves, Hull, 4 Jan. 1647. Your Excellency's Humble and Obliged Servants.

Tueſday, January 11.

The Army's Declaration preſented by Sir Hardreſs Waller, &c. to adhere to the Parliament in their Proceedings againſt the King.

THE Houſe of Commons this Day being informed that divers principal Officers of the Army were at the Door, they were called in, and Sir Hardreſs Waller, acquainted the Houſe, that the General had commanded Seven Collonels of them, with other Officers of Rank and Quality, in the Name of the whole Army to make their Humble Addreſs to this Houſe; they have repreſented their Intentions in Writing, in that which is called a Declaration; and they do refer it, that it ſhall either have Name or Life, and be expoſed to View according as it ſhall receive Approbation and Direction from this Houſe.

The Houſe approves of the ſaid Declaration.

The Officers being withdrawn, the Paper delivered in by the ſaid Officers was read, and was ſtiled, A Declaration of his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, and the General Council of the Army, of their Reſolutions to the Parliament in their Proceedings concerning the King, That it was reſolved in the Affirmative, at the General Council of the Army at Windſor, Jan. 9. 1647. Nemine Contradicente. Which Declaration was read, and ordered to be read again the ſecond time.

Reſolved, &c. That this Houſe doth approve of this Declaration; and doth Order, That the Thanks of this Houſe be returned to the General and Army for it. And, for better Satisfaction, we will now give you the Declaration it ſelf as followeth:

A DECLARATION from his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax and the General Council of their Army, of their Reſolutions to adhere to the Parliament in their Proceedings concerning the King.

The Army's Declaration at large.

NOtwithſtanding the high Violation of the Kingdom's Rights and Liberties, and the Endeavours to ſwallow up the whole Intereſt of the Kingdom's, into the Power and Will of a King, which the preſent King's Reign hath afforded; we have obſerved that the Parliament was (through his Neceſſities) and againſt his declared Intentions to the contrary, called, and put into a Condition of vindicating the Kingdom in thoſe Things, hath yet Enacted with that Tenderneſs towards the King (as to any thing of Right that might be in him, or Duty towards him) as that in the Proteſtation-Covenant, and many Declarations publiſhed by them; that have held forth a careful Regard to the Preſervation of the King's Perſon and Juſt Rights, with and in the Preſervation and Vindication of the Publick Intereſts and Safety of the Kingdom, and by the whole Service of their Actions, and their manifold humble Addreſſes to him for the Preſervation and Settlement of all; they have, we conceive, abundantly demonſtrated the Reality and Innocency of their Intentions towards him: In all which we have ſtill underſtood the Sence and Intention to be no other, than that the Preſervation of the King's Perſon and particular Rights ſhould be ſo endeavoured as it might be conſiſtent with, and not deſtructive to thoſe great and more obliging Publick Intereſts of Religion, and the Rights, Liberties and Safety of the Kingdom, and not otherwiſe.

And accordingly in the late Declarations and Papers that have occaſionally paſt from this Army, as to our Deſires of Settlement to the Kingdom, we have expreſſed our real Wiſhes, that if the King would in things neceſſary and eſſential to the clearing, ſetling and ſecuring of thoſe Publick Intereſts, give his Concurrence to put them paſt future Diſputes, then his Rights ſhould be conſidered and ſetled, ſo far as might be conſiſtent with thoſe Superior Intereſts of the Publick, and the Security thereof for the future.

And that by an Addreſs to the King upon things ſo purely eſſential to thoſe Publick Ends it might once more come to a clear Trial, whether we could with the Preſervation of the King's Perſon and particular Intereſts, have a Security to the other, hath been our earneſt Deſire, our great Expectation, and our Endeavour, that we and others might be in a patient waiting for ſuch an Iſſue.

Now in the Parliament's Laſt Addreſs to the King, we find they have inſiſted only upon ſome few things, ſo eſſential to that Intereſt of the Kingdom, which they have hitherto engaged for; as that without betraying the Safety of the Kingdom and themſelves, and all that engaged with them in that Cauſe; without denying that which God in the Iſſue of this War hath been ſuch a Teſtimony unto, they could not go lower, and (thoſe things granted) they have offered to treat for all the reſt.

Thus we account that great Buſineſs of a Settlement to the Kingdom, and Security to the Publick Intereſt thereof, by and with the King's Concurrence, to be brought to ſo clear a Trial, as that (upon the King's Denial of thoſe things) we can ſee no further Hopes of Settlement or Security that way.

And therefore underſtanding that upon the Conſideration of that Denial added to ſo many other, the Honourable Houſe of Commons by ſeveral Votes upon Monday laſt, have Reſolved, Not to make any further Addreſs or Application to the King, nor receive any from him, nor to ſuffer either in others.

We do freely and unanimouſly declare for our ſelves and the Army, that we are reſolved, through the Grace of God, firmly to adhere with and ſtand by the Parliament in the things voted on Monday laſt concerning the King, and in what ſhall be further neceſſary for Proſecution thereof, and for the ſetling and ſecuring of the Parliament and Kingdom without the King and againſt him, or any other that ſhall hereafter pertake with him.

Lord Mayor and Juſtices to proſecute Rioters in Fleet-Street.

This puts me in mind of the late calumnious and ſcandalous Reports raiſed againſt the preſent Lord Mayor of London, concerning the like mutinous Diſorder by Apprentices, and others, in Cornhill on Chriſtmas-Day laſt. That one Riſe Williams, an inferiour Servant to one Mr. William Garway, Merchant, was dead in Priſon, and that the Lord Mayor was in Queſtion about his Death, &c. which is all very falſe, and ſcandalous, and in no part true, as might be inſtanced were it neceſſary; but 'tis enough (we conceive) to ſatisfy all Men of the Falſity of this Story in the mentioning of it.

Falſe Reports of the Lord Mayor.

It was likewiſe this Day upon further Debate Ordered, That the General do take Courſe for the Safety and Security of the Parliament; and that he ſend ſome Number of Horſe and Foot to be Quartered within the Liberties of Weſtminſter; and to prevent the Quartering of them upon the Inhabitants of Weſtminſter, they ordered the Foot ſhould be quartered in White-Hall, where they will be the leaſt Trouble and the greateſt Eaſe to the Inhabitants, and the Horſe in the Mewſe near Charing-Croſs, and all Accommodation of Bedding, and otherwiſe, was ordered to be provided for them.

They likewiſe minded them of their former Papers of the Arrears due to that Kingdom. The Commons appointed to debate the ſaid Papers to Morrow.

The Declaration and Votes being of ſo material Concernment, for better Satisfaction and Notice to all Men, is as followeth:

The Preamble to the ſaid Votes.

The Lords and Commons Aſſembled in Parliament, after many Addreſſes to his Majeſty, for the preventing and ending this unnatural War raiſed by him againſt his Parliament and Kingdom, having lately ſent Four Bills to his Majeſty, which did contain only Matter of Safety and Security to the Parliament and Kingdom, referring the Compoſure of all other Differences to a Perſonal Treaty with his Majeſty, and having received an abſolute Negative, do hold themſelves obliged to uſe their utmoſt Endeavours ſpeedily to ſettle the preſent Government in ſuch a way as may bring the greateſt Security to this Kingdom, in the Enjoyment of the Laws and Liberties thereof; and in order thereunto, and that the Houſes may receive no Delays and Interruptions in ſo great and neceſſary a Work, they have taken theſe Reſolutions, and paſſed theſe Votes following, (viz.)

This Day alſo a Declaration was preſented to the Houſe of Peers, from the General Sir Thomas Fairfax, and his Council of War. It was preſented by certain Commanders in the Army; the Effect thereof as followeth:

Another Declaration from the General and Council of War.

The General and his Council of War, taking Notice of ſome unworthy Endeavours to aſperſe the Integrity of their Proceedings, as aiming at the Overthrowing of Peerage, and undermining of the Rights and Priviledges of the Houſe of Peers, do unanimouſly declare, That they hold themſelves obliged in Juſtice and Honour to endeavour to Preſerve the Peerage of this Kingdom, with the Juſt Rights belonging longing to the Houſe of Peers; and will really in their Places and Calling perform the ſame.

And as in the firſt place they look upon the carrying on of this great Common Cauſe, wherein both Houſes of Parliament ſtand engaged (which they hope no reſpect ſhall make them to deſert) ſo ſhall they to and in proſecution of thoſe Publick Ends, be very careful to preſerve and maintain the Right and Honour belonging to the Places and Perſons of the Peers in England.

By the Appointment of his Excellency Sir Tho. Fairfax and his Council of War.

J. Ruſhworth, Secr.

After reading and Debate, the Preſenters were called in, and had this Anſwer from the Houſe of Peers:

Gentlemen,

The Preſenters of the ſaid Declaration had Thanks returned.

THE Lords receive with great Satisfaction this Declaration which you have preſented unto them, as the unanimous Engagement of the Council of War: And they have commanded me to return particular Thanks to the General and your ſelves; and by you they deſire their Thanks may be returned to the Council of War and the whole Army.

And they further have commanded me to aſſure you, That as they have hazarded their Lives and Fortunes in the Maintenance of the true Religion, and the Liberties of the Kingdom, and Priviledges of Parliament, according to our former Engagements, and for the procuring a juſt and ſafe Peace to this diſtracted and diſtreſſed Kingdom, ſo they ſhall ſtill purſue thoſe Ends, from which no reſpects whatſoever ſhall either alienate their Hearts, or leſſen their Endeavours.

Tueſday, January 18.

A Letter this Day was brought to the Houſe from ſome of the Committee at Ailsbury, with a Warrant encloſed from one Mr. Chapman of that Country, directed to a high Conſtable of a Hundred near Redding; requiring him to ſummon the Inhabitants of his Hundred to meet at a certain Place in that County, to conſider (as he pretended) of a Petition to be preſented to the Parliament from that County.

After much Debate of this Buſineſs, and conſidering what ſad Conſequences might happen in drawing the People together upon every falſe Pretence, they ordered that the ſaid Mr. Chapman ſhould be referred to the Committee of Complaints, who had Power to examine him, and to commit or diſcharge him as they ſhould think fit.

The Houſe this Day Ordered, becauſe of the Soldiers Quartering at White-Hall, That his Majeſty's Manuſcripts and Books in White-Hall, ſhould be removed to St. James's, there to be kept in ſafe Cuſtody till further Order of the Houſe.

The Houſe this Day conſidered of the Papers from the Commiſſioners of Scotland, in relation to the Monies in Arrear to the Kingdom of Scotland from this Nation. And upon peruſal of their Receipts and Certificates of the Treaſurers, it appeared that there is due and unpaid of the Two Hundred Thouſand Pounds, and of the Two Four Months Aſſeſments for the Payment of the Scots Army, from the City of London, and the ſeveral Counties of the Kingdom, the Sum of Sixty thouſand one hundred eighty-ſix Pounds. Whiles they were in Debate of this Buſineſs, a Meſſage came from the Lords, deſiring a Conference preſently in the Painted Chamber, if it might ſtand with their Conveniency, about ſome things that concerned the Safety of the Kingdom; This occaſioned the putting off the Debate of the Scotch Papers until to Morrow.

The Houſe ordered to agree to the Conference, and Members went up accordingly.

After this Conference their Lordſhips acquainted the Houſe of Commons that they had received Information by one Mr. Maſterman, Miniſter of Shoreditch, that being deſired by a Friend of his to go to a Private Houſe to give his Judgment on a Petition to be preſented to the Houſe of Commons, he accordingly went, and found there Lieut. Col. John Lilburne, and many others, debating about a Petition to be preſented to the Parliament; that Lieut. Col. John Lilburn, and others, ſhould then ſpeak many things tending much to the Diſhonour of both Houſes of Parliament and their Proceedings; and expreſſed themſelves in ſuch Language againſt both Houſes of Parliament, that it was not fitting for a Man of his Coat to mention them; and that though this was ſtiled a Petition, yet it was intended only under the Colour and Pretence of a Petition, and that many Thouſand Copies thereof ſhould be diſperſed through the Kingdom, to the Diſhonour of the Parliament and their Proceedings.

That their Lordſhips had formerly committed Lieut. Col. John Lilburne to the Tower of London, and having Information of his going abroad, ſent to the Lieutenant of the Tower to know the Reaſon he was not detained in Cuſtody, according to the Order of that Houſe; who anſwered that there was lately an Order of the Houſe of Commons directed to him, and requiring him to ſuffer Lieut. Col. John Lilburne to go abroad about his Occaſions; and that ſince the ſaid Order he could give no account of him.

Their Lordſhips deſired that no Occaſion might be given to hinder the Union and Affections between both Houſes of Parliament, and that the Houſe would ſpeedily conſider of this Buſineſs.

The Houſe of Commons, after the Conference, took this Buſineſs into Conſideration, and had much Debate thereupon; and Ordered, That the Order formerly made by that Houſe, for giving Liberty to Lieut. Col. John Lilburne to go about his Occaſions, ſhould be repealed, and that he be committed Priſoner to the Tower, and that the Lieutenant of the Tower ſhould bring him to the Bar of the Houſe of Commons to Morrow Morning.

They further Ordered that one Mr. Wildman ſhould be taken into Cuſtody by the Serjeant at Arms.

Wedneſday, January 19.

The Houſe of Commons this Day, according to former Order, conſidered of the Buſineſs Yeſterday concerning Lieut. Col. John Lilburne; who was called in, and made a large, if not a tedious Anſwer to the Information or Charge againſt him, ſome whereof he confeſſed, and part denied.

The Proof of the Information was likewiſe heard, and the Examination of this Buſineſs held till Six at Night; the Houſe then came to a Reſolution upon the Buſineſs, and Ordered, That Lieut. Col. John Lilburne ſhould be committed Priſoner to the Tower of London, and that

'That after ſo long Reſtraint by their Lordſhips Order, and no 'Proſecution of the Charge againſt them, they may expect from their 'Juſtice their Liberty, the which they will employ with more Satiſ'faction, as it will appear aright to their Lordſhips Quality, as well 'as a Freedom to the preſent Condition of their Lordſhips

To the Right Honourable the Houſe of Commons Aſſembled in PARLIAMENT.

The Declaration of the County of Southampton preſented by the Grand Jury of that County.

AS We deteſt with Horror the Leavying of a new War, ſo we deſire from our Hearts the firm Settlement of a laſting Peace, after ſo many Applications to the King made by the Parliament, and eſpecially after the laſt Addreſs, wherein the Houſes (as we humbly conceive) demand nothing, but what is moſt eſſential to the Safety of the People: And after the King's abſolute Negative to the laſt Meſſage of the Honourable Houſes, we exceedingly doubt of any Settlement by future Application to the King, and therefore we do moſt humbly acknowledge the Wiſdom and Goodneſs of the Parliament, in reſolving to ſettle the Peace of this Poor, Miſerable, Diſtracted Nation: And, by the Bleſſing of God, (as in Duty we are bound) we ſhall not only moſt willingly and chearfully ſubmit and acquieſce in ſuch Settlement as they in their grave Judgment ſhall find to be moſt conducible to our Peace; but alſo in our ſeveral Places and Callings ſhall heartily endeavour to promote the ſame.

SIR,

Letter of a dangerous Deſign about Glouceſterſhire.

A Gentleman came this Morning to Town, and gives us Intelligence of the whole Story of the Deſign you formerly intimated unto me; he had it from his Brother who was preſent, and heard the whole Debate, thus:

There was a Council held at Bradway in Worceſterſhire, the greateſt part of the laſt Week, by about Eighty Officers of Col. Kempſon, Col. Ayres, Col. Herbert's, and another Regiment of Foot, and of Col. Cooke's Regiment of Horſe. Their Debate was upon their Diſcontents, the Surprizal of Glouceſter; it being alledged that there were Three Hundred Barrels of Powder there, and that they knew where to come at it; and that the Works being bad, they would eaſily ſurprize the Town by Night. Hartlebury-Caſtle they conceived would be delivered them by Lieut. Col. Turton; if not, they held that eaſy to be ſurprized too: They had ſome Diſcourſe about Ludlow, Shrewsbury, and Hereford, and an Aſſurance that Langborne would join with them; and that they could have Two Thouſand Cap-Men from Bewdly; and alſo that the diſcontented Citizens of London would furniſh them with preſent Monies. To theſe Debates there were about Twenty Diſſenters, ſo that Saturday laſt they broke up their Council: But it's thought that the reſt that were for it will meet again, or have met ſometime the beginning of this Week.

I am aſſured by this Gentleman, that the General is acquainted herewith, by ſome of the Diſſenters. The Governor and Officers are acquainted herewith, and I find nothing but all fair and well with them, they being now willing to admit of the General's Forces in, upon the Payment of the Common Soldiers there Two Months, which we ſhall provide, although we have ſcarce Three Hundred Pounds (now) in, of the Aſſeſments. Capt. Bayly's Horſe was forgotten in the Eſtabliſhment. The Commiſſioners ſent for Two Thouſand Pounds, ſo that to the End we may have Orders for Money enough, we will deſire you for another Order, for the iſſuing out of a Thouſand Pounds more out of the Aſſeſments. Capt. Bayly's hath done good Service here, and therefore I ſhall deſire that they may have their Two Months Pay (according to the Eſtabliſhment): But of this we look for Directions from you. I hope that they ſhall find your Favour. I have ſent a Meſſenger away to my Brother with the former Intelligence, to the Intent they may look to Hereford, Shrewsbury and Ludlow. The Meſſenger ſtays for this, ſo that I muſt end, reſting.

Gloceſter Jan. 19. 1647. Signed by a Perſon of Note.

Letters from Ireland of the Proceedings of the Lord Inchequin.

Of the Affairs of Ireland, or more particularly the Proceedings of the Lord Inchequin in the Province of Munſter, by Letters from Cork, Jan. 19. is thus certified: ‘The Preſident, ſince the laſt Action of Knocknonon, having purſued the Rebels flying Forces into the County of Limrick, and made that Country a little ſmart for ſome Delinquencies, he retired to refreſh his Men awhile in Garriſons, where he could make but very ſhort ſtay; partly Neceſſities, and partly Deſires to be in Action induced him abroad into the County of Kerry, where he forced Compoſitions from ſuch as were able, the Refractories were deſtroyed; in which he continued and in the County of Limrick, until he could find no Subſiſtence for the Soldier, but ſaw all he could command conſumed: The Country ſo generally impoveriſhed by his Forces and the Rebels, that it is very probable, before the Spring Thouſands will periſh of Famine. But God knows how many of his poor Soldiers muſt lead the Way, being already ſubjected to as much Miſery as Hunger, Nakedneſs, equal Want of Food and Raiment can inflict. The Diſcomfort of beholding whereof were ſufficient to make the Places they are in Irkſom to any Soul, though otherwiſe never ſo full of Contentment.

The Rebels National Aſſembly contend for Superiority.

‘The Rebels have lately convened a National Aſſembly, at which they contended chiefly for Superiority betwixt the Two Factions; the Nuntio's joining with the Clergy and Owen Roe, all oppoſite to Peace; the Lord Muskery, with the reſt of the Nobility, pretending to ſubmit clearly, without Capitulation, to the King: The Reſult whereof was, that Muskery and his Party gained the Predominancy; and having new modelled their Supream Council, and diſpatch'd their Agents for France to invite over the Prince, Spain and Rome, &c. the Convention General diſſolved, transferring the Care and Power of raiſing and providing an Army (to be under the Command of the Lord Taaff) unto a Provincial Aſſembly at Limrick. Taaff is already about 700 Horſe and 3500 Foot, being reſolved, as he gives out, to have the other Bout with the Enemy that beat him ſo well laſt time. His Rendezvous General is in the County of Typerary, whither the Lord Preſident intends firſt to March, and to ſet forward about the 30th following, if ſome invincible Obſtructions forbid not his gathering together, and the Advance of ſome further Relief for his Army. For it cannot but abate the Courage, and depreſs the Spirits of both Officers and Soldiers, to obſerve what inexpreſſible Hardſhips they are expoſed unto, and what Impoſſibility of Subſiſting without Means, in the depth of Cold, this Winter.

Thurſday, January 27.

This Buſineſs admitted of much Debate; and, upon the Reſult of all, it was by the Houſe of Commons Reſolved upon and Voted, That the reſt of the Eleven Members of the Houſe ſhould be impeached of High Treaſon, in the ſame Manner as Sir John Maynard was on Thurſday laſt; except Sir William Lewis, who, for ſome Reaſons extraordinary, was to be Impeached only of High Crimes and Miſdemeanours.

The Seven Lords likewiſe to be Impeach'd of High Treaſon.

Lords agree to the Earl of Nottingham and Earl of Stamford to go for Scotland

His Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax came unto his Houſe in Queen-ſtreet this Evening, but intends not to keep his Head Quarters there, or in any other part of London, as ſome have talked and raiſed many other falſe Stories about this Matter. The Head Quarters are ſtill to continue at Windſor. There came along with the General about Thirty or Forty Horſe, and no other Guard.

There were ſeveral Printed Petitions preſented to the Commons this Day by Major-General Sterling, and Lieut. Col. Marſhall, Officers of the Army in Munſter, under the Command of the Lord Inchequin; wherein they ſet forth, 'That they were, by Order of Parliament, 'tranſmitted to attend the Houſes Pleaſure concerning a late Remon'ſtrance of that Army, and ſome Letters written by them in Scotland 'in purſuance thereof, by the Command of the ſaid Lord Preſident 'and Army; as appears by the Army's Petition, and the Lord Preſi'dent's Letter in that behalf.

'That they have been Priſoners to the Serjeant at Arms ever ſince 'November 8.

'That both Houſes were pleaſed to grant One Indempnity to the Of'ficers of that Army for that general Engagement, and that ſince they 'are Members of that Army, and, upon Examination, nothing found 'againſt them beyond that Engagement.

'And that the Lords, upon Conſideration had of the Juſtneſs of 'their Deſires and their Innocency, have granted them the Benefit of 'the Indempnity.

'They humbly deſire, that as they have hazarded their Lives equal'ly with others in that Service, they might partake with them of the 'Indempnity, and that they might have their Liberty, to the end they 'might repair to their Commands.

Both Houſes paſſed an Ordinance for the ſpeedy dividing and ſetling the ſeveral Counties of this Kingdom into diſtinct Claſſical Preſbiteries, and Congregational Elderſhips; and which, for better Satisfaction, is to this Purpoſe:

And that the Chancellors, Vice-Chancellors and Heads of the Univerſities, do likewiſe conſider how the Colledges may be put into Claſſical Preſbiteries, and do before the 25th of March next certifie the ſame up to the ſaid Committee of Lords and Commons, according to the Ordinance of Parliament, dated the 19th of Auguſt, 1645. Letters from the North concerning Diſbanding.

From the North this Day came Letters which certify as followeth; and firſt from York thus:

'We are proceeding here to the Work of Diſbanding as faſt as we 'can; Accounts are going to be Audited, ſome Perſons are appointed 'for Expedition's ſake to audite the ſame, and preſent them to the 'Commons. Orders are gone out of each Troop and Company, ac'cording to the encloſed Orders, which will both prevent Diſcontent, 'and take away the worſt Members, till the Buſineſs of Diſbanding 'the Forces lie as they did.

'Major Smithſon's Regiment are upon their March out of Stafford-'ſhire into York-ſhire upon the Payment of Six Months Aſſeſments, and 'are now in Derbyſhire.

'The Soldiery here are now for the preſent in a very ill Condition, 'the Country complaining of them for lying on them ſtill, and they 'on the Country for reſiſting to give them Quarters: but 'tis hoped, 'a ſudden Diſbanding and Payment will prevent both.

Council of War for Trial of Offenders.

'Thurſday laſt and Yeſterday Councils of War ſat in this City for 'the Trial of ſome Offenders, particularly Five Soldiers of Capt. By'ard's Troop, for committing ſeveral Diſorders and Miſdemeanours at 'Hallifax, were adjudged to ſuffer an exemplary Puniſhment. And 'alſo Four Soldiers of Major Rookby's Troop, for miſdemeaning them'ſelves at their Quarters at Melton.

'York, 29 Jan. 1647.

Scotch Soldiers hope for another Invaſion.

From Newcaſtle is thus certified: 'The laſt Week came News from Berwick, That Traquier was received with great Joy at Edenburgh: The Scots Soldiers are very chearful with Hopes of another Invaſion, and our Engliſh Ground adjacent to their Quarters, ſends forth Echoes of their thundering Threats daily; but though their Stomachs are up, and no Will wanting, we hear of no Preparation for the Field as yet, no recruiting of Forces; both which muſt proceed, if any Prejudice they can do us. Upon the Eighth of February next is a great Convention both of Kirk and State, the Iſſue of that Meeting will manifeſt their Intentions. The People in Scotland are generally diſſatisfied with the Parliament's Proceedings with the King, and ſo are moſt of the People hereabouts; which is occaſioned by Falſe Reports, ſometimes of his being Murdered, and otherwhiles of his removal from one Priſon to another, as to Warwick-Caſtle, the Tower, &c.

By other Letters from the North of the ſame Date it is thus certified.

Letters of Intelligence from the North.

'There comes nothing hither which purports any thing done or like to be doing in Scotland, tending to the Difference with England. Lieut. Gen. Leſley, with that Force employed againſt Marqueſs Huntly, is Quartered in the Counties South of Scotland, and from the Eaſt to the Weſt Sea; himſelf at St. Johnſton's ſtill; his Soldiers, about 5000 Horſe and Foot, are conſtantly paid, the Horſe Twelve Pence, the Foot Four Pence, and they buy their own Food. This Force it will be difficult to continue, without the Impoveriſhment of that Kingdom. No Inclination as yet appears, either in the Nobles or Gentry, to raiſe Forces, but the contrary; and if they ſhould have a mind, it will not be difficult to do it without Noiſe. The Committee of Eſtates ſit cloſe, they are fixed in Number, and ſit Twenty at a time a Week by turn upon the Matter. All the Nobility are at this Inſtant at Edenburgh upon particular Buſineſs, it being Seſſions Time. There hath been a great Suit of Law between the Lords of Glancorn and Eglinton, who of them ſhould be the firſt Earl; the laſt Week the Lords of Seſſions adjudged it for the Lord Glancorn, whereupon the other challenged him to Combat; which being diſcovered, the Privy-Council bound them to the Peace, under pain of 100000 l. Scotch; and appointed Duke Hamilton, Marqueſs Argile, Lord Craford, Caſſellis and Callendor to compoſe the Difference. The Marriage of the Lord Treaſurers Two Daughters to the Two Earls of Roth and Haddington, hath brought to Edenbrrgh Duke Hamilton, and many of his Friends, where they intend to ſtay until the Nuptials are over; the Ladies are the Duke's Nieces, the Counteſs of Craford being his Siſter. The Miniſters of Scotland are Modeſt in their Expreſſions, the late Actions in England being not as yet taken Notice of in Publick: At their Meeting the Eighth of February of Kirk and State, it will be known how they approve. Their Commiſſioners lately come from London, came not by Call, being by Inſtructions to Pleaſure. The Merchants of Edenburgh and Common-People ſay, Peace is their Good, and they will not Engage Blindfold: But the Soldier, and he that hath not to take to, talks of nothing but of going farther South. Montrill is ſtill in Edenburgh, makes no Publick Addreſs, no Speech of the Prince of Wales his coming into the Kingdom.

Tueſday, February 1.

The Houſe this Day conſidered of the Deſires of ſome of the Officers and Troopers Quartered in the Mewſe, to have the Duke of Richmond's Stables near adjoining unto the ſaid Place, for that the Mewſe cannot give Conveniency of Quarter to the whole Regiment of Horſe that are Ordered to be Quartered there. Letters from York about Disbanding Supernumeraries.

By Letters from York this Day of the 15th Inſtant, it is thus written:

'We are now very hard upon Auditing of Accompts of Supernumeraries, having before appointed the Number of both Horſe and Foot, 'to be disbanded. The Work of Auditing proves very difficult; the 'Matter of Disbanding goes on without any great Matter of viſible 'Diſcontent; the Country pays in their Six Months Aſſeſments apace; 'and all the Forces that are appointed to ſtand, are ordered to be 'drawn into Market Towns, &c.

'And Officers to engage for the Soldiers Quarters for the Fourteen 'Days, to the Orders of Parliament. Thoſe appointed to be Disbanded, are to be removed from thoſe Towns and Places that have paid 'in their Aſſeſments, and be quartered upon ſuch as have not, till their 'Accompts are Audited, and they are Disbanded; which will now be 'forthwith put in Execution. Sir Edward Roads is choſen by the 'Commoners Treaſurer, for the receiving and iſſuing forth of the 'Two Months Pay for the Supernumeraries of this County. Letters 'from Scotland, from a good Hand, give us aſſurance, That we need 'not fear a ſudden Diſturbance in England from thence; but admoniſhes not to be ſecure. I hope our Commiſſioners going into that 'Kingdom, will give ſuch Satisfaction as may blunt the Edge of Diſcontent, in the late Proceedings of this concerning them in that

York, Feb. 5. 1647.

Engliſh Commiſſioners paſs by the Way of Carliſle.

The Engliſh Commiſſioners refuſe to go by the Way of Berwick into Scotland, and Letters ſay they are paſſed Carliſle.

From Dublin Feb. 3. is thus certified:

Letters from Dublin certifying the Condition of the Forces in that Kingdom.

‘Col. Pudſey hath of late taken in Four ſmall Caſtles; our want of ‘Money much retards the Service, and keeps our Men from going ‘through with their Work. Sir Henry Tichburne hath in his laſt Expedition into the County of Weſt-Meath, burnt to the value of Three ‘Score Thouſand Pounds of Corn. The Iriſh Army is now diſperſed, ‘which, had we to furniſh our Neceſſities, we might make great Uſe ‘of that Opportunity; and to Morrow Col. Jones marches out with ‘all he can ſpare hence: Col. Monk meets him with all his Ulſter Forces: They deſigned to march into the Country of Kildare, and further as Occaſion is offered, with Reſolution to fall upon the Enemy ‘where-ever they find them make Head; and, however, to waſte and ‘deſtroy what they cannot aſſure to themſelves. For the Number of ‘theſe Forces it cannot we well judged, Wants and Diſcontents hath ‘ſo much leſſened it; it's poſſible they may amount to 1500 Horſe, ‘and 5000 Foot; this March, it's hoped, will tend much to the reducing this Kingdom this Summer, if plenty of Men, Money and ‘Neceſſaries come but timely at Summer.

Ld. Incbequin's Letter to Col. Jones.

‘The Lord Incbequin hath written to Col. Jones, giving him to underſtand of the Enemy's endeavouring by all poſſible Means to raiſe ‘an Army in the Parts near him, and that he intends forthwith to ‘take the Field, to prevent the compleating thereof, deſiring he will ‘be pleaſed ſo to bend his intended March, as he may be a hindrance ‘likewiſe to that increaſing Power. Col. Monk lately ſent 300 Horſe ‘and 100 Dragoons to the Borders of Cavan, upon a Deſign; coming ‘to the Place intended, they got Knowledge that Owen Roe had given ‘Order to one of the Mac Mahoons, to fall into Monk's Quarters, to ‘ruine and deſtroy, as Owen had done in Col. Johnſes; whereupon ‘Col. Conway, who Commanded in Chief, fell upon the Rebels Quarters early in the Morning, took 40 Horſes and Arms, killed 14 of ‘their Men, and mounting ſome of his, purſued the Enemy, diſperſed the whole, took 200 Garrons, 3 or 400 Sheep, with other good ‘Booty.

Tueſday, February 8.

The Committee for the Eaſtern Aſſociation to do the like.

The Liſt of the Names of the ſeveral Ships to be employed in the Service of the Parliament, in this next Summer's Expedition then alſo reported to the Houſe, and upon ſome debate it was Ordered, That the Title of this Liſt then reported ſhould be altered, and that inſtead of a Liſt of his Majeſty's Ships, it ſhould be A Liſt of the Parliament's Ships to be employed in this next Summer's Fleet. It was informed, That ſome of the Dutch Ships have lately offered ſome Affronts to ours in the Downs, and refuſed to bow their Top-Sails until forced to it, ſaying, That Holland, &c. were the Elder States.

The Liſt of the Ships for the Summer Fleet reported.

The Dutch refuſe to ſtrike Sail.

The Lord Willoughby came not, but ſent a Letter, being himſelf withdrawn, which being read was to this Effect; That he had been about Four Months committed, without particular Charge againſt him, that their Lordſhips were pleaſed to order his Enlargement; that he had received Counſel from a Friend, that he is not fit for Publick Employment, and therefore reſolved to Privacy, that he hath always been Faithful to the Parliament, and deſired their Lordſhips to make an Honourable Conſtruction of his Retirement.

The Earl of Lincoln deſires a Favourable Conſtruction may be made of his retirement.

The Lords ordered that Fourteen Days be given to all the Seven Impeached Lords to put in their Anſwers; and that they ſhall have Council aſſigned to them, if they deſire it, for Matter of Law.

Fourteen Days time given to the Lords to put in their Anſwer.

From the Iſle of Wight, by Expreſs dated the Fifth Preſent, it is thus certified; 'His Majeſty takes uſually every Morning a Walk about the Caſtle-Wall, and the like in the Afternoon, if Fair; much Time ſpent every Day in Private, he ſpeaks moſt to us at Dinner, asks News, particularly concerning Ireland, Scotland, the City of London, and the Army; the Death of Capt. Burley, quartered at Wincheſter, is little ſpoke of. His Majeſty is as merry as formerly; all quiet and fair between his Majeſty and Col. Hammond the Governor.

Expreſs from the Iſle of Wight of the fair Correſpondence between his Majeſty and Col. Hammond.

'His Majeſty went forth this Morning to walk about the Caſtle, and Col. Hammond was with him, Col. Herbert and ſome others attended him, he was Merry at Dinner, and afterwards went into his Privy-Chamber, where he is ſtill private. We had News here of a Deſign in hand to invade this Iſland, and that Van Trump, with ſome Dutch Ships ſhould join with ſome Dunkirk's and Iriſh to come hither; but we fear them not, the Vice-Admiral Rainsborough having left a ſtrong

'Guard

An. 1647.

‘Guard at Sea, and the Governor having had a great Care to ſtrengthen us in the Iſland. There have been ſome ſupicious Perſons lately put away from hence, we want now Monies moſt to ſupply ſome Defects.

An Iriſh Ship taken by Capt. Dare.

‘There was a Great Ship of the Iriſh Rebels upon the South-Weſt of Ireland, that rid towards Galloway, that is taken by Capt. Dare, as is certified by Letters come to the Commanders of the Ships that ride upon our Guard. which was thus; Capt. Dare, Commander of the Conſtant Warwick, one of the Parliament's Ships that caries 28 Pieces of Ordnance, having Notice that there were ſome Iriſh Ships that had taken ſome Merchants Veſſels paſſing near the South of Ireland, ſailed that way, and diſcloſed at laſt ſome Veſſels which he perceived to be Iriſh, and thereupon he made towards them; but none would endure Engagement with Capt. Dare, until at laſt he forced a great Ship of theirs with 22 Pieces of Ordnance to Engage; Capt. Dare made ſhot at him, and the Rebels ſhot again at the Conſtant Warwick, and it grew to be a very hot Diſpute, and both Veſſels were batter'd; at laſt Capt. Dare boarded the Rebels, and took her, but not without great Loſs, having 25 of his Men killed and wounded. This Ship is one of the beſt Frigots that the Earl of Antrim had, and the taking of her was a gallant piece of Service in Capt. Dare.

The Queen, Prince and Grandees in France.

‘We have News here that Prince Charles, Prince of Wales, ſhould have gone into Scotland; but they have denied him there, ſuppoſing that it would be Charges to them, and perhaps occaſion the Queen to follow: The Prince is now well, his Highneſs ſtill with his Mother in France; the Earl of Yarmouth, and the reſt of the Grandees, are with the Queen of England at St. Jermans, but all very Poor, and want Money much.

Take along with this from the Iſle of Wight, a Tranſcript of what we find written from the Hague, which though already made Publick by another, we will again remind you of as followeth:

Hague, February 6.

Letters from the Hague adviſe that the Royal Party fled thither are much troubled at the Reſtraint upon his Majeſty, and the Votes concerning him.

Here ſeems a kind of Fatality upon the Counſels and Perſon of your King; this laſt reſtraint, with the Votes, hath aſtoniſhed the Royal Party here, which are not a few, who cannot tell which way to ſteer their Courſe; they look on Scotland, they look on France, but ſay there muſt be Money; and if that were had, it were no wonder to ſee Ten Thouſand merry Souls that at preſent lie here, and curſe you in every Cup they drink, run over and venture one Caſt more for the Crown.

Articles of Peace with Spain Signed at Munſter.

This Day, or rather this Night Sevenight, at Eleven of the Clock, did the Plenipotentiaries of the United Provinces Sign the Articles of Peace with Spain and Munſter; the Circumſtances in ſhort are thus: Pignoranda and le Brun, Plenipotentiares of Spain there, for the Archbiſhop of Cambray is dead, came and viſited the States Ambaſſadors at Five of the Clock in the Afternoon, where, after Five or Six Hours Conference and Debate, both Parties Signed in the Name of their reſpective Maſters, viz. thoſe Two for Spain, and Seven for the Six Provinces, viz. Two for Holland, and One for each of the reſt, all but Monſieur Nedehurſt for Utricht, who went out and refuſed, at which time there came in a Letter Signed with the Hands of Longueville d'Avaux, and Servant to the States Ambaſſadors, ſeeking to divert and retard the preſent Pacification, but in vain, the Ambaſſadors of the States declaring they had hitherto waited for the Compliance of France, and now at laſt had given them, upon their Deſire, Fifteen Days reſpite, which expired they would conclude; yet giving them leave to come into them in Two Months; which is like to be the time of the Ratification and Publication, for the Papers muſt be ſent into Spain for that King's own Signet. Needhurſt ſaith, He cannot in Conſcience Sign, becauſe of the State's Confederacy with France, without France; their Treaty binds them in making Peace, to go paripaſſus. This Act hath not ſo much pleaſed Spain, as vexed France and many more. The French Ambaſſador la Tuillery, endeavours to raiſe Men here for the next Summer, to carry on the War with Sweden with the greater Vigour; and give out that they will call their Ambaſſadors from Munſter, and break up that Meeting, which now Spain will not fear. That very Day the Peace was Signed at Munſter, there came in at Rotterdam one Roboledo, a Spaniſh Ambaſſador, going, as he ſaith, from Denmark, and ſent hither for his Paſs; much Debate was, whether he ſhould be Prize, for the Hoſtility laſt till the Publication; but ſith he came by England, and by Accident, and by a croſs Wind, and the Peace ſo near, it was waved, and he had a Paſs. Dr. Beal, late of Cambridge, who now Preacheth, in a Sermon of his at Breda ſaid, The Army's and Parliament's late Actions made the Devils Dance; and he was ſo free as to name many Particulars, and at the end of each ſaid, This makes the Devil Dance. Here comes News that Mr. Edwards, who writ the the Legion called Gangrana is dead; it's ſaid, he called ſome to witneſs, that he died in the Anti-ſectarian Faith. That he ſhould make Col. Maſſey and Col. Paintz his Executors, is rather merry Talk than Truth.

The Ordinance at large.

WHereas the Acts of Stage-Plays, Interludes, and Common Plays, condemned by ancient Heathens, and much leſs to be tolerated amongſt Profeſſors of the Chriſtian Religion, is the occaſion of many and ſundry great Vices and Diſorders, attending to the high Provocation of God's Wrath and Diſpleaſure, which lies heavy upon this Kingdom, and to the Diſturbance of the Peace thereof; in regard whereof the ſame hath been prohibited by Ordinance of this preſent Parliament, and yet it is preſumed to be practiſed by divers in Contempt thereof; therefore for the better Suppreſſion of the ſaid Stage-Plays, Interludes and Common Players, it is Ordained by the Lords and Commons in Parliament, That all Stage-Players, and Players of Interludes, and Common Players ſhall be taken to be Rogues, and puniſhable within the Statutes of Thirty-nine Year of the Reign of Qneen Elizabeth, and the Seventh Year of the Reign of King James, and liable unto the Pains and Penalties therein contained, and proceeded againſt according to the ſaid Statutes or no, and notwithſtanding any Licenſe whatſoever from the King, or any Perſon or Perſons to that Purpoſe.

And it is further Ordained, That the Lord Mayor, Juſtices of the Peace, and Sheriffs of the City of London and Weſtminſter, and of the Counties of Middleſex and Surry, or any Two or more of them, ſhall, and are Authorized to pull down and demoliſh all Stage-Galleries, Seats and Boxes, erected or uſed, or which ſhall be erected or uſed for the Acting or Playing, or ſeeing Acted or Played, ſuch Stage-Plays, Interludes and Plays aforeſaid, within the ſaid City of London and Liberties thereof, and other Places within their reſpective Juriſdictions; and all ſuch Common Players, and Actors of ſuch Plays and Interludes, to be proceeded againſt as Rogues, if they ſtill perſiſt.

That every Perſon which ſhall be preſent and a Spectator at any ſuch Stage-Play, or Interlude hereby prohibited, ſhall for every time he ſhall be ſo preſent,

An. 1647.

And all Mayors, Bailiffs, Conſtables, and other Officers, Soldiers, and other Perſons being thereunto required, ſhall be from time to time, be Aiding and Aſſiſting unto the ſaid Lord Mayor, Juſtices of the Peace and Sheriffs, in the due Execution of this Ordinance, upon pain to be fined for their Contempt in their Neglect or Refuſal thereof.

The Army to conſiſt of Fourteen Regiments of Horſe, and Seventeen Regiments of Foot

The Houſe upon full Debate Voted, That the whole Number of Horſe for the Kingdom to be Fourteen Regiments of Horſe, and but Eighty in a Troop; and Seventeen Regiments of Foot, but Eight Hundred in a Regiment, for the better Diſcipline of the Kingdom: and the other Three Thouſand Pounds for additional Forces, the Sixty Thouſand Pounds a Month, through Defects, ariſeth not to above Fifty Thouſand Pounds per Menſem, the former Eſtabliſhment did amount to Fifty-two Thouſand Pounds per Menſem, and this will amount to Sixty-two Thouſand Pounds a Month; therefore it was referred to the Committee of the Army to conſider of a way how this overplus Monies may be paid.

From Dublin came further, by Expreſs, the ſad Complaints of the Officers and Soldiers for want of Pay; the Expreſſions run thus:

Complaints of the Officers and Soldiers in Ireland for want of Pay.

Honourable Collonel,

I Received yours; and am ſorry there is no better News in England, and that the diſtreſſed Condition of Ireland is no better conſidered on and relieved before this time. I am ſure our Condition calls for a more ſpeedy Supply than I ſee is like to come unto us. Our poor Condition I cannot ſufficiently ſet forth: As for Officers in Commiſſion, they have not received One Penny of Pay this Eighteen Weeks, nor Free Quarter; and when we meet together we ſtand gazing one at another, asking what we ſhall do? and are not able to help one another: And when we are called but on any Service, as lately into Wicklow, we had not One Penny allowed to buy Proviſion, but were conſtrained to be beholden to a Private Soldier for a piece of Bread, when they had it to give. Did you but hear their Complaints, and the Complaints of the City of Dublin, it would grieve you to the Heart. The Soldiers, for a great part of them, have ſcarcely any Rags to cover their Nakedneſs; which for want of, many are gone to their long Homes, and others going apace after; we can hardly paſs the Streets for their Cries, ſhewing us their Wants, and urging the Promiſes made to them. The City likewiſe making ſad Bemoans of the great Preſſures upon them, the Governor was conſtrained to leave Four Regiments in Wicklow ſome part of this Winter to eaſe the City, and Col. Long's Regiment at a Place called Kilneecare, in very poor Accommodation. Our Wants on all hands is intollerable, a Pair of poor plain Shoes cannot be bought here under Four Shillings, and not worth Two: The Soldiery go up and down more like Ghoſts than Men, having loſt both Strength, Countenance, and I doubt their Courage much abated: The Hope that is deſerred makes the Heart faint. The Officers likewiſe are much out of Heart. The Cavaliers and Rebels much inſult, by reaſon of Wants. Much is expected from you, Noble Collonel, in agitating for this Army. I wiſh our Friends in England were ſenſible enough of our Condition, that the Mouth of the Ox may not be muſled, that treads out the Corn, and the Lives of poor Men may be a little more valued than they are. Where the Fault of our Want lieth, I cannot Judge, but pray God it may be well conſidered on, and ſpeedy Supply afforded.

Thurſday, February 10.

Scotch Officers Petition debated.

THE Houſe this Day conſidered of the Petition of many Officers of the Kingdom of Scotland, who had formerly ſerved this Kingdom; ſome Debate thereof was had, and the Houſe ordered to conſider further thereof, for the Satisfaction to the Petitioners, to Morrow Morning.

Augmentation for the Miniſter of Brainford.

The Houſe alſo conſidered of the ſmall Means belonging to the Church of Great Brentford, and ordered to ſettle an Augmentation upon the ſame for the Future, for the better Subſiſtance of the Miniſtry.

100 l. Ordered for a diſtreſſed Gentleman that had loſt his Eyes, and referred to the Governor of Sutton's Hoſpital.

The Houſe conſidered of a Diſtreſſed Gentleman, who had both his Eyes ſhot out, and how Proviſion may be made for his preſent and future Subſiſtance; they thereupon ordered that the Sum of One Hundred Pounds, ſhould be charged on the Receipts at Haberdaſhers-Hall, for ſupply of the preſent Neceſſities of the ſaid Gentleman.

They further Ordered, That he ſhould be referred to the Governor of Sutton's Hoſpital, to be put into the ſaid Hoſpital in the next Place that is vacant by Death or otherwiſe.

They likewiſe conſidered of another, who had both his Eyes ſhot out at the Fight of Naſeby, and is in great Neceſſity.

Another that loſt his Eyes at Natsby recommended to the ſaid Governor.

The Houſe hereupon ordered him ſome preſent Monies for his Subſiſtance, and likewiſe ordered that he ſhould be recommended to the Governor of another Hoſpital, to be admitted in the next Place that was vacant.

The like Order was made for another, who had his Eyes likewiſe ſhot out.

Further Debate upon the Declaration.

The Houſe then, according to former Order, took into Debate the Buſineſs of the Declaration, and ſpent much time therein, almoſt till Seven at Night; paſt many Particulars of great Concernment, and committed others of as great, the chief Heads whereof you had before, for further Proof to be made unto them; and that this Declaration ſhould be reported to the Houſe to Morrow, between Eleven and Twelve of the Clock.

The Houſe this Day ordered to Adjourn till Friday, after the riſing of the ſaid Houſe, till Tueſday Morning next; the Speaker's Preſence being in a ſpecial Manner required in Chancery on Saturday, being the laſt Day of the Term.

Friday and Saturday, February 11, 12.

The ſaid Declaration proceeded on.

The Houſe of Commons this Day, according to former Order, proceeded in the Report of the Declaration for no further Application to be made to his Majeſty, and the ſeveral Heads formerly mentioned, and the full Proofs upon them further examined; upon which ſeveral Votes paſſed to this Purpoſe as followeth:

Several Clauſes to be inſerted therein debated.

One particular Clauſe therein was concerning Mr. Cockram's Inſtructions from his Majeſty, &c. the Proof thereof; upon which the Houſe had much Debate whether the ſaid Clauſe ſhould ſtand, or no; but the Houſe being ſatisfied with Proof thereof, Voted the ſame in the Affirmative, to be inſerted in the Declaration.

Another Clauſe was, concerning his Majeſty's giving Blanks Signed with his Seal Manual, which the Houſe, upon full Proof thereof, ordered to be continued in the ſaid Declaration.

Another Clauſe was to his Majeſty, concerning all the Proteſtant Blood that hath been ſhed in the Kingdom of Ireland, by ſuch as have had Commiſſion from his Majeſty; which the Houſe aſſented unto.

A Fourth Particular againſt his Majeſty is, concerning the Death of King James, his Majeſty's late Father, in whoſe Death a Charge is laid againſt his Majeſty.

A Fifth is concerning the Miſcarriage of the Buſineſs of the Iſle of Rea and Rochel; which, upon ſufficient Proof, was agreed to be alſo incerted in the Declaration.

A Sixth was concerning the Innocent Blood that hath been ſhed likewiſe in this Kingdom, in Proſecution of the Roman Catholick Cauſe.

The like concerning the Blood that hath been ſhed in Scotland. It is to be further obſerved, as was before-mentioned, that the Houſe did commit all theſe particulars to a Committee, to the End ſufficient Proof might be made thereof, as a Buſineſs of ſo high Concernment, before they were Confirmed by Vote of the Houſe, and Ordered to be incerted into the ſaid Declaration; and upon full Debate, this Declaration, with theſe many other Particulars was aſſented unto, and Ordered to be forthwith Printed and Publiſhed, by Order of the Houſe of Commons, for the Satisfaction of the Kingdom, why both Houſes have reſolved to make no further Application to his Majeſty; and, for better Satisfaction herein, we muſt refer you to the Printed Copy, which will come out within a Day or Two, and worthy of every good Subject's ſerious and mature Obſervation.

On Saturday the Houſes ſat not, having Adjourned as before.

February 12. 1647.

WHereas by Order of Parliament of the 28th of January laſt, the Parliament have authorized and appointed me to take ſome Courſe to ſuppreſs the Tumultuous Meetings, and Aſſemblings together of Riotous and other People, that rob and injure People upon the High Ways. And whereas I am inform'd of ſeveral Robberies committed upon the High Ways in the County of   near the Places where your Troops Quarters, I do hereby Order and Appoint you to ſend forth your Troop, or ſuch Parties thereof as you ſhall find neceſſary, either for the Prevention or Suppreſſing of any ſuch Tumults or Riots, and to Examine, Apprehend, and Secure all ſuch Perſons who ſhall be found Acting, or ſuſpected to Act or Meet in any ſuch Tumultuous and Unlawful Aſſembly, and to do ſuch other Things as you ſhall find neceſſary for the preventing of any Injuries, or Affronts to be done to Travellers, Carriers, or others, upon the High Ways, or other Roads. And in ſo doing, this ſhall be your Warrant.

Given under my Hand and Seal in Queen-ſtreet, the 11*th of* February, 1647.

The like Orders was ſent to the Commanders in Chief of the Forces in every County of the Kingdom.

WHereas his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax is by Order of the Parliament of the 18th of January laſt, enabled to give Warrant to ſuch Commanders and Officers as he ſhall think fit, to Tranſport ſuch of the Supernumeraries, Disbanded, or to be Disbanded, as ſhall deſire to go with them; they engaging for their Men do nothing prejudicial to the Parliament. And whereas his Excellency hath iſſued Orders for that Purpoſe to ſeveral Officers, he doth Declare, That thoſe Warrants were not granted with any Intent that they ſhould continue burthenſom to the Country, but that the Officers who intend to tranſport them, do pay for their Quarters till their Tranſportation.

The Quarters of Supernumeraries to be till their Tranſportation.

By Letters this Day from York is thus certified:

‘The Buſineſs of Disbanding Supernumeraries goes on apace; the Proportion of ſeveral Troops and Companies appointed to be Disbanded out of them are already audited and caſt up, and the Two Months Means paid to them, ſome whereof are already actually Disbanded, and every Perſon hath his Debenture and Paſs given him before his Departure; none but the Private Soldiers are in the firſt place Disbanded; when that is finiſhed through the Army, the Officers that will be reduced will be forthwith begun upon; ſome ſmall Diſcontents, not likely to break out into any bad Conſequence. The Country, for the greateſt part, hath payed in their Six Months Aſſeſments: Thoſe appointed to be Disbanded, till they be Disbanded, are Quartered upon ſuch as have not paid it in. The reſt that ſtand are drawn into great Towns, and the Officers are appointed to engage for the Soldiers, according to Directions of Parliament. Of late, upon this preſent Reducement, there hath been committed many deſperate Robberies and Murthers in theſe Northern Countries; ſo that People dare not Trade or Travil freely upon their Occaſions, for fear of being Robbed and Murthered, and it's to be feared, that when this Disbanding is ended, it will be far worſe and dangerous.

Letters from York concerning the Disbanding Supernumeraries.

‘On Thurſday Night laſt the Commiſſioners appointed by Parliament to go into Scotland came into this Town, and were viſited by the Commander in chief, and ſome of his Officers; and Yeſterday Morning they took their Journey from hence towards that Kingdom.

Commiſſioners for Scotland arrived at York.

Tueſday, February 15.

The Houſe of Commons was this Day informed, That there remained in a private Man's Hand in the City of London, Five Morterpieces, and other Arms to a conſiderable Number, for what Intent was not known. The Houſe hereupon ordered to refer it to a Committee to conſider of this Buſineſs, and if they thought fit not to ſeize them for the Service of the State, that then they treat with the Party in whoſe Hands they are, and to buy them of him for the State's Service.

Morterpieces and other Arms in Private Hands referred to a Committee.

A Letter was read from the Parliament's Commiſſioners in Scotland, Dated February 8. advertiſing them that they came to Edenburgh that Day, but the Grand Committee of Eſtates had adjourned their Sitting until Thurſday, February 10. becauſe their Commiſſioners were not returned from London, but ſome of them came that Night.

His Excellency was in Perſon with the Lords and Commons of the Committee of the Army this Day, and treated about the Life-Guards Diſbanding, and ſome other Matters.

The Lords paſſed an Ordinance for Aſſeſments for Ireland, with ſome Amendments.

Sir John Maynard to bring in his Anſwer by Saturday next.

This Day the Houſe of Peers received from Sir John Maynard another Proteſtation, in which he gives them to underſtand he ought to be tried by a Jury, for which he quotes Magna Charta, and the Lord Cook, and that he may except againſt Thirty-five of the Jury, without ſhewing Cauſe, that none are to be his Judges that have acted in the ſame, whereof he is accuſed; with much more to the ſame purpoſe. The Lords ordered he bring in his Anſwer by Saturday next.

This Day came forth the Parliament's Declaration, wherefore no further Addreſſes ſhould be made to the King. We have formerly made mention of ſome Heads of it, but will now for better Satisfaction give you briefly the Heads of the whole.

Heads of the Declaration why no further Addreſſes to the King.

And Firſt, They ſet forth their Fruitleſs Addreſſes known to the World, formerly made to the King, which, beſides the Sufferings of many Hundred Thouſands Free-born People, have not moved him: That Seven Applications with Propoſitions have been made, wherein the Parliament have yielded up, not Will and Affection, but Reaſon and Judgment, and all for a true and good Accommodation; yet it never pleaſed the King to accept of any ſent, no not after he was gone from Oxford, his Towns and Armies overcome: And in all the Addreſſes but the laſt, the Scots Commiſſioners concurred, and promiſed notwithſtanding, to maintain the Treaties and Union. And for the laſt Addreſſes, it was but Four Bills, which they judge not only Juſt and Honourable, but neceſſary for ſafety during the after Treaty. They ſay, They have Cauſe to remember, that when it was deſired a Committee of both Houſes might attend him, and he had ſet for Place Windſor, that he went thence, and marched ſo near London that Night, that he had like to have taken it: And take Notice of the Cruelties done at Brandford, and his Army's flying thence with Shame. Alſo when there was a Meſſage from the King for a Treaty, at the ſame time a Bloody Maſſacree was intended upon London, and his Commiſſion for it. That in a Letter to the Queen he excuſed the Treaty pretended, being forced thereto by his Mungril Parliament at Oxford, as that he could not find Two of them of a Mind; otherway he would not have acknowledged them at Weſtminſter a Parliament. And now at laſt from the Iſle of Wight they have received ſuch Anſwer, as they deſpair of Succeſs by any further Addreſſes, beſides the Danger and Injury to the People in delaying a Settlement; they ſay, That it cannot be expected that any thing ſhould engage him more than his Oath at Coronation, Vows, Proteſtations, and Execrations, ſo often renewed before God and the World, which might have been forgotten, had not a continued Breach of Truſt through the Three Kingdoms forced a Remembrance; yet they are forced to remember, having ſuffered ſo much by Silence, and to declare,

That himſelf in Publick Speeches, hath laid a Foundation of all Tyranny, in ſaying, he owes an Account of his Actions to none but God, and that the Parliament cannot make or declare a Law joint or ſeparate. They call to mind the Death of King James, charged upon the Duke of Buckingham in the Second of his Reign, with other things at a Conference in the Painted Chamber delivered, which the King coming into the Lords Houſe, told them, he took Notice of, and ſaid, he could be a Witneſs to clear the Duke in every one; and while the Proofs were preparing againſt the Duke, the King declared an Intent to Diſſolve the Parliament, which the Lords petitioned him not to do, yet it was done immediately after, and Sir Dudley Digs, and Sir John Elliot, that chiefly managed the Conference, put cloſe Priſoners in the Tower, by Warrant of the King's own Hand, and ſo never further legal Enquiry concerning the Death of the ſaid King was made; and let then the World judge where the Guilt remains. They ſay they can fully ſhew, how Rochel was by him betrayed, and thereby a fatal Blow given to the Proteſtants in France: How he ſent divers of the Navy-Royal, and other Ships, to the French King, to be employed againſt thoſe Proteſtants he outwardly engaged to aſſiſt; and when ſome Engliſh refuſed, he writ to Capt. Pennington, to put them into the Service of the King of France, or ſink them in caſe of Refuſal.

They remember the Deſign of the German Horſe, ordered to be brought into England, and Money paid for that End. The Grinding by enforced Loans, Privy-Seals, Coat and Conduct-Money, enlarging Forces, incloſing Commons, engroſſing Gunpowder, with innumerable Patents, Monopolies of Salt, Malt, Sea-Coal, Soap, Leather, Wine, Sugar, Allom, Farthings, Pins, Tobacco, and almoſt all other things; together with that One Compendium of Slavery, Ship-Money; the Torture of the Bodies of Men by Civil Whipping, Slitting Noſes, Cutting off Ears, Branding Cheeks, Racks, Pillories, with cloſe Impriſonment at Pleaſure, which might be the ſooner forgotten, had not Souls been Lorded over, and led Captive into Superſtition and Idolatry, by Oaths ex Officio, Excommunications, Ceremonies, Articles, new Canons and Canon-Oaths; and this was not only in England, but the ſame Inſtruments went on to enſlave Ireland and Scotland: Scotland was to receive a new Liturgy firſt, but the Deſign not taking, an Army was raiſed to force Compliance; by Mediation of Engliſh Lords a Pacification is made, which held but until the King returned to Court, and then it was Diſavowed. A Parliament is called, that not furthering a new War, is Diſſolved, with a Scandalous Declaration in the King's Name. The Scots came with a new Army; this Parliament is called in Expectation it ſhould give Life to a War againſt the Scots; he finding this vain, to prevent like Inconvenience, his Inſtruments are queſtioned, but he ſo ſtrongly affects them, that he choſe rather to deſert the Parliament and Kingdom, than to give them to Juſtice. Then the Queen's Pious Deſign of advancing Popery was ripe, brought on by the Pope's Nuntio, Secretary Windebank, who when queſtioned, got a Paſs from the King. Arms was in ſeveral Corners attempted to be raiſed, under Pretence of Portugal; then a Cabal for bringing up the Northern Army to awe the Parliament: It was ſaid to be but a modeſt Petition, and yet Mr. Percy, Mr. Germain, and Sir John Sucklin fled for it: and when he went to Scotland, though petitioned the contrary, yet he would not grant ſuch a Commiſſion as the Parliament deſired; yet the Year before he did leave Blanks with Secretary Windebank to raiſe Power by Sea and Land. The Letter the King ſent into Ireland by the Lord Dillon is well known; and where the Great Seal of Scotland was, when the Commiſſion was Sealed to the Iriſh Rebels; the ſame promiſed to the Iriſh Committee, moſt Papiſts, the Unwillingneſs to disband the Popiſh Iriſh Army; the ſtrong Pretences for it, the Rebels Oath being, to bear true Faith and Allegiance to King Charles againſt the Puritans in the Parliament of England. And when Proclamation was obtained, there would be ſuffered but Forty Copies to paſs; all which agrees with the Letters to the Lord Muskerry, and others; and the King recommended divers Officers to the Rebels, denying Commiſſions to the Lord Brook and Lord Wharton: Beſides all theſe, his Majeſty's Letter to the Pope, to the Duke of Lorrain; ſeveral Deſigns to cut the Throats of the Proteſtants of England and Ireland, made Oath of, and ſo known to the King: the charging ſome of both Houſes with Treaſon; the King's coming to the Houſe in that unparallel'd way, after Guards diſcharged, a Prologue to a bloody Tragedy, had not the Parliament and City interrupted.

The Preparation of a Fleet from Denmark, hindered by the Invaſion of the Swedes; alſo Cockeram's Inſtructions that the Parliament intended to endeavour to illegitimate the Race of his Mother, which beſides the Shame to her in mentioning, they never thought; which Inſtructions of his Majeſty denied to have given, he ſaith in the Inſtructions, he had Expectation of a Fleet from Holland; whither he had ſent Jewels of a vaſt worth, his Signing the moſt illegal Commiſſion of Array, a Commiſſion for 10000 Rebels to conquer the Parliament and London, with many other Particulars, hath not only forgot his Duty to the Kingdom, but Care and Reſpect to himſelf and Family; and they conclude, that they could give many Reaſons more, why they will make no more Addreſſes; and yet they will uſe their utmoſt Endeavours to ſettle the preſent Government, as may beſt ſtand with the Peace and Happineſs of this Kingdom.

Scots Declaration again debated.

THE Houſe of Commons ſpent this whole Day alſo, from Morning until Night, upon the Declaration in anſwer to the Scots laſt Papers and Declaration, and are to go on further with the ſame to Morrow.

Major General Langhorne's Petition.

This Day a Petition was preſented to his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, from the Chief Officers under Major-General Langhorne, and it was as followeth:

To His Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax.

The Humble Petition of the Officers under the Command of Major-General Langhorne.

OFfering to Conſideration their long and faithful Service to the Parliament in this Cauſe, whereby ſome of their Eſtates, by the Rapine of the Enemy, and being the ſole Subſiſtence of themſelves in all the War time, are utterly ruined, the Reſidue very much endamaged, and all of them, ſo far beyond any Example in the Kingdom, behind of their Pay, that they cannot at preſent upon an exact Audit Juſtly claim above two Years and an half Arrears, the only viſible Means of Livelihood, and Stay of future Maintenance of many of your Petitioners; and that, this notwithſtanding, the Confidence of your Excellency's noble Favour and Juſtice, and Soldiers and Men of Merit wrought in your Petitioners a willing and unanimous Submiſſion to Disband, according to your Excellency's Orders, deſiring your Tutelage from the Enemy of theirs and the States Enemies, and for the removal of the Prejudicials they are otherwiſe inevitably obnoxious unto.

In order whereto, your Petitioners humble Prayer is, That your Exeellency will be pleaſed to recommend your Petitioners Condition to the Parliament, to whom they have been ſo faithful Servants; and that, according to our Petition, the honourable Houſe would be pleaſed to intend your Petitioners ſome preſent Right againſt theirs and ours profeſſed Enemies. That in regard their Major-General is now abſent, at whoſe Hands they have received what Pay they had in ſmall inconſiderable Sums, for which he hath their Receipts, without which they cannot ſo perfect their Accompts, but their Debentures may be allowed to paſs without Exception, and your Petitioners Satisfaction be not defrauded, or unmeaſurably delayed; that your Petitioners may not Suffer in your Excellency's Opinion upon any Clamour of Detractors, before they be admitted to make their Defence. And your Petitioners ſhall ever Pray.

Subſcribed by the Chief Officers under Major General Langhorne.

We

Council of War ſit at White-Hall.

We mentioned a Letter before the Deſires of the Life-Guard about Disbanding, and their taking away and concealing the Colours of the Life-Guard in Discontent, we will now alſo give you a further Account of that Buſineſs: Yeſterday a Council of War ſat in White-Hall, the General, Lieutenant-General Cromwell, and Commiſſary-General Ireton preſent, with about Twelve Officers, beſides other Commiſſion-Officers. The Chief Occaſion of this Court-Martial was, the carrying away the Colours of the Life-Guard, which was eſteemed as a great Diſreſpect and Diſhonour to the General. Divers of the Life-Guard being examined about it, made anſwer, That they could not tell where they were, or who carried them away. At laſt it was found that one Mr. William Clarke, of the Life-Guard, had a great Hand in carrying them from the Bell in Grays-Inn-Lane, to the Lamb on Snow-Hill: But he refuſed alſo to declare where they were. Whereupon the Sentence of the Court that Night was, That he and another of the Life-Guard ſhould be committed cloſe Priſoners within the Walls of White-Hall, and a Third ordered to be ſecured.

Mr. Clarke and another of the Life-Guard ſecured.

Mr. Clarke ſentenced to be Shot to Death.

This Day the Council of War met again at White-Hall, a fuller Meeting of Officers than before; they proceeded in the Examination of other Gentlemen of the Life-Guard, and at laſt they came to Sentence of Mr. William Clarke, having found him Guilty upon Two Articles of War, viz. That concerning Mutinies, the other for Diſobeying Superior Officers; and accordingly adjudged him to be Shot to Death.

Scots Declaration again debated.

The Houſe of Commons this Day further proceeded, and ſpent the whole Day upon the great Declaration in Anſwer to the laſt Scots Papers and Declaration, but did not preſent the ſame: The Particulars are too large to inſert.

Another Petition was preſented to his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, from the Gentlemen of his Life-Guard, &c. It was as followeth:

To his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, General.

The Humble Petition of Your Excellency's Life-Guard.

With all Humility,

Another Petition of the General's Life-Guard.

We are informed, and too much ſenſible of your Excellency's great Diſpleaſure againſt us, and ill Reſentment of ſome of our late unadviſed Proceedings, which ſince we have met and conſidered together, hath appeared more plain unto us: But ſince acted, we cannot but ſubmit, and caſt our ſelves upon your Excellency's Goodneſs, and beg that your Excellency will be pleaſed to entertain us into your Excellency's good Thoughts, pardon all our former Miſcarriages, and remove us out of the Labarynth we are moſt raſhly and ſuddenly involved into; and we with unfeigned Sence of Re-admiſſion to your Excellency's Favour, ſhall deſiſt from acting any further but in abſolute Obedience to your Excellency's Command.

And further, with all Submiſſion,

We cannot but with Sadneſs of Heart implore your Excellency's Mercy in the behalf of Mr. Clarke, who we hear is by Judgment of your Honourable Council of War Condemned to Die. Sir, we beſeech you hear us, though not in reference to any Actions aforeſaid, yet as Chriſtians, as Soldiers, as Gentlemen who engaged in all humble and petitionary Ways to ſeek unto your Excellency in this his ſad Condition, having had a full Knowledge of the Gentleman's Diſpoſition many of us this Four or Five Years, in the Parliament's Service, found him Valiant and Active as a Soldier in the Field, comfortable as a Chriſtian in his ſweet Society in his Quarters: truly that Man's Character for Honeſty, Valour, Integrity and Fidelity, is hardly to be expreſt, however now tranſported. All theſe Conſiderations we humbly preſent to your Excellency's Lenity. We could ſpeak much more in his behalf, if we conceived it equivalent to Submiſſion; but that we are loth to trouble your Excellency with many Lines, hoping that theſe, with the Prayers of us and all that ever knew him for his Welfare, will open the Bowels of your Excellency to ſhew Mercy unto him who never offended, nor ever was queſtion'd for any Miſdemeanour as a Soldier, until this unhappy Occaſion. We only beg, only beſeech, only intreat and implore your Excellency's gracious and merciful Pardon to ſave his Life,

And we ſhall ever Pray, &c.

Mr. Clarke pardoned, and the other in reſtraint with him ſet at Liberty.

This Day alſo the Council of War ſat at White-Hall, where the General was preſent. Mr. Clarke, of the Life-Guard, alſo Petitioned the General for Pardon, acknowledging the Juſtice of the Council of War in paſſing that Sentence upon him, according to the Articles of War, which had a favourable Acceptance; and with all averr'd the Innocency of his own Heart, of having any Intention of Evil towards the General or Army, he being one of thoſe who freely offered the Colours to his Excellency, as ſoon as they came to London; yet was afterwards drawn into that Engagement of ſeizing of the Colours, by the not punctually performing of the Agreement made at Windſor, and to vindicate the General's Honour therein, as he conceived. After the ſame was a while taken into Conſideration he was called in, and the General declared his Reſolution to pardon him; and accordingly himſelf, and thoſe other Gentlemen in Reſtraint with him, were ſet at Liberty.

CHAP. XXIV.

Proceedings in Parliament from February 28. 1647. to April 1. 1648.

Monday, February 28.

THE Houſe of Commons this Day further proceeded upon this Declaration, in Anſwer to the Scots Commiſſioners laſt Paper: It is very large, and takes up much time; the chief Scope is, to clear to the World, that the Parliament have, and will inviolably obſerve the Treaties between England and Scotland, and the Covenant to which both Kingdoms have ſworn, That they will ſettle Presbytery with Tolleration to tender Conſciences, agreeable to the Word of God; alſo the whole Tranſaction between England and Scotland is fully diſcuſſed, and in relation to the King; alſo the carriage of Buſineſs with the Commiſſioners of Scotland, and how far in many Points the Scots Commiſſioners have rather pretended, than really kept to the Treaties and Covenant. This Debate upon this Declaration took up the whole time this Day, and the Houſe Ordered to proceed as to the finiſhing of it to Morrow.

Letters this Day from Scotland give to underſtand as followeth:

YOur's of the 15th Inſtant came ſafe to my Hands: All that I can ſend you in return at preſent of the Affairs of Scotland is briefly thus; The Scots are ſomewhat unkind in that they have not appointed a convenient Houſe for the Entertainment of our Commiſſioners, but they are forced to lodge in Taverns. But this is the leſs to be taken Notice of, becauſe they dealt ſo likewiſe with our Commiſſioners that were laſt there. They are unwilling that Mr. Marſhall ſhall Preach, they ſay that he is an Independent, and was a great Means that the Army was permitted to March through London. The People in Edenburgh for the moſt part ſpeak very ſcornfully of the Engliſh Nation; and many would willingly be in England again, but their own Diviſions will, I hope, hinder them; for I ſee little Sign but of their falling by the Ears themſelves. You in England need not be in ſuch great and continual Fear; ſettle things well in the South, and then we need not think that the Scots will be the Occaſioners of new Troubles in England.

Edenburgh, February 23. 1647.

From Newcaſtle alſo by Letters was certified much to the ſame Purpoſe, as followeth:

SIR,

YOU can expect but little of Conſequence hence for the Preſent (the Parliament of Scotland not yet ſitting): From thence we are certified, That there are great Endeavours to engage a Party againſt England; but the main Promoters thereof are the Cavaliers, and the honeſt Presbiters are againſt it. For ought we can perceive of them, they are more like to fall out among themſelves, than to injure us.

Our Commiſſioners have not yet had Audience, nor it's ſuppoſed will not, till their Parliament ſit. The Scots are ſomething unkind to them in not giving them convenient Accommodation, anſwerable to that which theirs had in this Nation, or which is expected from Commiſſioners of Eſtate in any Nation; but yet that's not worth Notice, for South Country Gentlemen to find Fault with their Lodging in Scotland.

Col. Birch and Mr. Marſhall get no favourable Aſpects from the Scots, the one becauſe he ſucceeded them at Hereford, and the other for being (as they ſay) an Independent.

Newcaſtle, 24 Feb. 1647.

And from York came further thus:

WE are buſy in the Work of Disbanding. The Common Soldiers in the ſeveral Counties appointed to be disbanded, are either altogether or well near disbanded and diſmiſt. And as our late Work has been to pull in pieces, ſo now we are joining together, and I hope we ſhall have a better Product (at laſt) than before, though fewer. The Officers appointed to be diſbanded are upon auditing their Accompts, and a good Progreſs is made in it; and the Buſineſs goes on with as much Fairneſs and Content, both in Officers and Soldiers, as could poſſibly be expected. By this time the Country is not unſenſible of the Benefit of Freedom from Free Quarter, which is at this time ceaſed; and we hope (if we be ſupplied with Monies to pay Quarters) will be ſo continued. The Commiſſioners for this County are now upon iſſuing out their Warrants for the ſpeedy raiſing of the Three Months Aſſeſments now well

An. 1647. nigh due, from the end of the Six Months; which will be the better gotten of the Country, becauſe they are now eaſed of Free Quarter, and the Supernumeraries disbanded; and it has been ſomething forborn till that were done, leaſt they ſhould be too much diſcouraged. We were ſo ſtreightened in time before Free Quarter would be taken off, that the Officers were fain to engage till that time, till it could be done, and the Commander in Chief has made it his Care and Trouble (with that little Treaſury that is here) to ſee it diſcharged himſelf, to the Satisfaction of the Inhabitants, but the ſtanding Forces will want it for the future, unleſs care be taken to ſupply them, and the Money be better paid than that lately conſigned by the Committee of the Army out of the Counties of Lancaſhire and Lincolnſhire.

From Scotland nothing conſiderable, only that our Commiſſioners are not received in that Capacity by the Eſtates, nor as was expected.

It is now ſome Months ſince Mention was made in Print of an Information againſt Dr. Layfield, by one Mr. Diggle, Miniſter; who accuſed him of counterfeiting the General's Hand and Seal in a particular Cauſe. The Buſineſs has been under ſtrict Examination by the General and his Council of War; but no good Proof or Ground appearing to make good the ſaid Information, the Court-Marſhal made this enſuing Certificate to acquit Dr. Layfield; which we Publiſh for better Satisfaction.

At a Court-Martial held at Windſor, December 1. 1647.

FOraſmuch as an Information, amongſt other Things, was heretofore exhibited by John Diggle, Miniſter of Chidingford, againſt Dr. Layfield, for Counterfeiting the General's Hand and Seal to a Warrant for the Apprehending the Body of the ſaid Mr. Diggle, and no ſufficient Proof produced by the ſaid Mr. Diggle for making good the ſaid Information, although he has had convenient Time, and a Day appointed for the Hearing and Determining the ſame. This Court doth therefore think fit and Order, That the ſaid Dr. Layfield be diſcharged of the ſaid Information. And as to that Part of the Information charging the ſaid Doctor for counterfeiting the General's Warrant, as aforeſaid, This Court doth hold it altogether Matter of Vexation without any Juſt Cauſe.

Henry Whaley, Advocate.

There was alſo ſomething Publiſhed in one of the Weekly Sheets not long ſince, of a Deſign amongſt ſome Officers holding a Council at Broadway in Worceſterſhire, againſt Gloceſter; wherein, amongſt others, ſome Officers of Col. Herbert's Regiment were ſaid to be concerned, but very unjuſtly accuſed, as may appear by the Certificate following; which we publiſh for better Satisfaction.

FOraſmuch as it has been ſet forth in ſeveral Printed Papers, That the Officers of the Regiment of Foot under the Command of Col. Herbert, amongſt others, held a Debate at Broadway in Worceſterſhire, about the 22th of January laſt, for the Surprizal of Gloceſter and Hartlebury-Caſtle, &c. Theſe are therefore (at their Deſire) to certifie whom it may concern, That Capt. Short, together with the Lieutenant-Collonel, the Major, Captain, and other Commiſſion-Officers and Soldiers of the ſaid Regiment, entred into this County of Somerſet upon the 13th of January laſt to Quarter, and have ever ſince continued here, attending from time to time upon us, and the reſt of the Commiſſioners of Parliament, for the Receipt of ſuch Monies as has been allotted them upon their Disbanding: Whereby it manifeſtly appears, That the Imputation laid upon them is altogether untrue. Witneſs our Hands at Somerton, this 11th of February, 1647.

Wil. Strode, Geo. Horner, Jo. Bulkland, Tho. Hippiſley.

Tueſday,

Tueſday, February 29.

The Houſe of Commons this Day entred upon the Declaration, and upon the Debate of this Day went through and paſſed the ſame, and Ordered it ſhould be carried up to the Lords for their Concurrence.

The Lords this Day concurred with the Commons in the Votes, That none ſhall raiſe any Men to ſerve as Soldiers within the City of London, or Ten Miles round, and none in any part of England and Wales, having not Warrant from the Committee at Derby-Houſe to tranſport beyond Sea.

The Lords had Letters read from the Engliſh Commiſſioners in Scotland, that they ſent in a Paper to the Committee of Eſtates deſiring to be heard in the Behalf of the Parliament of England, concerning the clearing of any thing that ſhall be accepted againſt. The Lord Chancellor objected againſt their Letters of Credence, becauſe directed to the Parliament of Scotland then broke up. The Commiſſioners acquainted the Committee of Eſtates by Papers delivered to his Lordſhip, That they have Inſtructions to the Committee alſo from both Houſes of the Parliament of England, deſiring that they may be heard.

The Impeachment againſt Judge Jenkins was read the firſt time in the Houſe of Peers.

Letters this Day from Dublin, Dated Feb. 29. tell of the gallant Proceedings of Col. Jones, in his late March from Dublin, Feb. 3. in the County of Kildare. The Particulars briefly are thus certified: ‘Col. Jones, notwithſtanding the neceſſitous Condition of the Soldiers, as to all manner of Accommodation, and the City of Dublin much in the ſame Condition, marched thence Feb. 3. towards the ancient Town of Kildare, then in the Poſſeſſion of the Enemy; wherein lay Two Companies of theirs, commanded by one Major Munday, and Capt. Cuſack. February 5. Col. Jones faced Kildare with Horſe and Foot, and ſent a Trumpet to Summon the Place. They within deſired to Parle; which granted, after long debate they were content to take Quarter, to march away with their Arms and weighty Baggage the next Day. During the time of this Parle, an Accident happened at the Enemy's Garriſon of Tully, ſome half a Mile of Kildare, a Houſe cloſe to the Caſtle took Fire, our Soldiers ran down amain thither, a commanded Party was alſo ſent, and at the Gate fell Pell-Mell to work, and forcing the Gate a Corporal of Horſe and a Lieutenant of Foot were ſhot. Our Men entred and got Poſſeſſion of the Church cloſe to the chief Houſe, and there remained till Night. Sunday he marched again to Kildare, to attend the Performing of the Treaty, ſending Sir Thomas Armſtrong with a Party of Horſe to Summon the ſeveral Caſtles of Rathbridge, Elliſtowne and Geydonſtowne in Poſſeſſion, of the Enemy. About Two of the Clock the Enemy marched forth; Lieut. Col. Rives was appointed to take Poſſeſſion of the Place. Mr. Sarſefield, of the Garriſon of Tulley, came to the General, and one Capt. Rawſon of our Party was ſent in: Sarſfield took Quarter, there marched thence Ten Muſqueteers. This Night we Quartered at Tully, where Sir Tho. Armſtrong brought the General Mr. Aſh, to treat about the Caſtle of Elliſtowne, and alſo that the Caſtle of Rathbridge would take Quarter; and that they of the Caſtle of Geydonſtowne had quitted the Place, leaving it for us. Monday the General marched from Tully to Kildare, ſettling

An. 1647.

‘and leaving Lieut. Col. Hewſon in Garriſon at Kildare, Tully, and Three or Four other Caſtles thereabouts. Then he marched to a Garriſon of the Enemies, a Caſtle called Lackoge, a ſtrong Place, taken heretofore by Ordnance, and retaken by the Earl of Caſtlehaven: This Place commands this part of the Country: The Army being drawn up before it, the Caſtle was ſummoned, they took Quarter and yielded the Caſtle. The General ſent from hence to ſummon the Caſtles of Punſers-Grange and Drynanſtone, the latter deſired time till the next Day to conſider, the former abſolutely refuſed to yield: This of Nurvy and Walterſtowne ſent to treat for their Caſtles. The Caſtle of Doaveny ſubmitted, and were content to receive a Garriſon of ours: The General appointed Capt. Leigh to Garriſon Dooveny. This Night the Rebels ſet on Fire a very fair Houſe, the Lord Viſcount Loftus of Ely, within Three Miles of us.

‘Tueſday the General ſent to the Caſtles of Punſer-Grange and Drynanſtone again, to know their Reſolution; who were content to yield; wherein the General placed Garriſons. Wedneſday he marched from Lackage through Kildare, and thence to a Garriſon of the Enemies, called Iron-Hill, a Caſtle upon a very ſtrong Paſs; this Caſtle being ſummoned, refuſed to yield, until we had ſome Shot with our Ordnance at it; whereupon our Party then abroad being drawn up, conſiſting of ſome 1500 Foot, and ſome 800 Horſe, we were forced to attend them all Night in the open Field, being a very ſore Night; a commanded Party was ſent to ſummon the Caſtle. The General gave Order, and ſet People to work, to have the Battery made ready, and the Ordinance drawn up againſt Morning.

‘Thurſday by break of Day the General was at the Battery, and after Four Shot a Parley beat, and they accepted of Quarter, to march away with their Arms. He ſent from hence to Two Caſtles, Garriſons of the Enemies called, Brownſtowne and Ballifax, who were content to take Quarter.

‘Friday Morning he marched towards the Lord of Agarvan, in the Way ſending to ſummon the Garriſon of the Enemies called, Caſtle-Martin; they took Quarter.

‘Saturday, Feb. 12. he marched to the City of Dublin. In this Journey he took the ſeveral Caſtles aforeſaid, and brought the Caſtles of Kilruſh, Tymolin and Blackrath under Contribution, much enlarging the Engliſh Quarters; General Preſton lying all this while at the Caſtle of Catherlagh, within Eight Miles of us, until Fear made him remove to Morriborough. Mac-Thomas ſet Fire on the Villages, Corn and Hay about his Garriſon, for Fear of being beſieged. The Weather being bad, and our Men miſerably naked for want of Shooes and Cloaths, and indeed diſabled by all imaginable Neceſſities, we could not longer keep abroad.

February 29. 1647.

Amongſt the Letters this Week from beyond Sea, we cannot but take Notice of one telling ſtrange Stories in Relation to the Affairs of this Kingdom; and 'tis worth the obſerving what Credit ſuch Fictions gain abroad. The Letter runs thus:

From Leyden, Feb. 20.

LEtters from Scotland encourages the Engliſh Royaliſts here, with Aſſurance they ſhall be taken in if any Breach be, or Deſign againſt England, of which they muſt expect more the next; that the Succeſs will be good they make no Queſtion, for when the Crows and the Daws fought in the Biſhoprick of Durham, the Southern Army was beaten. And becauſe there was ſome Queſtion of the Truth of this, it was ratified by an Expreſs unto Sir W. B. out of England, as himſelf ſaith. The next remarkable Story here, is, That the Army-Forces have fought with the Citizens of London, and that half London was burnt: and this was ſo told and from ſuch Hands, that many Thouſands believed it. There is a Jeſuit converted to the Reformed Religion; of which he gave ſo clear a Teſtimony to the Churches of Rochel, where he lived, that they ſent him to Leyden to Salmuicus Splanheym to confirm him. Oneale, who broke out of the Tower of London) and of the Bed-Chamber, is lately come to the Hague from France. The States of ſeveral Provinces meet ſuddenly, to carry on the perfecting of the Peace with Spain, the Articles whereof are now in Print.

The French go on with their Leavy here for Flanders. There are great Endeavours by many to make a Difference between theſe Countries and France, and widen the little Crevice now appearing. The Brazill-Fleet by lying ſtill in theſe Parts is ſo much waſted, that there is raiſed anew 21 Companies for Recruit. The French and Sea-Sweeds purſue the Imperial and Bavarian Forces; and are paſt a good while ſince the Rhine and Maine.

The Declaration called, The King of England's to all his Subjects of whatever Nation, is brought hither, and is ſince Printed in French and Dutch, and with great Diligence diſperſt; it's Dated at Cariſbrook, the 18th of January. This Gentleman, Mr. Odert, that took moſt Pains in it, is ſince made the Princes Royal Secretary. Mr. Strickland is not yet come hither. There has been many Storms at Sea lately.

Wedneſday, March 1.

THE Houſe of Commons this Day, according to former Order, took into Conſideration the Buſineſs of the Church; and whereas the Houſe had formerly ordered that the Claſſis of the ſeveral Counties of the Kingdom ſhould be returned by the 15th of April next (in reſpect that Time was too ſoon to prepare that Buſineſs) they ordered that a Return ſhould be made for the Claſſis of the ſeveral Counties of the Kingdom by the Firſt of May next.

They further ordered in Proſecution of the Buſineſs, that the Returns of all the ſaid Claſſis ſhould be Printed; to the End they may the better know what Counties have failed of their Returns.

A Meſſage this Day came from the Lords, whereby their Lordſhips deſired the Concurrence of the Houſe of Commons to have Hampton-Court made ready for the King's Children to remain there this next Summer. This Buſineſs occaſioned a Rumour about London, that the King was to be removed from the Iſle of Wight to Hampton-Court, but no ſuch thing. The Commons agreed with the Lords in the ſaid Ordinance.

The Houſe this Day Ordered, That Sir Jacob Aſhly ſhould be admitted to his Compoſition; and for that Purpoſe he was referred to the Committee of Goldſmith's-Hall.

The Houſe Ordered, That to Morrow Morning the Buſineſs touching the Diſpoſal of the Great Seal of England into the Hands of Commiſſioners, ſhould be debated, and no other Buſineſs to Interpoſe.

The Houſe Ordered, That the Committee of the Admiralty ſhould be continued for Seven Months longer; and for that Purpoſe an Ordinance of Parliament was ordered to be brought in.

An. 1647. They likewiſe Ordered an Addition ſhould be made to the ſaid Committee.

The Houſe then conſidered of preſerving the Trade of Fiſhing, which is of great Uſe and Benefit to the Kingdom, and for that Purpoſe they ordered that a Guard of Ships be ſpeedily prepared for guarding the Northern Coaſts, and the Trading of Fiſhing there.

The Commons received a Petition for the Commiſſioners of the Cuſtoms of the Kingdom, concerning the great Sums charged upon them, the Comings-in being ſmall, the Receipts not able to defray it. The Houſe Ordered, That Mr. Tombs ſhould bring in his Papers, and the Accounts to be perfected. As for the Advance-Monies, it is moved to be out of Delinquents Eſtates not yet diſcovered.

Thurſday, March 2.

The Houſe this Day Ordered, That the Speaker ſhould iſſue out his Warrants to the Clerk of the Crown for iſſuing out of a Writ for Election of a Burgeſs to ſit in Parliament for the Town of Aldburgh in the County of York, in the Place of Major Scot, deceaſed.

They likewiſe Ordered, That the Speaker ſhould grant the like Warrant for the iſſuing out of a Writ for electing of Two Burgeſſes to ſerve for the Town of Bodwin in the County of Cornwall, in the Places of Mr. Arundel, deceaſed; and Mr. Anthony Nicholls, One of the Nine Impeached Members, who is diſabled ever to ſit as a Member of Parliament.

They likewiſe Ordered, That a Writ ſhould iſſue for electing of a Burgeſs for the Town of Newport, inſtead of Sir Philip Percival deceaſed.

The Houſe then proceeded, according to former Order, to the Buſineſs of diſpoſing the Great Seal of England; and Ordered, That the Right Honourable the Earl of Kent, Sir Thomas Widdrington, Kt. Recorder of the City of York, and Bolſtrode Whitlock, Eſq; ſhould be Commiſſioners for the Great Seal of England.

The Houſe Ordered, That theſe Commiſſioners ſhould be continued Commiſſioners of the Great Seal of England for Twelve Months, and that an Ordinance be brought in accordingly.

An Ordinance was accordingly brought in for making the ſaid Perſons Commiſſioners of the Great Seal; which was read and aſſented unto, and ordered to be ſent to the Lords for their Concurrence.

A Letter this Day came from the Committee of the County of Pembrook, giving the Houſe an Account of the Treaty between Col. Fleming and Mr. Poyer, formerly Mayors of Pembrook, and now Governor of the ſaid Caſtle; that he refuſed to deliver up the ſaid Caſtle to Adjutant-General Fleming, who hath a Commiſſion from his Excellency to be Governor thereof, in Contempt of the Orders of that Houſe, and the Commands of his Excellency. The Houſe hereupon Ordered, That a Committee ſhould draw up an Ordinance of Parliament in this Buſineſs, and Report it to Morrow Morning the firſt Buſineſs.

Friday, March 3.

The Houſe Ordered this Day, That Mr. Speaker ſhould grant his Warrant to the Clerk of the Crown for Election of a Burgeſs to ſerve in Parliament for the Town of Maldon in the County of Eſſex, in the Place of Sir John Clotworthy, One of the Eleven Impeached Members who was formerly diſabled to ſit as a Member of this Houſe.

A Letter this Day came from the Committee of Kent, concerning the Proportions of that County upon the Ordinance for the Maintenance of the Army; which the Houſe ordered to be referred to the Grand Committee, who were ordered to conſider thereof, and to ſit this Afternoon.

The Houſe Ordered, That the Arrears of Col. Hammond, Governor of the Iſle of Wight, ſhould be audited; and that Perſons be ſent to him for that Purpoſe, he being employed upon ſpecial Service in the ſaid Iſland.

The Houſe of Lords ſent Anſwer to a Meſſage of the Houſe of Commons on Wedneſday laſt, That they do agree in the Order for the Committee at Derby-Houſe, to ſend the Anſwer of both Houſes to the Scots Papers, concerning the Diſpoſal of the Perſon of the King, to the Parliament's Commiſſioners in Scotland, to be delivered to the Parliament of Scotland from the Parliament of England.

And as to the Declaration, in Anſwer to the Scots laſt Papers, their Lordſhips would ſpeedily conſider of it, and ſend Anſwers concerning the ſame, by Meſſengers of their own.

Saturday, March 4.

The Houſe this Day had great Debate upon ſome particular Quarrels, that were lately occaſioned upon ſome private Diſcontents; and finding the Inconveniency thereof to be of ſad Concernment between Friends amongſt themſelves, and the Enemies amongſt us, who wait for any Opportunity of Revenge; Ordered, That a Committee ſhould be appointed to draw up an Ordinance to prevent and ſuppreſs all Private Duels and Quarrels whatſoever.

An Ordinance was reported to the Houſe and paſt, to which alſo the Lords concurred, for the Reducing of Pembrook-Caſtle. The Ordinance is as followeth:

WHereas Col. Poyer having the Command of Pembrook-Caſtle, hath wilfully refuſed to deliver the ſaid Caſtle of Pembrook, according to the Direction of the General Sir Thomas Fairfax. And whereas the Houſe of Commons, upon Information thereof, did by a Letter from the Speaker, and an Order of the Houſe, require the ſaid Col. Poyer to render the ſaid Caſtle as the General had directed; who hath notwithſtanding, in great Contempt and Diſobedience, refuſed to ſurrender the ſame, and holds the ſame by Force, and doth both Victual and Strengthen himſelf therein, to the Prejudice of the Publick Peace, and the endangering of a new War.

It is Ordained, and be it Ordained by the Lords and Commons now Aſſembled in Parliament, That if the ſaid Col. Poyer ſhall not within Twelve Hours after Notice hereof ſurrender the ſaid Caſtle, with all the Arms, Ordnance, and Amunition (as the General hath directed) that then Col. Poyer, and all that ſhall adhere to him, are hereby declared Traytors and Rebels; and the General is hereby required to reduce the ſaid Caſtle, and bring the ſaid Col. Poyer and his Adherents to Juſtice.

This Ordinance being ſent to the General, his Excellency hath took Order for ſending the ſame to the Commander in Chief of the Forces before Pembrook-Caſtle, who is to ſend it into the Caſtle; and if after Twelve Hours after the Caſtle be not ſurrendred unto him, he is to uſe Means for taking of it by Force; and to that Purpoſe more Forces are deſigned from Glouceſter to aſſiſt him, and Col. Rainsborough is alſo ſent unto at Sea, to ſend Shipping to block up the Harbour before the Caſtle.

The Houſe was this Day informed that the Surveyor of the Cuſtoms was at the Door, he was called in and preſented his Reply to the Anſwer of the Commiſſioners of the Cuſtoms, their Receipts and Diſburſements. The Houſe, upon Debate thereof, Ordered the whole Buſineſs to be referred to a Committee, which was named for that Purpoſe, who had Power to appoint Auditors and Accomptants in this Buſineſs.

The Sick and Maimed Soldiers Petition was this Day read, and the Houſe Ordered, That an Ordinance ſhould be drawn for allowing them the Benefit of the Moiety of the Forfeitures upon the Exciſe.

They further Ordered, That it ſhould be referred to the Auditors to ſtate the Accompts of Maimed Soldiers and Widows, to the End they may have Satisfaction for the ſame.

A Letter was drawn up directed to the ſeveral Judges in their Circuits, for putting in execution the ſeveral Ordinances of Parliament and Statutes for the Maintenance of Maimed Soldiers, which was aſſented unto. A Committee alſo was appointed for removing all Obſtructions in bringing in the Monies for Maintenance of Maimed Soldiers.

By Lettters from Capt. Penne of one or the Parliament's Ships lying upon the Weſtern Coaſt, we underſtood of the taking of Three French Ships bound for Limrick and Galloway with Supplies for the Iriſh Rebels, their Lading was chiefly Salt and Wine, as well Spaniſh as French, with ſome other Commodities, and ſome Muſquets, Powder and Match.

Monday, March 6.

This Day an Ordinance was reported to the Houſe of Commons and read, for the further Eſtabliſhment and Maintenence of the Army under the Command of his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, to be renewed for Six Months longer; the Date of the former Ordinance being near expired: which was aſſented unto, and ordered to be ſent to the Lords for their Concurrence.

The Houſe of Commons upon debate that the Courts in White-Hall, made formerly for the King's Guard ſhould be ſold, and the Proceed thereof ſhould be employed for the buying of Fire and Candle for the Forces Quartered in White-Hall, and likewiſe for the Forces quartered in the Mewſe.

The Houſe this Day had debate concerning Malignants refuſing to compound, or that have not effectually proſecuted their Compoſitions, and they paſt an Order, That the Committee of Goldſmiths-Hall ſhould have Power to ſend for ſuch Delinquents as have entred their Names at Goldſmiths-Hall, and have not effectually proſecuted their Compoſitions; and likewiſe for ſuch as refuſe to compound, and commit them to ſafe Cuſtody as they ſhall ſee Occaſion.

The Houſe was informed of one Mr. Petty, who hath found out an Art of Double Writing, to write Two Copies at once, and that he deſired a Patent for Teaching of the ſame, under the Great Seal of England for certain Years; and the Houſe hereupon Ordered, That a Patent ſhould paſs under the Great Seal to the ſaid Mr. Petty for Seventeen Years, to teach his Art of double Writing.

A Letter was read from our Commiſſioners of Scotland, acquainting the Houſe, That according to their Inſtructions they had drawn up and preſented a Meſſage to the Committee of Eſtates of Scotland, and to be by them preſented to the Parliament of Scotland at their Sitting; in Anſwer to ſome Papers preſented to them from the Committee of Eſtates. The Anſwer conſiſteth of theſe Three Heads:

1. That it was the Deſire of the Parliament and Kingdom, to maintain a good Correſpondency between the Two Nations.
2. That this Kingdom would take ſpeedy Care for advancing the Hundred Thouſand Pounds due unto their Kingdom; and that ſo long as that Sum, or any part thereof ſhould be forborn, they ſhall have Intereſt after the Rate of Eight per Cent. for the ſame.
3. That the Arrears due to the Scots Army in Ireland, They deſired that the Parliament of Scotland would either propound a certain Sum by the Lump for the Service of that Army there; or elſe to appoint Commiſſioners on their ſide, and Commiſſioners to be appointed on our ſide to repair into Ireland to audite the Accompts of that Army.

They further acquainted the Houſe, That the Parliament of Scotland had appointed a Committee to receive all Meſſages and Addreſſes for him.

The reſt of this Day was ſpent in Debate of the Buſineſs of the Fens.

By other Letters from Scotland came much to the ſame Purpoſe, with ſomething further, as followeth:

‘The great Diſcourſe in England (no doubt at this time) is what will be the Concluſions of the Parliament at Edenburgh, which begins to Morrow being Thurſday, March 2. More than Conjectures cannot this Return be expected. Our Commiſſioners, who now have a Houſe, and removing from their Inn, have preſented Papers to the Committee of Eſtates, for better holding firm a good Friendſhip between the Two Nations. That for what Money was due in February and is not paid, there ſhall be Satisfaction and Uſe after Eight per Cent. until it be paid. And for their Army in Ireland, it ſhall be either contented by the Great; or, if they pleaſe, the Accompts agreed by Commiſſioners upon the Place. There is talk of a Committee made, called, The Committee of Danger; the Army being continued until ſuch a time, and then to be diſbanded if no Danger appeared. The Committee of Eſtates have appointed Six of the late Scots Commiſſioners and Members of the Committee ſitting at Derby-Houſe, to receive the Papers, or what is or ſhall be preſented from the Parliament of England. The Lord Lowden, when he left his Majeſty, had command to make Five Gentlemen, moſt of his Kindred, Knights, which was accordingly done; ſo that there are at this time, Newcaſtle-Knights, Iſle of Wight-Knights, and Chequer-Knights. The Miniſters of the graver ſort preſs much for the Holdfaſt of Firſt Love, ſaying, That Amity with England cannot hurt; and there are many Particulars in the Covenant requiſite to be kept inviolable, as well as throwing down of Sects and Schiſms. They, it's ſaid, have declared againſt a War with England, and renounce all Combinations and Aſſociations with the Malignants of either Kingdom. This is preſented to the Convention. It's reported that Sir Tho. Glenham is expected from France, with a Meſſage from the Queen. Alſo Sir Lewis Dives, Sir Marmaduke Langdale, and Sir

An. [illegible]647.

‘Charles Lucas are looked for in Scotland. This is certain, That very many diſaffected to the Parliament who live in theſe Parts, flock to Edenburgh, to ſee how the Game plays. Mr. Marſhall, not being ſmiled upon, inclines to a return. Mr. Herle has Preached Publickly, and was well liked, only he Prayed not fot the King; he preſſed ſtifly the Covenant, and alſo againſt Sectaries.

‘There are many, it's conceived, will hardly be brought to engage in a War againſt England; and the moſt diſpoſed, ſo long as the new Model ſtands, will be very ſhy of falling out.

Tueſday, March 7.

An Ordinance was this Day read in the Houſe of Commons, for ſettling certain Lands of the Earl of Worceſter's on Lieutenant-General Cromwell and his Heirs for ever, amounting to the Yearly Value of 2500 l. according to the Votes long ſince paſt, in Recompence of the great extraordinary Services done by the ſaid Lieutenant-General to this Kingdom was read and aſſented unto, and ordered to be ſent to the Lords for their Concurrence.

The Houſe this Day Ordered, That the Place of Chancellor of the Dutchy ſhould be transferred upon Sir Gilbert Gerrard, Mr. Miles Corbet, and Mr. Goodwin. They were likewiſe appointed Regiſters of the Chancerery inſtead of Col. Long, One of the Eleven Impeached Members.

The additional Inſtructions for our Commiſſioners in Scotland, concerning the Miſcarriages of the Scots Commiſſioners in this Kingdom, was read, and upon a great Debate paſſed that Houſe. Of the large Declaration in anſwer to the Scots Papers paſt both Houſes likewiſe this Day, and Ordered to be Printed. The reſt of this Day was ſpent upon the Report from the Committee of Goldſmiths-Hall: Sir Jacob Aſhly, and divers other Compoſitions were then allowed of and paſt.

A Letter was preſented to his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax, by way of Remonſtrance and Declaration of the Inhabitants of the Town of Hull; a true Copy whereof follows in theſe Words:

May it Pleaſe Your Excellency,

WE look upon it as a great Affliction, that in this great Juncture of Affairs we are conſtrained to make this ſudden Addreſs by theſe Meſſengers to your Honour; our Reſolutions were to have ſat quiet under your Excellency's Commands, in the willing Reception of Col. Overton, that ſo we might hold forth to the World a full and free Teſtimony of our Integrity and conſtant Endeavours to give all juſt Satisfaction in any thing that might conduce to the Eſtabliſhment of an unſettled Kingdom. And although in ſome things of Moment we have not attained our earneſt Deſires and Expectations, yet ſhall we never in the leaſt decline that Cauſe wherein we have appeared, and to which we ſtand engaged by ſo many deep Obligations; and truly, which had we not had that honourable Atteſtation from you which you lately vouchſafed to us, in relation to our former faithful Services, we could ſcarcely have reſtrained our ſelves from a Publick Vindication to wipe off thoſe foul Imputations laid upon us by ſome warm ſpirited and inconſiderate Men, who defame our Magiſtrates, diſcourage our Miniſters, threaten the Oppreſſion of our Perſons; and, to face their Inſolencies the better, they would render us as Men of by Intereſts, and diſaffected Perſons to the Cauſe we have undertaken; the very Thought of which we do utterly abhor. We truſt all our Actions may be a full Commentary of the Truth of our Affections from the beginning of the Kingdom's Troubles unto this Day, (viz.) our chearful receiving of Mr. Hotham, in relation to the Parliament's Commands, with a full refuſal to the Earl of Newcaſtle, our readineſs to comply with Sir J. Hotham in the Preſervation of the Magazine, a Thing of high Concernment; our apprehending him in the Nick of the Kingdom's Neceſſities, upon Suſpicion of intended Treachery; and that without the Aſſiſtance, yea, or Approbation of Strangers; our care to give timely Notice to the Lord Fairſax, your Noble Father, to come and take Sanctuary with us in his loweſt Condition; our readineſs to ſupply his Soldiers with large Sums of Money for their better Subſiſtence and Encouragement; our Vigilence in Service when we are beleaguered, being at all times deſirous not only to aſſiſt within, but willing to adventure and hazard our deareſt Lives in beating up the Enemies Quarters without the Town, and this with ſpecial Reference to the Publick Safety; our abſolute rejecting of many ſtrong Temptations from the Earl of Newcaſtle, the Earl of Kingſton, Sir Thomas Glenham, Col. Aſhburnham, Commiſſary Windham, and others, who daily courted us with large and fair Promiſes, in caſe we would deliver up the Town when it was wholly in our Power; our Petition to the High and Honourable Court of Parliament, for the Right Honourable the Lord Fairſax to be our Governor, and after him your Excellency. Theſe and many other Particulars, not needful to be mentioned at this time, we could inſiſt upon, to vindicate us from all thoſe unchriſtian and execrable Calumnies caſt upon us by too many, at whoſe Hands we have better deſerved. And yet, notwithſtanding all theſe, we had reſted altogether Silent, in Conſcience of our own Innocency, had not our preſent Governor Col. Overton, your Excellency's Subſtitute, endeavoured to have impoſed upon us, the Free-Born People of England, the Burden of Free Billet; and that even now when our Expectations were raiſed to reap the Fruits of all our former Services in Peace and Quiet, with the reſt of our dear Brethren in this Kingdom, conſtantly paying our full Proportions in the uſual Aſſeſments. The Premiſes conſidered, we cannot but unſeignedly profeſs that our Hearts are much ſaddened and filled with ſuch Jealouſies, that we cannot but apprehend our preſent Diſtractions, as things that bode a moſt comfortable Event, if we be not relieved and eaſed by your Excellency of a Burthen ſo full of Inconveniencies; which we humbly conceive the only beſt way to appeaſe our Differences for the preſent, and to prevent our Diſquiet for the future. We have exceeded the Bounds of a Letter, but we reſt confident your Excellency will pardon us, and both do God that Honour, and us that Right to believe, that in all things that may ſtand with our Duty to God, our Fidelity to the High and Honourable Court of Parliament, and our Affections and Obſervance to you, we ſhall be moſt ready to manifeſt our ſelves to be Hull, 4 March, 1647. Your Excellency's moſt Humble Servants.

The General gave Anſwer to this Petition or Letter, That he thought it unreaſonable that the Town of Hull ſhould be exempted from Billet more than any other part of the Kingdom, and it being allowed by Ordinance of Parliament; and that he ſhould uſe his Endeavour in what elſe might conduce to the Good of the Town.

Further from the North came Letters which tell of ſome armed Forces marched lately through Lancaſhire and Weſtmorland towards the Borders of Scotland, but whence they are is not yet known.

Wedneſday, March 8.

The Houſe of Commons ſpent the whole Time this Day, in reading and debating Private Petitions.

They had in Debate the Wrong ſuſtained by a Member of theirs who rented the Iron-Mills in Monmouthſhire, given to Col. Maſſy; which was referred to a Committee.

They alſo conſidered of providing for Reformadoes and Widows of Soldiers ſlain in the War, of which there were Thouſands. They likewiſe

An. 1647. likewiſe ſent a Meſſage to the Lords, that they would go on with the Proceedings againſt Judge Jenkins.

A Petition was preſented to the Houſe of Peers from the Impeached Lords, all but the Lord Willoughby of Parham, deſiring a further Day to bring in their Anſwer, becauſe the Counſellors aſſigned them are ſome of them out of Town, upon which the Lords granted them time until the Twelfth of April next.

The Lords read the Ordinance for Lieutenant-General Cromwell.

Both Houſes agreed to an Order for Mr. Marſhall to return to London.

An Ordinance was alſo reported that was formerly committed for the Sale of certain Lands of the Earl of Newcaſtle in the County of Nottingham to Col. Whaley, who has done very good Service to this Kingdom; which was aſſented unto, and ordered to be ſent to the Lords for their Concurrence.

An Ordinance was alſo read for Payment of the Sum of Nine Thouſand and odd Pounds to poor Widows and Soldiers Wives, who have Monies due unto them for the ſeveral Services of their Husbands, whoſe Accounts were audited and their Names liſted in a Book by it ſelf, and their poor Condition recommended by his Excellency.

The Houſe then conſidered of the great Pains and Charges of the Auditors, who by ſpecial Order of the Houſe of Commons were appointed to audite theſe Accompts, and ordered a Reward for the ſaid Pains.

Many other private Buſineſſes were expected to be heard, but deferred till Tueſday next; and a Committee was appointed to file all the private Petitions that were offered to be read this Day, that they may be read on Wedneſday next, as that Committee ſhall ſign them.

Thurſday, March 9.

The Houſe this Day, according to former Order, conſidered of the Meſſage ſent down from the Lords on Saturday laſt, concerning the Engagements entred into by the ſeveral Members of both Houſes, who withdrew themſelves into the Army upon the Force on both Houſes.

They likewiſe conſidered of the Declaration of the Army, ſhewing the Grounds of their Advancing up to the City of London.

This Buſineſs admitted of much Diſpute in the Houſe of Commons, and at laſt came to this Reſolution, (viz.) That the Houſe finding in the ſaid Engagement of the Members forced by the Tumults from Weſtminſter, and ſubſcribed Auguſt 4. 1647. Matters teſtifying a Zeal to the Publick, and a Reſolution to vindicate the Honours and Freedom of Parliaments, and fully believing the Intention of the Subſcribers to be the ſame, do approve and confirm the ſubſcribing of the ſaid Engagement.

The Petition, &c. of the County of Bucks is tranſcribed at large, with the Houſe of Commons Anſwer thereto.

The Houſe this Day further Ordered, That the Committee of Goldſmiths-Hall ſhould appoint ſuch Perſon or Perſons as they ſhould think fit to return an Account to the ſeveral Members of the Houſe, what Augmentations of Livings are compounded from the ſeveral Counties, to the End that Care may be taken for making good what has been granted by way of Augmentation.

The Houſe Ordered, That Sir John Strangway's Petition ſhould be read, the Subſtance whereof was, humbly to implore the Mercy of the Parliament to let him be admitted to his Compoſition for his Delinquency, at ſuch Rates as that Honourable Houſe ſhould think fit.

The Houſe hereupon Ordered, That the ſaid Sir John Strangway, or his Son for him, ſhould be admitted to Compoſition, for which Purpoſe they were referred to Goldſmiths-Hall.

They further Ordered, That the Monies ariſing upon the Compoſition of the ſaid Sir John Strangway ſhould be paid to and employed for the Benefit of the Navy.

Friday, March 10.

The Houſe of Commons this Day Ordered an Ordinance to be drawn up for the Election of a Lord Mayor, Aldermen and Common-Council-Men for the City of York, in the ſame manner as the Ordinance was for the City of London.

They likewiſe appointed certain Members of their Houſe to carry up to the Lords the Vote upon the Engagement of the Members of both Houſes that went down to the Army, which was done accordingly. Their Lordſhips returned Anſwer thereto by Meſſengers of their own.

The Houſe of Commons then, according to former Order, took into Conſideration the Confeſſion of Faith preſented by the Aſſembly of Divines, and went through a great Part thereof.

They further Ordered, That the Conſideration of the Confeſſion of Faith ſhould be reſumed on Friday next; as to that part thereof which was recommitted, and this Buſineſs took up the time of the whole Day.

Saturday, March 11.

The Houſe this Day, according to former Order, conſidered of dreining the Fens in the County of Lincoln, it being a Buſineſs of great Concernment, and the Houſe has ſpent much time in Debate thereof, and the further Debate of this Buſineſs is to be reſumed the next Week.

The Committee of Accompts this Day preſented a Petition to the Houſe of Commons to many Particulars therein; the Houſe gave them preſent Satisfaction, and the other part thereof was committed. Theſe Two Buſineſſes took up the whole Day in Debate.

This Day by Letters from the North we underſtood further, 'That 'the Horſe before-mentioned, that marched by the way of Lancaſter, 'into Cumberland and Weſtmorland towards the Borders, were Capt. 'Wogan's Troop, and the Captain with them, who having before 'ſlighted ſeveral Orders from the General for Disbanding his Troop 'as Supernumeraries, then Quartered in Worceſterſhire, took this De'ſign in Hand to march with them to the Borders, thinking to meet 'with Entertainment in Scotland; and for the better Paſſage, counter'feit the General's Hand to an Order for their March. They are not as 'yet marched further than Kendall, and many miſs of an Invitation 'from Scotland as they expected. In the mean time the General un'derſtanding fully of this Buſineſs, hath ſent away Diſpatches to Col. 'Lambert, Commander in chief of the Northern Forces, alſo to the 'Sheriffs of Cumberland and Weſtmorland to uſe all Means for ſtopping, 'apprehending or diſperſing of that pretended Troop of Capt. Wogan's, 'or any other's marching towards the Borders, upon what Pretence whatſoever, An. 1647. ‘whatſoever, and to deal with them as no other but Diſturbers of ‘the Publick Peace.

‘There is nothing further from Scotland as yet; the Parliament's ‘firſt ſitting at Edenburgh was on Thurſday laſt. Some common Re‘ports there are of a Vote paſt to maintain the Union betwixt both ‘Kingdoms, and that there be no new War. We have good hope ‘the Truth of this and further will be confirmed by the next Returns ‘hence, which will be within a Day or two.

Monday, March 13.

This Day, according to former Order, the Houſe took into conſideration the ſeveral Impeachments of High Treaſon againſt Sir John Gayer, Knight, Alderman, and late Lord Mayor of the City of London, Alderman Bunce, Alderman Adams, and Alderman Langham.

In the firſt Place the Impeachment againſt Sir John Gayer was read, and the Proofs to every Article againſt him; upon which the Houſe being fully ſatisfied to the Matter againſt him, they voted and paſt every of the ſaid Articles one by one.

The Articles of High Treaſon againſt Alderman Adams were alſo read particularly one by one, and the particular Proofs to each Article, and were aſſented unto.

The like Articles againſt Alderman Bunce and Alderman Langham were paſt.

The Houſe then Ordered, That the ſeveral Articles of Impeachment ſhould be ſent to the Lords, and their Lordſhips to be acquainted that the Houſe is ready to make good the Charge againſt the ſaid ſeveral Aldermen.

The Houſe was then informed that Col. Welden, Governor of the Garriſon of Plimouth, had engaged himſelf to many Inhabitants of Plimouth for ſeveral Sums of Money for Proviſions and Neceſſaries for the Soldiers of that Garriſon. The Houſe therefore ordered to approve of what he had done therein, and referred the Buſineſs to be made in readineſs, ſo as Payment may be made thereof.

The Houſe had by Letters this Day further to underſtand of Capt Wogan's Horſe, and other Force who were diſbanded by his Excellency's Order, that marched into Weſtmorland and Cumberland, in Order to their Advance from Scotland; and that his Excellency had ſent to Major-General Lambert to ſeize on the ſaid Forces, or any other Straglers marching towards Scotland, and to keep Guards for that Purpoſe at all the main Paſſages in the North.

The Houſe further Ordered in Proſecution of this Buſineſs, That the Parliament of Scotland ſhould be deſired by the Parliament to give Order for the ſeizing and apprehending of all ſuch Forces as aforeſaid, as ſhall march into Scotland; they being deſperate diſcontented Perſons, who endeavour to foment new Differences, and would engage the Two Kingdoms in a National Quarrel.

The Houſe further Ordered, That on Thurſday next the Houſe ſhould conſider of the ſeveral Articles upon Surrender of Garriſons, and that the Doubts therein may be explained, and the Matter of Fact ſtated, that the Honour of the Parliament, the General, and the Army may be maintained without Violation in any part of the ſaid Articles.

The Committee of Accompts made certificate to the Houſe of Commons of the true State of the Buſineſs proſecuted by Alexander Goring againſt Robert Thornton, late Mayor of Londonderry, deceaſed; deſiring a Courſe might be taken for the ſecuring of the Eſtate of the ſaid Robert Thornton, towards the Satisfaction of the Sum of 26000 l. and upwards, wherewith the ſaid Mr. Goring charged him for Proviſions for relief of the poor diſtreſſed Proteſtants in Londonderry, and other Publick Monies, which the ſaid Mr. Thornton had no ways ſatisfied or diſcounted for before his Death. Whereupon it was Ordered, That the Committee of Lords and Commons for Iriſh Affairs in the Star-Chamber, ſhould examine, ſtate, and report the ſame to the Houſe.

We may not paſs by without ſome mention of the Houſes Declaration this Day, in anſwer to the Scots Commiſſioners Papers, which being ſo large, we will only touch at One or Two Chief Heads a little, to ſatisfy the More common Objections, and paſs the reſt by. The main Point in queſtion then is, Whether the Kingdom of Scotland have an Intereſt in the Matter of our Propoſitions or Bills containing our Deſires for a Foundation of Peace, upon the Eighth Article of the Treaty? To which the Houſe gave this Anſwer:

1. The Declaration of both Houſes of the 20th of June. 1647. by them cited, is expreſly contrary to this Claim, which being communicated to the Scots Commiſſioners, and they returning no Reply, the Houſes proceed upon ſuppoſition that the right was acknowledged unto them.

2. No impartial Man can read that Article of the Treaty but he muſt needs agree, that it could be meant only whiles there was a War and Armies on both ſides in being; and that it muſt of Neceſſity end when the war is at an end, and that there is no more Enemy; which is often acknowledged by the Scots Commiſſioners in their Papers. And indeed, What Peace can be made where there is no War? and with whom, when there is no Enemy? Such an Article as this in all joint Wars undertaken by Princes or States aſſociated againſt the Common Enemy, and taketh Place where the War ends by contract, not where the Enemies are ſubdued; the plain and clear Intention and Equity of the Article being, That one ſhould not by Treaty ſecure himſelf, and leave the other in Danger; but doth in no ſort intereſt the one State in the Particulars, Ends, and Concernments of the other, nor make the due Judge of the others Intereſts; as if France by their Aſſociation with Holland ſhould challenge an Intereſt what Proportion of Liberty the State of Holland ſhould have in relation to the Government of the King of Spain, or what Religion they ſhould have in their Province.

Having anſwered all the Exceptions taken by the Scots Commiſſioners againſt our laſt Propoſitions, and againſt the Way of our Addreſs in our laſt Meſſage to the King in the Iſle of Wight, and the Matter of theſe Four Bills being ſuch as the Scotch Commiſſioners had often before agreed unto (except the Declaratory Law concerning the Adjournment of the Parliament, wherein they can pretend no Colour of Intereſt) and the reſt (if there had been any ſuch Cauſe of Exception) being ſubjected to a Treaty; We cannot underſtand why the Scots Commiſſioners ſhould write in that Manner they did in the Iſle of Wight, to the endangering of a Breach and Diviſion between the Nations; which by the Wiſdom of our Brethren of Scotland, joined with our Endeavours, and by the Bleſſing of God upon both, we hope will be prevented. Is not the Cauſe the ſame in relation to the King and his Party? Are not the King and his Party the ſame to the Cauſe that ever they were? Wherein have we departed from our Principles? Wherein have they departed from theirs, that the Scotch Commiſſioners Minds and Language ſhould be ſo changed towards us and them? Is not the Brotherly Union of the Two Kingdoms as beneficial, as neceſſary now as ever? Is not a Diviſion between them as dangerous, as deſtructive as ever? Is not this the only Means for the Popiſh Prelatical Function in Foreign Parts, having ſhaved off the Locks of our Strength, to break in upon us, and lay us waſt on every ſide? What Reformation of Religion, or of Government and Diſcipline can our Brethren of Scotland expect from the King and his Party rather than from the Parliament, the profeſſed Deſign of that Party being to bring in Epiſcopacy, which may bring in their Popiſh Innovations again, which may bring in Popery? How then will the Expectations and Prayers of all the Reformed Churches beyond the Seas be turned into Lamentation and Deſpair, if either Kingdom ſhould help the King and his Party to deſtroy the other? What can it expect from them but Polyphemus's Curteſy, to be laſt devoured? We deſire that all in both Kingdoms that are faithful to this Cauſe may lay theſe things to Heart; and God give us Wiſdom to mark thoſe that make Diviſions amongſt us, and to diſcern from what Source they flow, even from the old Fountain of all our Evils: and is it now a time to ſet it open, and let it have free Courſe, before it ſends forth more wholeſom, and not ſuch poyſoned Waters, to divide us amongſt our ſelves? That as they have had it always in deſign to make us dye like Evil-doers and Traitors, we may alſo deſtroy our ſelves like Fools, and ſo become at once the Object both of our Enemies Cruelty and of their Scorn, and render our ſelves a Reproach, a By-Word, and a Hiſſing to all the Nations round about us.

‘From Scotland the Letters this Week afford little Variety of News. The chief Buſineſs ſince the ſitting of the Parliament at Edenburgh has been to examine the undue Election of their Members; divers upon falſe Election have been ejected. Several Addreſſes have been made by our Commiſſioners, but as yet no Proceeding. The Lord Lowden is made Preſident. Mr. Marſhall hath had civil Uſage and Reſpect from the Divines; he Preached the laſt Lord's Day with very good liking. There has come from his Majeſty Commiſſion to make ſeveral Lords and Earls, as Mr. Maul, who lately was with him, is made an Earl; Col. Cockerham, who was employed to Denmark, a Lord. The coming of certain Horſe into Scotland by the way of Cumberland (mentioned laſt Week) gave Alarm to the Borders, it extended to Edenburgh: The Engliſh Commiſſioners undertook they were not any by Authority of Parliament: They are Two Hundred in a Body, and known to profeſs for the King. Very many out of England and from Parts beyond Sea are come into Scotland. The Divines have preſented their Reſolutions againſt adhering to, or joining with the King and his Party. It's ſaid the King has written to the Commiſſioners of the Kirk a Letter, which they Voted of a dangerous Conſequence: And that there was ſome of the Kirk joined with the Committee of Danger, who have in Conſideration theſe Particulars; Firſt, the Danger of Religion in both Kingdoms. Secondly, The carrying on of the Covenant. Thirdly, The State of the King. Fourthly, Monarchical Government. Fifthly, The Danger Scotland is in. And Laſtly, The Union of the Two Kingdoms. Theſe Heads, if any thing appears amiſs, they are to conſider and propound Remedies. They that are moſt Zealous for the King give out, That if they cannot bring their Deſires about by Parliament, they doubt not to do it another way.

‘The Engliſh Horſe that are come into Scotland are not received; they lye at their own Charge, and pay Quarter; which will ſuddendenly exhauſt their ſmall Quantity of Money brought out of England. The new Lords ſit in Parliament, viz. Mr. Maul and Col. Cockerham. They ſay the other Two that had Honour are the Lord Traquire and the Lord Callendor, both made Marqueſſes.

Tueſday, March 14.

The Houſe this Day, according to former Order, took into Debate the Report from Goldſmiths-Hall upon Compoſitions of Delinquents, the which took up the greateſt part of this Day.

The Houſe then alſo conſidered of an additional and explanatory Ordinance for Sale of Biſhops Lands, which admitted of much Debate, and at laſt was aſſented unto, and ordered to be ſent up to the Lords for their Concurrence.

The Houſe had Conſideration of a Petition, one from a Citizen of London, who had Monies owing him upon Bond from a Peer of this Kingdom (but not any that now ſits in the Houſe of Peers) and that by Reaſon of the Priviledge of his Peerage he could receive no Satiſfaction for his juſt Debt. The Houſe hereupon Ordered, That this Caſe ſhould be referred to a Committee, and the Matter of Priviledge to be ſtated, and the Petitioner to be relieved.

From the Weſt by Letters we had to underſtand of a Declaration of Col. Sir Hardreſs Waller, to the Counties of Devonſhire and Cornwall, where he now is Commander in Chief of the Forces of thoſe Counties, and Governor of the Caſtle of Pendennis. The Declaration followeth.

Sir Hardreſs Waller's clear Repreſentation or Declaration to the Counties of Devon and Cornwall.

TO prevent Miſtakes, which commonly are the Beginnings and Fomentings of Differences in Mens Minds and Actions, I have thought it my Duty to publiſh the juſt and equal Deſigns of the Parliament, and the good Intentions of their General, his Excellency Sir Thomas Fairfax; in the Diſtribution of the Forces under my Charge, in theſe Two Counties of Devon and Cornwall, committed to my Care for that principal End, the Maintenance and Preſervation of the Peace and Quiet of them, and to join with them in oppoſing thoſe that ſhall diſturb either. And to that End and Purpoſe ſuch Proviſion hath been made, that all indifferent Men may ſee a viſible Means to eaſe the County of any Burthen from the Soldier; and that they paying their Taxes ſhould be wholly taken off from Free Quarter, and the Soldiers by conſtant Payment become an Advantage rather than a Burthen to thoſe Places whereunto they ſhould be deſign'd. For the Accompliſhment whereof the Arrears of the Six Months Aſſeſments were allotted to pay off all Supernumeraries, ſo as that the growing Tax might pay compleatly both all the Field-Forces, as alſo all thoſe belonging to Forts or Garriſons. Wherein the General's ſpecial Care and Tenderneſs towards theſe Countries is very evident in that he ſent them ſuch a Force for their Aſſiſtance, as might come within their own Taxes to defray, by means whereof that Money ſhould be ſpent amongſt themſelves (which otherwiſe would be carried out) and ſo in general the Counties not impoveriſhed, and no Soldier to take any thing (beſides Lodging and Houſe-room) but what he pays ready Money for; that ſo the Soldier and Countryman might live in Commerce with each other. Theſe Premiſes well conſidered, I hope there will appear more than ſpecious Grounds, that there might be a comfortable proceeding in this Work, to the juſt Satiſfaction of all unprejudiced Judgments: And therefore I hold it likewiſe neceſſary to ſet forth what are the preſent Hinderances of proceeding in ſuch a Way. Firſt, That in Devonſhire, thoſe Horſe and Foot in Plimouth, the Garriſon of Dartmouth, Exmouth-Fort, and One County-Troop (for all which the General's Orders were long ſince ſent for their Diſbanding, as likewiſe part of the Garriſon of Pendennis in Cornwall, and one County-Troop) are not yet Diſbanded, but do all lye upon Free Quarter, or unequal Payment; ſo the intollerable Grievance of the County; which Diſbanding was by Order of Parliament to have been performed by January 15. laſt paſt, and ſo from that time to be free of all Forces but what the growing Rates would defray: But it appears the not leavying of the Six Months Arrears and growing Rates is the main Cauſe of theſe ſad Effects. By what Occaſion or Defect this Failure hath been, I do not determine; but am ſure that the Inconveniencies are ſo great to the Country, that for want of the Leavying of thoſe Monies, not only the Supernumeraries, but all the reſt of the Forces have been, and are like to continue for the moſt part upon Free Quarter, directly contrary to the Expectation of Parliament, the Intents of the General, and the preſent Practice of other parts of the Kingdom, which are generally eaſed of that Plague of Free Quarter, which is as burthenſome upon the Minds of all honeſt Soldiers, as to the

An. 1647.

Sufferers therein. And therefore, ſince the only Remedy for theſe Evils is the conſtant and ſpeedy paying in of the Rates, I earneſtly exhort all Miniſters and Officers (as they will anſwer it to God and their County) to act earneſtly and vigorouſly for the getting in of theſe Sums, as I ſhall adviſe the People to pay chearfully, rather than to endure ſuch far greater Burthens, as doth and will inevitably lie upon them whilſt they continue in Arrear; and that ſuch as neglect or refuſe to pay in their Taxes, muſt not only expect to have Free Quarter lye upon them, but more than an ordinary Number of Soldiers ſent unto them, as the only Obſtructors of the preſent Eaſe of thoſe Counties. And if it ſhall pleaſe the great God to work upon Mens Spirits (as I hope he will) to receive theſe in the ſame Simplicity and Singleneſs of Heart as they are intended, I ſhall the more chearfully undertake all Difficulties in the Work having for my Warrant (as I truſt) a Call (ſomething clear) from Providence. And if we may find ſo much Juſtice as to fall under Judgments unbiaſs'd and unprejudiced, we ſhall deſire to have our Doings and Conſciences ſcann'd, according as we act for the Civil Intereſt of the Nation, which methinks ſhould cement all Engliſh Men to act as one, though in particular Opinions (ſo they do not in the leaſt Meaſure diſturb the Publick.) Men may differ (as Faces do) and yet continue the Bond of Love to one another; at leaſt ſo much to love themſelves, as to ſtudy and labour their own Preſervation; which I conceive cannot be ſafe, but in the well-managing the Publick. And in things of ſo near and neceſſary concernment to your ſelves, I preſume you will not be wanting. And I hope I ſhall not fail to improve my utmoſt Endeavours to act in that Station wherein God hath ſet me for the Good of theſe Counties. Given under my Hand at my Quarters at Exon, the 14th Day of March, 1647.

To all Mayors, Juſtices of the Peace, Conſtables, and all other Officers whom it concerneth, to be Publiſhed in their ſeveral Pariſh-Churches and Markets.

Hardreſs Waller.

Wedneſday, March 15.

A Meſſage this Day came from the Lords, whereby the Houſe was acquainted that their Lordſhips had agreed to the Ordinance for Maintenance of the Army under the Command of his Excellency Sir Tho. Fairfax, as it firſt came up from the Houſe of Commons to their Lordſhips, only with one ſmall Amendment.

The Amendment to the ſaid Ordinance was read and aſſented unto.

The Meſſenger further acquainted the Houſe, That their Lordſhips had likewiſe agreed to the Ordinance for committing the Cuſtody of the Great Seal of England into Hands of Commiſſioners of both Houſes, (viz. The Earl of Kent, Sir Thomas Widdrington, Kt. and Bolſtrade Whitlock, Eſq; for one Year; only their Lordſhips deſired that the Lord Gray of Warke might be added to the ſaid Commiſſioners, and that one Lord and one Commoner might be of the Quorum.

And in regard the Commiſſioners of the Houſe of Commons are in the Circuits, and ſhall not return till the beginning of the next Term, whereby much Damage would accrue to the Subject by not having Commiſſions and Writs Sealed before the Term, as uſually, it was deſired that the Earl of Kent and Lord Grey might have Power to Sign Commiſſions and Writs till April the Tenth next.

The Houſe of Commons conſidered of theſe Amendments to the ſaid Ordinance, and after ſome Debate agreed thereunto, and the ſaid Lords are to be forthwith Sworn, and to execute the ſaid Place.

The Houſe then proceeded to hear private Petitions, according to former Order, and ſat late about the Diſpatch thereof, to the End the Kingdom might have Satiſfaction concerning their particular Grievances: And ſuch as the Houſe had not time to hear this Day, they ordered that they ſhould be diſpatched on Wedneſday next.

From Ireland, by Letters dated the beginning of March we had to underſtand of the further gallant Proceedings of the Lord Inchequin, to this Purpoſe:

‘About the beginning of February his Lordſhip went out from Corke into the County of Tiperary (having been a little before in the County of Limrick, and of his gallant Feats there you had formerly.)

‘In this his March by the way he relieved our Garriſon at Caher-Caſtle; and from thence went to Carrick (a Walled Town lying between Clonmell and Waterford upon the River Sewer) which he entred, and took in a ſtrong Caſtle there, (the late Seat of the Marqueſs of Ormond) and hath left a part of our Men to make good that Paſſage for Retreat, if need be, and is building of a Bridge over that River, by Means whereof the Paſſage between that and Dungarvon will be very well ſecured.

‘From Carrick his Lordſhip Marched into Caller in Lemſter, another Walled Town within Six Miles of Kilkenny, the Gate of which being blown open by a Petard, the Soldiers enter'd the Town, and therein took Two Caſtles by Aſſault, put all the Soldiers in them and the Town to the Sword, being at leaſt Three Hundred, beſides ſome Women, which the Soldiers Mercy would not extend to, notwithſtanding Orders to the contrary. A Third Caſtle there, although very ſtrong, after the outward Gate was blown open likewiſe by a Petard, yielded upon Quarter; there his Lordſhip remaining to bring in that part of the County of Kilkenny into Contribution towards the Maintenance of the Soldiers.

‘The Iriſh ſupream Council is fled from Kilkenny, being fled thither from Clonmell, upon my Lord's firſt approch into thoſe Parts. His Lordſhip hath now Four Walled Towns beyond the Sewer, (viz.) Carrick, Caſſell, Fether, and Callen, together with Caber-Caſtle, ſtanding upon the River for a Paſs; which if well Man'd, would in all probability cauſe Clonwell ſoon to yield; and now is the time for the Parliament to take us into Conſideration, and ſpeedily relieve us both with Men and Money, ſo as we may be able to keep the Field, and thereby hinder the Rebels from recruiting their Army, which at preſent is but ſmall, and much divided in it ſelf, and then by God's Bleſſing there will the next Summer be made an end of the War in this Province. We hear for certain that Owen Roe O Neal, who had the Command of the greateſt Army that the Rebels have on Foot is dead. There have been Three Ships lately taken, laden with Ammunition, going to the Rebels at Limrick and Galloway; and lately Capt. Ball took an Iriſh Man of War, who did much infeſt theſe Seas.

Thurſday, March 16.

The Houſe this Day, according to former Order, conſidered of the ſeveral Articles upon the Surrender of Garriſons, and ſpent much time in Debate thereof.

The

An. 1647.

The Particular Caſe of Sir John Fitzherbert, who ought to have the Benefit of the Article for the Surrender of Titbury, when the Forces under the Command of Sir William Brereton beſieged it.

The Houſe hereupon Voted, That his Sequeſtration ought to be taken off by the ſaid Articles, and Ordered the ſame to be taken off accordingly.

The Particular Caſe of Sir Andrew Kniſton, who ought to have the Benefit of the Articles of Dudley, when Sir William Brereton's Forces laid Siege to it. And the Houſe Ordered in Proſecution of the ſaid Articles, that the Sequeſtration of his Eſtate ſhould be taken off.

The Particular Caſe of Sir Humble Ward, was likewiſe reported, he having the Benefit of Dudley Articles, and his Sequeſtration was Ordered to be taken off.

The Houſe then conſidered of the Report from the Committee of Goldſmiths-Hall, and in particular the Caſe of Sir John Strangewayes (who was lately admitted to Compoſition by ſpecial Order of the Houſe) and paſt a Vote that they did accept of the Sum of Ten Thouſand Pounds for the Delinquency of the ſaid Sir John Strangewayes and his Son; and further Ordered, That the ſaid Sum of Ten Thouſand Pounds ſhould be paid Five Thouſand Pounds preſently, and Five Thouſand Pounds more at the paſſing of his Pardon (according to the Engagement of the ſaid Sir John) and that the ſame be diſpoſed of for the preſent Service of the Navy.

By Letters this Day from York came the Mournful News of the Death of that Noble Patriot and Grave Senator, Ferdinando Lord Fairfax, Father to the General's Excellency, now Lord Fairfax. His Sickneſs ('tis ſaid) was occaſioned by a Bruiſe on his Foot, where he had a Corn growing, which Feſtred and turned to a Gangreen, and with the Pain and Illneſs of this his Lordſhip fell into a Fever, of which he died at York on Monday laſt; whoſe Death is very much lamented in thoſe Parts.

The Houſe this Day (upon Information of the Death of the Lord Fairfax) had Debate, and Ordered his Excellency the Lord Fairfax ſhould be Keeper of Pontefract-Caſtle, Cuſtos Rotulorum for York-ſhire, and Chief Ranger, &c. which Places were before held by his deceaſed Father.

The reſt of the Day was paſt concerning Papiſts who have the Benefit of Oxford-Articles, whether they ſhould be admitted to Compoſition or no by the ſaid Articles; and a poſitive Order was made in the ſaid Caſe, in Proſecution of the Performance of the ſaid Articles.

Theſe Articles are to be further conſidered of on Thurſday Morning next.

Friday, Saturday, March 17, 18.

The Houſe this Day, according to former Order, further conſidered of the Confeſſion of Faith preſented from the Aſſembly of Divines, and ſpent a great part of the Day in Debate thereof, and have now well near finiſhed the ſame.

The Houſe then conſidered of the ſettling of Miniſters into ſeveral Benefices of this Kingdom vacant, and paſt many Ordinances for this Purpoſe.

Some other Private Buſineſſes were diſpatched; but as for ſuch we ſhall not meddle unleſs very material.

The Houſe then Ordered to adjourn from this Night to Monday Morning next, and that to Morrow the Houſe ſhould ſit in a Grand Committee to conſider of the Buſineſs of the Fens in Lincolnſhire, which they did accordingly, and ſpent the greateſt part of Saturday in Debate of that Buſineſs.

Monday, March 20.

The Merchants of the City of London this Day preſented a Petition to the Houſe of Commons, complaining therein of the great Damage that Weekly accrues to their Ships by Pirates at Sea, for want of a ſufficient Convoy of Ships to guard and Secure them. And likewiſe of the great Decay of Trade, occaſioned by this great Inconveniency and Diſcouragement to all Merchants of the Kingdom.

The Houſe took this Buſineſs into preſent Conſideration, and Ordered thereupon, That this Petition of the Merchants ſhould be referred to the Grand Committee for Trade, which is Ordered to be revived with the ſame Power as formerly; who were likewiſe to conſider how all Obſtructions may be removed from Trade, and to receive all Petitions concerning the Advance of the Trade of the Kingdom, and are to meet every Tueſday in the Afternoon in a Grand Committee.

And for appointing a more ſufficient Guard of Shipping at Sea, it was Ordered to be referred to the Committee of the Admiralty, who are to take ſpeedy Courſe therein.

And an Ordinance hereupon was read for ſettling the Committee and Affairs of the Admiralty, which admitted of much Debate, and after was committed.

A Letter was this Day read from the Engliſh Commiſſioners in Scotland, with a Copy of their Letters to the Mayor of Berwick, upon Notice of a Deſign to ſurprize that Town by the Royal Party, as afterwards they did. And likewiſe a Copy of the Mayor of Berwick's Letter in Anſwer thereunto was read.

The Houſe hereupon Ordered, That a Letter of Thanks ſhould be ſent to the Mayor of Berwick, and to deſire him to preſerve that place from Garriſoning according to the Treaty and Agreement between the Two Kingdoms.

The Houſe further Ordered in Proſecution of this Buſineſs, That his Excellency the Lord Fairfax ſhould be deſired to give Order, that effectual Courſe may be taken, that the Aſſembling of Cavaliers, Papiſts, Delinquents, and all other Perſons that may tend to the Surprizal of any Town or Places of Strength in the North, or other Parts of the Kingdom, or tending to the Diſturbance of the Kingdom may be prevented.

From York by Letters this Day was thus certified:

SIR,

NOtwithſtanding Capt. Wogan's Alarm, and another Relation ſince his marching into Scotland, of about Two Hundred Foot lately come out of Ireland, landed at Cheſter, and gone that Way too by the Incitement of a Cavalier Captain, who gave them Money to drink, and told them they ſhould have Two Months Advance in Scotland if they would go thither and Fight for the King. We yet enjoy Peace in theſe Parts, and go on with the Work of ſettling theſe Forces now after the Reducement of them into Quarters; Major

An. 1647. Cholmley's Troop in Northumberland, Capt. Lilburne's in the Biſhoprick, Capt. Stoddart's in Derbyſhire, another in Lincolnſhire, all the Foot in Yorkſhire. The Field-Forces ſince their Reducement are all Muſtered.

Ferdinando Lord Fairfax was very Honourably Buried on Wedneſday laſt, at Bolton-Piercy, Six Miles from York.

York, 18 March, 1647.

Of the Affairs of Scotland and the Proceedings of the Parliament at Edenburgh by Letters from thence is thus certified:

S I R,

AFfairs here are in a very uncertain Condition; Diviſions are great, the State is divided from the Church, and both ſub-divided amongſt themſelves, I know not how. The Parliament is choſen, but there are of Three Parties, One for the King, which would raiſe an Army to eſpouſe his Quarrel, and to reſtore him. Another Party would have an Army raiſed to ſuppreſs the Sectaries in England, but are loath thereby to engage or ſtrengthen the Hands of Malignants in either Kingdom. The Third Party would have no Army at all raiſed. But although ſome in Parliament are for an Army for the King, the Members generally are againſt it. They are very apprehenſive of a Rupture, and that this Kingdom would then be over-run with a Spirit of Malignancy, and preſently in Blood.

Sunday laſt therefore the Miniſters urged the People to adhere to the Honeſt Party and their firſt Principles; and that Friends and Enemies may the better be known, they are framing a new Oath to this Effect, (viz.) That Presbyterial Government be maintained; That the King be not reſtored to the Exerciſe of his Power, till he hath Signed our Covenant, to endeavour the Extirpation of all Sectaries and Sects, eſpecially Eraſtianiſm; That Eccleſiaſtical Power is not ſubordinate to the Civil; That the King's Negative Voice in England be taken away.

On Thurſday laſt 9th, the Papers delivered in by the Engliſh Commiſſioners were read, and thoſe Papers which the Reports from the Scotch Commiſſioners were ſent to the ſeveral Bodies of the Parliament, where they yet remain.

Monday there happened here a Buſineſs that might have proved of very dangerous Conſequence, upon ſome Diſtaſte the Treaſurer took at a Paſſage in Mr. Andrew Cant's Sermon. Sunday laſt, being a Faſt-Day, between the Two Sermons, upon great Provocation, my Lord Trearer in Scotland had a Challenge from the Marqueſs of Argile. On Monday following very early in the Morning they both met in the Field Four Miles from Edenburgh, between Muſleburrow and Brimſton; to the Marqueſs of Argile Major Innis was Second, to the Earl of Craford, Lindſey the Earl of Lanerick, and they were all to Fight. In the very Point of Time there came in one Major Haddon; The Earl of Lanerick ſaid, If you will Fight, I will ſend for one to Fight with you. This took up ſome time, ſo as the other Lords came in. Duke Hamilton went forth, ſo did the Chancellor and the greateſt part of the Lords in the Town. The Buſineſs for the preſent is queſtioned, and the Parliament hath it in Conſideration.

The Horſe that came out of England with Capt. Wogan are in Arms in Scotland, and have Quarters aſſigned them. They had ſome Hundreds ſent them, by whom and from whom it appears not, with which they pay their Quarters. When they came upon Scots Ground they made their Colours flying, expreſt abundance of Rancour againſt the Parliament and Army of England, and how ready they ſhould be to join againſt them. Capt. Wogan is at Edenburgh, and 'tis ſaid is to raiſe a Regiment.

There are Four Hundred Engliſh Foot, beſides the Troop of Horſe, that are in a Body in Scotland. Malignants flock in great Numbers hither. A Horſe-Race was intended Tueſday laſt upon the Bounds near Berwick, where many Royaliſts and of ſpecial Rank were expected; under which it was conceived a Plot was to ſurprize the Town; but timely Notice being given to the Mayor and Burgeſſes by Letters from good Hands to prohibit that Meeting, it was accordingly done, and the Inhabitants are ſince upon their Guard to prevent any Attempt that way.

Edenburgh, March 14. 1647.

Tueſday, March 21.

THIS Day by Letters to the Parliament and to his Excellency the Lord Fairfax, we had to underſtand the Deportment of Col. Poyer, who ſtill holds out Pembrook-Caſtle, refuſing to yield upon the Orders of Parliament or General, but upon his own Terms. In ſome of the Letters it is thus written concerning him;

'The Man is certainly in Two Diſpoſitions every Day, in the Morning Sober and Penitent, but in the Afternoon Drunk and full of Plots. Some Days ſince he ſent Four or Five of his Bullies (clad in the beſt Apparel he could get for them) out of the Sally-Port before Sun-Riſing, and received them in again at the Gate in great Ceremony, as is if they had been Princes, and then ſhot off ſome Guns for their Entertainment, giving out among the People of the Town, they were Collonels and Commanders ſent out of France to him by the Prince of Wales, and that more of them would follow very ſpeedily. When he heareth News that pleaſeth him he puts forth Bloody Colours, and then he is for the King and Book of Common-Prayer; but if that Wind turn, then he is for the Oath and Covenant, and then puts forth Blue and White. On Wedneſday laſt and Thurſday he fired on us, without Cauſe, all the Guns he had. On Friday and Saturday he was very quiet. Yeſter-Night he vowed not one of us ſhould go alive out of Town. The next News you hear will be his creeping in to us like a Spaniel: He takes it very ill the King is in the Iſle of Wight, and calls the General, King Thomas Fairfax, with other opprobrious Language. We lie cloſe and have not made one Shot at him, but we keep him up ſo that not a Man of his dares peep out of the Gate. He got a Gentleman the other Day, and preſt him to tell him whether he was an Independent or a Preſbiter? The Gentleman anſwered, Neither, for he was a Proteſtant. Why ſo am I, quoth Poyer, therefore let us be Merry. So in they went, and drunk ſo hard that neither was able to ſtir in Four and Twenty Hours after. A Thouſand of theſe Stories might be told of him.

Pembroke, 14 March, 1647.

Further concerning this Buſineſs by other Letters from Pembroke came as followeth:

SIR,

I Have here ſent encloſed the Anſwer of Col. Poyer, upon our ſending to him the Ordinance of Parliament to Surrender, you will perceive by his Anſwer upon what Bottom he ſtands; that is, That the Cavaliers are engaged in Honour to make a new War, rather than he ſhould ſuffer. But if they do ſhew their Teeth, I hope when our Men are together we ſhall be able to ſtave them off, and Muzzle this Brute Beaſt. Beſides, I am now preparing an Arrow to ſend in a Meſſage unto his Men, who I hope ſhortly will bring him out bound, and as many more as have run unto him ſince the firſt Summons. One of his Soldiers was coming out laſt Night, but miſcarried. I am about to land Two whole Culverins this Day, which I believe will be a great Terror to them. We have Fourteen wounded Men, Eight whereof were ſhot in the Thighs, and no where elſe; the reſt were all bruiſed by Stones from batter'd Walls.

An. 1647.

Pembroke, March 15. 1647.

The Anſwer of Col. Poyer to the Order of Parliament for his Surrender directed to Col. Fleming, Commander in Chief of the Forces before Pembroke-Caſtle, is as followeth:

SIR,

THE Order and Letter I read before your Drum to the Soldiers; they return this Anſwer, Their Arrears and indempnity they deſire; for my own Part, my Diſburſements paid and my Arrears, as other Officers, according to my Place and Time of my Service: This granted, we are willing to Surrender Caſtle and all; if not, we are reſolv'd, with the Aſſiſtance of the Almighty, to hold the Caſtle for the King and Parliament, according to the Covenant by us taken, until ſuch times that our Arrears, Diſburſements, and Indempnity be aſſured us. Our Truſt is not in the Arm of Fleſh, but our Hope ſtandeth in the Name of the Lord, and if Blood be ſpilt, judge who ſhall anſwer it at the dreadful day of Judgment, ſuch as ſeek another Man's Life to enjoy what is his Right, or that Man that ſtands in his Defence to ſave what is his. We have beſtowed our Time to good Purpoſe, at laſt to be proclaimed Traitors and Rebels for demanding our own; and no more but what your ſelf and thoſe Mercinaries deſire that you have brought to murther us, and to take Bread forth of the Mouths of our Wives and Children. I have no more but this as David ſpake to Saul when he hunted after his Life, The Lord be Judge between us; whoſe Heavenly Protection I am aſſured of, knowing our Cauſe to be Juſt. I have not elſe to trouble you with, but reſt

March 13. 1647. Your Humble Servant,

J. POYER.

The Houſe of Commons this Day debated the Letters from Pembroke concerning Poyer's holding out of Pembroke-Caſtle, notwithſtanding the Ordinance of Parliament (for declaring him Traytor if he deliver it not in Four and Twenty Hours after Sight of that Ordinance) whereby the Authority of Parliament and Army is much ſlighted and undervalued.

The Houſe hereupon Ordered, That it ſhould be referred to a Committee to confer and adviſe with his Excellency, and give out Orders and Directions that ſufficient Forces may be ſent down into South-Wales for the reducing of this Rebel and his Adherents, and the Caſtle of Pembroke under their Command; and for ſettling the Peace of thoſe Parts.

The Houſe further Ordered, That it ſhould be referred to a worthy Member of their Houſe to prepare and bring in an Ordinance for removal of Poyer from his Mayoralty, and for conſtituting another Mayor to ſerve for Pembroke.

The Houſe then conſidered of the Four Gentlemen that now attend his Majeſty, they having had no Salary yet ſettled upon them. And the Houſe then conferred a Yearly Allowance on them whilſt they ſhall ſo attend his Majeſty.

Then the Houſe went on with the Report concerning the Articles of Surrender of Garriſons, it being appointed for the Buſineſs of the Day; and the Queſtion was, Whether Delinquents that are admitted to Compound upon Surrender of any Garriſons, ſhall by ſuch Favour of Articles, have the Benefit to Compound for any Grants they have of any Intereſts in Chaſes, Parks, or Forreſts? and it was Ordered they ſhould not.

A Diſcovery was made to the General of a Plot to ſurprize the Tower this Night.

Wedneſday, March 22.

The Houſe this Day, according to former Order, conſidered of Private Petitions, and heard many Petitions read, and diſpatched much Buſineſs, to the great Satisfaction of many particular Perſons.

An Ordinance was read for making Covent-Garden a Parochial-Church, which was read and committed.

An Ordinance was likewiſe read for Authoriſing the Committee for the Colledge-Rents of Weſtminſter to proceed againſt ſuch as ſhall refuſe to pay their Colledge-Rents; which was read and aſſented unto.

The Commons this Day at a Conference preſented the Lords with the Confeſſion of Faith paſſed by them, with ſome Alterations; (viz.) That they do agree with their Lordſhips, and ſo with the Aſſembly, in the Doctrinal Part, and deſire the ſame may be made Publick, that this Kingdom and all the Reformed Churches of Chriſtendom may ſee the Parliament of England differ not in Doctrine. In ſome Particulars there were ſome Phraſes altered, as in that of Tribute being due to the Magiſtrate, they put Dues; to the Degree of Marriage they refer to the Law eſtabliſhed; Particulars in Diſcipline are re-committed; and for the Title, they make it not A Confeſſion of Faith, becauſe not ſo running, I Confeſs, at the beginning of every Section; but, Articles of Faith agreed upon by both Houſes of Parliament, as moſt ſuitable to the former Title of the Thirty-nine Articles.

Thurſday, March 23.

The Houſe this Day, according to former Order, further conſidered of the Articles of Oxon, which admitted of much Debate; the Queſtion being put, Whether ſuch as are included in the Articles of Oxon ſhall be admitted to Compoſition for any Offices of Truſt and Power, or the Profit thereunto belonging? and the Houſe Ordered that they ſhould not.

The Houſe conſidered of the great Abuſe of Clipped and Falſe Money in this Kingdom, notwithſtanding the Ordinance againſt it; and it was Ordered, That on Tueſday Morning next the Houſe do proceed in Debate of this Buſineſs, and how it may be ſuppreſſed for the future.

Friday, March 24.

The Houſe this Day, according to former Order, took into Conſideration the Buſineſs of ſettling a Miniſtry throughout the Kingdom in vacant Places, and a great part of the Day was ſpent in Debate of this Buſineſs.

An. 1647.

An Ordinance paſt for ſettling a Miniſtry in New Sarum, and the like for many other Corporations.

The Houſe Ordered, That the Sum of Two Thouſand Pounds ſhould be advanced forthwith, for Repair of the Publick Library in the Univerſity of Cambridge, to the End that Learning may be countenanced, advanced, and maintained, to the Encouragement of Scholars, be advanced out of the Revenues of the Deans and Chapters.

The Houſe further Ordered, That it ſhould be referred to a Committee to conſider of an Advance of Increaſe for the Heads of Colledges.

The General's Inſtructions to Col. Horton about the Diſorders in Wales.

His Excellency hath written to Col. Horton to this Effect: 'That whereas the Committee of the Army have written down to the Commiſſioners for Disbanding, to haſten that Buſineſs, and to remove all Cauſe of juſt Exception on the Soldiers part, by ordering the ſaid Committee to give them all juſt Satisfaction in point of Money, ſo that they will have no Colour of refuſing to Disband. That he let the Committee know, that he will aſſiſt them in that Work; and that if they refuſe to Disband, having thoſe things granted to them, and done for them that are Juſt and Equal, then he would improve his utmoſt Ability to compel thereunto: And that in Buſineſſes of this Nature there muſt be no Dallying or unneceſſary Delay, leaſt others, ill affected take Encouragement thereby, and make Advantages thereof to beget new Troubles. Col. Horton is alſo ordered to take Care, leaſt in this Juncture of time there ſhould be any gathering together of Forces, or Combinations, tending to diſturb the Peace of the Kingdom.

His Excellency hath alſo written to Lieut. Col. Rede at Briſtol, to haſten the March of the Two Companies of Col. Overton's Regiment, deſigned for the Reducing of Pembroke-Caſtle, if they be not already there.

His Lordſhip hath alſo ſent Orders to Col. Fleming, That the Parliament is very ſenſible of the Obſtinacy of Col. Poyer in holding out the Caſtle of Pembroke againſt their Authority; and do require that all Strictneſs be uſed in Reducing thereof. That the Parliament having declared Col. Poyer a Traytor, for not rendring within the Time by them limited, he ſhould take heed of giving him any Conditions, without firſt acquainting them or himſelf; yet if the Soldiers within the Caſtle, being weary of ſuch a Maſter, ſhall come to him and ſubmit, it is left to his Diſcretion what to do therein.

Sir William Conſtable has taken Care to ſend Ordnance and Ammunition from Gloceſter, for the Service before Pembroke.

The General has alſo written to Col. Powell, and Lieut. Col. Langhorne, That whereas he underſtands there is ſome Diſpute amongſt the Officers belonging to Major-General Langhorne's Forces, concerning their Disbanding, pretending to the Commiſſioners of Parliament appointed to that Service, that they deſire to be disbanded together, and other Queſtions about the Quantities of Money to be paid upon their Disbanding; That concerning the latter, Satisfaction is given by the Committee, by Order from the Committee of Parliament for the Army. As for the other of deſiring to be Disbanded together, it is directly contrary to thoſe Rules his Excellency hath preſcribed hitherto for Disbanding; and therefore his Excellency expects that the ſame Obedience which has been yielded by all others, be likewiſe by them; and that they do forthwith, upon ſight Disband, Troop after Troop, and Company after Company, until the Work of Disbanding be finiſhed. For that Care is taken for an exact Performance with them and their Men, to give the ſame Satisfaction in point of Pay, Stating Accompts, and Signing Debentures, that all have had that have been Diſbanded in the Kingdom; and therefore if there be any Heſitation, it cannot be out of a good Meaning, and that his Lordſhip ſhall ſo interpret it; but hopes they will ſo underſtand their Duty to the State, and quit themſelves of all Blame by their ready Obedience to theſe Orders which are ſo expreſs to them and their Men, being the laſt in the Kingdom that are to be Diſbanded.

By the Return of the Meſſenger ſent with theſe Letters, which will be ſometime the next Week, we ſhall hear of the Reſolutions both of the Governor of Pembroke, and Major-General Langhorne's Forces. We do verily believe a good Agreement in all.

Saturday, March 25.

The Houſe this Day received a Meſſage from the Houſe of Peers, whereby their Lordſhips returned the Ordinance for ſettling the Buſineſs of the Navy, with ſome ſmall Amendments, which Amendments were debated and referred to a Committee.

The Houſe further conſidered of the great neceſſity of a ſpeedy Advance of a conſiderable Sum of Money for the preſent Service of the Navy, and Ordered that it ſhould be referred to the Committee of the Navy to confer with the Commiſſioners of the Cuſtoms about the Loan of Thirty Thouſand Pounds for the ſpeedy Service of the Navy, upon the Credit of the Cuſtoms, and likewiſe to conſider with Merchants and others about the ſpeedy Loan of this Sum.

A Letter came from his Excellency the Lord Fairfax, recommending ſome Gentlemen of the County of Hert, who had a Propoſition to make on the Behalf of the poor maimed Soldiers and Widows of the Kingdom, that a ſufficient Maintenance may be allowed for them, and they well maintained without any Charge to the Kingdom, by Collection or otherwiſe.

The Petition of the Recommendants was read, and referred to a Committee to receive and debate this Propoſition, and report the ſame to the Houſe with all convenient ſpeed.

The Houſe conſidered of the Petition of Major-General Browne's Brigade, in relation to their Arrears, and ordered that the Accounts of the ſaid Forces ſhould be referred to the Committee of the Army to be Stated and Audited as the reſt of the Soldiers of the Kingdom.

The Thanks of the Houſe was this Day given to a worthy Member thereof and the Army, for expreſſing himſelf ſo freely for the Service of Ireland.

Riot in Dorſetſhire about Mr. Wake a Parſon.

By Letters from the Committee of Dorſet was given to underſtand a great Diſturbance or Riſing in that County by reaſon of Malignant Perſons: One Mr. Wake, who pretended himſelf Paſtor to a gathered Church of large extent, conſiſting all of Cavaliers, ſome dwelling as far as Exeter, to whom he readeth the Common-Prayer, Baptizeth, Marrieth, Burieth, and giveth the Sacrament to them at his Church (as he calls it) at Brainſton, to the great Diſturbance of the Country, and general Diſtraction of the Quiet of the Kingdom, and high Affront to the Authority of Parliament; which the Committee at Dorcheſter being very ſenſible of (upon Information) twice by their Warrants apprehended the ſaid Paſtor and ſome of his chief Confederates, who both times were reſcued by the rude Multitude, Men and Women, with

Clubs

An. 1648. Clubs and Staves, and with the Aſſiſtance of one Major Uvedall, a Cavalier, carried the ſaid Wake to Blanford, boaſting of their Victory. The Officers who apprehended the ſaid Wake were likewiſe very ill uſed, ſtripped of their Cloaths, Beaten, Wounded and threatned to be Hang'd; alſo ſome Juſtices of the Peace ſitting at Blandford very evil intreated about the ſame. This Buſineſs being by Letters certified to the Committee at Derby-Houſe, was by them repreſented to the General, the Lord Fairfax, to take Order for ſufficient Aſſiſtance by his Forces, for apprehending the Chief Actors in this Riot, and to prevent the like for the future.

The General hath accordingly ſent Col. Scroop, who lieth with his Regiment thereabouts, to be aſſiſtant to the Committee and Juſtices of Peace of that County, for the apprehending the Chief Actors in this Riot; and that he alſo draw ſuch a conſiderable Number of his Regiment into Blandford to Quarter as he ſhall think fit, to prevent the like Riſing or Tumult for the Future.

He hath likewiſe ſent Orders to all Quarters of his Army, that they be aſſiſtant upon all Occaſions for the Suppreſſing of Mutineers, and that they have an Eye to all Gatherings of Malignant Parties, and to diſperſe them before they grow to a Head.

From the Iſle of Wight by Letters was given to underſtand of a new Deſign in Agitation to carry away the King, but was diſcovered before it came to Perfection. Some in Office to his Majeſty are diſcharged upon it. His Majeſty is in Health and walks about the Caſtle-Walls, and to the new Bowling-Green ſometimes.

Some Intimation was given this Night of a Deſign againſt Dover-Caſtle by Commiſſion of Prince Charles out of France, but Care is taken to prevent and further ſecure the Caſtle if any ſuch thing was intended.

March 25. 1648.

Monday, March 27.

A Letter this Day came to the Houſe of Commons from Mr. Lort and the reſt of the Commiſſioners at Pembroke-Caſtle, of a Defeat given by the Forces under the Command of Col. Poyer, and ſome of the Forces under the Command of Major-General Langhorne, who are joined together againſt the Forces of Col. Fleming, and of ſeizing their Ordnance, Arms and Amunition, and poſſeſſing themſelves of Pembroke-Caſtle and Tenby. The Particulars are thus certified:

'The unruly Company of Major-General Langhorne's own Foot, 'who were left without any Commander, ſave only an Enſign that 'they commanded by Violence at their Pleaſure, on Thurſday laſt 'conſented to relieve and aſſiſt Col. Poyer in his Rebellion; and to 'that Purpoſe one Serjeant Henry Stevens repaired to him into the Caſtle that Night, with about Twelve or Fourteen of the Soldiers: On 'Friday Night laſt one of the Soldiers was ſent again from the Caſtle 'to draw in the reſt of the Company, and to bring the Commiſſioners (who were then upon the Work of Diſbanding) with them; 'to which Purpoſe they gathered themſelves together in a Tumultuous 'Way, and ſeized the Perſons of Mr. William Phillips, Mr. Tho. Barloe, 'Mr. Sedgwick, a Godly Miniſter, and Mr. Lort, the Parliament's 'Commiſſioners; the reſt got out of the Town: After they had 'ſufficiently abuſed them in the Houſe where they were on the Service, they brought them into the Street, and carried them diſgracefully into the Caſtle, where after they had impriſoned and abuſed their Perſons, they brought them all (ſave Mr. Tho. Barloe) to the Key ſo ſoon as the Tide ſerved, being at the going in of the Night, and ſhipped them into one Boat together, with as many of themſelves as the Boat could hold, and the reſt ſhipped themſelves into Three Liters and Boats more, all armed and their Swords drawn, with moſt hideous Oaths and Execrations to bring them along with them to Pembroke-Caſtle, where they were all reſolved to go that Night. But the Providence of God (beyond all Humane Hope) prevented them and brought them off before Day the next Morning; yet many of them that Night, and on Sunday and Monday Nights got into the Caſtle; and Yeſterday Morning between Seven and Eight of the Clock they ſallied out of the Caſtle and fell on our Main Guard, pelting on them with their Ordnance and ſmall Shot extreamly thick: Our Men having, for want of Aſſiſtance, been Day and Night upon Duty and tired out, were overpreſſed, and many killed, hurt, and taken Priſoners, and forced to quit the Town, they purſuing far after into the Country. We cannot certainly tell what is become of Col. Fleming. We had provided Two whole Culverins of Braſs, being fortified Guns taken out of the Expedition Regis, one of the Parliament's Ships, with Ammunition and Seamen to aſſiſt us in the Service, thinking to have fallen to Batter on the Caſtle the next Day, all which are taken.

'By this Means our former deſtroyed Country is again become into a miſerable Condition, and the well-affected are now the third time ſure to be ſtripped of all, except the Lord in great Mercy by ſome unexpected Providence relieve us. Believe it, if great Care be not ſpeedily taken to ſuppreſs this Cockatrice in the Egg, he will be able to raiſe a new War all Men in theſe Parts generally fearing him. Some ſpeedy Courſe muſt be taken that a Party of Horſe or Dragoons or both may be diſpatch'd down to keep Col. Poyer from Victualling the Town and Caſtle, both which he is now well able to keep; and if he ſhould have time to Victual it, which I am ſure he will be very diligent to do, it will coſt above a Thouſand Mens Lives to regain it.

'Malignants are very active in theſe Parts, and ſcattering Reports of that Nature as may prepare the People for ſudden Inſurrections. It is informed from good Hands, that a Declaration is preparing in theſe Parts for the King and Common-Prayer-Book, and is penn'd by one Col. Culpepper in Caermarthen, who is ſhortly to repair to the Weſt of Devonſhire or Cornwall to advance it there. Col. Poyer hath courted ſome Gentlemen of Eſtates which have been on the King's Side, to raiſe Men for the King, and they have denied it; others have promiſed to raiſe Men for him. There are frequent Meetings of Malignants; but the wiſeſt of them either drive up their Deſign even with the Scots, or elſe hope to raiſe the Scots higher, and to make them more confident by ſuch Offers as ſhall be made them from the Countries by the Malignants.

Dated from Cardiffe, March 24. 1647.

An. 1648.

From Briſtol by Letters March 25. came further to this Purpoſe:

'We have now advice of that Spark at Pembroke to be grown into 'a Flame, which if not timouſly prevented may ſet the whole Kingdom on a Fire: Poyer having routed ſome of Col. Fleming's Men, 'killed ſome, taken others Priſoners, and diſperſed the reſt. With 'him are combined Langhorne's Men, and a Party in the adjacent 'Counties. A Frigat came lately to the Caſtle, and is again diſpatch'd 'from thence, 'tis conceived, from France: and as is reported, one 'of the Parliaments Ships being on Ground one Night, was ſurprized 'by them in the Caſtle. Help forward ſpeedy Supplies in this Exigent, 'otherwiſe we may ſee what we cannot remedy if we would, that 'whole Country being full inveterate Malignants.

The Houſe upon debate of this Buſineſs Ordered, That on Thurſday next they would meet and conſider of the Buſineſs of ſettling this Kingdom, and that the General be deſired to ſend a conſiderable Party againſt Poyer; which is accordingly directed by his Excellency to be done.

Letters this Day were likewiſe read from the Engliſh Commiſſioners in Scotland, concerning the Affairs there, and giving the Houſe an Account of their Tranſactions. Some of the Letters mention as followeth:

'The Parliament at Edenburgh ſet cloſe, and yet not ſo cloſe but 'that ſome have time ſtill to challenge each other, and particularly 'the new made Earl of Kenmore and the Lord Cranſtone, who went 'into the Field and fought, but were parted before any hurt was 'done. They are Two of the braveſt young Peers of Scotland, the 'one allied to Duke Hamilton, the other to general Levin; ſo that the 'Difference ſeems ſtill to be great. The Committee of Danger is 'Eighteen in Number, Six Lords, Six Barons of Shires, and Six Burgeſſes of Towns; theſe are to manage Affairs, as is apprehended, 'after the Parliament ſhall be put end; moſt of them, and ſome Letters 'ſay, all but Two for War. The Declaration of the Commiſſioners 'of the Kirk, mentioned laſt, was ordered to be read in Churches; 'but Mr. Andrew Ramſey, and Mr. Colin, Miniſters in Edenburgh, of 'the Old Church refuſed; which, it's believed, will occaſion a Cenſure. In all Probality, the Reſult of things will be made by the 'next Poſts coming, and whether Peace or War. There are daily 'many Engliſh come hither; and for Horſes, we in Northumberland 'can hardly keep any; the High-Sheriff and Two Juſtices of the 'Peace, having had ſtolen, or taken and carried into Scotland, above 'Twenty, and knowing them to be in the Poſſeſſion of ſome belonging to a Lord upon the Borders, have demanded them and ſome other 'Cattle; but no reſtitution being made, the Sheriff and Two Juſtices 'are gone to Edenburgh to try to get them: So that the many Horſes 'caught up or ſtolen in the Southern Parts, which it ſeems is very frequent, you may gueſs which way they go. They talk of being ſuddenly 1000 Horſe, Engliſh, in theſe Parts, as Northumberland and 'other Northern Counties; there are ſuch Fears and ſuch Joyes; 'Fears will ſure make many (who otherwiſe would not) comply: 'Joy of Papiſts and Malignants carries them ſo high, that they can 'ſcarce afford the contrary Party a Look, ſo great Hopes have they 'ſet themſelves. This Town is watchful; there is at Chop-Welledge ‘on Wedneſday next a great Horſe-Race, Fourteen Horſes run, which hath not been uſual of late times. As for the Vote at Edenburgh of raiſing Forty Thouſand Horſe and Foot to go into England, ſo confidently reported; and that it was paſt when the Marqueſs of Argile was abſent the Houſe by reaſon of the Duel, and that Sixty ſhould have proteſted againſt it, ſeems to be rather a Dream than a real thing: That any State ſhould Vote an Army, and ſo War againſt another Kingdom, and nothing ſaid by way of Accuſation or Wrong done to them; at leaſt not firſt certified and publiſhed, is one of the great Wonders: It's true, there is Rumours of War, and Men take a Liberty to talk as they pleaſe, and the Soldiers, among the reſt, ſay, they will not go in again to live upon Free Quarter, but will have Money or conſtant Pay.

The Houſe, upon debate of the Buſineſs from Scotland, Ordered, that the whole Houſe ſhould be called, and all the Members abſent to be Summoned by the Sheriffs of the ſeveral Counties to attend the Houſe on the 24th of the next Month; and that this Order be Printed and ſent to the Sheriffs of the Several Counties by the Members of the Houſe that ſerve for thoſe Counties.

The Houſe had Debate of the Caſe concerning the Sheriff of the County of Bucks, and Ordered, That he ſhould execute his Sheriffalty, notwithſtanding he takes not the uſual Oath that Sheriffs do.

And that for the time to come the Houſe Ordered, That they and all other Oaths of the like Nature ſhould be referred to the Conſideration of a Committee, to conſider of what part of them are fit to be taken, and what part to be omitted, that this Inconveniency may be hereafter prevented.

An Ordinance this Day paſt the Houſe of Commons for ſettling the Place of Receiver-General of York upon Mr. Fawke, a well-affected and deſerving Gentleman, and one that has ſuffered much in theſe latter times, which was aſſented unto, and ordered to be ſent to the Lords for their Concurrence.

A Remonſtrance was preſented to the Houſe from the Officers under the Lord Inchequin in the Province of Munſter in Ireland. And it is as followeth:

Mr. Speaker,

IT is not without an unanſwerable Proportion of Reluctancy to ſo heavy an Inconvenience, that we are thus frequently put upon the Aſſerting of our own Fidelities to the Services of the Honourable Houſes; whereunto, as we have by ſeveral Evidences (the Mention whereof we make without vain Glory) manifeſted our ſelves ſincerely Faithful: So hath it pleaſed the Divine Providence to proſper our Endeavours with very many improbable Succeſſes; to the Attainment whereof, though we have ſtruggled through all the Difficulties, and contended with all the Sufferances that a People unſupplied with all neceſſary and ſecondary Means could undergo. Yet have we encountred nothing of that Diſaffection or Diſcouragement, as we find adminiſtred unto us by a conſtant Obſervation, that it is as well in the Power as it is in the Practice of our malicious and indefatigable Enemies; to place and foment Differences upon us, not only to our extream Scandal and Diſgrace (which we ſhould the leſs reſent if their Malice could terminate in us) but to the obſtructing of the Supplies ordered and deſigned for the Publick Service, and to the irrepairable Prejudice thereof, which our Enemies can value at ſo low a rate, as to put it into that Bargain they are in hand to make for our Deſtruction. It being very approvable by us, that ſeveral Perſons in Power there do interpoſe their Endeavours to continue us, by the impeding of Supplies, in a deſperate, languiſhing and periſhable Condition upon the Place, and in a deſpicable and doubtful Eſteem with the Honourable Houſes. Whereof there will need no other Inſtances, than that after the ſeveral Promiſes made by Letters from the Honourable Committee at Derby-Houſe, and Votes paſt for tranſmitting Supplies unto us, eſpecially in the Caſe of Major-General Starling his being ſent to attend the Pleaſure of the Houſes, the only Remora then alledged to make ſtay of Seven Thouſand Suits of Cloaths and Ten Thouſand Pounds in Money, being before deſigned for our Relief, there is no more than Two Thouſand Seven Hundred Pounds ſent unto us in Money, and thereof but One Thouſand Five Hundred Pounds deſigned for the feeding of us and the Soldiers under our Command, and that notwithſtanding the ſignal Teſtimony given of our real Intentions and Affections to that Cauſe and Service in a late Engagement againſt the Rebels at Knockneſſe, which we touch at without any Affectation of Vain-Glory. The Votes then renewed for our Relief, and the Order for our Indempnity (which was conceived would not have found ſo much Heſitation with thoſe whoſe Service we had only profeſt) are laid aſide, and nothing effectual or advantageous done in order thereto for our avail, ſave the tranſmittal of the Two Thouſand Seven Hundred Pounds; but on the contrary, new Jealouſies and Diſtruſt of us are re-embraced and fomented.

It is not therefore ſo inſupportable a Diſcomfort to us to obſerve our own Lives expoſed a Sacrifice to the Malice of our now Potent Publick Enemies, who by the Conjunction of Three ſeveral Armies, are not more encouraged to confront us in the Field, than we by the Art and Practice uſed to with hold thoſe juſt and neceſſary Supplies from us, diſabled to join Battel with them, as to obſerve our Honourable Reputation and Integrity (dearer to us than our Lives) brought into ſuch frequent Queſtion and unworthily mangled, depraved, and ſlaughtered by the calumnious Aſperſions of our Powerful and Prevailing Adverſaries, in deſpight of all our zealous and cordial Endeavours to give indubitable Teſtimony and Evidence of our Fidelities. What if we be beyond any common Meaſure afflicted and diſmayed, we are confident that all Perſons of Honour will acknowledge that we have much more than common Cauſe. And now that our Adverſaries have prevailed to deprive us not only of all Hopes of ſubſiſting here in your Service, but have proceeded for to provide that we may not live hereafter but out of your Favour. So having intercepted and perverted the Comfort we well hoped to have received from other Teſtimonies of our Sincerity, they have only left us this Expedient to teſtify our Mindfulneſs of our Duty by, which is to give humble Intimation to that Honourable Houſe, that we are involved in ſo great and extream Exigencies of Diſtreſs and univerſal Want, with the Preſſure of Three joint Armies upon our weak and naked Forces, that there remains no humane Means diſcernable amongſt us to ſubſiſt by any longer in this Service, unleſs it ſhall ſtand with the Pleaſure and Piety of thoſe in whoſe Service we have exhauſted both our Blood and Livelihoods, to ſend us ſome ſeaſonable and conſiderable Supplies, or that we ſhould be enforced to entertain ſuch Terms as the Rebels will give us; which of all things we abominate, as knowing our Neceſſities will render them ſuch as muſt be moſt obſtructive and diſhonourable; and therefore ſhall reſolve of making that the laſt Expedient to preſerve our own and many Thouſands of poor Proteſtants Lives by; or that it ſhall pleaſe the honourable Houſes to ſend Shipping to fetch us off. And ſo in diſcharge of our Duties both to God and Man, we humbly offer to Conſideration, and remain.

Subſcribed by the Officers under the Lord Inchequin.

By Letters from Hereford was thus certified:

SIR,

I Being preſent (amongſt other Gentlemen of this County) on Wedneſday at Withington, within Three Miles of Hereford, at the Diſbanding of a Regiment of Horſe under the Command of Major Richard Hopton, who hath been very Faithful and Valiant in the late Cauſe; whereof we in this County have had ſufficient Teſtimony by many gallant and brave Actions which he performed formed with this Regiment, which (I preſume) is alſo well known to your ſelf. The Manner of their Diſbanding was thus: The Regiment, conſiſting of about Five Hundred Horſe, being with their Officers all met at Withington, they were by the Major and Officers acquainted with the Orders of Parliament, and of his Excellency the Lord Fairfax, for their Diſbanding, whereunto they were very ready; and yet loth to part one with another (even like Perſons brought up in one Family) for their Affections were ſo entire to their Major, and ſo woven into one another, though joyful to Diſband, yet parted with Tears, which did produce the like from many of our Countrymen (which indeed) made it ſeem rather a Funeral than a Diſbanding. Yet Two of theſe Troops that were Diſbanded did at firſt Mutiny, which the Major appeaſed with his own Troop, and then Diſbanded the other Horſe, and laſt of all his own Troop; who, after pathetical Speech made unto them by the Major, did all unanimouſly expreſs their Readineſs and Chearfulneſs to engage with him again upon an Hour's Warning in the Service of the Parliament; and then Fired every Man his Piſtol on the Ground, and ſo departed unto a Place where the Major had very nobly provided for them a Hogſhead of Wine, wherewith all, after they had refrained their Tears, they refreſhed their Spirits, and ſo departed every Man to his Home, in abundance of Love and Civility, with Two Months Pay, their Horſe and Arms; expreſſing their Reſolutions to the Parliament, and their Affections to the Major, with a great deal of Courage. The Major himſelf went to Hereford with a Party of Horſe that would needs attend him, and a Gentleman carried a Lawrel-Tree before him, as an Emblem of future Peace; which did extreamly poſſeſs the Affections and Hearts of the whole City and Country; and for which he heartily prays that is Tueſday, March 28.

THE Houſe this Day, according to former Order, conſidered of ſettling the Buſineſs of the Admiralty, which is of great Importance to this Nation, many Merchants having lately ſuffered much for want of this. The Ordinance for this Purpoſe was read and much Debate had thereon; at laſt it was aſſented unto, and ordered to be tranſmitted to the Houſe of Peers.

The Houſe then conſidered of ſettling the Juriſdiction of the Admiralty; and the Queſtion was, Whether by One Judge or Three? Upon this the Houſe had much Debate, and Ordered, That Three Judges ſhould be appointed for this Buſineſs: and that an Ordinance ſhould be brought in for this Purpoſe, with a Blank for the Names of theſe Three Judges.

They further Ordered, That a Salary ſhould be made to each of theſe Judges, and that the Houſe conſider thereof when the Ordinance ſhall be read.

The Houſe Ordered, That the Sum of Five Hundred Pounds ſhould be paid by the Treaſurer at Goldſmiths-Hall, for the buying of ſome Books in the Original Tongues for a Library for the Univerſity of Cambridge.

Both Houſes this Day read a Letter from the Lord Inchequin, who ſeems to be full of Diſcontents and Neceſſities of the Soldiers in the Province of Munſter. The Houſe Ordered, That this Letter ſhould be referred to the Committee at Derby-Houſe, who were to report their

An. 1648. Opinions hereupon on Friday next; on which Day the Houſe Ordered that the Ordinance for the Relief of Ireland ſhould be read.

The Houſe Ordered a Member of theirs to go down into Pembrokeſhire to ſettle the Peace of the ſaid County, and it was referred to a Committee to draw up Inſtructions for him.

Ordered by the Commons, That the Committee of the Army do prepare a Letter to be Signed by Mr. Speaker, and ſent to the Committee of the County of Sommerſet, to require them forthwith to raiſe and pay Monies ordered for the Regiment ordered to march from Briſtol to South-Wales, according to the Order of the General; and that Notice be taken of the Obſtructions that have been in raiſing the ſaid Pay, to the great Prejudice of the Service, by the altering of the Rates at this Conjuncture; and to require them to proceed according to the former ſettled Ways and Rates, and make no Diſturbance by Alterations at this time.

Wedneſday, March 29.

This was the Monthly-Faſt-Day, there Preached before the Commons Mr. Tho. Goodwin, and Mr. Whitaker.

Thurſday, March 30.

A Petition was this Day read in the Houſe of Commons, in the Name of many of his Majeſty's Servants who have adhered to the Parliament, and conſtantly attended them; deſiring ſome part of their Arrears for their preſent Support and Maintenance of themſelves, their Wives and Families. The Houſe hereupon Ordered, That it ſhould be referred and recommended to the Committee of the King's Revenue, to take Care that theſe Officers may have Allowance in ſome Proportion, before any other of the King's Servants.

The reſt of this Day was ſpent in Debate of the Buſineſs of Ireland. An Officer coming thence this Day, acquainted ſome Members of the Houſe, That he had ſomething of great Importance to acquaint them with; and deſired that he might have leave to acquaint the Houſe therewith. Whereupon the Houſe called him in, and he made his Relation to the Houſe.

The Houſe hereupon Ordered the Doors to be ſhut, and no Member to go thence till Twelve of the Clock; and after much Debate the Reſult of all was, That Col. Jephſon, Mr. Falloway, and Mr. Swinſon, ſhould go as Commiſſioners to the Lord Inchequin, into the Province of Munſter.

That it ſhould be referred to the Committee at Derby-Houſe to draw Inſtructions for them.

They further Ordered, That the Forces in the Province of Munſter ſhould have an Ordinance for their Indempnity.

They further Ordered, That the Forces in the Province of Munſter ſhould have the ſame Security for their Arrears, as any of the Forces in that Kingdom.

They appointed Commiſſioners for Three other Provinces, and ordered Col. Jones to be added a Commiſſioner to them.

They likewiſe appointed Money to be ſent over with theſe Commiſſioners.

Friday, March 31.

An Information was this Day given to the Houſe againſt a Member thereof, that he had ſpoken ſome Words about Twelve Months ſince, upon which the Houſe had ſome Debate; and Ordered, That the ſaid Member ſhould have Notice thereof, and ſummoned to attend the Service of the Houſe, and to give Anſwer to the ſaid Information. The Houſe then fell into Debate concerning the Buſineſs of the Church, and ſpent a great part of the Day in Debate of this Buſineſs.

An Ordinance was read for puniſhing of Inceſt, Adultery, and Fornication, and Inceſtuous Marriages, which admitted of much Debate, and the Houſe ordered that Ordinance to be Committed.

Another Ordinance was read for the better Obſervance of the Lord's Day, Days of Humiliation, Days of Thankſgiving, and all other Days ſet apart and commanded by the Authority of Parliament to be obſerved; which was read the firſt and ſecond time, and ordered to be committed.

A Letter this Day from Pembroke of a Tumultuous Riſing of the Country People in thoſe Parts, and of the ſad Effects that have and may enſue thereon, if not ſpeedily ſuppreſſed and prevented by the Judgment of the Parliament, and the Endeavours of the Army. The Houſe hereupon Ordered, That this whole Buſineſs of Wales ſhould be referred to the Lord General, to take ſpeedy and effectual Care therein.

The Houſe then Ordered, That they would take into Conſideration to Morrow the Buſineſs of Increaſe of Trade in this Kingdom, and that nothing ſhould intervene; this being a Buſineſs of great Importance to this Nation: and Mr. Speaker was to put the Houſe in Mind thereof preſently after Prayers are done.

CHAP. XXV.

Proceedings in Parliament from April 1. to May 1. 1648.

Saturday, April 1.

THE Houſe this Day heard the Ordinance concerning the Affairs of the Admiralty reported; it being referred to a Committee to be drawn up. This took the Debate almoſt of the whole Day, and at laſt it was aſſented unto, and ordered to be ſent to the Lords for their Concurrence.

The Houſe thought fit to give an Additional Power to the Commiſſioners that are appointed to go to the Forces in Munſter, under the Command of the Lord Inchequin; whoſe Officers had an Oath of Secrecy tendered to them, which if they refuſed to take, or diſputed it, then they were ſecured, though that Oath might have been to kill their Wives and Children.

But in reſpect theſe Inſtructions ought not to be Publiſhed till the Commiſſioners are gone into Ireland, and their Tranſactions known upon them, we ſhall forbear mentioning of them at preſent.

A ſtrong report was this Day, That the Prince Charles is withdrawn from France; whether deſigned is not yet known, but it is whiſpered Scotland; But if ſo, or otherwiſe, the Truth will be known ſhortly.

The Houſe of Peers Adjourned from Friday till Monday.

His Excellency the Lord Fairfax removed the Head Quarters of the Army this Week from London to St. Edmonds-Bury in Norfolk.

Monday, April 3.

A Letter was this Day read in the Houſe of Commons from Col. Jones, Governor of Dublin, expreſſing the great Neceſſity of the Soldiery there, for want of Monies and Cloaths, and deſiring ſome ſpeedy Supply to be ſent thither, that may enable him to take the Field, and encourage the Soldiery under his Command, and that he doubted not to give a good Accompt for his Service this Summer againſt the Rebels.

The Houſe hereupon took into Conſideration the eminent and faithful Services performed by the ſaid Col. Jones, ſince he hath had any Command in that Kingdom, and the Bleſſings that God hath crowned their Endeavours with; and Ordered, that One Thouſand Pounds ſhould be beſtowed upon the ſaid Col. Jones, as a Gratuity and Teſtimony of the Favour of the ſaid Houſe, for all his ſaid faithful Services: And that he ſhould likewiſe be acquainted what Proviſions and Monies are proportioned for all the Soldiery and Provinces in Ireland, and what in particular for the Forces under his Command.

It was likewiſe Ordered, That Mr. Greenhill and Mr. Pocock, Treaſurers of Chriſt-Church, do out of Nine Thouſand Pounds reſerved out of the Monies at Goldſmiths-Hall for Indigent Perſons, pay proportionably (as the Monies will hold out) the Officers and Soldiers whoſe Names are contained in the Liſt preſented to this Houſe by Auditor Wilcox; taking ſpecial Care, and endeavouring all Means, that no Monies be paid to thoſe that ſhall appear to have been engaged againſt the Parliament about July or Auguſt laſt. And Mr. Potter, Clerk to the Committee of the Military Garden, is appointed to be preſent at the time of Payment, with Mr. Greenhill and Mr. Pocock, with his Books of the Five Qualifications, and the former Liſt by which they have received any former Monies, whereby none of them may be twice paid, nor any paid that are not Comprehended within the Five Qualifications.

A Letter this Day came from our Commiſſioners in Scotland, acquainting the Houſe that they had made ſeveral Addreſſes to the Parliament of Scotland, according to the Order of both Houſes of the Parliament of England, concerning Capt. Wogan; but as yet they can receive no Anſwer or Satisfaction. The Houſe hereupon Ordered a Letter of Thanks to be ſent to our Commiſſioners, for their Fidelity in their Tranſactions and Endeavours; and to deſire them to inſiſt in their Addreſſes to the Parliament of Scotland for Anſwer to that Particular.

The Houſe Ordered, That the Buſineſs of the Fens ſhould be conſidered of to Morrow Morning.

From York came Letters this Day to this Purpoſe:

SIR,

YOUR only News is not very Toothſom, but it may prove wholeſom; Acts diſagreeing to Principles of Nature being carried on by a Myſterious Providence (above ſo low a Capacity) commonly produce a gracious and glorious Iſſue; for all that great Alarm, and the heightened Malignant Expectation thereupon, the Appearance of a God in this Extremity and Opportunity will ſoon diſpel their miſty Actions, like the Sun in the Morning, though (I perceive) they gather Strength and Courage very faſt and in evey Place. If honeſt Men ſtick not together, and act not with Love and Courage, a Deluge of Calamities may ſuddenly break in upon us; if once the Scots can but divide us, they will ſoon unite to make us a Prey, notwithſtanding their many Civil Differences. Our Sufferings now are not much in theſe Parts, the Forces being in their Quarters, but I am confident very ready to oppoſe Invaders, as they ſhall be required by Parliament, or any by-Authority from them. The Aſſizes here are now done, after much Toil and Trouble, for there was a great Goal Delivery; Twenty-three were Condemned, Sixteen Men and Seven Women; Thirteen of the Men were Executed this Day, and Two of them Hang'd Drawn and Quartered for Clipping, Three of the Men were reprieved at the Gallows; Two of the Women were Executed, Five Reprieved for being with Child, One whereof was condemned for the Crucifying of her Mother, and ſacrificing a Calf and a Cock, as a Burnt Sacrifice; and the Husband of that Woman was Hang'd for having a Hand in that Fact.

March 31. 1648.

From Newcaſtle by Letters of the 28th is thus written:

'This Week many Ipſwich Ships and others (to the Number of Seven) is ſplit and ſunk on the Bar of Tinmouth, much of the Ammunition, Powder and Match is ſpent and loſt; Seven or Eight is driven upon the Sands beſides, but in hopes to be gotten off. Col. Lilburne is gone from hence to his Charge into York-ſhire, wherein he is to have a Regiment of Horſe from the North. I have nothing but this, Sir William Fleming is come into the Road with a Holland Man of War Six and Thirty Guns in her; it is a general Report that the Prince is in the Ship, but not likely: None hath Liberty to go into the Ship. Sir Thomas Glenham is now in a French Man of War. This encloſed is all.

From Edenburgh by Letter March 28. is thus certified:

'The Scots do not appear for the King directly, as the Malignants conceive they would; but to compoſe things amongſt themſelves: and the better to effect their Deſigns upon England; they inſiſt upon nothing but Breach of Covenant and Treaty on our Part, and the not ſettling the Church-Government, and none of their Malignants, they ſay, ſhall ſerve in their New Army, unleſs they take the Covenant, for all they do is but adhering to their Firſt Principles.

'Our Commiſſioners have as yet received no Anſwer to any of their Papers, nor to that concerning Capt. Wogan and his Troop. To the Committee of Danger are added the Earls of Traquire and Roxborough, both Men well affected, at leaſt to the pious Part.

'The Commiſſioners of the General Aſſembly gave in theſe following humble Deſires to the Parliament laſt Week, which they have 'taken

An. 1648.

‘ taken to their ſerious Conſideration, but have not given an Anſwer ‘ as yet. Their Deſires are,

1. That the Grounds and Cauſes of undertaking a War may be cleared to be ſo Juſt, as that all who are well affected, may be ſo ſatisfied in the Lawfulneſs and the Neceſſity of the Engagement; and that nothing be acted in reference to a War, before the Lawfulneſs of the War, and the State of the Queſtion be agreed upon.

2. That as the Breach of the Covenant by the prevalent Party of the Sectaries in England are evident, ſo we deſire and hope that, according to the Treaty, it may be condeſcended upon and declared by the Parliament, what are thoſe Breaches which they take to be a Ground of War, and that Reparation thereof may be ſought.

3. That there may be no ſuch Quarrel or Ground of the War, as may break the Union between the Two Kingdoms, or may diſcourage or diſoblige the Presbiterian Party in England, who continue firm in adhering to the League and Covenant.

4. That if the Popiſh Prelatical or Malignant Party ſhall again riſe in Arms, this Nation and their Armies may be ſo far from joining or aſſociating with them, that on the contrary they may oppoſe them, and endeavour to ſuppreſs them as Enemies to this Cauſe and Government upon the one hand, as well as Sectaries on the other.

5. Seeing your Lordſhips Undertaking ſhould be in the firſt Place for Religion. We deſire that his Majeſty's late Conceſſions and Offers concerning Religion (as they have been by the Church, ſo may be by the Parliament) declared unſatisfactory; whereby your Lordſhips may give further Evidence of the Reality of your Intentions for the Good and Safety of Religion.

6. That your Lordſhips may be pleaſed not to fix and ſettle upon any ſuch State of a Queſtion, as doth not contain ſecurity and Aſſurance to be had from his Majeſty by his ſolemn Oath under his Hand and Seal, that he ſhall for himſelf and his Succeſſors, conſent and agree to Acts of Parliament enjoining the League and Covenant, and fully eſtabliſhing Presbiterial Government, Directory of Worſhip, and Confeſſion of Faith in all his Majeſty's Dominions; and that his Majeſty ſhall never make any Oppoſition to any of theſe, or endeavour any Change thereof; and that this Security be had from his Majeſty before his Reſtitution to the Exerciſe of his Royal Power, which we deſire for no other End, but becauſe we cannot ſee how Religion (which has been, and we truſt ſhall be the principal End of all the Undertaking's of this Nation) can be otherwiſe ſecured; but that without this Security it ſhall be left in very great Hazard.

7. That the ſame End in ſecuring Religion (which is profeſſed to be the Principal Cauſe of Engagment) and for ſecuring all other Ends of the Covenant ſuch Perſons only may be entruſted by your Lordſhips to be of your Committees and Armies, as have given conſtant Proof of their Integrity and Faithfulneſs in this Cauſe, and againſt whom there is no juſt Exception or Jealouſy, that ſo we may the more confidently encourage our Flocks and Congregations to follow the Cauſe of God in their Hands, and not to doubt of the Fidelity of thoſe who ſhall be entruſted by your Lordſhips.

8. That there be no Engagement without a ſolemn Oath, wherein the Church may have the ſame Intereſt which they had in the Solemn League and Covenant, the Cauſe being the ſame.

‘All which Deſires being duly pondered by your Lordſhips, in an ‘ equal Ballance, will, we truſt, be found juſt and neceſſary, and do ‘ not doubt Satisfaction from your Lordſhips therein, may be a happy ‘ and effectual Means for facilitating the State of the Queſtion, and for ‘ the uniting this Nation in an unanimous undertaking of ſuch Duties ‘ as are requiſite for the Reformation and Defence of Religion, the ‘ Honour and Happineſs of the King, the Peace and Safety of the ‘ Kingdom.

‘Concerning the late Vote of 40000 Men to be raiſed, it was by the Committee of Danger: who went ſo much beyond their Authority as ſome conceived, that a Proteſtation was entred, (viz.) againſt the Manner, not the Matter, and is as followeth:

The Proteſtation made by Eighteen Lords and Forty others againſt the Vote, for raiſing an Army by the Committee of Danger runs thus:

WHereas we have earneſtly deſired that no Power be granted to any Committee, to do, act, or order any thing that may engage this Kingdom in a new War, before the Parliament reſolve on a War, and ſtate the Cauſe and Ends thereof; it being in our Judgment neither agreeable to the Oath of Parliament and Tenour of Commons from Shires and Burroughs.

Nor the Act of Parliament 1640. and againſt the Articles, being alſo a dangerous Preparative and Derogatory to the Liberty of the Kingdom, and Priviledge of Parliament; and moſt of all it being of dangerous Conſequence to the Cauſe of God, and to the Ends of the Solemn League and Covenant. We do therefore diſſent from granting any ſuch Power; and do Proteſt, That we may not be included in any ſuch Vote or Reſolutions; but may be free before God and Man of all the Guiltineſs, Prejudices or Evil that may follow thereupon, to the Cauſe, Covenant, and Religion, to the King's Perſon and Authority, to this Kirk and Kingdom, or the Union between the Two Kingdoms.

The Names of the Committee of Danger are as followeth:

LORDS.

Duke Hamilton, Marqueſs of Argile, Earl of Crayford Lindſey, Earl of Lauderdale, Earl of Lanerick, Earl of Callender, Earl of Traquire, Earl of Roxborough.

BARONS.

BURGESSES.

Edward Sidſerfe, Alexander Wedderburne, Pat. Leſley, Jo. Bell, Ja. Roberton, Thomas Merberine, Two Burgeſſes more.

‘There come yet divers Engliſh by Land into Scotland. The Ships that came to Scotland (and are yet in the Haven of Leith) have as yet Landed none of the Paſſengers, which begets Thoughts of great Perſons being in them.

‘It's probable the Parliament of Scotland will make ſuch a Concluſion as will be very well taken in England, and ſend it by Commiſſioners before any War be declared. It's true, common Talk is wild there, as with us here; but the Debates are ſerious.

Tueſday, April 4.

Letters from Pembrokeſhire give Intelligence of the uncontroulable Deportment of Col. Poyer and a Part of Major-General Laughorne's Men, how faſt they take Priſoners, and that they had ſecured ſome of the Committee-Men. But we hope Col. Horton and the reſt of the Forces deſigned againſt Poyer, is by this time there with a ſufficient Force.

This Day came Intelligence from Scotland that things remain there in as bad a Condition as formerly. The Engliſh Commiſſioners have

An. 1648. not yet received an Anſwer to any of their Papers; nor to that concerning Capt. Wogan and his Troop, although they have done their utmoſt Endeavours in it.

Sir William Fleming came hither Two Days ſince from France in a Dutch Man of War. Through Miſinformation the Minds of moſt Men here are poſſeſs'd with ſtrange Opinions of the Parliament of England; and as to our Engliſh Army, an Inveterate and implacable Hatred is deeply rooted againſt them. The Dutch Ship keepeth Guard, and likewiſe a French Pinnace, and lieth here; we know not the Meaning of it.

Edenburgh, March 28. 1648.

There came this Day further Intelligence from Wales, and particularly of the Affairs in Pembrokeſhire, which gives a good Account how things ſtand there, (viz.)

THE Miſeries of the deſtroyed County of Pembroke do very much increaſe. This Evening a Veſſel arrived here that came Yeſterday Morning out of Milford, and brings News that Poyer is near 500 ſtrong in Foot, and that Capt. Addu's Troop, and one other of Major-General Langhorne's Horſe are fallen in to him, both to the Number of 100, he is daily raiſing more Forces both of Horſe and Foot; and to that End do frequently Muſter the Country into Pembroke Town, who do out of pure Fear obey him, and do make very full Appearances before him, with Bills, Halbirds, and ſuch other Weapons as they can get, and out of them on Saturday laſt he Preſſed 100 Men, beſides what he hath Preſſed ſince in the Country. He hath Seſſed all the Country-Pariſhes about him to a Tax near Treble as much on a Pariſh as the Three Months Seſment for the Army is, which he forceth the Inhabitants to bring in to him in Money or Proviſion, or both; and ſuch as do refuſe he threatneth to Plunder. He hath impriſoned Mr. William Lort, Mr. Matthew Bowen, and William Poyer, with ſeveral others, and made them all Pay their Ranſoms.

Laſt Tueſday a little before Night the Two Companies of Soldiers that were ſent down by Water from Briſtol, landed near Hentlan in Milford, and on Wedneſday were ſet upon by the Two Troops of Horſe, and an Hundred or Six Score Foot of Poyer's in Pulchraban Church and Church-Yard; but they maintained the Place, and are not taken (as the Report was) but had Conditions upon Treaty to March away with their Arms, and are gone to Cardiffe, upon Engagement not to Land again in Milford. The ſame Day Poyer beſet Hentlan-Houſe, where was Mr. White, Mr. Roger Lort, Adjutant-General Fleming, Mr. John Lort, and ſeveral other Commiſſioners and Gentlemen, that were met together about accommodating and quartering of the New Landed Soldiers; all of them were in great Danger of taking, but they alſo by a Stratagem eſcaped, and are got on Ship-board. Hugh Butler, a Col. of the King's Army, a grand Malignant, commanded the Foot that were about the Houſe, and had provided Barrs of Iron, Sledges and other Inſtruments, for the breaking open the Doors of the Houſe.

By this and what formerly has been certified, you may ſee the ſettled Reſolution of Poyer and his Adherents to raiſe a new War, which I am confident will grow to ſuch a Head on a ſudden, if not timely prevented, in thoſe Malignant and Diſcontented Parts, as will not eaſily be overcome.

Col. Fleming, with ſome of the Commiſſioners, are aboard the Expedition in Milford-Haven.

We will not now mention the additional Forces deſigned by his Excellency the Lord Fairfax, now on their March, or we believe there by this Time, to diſperſe this threatning Cloud in Wales by Poyer and his Adherents. Glamorgan, Monmouth, Radnor, and Brecknockſhire ſtand firm, and there is Shipping to ſecure Milford-Haven, that no Supplies further can go to Pembroke. The Forces alſo of Major-General Langhorne (beſides thoſe joined with Poyer) have agreed to diſband, and we believe are diſbanded by this time, as is certified by a Letter from the Commiſſioners to that Purpoſe, to his Excellency the Lord Fairfax from Cardiffe, Dated April 3. to this Purpoſe:

THE Commiſſioners have Proſecuted the Work of Disbanding of Major-General Langhorne's Forces with all the Speed and Care they could, wherein they have endeavoured by their Candour and Fairneſs, to keep them from the leaſt Occaſion of ſuch Diſcontent as might colour a Mutiny that would produce a Broil, whence they might ſeem to take Occaſion to patronize the Deſign they were ſufficiently ſatisfied was on Foot. In this Work the Countenance, Advice, and Forwardneſs of Col. Horton has been ſhewn, and which has gain'd the Country, and brought the Work to Perfection in that County, that the reſpective Officers there are now content according to his Excellency's Orders, to Disband Troop by Troop, and Company by Company, whereunto they have engaged their Faith and Honour. Major Phillips Disbands on Tueſday on Swanzey-Sands, and the Reſidue in like manner one after another, to receive their Money and Disband, which about Saturday we believe will be over.

And as concerning Pembroke, it is ſurther certified, That Poyer gathers Strength; ſome of Col. Powell's Men are fallen in to him, and alſo ſome Foot of Col. John Butler's, once Lieut. Col. to the Earl of Eſſex, who ('tis certified) having a Brother at Munſter, holds a Correſpondence with the Engliſh there, reſting in Expectation of Aſſurance thence to have a Ceſſation with the Rebels, being already talked of. Poyer as yet hath but a very few Horſe, nor is not able to keep the Field, but will be again ſufficiently penn'd up in the Caſtle upon the Appearance of the Additional Forces ſent down, or there by this time. There are not any Gentlemen of Note, or Men of Eſtates, in all the forementioned Counties of Wales (whatever the Reports were) come in to Poyer, or that give him any viſible Countenance. And the Officers under Major-General Langhorne, who have agreed to Diſband, have alſo ſubſcribed a Declaration wherein they Proteſt againſt any Conference or Compliance with Poyer and his Confederates in this Action; and that ſuch of their Soldiers as have or ſhall go in to him, they have and will look upon them as Enemies and Diſturbers of the Peace of the Kingdom. By all this, yet we hope this Storm in Wales, ſo much heighten'd by the Malignants, will be ſuddenly blown over, and their Malignant Expectations to engage a new War in thoſe Parts fruſtrated.

From Shrewsbury by Lettets we underſtand that the Malignants in that County had complotted to ſeize on Shrewsbury, and ſo to raiſe a new Combuſtion in thoſe Parts: But by the Vigilance of the Governor and Garriſon it was prevented.

Monday, April 10.

Tumult in London on the Lord's Day.

THAT which firſt offers it ſelf this Week is the great Tumult which broke forth in London by a Company of rude and diſorderly Perſons on the Lord's Day, about their Sporting, Tipling, and other Diſorders on that Day, in Contempt of the Ordinance of Parliament; but ſo much concerning this Buſineſs is Publiſhed already, we need ſay the leſs. The Tumult firſt took it's Riſe in Moore-Fields, amongſt a Company of rude Perſons Playing and Sporting there in Sermon-time, who ſet upon a Party of the Trained-Bands about Finſbury, and over-power'd them; and upon this the Mutiny increaſed: Some ran to White-Chappel, and ſeized upon the Captain's Colours, others to Smithfield, and a great Company of them ran down towards White-Hall; but theſe were met withal by the Horſe from the Mewſe, and preſently diſperſt, ſome running one way, and ſome another. Notwithſtanding this, the Mutiny gathered Head in the City that Night, they ſurprized Newgate and Ludgate, took the Keys, went to the Lord Mayor's Houſe, and took per force a Drake thence, in which Action ſome were ſlain; the Drake they bring to Ludgate; my Lord Mayor leaves his Houſe and goes to the Tower: In the Morning the Number increaſes, they labour to get Arms, break open a Houſe in Milk-ſtreet; from thence, and from ſeveral other Places, with their Drake they go to Leadenhall, there they get Poſſeſſion of the Magazine; Drums were beaten upon the Water to invite the Seamen and Watermen for God and King Charles. The General ſpares no Means to quell this Mutiny before it grew too high; ſate up all Night himſelf about it, calls a Council of War, and the Queſtion was, whether they ſhould hazard thoſe Two Regiments at the Mewſe and White-Hall, or ſtay for more Forces? it was agreed, that rather than put off the Buſineſs further, which muſt needs be dangerous and much Blood ſhed, to engage with the Regiments, though they periſh; this Morning betimes they enter at Alderſgate, came to Leadenhall, charge them there gathered, they ſhot their Drake off, hurt Capt. Merriman in the Shoulder, and his Lieutenant in the Belly, kill'd a Woman, the Soldiers hurt many of them; he that ſhot off the Drake was a Waterman, and was kill'd, divers Perſons were taken, the Mutineers in all parts of the City were preſently diſperſt, the City-Gates ſet open, and all quiet in the City before Ten of the Clock this Morning.

From Scotland by Letters dated April 5. to this Purpoſe:

Letters from Scotland.

'There is little hath happened ſince my laſt, of Importance in Scotland. The Parliament hath given no Satisfaction to the Deſire of the Commiſſioners of the Kirk of Scotland, and ſeem to be very angry that the Miniſters ſtill perſiſt to croſs them in their Deſigns, and they ſeem to be far from Agreement; the Parliament are reſolved to proceed againſt them. A new Model of their Army is agreed on, great Store of Arms came lately thither from Holland; Sir Will. Fleming ſtays there, 'tis ſaid, to carry News to the Prince when the Army is ready for the Field. Sir Thomas Glenham and Sir Philip Muſgrave are ſtill at Edenburgh, and the Streets are full of Engliſh there.

Parliament's Commiſſioners not ſatisfied.

'There hath been great Debate the laſt Week about the Miniſters Deſires, but it broke off with much Diſcontent on both Sides. Our Commiſſioners have received no Anſwer as yet.

'There are no Orders given out as yet for the leavying of Men for the New Army.

The laſt Week we gave you Account of the Deſires of the General Aſſembly of Scotland to the Parliament there, conſiſting of Eight Heads, we ſhall now in order thereunto give you the Subſtance of the Parliament's Anſwer, and the Reply of the General Aſſembly to the ſame, as followeth:

The Anſwer of the Parliament of Scotland to the Deſires of the General Aſſembly there.

THE Eſtates of Scotland now Convened in this Firſt Seſſion of the Second Triennial Parliament having conſidered the Deſires of the Commiſſioners of the General Aſſembly repreſented to them, They, after full Debate and Conſideration concerning the ſame, for anſwer to the Firſt Deſire, &c. Declares, That the Grounds and Cauſes of undertaking of War ſhall be cleared to be ſo Juſt, as that all who are well affected may be ſatisfied in the Lawfulneſs and Neceſſity of the Engagement.

For Anſwer to the Second, they think it fit, That the Breaches of the Covenant and Treaties be preſented, and the ſeeking of Reparation, and the beſt Time and Manner thereof conſidered.

To the Third they Declare, That this Kingdom will be ſo far from making War againſt the Kingdom of England, that any Engagement they ſhall enter into, ſhall be for ſtrengthning the Union between theſe Kingdoms, and for encouraging the Presbiterians and well affected in England.

To the Fourth they Agree to the Subſtance and Matter thereof; and remit to thoſe who are to be upon the Conference for ſtating the Queſtion to explain the ſame.

To the Fifth, They Declare, That upon the Agreement on the whole Matter and State of the Queſtion, they will declare his Majeſty's Conceſſions concerning Religion not to be ſatisfactory.

To the Sixth deſire, That ſince Religion hath been, and they truſt ever ſhall be the Principal End of all their Undertakings; ſo they will be careful that the preſent Queſtion to be ſtated ſhall contain Security and Aſſurance from his Majeſty, by his Solemn Oath under his Hand and Seal, that he ſhall for himſelf, and for his Succeſſors, give his Royal Conſent to Paſs Acts of Parliament enjoining the League and Covenant Eſtaſtabliſhed by Presbiterial Government, the Directory of Worſhip, and Confeſſion of Faith in all his Majeſty's Dominions; and that his Majeſty ſhall never make Oppoſition to any of theſe, or endeavour any Change thereof.

To the Seventh, That they will be careful that none ſhall be employed in the Command of their Armies, nor in their Committees, but ſuch as are of known Integrity and Affection to the Cauſe, and againſt whom there is no Juſt Cauſe of Exception.

And to the Laſt they Declare, That to the Grounds of their Engagement and Undertaking, an Oath ſhall be ſubjoined, wherein both in the framing of it and otherwiſe the Church ſhall have their due Intereſt. And the Eſtates of Parliament deſire the Commiſſioners of the Church to appoint ſome of their Number to meet with ſuch of the Committee of Parliament of Twenty-four, as ſhall be appointed by the ſame Committee, for the Conference and ſtating of the Queſtion for agreeing upon the Grounds of an Engagement, and drawing up ſuch a State of a Queſtion, as may unite this Nation in an unanimous Undertaking of ſuch Duties as are requiſite for the Reformation and Defence of Religion, the Safety, Honour and Happineſs of the King and his Poſterity, and the Good of this Kingdom.

This Anſwer being returned to the General Aſſembly, the next Day they agreed upon a Reply in Anſwer to that of the Parliament's, to this Effect:

The General Aſſembly's Reply to the ſaid Anſwer.

As to the Anſwer of the Firſt Deſire, They conceive that notwithſtanding any thing expreſſed in their Lordſhips Anſwer, there may be an acting in reference to War, before the Lawfulneſs of the War, and the State of the Queſtion be agreed upon, which is the very thing they deſire to be avoided.

To the Second, They neither find any Breach of Peace between the Kingdoms which may be a Ground of War, nor any poſitive Reſolution of Parliament to ſeek Reparation.

To the Third, Inſtead of that Clauſe of the Deſire, The Presbiterian Party in England, who continue firm in adhering to the League and Covenant; Change of Expreſſion in the Anſwer is the Presbiterians and well-affected in England; which may intimate that there are ſome well-affected in England, which are not of the Presbiterian Party, nor do adhere to the League and Covenant.

The Fourth Deſire, For not joining with the Popiſh Prelatical or Malignant Party, we cannot conceive wherein it needs Explanation, unleſs there be now more Favourable and Friendly Intentions towards Malignants than formerly.

Touching the Fifth, His Majeſty's Conceſſion being ſo prejudicial to the Cauſe and Covenant, they deſire the Parliament to declare againſt them, both poſitively without any Condition, and preſently without delay.

In the Anſwer to the Sixth Deſire, As there is much ſaid in the firſt Part, for Security of Religion to be had from his Majeſty, ſo that Clauſe, viz. That this Security be had from his Majeſty before his Reſtitution to the Exerciſe of his Royal Power is laid aſide, and they are left unſatisfied in that which is the Main of that Deſire.

That

An. 1648.

That the Anſwer to the Seventh Deſire, concerning ſuch as are to be intruſted in Armies and Committees, doth admit of ſome of the Qualifications expreſſed in their Deſire, viz. Such as have given conſtant Proof of their Integrity and Faithfulneſs in this Cauſe, and againſt whom there is no Juſt Cauſe of Jealouſy, that ſo we may the more confidently encourage our Flocks to follow the Cauſe of God in their Bands, and not to doubt of their Fidelity.

And in the Anſwer to the Laſt Deſire, inſtead of that clear Expreſſion uſed namely, That the Kirk may have the ſame Intereſt in any Oath for a new Engagement, which they had in the Solemn League and Covenant, they find this doubtful and uncertain Expreſſion, That both in the framing of the Oath and otherwiſe, the Kirk ſhall have their due Intereſts.

And upon theſe and the like Conſiderations, they conceive that their Deſires unto which they ſtill adhere as Juſt and Neceſſary, are not ſatisfied by their Lordſhips Anſwer.

Intelligence from the Borders of Scotland.

Further from the Borders by Letter April 5. was thus certified:

'The Cavaliers in Northumberland are a little curbed by Major Sanderſon's Horſe, quartered in that County, and do already fear they may be queſtioned again.

The Scots agree upon Propoſitions.

'The Scots are of late very cloſe, but we hear their Parliament have agreed upon ſome Propoſitions.

1. To raiſe an Army for the Safety of both Kingdoms.
2. That none who have been in direct Oppoſition to the Two Parliaments of England and Scotland ſhall have Command, or ſerve in their Army.
3. That they will by their Army defend their Covenant, and the King if he will take the Covenant, but will ever have regard to preſerve the Peace of both Kingdoms.

''Tis ſaid there are Six other Propoſitions, but I cannot tell the Sence as yet. The Cavaliers on Saturday Seven-night did much rejoice at the Sight of Two Squadrons of Ships Sailing Northward; in the firſt was Thirty-ſix Veſſels, Eighteen Men of War well Man'd, the Second conſiſted of Forty, both Dutch: 'Tis thought they are Bound for a Fiſhing Voyage. A great Cavalier hath ingenuouſly Confeſt, upon private Diſcourſe with his Friends in Scotland, That they would not join in a Body with, or under the Command of the Scots if they come into England, but are confident to have Opportunities and Aſſiſtance to make a Body of their own Party to carry on their Deſigns, and manage their own Intereſts, Fancying they ſhall roul like a Snow-Ball into a Formidable Army. 'Tis gathered, that if the Scots do come into England the Cavaliers will not come the Way that they do, but ſome Diſtance from them, that they may the better free themſelves from the Scots Command, and yet Advantage them by the Scots.

'On Wedneſday laſt there was a Meeting in the City of York of divers of the Presbiterian Miniſters of the County, for ſettling of that Government; but I perceive no great Progreſs is made in it, they have only begun ſome Three or Four Claſſiſes in the Weſt-Riding; it is thought it will go on but ſlowly. By a Gentleman lately come from the North we underſtand, That the Moderate Party are now the feweſt there, and that their Thoughts are generally this wayward, and are for the preſent preparing their Way, and privately carry on their Work of making their Entrance as plauſible as they can, to preſerve and gain Intereſt.

Tueſday, April 11.

This Day the Common-Council of the City of London ſat very cloſe, in Debate of the late Tumult in the City, and a Narration was then made unto them concerning the ſame from the Militia, upon which ſeveral Votes and Reſolutions were agreed upon by the ſaid Common Council, the Sum of all is thus repreſented:

Common-Council debate of the late Tumult.

'At this Common-Council Mr. Alderman Fowke, and Mr. Alderman Gibbs, by the Direction of the Committee of the Militia of London, did make a large Relation of the great Multitude, Inſurrection and Mutiny which happened in this City on the laſt Lord's Day and Monday laſt, by many evil diſpoſed Perſons, which firſt began on the Lord's Day in the Afternoon in the County of Middleſex, where they ſeized the Colours of one of the Trained-Bands of the ſaid County, who were there employed for the ſuppreſſing of ſuch Perſons as did Prophane the Lord's Day, and being diſperſed by ſome of the General's Forces, did gather together within the City of London and Liberties thereof, and in a Riotous Manner did break open divers Houſes, and Magazines of Arms and Amunition, and took away Arms, Plate, Money, and other Things; and did ſeize upon the Drums of the Trained-Bands of this City, which were Beating to raiſe their Companies; and Armed themſelves, and beat up Drums, and put themſelves in a Warlike Poſture, and ſeized upon the Gates, Chains, and Watches of this City, and then Marched to the Lord Mayor's Houſe, and there aſſaulted the Lord Mayor, Sheriffs, Committee of the Militia of London, and other Magiſtrates of the ſame, and did ſhoot into the Lord Mayor's Houſe, beat back his Guards, killed one of them, wounded divers others, and ſeized and took away a Piece of Ordnance from thence, with which they did afterwards Slay and Wound divers Perſons, and committed many other Outrages. All which Matters being largely debated, and many Particulars inſiſted upon, both for the Diſcovery and Puniſhment of the ſaid Miſdemeanours and Outrages, and alſo for the preventing of the like for the time to come, it was at laſt concluded and agreed by this Common-Council as followeth: Firſt, This Common-Council do generally conceive, that this City was in great Danger by Reaſon of the ſaid Outrages and Miſdemeanours; and that if the ſame had not ſo timely been prevented and ſtayed, the whole City would have been expoſed to the Fury and Rage of the ſaid Malefactors. And this Common-Council doth Declare, That the ſame Miſdemeanour and Outrage was a horrid and deteſtable Act, tending to the Deſtruction of the City; and that they do Diſavow the ſame, and with an utter Deteſtation do declare their Diſlike thereof. And this Court with a general Conſent do well approve of the Endeavours of the ſaid Committee of the Militia for London, for the raiſing of the Forces of this City, and in their procuring of the ſaid Aid and Help from his Excellency in this Extremity, and what elſe they have done for the appeaſing and ſuppreſſing of the ſaid Tumults. And this Court doth give Thanks to the ſaid Committee of the Militia for their Care and Pains by them taken upon this ſad Occaſion; and they do appoint Mr. Alderman Fowke to declare the ſame their Thanks to ſuch of the ſaid Committee as are not of this Court. And this Court doth alſo with all Thankfulneſs acknowledge the Pains and Care of the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor, and the Right Worſhipful the Sheriffs of this City therein. Other Letters thence expreſs thus:

Intelligence from Scotland.

YOU had the laſt Week the Proteſtation of ſome Lords and Commons at Edenburgh, againſt raiſing Arms under any Pretence whatſoever, until the [illegible]ſtion be ſtated ſhewing the Cauſe of a War, and how the War ſhall be; but [illegible] hath not impeded the Buſineſs; for a conſiderable Army will be forthwith raiſed, notwithſtanding the many appearing Diſſenters: 'tis true, the Pretence is no more than putting the Kingdom in a Poſture of Defence; Men are already Liſting in all Parts of the Kingdom. In the interim, and a little to amuſe you in the South, the Lord Lee is appointed to go for London, to the Parliament with Four Propoſitions, ſaid to be for a Perſonal Treaty, and for that End to bring the King to London or Holmby, there to be in Honour and Safety; that Presbitery be ſettled in full Uniformity to that of Scotland, or according to Covenant, the Disbanding the Army of Sectaries, and raiſing ſuch as were intended when this Army was to be formerly Disbanded; thoſe who will be obedient to Parliament, and give no Jealouſy to Scotland, that the War of Ireland may be effectually proſecuted, and that none of the preſent Army in England may, being disbanded, go for Ireland: Theſe, 'tis ſaid, were grounded upon Seven Votes, ſome of them are ſaid to be theſe; That the King is a Priſoner contrary to promiſe; That Religion is not ſettled according to Covenant; That Sectaries are encouraged; That the Parliament is not Free; Bills ſent to the King without their Conſent: The Lord Argile, and the other diſſenting Lords and others, with the General, are againſt theſe Ways, as appears before, and almoſt all the Officers in the Army, who have petitioned againſt the raiſing Forces in the way they are. Alſo the Clergy hold faſt together, and do labour the People, who are entring into an Agreement not to have War upon the Terms like to be: Alſo Petitions are for that end framing to the Parliament, and one County hath agreed already Fiſe. The Engliſh Soldiers have Four Pence a Day, near 100 came laſt Week into Edenburgh, they are in all about 2000. Never more Joy in the Northern Counties by the Cavaliers than now. The Ships that came with Sir William Fleming, and with Sir Thomas Glenham, wait the carrying back the ſaid Knights, with ſuch Satisfaction from Parliament in Point of Aſſurance, as may invite the Prince thither.

The Houſe further Ordered, That the preſent Sheriffs of the City of Norwich ſhould have the Thanks of the Houſe given them for their good Affections to the Parliament.

They further Ordered, That the Commiſſion of Oyer and Terminer for Trial of the Mutineers at Canterbury ſhould be renewed, and that Judges go down for the Trial of them, notwithſtanding it is Term-Time; for the Parliament conceive it is high time now to execute Juſtice, ſeeing the Mercy and Clemency of the Parliament and Army hath been ſo much abuſed of late.

Meſſage to the Lords to mind them of the Impeachment againſt the 7 Lords, &c.

Several Meſſages were ſent up from the Commons, to the Lords, to mind them of the Impeachment againſt the Seven Lords, alſo of that againſt the late Lord Mayor, Sir John Geere, and the Aldermen, of the Ordinance for making Mr. Steel Recorder of the City of London, in Place of Mr. Glyn; and of the Impeachment againſt Judge Jenkins: all which their Lordſhips ordered to take into Conſideration on Thurſday following.

The laſt Week we gave a brief Account of the Revolt of the Lord Inchequin, and the Votes of the Houſes upon the ſame, and that you may the better Judge how theſe Votes were grounded, we will now a little further to ſatisfy, give you the Subſtance of the Report of the Officers late under the Command of the Lord Inchequin, ſince made to the Houſes concerning this Buſineſs, to this Effect:

The Report of the Lord Inchequin's Revolt.

The Lord Inchequin, they ſay, did call them and other Officers to him, and told them, that according to that Clauſe in the Covenant, which ſpeaks of his Majeſty's being preſerved in Perſon, &c. and that of Priviledges of Parliament, he was reſolved to declare for his Majeſty, and againſt the pretended Parliament at Weſtminſter, who were no Parliament, as he conceived, being forced by an Independent Faction; and that he would for better Preſervation and Defence of himſelf join with the Lord Taaff, in Arms with the Rebels, and all the Forces in Munſter, who had aſſured him Aid, both with their Perſons and Eſtates; and that he had Encouragement from the King, Scotland, and all the Presbiters in England that had made Peace with the King; and if they would not join they might depart, for he would have none in Command that would not go through Pace: And this he could conceal no longer, becauſe Vice-Admiral Crowther had blocked up his Harbours, and declared againſt him; and among other Reaſons why he joins with my Lord Taaff, with whom he fought ſo gallantly, or thoſe under his Command, but a while before, it's becauſe Col. Jones, had made a Ceſſation with Owen Rowe O Neal, and Owen adhering rather, as he ſaith, to the Parliament than to the King, and he would go contrary; by which means he doubts not to ſee the Army and Parliament in England laid flat upon their Backs by Michaelmas-day. The ſame Overture was made to other Officers in the Field, and to one in Priſon for ſtanding up for the Parliament. It was not for nothing ſome were ſo ready to juſtify him againſt the Lord Liſle, and excuſe his uſage of him. They that come thence ſay, he reports that divers have made Peace with the King; he ſaith, he is now beforehand with the Independents, and never till now; he doubts not, come the worſt that can, to make good Terms for himſelf and all that join with him.

The ill Conſequence of that Revolt.

Thus much as to the Lord Inchequin, and from Dublin, April 4. is thus written, Col. Jones begins to underſtand the Fruit of that unhappy Revolt in Munſter, for the Rebels drew near him, and Owen Roe is about Kildare with all his Power; whether they in Munſter will be Actors with them or Spectators only, time will tell. All the Forces that Col. Jones can poſſibly bring together, by the Conjunction of Col. Monk and Sir Charles Coots, will be done, and Garriſons beſides muſt be quit; if we be not ſtrong enough to fight we have no way but periſhing, Proviſion will be ſo taken from us.

This Day his Excellency the Lord Fairfax went from London to Windſor, where the Head Quarters are now kept.

April 18. 1648.

In Proſecution of the former Order of the Houſe, that all diſaffected and ſuſpected Perſons ſhould be removed out of the Tower of London, the Houſe this Day Ordered, That the Places to which theſe Priſoners ſhall be removed, ſhall be Warwick-Caſtle, Windſor-Caſtle, and Wallingford-Caſtle; and that it ſhould be referred to the Committee of the Tower, and the Lieutenant of the Tower, to remove the ſaid Priſoners as they ſhall think fit: And that for the Aldermen of the City that are there, they are not to be removed, becauſe they are now proceeding againſt in order to their Trial in the Lord's Houſe.

For 'Delivery of Capt. Wogan, Glemham, and the other Engliſh Delinquents; They ſay, It is not contracted in the Treaties and Pacification, only to deliver up ſuch as ſhall endeavour to incenſe the King 'of the Scots againſt the Kingdom of England; for that they conceive them not Incendiaries between the Kingdoms; but rather between the King and England. That they do approve the Matter of 'their Commiſſioners Declaration, and the Parliament's Anſwer they 'conceive not ſatisfactory, &c.

From thence they went to Trinity-College, where the Doors being broken open Dr. Harris was put in Poſſeſſion. Thence they went to St. John's, where Dr. Baly would not acknowledge their Authority, yet attended them to his Lodgings, where Mr. Cheynell was put in Poſſeſſion. Thence to Wodham-Colledge, where the Doors being broke open, Mr. Wilkins was put in Poſſeſſion, before any Violence was offered to any Man's Lodgings. The Heads and Fellows were ſummoned to appear before the Chancellor and Commiſſioners, but none appeared ſave Dr. Shelden and Dr. Baly, who denied the Authority. The next day ſome of the Canons of Chriſt-Church were ejected. In every College was read openly the Orders of the Committee of Parliament, for ejecting the old and putting in the new. The Settlement thus over, the Chancellor departed towards London, being attended by many of the Univerſity, alſo of the Soldiery to the Gates.

Poyer's Forces increaſe in Pembrokeſhire.

Letters from Wales give to underſtand that Poyer grows ſtrong about Pembroke-Caſtle: Many of Major-General Langhorne's Men, after they are Disbanded and have their Monies, run to Poyer: Col. Powell is alſo joined with him, and they Summon and Muſter the Country at Pleaſure as they have done lately in Pembroke, Caermarthen, and Cardiganſhire, the poor Inhabitants being compelled through Fear to appear at their Summons, and pay unto them large Taxations beſides.

His Quarters beaten up by Col. Horton.

There hath been ſome beating up of Poyer's Quarters already by Col. Horton, with the Forces deſigned by the General to reduce thoſe Parts; and, ſay the Letters, there is like to be Engagement of both Parties within few Days, if Poyer's Men will abide the Fight.

The Prince of Wales at St. Germains with the Queen.

The Prince is not gone for Wales, nor yet into Scotland, as was confidently ſpoken this Day or Two: But by Letters from Paris, Dated April 16. it was certified, that he was then certainly at St. Germains with the Queen his Mother.

The Houſe further Ordered, That the ſeveral Tenants to the Colleges of Oxford ſhould be required and enjoined to pay their reſpective Rents to the Viſitors of Oxford appointed by Ordinance of Parliament, and that their Acquittance for the ſame ſhall be a ſufficient Diſcharge to the ſaid Tenants, and every of them.

From Wales came further this Day by Letters from Col. Horton, to the General and Committee of both Kingdoms; that to his Excellency was to this Purpoſe.

Col. Horton's Letter to the Lord General.

May it pleaſe Your Excellency,

I Am now advanced to Swanſey and Neath, and I hope Col. Okey will join with me to Morrow, and then by God's Aſſiſtance we ſhall endeavour to engage the Enemy within Two or Three Days, they lying now on this ſide the River of Towry, which runs through the midſt of Caermarthenſhire. Col. Powell hath now declared ſo poſitively for the King, that it's hoped the greateſt part of the Officers and Soldiers, they having taken the Covenant, will fall off from him. Two Captains came to me Yeſterday, and ſay, That the Officers are diſpleaſed to ſee Culpepper and other Cavaliers rule all, and the Officers ſent to them for Orders. They have made the greateſt part of the Commonalty for them, which appears in great Numbers upon Rendezvous; and the Malignants from all parts ſteal in to them. Col. Fleming with a Party of Horſe and Dragoons gave them an Alarm on Thurſday laſt at Havethry, took Twelve Horſe-Men. Want of Proviſions, eſpecially for Horſe, in theſe Barren Mountains (which we are to paſs over before we can engage) doth moſt trouble us; had we Money we might expect it from our Enemies. My Regiment hath had but a Fortnight's Pay this Six Weeks, and not like to have any in a long time; yet, I praiſe God, the Soldiers are generally Chearful. I ſhall upon all Occaſions give your Excellency Account of our Proceedings, and be Papers from Scotland reported.

On Saturday, April 22. The Houſe received a Report from the Committee of Derby-Houſe, of the Papers that were this Week referred to them in Relation to Scotland, viz. The Commiſſioners Meſſage to the Parliament of Scotland, demanding Capt. Wogan and ſome other Delinquents there that endeavoured to ſet both Kingdoms on Fire by another War; and the Parliament of Scotland's Anſwer thereunto. They debated long upon this Particular, and then it was reſolved, That the Anſwer of the Parliament of Scotland to the Demands of our Commiſſioners from the Parliament of England, is no way ſatisfactory.

They further Ordered, That our Commiſſioners ſhould ſtill inſiſt and preſs the Parliament of Scotland for further Anſwer to the ſaid Meſſage and Demands.

Ordinance for Security of the Arrears of the Army aſſented to.

The Houſe of Commons then alſo conſidered how to ſatisfy the Soldiery of the Parliament in point of Security of their Arrears; and an

A Meſſage came down from the Lords to the Houſe of Commons, whereby their Lordſhips deſired a Conference in the Painted Chamber, concerning the Eſcape of the Duke of York between Nine and Ten of the Clock the laſt Night from St. James's; The Houſe agreed thereunto. At this Conference Report was made of the Manner of the Eſcape of the Duke of York; That the Duke with his Brother and Siſter the Duke of Glocester and Lady Elizabeth, being ſporting and playing in a Room by themſelves the laſt Night after Supper, the Duke privately ſlipt from them down the Back-Stairs, without either Cloak or Coat, in Shooes and Stockings, and by the Way of the Private Garden, he having the Key of the Garden-Door, paſſed through the Parke and ſo away. There is nothing yet found out further of this Eſcape, who went in Company along with him, or which ways he is gone; none of the Servants that attended him here are wanting; ſome talk one thing, and ſome another, but a little time will diſcover further.

Free Quarter complained of

And Information was given to the Houſe that ſome Forces in Barnſtable and Dartmouth live upon Free Quarter to the great Oppreſſion of the Subject; Complaining of a Lieutenant in particular in this Buſineſs.

His Excellency to be acquainted therewith.

The Houſe Ordered, That a Letter ſhould be ſent to his Excellency to acquaint him with this Information, and to deſire his Excellency to ſend for the ſaid Lieutenant, and to hear and examine the Evidence upon Oath. The Houſe hereupon Ordered, that a further Ordinance ſhould be drawn for taking off Free Quarter; which was preſently drawn and reported and aſſented unto.

The Houſe called over.

Upon Monday, April 24. the Houſe of Commons, according to former Order, called over the Liſt of their Members one by one; ſome who were not in Health nor had been abſent of a long time were excuſed, others were upon Publick Employment in the Countries and in Scotland, therefore were excuſed; but about Three or Four who neglected the Service of the Houſe, no Excuſe could be admitted to them. There ſat in the Houſe this Day about Three Hundred and Six.

Some Votes then alſo paſſed, as Firſt, That thoſe Members who are out upon Caſes be taken into Conſideration on Monday next, and the Committee to meet daily to be ready to report their Caſes then.

2. That the Houſe be called again, this Day Fortnight.

3. Thoſe Members that be here, not to go away without Leave granted by the Houſe ſitting between the Hours of Ten and Twelve of the Clock.

Additional Inſtructions for the Commiſſioners in Scotland.

An Additional Inſtruction for the Commiſſioners in Scotland ſtill to inſiſt upon and preſs their former Meſſage to the Parliament of Scotland for Delivery of Delinquents and Incendiaries between the Two Kingdoms, the laſt Anſwer of the Parliament of Scotland not being ſatisfactory, was this Day reported from the Committee at Derby-Houſe, and upon the Queſtion aſſented unto.

The reſt of this Day was ſpent about nominating Captains of Ships for the next Summer's Fleet.

From Scotland by letters this Day came to this Purpoſe:

Scots prepare for War.

THE Scots go on in their Preparations for War, they have a Declaration ready to come forth; the Soldiers that come from England are ſtill received, but maintained at Private Mens Charge, which cannot hold. The Miniſters ſtill couragiouſly oppoſe, but prevail not, but do acquit themſelves of the the Guilt of Blood that ſhall be ſhed: much endeavour is uſed to gain them. The principal Synod in Fife and Sterling Petition the Parliament's Hearkening to the Kirk, but are ſlighted, and the other Party carries on all with a ſtrong Hand. Wogan's Troop increaſes. The Commiſſioners of the Kirk perceiving the Leavying of Forces through the Kingdom, and that notwithſtanding their former Papers given in, and the Proteſtation of the Lords, that yet the Queſtion is not ſtated, nor the Grounds of the War declared, put a large Petition to the Parliament, wherein they do moſt earneſtly deſire the Lords, as they will anſwer the contrary at the great Day of Judgment, not to proceed, ſo as to give any Encouragement unto the Prelatical or Malignant Party in England, nor to be any Grief to the Presbiterian Party, nor to reſtore the King until he have reſolved and aſſured the Settlement of Presbitery, the taking the Covenant, and that what they intend on the King's Behalf may be with Subordination to theſe Ends expreſt in the Covenant, by which his Majeſty may be induced to remove all Obſtructions on his part that hinders ſettling Religion, and this Government, and to prevent Effuſion of Chriſtian Blood, they deſire that ſuch Preparation be ſought from the Parliament of England as may be moſt probable in reaſon to attain the ſame in a peaceable way.

The Committee's Anſwer to the Commiſſioners of the General Aſſembly.

In anſwer to this Petition the Twenty-four Lords and Committee for that Purpoſe give in as the Sence of the Three Eſtates of Parliament, this Anſwer following:

We the Committee of Twenty-four having, on further purſuance of Truſt committed to us by your Lordſhips, taken to our Conſideration the Deſire of the Commiſſioners of the General Aſſembly, and the whole Matter intruſted to us, do in order thereunto humbly offer to your Lordſhips Conſideration the ſubſequent Articles, with the former Papers given in by us on Friday laſt, which being paſt in Parliament, we conceive may be Grounds of the Reſolutions of this Kingdom at this time, viz.

The Eſtates of Parliament do declare, That as the Engagement of this Kingdom hath conſtantly been for ſettling of Peace and Truth under his Majeſty's Government, ſo any undertaking we now are neceſſitated unto, ſhall alſo be for the ſame Ends, and the Neceſſity and Lawfulneſs thereof cleared and condeſcended unto, before any Engagement in a War; ſo as all that are well affected may be ſatisfied therewith.

Scotch Parliament's Reſolution to adhere to the Union.

The Parliament reſolves, with God's Aſſiſtance, in all their Proceeding never to break on their part the Union between the Two Kingdoms, nor diſcourage, nor diſoblige the Presbiterians in England who continue firm in their League and Covenant.

And oppoſe the Sectaries as well as Papiſts and Malignants.

The Parliament declares, that they will be ſo far from joining with, or aſſociating with the Popiſh Prelatical, or Malignant Party, if they ſhall again riſe in Arms either to oppoſe and endeavour to ſuppreſs them as Enemies to the Cauſe and Covenant, as well as Sectaries on the other ſide.

And maintain the Covenant and Presbitery

In regard that his Majeſties late Conceſſions and Offers concerning Religion are not Satisfactory, and the principal Ends of all the Undertakings of this Nation hath been, and we hope ſhall be, to ſee Religion in the firſt place ſettled; and as we ſhall endeavour the reſcuing of his Majeſty from thoſe who maliciouſly carried him away from Holdenby-Houſe againſt his own Will, and declared Reſolutions of both Kingdoms, and do ſtill detain cloſe Priſoner, that he may come with Honour, Freedom and Safety, to ſome of his Houſes in or about London, where both Kingdoms may make their Applications to him for ſettling Religion and a well grounded Peace; ſo we reſolve not to put in his Majeſty's Hands, or in any other whatſoever, ſuch Power whereby the aforeſaid Ends of the Covenant, or any one of them may be obſtructed or oppoſed, Religion or Presbiterian Government endangered: but on the contrary, before any Agreement be made, that his Majeſty give Aſſurance under his Solemn Oath, and under his Hand and Seal, that he ſhall for himſelf and his Succeſſors give his Royal Aſſent and Agreement to ſuch Act or Acts of Parliament and Bills as ſhall be preſented to him by his Parliaments of both and either Kingdom reſpectively for enjoining the League and Covenant, and fully eſtabliſhed Presbiterian Government, Directory and Worſhip, and Confeſſion of Faith in all his Majeſty's Dominions; and that his Majeſty ſhall never make Oppoſition to any of theſe, or endeavour any thing thereof.

None to be intruſted by them but of known Integrity.

If any War ſhall be made, as it ſhall be made on juſt and neceſſary Grounds, ſo we reſolve to give truſt and Charge in Armies and Committees to none but ſuch as ſhall be and are of known Integrity, againſt whom there is no juſt Cauſe of Exception.

That the Parliament is willing to ſubſcribe for the Grounds of their Undertaking an Oath, wherein both in the framing of it and otherways, they are willing the Church ſhall have Intereſt, as hath been in the like Caſe.

That Kingdom to be put into a Poſture of Defence, as in 1643.

And that the Reſolutions of the Parliament hereupon may be the more effectual, and in regard of the preſent Condition of Affairs, it is our Opinion, That this Kingdom be put in a Poſture of Defence, as it was in Anno Dom. 1643. like as we have drawn that Act of Poſture, which being allowed in Parliament, and ſent to the Shires, we think it then a fit time to ſend our Demands to the Parilament of England, and that ſome diſcreet Man be ſent with the ſame, and a limited time appointed for his Return with Anſwer.

Prince Philip leave to come over to viſit the Prince Elector.

On Tueſday, April 25. a Letter came from Vice-Admiral Rainsborough, acquainting the Houſe that he had received a Letter from Prince Philip, Son to the Queen of Bohemia; whereupon he deſired a ſafe Tranſport for England, to give a Viſit to his Brother the Prince Elector, and he deſired to know the Houſes Pleaſure therein. The Houſe hereupon Ordered, That Prince Philip ſhould have leave and be permitted to come to viſit his Brother the Prince Elector accordingly.

Mr. Strong to Pray in the Houſe of Commons.

The Houſe this Day Ordered, That on Thurſday next they would take into Conſideration the Buſineſs of ſettling the Kingdom. They further Ordered that Mr. Strong ſhould pray on Thurſday Morning next in the Houſe of Commons, for a Bleſſing upon their Debates and Conſultations that Day, in Relation to that great Buſineſs of ſettling this Kingdom.

Letter to the Miniſters of London and Weſtminſter to pray for a Bleſſing upon the Publick Affairs of the Nation.

The Houſe further Ordered, That a Committee ſhould be appointed to draw a Letter to be printed and ſent to all the Miniſtery in London, Weſtminſter and Middleſex, to deſire them to be earneſt to God to Morrow, being the Publick Faſt-Day, for a Bleſſing upon the Debates and Conſultations of the Houſe, in relation to the great Work; and a Letter was drawn up accordingly, and paſt by both Houſes to this Purpoſe:

WHatſoever Dangers are threatned or feared, either by Diviſions amongſt our ſelves, or Practices from Enemies abroad, we have Aſſurance out of the Word of God, that we are not in the leaſt Danger, if God Almighty be not incenſed againſt us for our Sins and Wickedneſs, which our Conſciences teſtify that he is exceedingly againſt every one of us in Particular, and the Kingdom in General; yet we believe that if we do heartily and ſincerely humble our ſelves, and turn to the Lord, crying mightily to him in fervent Prayers, with a lively Faith in Chriſt, we ſhall ſurely be delivered from all Evils and Dangers, and enjoy all needful Bleſſing and Benefits to the whole State and Kingdom; therefore the ſeveral Miniſters within the Cities of London and Weſtminſter, and the late Lines of Communication in the reſpective Congregations, are deſired upon this enſuing Day of Humiliation, being the 26th of this Inſtant April, earneſtly to ſeek the Lord, who is the God of all Wiſdom and Help, in much mercy to this ſinful Nation, ſo to direct and bleſs the Councels and Proceedings of the Parliament at this preſent, that his heavy Judgments may be diverted from us, and Truth and Peace eſtabliſhed throughout the Three Kingdoms.

Capt. Browne Buſhel apprehended.

The Houſe was this Day informed that Capt. Browne Buſhell the Pirate, who revolted from the Parliament, and took a Ship of great Value with him, of which he was made Maſter, was apprehended and in Cuſtody; and it was Ordered that the Sum of 20 l. ſhould be beſtowed on the Two Men that apprehended him, for their Encouragement and good Service herein. And further Ordered, That the ſaid Buſbell ſhould be referred to the Committee of the Admiralty for a Trial as a Pirate.

20 l. given to the Two Men that apprehended him.

They further Ordered, That in the mean while till he comes to his Trial he be committed cloſe Priſoner to Windſor-Caſtle.

6000 l. for the Repair of Hull.

The Houſe Ordered 6000 l. for the Repair of Hull. Order was likewiſe taken for Monies for the Repair of Works about Newcaſtle upon Tine.

This Day Three Aldermen, Adams, Langham and Bunch, were brought to the Lords Bar to receive their Charge, but refuſed to Kneel or to be Tried by their Lordſhips, deſiring by Petition to be Tried at Common Law, and denying the Power of their Lordſhips to try Commoners, they were Fined 500 l. a Man, ſent back to the Tower, and ordered to have Liberty to nominate their Councel in order to their Trial before their Lordſhips.

As the Common-Council of the City of London ſat cloſe in London Yeſterday, and this Day an Information by one John Everard, of ſome pretended Words ſaid to be ſpoken by ſome Officers of the Army againſt the City of London, and which Words Mr. Everard ſhould hear ſpoken as he lay in his Bed in a Room at the Garter at Windſor, and the Officers in another Room. The Information and Affidavit of the ſaid Everard taken before the Lord Mayor concerning this Buſineſs, is as followeth:

Everard's Information.

The Information of John Everard, concerning ſome Speeches that paſſed from certain Perſons at Windſor, of an Intention to diſarm the City of London, and then to Plunder the ſame.

John Everard maketh Oath, That he having ſome Occaſion of Buſineſs at Windſor upon Thurſday the 20th of April, 1648. as he did lye in his Bed, did hear ſome Gentlemen diſcourſe in the next Chamber, the Number of whom he cannot tell, but by their Diſcourſe they could not be leſs than Three or Four, and that he doth believe they were all Officers of the Army under the Command of his Excellency the Lord Fairfax; one of them was Quarter-maſter General Gravenor, as he ſuppoſeth, another one Col. Ewer, or ſome ſuch Name; and after ſome merry Diſcourſe they began to be ſerious, and propounded what they thought fit to be done in reference to the preſent Exigencies of the Kingdom, upon which Subject they diſcourſed an Hour or more.

They made no Doubt of the coming in of the Scots, and with the ſame Confidence believed that the City of London would join with the Scots; for the preventing of which they could find no way but diſarm the City both Friend and Foe; and afterwards, they ſaid, they would intimate that thoſe who were the Friends of the Army ſhould come forth into the Fields, and there they ſhould be armed, and that they ſhould have the Power of the City of London put into their Hands, to keep the reſt of the Citizens in awe, and that they ſhould be maintained at the Charge of the City, ſo long as it ſhould be thought fit to continue them. And becauſe that Money is the Sinews of War, having which they doubt not but to procure Men enough, if there were Occaſion to uſe them, and therefore for the preſent Advancement of the ſame, if need were, this City being diſarmed, they would make them advance a Million of Money, or elſe plunder them; and the Party that ſpake this ſaid, he had acquainted Commiſſary-General Ireton with it. All which, or to the like Effect, was ſpoken in this Deponent's hearing.

JOHN EVERARD.

Further from the North came as followeth:

Intelligence from Scotland.

‘Two of our Commiſſioners, the Earl of Stamford and Mr. Aſhurſt were at Berwick the 19th Inſtant, the one comes on this Road, the other goeth by Carliſle, and through Lancaſhire. In Scotland the Party that is for the King carry all, ſometime Twenty, ſometime Thirty diſſenting; the Miniſters not able to make good their Oppoſition, though indeed they do what is poſſible. Iriſh Forces under Monroe have ſent over to the Parliament to let them know they will be ready to ſerve them, and have a Letter of Thanks returned them, and a Fortnight's Pay given them for proffering their Service. They carry it under a Notion, that the Parliament of England is under the Force and carried by a Party, have therefore left their Cauſe, and diſſerted their Propoſitions of Newcaſtle and made new ones, wherein they have ſet up a Tolleration. With this and ſuch like things they carry honeſt Men and all along. They have voted Eight Breaches wherein the Kingdom of England hath broken the Covenant and Treaty. They have Three Deſires, 1. That the King be brought to one of his Houſes with Honour, Freedom and Safety, where both Kingdoms may make Application. 2. That the Army may be diſbanded and none employed but thoſe that take the Covenant. 3. That the Presbiterial Government be ſettled, and the Covenant taken. They are much for the King, and I fear, except you take ſome ſpeedy way to put them to it, whether they will own the Cauſe or no, it will be too late, and they will be paſt it. Major-General Hoborn is a true Friend; ſo is Argile and Louthean. That Kingdom will be put into a Poſture within this Month, and then they will ſend their Breaches and Deſires to the Parliament.

‘Things go on as faſt as can be poſſible; for indeed the Party that carry the Buſineſs had need make haſte, for the Soldiers that are come out of England, are maintained at the Charge of particular Lords, ſome 100 l. ſome 200 l. ſome more, ſome leſs, ſo they had need make haſte. It is ſuppoſed their Declaration is out by this, the Houſe in Two or Three Days will make choice of their Officers, and about a Week hence will adjourn the Parliament, as Intelligence ſaith, until the beginning of June, and every one into their ſeveral Counties, to put on this Buſineſs. A Letter was drawn to go to the Parliament of England with their Deſires: This Week they will have compleated their Reſolves.

Argile and the Miniſters againſt the Preparations for War.

‘The Miniſters yet oppoſe really, and Argile ſtrives to the utmoſt; The other Day they put in a Petition, wherein one Clauſe was, That in caſe they ſhould go on in theſe high Reſolutions, and Evil follow, they deſire to be guiltleſs of that Blood, and wiſh that they ſhould ſeriouſly conſider of the Cauſe. So I reſt, &c.

April 20. 1648.

Letters from Norwich of the great Mutiny there.

Wedneſday was the Faſt. Letters this Day from Norwich bring very ill News; That the Mayor being ſent for to attend the Parliament for ſomewhat done, diſaffected to Parliament oppoſed his coming up, the well-affected endeavoured to further it; this grew into a great Diſtraction, and the ſad Produce thereof you will ſee by the Letter following to Col. Fleetwood.

An. 1648.

HAving a meeting of your Regiment for a Muſter this Day at Market-Deerham, while we were cloſing the Rolls, and all the Troops being gone to their Quarters, except Capt. Sankies, part whereof Quartered in that Town, and were exerciſing about half an Hour after the Muſter, as they were lodging their Colours there arrived one Mr. Garret of Norwich with a Letter from divers of the Committee of that City, certifying us of many Hundred of Mutinous Perſons in Arms in the City, who began to Plunder divers of the Inhabitants; Capt. Sankie immediately ſent out Orders for all the Troops to meet at Norwich, and forthwith we marched with his own Troop, and about Twenty of Capt. White's, the Captain, Lieutenant and Cornet with the Colours, and entred Norwich about Four a Clock fell deſperately in ſeveral Parties on the Mutineers, who were moſt Reſolute in their Engagement; yet by the Goodneſs of God, we did drive them into Corners, wounded many, in which we had Capt. Floyd, who charged on with the Forlorn Hope Commanded by Quartermaſter Philips, ſlightly wounded, and divers private Soldiers dangerouſly wounded, many Horſes utterly ſpoiled, and though we made great haſte, yet before we came they had poſſeſſed themſelves of the Committee-Houſe, wherein was a great Magazine, where they being buſily employed in getting out Powder, the Magazine amongſt them was Fired, and at leaſt Forty Men were blown up and ſpoiled by Powder, the Blow whereof did ſhake the whole City, threw down part of ſome Churches, wounded and killed a great many of the Inhabitants, the certain Number not being yet known, nor many of them that were killed as yet found, or can be known; for many were torn in Pieces, and teared Limb from Limb, ſeveral Legs, Arms, &c. being found in the Streets, there are already miſſing and mortally wounded at leaſt 120 Perſons, beſides as many more which received ſlight Wounds and Hurts. None of our Soldiers, as far as we can yet learn, received the leaſt Hurt in that, our Horſes being tired by our furious March and ſcouring the Streets of the City. A happy Providence brought in Capt. Floyd's Troop, who very well improved their Pains with ſuch of the reſt as were able to aſſiſt them, to ſcatter thoſe who in Houſes and By-Lanes were yet together. About Eight a Clock the Evening all is Quieted.

April 8, 1648.

All Members to take the Covenant.

Upon Thurſday, April 28. the Houſe Ordered, That all ſuch as had not taken the Covenant ſhould take it to Morrow Morning, and that the Serjeant at Arms ſhould give the particular Members Notice thereof.

The Houſe Ordered the Thanks of the Houſe to be given to the Miniſters that Preached Yeſterday before them, and to Mr. Strong who Prayed before them.

Conſideration of the State of the Kingdom.

The Houſe then proceeded to the Conſideration of ſettling the Kingdom, which was the Buſineſs of the Day, and much Debate was had, Whether the Buſineſs of the Church or the Buſineſs of the State ſhould be firſt taken into Conſideration? But the Houſe came to no Reſolution thereupon then, the Buſineſs of the City intervening; but they adjourned and ſat again in the Afternoon, and then the Queſtion was reſumed, and after much Debate the Houſe Voted, That the Buſineſs of the State ſhould be conſidered of to Morrow, and the Buſineſs of the Church on Monday next.

A Petition was preſented to both Houſes from the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council Aſſembled, and was as followeth;

Humbly ſheweth,

The Petition of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, &c.

THAT they had lately preſented unto them an Information from one John Everard, a true Copy whereof is hereunto annexed, whereby he doth give Intimation of ſome Speeches that paſſed from certain Perſons at Windſor, of an Intention to Diſarm the City, and then to Plunder the ſame; and that divers Reports to that Effect have been brought unto us by Letters and otherwiſe from divers Parts of this Kingdom, and from Foreign Parts; which Reports, together with the preſent drawing and continuing of the Army ſo near the City, and the increaſe of the Number of Soldiers in the Tower, hath been, now is, and will be the Occaſion of great Fears, and a great decay of Trade, and an inhauncing of the Prices of Victuals within this City. The which Fears are much increaſed by the taking and keeping down of the Chains within the ſame. And the Petitioners do humbly conceive that their Danger is increaſed, and their Strength much abated by the dis-uniting of the Command of the Forces of the City, and the parts within the late Lines of Communication, and the Weekly Bills of Mortality. For the removing of which Fears, and obtaining of thoſe things which may conduce to the Safety of the Parliament, and of the City.

The Petitioners do Humbly Pray,

That Conſideration may be taken of the Information given by the ſaid John Everard, and that upon a further Examination thereof ſuch Courſe may be taken therein as your Honours ſhall think fit.

That the Chains within the City of London, which were lately pulled down, may forthwith be repaired and ſet up again, and the Army may be ſpeedily removed to a further Diſtance from the City.

That by an Ordinance of Parliament, Major-General Skippon, who was long ſince choſen, and ſtill by Act of Common Council is continued Major-General over the Forces of the City, may be appointed Major-General within the Lines of Communication and the Weekly Bills of Mortality, by which means he may the better be enabled to re-unite the Forces within the City, and the ſaid Lines of Communication and Weekly Bills of Mortality, for the better Defence of the City and Places adjacent, and likewiſe for the Preſervation of the Parliament, to whom the City do reſolve to adhere, according to their Solemn League and Covenant. And Your Petitioners ſhall Pray, &c.

This Petition being read in the Houſe of Peers, Anſwer was given by the Speaker of that Houſe to this purpoſe:

Mr. Sheriffs, and Gentlemen of the Common-Council of the City of London,

The Lords Anſwer to the City's Petition

THE Lords have Commanded me to return Thanks to the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council of the City of London, for the good Affections that they have expreſſed in this Petition, aſſerting the Reſolutions of the City to adhere to the Parliament, according to their Solemn League and Covenant.

As to the Particular of ſetting up the Chains within the City, they do fully leave it to the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council, to do therein as they ſhall think fit.

To the laſt Particular concerning Major-General Skippon, he being a Member of the Houſe of Commons, the Lords can reſolve nothing therein, without joint Concurrence of that Houſe; but they will take it further into Conſideration.

Alderm. Bide preſents the City-Petition to the Houſe of Commons.

The Houſe of Commons being informed that divers Aldermen and Citizens were at the Door, they were called in, and Alderman Bide, one of the Sheriffs of the City of London, after ſome ſhort Preambles, acquainted the Houſe that he was commanded by the Lord Mayor, Aldermen and Commons in Common Council aſſembled, the repreſentative Body of the City of London, to preſent a Petition to the Houſe.

Votes of the Houſe in Anſwer to the ſaid Petition.

The Petitioners being withdrawn, the Petition was read, and an Information annexed of one John Everard, taken upon Oath before the Lord Mayor, the 23d of April, 1648. The Houſe had the Petition read, and upon ſome Debate paſſed theſe Votes: Ordered, upon the Queſtion, That this Houſe doth approve of the Deſires of the City, concerning Major-General Skippon.

Reſolved, &c. That the Deſires of the Petitioners concerning the Chains be granted, and that the Committee of the Militia ſee it done.

Reſolved, &c. That the Thanks of this Houſe be returned to the Citizens for their good Affection expreſt in their Petition. Mr. Speaker was appointed to acquaint the Citizens, that drawing of Part of the Army ſo near the City was occaſioned by Orders given out in the time of the late Tumult; That the Houſe will take that Buſineſs into ſerious Conſideration, and do that therein which may be for the Good and Safety of the Parliament and City, ſo far as thereby they may receive Satisfaction.

An. 1648.

The Petitioners had Thanks returned.

The Sheriffs, Aldermen, and other Citizens were again called in, and Mr. Speaker, by the Command of the Houſe, acquainted them with the Reſolutions and Proceedings upon the Petition, and did give them the Thanks of this Houſe for their very good Affections expreſt in the Petition to the Parliament.

An Anſwer much to this Purpoſe was given by the Lords.

The Government of the Kingdom to be by King, Lords and Commons.

Upon Friday, April 28. The Houſe again inſiſted on the Buſineſs of ſettling the Kingdom, and after much Debate Voted, That the Government of the Kingdom ſhould be ſtill by King, Lords and Commons.

That the Ground-Work for this Government ſhould be the Propoſitions laſt preſented to the King at Hampton-Court, and this next to be conſidered on.

And then further alſo Voted, That any Member of the Houſe ſhall have leave to ſpeak freely to any Votes, Ordinances, or Declarations concerning the King, &c.

Upon Saturday, April 29. a Report was made of the Conference with the Lords, concerning the Duke of York's going hence; that their Lordſhips had paſſed a Declaration and ſome Votes concerning the ſame, to which their Lordſhips deſired the Concurrence of the Houſe. The Ordinance was read and did relate, That whereas the Duke of York at his laſt endeavouring to eſcape, did ſend Letters to both Houſes to confeſs his Error in what he had done therein, and did engage himſelf not to do the like for the future; the Earl of Northumberland was then deſired again to take Care of the Duke: But ſeeing this laſt going away was by a ſecret Plot and Deſign, and to which himſelf was willing, their Lordſhip conceived that the Earl of Northumberland was not to be further accountable to the Duke; but that he had done his utmoſt Endeavour therein. To which Declaration the Houſe of Commons agreed with their Lordſhips. The common Report is, the Duke is now in Holland; but there are no Letters of Credit to this Purpoſe. The Houſe then alſo further Ordered, That the Allowance formerly granted for the Duke of York be taken off. That the Servants attending the Duke of Gloceſter be taken into Conſideration. That it be referred to the Committee of the Revenue to augment the Allowance given to the Duke of Gloceſter. That the Earl of Northumberland have Power to remove the Duke of Gloceſter and the Princeſs Elizabeth to Sion-Houſe or Hampton-Court.

An Order was made, That the Information given in concerning Two Gentlemen be referred to the Committee appointed to conſider of the Information of Everard concerning the City's Buſineſs, to find out the Truth thereof, and to report the ſame to the Houſe.

The Houſe further Ordered, That the Votes Yeſterday paſſed concerning the ſettling of the Kingdom be reſumed on Tueſday Morning next, and then alſo to proceed further in that Buſineſs, and the Buſineſs of the Church on Monday.

The Lords Ordered to conſider of ſettling the Diſtractions of the Kingdom on Thurſday Morning next.

Letters from Windſor ſay, That a Captain and others had their Trials began on Friday Morning by a Council of War. On Thurſday the General and Council of the Army kept a Solemn Faſt at Windſor. There is nothing further thence at preſent.

Letters from Wales this Day tell but ill News, how that Powyer hath fallen upon a Forlorne of Four Troops of Horſe in Pembrokeſhire, Commanded by Col. Fleming, routed, killed and taken all or the moſt part of them; Col. Horton with the main Strength being not then come up, but ſince advanced near to Poyer, with Intent to engage if they will ſtand to it. Col. Fleming is miſſing and thought to be ſlain.

Proceedings in Parliament, from May 1. to June 1. 1648.

Monday, May 1. 1648.

Debate about Church Government.

THE Houſe of Commons this day, according to former Order, took into Conſideration the buſineſs of the Church, for ſettling the Government and Diſcipline thereof; and in order thereunto Voted, 'That all Ordinances referred to Committees, concerning Church-Government and Diſcipline, be brought in and determined; That the Ordinance againſt Blaſphemy and Hereſy, referred to that Committee where Mr. Whitakers hath the Chair, be immediately brought in and debated. And accordingly Mr. Whitakers brought in the ſaid Ordinance. It was debated and paſſed, in ſome Caſes with Death, ſome reprovable, upon Abjuration, for the firſt fault, &c. Which Ordinance was ſent to the Lords, and likewiſe paſſed by them.

Ely Houſe to be for ſick and maimed Soldiers.

The Lords concurred with the Commons in a Meſſage ſent up to their Lordſhips, for Ely-houſe in Holborn to be for the uſe of ſick and maimed Soldiers; and to the Votes concerning the Duke of York, and his Brother and Siſter, and the Earl of Northumberland.

Care to be taken for well affected Men, to ſerve as Juſtices of the Peace.

The Houſe, upon a Motion, Ordered, 'That the Members of every County be careful to preſent honeſt Men to the Commiſſioners of the Great Seal, to ſerve in all Parts for Juſtices of the Peace.

Private liſting of Soldiers at Briſtol, for the King.

A Letter was read from Briſtol, dated April 29. 1648. advertiſing, 'That ſome Royaliſts are privately liſting there for the King. That many comply with them, That the Auxiliaries ſtand as Neuters, and the Trained-bands are cold in ſuppreſſing them.

The Debate thereof referred to the Committee at Derby-Houſe.

After Debate hereof, the Commons Ordered, 'To refer the ſaid Letter to the Conſideration of the Grand Committee at Derby-houſe, to conſult with his Excellency the Lord General about the ſame.

Colonel Fleming defeated in Wales.

The Defeat to our Forces in Wales, we mentioned the laſt week, was more fully certified to this purpoſe.

'Colonel Horton hath endeavoured to engage the Enemy, but they by all means avoid fighting, unleſs upon Paſſes. Colonel Fleming being ſent with a Troop of Horſe, and two of Dragoons, to gain a Paſs from the Enemy, found they had quitted the ſame; and marching on to diſcover, was, before he was aware, on their whole Body; and though the way was narrow, yet charged them, killed many; a Cornet and about four Soldiers loſt on our ſide. Captain Moleneux, who charged far with a ſmall Party, was ſhot through the Thigh. Colonel Fleming and his Party was forced to retreat to a Church, and ſent to Colonel Horton, then four miles off, for relief, which he haſtned with all ſpeed; but the whole Power of the Welſh being ſo near the Church, improved their opportunity, took the Church before the relief came. They within had quarter. Colonel Fleming was there ſlain; ſome ſay he killed himſelf for grief. About an hundred Men were taken Priſoners. A Drummer is gone for Exchange, of which our Forces took ſome. A Drummer came from the Enemy, and had in his Hat (as moſt of the Enemies have) a blue and white Riband with this Motto, We long to ſee our King. The Cavaliers begin to arm and appear, and were riſing in Brecknockſhire, to fall on the Rear of Colonel Horton; which he underſtanding, marched into that County, which lies to the North of Glamorganſhire; took Mr. Gamell and ten Gentlemen

The Country bent againſt the Parliament.

‘tlemen more, with divers Countrymen, ſortifying a Houſe. The Coun‘tries are univerſally bent againſt the Parliament; where ever Forces come,
‘they carry away their Children, Cattel, with what Goods they can get,
‘flie into the Woods, leaving their Houſes empty; which how ſad would
‘it be to them, ſhould we take the German way? Their Smiths are all gone,
‘their Bellows cut by themſelves before they went. If one would give ‘forty ſhillings for a Horſe-ſhoe, or a place to make it, it is not to be ‘had. There is no poſſibility of ending this Trouble, but by ſuch a Power,
‘and ſuch a Way, as is lamentable to think.

Lieutenant General Cromwel to go to South-Wales.

Lieutenant General Cromwel is Ordered by the General and Council of War at Windſor, To go to South Wales, with two Regiments of Horſe and three of Foot; which, with thoſe already, make about 8000 Horſe, Foot, and Dragoons. He intends to be gone Wedneſday or Thurſday; The Regiments that go, are his own, and one other of Horſe, Colonel Pride's, and one other of Foot.

From the North came an Expreſs this day to this Purpoſe:

Intelligence from the North

SIR;

THE Declaration of the Parliament of Scotland being perfected, it was put to the Vote, Whether it ſhould be ſent to the Committee of Divines before it paſt, or not, it was carried in the Negative. When it was voted, 81 for it, 31 againſt, who proteſted againſt it: The thing will be printed, and is to paſs as a Herald, and had by this time been abroad, had not the Church delayed their Anſwer to Tueſday; but have now declared their diſſent fully and unanimouſly, being ſenſible of the Sword getting into ſuch hands, as, when they ſee time, will make nothing of Covenant or other Aſſurances given, and that they who have been eſteemed hitherto the moſt Religious there, and in England, will become a Prey to both Popiſh and Prelatical party.

Fears and Jealouſies in Scotland.

This is, believe it, the apprehenſion of thoſe in Scotland; many of whom ſtick not to ſay, they ſee no viſible deliverance from ruine, but the Army in England, whatever you think and ſay in the South of it; making good the old Maxim of the Multitude, To diſlike whatever is preſent; and if there were none other Arguments to ground the former expreſſed Fears in Scotland, this one were enough; That 250 Barons or Lairds have met at Lithgoe, and other places within view of Parliament, and ſo no doubt approved by many, who write Letters to the Inhabitants, to riſe in defence of the King, Religion, and the Church, the two latter being the Golden outſide of all Riſings: One of them was ſent for to the Parliament, who was not afraid to come; the other ſent to him not to anſwer without them. They juſtifie their Proceedings by an old Act of Parliament.

From Newcaſtle, thus;

The Fortifications about Newcaſtle repairing.

THE Works about this Town go on apace; the Inhabitants, out of their Affection to the Publick, as well as their own Security, have undertaken to make up the Shield-field Work: The Mayor and Aldermen went the 25th to begin it: The Town will be as it were double walled; the Soldiers do the other Works, and are paid. The Fortifications here, with the neglect of Berwick and Carliſle, will evidence to the World, That this Kingdom inclines to a Defence, rather than an Offence; who otherwiſe it's known are in a marching Condition. The Governour of this Town continues his Activity for Defence of theſe Countries likewiſe; and hath in ſeveral places, as at Durham and Anwick, had Meetings with the Gentlemen of the Country, who have many of them ſhewed their deſires of Preſervation, by naming ſeveral Officers for gathering ſuch as will engage; who being encouraged by a conſiderable part of the Army, may poſſibly put a ſtop, yea, turn that Current of Diſpleaſure, which in Talk comes on ſo furiouſly, thereby to fright you at Weſtminſter into Conformity.

Meetings of the Gentry, for ſecurity and preſervation of the Country.

Tueſday May 2.

Moneys charged on the Exciſe, for the fortifying of Garriſons.

THe Houſe this day conſidered of fortifying of ſome conſiderable Garriſons, that lie Northwardin this Kingdom, and Voted, 'That the Sum of 5000 l. ſhould be forthwith advanced for the repair of Newcaſtle up on Tine, and Tinmouth; the like Sum of 5000 l. for Scarborough; For Briſtol 500 l. For Hull 6000 l. Charging them all in Court upon the Exciſe in courſe, with 8 l. per cent. per annum.

Berwick ſurpriſ'd.

The conſideration thereof referred to the Committee at Derby Houſe.

This day came Letters, 'That Berwick was ſurpriſed by Sir Marmaduke Langdale, Sir Charles Lucas, and other Engliſh, with a Party of 120 Horſe, who pretended a Commiſſion from the Prince of Wales to that purpoſe. The Mayor endeavoured to get Strength to oppoſe them, but could not: He was forced to his Houſe; and from thence they went to the Committee, and have poſſeſſed them of the whole Town. Divers Foot being come into them from Scotland ſide, they are fortifying, and have broken down the Bridge, ſo that none can paſs over into England that way, and got Boats. The Houſe of Commons ordered to refer the Letters to the Grand Committee at Derby Houſe, and the Lord General.

Soldiers at the Mews to go to other Quarters.

A ſtop put thereto, till further Order.

Committee to take care of a Guard for the Parliament.

Additional Forces ſent towards Wales.

A Letter was read in the Houſe of Commons, from His Excellency the Lord General, dated May 1. advertiſing, 'That he had given Orders to Colonel Rich, and Colonel Barkſtead, to march away from Whitehall and the Mews, with their two Regiments of Horſe and Foot, to other Quarters aſſigned for them; (and ſo for drawing all Forces from quartering near London) except the Houſes ſhall give Order to the contrary. The Houſes took the Letters into Conſideration; and becauſe no other Care is taken for other Guard for the Houſes, Voted, 'That a Letter be ſent to the Lord General, that the ſaid two Regiments do not remove until they have further Order. 2. That Alderman Soame, Alderman Pennington, Colonel Ven, Mr. Vaſſal, and thoſe Members of the Houſe who are Citizens, to be a Committee to treat with the City of London, and carry a Copy of the Letter, to know what Guard they will provide for the Security of the Houſe when they are marched away. The General further likewiſe gave the Houſe to underſtand, of the Strength and Intereſts of the Enemy in Wales; and that he is drawing additional Forces that way, Lieutenant General Cromwel to Command them; and alſo acquainted the Houſe with the neceſſity of the Souldiers, by reaſon of Non-payment of Aſſeſſments in divers places, which would occaſion taking of freſh Quarters, to the burthen of many.

Inſtructions paſſed for the Commiſſioners of the Army, and Officers to rectifie it; that ſo Aſſeſſments may be paid, and all Free Quarter taken off.

The City to Guard the Parliament, when the Army withdraws.

Major General Skippon to have 600 l. per Annum.

The Common Council of the City of London ſate this day, and the Lord General's Letter was communicated to them; concerning which, they Ordered a Committee of their Court to go to the Parliament, to give them Thanks for their good Opinion and Confidence in the City; aſſuring them, That ſo ſoon as the Army ſhall withdraw from the City, they will ſtand by them for their Security. Major General Skippon delivered his Propoſitions concerning the Motion of the City, for his being their Major General. The Common Council ordered, That there be added to the 300 l. per annum, formerly allowed to Major General Skippon, 300 l. per annum more.

There were two Petitions preſented by divers Citizens to the Common

Two Petitions, the one for the Tryal of the Impeached Aldermen by their Equals, and the other about the Militia.

Council; one that the Impeached Aldermen may not be tryed before the Lords, but by their Equals at Common Law; and the other for the Choice of a Committee of Militia, the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs to be part, the reſt choſen by the Common Council, and confirmed by the Parliaments every Year; The Hamblets, Weſtminſter, &c. to be under the City as formerly, and the Lieutenant of the Tower by them choſen. Both which Petitions were referred to the ſame Committee who drew up the laſt Petition preſented to the Parliament.

From Ireland, by Letters dated at Dublin April 19. is thus certified:

The Rebels attack Kildare Caſtle, and are beaten off.

A Commanded Party of Horſe and Foot, belonging to Owen Roe, fell upon the Caſtle of Kildare, in which were two of Colonel Fenwick's Companies, attempting to ſcale the Walls in many places, which was done with extraordinary Reſolution; That they preſently got to the top with Ladders, where they fought upon the Works for a good while: The Engliſh gave them ſuch welcome, that they were glad to depart with more haſte down than they came up. In this violent Action, Captain Dillon and divers others were wounded, beſides ſix killed of Engliſh: Of the Rebels ſixty were ſlain upon the place, beſides the wounded that crept away. The Enemy and we are equally in ſadneſs of Condition for want of Bread, and ſo unable to maintain a Force abroad: With them Corn is at 3 l. with us at 2 l. 10 s. a Barrel. Too many Horſe have been taken from us within theſe 3 Months, which is very prejudicial. There is a great Mortality on both ſides by the Murrain, not only of Men, but Cattle, ſuch as hath not been here of a long time. It's reported, That the Earl of Ormond's Horſe are landed in Munſter, and that he is expected there.

Great ſcarcity of Proviſion.

Wedneſday May 3. 1648.

The Parliament of Scotland's Demands.

THis day a Letter was read from the Lord Chancellour of Scotland, by Command of the Parliament of Scotland, brought by Colonel Marſhal, (one late of the Lord Inchiquins Officers) with Deſires from the Parliament there, as they are called in the Paper it ſelf: But by the Lord Chancellour called Demands, were to this purpoſe:

1. That the King may come to ſome of his Courts near London, to abide with Safety, Honour, and Freedom.
2. That a perſonal Treaty be had with His Majeſty.
3. That the Independent Schiſmatick Army (as they term it) may be diſbanded, and none put into Garriſons, but ſuch as will take the Covenant, and the two Kingdoms confide in.
4. That all Anabaptiſts, Separatiſts, Independents, may be ſuppreſſed, and no Toleration allowed for any of them.
5. That all abſent Members of Parliament may be ſent for, to perform their Duties in Parliament.
6. That the Covenant may be enforced upon all Men.
7. That the Presbiterial Government may be effectually ſettled and eſtabliſhed, Theſe their Demands being read, the Commons had ſome Debate thereupon, and Ordered, To Conſider of them further to morrow Morning.

The Common-Council's Anſwer to the General's Letter.

The Anſwer of the Common Council of London to the Lord General's Letter yeſterday, Ordered to be communicated to them from the Houſe, was this day Reported by the Committee-Members of the City, to whom it was referred to be communicated.

The ſubſtance whereof was thus. “That they did return the Houſe “their humble Thanks, for communicating this buſineſs to them. That “they were now making Propoſitions to Major General Skippon, to encourage him to accept of the Command of Major General of the City, “and did expect that the Hamblets and Subburbs would add ſomething thereto: And for the Guard of the Parliament, they doubt not “but when the Major General had accepted of that Command, they “ſhould ſo provide and order it, as ſhould be for the Satisfaction and “Security of both Houſes.

Tumults in Colcheſter.

The Houſe was this day informed, That there was ſome Tumults in Colcheſter by the Malignants there. They therefore Ordered Letters to be ſent down to ſome Officers that have Forces in thoſe Counties, to keep that place in Peace and Quietneſs.

It was likewiſe Referred to the Committee at Derby Houſe, To take ſome ſpeedy Courſe for ſettling the Diſtractions in the County of Eſſex.

Thurſday May 4. 1648.

A Petition was this day preſented to both Houſes of Parliament of England, Aſſembled at Weſtminſter.

The Petition of the Grand Jury of Eſſex.

The humble Petition of the Grand Jury, at the Aſſizes holden at Chelmsford, for the County of Eſſex, the 22. of March, 1647. as it was preſented to both the honourable Houſes of Parliament, the 4th of May, 1648. by divers thouſands of Knights, Gentlemen, and Freeholders of the ſame County.

THAT your Petitioners taking into their ſerious (yet ſad) Conſiderations, the great Diſtractions and Calamities of this whole Kingdom, and being alſo very ſenſible, by woful Experience, of the great and many Preſſures and Grievances of their own particular County, and taking notice alſo, with all thankfulneſs, of the honourable Reſolutions of this Houſe, in giving Encouragement to the juſt Deſires of the oppreſſed in a petitionary way, (the undoubted Right of the Subject) and the very life of their Liberty it ſelf; out of a tender fellow-feeling of others, and the deep ſenſe of their own Miſeries, have made this humble (yet neceſſary) Addreſs to this honourable Houſe; conceiving both the preſent and future Happineſs to be concentered in theſe their enſuing Deſires.

And firſt, conſidering that it is impoſſible the ſad and direful Effects of this late War ſhould ceaſe, without the principal Cauſes be firſt taken away and removed: And conſidering likewiſe His Majeſty's Abſence from his two Houſes of Parliament hath been one main Cauſe of increaſing Jealouſies, and continuing a Miſunderſtanding betwixt him and his Great Council; (the Original and Source of our unhappineſs) and humbly conceiving, That a timely and ready Conceſſion to His Majeſty, for a perſonal Treaty with his high Court of Parliament, may prove the moſt effectual and ſpeedy Means for the Removal of all ſuch Miſapprehenſions and Fears, which are yet the unhappy Obſtacles of the Peace and Quiet of this our Kingdom.

2. Conſidering the exceſſive Charges, and almoſt intolerable Burthen, this County with the reſt of the Kingdom do at this preſent groan under; which although for a time they may poſſibly bear with patience, yet, if continued, will certainly and inevitably ruine themſelves, their Families, and Poſterities. And withal conſidering that the moſt hopeful means of ſettling a well grounded Peace, and the ſureſt way of preventing future Troubles, conſiſts in the due ſatisfaction of all juſt Complaints and Intereſts. And that this Army, who have faithfully diſcharged their Truſt to your ſelves and Kingdom, do much complain for want of their Arrears.

We therefore, your humble Petitioners, do moſt earneſtly deſire, That you would be pleaſed, to take theſe Premiſes into your grave and ſerious Conſiderations, ſideratious, and to condeſcend to the Royal Intimations of His Majeſty for a perſonal Treaty, to expedite ſuch a Courſe, which in your Wiſdoms you ſhall think moſt meet for the Satisfaction of the Arrears of the Army, with a Disbanding of the ſame.

And your Petitioners ſhall ever pray, &c.

The Petition being read in the Lords Houſe, Anſwer was given by the Speaker to this purpoſe:

The Lords Anſwer to the ſaid Petition.

"The Lords have commanded me to return Thanks to the County "of Eſſex for the good Affections which they have expreſs'd to the Parliament and Kingdom; they have likewiſe commanded me to let you "know, that they will take your Petition into their ſerious and ſpeedy Conſideration; and do aſſure you, That they will not be wanting to "contribute Their utmoſt Endeavours for the recovering of the preſent "Preſſures and Burthens, and for the compoſing theſe unhappy Differences, ſo as the Kingdom may enjoy a ſafe and well grounded Peace

The Commons Anſwer to the ſame.

The Houſe of Commons being informed, That divers Gentlemen of the County of Eſſex were at the door, deſiring to preſerr their Petition to the Houſe, they were called in, and Major Stephen Smith did preſent their Petition, which (the Petitioners being withdrawn) was read, and after ſome Debate the Petitioners were called in, and Mr. Speaker, by Command of the Houſe, upon Vote, upon the Queſtion, gave them this Anſwer; "That this Houſe doth take notice of the "great Service and good Affections of that County to the Parliament; "and are very confident they will ſo continue; as to their Petition, the "Houſe is now in Debate concerning the ſpeedy Settlement of the "Kingdom, and do not doubt but what they ſhall conclude thereupon "will give ſatisfaction to the ſaid County, and to all the well-affected "People of the Kingdom.

Moneys further ordered for Newcaſtle.

A Letter came this day from the Governour of Newcaſtle, acquainting them, 'That upon an approach of 100 Horſe to Berwick, the Mayor and 'Aldermen had notice, and the Bridge was commanded to be drawn up. 'The Party came and demanded Entrance. The Town deſired to know 'by what Commiſſion it was demanded. Hereupon they produced a 'Commiſſion from the Prince of Wales, and then the Mayor and Aldermen commanded the Bridge to be let down, and ſo they entred, 'and are poſſeſſed thereof. And as to the reſt of the particulars of the 'Letter, of ſending Forces and Shipping, it was referred to the Committee at Derby-Houſe.

The Houſe having referred the Conſideration of ſecuring the Northern Counties to the Committee for the North, that Committee this day made their Report to the Houſe concerning that buſineſs.

The Houſe hereupon had much Debate concerning the Advance of 10000 Horſe and Foot for the Service, and for the Aſſociating and putting the Northern Counties into a poſture of Defence; and the Reſults of their Debates were; "That the Seven Northern Counties be forth"with aſſociated and put into a poſture of Defence. And for the advancing of Forces for that Service, and Monies to pay them, it was referred to the Committee at Derby-Houſe.

From Wales came farther by Expreſs to this purpoſe:

Intelligence from Wales.

COlonel Horton lately publiſhed this incloſed Declaration, for the right informing of the Welſh of the cauſe of his Forces marching into Wales; but 'tis ſcarce poſſible to publiſh it, eſpecially in Caermarthenſhire, where not a Gentleman, Conſtable, or Man can be ſeen, unleſs in Arms, though it hath been endeavoured there and in other places; but it being in a Language the ordinary People underſtand not, and the Gentry are generally for the King, it is like to be of little effect; nothing but War will ſatisfie them: They are Riſing in all Counties of South Wales; if they be ſuppreſſed in one place, they Riſe in another. Now Colonel Horton is in the County of Brecknock, they begin to Riſe in Glamorganſhire; He hath ſent out ſeveral Parties to hinder the Riſing of Radnor, ſome parts of Brecknock, Glamorgan; and they will, by God's aſſiſtance, uſe their beſt endeavours to ſuppreſs the Enemy, though the diſadvantages are many, and Experiences of former times hath ever ſhewed it in thoſe Countries.

Juſt now we have Intelligence, That the Enemy is at Neath and Swanzey, which hath hindred our March towards Pembroke; (as was intended) but we ſhall advance towards the Enemy there.

Brecknock, May 1.

The Declaration before-mentioned by Colonel Horton is as followeth;

Colonel Horton's Declaration.

THE Honourable Houſes of Parliament having (out of their tender Care, to eaſe the ſeveral Counties of South-Wales from their heavy burden of Free Quarter) Reſolved, That the Forces under the Command of Major-General Langhorn ſhall be Diſbanded; and for the ſpeeding of that work, his Excellency Thomas Lord Fairfax, General of all the Forces, within the Kingdom of England, and Dominion of Wales, iſſued forth his poſitive Orders to the Commander in Chief of thoſe Forces; and the Honourable Committee for the Army made undelayed Proviſion of Money out of England, without any increaſe of Charge to theſe Counties, where divers of the ſaid Forces have been lately Disbanded, and others of them Declare a readineſs to do the like; But Colonel Rice Powell, the Commander in Chief, preſent with the ſaid Forces (after many Publique and Solemn Engagements of his Submiſſion to the Ordinances of Parliament, and his Excellencies Orders for Disbanding, doth now, contrary to the ſaid Orders and Engagements, not only refuſe to Disband, but out of ſome private ends, earneſtly endeavour to lay the foundation of a new War: (under the notion of eaſing and protecting the Country.) The which that he may the better accompliſh, He doth entertain all ſuch Soldiers (formerly Disbanded) as by any fair Promiſes he can allure unto him; labouring to increaſe his number, to the great Charge of the Inhabitants; and not reſting there, iſſueth forth his Warrants (without any colour of Authority) to ſummon two Counties to ſeveral Rendezvouzes, attempting thereby to engage them in a dangerous Deſign, to the maniſeſt hazard of ſpilling the Blood, and unavoidable ruining the Eſtates of his Neighbours and Countrymen; and yet would perſuade the People he only intends to oppoſe new Forces drawing towards them (as he ſuggeſts) to endanger their Peace, though (in truth, as is very apparent) occaſioned by his and his Adherents diſobedience to the Parliament and his Excellencies Orders, to come to eaſe the Country of the burthen of Free Quarter, and ſettle them in the ſame peaceable Condition with the reſt of the Kingdom. Therefore we thought fit (for a prevention of the Miſeries theſe deluſions may lead the Country into) to Declare and Publiſh, That the true Reaſons of theſe Forces marching into theſe Counties, are no other, than, as hath been already expreſſed (viz.) to gain Obedience to the Parliament and his Excellencies Orders for Disbanding, which will free the People from the Oppreſſion which they lay under, and from all other Charges whatſoever (beſides their ordinary Aſſeſments;) and then, after eaſing the Country of theſe heavy Burthens, they will ſuddainly depart again; Hoping in the mean time to prevent the Incoveniences that formerly accompanied Armies.

An. 1648.

Let therefore all well-meaning People truly take heed of being deluded by fair Tales to ruine themſelves, and ſeriouſly conſider the different fruit of War and Peace. It is the ſettlement of Peace the Parliament endeavours through the Kingdom, which is no where diſturbed but in theſe parts; and by whom it is here done, and upon what grounds and Pretences, we leave to the Judgment of all ingenuous Men, who ſhall impartially weigh the Truth of what hath been here publiſhed.

Colonel Grey is to be Lieutenant-General; ſeveral Gentlemen of the County are made Colonels. The Letter from Langdale to Captain Batton, Governour of the Holy Iſland, was as followeth.

Langdale's Letter to Capt. Batton.

SIR,

YOU have the good Opinion of the Counties to be a ſober diſcreet Man amongſt them, which emboldneth me (a ſtranger to you) to propoſe (that which every Man in his Duty to God and the King ought to perform) The vail of theſe horrid Deſigns, plotted by ſome, that Men may run and read the Miſery and Thraldom they intend upon the whole Nation. It is believed by many that know you, that you are ſenſible of the impriſonment of His Majeſty; and the violation of all our Laws: If you pleaſe to conſider, the ends being changed, perhaps, for which you firſt engaged, and comply with the King's Intereſt, by keeping the Fort, now in your poſſeſſion for the King's uſe; I will engage my ſelf to ſee all the Arrears due to your Self and the Soldiers duly paid, and to procure His Majeſties Favour for the future; And that I only may receive ſome ſatisfaction from you, that this Motion is as really accepted, as is intended by,

Your Humble Servant,

Berwick, April 30.
1648. Marmaduke Langdale.

Many from the Counties of Northumberland and Durham flock to Berwick to be Liſted for the King's Service

The Popiſh and Malignant Party flock apace forth of the Counties of Northumberland and Durham to Berwick, where thoſe that hold the Town are very active in ſending forth Summons to the parts remote and adjacent, to be at a Rendezvouz upon Hedgley Moor, four or five Miles from Alnwick, to be there liſted for the ſervice of the King; Col. Grey having alſo ſummoned all my Lord Grey of Wark his Tennants to join with them.

Sheriffs and Juſtices of Northumberland, flee to Newcaſtle for ſafety.

The High Sheriff of Northumberland, and many Juſtices of Peace are enforced to flie to Newcaſtle for the ſafety of their Perſons, leaving their Houſes and Goods expoſed to the danger of the Enemy.

From Edenburgh, the 3 of May, is thus written, "The Commiſſioners of "Parliament of England, have preſented a Paper to the Parliament here,
"to Declare againſt thoſe in Berwick and Carliſle; but it was laid aſide;
"whence ſome conceive ſtrangely of it. No Anſwer to any other Papers.

The Commiſſioners of Kirke have Declared againſt the Declaration of Parliament; but the Parliament have paſſed another Declartion, and putting it to the Vote, whether it ſhall be ſent at all to the Commiſſioners of Kirke, it was reſolved in the Negative; The Commiſſioners of War ſit daily to put the Kingdom into a poſture of Defence; nothing talked but of War and Arms; divers new Colours are preparing for ſeveral Regiments; the ſad Miſeries incident to a new and dangerous War, ſeem to gather more and more over this poor Iſland.

Tueſday, May 9. 1648.

THE Houſe of Commons being informed, That the Sheriffs, Common-Council, and other Citizens and Freemen of the City of London were at the door, they were called in; and Sheriff Bide, after ſome ſhort preamble, did preſent an humble Petition from the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council, the repreſentative Body of the City of London, in all Humility, to this Houſe.

Lord Mayor and Aldermen Petition to Nominate a Committee for the Militia of the City.

The Petition was read, and was Intituled, The Humble Petition of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common-Council Aſſembled. The which the Petitioners being withdrawn, was read, and is as followeth.

To the Right Honourable the Commons in Parliament Aſſembled.

The Humble Petition of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common-Council Aſſembled.

Sheweth,

THAT your Petitioners do thankfully acknowledge the great Favour of this Honourable Houſe, in the ſpeedy Granting their Deſires expreſſed in their late Petition.

And upon conſideration of a Letter from the Lord General to the Speaker of the Honourable Houſe of Commons, and by him communicated to the Petitioners; They do humbly conceive that there is an expectation that the Parliament ſhould be guarded by the Forces of the City, and places adjacent. The which with all willingneſs your Petitioners are ready to do (according to their late undertaking) being put into a capacity to perform the ſame, by ſetling the Militia of London, and being Authorized ſo to do.

That they have received intimation by a Petition from divers worthy and well-affected Citizens, that the bringing in of Bullion is much impeded, and Merchandizing greatly diverted (of which your Petioners are very ſenſible) by reaſon that your former Favour afforded to the City, in the nominating of the Lieutenant of the Tower, hath been of late ſuſpended, and many Soldiers therein placed, unknown to the City, whereby Trading is much decayed, and poor People, for want of Imployment, in extream Miſery, and the City greatly endangered by their important neceſſities.

That your Petitioners (being encouraged by many former Favours received from this Honourable Houſe) are bold to mak theſe their Addreſſes, and Humbly Pray;

That the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons in Common-Council Aſſembled, may by Ordinance of Parliament be Authorized to Nominate and Preſent to both Houſes of Parliament, a Committee for the Militia of the ſaid City, as by ſeveral Ordinances hath been formerly granted; whereby Commanders and Soldiers may be the better united and encouraged to perform their Duties for the ſafety and preſervation of the Parliament, City, and places adjacent; and that the Command of the Tower of London, may be put into the hands of ſuch a perſon as ſhall be nominated and preſented to both Houſes of Parliament by the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council of the ſaid City; and that the Soldiers now there remaining may be removed; which will give good ſatisfaction to the City, and remove many fears and doubts, and be an Invitation and Encouragment unto Merchants, (both Engliſh and Strangers) to bring in Bullion; and an occaſion to increaſe Merchandizing, and quicken Trade, and conſequently a Comfort to poor People, in having Employment for their ſubſiſtence,

And your Petitioners ſhall Humbly Pray, &c,

After Reading, the Commons had Debate upon this Petition.

Votes in Anſwer to the ſaid Petition.

Reſolved, &c.

“That the Lord Mayor, Aldermen and Commons in Common-“Council Aſſembled of the City of London, be by Ordinance of Parlia“ment Authorized to Nominate and Preſent to both Houſes of Parlia“ment, a Committee for the Militia of London, and the Liberties there-
“of. That the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons in Common-“Council Aſſembled, be Authorized to Nominate and Preſent to both “Houſes for their Approbation, an able and ſufficient Perſon for the “Command of the Tower of London. That the Soldiers now remaining “in the Tower of London ſhall be removed.

The Petitioners called in and acquainted with the ſaid Votes.

Ordered; "That the Citizens that ſerve for the City of London do prepare and bring in an Ordinance according to theſe Votes.

The Sheriffs and Citizens were again called in, and Maſter Speaker, (by the Command of the Houſe) acquainted them, That the Houſe had read their Petition, and taken it into ſerious Conſideration; and that by the Votes paſſed, the Affections of this Houſe to the City, and the Truſt they repoſed in them, will appear; and they doubt not, but are confident, that it will be anſwered with Love, Truſt, and Obedience; and then acquainted them with the ſubſtance of the Votes paſſed.

Colonel Horton's Letter to the Houſe, concerning the ſaid Defeat.

SIR,

AFter many tedious, hungry and wet Marches, over the ſteep and craggy Mountains, It pleaſed God, that we were engaged with the Enemy (who accounted themſelves near Eight thouſand Horſe and Foot) upon Munday morning, the Eighth of this inſtant, before St. Fagous and Peter's Town; where, after a ſharp Diſpute for near two hours, It pleaſed the Lord Almighty to appear for us, in giving the Enemy a total Rout; the particulars thereof I ſhall, within a ſhort time, at large preſent you with. There are many ſlain of the Enemy upon the place, and in the purſuit for ſeven miles; we cannot yet hear of one of our Officers ſlain, and but few of the Soldiers, but we loſt many Horſes. I gueſs the Priſoners which are taken, to be 300; we have taken all their Foot, Arms and Ammunition, which is good ſtore; Major General Stradling is taken, with many Officers and

and Gentlemen, and many Colours. It pleaſed God wonderfully to ſtrengthen and raiſe up the Spirits of our Officers and Souldiers: Our Word was, God is our Strength. And truly we found him ſo to be, and deſire the ſole Glory may be given to him, and our ſelves look'd upon, as weak Inſtruments in his hand; and amongſt whom, as I am, ſo I deſire to be accounted, who am

The Forces at Whitehall and the Mews, not to be removed, till the Parliament be provided of another Guard.

The Houſe then Ordered, ‘That a Letter ſhould be drawn and ſent to the Lord General from the Houſe, to deſire him not to give Order for the Removal of the two Regiments at Whitehall and the Mews, till the Houſe hath provided themſelves of another Guard.

The City to be acquainted with the Routing the Welſh Forces, and to take care of collecting the Arrears due to the Army.

A Committee was appointed to go into the City, and to deſire that a Common Council might be called, and to acquaint them with this great Mercy, in routing all the Forces in Wales; and to deſire them, that in reſpect His Excellency is marching Northward with part of the Army, and the great occaſion there is for Moneys at preſent, that they would take ſpeedy courſe, that the Arrears of the City due to the Army may be collected and paid.

Arms, Ammunition, and Money, to be provided for the Forces advancing Northward.

A Letter this day came from the Lord General, deſiring Arms, Ammunition, and Money, may be ſpeedily provided for the Forces that are to advance with him into the North. The Houſe conſidered of all the particulars deſired by His Excellency for this purpoſe, and agreed thereunto.

The Art of double Writing.

Once before was mentioned the Art of double Writing, and we are deſired for better ſatisfaction to give you this further Account of it now. ‘That there is invented an Inſtrument of ſmall bigneſs and price, eaſily made and very durable; whereby, with an hours practice, one may write two Copies of the ſame thing at once, on a Book of Parchment, as well as on Paper, and in any Character whatſoever; of great Advantage to Lawyers, Scriveners, Merchants, Scholars, Regiſters, Clerks, &c. It ſaving the labour of Examination; diſcovering or preventing falſification, and performing the whole buſineſs of Writing, as with Eaſe and Speed, ſo with Privacy alſo. Approved in its Uſe and Feaſibility by an Ordinance of both Houſes of Parliament. The farther Nature whereof, and the latter Conditions whereupon it ſhall be diſcovered (the former for not doing it till the firſt of April 1649. being declined) may be fully known, at the Inventer's Lodging, next door to the white Bear in Loathbury.

‘Where Note, that for haſtning the Diſcovery, the Price thereof will be greater or leſs, according as Men come in ſoon or late for the ſame.

The Ordinance for the Militia aſſented to, and the Lords Concurrence deſired

THE Houſe of Commmons this day, according to former Order, took into Conſideration the great Buſineſs of ſettling the Militia of the Kingdom; and an Ordinance was read for that purpoſe, which admitted of moſt of this day's Debate: And at laſt it was aſſented unto, and Ordered to be ſent to the Lords for their Concurrence.

Tumult in St. Edmondsbury.

The Houſe of Commons was informed, of a great Riſing in St. Edmond's Bury in the County of Suffolk, a place where lately the Head Quarters was intended to be; occaſioned firſt by the taking down of a Maypole. The Tumult increaſed to the plundering of ſome, but afterwards in a good meaſure was allayed.

And the Houſe of Commons hereupon Ordered, ‘ That the ſeveral ‘ Members that ſerve for that County, ſhould be enjoined forthwith to ‘ to repair into the County of Suffolk, and to endeavour to ſuppreſs all ‘ Tumults of the diſaffected Party.

The Members that ſerve for that County, to go down and endeavour to ſuppreſs Tumults.

They further Ordered, ‘ That it ſhould be referred to the Committee at Derby Houſe, to give Orders for Horſe to be ſent down into ‘ the ſaid County of Suffolk, to ſuppreſs the Mutineers if there be occaſion.

Committee at Derby Houſe to ſend Horſe into Suffolk if there be occaſion.

The fond Report this day ſpread of re-uniting the Welſh Forces, and a ſuppoſed Defeat given to our Forces there, comes to nothing; but the contrary is certified, and the great Victory by Colonel Horton againſt them by Letters this day fully confirmed, and a Liſt of the Priſoners taken and in cuſtody. (viz) 25 Majors and Captains, 32 Lieutenants, 27 Enſigns, 10 private Gentlemen, and above 2000 private Soldiers. We want room to enlarge further the particulars; but the whole Buſineſs will be publiſhed at large by it ſelf.

A farther Account of the Victory in Wales.

From Windſor 'tis certified, ‘ That The Army, Horſe and Foot, begin ‘ their March Northward Monday next, and the General removes from ‘ Windſor after them in a day or two. There is nothing farther from the ‘ North, but that ſeveral Garriſons, by directions of Parliament, are repleniſhed with Men and Proviſions, to prevent the Enemies ſurpriſal. ‘ Belvoyr Caſtle, and Aſhby de La Zouch were in hazard to be ſurpriſed by ‘ certain Malignants, but it was prevented, and they new Garriſoned ‘ for the Parliament. (May 13. 1648.)

The Army marched Northward.

Garriſons and Caſtles repleniſhed to prevent ſurprize.

Monday, May 15. 1648.

REport was this day made to the Houſe of Commons, from the Commiſſioners ſent down into Kent, for the Tryal of the Mutineers at Canterbury, ‘ That the Grand Jury refuſing to find the Bill, the ‘ Commiſſioners had adjourned the Court to another time.

Grand Jury of Kent refuſe to find the Bill againſt the Mutineers.

The [illegible]mmiſſioners employed upon this Buſineſs, had the Thanks of the H[illegible] given them. The Committee of Kent had likewiſe Thanks given them, for their forwardneſs and pains in this Buſineſs.

The Houſe alſo Ordered, ‘ That the Committee of the County of ‘ Kent, ſhould ſtill proceed to the farther Examination of this Riot, to ‘ the end, the chief Offenders may be brought to condign puniſhment.

Committee of Kent to make a farther Examination of this Riot.

An Ordinance was this day read, for ſetling the Militia of the City of London in the hands nominated by the Common Council of London, which was twice read, and Ordered to be read again to morrow.

Ordinance for the Militia of London read the firſt time.

A Letter was read in the Houſe, from Vice-Admiral Colonel Rainsborough, to acquaint them with the Intelligence he hath received of two Men of War from France, appointed to tranſport Horſe and Arms for Scotland.

Two French Men of War to carry Arms &c. into Scotland.

From the North came Letters this day, and firſt from York; it was certified, ‘ That there was a Deſign to take that City by Surpriſe of the Tow‘er; the day and hour was ſet for the Malignants and diſaffected to ‘ Parliament to come in; at that inſtant came a Troop of Horſe that were ‘ to paſs Northward, who they in the Conſpiracy perceiving, cryed up the ‘ King, thinking them Royaliſts; which gave Allarm to the Lord Mayor and others, and they prevented the Execution.

A Deſign to ſurprize York.

From Newcaſtle May 11. was thus written. ‘ Some of Colonel Lambert's Horſe, and Colonel Bright's Regiment of Foot, are come by this ‘ Town, and are to join with ſome Troops now near the Borders, to ‘ ſecure what they can, and offend the Enemy, not much increaſed in or 'about Berwick, but about Carliſle they are; ſome numbers of Horſe will be raiſed here, if the General comes down ſpeedily. Colonel Charles Brandling, the Governour of Berwick, lays ſad Taxes upon the Engliſh, as a Thouſand pound upon Sr. William Selby, Five hundred upon Mr. Roſden, Mr. Foxton at 300. Andrew Criſpe 150. Robert Turner at as much, one Mr. Anderſon at 60 l. Henry Shell at 50 l. with divers others. Thomas Temple, late Alderman of that Town, is made a Captain; others are in Command. Major Gilbert Erington came a week ſince as far as Cartington-Houſe, which he took and held three or four Nights, but upon approach of Major Sanderſon's Troop he quitted it; the Major hath got 40 Muſqueteers and put into it, who it's feared will not be able to hold it unleſs more be added. They in Berwick and Carliſle are impatient, and begin to cry out, that the Scots appear not for them before this: Beſides, they fear, they ſay, Scotland will have work enough at home. The Fortifications go on here; the Priſon Houſe is nulled for better Security to this Town; Sr. Philip Muſgrave, it's here reported, hath marched as far as his own Houſe, near Kirby Stephen, and to have forced Cholmley over Stainmore; and Colonel Bright is ſaid to have been gone for Safety to Raby Caſtle. Here is great Joy to hear that the Lord General Fairfax is coming into theſe parts.

The Governour of Berwick lays heavy Taxes upon the Engliſh.

Colonel Bright gone to Raby Caſtle.

Commiſſioners of the Kirk of Scotland againſt a War.

'The Zeal of the Commiſſioners of the Kirk of Scotland againſt a War, appears very great, by their ſending to the Miniſters of the ſeveral Presbiteries, with Charge, That they lay it home to their People that they engage not in a War, thus driven on and intended, upon high Diſpleaſure from God, and apparent Deſtruction to themſelves; however, the others go on with all convenient haſte, and it's ſaid will adjourn this day, and ſo the ſeveral Burgeſſes go into the Shires to raiſe Men for their Army. The Commiſſioners for the Kirk of Scotland, have paſſed a Declaration in Anſwer to the Parliament's, wherein briefly they inſiſt upon theſe Heads. That it encreaſeth their Fears, and they particularly take notice, there is no Expreſſion in the Parliament's Declaration, of the continuance of Monarchical Government in His Majeſty's Poſterity. That the Parliament mentions ſuch as have abuſed them and the Kingdom; and if they mean the Malignants, how is it that they are now Favourites? And in that the Parliament takes notice of the firſt Occaſioners of Troubles, the Kirk deſire, that it may be obſerved who they were. And that Malignants having taken the Covenant, are now taken into Councils, and chief Men again: Whereas they mention that Malignants had been puniſhed according to Covenant in both Kingdoms, and that the Covenant was therein performed, they ſay they cannot but remember them of what Favours and Friendſhips have been granted to ſuch. They ſay that it's true, the Covenant hath been broke by Sectaries, and ſo it hath by Malignants abroad and at home; and true Zeal for the Covenant is to ſtrike both ways. As for laying aſide of the Covenant in the Bills ſent to the Iſle of Wight, they ſay it was ſo in the Deſires ſent up to His Majeſty from the Commiſſioners of Eſtates of Scotland. As for denying My Lord Lauderdale's acceſs to the King, the Commiſſioners of the Kirk ſay, the General declared againſt it; and he had acceſs ſeveral times after. As for a general taking the Covenant, they ſay, it hath been done by the Repreſentatives, and think it no Ground of War, for time may bring the reſt unto it; and becauſe the Miniſters in the ſeveral Counties in England have given large Teſtimonies of their good Will thereto. As for England's ſending to the King without Scotland, they wiſh the contrary, but ſay it's diſputable, whether that be a breach of Treaty and Ground of War: They take notice of not only debating, but agreeing by Scotland with the King at Newcaſtle without England: As for the three Propoſitions or Deſires ſent, they appear not that they paſs ſo as if denied they were cauſe of War, becauſe debateable, and yet not ſatisfactory to their Deſires, which was to have as a Deduction; thence the Cauſe was clearly ſtated: Nor can War be grounded thereupon, becauſe when the Parliament of England were moſt free of Sectaries, they did not ſuppreſs the Iriſh; enforce the Covenant on all Officers, much leſs all Engliſh Subjects; nor would be obliged not to ſend Propoſitions or Bills, without the Concurrence of Scotland. This they ſay, becauſe the Parliament remitted this to them for ſatisfaction to their Conſciences. As for their preſſing the Covenant and Directory upon the Subjects, they take notice the King is not intended to be required the ſame, as ſuting beſt with His Majeſty's deſires, nor that any Application be made for His Majeſty's Conſent; nor declares the Parliament of Scotland, that the Non-takers of the Covenant ſhall be accounted Enemies to the State; no not thoſe who have not taken it to this day. They approve not that it be peremptorily deſired, that the Confeſſion of Faith ſent from the Divines at Weſtminſter be approved, whereas they expreſs it with cautient. Laſtly, the Church deſires that Uniformity be endeavoured fairly in Brotherly ways, which are now by the Parliament's Declarations turned into Cauſes of War: For their deſires, of His Majeſty's coming to his Houſe near London, before he have conſented to any thing, they conceive dangerous. Firſt, all Grants are ſuſpended until then, and ſo a reſtitution to prove before any thing granted; and ſo he may paſs up and down, raiſe Force, and draw the people to him, who lie ready prepared therefore; beſides the Influence he may have upon the Houſes: And whether His Majeſty be not reſtored to his Honour by this means, before Jeſus Chriſt be to his; and if it was declared in Scotland, it would not be ſafe His Majeſty come thither before he conſented in matters of Religion, &c. How can it be that he come to London? Beſides, thus to challenge a Diſpoſe of His Majeſty in England by Scotland, will be diſpleaſing to moſt that have appeared in this joint Cauſe and Quarrel, will unite them all in oppoſition to Scotland: For the Army being diſbanded, which they like, yet they would ſee proviſion againſt popiſh Prelacy and Malignants riſing in Arms, already appearing in ſeveral places, as in Ireland and Wales; and if His Majeſty come to London, how eaſie it is for thoſe that have adhered to him, to re-gather about him. Laſtly, the Favour, Countenance, Encouragement given by the Parliament of Scotland, to eminent Malignants Engliſh, the Miniſters ſay, will ſure hinder the diſbanding the Army in England; and farther, that the Declaration ſtands aloof in Anſwer to that, concerning what Power they intend to put into His Majeſty's hands. And whereas it's ſaid, His Majeſty ſhall paſs ſuch Acts, they conceive it's better His Majeſty ſhew good Affection that way before Reſtauration. As for the Oath framed to be taken, they are not pleaſed with the Exception, ſo far as is due to the Church; nor what will be meant by it. And they conclude, they are not againſt a War, if the Grounds of undertaking it be clear: Nor is it out of Affection to Sectaries that they ſhew their Diſſent, nor for want of tenderneſs to Privilege of Parliament, nor of Sympathy with their Brethren of England, but from tenderneſs in Point of Religion and Union between the Kingdoms, and Non-ſatisfaction with the Declaration; and if, as the Parliament promiſed, they will give all honeſt ſatisfaction in the Grounds of the War, there is a Door of Hope yet open.

Ordinance for puniſhing Defaulters of Muſters in Kent paſſed. The Lords Concurrence deſired.

AN Ordinance was this day read in the Houſe of Commons, For puniſhing Defaulters of Muſters in the County of Kent; which was Aſſented unto, and Ordered to be ſent to the Lords for their Concurrence.

Thanks returned to the Gentlemen of Cheſhire for their Care to ſecure the Caſtle and City of Cheſter

A Letter this day came to the Houſe of Commons, from the Gentlemen of the County of Cheſter, ‘That they had taken courſe, for the fortifying of the Caſtle and City of Cheſter. The Houſe hereupon ordered, To give them Thanks for their forwardneſs herein, and paſſed a Vote for Approbation thereof.

Aſſociation of Flint, Denbigh, and Montgomery.

Another very acceptable Letter this day came from the Gentlemen of the County of Flint, Denbigh, and Montgomery; ‘That they had entered into an Aſſociation; and had taken Care to ſecure thoſe Counties againſt the Enemy, according to the particulars encloſed. The Houſe Ordered, That they ſhould have hearty Thanks for the ſame, and ordered to approve thereof. It is hoped theſe three Counties will give a good Precedent to all the well affected Gentry and Committee Men in England, to make timely Proviſion againſt our common Enemy.

Gentry of Lancaſhire give an Account of what they have done for the ſecurity of that County.

A Letter alſo this day came from the Committee and Gentry of the County of Lancaſter; Giving the Houſe an Account of what they had done, in relation to the Security of that County, againſt the common Enemy; The Houſe ordered them Thanks, and approved of what they had done therein.

Settling the Militia Debated.

The Houſe then proceeded to the Buſineſs of the day, viz. the conſideration of ſettling the Militia of the City of London; upon which they had much Debate, and did freely agree thereunto; and the rather, becauſe they might have full ſatisfaction herein, not doubting the City of London would anſwer this with Love and Affection.

Diſturbance by the Surry Petitioners.

To this Houſe (which we rather wiſh might be forgot than mentioned) came many hundred Horſe and Foot out of Surry, with a Petition to the Lords, and another to the Houſe of Commons: The Petition in the Terms of it was very high; the Heads are theſe, ‘That the King may be reſtored to his due Honour and juſt Rights, according to the Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy; That he may forthwith be eſtabliſhed in his Throne, according to the ſplendour of his Anceſtors; That he may for the preſent come to Weſtminſter with Honour and Safety, to treat perſonally for compoſing Differences; That the Free-born Subject of England, may be governed by the known Laws and Statutes, now in force in this Kingdom; That the War beginning may be prevented; And that the Ordinances for preventing Free Quarter may be duly executed, and Speed made in Disbanding all Armies, having their Arrears due paid them.

The Lords Anſwer to their Petition.

The Lords gave the Petitioners Anſwer, ‘That they would bend all their Endeavours to eaſe the Burthens of the Kingdom; and that they were at preſent upon Conſideration of the Settlement of the Kingdom; and doubted not to ſatisfie all. The Commons being upon Debate of the Petition, the Country Foot in Weſtminſter Hall, or ruder ſort of them, annimated by ſome diſaffected, and ſome of them fluſht in Drink, fell into Mutiny with the Soldiers, diſarmed two or three upon the Guard, and one was killed, before any of the Petitioners was hurt; whereupon more Horſe and Foot were ſent for from the Mews and Whitehall, to ſuppreſs the Tumult, and clear the Guards, ſo that no Force might be put upon the Houſe, which the Soldiers did accordingly; but in this Commotion many were hurt, and ſome ſlain.

Of the Affairs of Ireland, and more particularly of the Province of Munſter, by Letters from Kinſale, is given to underſtand, “That the Lord Inchiquin, and thoſe that have adhered to him, act all things in that Province as yet with great Privacy; his Lordſhip had a meeting lately with the Lord Taaffe at Dungarvan, to conclude a Ceſſation, which it's believed is finiſhed, though not publiſhed; it's to be for four Months: The Lord Inchiquin is to have the three Counties of Waterford, Kerrey and Cork; the Lord Taaffe and his Forces to have Limerick, Clare and Tipperary; to this the Supream Council and Clergy Roman will not conſent; the Soldiers of the Lord Inchiquin are all upon free Quarter. My Lord Craford is landed at Waterford; he comes from Spain, and is to move my Lord Inchiquin for Soldiers, for which Favour, it's ſaid, he parts with a good Sum.

Particular Account of the Affairs of Ireland.

Wedneſday, May 17.

THis was Thankſgiving-day for the Victory in Wales, which was punctually obſerved by the Houſes, but very ſlightly in the City.

The Houſe this day ſitting after the Sermons, Ordered, ‘That the Lord Mayor and Common-Council of the City of London ſhould be deſired not to ſuffer any multitudes of People to paſs through the City, upon any pretence whatſoever; and that they ſuffer none to come in Armed, but to take care for the diſarming of them, and that they give Orders to their Guards to this purpoſe.

The Lord Mayor, &c. to take care to prevent Tumults.

And becauſe all theſe Tumults and Troubles do chiefly ariſe by the Malignant Party, now in the City and Suburbs, by their Craft and Induſtry, endeavouring to Engage County after County, and to poiſon the well-meaning People here, and in other parts of the Kingdom to a new War;

They Ordered, “That the Ordinance for putting Delinquents, Papiſts, Malignants, &c. out of the late Lines of Communication, and within Twenty Miles of London, ſhould be renewed for Six Months longer, and a ſtrict courſe taken for putting this Ordinance in execution effectually.

Ordinance for baniſhing Delinquents out of the Lines of Communication to be renewed.

The Houſe Ordered, ‘That the Ordinance for relieving well-affected Tennants againſt Delinquent Landlords ſhould be read on Saturday Morning next.

Ordinance for Delinquent Landlords to be read.

The Houſe further Ordered, “That the Committees of the County of Kent and Surry ſhould take effectual care to prevent all Tumultuary proceedings in thoſe Counties, let them be upon what pretence ſoever, to the end the Peace of the Kingdom may be kept, and not to involve our ſelves in a new War by the deceit of the Malignant Party.

Committees of Kent to ſuppreſs Tumults.

The Houſe Ordered, “That the Rioters of the City ſhould be ſpeedily brought to their Trial, and that an Account thereof be given to the Houſe.

Rioters of the City to be Tried.

The Houſe was informed that one Captain Nichols was at the door with Letters from Colonel Horton in Wales; he was called in, and gave the Houſe an Account of the late Fight and Victory over all Powel's and Laughorn's, and all other Forces in Wales.

Capt. Nichols brought Account of the late Fight in Wales.

The Houſe Ordered, Captain Nichols, who brought the laſt Letter from Colonel Horton, ſhould have an Hundred Pounds for bringing this confirmation of that great Victory.

To have 100 l. for his pains

Scandalous Pamphlet, in Eſſex; the Author and Printer to be puniſhed.

The Houſe was informed of a ſcandalous, feigned and falſe Pamphlet, written by Malignants, Entituled, The Engagement and Declaration of the Grand Jury, Free-holders, and other Inhabitants of the County of Eſſex, in proſecution of their late Petition. They Ordered, "That the 'Printer and Author thereof ſhould be ſeverey puniſhed, if they could 'be ſound; and gave order for the finding them out.

Account of General Cromwel's marching into Wales.

Of the March and Proceed of Lieutenant-General Cromwel, from Chepſtow, by Letters May 15. is thus written: 'Wedneſday the 10*th*, 'we came to Monmouth; the next day we marched to Chepſtow, which 'the Enemy underſtanding, drew forth what Horſe they had, which with 'Gentlemen and others were about 40, and about 100 Foot. We marched up towards the Town, and found the Walls well lined with Muſqueteers; but the Soldiers of Colonel Pride's Regiment went on ſo deſperately, that preſently the Gate was taken, and ſo the Town and a 'good number of priſoners; ſome fled to the Caſtle, which makes thoſe 'before in it 150. A Summons was ſent them, which they ſlighted, and 'ſhot at the Drmmer. The next night we attempted to force the Gate, 'but that a great Rain hindred; at which time Major Gregſon, Colonel 'Pride's Major, by a ſtone recived a dangerous wound in the Head, 'and Four or Five more Common Soldiers alſo hurt: The Caſtle is 'ſtrong, and victualled for a Month, Guns and Battering-pieces are 'ſent for from Briſtol and Glouceſter; and Colonel Ewer is left with Seven Companies of Foot, and Two Troops of Horſe to gain the place: 'The Lieutenant-General, with his own, and Colonel Thornhanch's Regiments of Horſe, Colonel Pride's and Colonel Dean's Regiments of 'Foot, are marching for Pembrokeſhire, and will to morrow Night have 'his head-Quarters at Cardiffe.

Thurſday, May 18.

By Letters this day from Saint Edmonds-Bury was certified, That the late Mutiny there is appeaſed, as by the Letter following;

May 17. Letter concerning the Mutiny at St. Edmonds-Bury.

ON Friday laſt here began a great Combuſtion in this Town about ſetting up of a May-pole, which grew to that height, that by Saturday 6 or 700 Men were gotten into Arms, ſome of them cried out, For God and King Charles; and began to lay hold on ſome Soldiers which were in Town, and ſet Guards in ſeveral places, pretending they were in fear that the Soldiers would come in upon them and diſarm them; ſome of thoſe which ſtood for the Parliament were forced to leave the Town and their Goods, to ſhift for themſelves and go away to Friends in the Country. To appeaſe this Combuſtion, ſome Troops of Horſe which were Quartered in theſe parts, were drawn before the Town; and finding the Townſmen well armed, and in a poſture of Defence, they kept in a body before the Town all that Night: The next day many Country Foot joined with them; by reaſon whereof they in the Town were kept in on every ſide; and when they perceived they had brought themſelves into a ſtraight, and had no means to recover themſelves, but by ſubmiſſion, deſired a Parley, which was granted; and for want of better Conditions, (for indeed they could obtain no other) they yielded to Mercy; and how much this will conduce to ſecuring them from what they pretended to be the greateſt part of their fear, (viz) the loſing of their Arms, I leave to your Judgment. However, we hope the Event will be the Peace and Quiet of the Town, which I hope is that which other places look after. We hear, That the Trained-Bands in Eſſex had ſome Meetings the laſt week, and intend a General Rendezvous ſhortly. I pray God things may be for the beſt.

A Letter this day came to the Houſe from the Prince Elector, deſiring, his Brother Prince Philip may have leave to raiſe ſome Voluntiers in this Kingdom for Foreign Service, upon the Conditions herein mentioned.

Prince Philip has leave to raiſe 1000 Foot for the ſervice of Venice.

The Houſe hereupon Ordered, “That Prince Philip ſhould have “leave to raiſe 1000 Foot Voluntiers for the ſervice of Venice, upon the “Terms mentioned in the Prince Elector’s Letter.

The Houſe this day Ordered, “To keep the Monthly Faſt, on Wednesday “come Sevenight, Solemnly in their own houſe; and that “Mr. Whitacres be deſired to Preach before them on that day in the Houſe of Commons.

The Houſe had the Report of a deſperate Deſign of the Malignant Party, in the City of London and Suburbs, who have entred themſelves into an Oath of Secrecy, and have Liſted many Thouſand Horſe and Foot; many of theſe Men being already diſcovered. Their aim is to deſtroy both City and Parliament; Presbyterian and Independent; and what they could not get by Seven years War, they expect to recover by this horrid and bloody deſign againſt the Parliament and City.

The Houſe, in order to the Supreſſion and Prevention of this, Ordered, “That the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council-men of “the City of London, ſhould have notice of this Deſign.

“That the Committee of the ſeveral Militias of London and the Suburbs “thereof, ſhould be required to put all their Militias into a “poſture of Defence.

That

An. 1648.

'That the Officers that acted and do act by Commiſſions from the old Militia, ſhould be required ſtill to act till ſuch time as they ſhall be removed, to the end that this Deſign may be the better prevented.

They further Ordered, 'That the Keepers of the ſeveral Priſons in the City and Suburbs, ſhould be required ſtrictly to ſecure their Priſoners.

A Committee was appointed to acquaint the City with what they have done in relation to the deſires of the City, touching the ſetling the Militia, and to deſire, 'That the City would anſwer all Favours with Love and true Affection, to the end, all Jealouſies may be removed.

A Committee was appointed, to conſider of drawing ſome Heads to be offered to the City of London for a Union and good Correſpondency to be had between the Parliament and City, to the end both may join againſt the Common Enemy, who is now ſo active and violent.

For Sir Thomas Peyton.

The General's Anſwer.

SIR,

I Received by a Trumpet from you, whereby a Paſs was deſired for ſome Gentlemen to come to me, as Commiſſioners from your ſelf and others, to Treat according to Order of Parliament; to which, not knowing of any ſuch Order of Parliament to me, nor any Authority from Parliament to you, or the reſt with you, to appoint Commiſſioners for ſuch a Purpoſe, I could not make any Anſwer to any ſuch Overture. But it hath given me occaſion to ſend this Bearer herewith unto you, deſiring you to ſignify thus much to thoſe Gentlemen, and others your Countrymen with you, That whereas I find them gathered together in Arms, and perſiſting therein without, and againſt the Authority of Parliament, and doing many Acts of Hoſtility, to the great Damage of their Neighbours in this County, and Diſturbance of the Peace thereof; I cannot admit of Treaty or Capitulation with them, while ſo perſiſting in their Arms and Hoſtility, nor looſe time in Proſecution of them. But if they ſhall forthwith lay down their Arms, and diſperce themſelves to their ſeveral Homes, I do not doubt but the Mercy of the Parliament will be extended to the Eſtates and Lives of thoſe many amongſt them, who ſhall appear to have been Abuſed and Deluded into this Rebellion, and their Juſtice againſt ſuch only as ſhall appear to have been the Cheif and moſt Eminent Actors and Fomentors thereof, and that chiefly for Example to others, and Neceſſary Preparations for the Damages already here.

This day we had further from Kent, That thoſe in Arms there had ſent a ſecond ſubtil Letter to the General, in Anſwer to that from the General, we gave you before; and it is as followeth; Kentiſh Gentlemen's Anſwer to the General's Letter.

My Lord,

THE Laws of Nature are Univerſal and Perpetual, among which that of Self-Preſervation is one; you have declared as much; judge if it be not: We have taken taken up Arms to defend our ſelves; and Providence hath now bleſſed us with a Power to do it, which we cannot relinquiſh but with Forfeiture of our Reaſon and Honour; we invade not your Right, but ſtand firm to ſecure our own, and ſo to do is neither Tumult nor Rebellion. You are pleaſed to hold out Conditions of uncertain Mercy to the People, and withal affix Menaces of an Exemplary and Poſitive Proſecution upon the Principals: To this, we muſt aſſure you too, Sir, it is but one Soul which informs this great Body, and we are determined to ſtand and fall together, being rendred incapable of any Fear, ſave only of Relapſing into our former Slavery: We need no other Arguments (than what the fair Manage of this Buſineſs afford) to teſtifie our Love to Peace; if your ſelf ſtand ſo inclined alſo, be pleaſed rather to make this County a Friend, than an Enemy. As to the Petition, we hope it will be ſeaſonably Conſidered of. We are,

Your Servants.

Farther Account of the Kent Proceedings at large.

Out of Kent came farther this day to this purpoſe: 'On Wedneſday in May laſt, his Excellency, with four Regiments of Horſe and three of Foot, with ſome looſe Companies of Colonel Ingoldſby's Regiment, marched from Eltham (where they lay in the Fields thereabouts the night before) to Craford Heath, where the ſaid Forces were drawn up to a Rendezvous, and after that marched through Dartmouth, and then drew up on an Heath two Miles from the Town, where his Excellency had Intelligence, That a Party of Kentiſh had fortifyed and barracadoed a Bridge which led to Graveſend: A Commanded Party was ſent forth under the Conduct of Major Husbands, about 300 horſe, who mounted about 100 foot behind them: When they drew towards the Bridge, the Enemy fired thick upon them; our men notwithſtanding fell on, and the Horſe ſwam through the Water, and ſo got over; by this time the Enemy perceiving in what Danger they were, fled: Major Child who Commanded them, and was very active, hardly eſcaped, having his Horſe ſhot, whereupon he forſook it; his Son was ſhot in the Back, and taken. There were about 20 ſlain in the Place, divers wounded, and 30 taken Priſoners; many eſcaped, by hiding themſelves in the Corn-Feilds and Houſes. The Enemy's Party conſiſted of the Country-men thereabouts, the Seamen, and ſome London Apprentices: One Mr. Phips was very active, in ſetting on the Country-men.

'After this, Major Husbands advanced with a Party two or three miles beyond Graveſend, and had afterwards Orders to march to Maulin, towards which the Army marches this morning from Mapham, a very ſmall Village, (where the Lord General quartered laſt night, and his Forces about it in the Feilds) and will make an Halt near Maulin, where Orders will be given out. His Excellency has ſent forth a Proclamation, For the Prevention of Diſorders in Soldiers, or the taking of Plunder in their March, Horſes or Goods, and to reſtore what have been ſo taken. There are very few Men to be ſeen in the Towns through which we march, but only the Women making ſad Moan, fearing the ill Succeſs their Husbands are like to have. The Enemy are very numerous, given out to be Ten thouſand at leaſt, amongſt which a great part Cavaliers. Their principal Ringleaders are, Sir Gamaliel Dudley, Sir George Liſle, Sir William Compton, Sir Robert Tracy, Palmer*, 'Eſquire Hales, reported to be General, Sir James Hales, Sir William 'Many, Sir John Dorrell, Sir Thomas Godfrey, Sir Richard Hardreſſe, Co- 'lonel Waſhington, Colonel Hammond, Colonel L'Eſtrange, Colonel Cul- 'pepper, Colonel Hacker, Mr. James Dorrell, Mr. George Newman, once a 'Colonel for the Parliament, and Mr. Whelton, Treaſurer for the Parlia- 'ment.

Sir Ric. Hardreſſe forced by Major Gibbon to retreat to Canterbury.

'Major Gibbon, in the Relief of Dover Caſtle, hath forced Sir Richard 'Hardreſſe to retreat to Canterbury, who laid Siege to that Place; and 'this day we hope to be over the River at Maidſtone or Aylesford, and to 'force the Enemy to fight or ſwim, for we have left a ſtrong Party of 'Horſe, Foot, and Dragoons, to make good the Paſs at Rocheſter, whilſt 'we fall on the other ſide the River, and make good Maidſtone and 'Aylesford. Major Gibbons lies towards Dover, ſo they have nothing but 'the Sea to fly to.

Narrative of the Senſe of the Houſe upon the City Petitions reported.

THE Committee, yeſterday appointed to give a Narrative of the Senſe and Reſolutions of the Houſe upon the City Petitions, made a Report this day to the Houſe of what they had done in order to that Buſineſs, and of the Anſwer of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council thereunto, which was to this purpoſe: 'That the Lord 'Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council of the City of London, did 'return their humble Thanks to the Parliament for the ſending a Com- 'mittee to them, to acquaint them with the Overtures of Favour they 'have made to the Petitioners of the County of Kent, do acknowledge 'their great Patience, and their low Condeſcention towards them. Secondly, That they were ſo fully ſatisfied in what had been delivered to them from the ſaid Committee, in relation to the Clemency of the Parliament, the Houſe Ordered, 'That this Narrative of the 'Common-Council, and Committees Anſwer thereunto, ſhould be both 'Printed, that the Kingdom might take notice of the good Underſtand- 'ing there is between the Parliament and City, and how far both are 'ſenſible of the Deſigns of the Publick and Common Enemy, and their 'Endeavour to bring a ſecond War upon this Kingdom, to the Ruine of 'us and our Poſterity.

And ordered to be Printed.

The 3 Bills to be preſented to His Majeſty, ſhould be ſent to the Parliament of Scotland.

The Houſe Ordered, 'That the three Bills to be preſented to His Ma- 'jeſty ſhould be ſent to our Commiſſioners in Scotland, and to be by 'them communicated to the Parliament of Scotland, that ſo both King- 'doms may go on in a Brotherly Union, and by that means join againſt 'the Common Enemy in Proſecution of our Solemn League and Cove- 'nant, and according to the Laudable Cuſtom of the Kirk of Scotland.

Falſe Reports from Kent.

Strange were the Reports ſpread abroad by Malignants this day about the Buſineſs of Kent; but towards night came Letters to the Speaker, and other Members of Parliament, which informed the Truth of all, much contrary to what ſome would have had, as by the Letter following (not before Publiſhed) from a Perſon of Credit, you may have at large.

A Letter from Kent of an Account of Affairs there.

Honoured Sir,

I Could not, in Proſecution of my former Promiſe to you, omit any Oportunity of ſatisfying you of the Tranſactions or Engagements of this Army, eſpecially at this time, when ſo deſperate a Diſpute has been between us and a Potent Enemy in this County of Kent; where the Lord has appeared as much for us as at any Time or Place ſince the beginning of this War in this Kingdom. I ſhall not keep you longer from the thing ſo much expected, but in ſhort give you a perfect and breif Relation of the whole Buſineſs: On Thurſday the firſt of June, our Army marched towards Rocheſter, where by the way we found a Paſſage over a Bridge near Norfleet, maintained by about 600 foot, whereof Major Child had Command; His Excellency commanded out a Party of 200 Horſe, and 100 foot mounted behind them, Major Husbands having the Command of them; and after ſome Diſpute we gained the Paſs, and the Enemy fled, about 20 being killed, and 30 taken Priſoners; after this we marched in a full Body, expecting that the Enemy would have looked back, or fought with us before they advanced to Rocheſter, having a Body of 6000 Foot and 1000 Horſe (an equal number with ours) to engage with us; but we found that the Lord had ſtruck them with the Spirit of Fear, for they fled before us. Hereupon His Excellency, and the Council of War, reſolved not to loſe any time in Diſpatch of this great Buſineſs in relation to the whole Kingdom; and in Proſecution thereof advanced with his whole Army towards Maidſtone, which could not be expected, having taken ſuch long Marches before, and both Horſe and Foot lay in Fields much neceſſitated; and after we had paſſed over the River, 3 miles from Rocheſter up the River, the head Quarter was intended this night at Maidſtone: His Excellency had then Intimation, that 2000 of the Enemies were quartered at a paſs; a commanded Party was drawn out to force their Entrance into this Town; at which the Enemy prepared a Defence, and in order thereunto had 1000 Horſe and Foot brought in for their Aſſiſtance. About ſeven of the Clock this Evening, Orders were given out for the ſtorming of Maidſtone, and after ſome Exhortation was given to the Soldiers to prepare them for this great and deſperate Service, they began to ſhout and with much Violence to Storm; but contrary to Expectation we found as reſolute an Oppoſition from the Horſe; Yet after a ſmall Diſpute we forced Entrance into this Town, and then we thought the Diffiuclty of this Service was over. But by this time the Enemy had drawn in 800 more to their Aſſiſtance, under the Command of Sr. William Brockman, which made them up compleat 2000, and had ſo lined the Streets in the ſeveral Houſes, and had placed ſo much Caſe-ſhot in every Street, that the Buſineſs became very diſputable till almoſt 12 at Night; the like Service, though I have been a Member of this Army ever ſince the firſt going out, and have ſeen deſperate Services in ſeveral Stormings, I have not ſeen before; for every Street in the Town was got by Inches: But the Lord, who hath fought all our Battles for us, and hath appeared for this Army in all Streights and Difficulties, compleated this Victory for us, and made us Maſters and Conquerors over our Enemies. We find the Number of the ſlain to be 200 and upwards, and, according to the Computation of our Officers, we have not loſt above 40 at the utmoſt, amongſt which no Officer of Quality, but the truely Valiant and Religious Captain Price; the Number of Priſoners taken amounts to 1400 and upwards, with 400 Horſe, and 2000 Arms compleat. In this ſelected Brigade we find few or none to be Countrymen, but many of them of the King's Party, and Men of Quality, ſome Seamen, and the reſt Apprentices and Watermen that came from London, and thereabouts. The Enemy drew out of Rocheſter in a main Body within two Miles and a half of this Place; To anſwer which, His Excellency drew forth three Regiments of Horſe and one of Foot, the better to ſecure thoſe that ſtormed, but they ſtayed at that Diſtance till the whole Buſineſs was diſputed; His Excellency, tho' much diſabled by Indiſpoſition of Health, and a Goutiſh Humour fallen into his right Foot, could not be prevail'd with to remain with the Body in the Field, but mounted and expoſed himſelf to great Danger, being one of the firſt in this Action. I might ſpeak much of the Commendations of our Officers and Soldiers in this Service, and the rather, becauſe our Enemies were truly Valiant; but being a Member of this Army, I ſhall omit it, and deſire that your ſelf, and all thoſe that love the Lord of Hoſts truly, would join with us in giving Praiſes to him; Which is the Deſire of,

Your very loving Friend.

A Letter from the General, giving an Account of the Defence of the Kentiſh Men.

THE Houſe this day had a Letter from His Excellency, concerning the defeating of the Kentiſh Men at Maidſtone; and that the Enemy had ſince quitted Rocheſter, and the General poſſeſſed thereof; and the very Women of the Town being ſo much enraged againſt the Cavaliers that they ſhould engage their Husbands to Ruine, that they would well near have beaten them out, if they had ſtayed longer. The Defeat at Maidſtone quite broke the neck of their Deſign, the Countrymen after that leaving them apace and returning home. Upon their quitting of Rocheſter, ſome Thouſands of them Horſe and Foot, with Goring in the Head, took their March towards London, thinking a great part of the City and County of Eſſex would join with them, but none came: The General appointed 500 Horſe to purſue after them, and how bravely they behaved themſelves in diſperſing that Rout, you ſhall hear before we end.

The Miniſters of the City ordered to return Thanks to God for this Succeſs.

The Houſe hereupon Ordered, “That to morrow, being Sunday, Thanks ſhould be given to Almighty God for this great and ſeaſonable Victory over the Enemy, by the Forces under the Command of His Excellency the Lord Fairfax at Maidſtone in Kent, in all the Pariſh Churches in London and Weſtminſter; and that the Lord Mayor do give notice to all the ſaid Churches accordingly.

Meſſengers rewarded for bringing good News.

The three Meſſengers of His Excellency to the Committee at Derby Houſe, had good Gratuities beſtowed upon them, for bringing this good News.

Two Letters from thoſe of Kent to the Lord Mayor &c. deſiring aſſiſtance.

The Letters communicated to the Houſe.

Two Letters this day came from the chief Ringleaders and the Yeomen of Kent; directed to the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common-Council of the City of London; deſiring Aſſiſtance and Aſſociation with them. The City would do nothing upon it, but acquainted the Parliament with the Letters.

And the Lord Mayor had Thanks returned

The Houſe hereupon Ordered, “That the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council Men, ſhould have the Thanks of the Houſe for communicating theſe Letters to them, and for that they had done nothing in Anſwer or Satisfaction thereunto.

The Eleven Members diſcharged.

The Houſe then conſidered of the Buſineſs of the Eleven Members, and the Aldermen of the City in the Tower; and Ordered,

‘That the Votes, whereby Denzil Hollis, Sir John Maynard Knight, Sir William Waller Knight, Sir William Lewis Knight, Colonel Edward Maſſey, Sir John Clotworthy Knight, Anthony Nicolls Eſq; and Walter Long Eſq; ſtand accuſed by this Houſe, be fully diſcharged.

The Aldermen likewiſe.

‘That the Votes whereby Alderman Gayer, Langham, and Bunce, ſtand accuſed by this Houſe, be fully diſcharged.

And alſo the Lords.

‘That the Votes whereby the Lord Willoughby of Parham, Earls of Lincoln, Suffolk, Middleſex, Berkly, Hunſdon and Maynard ſtand accuſed by this Houſe, be fully diſcharged.

Letter of Thanks to be ſent to the General, and thoſe under his Command.

‘That a Letter of Thanks be ſent to His Excellency, and the Officers and Soldiers under his Command, for their great Service and Valour at Maidſtone.

Goring come to Black-heath.

Sunday, came farther Intelligence. ‘That Goring and the Rebel-Rout, were come on Saturday night to Black-heath; but found the Bait they ſent to the City would not take, and which was worſe, the Countrymen with them much divided, and had no mind to engage farther; or that Goring would be their General. In this nick of time, a ſmall Party of the General's Horſe came within ſight of the Enemy, and being ſtruck

‘with Fear and Terror, cried out preſently, before a Stroke ſtruck, ſhift for your ſelves; and all diſperſed and fled, ſome one way, ſome another. The General's Horſe came on, and took great ſtore of Priſoners and good Pillage. Goring, with about 4 or 500 of the chief, fled to Greenwich; and in Poſt haſte, in Lighters and Boats, ferried over the Water for Eſſex (as they cryed) whilſt ſome in haſte were forced to ſwim, and many of them drowned; ſome Seamen and Watermen ſeeing them in this haſte, ſet upon them and took many Priſoners and good Pillage. In this manner the whole Rout were diſperſt; thoſe fled to Eſſex are purſued by the General's Horſe, and Kent you will hear with the other Counties in a day or two wholly quieted.

Letter from the General, of proceedings in Kent

THIS day a Letter was read in both Houſes, from His Excellency the Lord Fairfax of the whole Proceedings in Kent; which we omit, becauſe the ſubſtance of it is already related.

Capt. Price's Arrears to be paid to his Widow, and 200 l. more.

The Houſe of Commons, upon reading His Excellency's Letter, with certain papers incloſed, taken from the Enemy at Maidſtone, and diſcovering all the Deſigns of the Enemy againſt the Parliament, City, and Kingdom; alſo His Excellencie's Recommendation of the Caſe of Captain Price his Widow, he having loſt his life in the ſaid Service; the Houſe Ordered, That the Arrears of the ſaid late Captain Price, ſhould be paid to his Widow, and 200 l. more unto her, for maintenance of her ſelf and her Children.

Thanks to be returned to the General, and his Letter ordered to be printed.

The Houſe alſo Ordered, To give His Excellency Thanks for his great Service, and further Ordered this Letter to be printed, and ſome Obſervations to be made upon it; that the People may ſee how much they are deceived and ſeduced by the malignant Party. An Ordinance for ſettling the Militia of Cornwal and Devon was this day read and aſſented unto. A Meſſage this day came from the Lords, That their Lordſhips intended to diſcharge the ſeven Lords, Committed upon the Charge at the Houſe of Commons, on Wedneſday next; unleſs the Houſe of Commons before that time, would prove their Charge againſt them.

The Lord Goring Voted a Rebel.

The Houſe this day Voted the Lord Goring a Rebel, for raiſing Forces in Kent and Eſſex, againſt the Parliament and Kingdom; and for deluding the poor Countrymen ſo to do: The Houſe Ordered, “That it ſhould be referred to a Committee of the North, to continue ſuch Garriſons in the North as they ſhould think fit; notwithſtanding any former or particular Order for ſlighting of Garriſons.

Goring and his Party near Bow.

Some ſlight skirmiſhing betwixt the Scouts.

An Act of Indemnity excepting Goring

Goring, and the reſt that fled with him out of Kent into Eſſex, we underſtood this day, hath by falſe ſuggeſtion againſt the Parliament, prevailed with the diſcontented Party in Eſſex, to join with him; they lie about Stratford, Langton, and Bow; Colonel Whaley at Mileſend. Some ſlight Skirmiſhing hath been betwixt the Scouts only; and, if it may be, to prevent farther Bloodſhed, the Houſes thought fit, in Favour of the deluded Multitude, to grant them an Act of Indemnity (excepting Goring and that Party) if they ſhall forthwith lay down Arms and go home; which paſſed both Houſes this day, and was ſent unto them by ſome Members of Parliament for that County.

Affairs of Scotland much diſtracted.

By Letters from Scotland this day is certified, “That the Affairs of that Kingdom are at preſent much diſtracted, and the great Army ſo much talked of, not like to be raiſed as intended: In Tividale was lately a great Convention of Lords, Knights, and Barons, with moſt of Great Meetings at Tividale to petition the Parliament for ſatisfaction to their Propoſitions.

'the Gentry of Tividale and Marſe, about raiſing Men; at which appeared, out of four Presbiteries, divers Miniſters and Elders, on behalf of the reſpective Pariſhes; who preſented their Petitions, That the Parliament would give ſatisfactory Anſwer to their Eight Propoſitions, and until that be done, to proceed no further in an Engagement. Great Diſputes were, but at laſt it was carried, That they would petition the Parliament according to the Miniſters Deſires; and it was Ordered, That the Petitions ſhould be compared, whether they all tended to the ſame thing; and when Two diſaffected to the Church were named for that Work, there aroſe a new Debate; and upon the Queſtion, they were forbidden, and two others appointed for known Integrity; which gave great Content to the godly People, and ſo enraged the other, that in a deep Diſcontent hanging down their heads, they rode out of Town with a drooping Company; Relſoe hath petioned the Committee, tho' againſt the Lord Roxborow: Fife and Angus will not raiſe a Man, but by way of oppoſition, have put themſelves in a poſture of Defence. Argile and other Shires do the like; and this backwardneſs ariſeth, as for other Reaſons, ſo chiefly becauſe Duke Hamilton is General; it's believed the preſent Force continued to this time will not disband until they have their Arrears. The Miniſters preach here violently againſt the War; Mr. Galapſey and others, as a great Breach of Covenant, with other Expreſſions; divers Miniſters are choſen to go to Edinburg, to ſolicite their Petitions.

Berwick and Carliſle ſupplied with Arms from Scotland.

From Newcaſtle June 1. came thus, "The great Differences in Scotland doth retard, yet not like to hinder any Armies coming for England, yet too much Encouragement is taken, that there comes not Force enough from Parliament to ſuppreſs the Engliſh together under Langdale; that the Deſign goes on, appears in that Berwick and Carliſle is ſupplied with Arms and other things from Scotland: Lord Lauderdale ſent lately 22 Horſe-load into Berwick; it's conceived they are well Armed in Cumberland; a Party from thence laſt Friday, took Major Shafto with 16 of his Men: He was raiſing a Troop of Horſe about Beywell; theſe were ſurpriſed by Colonel Carnaby and others of the Country that knew the way to them. The Major is carried Priſoner to Carliſle; this is a great diſcouragement to others that were Arming; Langdale had Muſters about Heturſel and Grimdon, and News is come, that his main Body will Quarter at Heman this night or to morrow; they come whither they will, or go whither they will, nothing comes to us wherewith to oppoſe them.

The Scots in Ireland expected in Scotland.

The Scots in Ireland are daily expected; Money is ſent to fetch them; the Parliament at Edinburgh ſits again, great Matters are expected; which way things will ſtir is uncertain, Marquiſs Hamilton 'tis expected will lay down his Commiſſion; and the Lord Leven be choſen General again, but not to fight againſt England without better Ground; Colonel Lilburn, now with Major General Lambert, going towards the Quarters of Sir Marmaduke Langdale, faced a conſiderable Party of them, but they had no mind to engage. Lancaſhire ſtands firm for the Parliament; Graydan, Lord Roxborow's Creature, and our Engliſh General Erington, have brought two Troops of Scots Horſe on this ſide Tweed. We are here in great fears both from Scotland and Langdale, and expect they will come with Armies into this Country within this Week; the People generally are much troubled to ſee no help from Parliament, and yet how could it well be otherwiſe, ſince the Diſtempers have been ſo great in the South. Lord Argile is gone to a Caſtle which he is Captain of, not having a mind to truſt himſelf at Parliament. The Parliament have ſummoned his Return, and if he comes not, it's like they will proceed againſt him. Langdale is ſtill eſtimated about 8000, he wants Money, and begins to weary his Friends, which will put him upon a ſudden Remove.

Langdale eſtimat.d about 8000.

Ordinance for ſequeſtring Papiſts Eſtates debated.

THE Houſe of Commons this day had much Debate about an Ordinance, for ſequeſtrating the Eſtates of Papiſts and Delinquents, in the Counties of North-Wales, and Monmouth, which was read twice and Committed.

Pontefract Caſtle ſurprized

The Houſe was informed, That the Caſtle of Pontefract in Yorkſhire was ſurprized by the Enemy in the North, by a Deſign of about 20 Men that came with Corn, with Frocks upon them, under pretence to relieve and victual the Caſtle; who having Arms under their Frocks, ſeized upon their main Guard, having acted likewiſe with ſome of the Guard, and had a Party that lay in Ambuſcado near hand; before the reſt of the Forces could receive the Alarm, the Enemies Party entred. Upon this the Houſe Ordered, "That it ſhould be referred to the Committee at Derby Houſe, to conſider of the ſpeedy ſending ſome of the Forces in Wales into the Northern parts.

The Spaniſh Ambaſſador deſired to forbear making Bonefires.

The Houſe was informed by the Militia of the City of London, That the Spaniſh Ambaſſador Reſident in London, by reaſon of ſome late Victories in Spain, had appointed Bonefires to be made, which would occaſion too much reſort of Malignants and diſcontented Perſons, who have endeavoured to make Tumults and Mutinies, to the great endangering of the Parliament and City. The Houſe hereupon Ordered, That the Spaniſh Ambaſſador ſhould be deſired, to forbear the cauſing of any Bonefires to be made, upon any Victory or Pretence whatſoever, in theſe tumultuous and riotous Times, till the Peace of the Kingdom be better ſettled. The Houſe Ordered, That the Garriſon of Leverpool ſhould be taken into pay, and provided for as the reſt of the Garriſons of the Kingdom; for which purpoſe it was referred to the Commiteee of the Army.

Three Propoſitions to His Majeſty debated.

The Lords reſolve to proceed no farther againſt the Impeached Lords.

Ordinance for the ſequeſtring the Eſtates of Langhorne, Powel, and Poyer, read and Committed

The Houſe then, according to former Order, took into Conſideration the three Propoſitions to be preſented to His Majeſty, in relation to the Treaty, which took up much time; and the three Propoſitions to be communicated to the Kingdom of Scotland for their Concurrence; and who were deſired to draw up Propoſitions for themſelves, in order to theſe three. The Lords concurred with the Commons, and reſolved not to proceed any farther againſt the Seven Impeached Lords, Eleven Commons, and the Aldermen in the Tower; and Ordered them all to be diſcharged. An Ordinance was read the ſecond time and Committed, for ſequeſtration of the Eſtates of Langhorne, Powel, Poyer; and proceeding againſt them, and other Delinquents in Wales.

Intelligence from Rocheſter

Letters from Rocheſter give to underſtand, that the General is yet there; hath ſent Colonel Rich with a Party to raiſe the Siege at Dover; yet continued notwithſtanding the Defeat of the Army; make no doubt alſo to clear Deal and Sandwich, and ſo clear all before he ſtirs; having an Eye likewiſe to Eſſex, if they accept not the Indempnity and go home.

The Reducement of Wales, more difficult than expected.

From the Leaguer before Pembroke June 1. was thus certified; The reducement of Wales, hath proved more difficult than expected; the Towns and Caſtles of Tenby and Pembroke being Places of worth, equal to any in England, well provided of all things. Concerning Tenby and Pembroke, the firſt beſieged by Twelve hundred Foot of Colonel Overton's Regiment, Commanded in chief by Lieutenant Colonel Read; where is alſo Major Wade, and two Companies of Colonel Conſtable's Regiment, whoſe Deportment in this Enterprize deſerves great Commendation, Reward, and real Thanks, as well as verbal; ſtormed the Subburbs of Tenby five Nights ſince, took Twenty Horſe, killed ſome: Yeſterday Morning the Town and Caſtle was ſurrendred upon Mercy of the Parliament, a Breach being made in the Wall; and Town adhering, ſeeing nothing but Ruine, brought the deſperate Officers and Country Gentlemen to a Compliance; thoſe Officers and Gentlemen Priſoners are, Colonel Rice Powel, Colonel Richard Dunvel, Captain Vaughan, Edward Hemeys, Henry Vaughan, Captain Arny, Captain Beale, Captain Addes, Mr. Culpepper, Lieutenant Smith, Henry Penry, Lewis Buans, Thomas Jeſſet, Richard Liſon, Jo. Thomas, Jo. Stump, Jo. Braſier, George Loveday, Robert Starden, Thomas Reynolds, Simon Sway. The Town and Caſtle was able to have held out ten Weeks longer, having Food ſufficient, 300 common Men, 35 Guns mounted, 12 Barrels of Powder, 2 Tuns of Match.

Pembroke beſieged.

For Pembroke, beſieged by Lieutenant General Cromwel, with Colonel Pride's Regiment of Foot, Colonel Dean's and Colonel Horton's Horſe, part of Colonel Scroop's and Colonel Okey's Dragoons, hath in it, beſides what Poyer hath in the Caſtle, Three hundred Horſe, and many Foot. To this Siege there was fetcht from the Lyon, a Ship of the Parliaments riding in Milford Haven, Two Drakes, Two Demy-Culverins, and Two whole Culverins, when but two of them being planted, were let off againſt the Caſtle; at the ſame time was ſtormed a Village juſt under the South-Gate of the Town, which keeps both Horſe and Foot in the Town and Caſtle, that a Man dare not ſtand upon the Caſtle-Wall to ſhoot, without a Blind; which Poyer perceiving, pulled in his red Flag. The Horſe in the Town make deſperate Sallies, but not without Command of their Guns, and beaten in, not without loſs on both ſides; their Rage is ſo much the greater, becauſe deſiring to come out, it would not be granted, but upon Mercy. And beſides, they cannot get the leaſt Pile of Graſs, but are conſtrained to pull down the Thatch of Houſes for their Horſes,: They give no Quarter to our Dragoons, nor our Dragoons to them; our Batteries will be finiſhed this Night; the Forces before Tenby come up to us, it will then be a round Siege, and we hope to give you a good Account of this Town, and to leave ſuddenly the Counties in good Devotion to Parliament; which will no doubt continue, if they be ſevere enough to the Ringleaders, to whom the People are pure Slaves. Major General Langhorn is in Pembroke.

Wedneſday, June 7. 1648.

The Draught of a Letter from the Aſſembly of Divines, to be ſent to Scotland, preſented to the Parliament for their Approbation.

THE Houſe was informed, That many of the Aſſembly were at the Door; they were called in, and preſented to the Houſe the draught of the Letter to be ſent from the Aſſembly here to the Aſſembly in Scotland, to ſtrengthen the Amity and Union of both Kingdoms, and deſired the Approbation of the Houſe thereunto. The Houſe had ſome Debate upon this congratulatory Letter, and paſt a Vote for their Approbation.

The Houſe was informed, That ſome of the County of Berks had Intentions to make Reading a Garriſon again. The Houſe hereupon Ordered, 'That the ſaid County ſhould forbear as yet to make the ſaid ‘Town a Garriſon, or to garriſon any other place in that County, till the Houſes give Order therein.

County of Berks not to Garriſon Reading.

Paſs granted to Prince Philip.

A Meſſage this day came from the Lords, deſiring the Concurrence of the Houſe of Commons to a Paſs for Prince Philip his Return, and 12 Horſes, beyond the Seas: The Paſs was read and agreed unto accordingly.

Inhabitants of Weſtminſter Petition to have Mr. Glyn to be re-admitted into the Houſe.

The Houſe was informed, That many of the Inhabitants of Weſtminſter were at the Door; they were called in and preſented a Petition to the Houſe, wherein they deſired, ‘That Mr. Glyn, who was formerly choſen to ſerve in parliament for them, might be re-admitted into the Houſe. The Houſe hereupon Ordered, ‘That the former Vote for diſabling Mr. Recorder Glyn to be a Member of the Houſe of Commons, ſhould be henceforth revoked and made void.

Newport Pagnel to be ſecured by the Eaſtern Aſſociation.

A Riſing in Lincolnſhire.

The Houſe Ordered, That Newport Pagnel ſhould be ſpeedily ſecured, and that the Committee of the Eaſtern Aſſociation would ſpeedily conſider thereof. This day came News, That the Cavaliers and Malignants are up in Lincolnſhire, and chiefly in Stamford; Colonel Doctor Hudſon, once the King's Guide, and Captain Stiles, in chief amongſt them.

Dover Caſtle relieved by Colonel Rich.

This day came Letters of the relieving of Dover Caſtle by Colonel Rich; Sir Richard Hardreſs had before the Caſtle about 2000 Men, beſides ſome Horſe from thoſe that left Rocheſter deſigned to have joined with him; he had poſſeſſed himſelf of the Block-Houſes, and the Ordnance, and Powder, Match, and other Ammunition, wherewith he preſently fell to Execution.

It is ſaid that he made about 500 Shot againſt the Caſtle, and they began to be very high and inſolent.

Sir Miles Leiveſey, &c. poſſeſſed of the Town.

Upon the approach of Colonel Rich, they fled and left the Siege, Colonel Rich, Sir Miles Leiveſey, and other Forces, &c. poſſeſſed of the Town and Block-Houſes, and all their Quarters; and hath taken all their Ordnance which were in the Block-Houſes.

Sir Richard Hardreſs purſued.

Colonel Rich having ſecured Dover, hath Sir Richard Hardreſs and thoſe fled with him in purſuit, and no doubt but all things will be well in thoſe parts.

Upon publiſhing the Indemnity, ſeveral Gentlemen of Eſſex ſubmitted.

Goring joined with Sir Charles Lucas prevail with the diſcontented Party, not to lay down their Arms.

From Eſſex this day we had alſo to underſtand, ‘That the Parliament's Commiſſioners having publiſhed the Indemnity at Bow, to thoſe that ſhould lay down Arms, Sir William Hicks and divers others of the Gentlemen ſubmitted, and the Lord Goring retreated back from thence. But Sir Charles Lucas, that eminent Cavalier, is come into them, and keeps up the Soldiers, making great promiſes to them; and by his Inſinuations, hath prevailed with the diſcontented Party not to lay down Arms; they have ſeized on Sir William Hicks, and ſeveral other Gentlemen of the County; and plundered ſome, which hath much diſcontented many of the Inhabitants. It is ſaid that another Party are riſing to join with them about Colcheſter, and they give out, that many will come out of Norfolk and Suffolk to aſſiſt them; and the Officers tell, that the King is in the Ships upon the Coaſts of Kent, and that they are poſſeſt of Dover Caſtle, and divers other Caſtles; and ſo by Lies and Tricks, they ſeduce the People exceedingly. The Commiſſioners are not without great danger returned back to the Parliament: Colonel Whaley is ready upon Inſtructions to march to reduce them if the Houſes think fit; the General having ſent ſome Foot to join with him for that Service.

An. 1648.

Col. Whaley Ordered to fall upon them and diſperſe them.

Upon the Report of this Buſineſs of Eſſex to the Houſe, it was Ordered, "That the General be ſent unto, to give Directions to Col. Whaley, and to appoint ſuch other Forces to join with him as ſhall be neceſſary to fall on, and diſperſe them, and to take all advantages of War againſt them; the Members of Norfolk and Suffolk, by Order, likewiſe attended the Committee at Derby-Houſe, and had Inſtructions paſſed for preſerving the Peace of thoſe Counties.

Letter from Jerſey of the ſufferings of that Iſland.

According to my Engagement when I ſaw you laſt in London, to give you an Account of the proceedings of the Malignant Party in the Iſland of Jerſey, where I am now, I have found this opportunity which I would not neglect; and therefore I ſhall proceed to tell you, that the well-affected Party here are extreamly miſerable under Carteret the Governour; yea, the whole Commonalty of the Iſland are ſo impoveriſhed and exhauſted with inſupportable Taxes, and Fines, that if they had but ſmall Forces, with ſome worthy Commander at the head of them, they would ſoon ſhake off the Enemies yoak; your Friends are almoſt out of hope ever to ſee you again; and except you can procure ſome Forces this Summer, they will be utterly loſt, for there are ſo many falſe Reports here, as if all England ſhould Declare for the King, and ſuch an Odium upon the Parliament, that the well-affected Party is mighty dejected; the Enemy doth much inſult upon them, not only by their barbarous Uſage, but alſo by Baniſhment and Impriſonment; and particularly one John Legalais, a well-wiſher to the Parliament, which they have, upon ſuſpicion of giving intelligence to the Enemy, meaning you, impriſoned and fettered, and give out in their common Diſcourſe, that they will hang him. There are in Montorgueil-Caſtle, beſides him, many other priſoners for their Affection to the Parliament, and eſpecially one John Drew, a very gallant Gentleman, that hath ſuffered much hardſhip in priſon ever ſince the Troubles began here, which in no wiſe daunts him, and is reſolved rather to die, than to adhere to them againſt the Parliament: It were a very Charitable work to get their Releaſement, that ſo their Enemies may know that the Parliament have not forgotten their Friends, as they ſcandalouſly report; and alſo would ſtop the Enemies falſe and ſcandalous Speeches, which they endeavour to inſinuate in the People, That the Rebels at Weſtminſter, as they term the Parliament, do take no care of you, and by that means you are in a miſerable Condition, and almoſt ſtarved, and reduced to that extremity of begging your Bread; all which they look upon as a juſt Reward and Vengeance of God upon ſuch Rebels and Traitors to their King, as (they ſay) you are; and notwithſtanding all your endeavours in petitioning for Relief and Subſiſtence to your ſelves, as likewiſe to have Forces to reduce this Iſland, you have not prevailed in any thing; and they are ſtill in hope that all your endeavours will take no effect, being ſo bold to boaſt, that it is by the means of their prevalent Friends: Which ſcandalous Reports do diſcourage many in the Iſland; and therefore to aſſure your Friends, and encourage the well-affected there, I ſhall deſire you to inform them concerning the premiſes, that ſo their Spirits may be revived; and in the interim, my Prayers ſhall be to God, he may be pleaſed to deliver your Friends from the cruel yoak of Slavery of their Oppreſſors, and to ſend you, with the reſt of your exiled Country-men, in a condition of ſubduing your Enemies, and delivering your poor oppreſſed Friends.

Thurſday, June 8. 1648.

Letter from Col. Waite of the ſuppreſſing the Riſing in Lincolnſhire.

A Letter this day came from Colonel Waite, a Member of the Houſe of Commons, and a Knight of the Shire for the County of Rutland; “That ſince his coming down to thoſe parts, which hath been but a very ſhort time, there happened an Inſurrection of Malignants, and Diſaffected and Diſcontented People in Rutlandſhire, and Northamptonſhire, and began much to increaſe; but that himſelf, with ſome well-affected, joined in a body, and fell upon them at Stampford, where by God's Bleſſing, he diſſipated them, killed ſome, amongſt whom Col. Doctor Hudſon, and took many priſoners; as for the Countrymen, he hath diſcharged them, as being deluded by the Malignant Party; but ſome of the Chief he keeps priſoners, deſiring the pleaſure of the Houſe herein.

Thanks to be returned to the ſaid Colonel; and a Commiſſion for Martial-Law to be ſent to him for the Trial of the principal Actors.

Committee appointed to diſpoſe of the Priſoners in Kent and Eſſex.

This Afternoon my Lord went on board the Phœnix, Mary-Roſe, and Nonſuch; and there was ſuch a reciprocal expreſſion of Love and Confidence betwixt his Lordſhip and the ſeveral Companies, that they did mutually engage each to other, in a firm Reſolution, to live and die together in that Cauſe of Religion, Liberty, and the Intereſt of the Kingdom, which the Parliament owns and maintains. We expect the Rear-Admiral, the Lion, Bonadventure, and Antilope ſhortly, beſides the Swiftſure: a Second Rate Ship is ſetting forth here; the Second Rate Ships that are ſetting forth from Chatham, the Exeter, and Fellowſhip, that are there alſo, will be a very conſiderable Fleet to Subdue, and bring into Obedience, thoſe mutinous and piratical Seamen, that have been ſo well paid by the Parliament from the beginning of theſe Troubles, having added to their Pay 4 s. per Month, more 'than they had formerly, and yet falſifie their Truſt; and hope that God who hath given ſuch Glorious Manifeſtations of Power, when the ſtrength of his People was ſmall, will now alſo make bare his Arm, and make it appear that he Rules in the midſt of his Enemies.

A Petition was this day preſented to the Houſe, in the name of the County of Suſſex; the Petitioners were called in, and the Houſe acquainted them, That they took ſpecial notice of their ready Obedience to the Ordinance of Parliament againſt Tumultuous Addreſſes by Petition to them; That they are now upon Debate of ſuch things as tend to the Settlement of this Kingdom, which had been in a greater ripeneſs, had not ſome Rebellious and Tumultuous Inſurrections, of ſome Diſcontented and Diſaffected Perſons in the Kingdom, obſtructed and hindred them therein.

FRom North-Wales this day came Letters to the Houſe of the routing and diſperſing that Rebel-rout, and Cavaliers, that were riſen there with Sir John Owen, and had beſieged Carnarvan Caſtle: The Relation according to the Letters runs thus; "That Col. Carter, and Lieut. Colonel Twiſleton, with the aſſiſtance of 30 Horſe and 70 Foot from Colonel Duckenfield from Cheſter, marched into Carnarvanſhire, when Sir John Owens, with 150 Horſe, and 120 Foot, had ſtreightned the Gariſon of Carnarvan, wherein, with the Governour Col. Maſon, was General Mitton, and about 60 Soldiers, beſides thoſe of the Gariſon, with whom Col. Carter, and Lieutenant-Colonel Twiſleton intended to join; but Sir John Owens, having notice thereof, prevented their joining, advancing with his Forces, and upon the Sand, betwixt Chunnoway and Carnarvan, met our Men. The forlorn of both parts was of the beſt Horſe; ours were commanded by Capt. Carter of Cheſhire, whoſe Reſolution was very great; but being over-powred, was forced to a diſorderly retreat; the Enemy purſued, advancing their whole Body; our Reſerve was ready to receive them, and, after a hot Diſpute, put them to a rout; Capt. Taylor ſingly encountering Sir John Owen, cloſed with him, and diſmounted him, and took him Priſoner; the Enemy immediately fled. We ſlew 30, and took 100, Sir John Owen, with divers others of Quality, and 60 private Men: We loſt four Men, and divers wounded; many Horſe of each ſide ſlain. This Mercy was ſeaſonable; the loſs of our Party now, had hazarded the loſs of the Parliaments Intereſt in North-Wales, whom we make no queſtion, will now be quiet.

Sir John Owen taken by Capt. Taylor.

The Houſe of Commons, upon reading the Letter from North-Wales, Ordered Captain Taylor, that brought the Letters, 200 l. given him out of the Eſtate of Sir John Owen, whom he took priſoner: Some other particular Orders were read for rewarding of others that deſerved well for the diſpoſing of the Priſoners there, to bring the Chief of them to Trial.

Letter from Lambert of the advance of the Enemy.

From the North by Letters this day came to this purpoſe, "Major-General Lambert underſtanding that a Party of the Enemy from Cumberland of 4000 Horſe and Foot were advancing by the way of Stanemore towards Bernards-Caſtle, he retreated, that he might draw the Enemy from the Mountains to the more Champion parts; being come to the Caſtle, and moving no farther, Lambert advanced towards them, within five Miles of Bernards-Caſtle, to a place called Gaterly-Moore, upon a long Plain, and a fit place to Fight; upon whoſe approach, Langdale retreated into Weſtmorland, where it is conceived they will halt until ſuch time as they ſee what they ſhall receive from Scotland.

Upon Lambert's approach, Langdale Retreats. Reward offered for the delivery up of Caſtles in the North.

'The Enemy have had their Agents working with ſome or other of every Caſtle in the North, for the delivery of them up to them. Helmſley-Caſtle was lately attempted; but the Fidelity of the Soldier they applied themſelves to, to whom was offered 100 l. in hand, and 500 l. more upon Bond, and to be Knighted, prevented it; for he diſcovered the Parties, and apprehended them Priſoners, and now they are in the Dungeon at Helmſley-Caſtle; this I can aſſert for Truth, having examined it upon Oath. Langdale is in Weſtmorland, and we hear is unwilling to Fight, if he can prevent it; but our Forces now are in a body, and are on the edge of Weſtmorland, about Bowes, watching an opportunity to engage him, though they be fewer in number; 'tis thought he will wheel about for Pontefract, if he can poſſible, and miſs fighting. Pontefract is blockt up with about 800 Horſe and Foot, which is all can poſſibly be made for the preſent; the Enemy there increaſes, and are, as we hear, 250 Horſe, and 400 Foot, ſo that that Party cannot lay cloſe Siege.

Lancaſhire Forces ready to joyn with Lambert.

'The Committee of Lancaſhire have Ordered Four Colonels of Foot, and Two of Horſe, with their Regiments now in readineſs in the Northern part of this County, forthwith to join with Major-General Lambert's Forces in Yorkſhire, againſt the Enemy in Weſtmorland and Cumberland; Col. Aſhton is Commander in Chief, and under him Lieut. Col. Alexander Rigby commandeth one Regiment of Horſe, and Col. Nicholas Shuttleworth the other; the Colonels are Col. Dodding, Col. Standiſh, who commandeth his own and Lieutenant-Col. Rigby's Foot, Col. Aſhton, and Col. Oghtred Shuttleworth.

The Committee of that County laid an Aſſeſſment of 3000 l. for the advance of thoſe Forces.

'The Committee hath laid an Aſſeſment of 3000 l. for the advance of theſe Forces, and have left conſiderable Forces for the preſervation of the Peace of the County, upon the march away of the Army, and have ſet apart a day for Publique Worſhip, to pray for God's Bleſſing upon their Endeavours and Army; The Committee received Teſtimony that one Bamber, a Capt. of Horſe, Declared himſelf by words, "That he would ſooner fight againſt his Excellencies Force, than againſt the Forces in Weſtmorland.

They likewiſe Ordered them to give Inſtructions to the Judges that ride the Circuits, to declare the point of Law againſt theſe Riotous Proceedings that have been in ſome Counties, and the danger thereof.

The Houſe paſs'd an Order, To enable the Committee of Goldſmith's Hall to report the Caſes and Names of ſuch Perſons that are Delinquents, that cannot ſell their Eſtates to pay their Compoſition, and other Caſes; that the Houſe may conſider of a Mitigation, notwithſtanding the general Rules for Compoſitions; That thereby all Obſtructions and Excuſes of Delinquents may be taken away, and Moneys may be advanced for the Service of the publick.

Letters from the Head Quarters in Kent give an Account of the Affairs of that County.

From the Head Quarters of His Excellency the Lord Fairfax, June 12. came as followeth. “Colonel Rich and Colonel Hewſon, being ſent to raiſe
‘the Siege of Dover, did accordingly; the Beſiegers ſtaid not their com‘ing, but made to Sandwich; but that place not being in a capacity to re‘ceive them, they went ſeveral other ways, as to Canterbury and other ‘Caſtles. Againſt thoſe in Canterbury, Commiſſary-General Ireton was ‘ſent, and Colonel Barkſted, with their Regiments; when they were ‘come as far as Eveſham, two Commiſſioners met them, with whom they ‘agreed for thoſe in Canterbury, who were to have their Lives ſaved; the ‘General to write to the Parliament for eaſie Compoſition for their Of‘fences: Eighty Horſe and Swords were allowed to thoſe in Kent, they ‘were to leave Horſes, Arms, and Ammunition behind them; for per‘fecting of which Work, the Commiſſary-General went forward, and ‘Colonel Barkſted returned to paſs for Eſſex. The buſineſs of Kent thus ‘near over, the General writes a Letter dated June 20. from Rocheſter, to ‘the Gentlemen of Kent, and the Seamen aboard the Ships in the Downs, ‘purporting offer of Mercy, and Content to thoſe that were revolted from ‘Parliament, if they would return to Obedience; which he in this rati‘fied, and ſo much the rather, becauſe he was informed they were ſenſi-‘ble of their miſdoing; which might well be from conſideration of the
‘bury, and Sandwich, poſſeſſed by ſome of his Forces, others marching to reduce

‘reduce Deale and the other two Caſtles; and therefore preſſeth the delivery of the Ships to certain Perſons named. This Letter was carried by Colonel Rich his Trumpeter aboard the Admiral; but for Anſwer, none would undertake, the Command if any, as in Mutinies, being in the Multitude; a Boatſwain gave only this verbal one, That they did not owe the Parliament ſo much Service, as to write Anſwer to any that did come from them. After which, they ſet ſail, (as was conceived,) for Helvoet-ſluice in Holland, as by Intention they expreſt, ſhall for preſent be omitted. Colonel Rich afterward ſummoned the Caſtles of Deal, Waymore and Sandown, who gave Anſwer, That they would deliver them to none, but whom His Majeſty ſhould appoint: Therefore Mortar-pieces were ordered to reduce the Caſtles. The Commiſſary-General, having ſettled Canterbury, in which was 3000 good Arms, good Horſe, and 24 Colours, is returning.

The General puts over his Forces at Graveſend into Eſſex, and joins Sir Thomas Honywood.

80 Gentlemen out of London, intended for a Guard for the Prince of Wales, ſurprized.

‘The General quartered at Graveſend Saturday; Sunday he put over what Forces he had, with much trouble, to Eſſex, and quartered at Billeracay; he left his Men, and with ten Horſe rode to Cogſhal; ſome of his Artillery paſſing by Land through London, ſome Horſe alſo; Colonel Whaley who had attended Goring's Motion to this time, which the General found at Cogſhal, being joined by Sir Thomas Honywood, 2000 Horſe and Foot of the Country, who kept many from going to the Enemy; among others 80 Horſe out of London, moſt, or all, Gentlemen, intending to be a Guard to the Prince of Wales when he came, in their March were met with by ſome Horſe of His Excellency's, charged, many killed and taken, the reſt diſperſt; among whom were four Brothers, three of which are killed or mortally wounded: The Countrymen alſo have taken many Priſoners. As for Goring, he is, as thoſe ſay that have ſeen him, upon March, with 4000. whereof 600 Horſe, not 2500 armed in all; he paſſed ſo as he touched at Lees, where he made bold with Horſe, Guns, and Arms, of My Lord of Warwick's, and ſo went towards Colcheſter, where he was Monday; and from thence it may be gathered, he intends Suffolk and Norfolk, to divert the General's going North. The General hath many of Eſſex come to him, whoſe Hands were at the Petition: Colonel Barkſted's Regiment, and what Horſe were come up, quartered the Twelfth at Night within ſix Miles of Cogſhal, the better to engage Goring. A Letter is ſent to Suffolk to pull up the Bridge, and lay Trees in the way, which if they do, they will be good Savers; but if not, they muſt take as falls.

An Ordinance was read, for the charging of 42000 l. upon the Exciſe in courſe, with Intereſt, for the payment of part of the Arrears of ſeveral Officers and Soldiers who were put into ſeveral Liſts, and had their Accompts audited; which was aſſented unto.

The Houſe of Commons this day Ordered; “That the Order formerly paſs'd, That ſuch Perſons as ſhall raiſe Forces, or take up Arms, without the Authority of both Houſes of Parliament, ſhould die without Mercy, ſhould be renewed; The Lords Concurrence to be deſired thereunto.

The Lords Concurrence deſired to an Order againſt ſuch as ſhall take up Arms, without Authority of Parliament.

The Houſe then proceeded to debate of the Ships that had lately revolted; and hearing that three of the revolted Ships were gone for Holland: The Houſe Ordered, “That a Letter ſhould be writ to the States of Holland to apprehend the ſaid Ships, as Revolters from the Authority of Parliament; and for encouragement to ſuch of the Ships that were formerly revolted, and came in upon the Ordinance of Indemnity, They Ordered that part of their Arrears ſhould be paid: And doubtleſs the reſt of the Revolters that come in, will receive the like Teſtimony of the Favour of the Parliament.

Order concerning the revolted Ships.

A Committee was appointed to conſider of the whole Buſineſs of Kent, and what to be done in relation thereunto, and what Declaration is fit to be drawn up concerning the ſame.

Tueſday, June 15. 1648.

THE Houſe was this day informed, That a heavy Imputation was laid upon them by the malignant Party, thereby to inſinuate into the honeſt and more moderate Party; that the Parliament hath received many Millions by Compoſitions at Goldſmith's Hall, for which they could give no Account for the ſatisfaction of the Kingdom. The Houſe, to clear theſe ſcandalous Aſperſions, knowing their own Innocency herein; Ordered, “That the Committee of Goldſmiths Hall, ſhould print all their Receipts for Compoſitions ever ſince they ſate, County by County; and how theſe Moneys have been diſburſed for the ſpecial Service of the State.

For the clearing of Aſperſions caſt upon the Houſe, in relation to Sequeſtrations the Committee at Goldſmith's Hall are ordered to print their Receipts, and how the Money hath been diſpoſed of.

This day came Letters from the League before Colcheſter to the Houſe, as followeth.

Letters from the League before Colcheſter.

To the Honourable William Lenthal Eſq; Speaker of the Honourable Houſe of Commons.

SIR,

THE Enemy ſtill continues in Colcheſter*; the great Ones had a Purpoſe laſt night to eſcape, as we hear, for their Goods are ſhipped; and ſent a Party to poſſeſs* Merſey Iſland Fort, the better to ſecure their paſſage to Sea: But this Morning early, our Horſe and Dragoons poſſeſſed the Iſland and Fort, and ſo hath prevented the Enemies flight by Sea. And by Land their Body cannot ſtir; ſome Horſe may perchance in the Night eſcape, and leave the reſt to ſlaughter: For, ſuch is the Rage of the Soldiers for the loſs of their Commanders, that they will hardly admit of Quarter. Many honeſt People, though the meaner ſort, ſteal out of Town hourly to us; and all agree in one Story, That the Enemy know not which way to turn themſelves; That they are deſperate, and think to get Conditions for themſelves, by their having Sir William Maſſam, and others of the Committee, Priſoners. The General ſent a Trumpeter to ſee Sir William Maſſam, but they yet detain the Trumpeter. The Townſmen ſay, they had ſix Hundred Men ran away that Night the Fight was; we have five hundred Priſoners, moſt taken from the Gates of the City. The Enemy buried of their ſlain Men, ſixty in one Church-yard, beſides what was ſlain in the other part of the Town: They ſay that Sir William Campion and one Knight more, Colonel Cook, and two Majors, and other Officers, were ſlain; ſome Priſoners, we have taken ſince, confeſs as much; and many of Quality are wounded: Many of the Priſoners of the Trained Bands, which this day the General releaſed, being ſore wounded, ſay, That they went under Colonel Farr, My Lord Norwich Lieutenant Colonel; That he led them out into the Field, and into Mr. Grimſton's Houſe; and when he and the Men fled, being galled with our Muſqueteers, he got to the Gate and cauſed it to be ſhut, and left his Men to the mercy of the Enemy without the Wall, if our Soldiers had not been more merciful. The General is cloſe beleaguring the Town. This day Colonel Ewers is come up with his Regiment and all our Train: The General purpoſes to preſerve the Town from Plunder and Fire, if it be poſſible; though one Buxton and the Leamons, and many more, as thoſe that come out inform, encourage Goring and the Cavaliers to hold out: Many an honeſt Body is undone by them. God is only wiſe; for who could have found out ſuch a way to unite the honeſt Party together againſt this bloody and common Enemy? There are four Colonels taken at Newmarket, who were about to raiſe Men for the King; Colonel Sir Bernard Scudamore is one of them. If the News of any Succeſs this Army hath, were acceptable, you would ſend one Weeks P[illegible] to the Army, that hath not had one Penny this Month.

The General's Trumpeter is returned, who left Sir William Maſſam and the other Gentlemen in a reaſonable good Condition; he ſaid Sir William Campion and one Colonel Cook were buried this Afternoon, their Corps attended by the Lord Goring, Lord Capel, Lord Loughborough, Sir William Compton, and divers others of Quality: They much lament the Loſs of Major Eyres, whom they thought we had Priſoner; but he was ſlain.

The Trumpeter brings an Account, that Sir William Maſſam and the reſt of the Eſſex Committee are in a good Condition.

Captain Zanchy, who took in Merſey-Fort, found two Culverins, two Sacres, and one Drake in it; Captain Peacock, and the Commander of the Ships at Harwich, have ſent to the General to aſſiſt him in the Harbour of Coln-River, if the Fort at Merſey be ours; of which the General hath ſent them word. Colonel Stewart and Colonel Thornton were taken with Sir Bernard Scudamore.

The Royaliſts in Devonſhire ſuppreſſed.

THE Houſe of Commons this day had the Report made to them of the quelling and ſubduing the Tumults, and Royal, Party in Devonſhire and Cornwall, by Sir Hardreſs Waller; alſo ſome Letters of the Liſting of Voluntiers for the Service of the Parliament in Devonſhire; and it was moved in behalf of thoſe Counties, that no new Levies might be put upon them, or Additional Forces raiſed There, whereby to burden the Counties. The Houſe hereupon Ordered, "That a Letter be ſent 'to Sir Hardreſs Waller, to acquaint him herewith, and that no new Forces be raiſed there; but that, if there ſhall be occaſion, he might raiſe 'the Militia of thoſe Counties to his aſſiſtance.

The breaking open Mr. Charlton's Chamber, a Member of Parliament, referred to a Committee.
Mr. Walter Long's Caſe Reported.

The Commons were acquainted with the breaking open of a Chamber of Mr. Charlton, a Member of the Houſe, the taking away a Ward there; the Buſineſs was Debated; ſo far as concerns the Ward was waved and left to Law; the affront, as to a Member of Parliament, was referred to a Committee.

The Caſe of Mr. Walter Long was Reported; and the Houſe Voted to receive him in again. Upon the Caſe of Sir John Clotworthy, in whoſe ſtead is ſince choſe Mr. Mildmay, the Houſe Voted, That it be referred to the Committee for Priviledges to examine, and make Report to the Houſe.

The forwardneſs of the County of Cheſter, taken notice of by the Houſe, and Capt. Carter to Command a Troop raiſed by the City of Cheſter.
Pembroke upon ſurrender.

The Commons were acquainted with the extraordinary forwardneſs of the County of Cheſter, in raiſing Forces for their Defence; and particularly that the City of Cheſter raiſed a Troop of Horſe, and deſired that Capt. Carter might Command them; whereupon the Houſe Ordered, That he ſhould have Commiſſion accordingly.

From Pembroke by Letters of June was certified, "That the Town of 'Pembroke is upon Surrender, being much diſcontented and divided, 'occaſioned for want of Victuals; Col. Poyer intreated them to hold out 'a few days longer, and told them he doubted not but to be relieved by 'Langdale; a Breach was made by Battery, and the Aſſault attempted, 'but fruitleſs, being repulſed with the loſs of 23 Men, and Four on their 'part.

Two Thouſand Fighting Men in the Town, beſides a Party of Horſe.

Major-General Langhorne is recovered; there are fighting Men in the Town, Two Thouſand, beſides a conſiderable Party of Horſe, which are conceived to be eaten before this. The Caſtle hath yet 20 days Proviſion left, and can Sally out at Two ſeveral places, though not able to get any Relief.

From

Letters from the Head Quarters near Col*cheſter.*

From the Head Quarters before Colcheſter, by Letters this day, we underſtand, “That a Party of Horſe and Foot, conſiſting of 300, Sallied out of Colcheſter Saturday night laſt, towards Harwich, their Deſign not known; it was conceived at firſt that the Grandees were gone with them, to endeavour to eſcape, but it proved otherwiſe, for they all returned the next day with about 40 head of Cattle and 100 Sheep; a Party of 400 Horſe and Dragoons were ſent after them, but met them not, the Enemy being gone a private way. The great Work upon the top of the Hill is finiſhed, it holds 1000 Men, the great Cannons planted, and intend to play to Morrow upon the Town, being within Muſquet ſhot thereof.

Letters from the North, of the defeating Langdale's Forces.

By Northern Letters this week, and firſt from Major-General Lambert's Quarters at Penrith, June 15. is thus certified; “We have taken Braugham Caſtle, Penrith, and ſetled Appleby and other places hereabouts. Sir Marmaduke Langdale is fled towards Carliſle, but not without ſome Loſs; for a party of Horſe marched up towards his Rear, and fell into the Quarters of a Regiment newly levied, which we have totally diſperſed and broken; the Officers fled after Langdale, and the Soldiers threw down, moſt of them, their Arms, and ran home, ſeeming to be very glad of the opportunity; we had a little Skirmiſh with another Party of Langdale's, and took ſome priſoners, and are ſtill in purſuit of them: There is a great hubbub in Carliſle about receiving Langdale in there, as we hear; for upon the alarm of his Retreat thitherward, the Town made Addreſſes to Sir Philip Muſgrave, That the Army with Langdale may not come in; ſaying, That they had rather loſe their Lives, than to be forced to eat Horſe-fleſh, as they did before when it was ſo long beſieged in the late Wars. The Lancaſhire Forces are moſt of them come up, and we hope to be able to fight with Langdale, if he will ſtand to it.

Letters from Scotland of the Diviſions and Diſtractions there.

From Edenburgh by Letter, June 14. is thus written; “An Army will be raiſed in Scotland forthwith; Duke Hamilton goes along General, his ſtrength is at preſent 6000 Horſe, Foot, and Dragoons, upon their march; Major-General Middleton is Major-General of the Foot, and the Earl of Kalendar Lieutenant-General of Horſe. The Parliament have Adjourned for Two Years, and left a very great power to the Committee, who act vigorouſly for a War; inſomuch that the Lord Chancellor, the Lord Wariſton, and divers others, fall off from them to the Marqueſs of Argile. The Miniſters are not to Preach againſt any thing done by the Parliament, or the Authority derived from them: An Act is paſſed for puniſhing ſuch as ſhall ſpeak, Preach, or Write againſt them; yet many do Preach, and tell them in their Pulpits, that they have broken their Covenant and the Treaties, and muſt expect to meet with God's Judgments for it; ſome Miniſters are apprehended, others had been, if they had not been reſcued. There is a great diſcontent in the Kingdom, every County ready to Riſe, if they had protection againſt them: Major General Holborn is gone with about 1000 Horſe to fetch in the Marqueſs of Argile, and others; it is ſaid that it ſhall be death to publiſh any Books, Pamphlets, or Libels againſt the Proceedings of the Parliament. There comes daily ſuch Malignant News hither, That the Lord-General Fairfax's Army is routed, that London is joined with the King, and are gone to fetch him home; and that thoſe Members of Parliament, that acted againſt him, are all fled and gone away.

‘About a Month hence Duke Hamilton expects to compleat his Army, which if he doth, and Langdale not ſuppreſt, then he will march into England.

Tueſday, June 20. 1648.

Votes of both Houſes againſt ſuch as take up Arms againſt the Parliament.

BOth Houſes this day paſſed ſeveral Votes we mention'd before, concerning ſuch as take up Arms againſt the Parliament of England, or aſſiſt in ſuch a War, which were as followeth;

Whereas the Lords and Commons in Parliament Aſſembled, did, upon the 20*th.* of May, 1642. for the preventing of the late War, paſs theſe Three Votes;

1. That it appears, that the King, ſeduced by wicked Counſel, intends to make War againſt the Parliament, who, in all their Conſultations and Actions, have propoſed no other end unto themſelves, but the Care of the Kingdoms, and the performance of all Duty and Loyalty to His Perſon.

2. That whenſoever the King maketh War upon the Parliament, it is a breach of the Truſt repoſed in him by his People, contrary to his Oath, and tending to the Diſſolution of this Government.

3. That whoſoever ſhall ſerve or aſſiſt him in ſuch Wars, are Traitors, by the Fundamental Laws of this Kingdom, and have been ſo adjudged by Two Acts of Parliament, and ought to ſuffer as Traitors, 11 Rich. II. 1 Hen. IV.

And whereas there are now at this time divers Perſons in Arms, who endeavour to raiſe War againſt the Parliament; the Lords and Commons Aſſembled in Parliament, for better informing the Subjects of this Kingdom in their Duty, do now at this time Declare, That it doth appear, That divers who have aſſiſted the King in the late War againſt the Parliament, as alſo divers others, do endeavour to ſeduce the People, and do actually Levy War againſt the Parliament.

Such Perſons Traitors by the Fundamental Law.

That whoſoever ſhall make War againſt the Parliament of England, or aſſiſt in ſuch a War, are Traitors by the Fundamental Laws of this Kingdom, and have been ſo adjudged by Two Acts of Parliament, and ought to ſuffer as Traitors, 11 Rich. II. 1 Hen. IV.

The ſaid votes to be publiſhed in every Market Town.

It was likewiſe farther Ordered, That theſe Votes be forthwith Printed, and Publiſhed by the Sheriffs in every Market Town in the ſeveral Counties, at the next Market days after the Receipt hereof; And that the Judges do deliver them in their ſeveral Circuits.

Col. Weldan, Governour of Plymouth. 100 l. to buy him Horſes.

The Commons debated concerning the Gariſon of Plymouth, and paſſed an Ordinance for eſtabliſhing Col. Weldon Governour thereof: And it was farther Ordered, That 100 l. ſhould be allowed him to buy him Horſes.

Serjeant Hunt to put in Suit the Bonds for the Duty of One per Cent, Plimouth Duty.

Ordered, That the Bonds of the Merchants remaining in the cuſtody of the late Serjeant Hunt, for the payment of the Duty of One per Cent. for Plimouth, be put in Suit by the Aſſigns of the ſaid Serjeant Hunt.

The Committee of Nottingham to raiſe a Troop of Horſe for the preſervation of that County.

A Letter was read from the Committee of Nottingham, and a Declaration incloſed of raiſing Forces for Defence of their County: The Houſe Ordered thereupon, That the ſaid Committee ſhould have Power to raiſe a Troop of Horſe for preſervation of the ſaid County of Nottingham.

Militia of Lincolnſhire ſettled.

An Ordinance read for ſettling the Militia of the County of Lincoln, and Aſſented unto.

That the Committee of the Militia of Lancaſhire, do preſent the Name of ſuch Perſon as they ſhall think fit, to his Excellency the Lord General, to be Governour of Leverpool, to the end his Excellency may approve thereof: The Houſe Ordered to approve of Col. Ralph Aſhton, a Member of the Houſe, to Command in Chief the Brigade of Lancaſhire, to join with Major-General Lambert, in the preſent Service for the North.

Col. Aſhton to Command in Chief in Lancaſhire.

Col. Ruſſel, Governour of Guernſey, was Ordered ſpeedily to go thither, to take Care of that Iſland.

Col. Ruſſel to take care of the Iſland of Guernſey.

Letters were this day read in the Houſe, from the Leaguer before Pembroke, from Lieutenant-General Cromwell, and of his own Writing; the Letters import, as followeth;

Lieut. General Cromwel's Letter of the neceſſitous Condition of Pembroke.

SIR,

A*LL that you can expect from hence is a Relation of the ſtate of this Gariſon of* Pembroke, which is briefly thus; They begin to be in extream want of Proviſion, ſo as in probability they cannot Live a Fortnight without being Starved; but we hear that they Mutinied about Three Days ſince, cried out, Shall we be ruined for Two or Three Mens pleaſure? Better it were we ſhould throw them over the Walls. It's certainly reported to us, that within Four or Six Days they'll cut Poyer's Throat, and come all away to us: Poyer told them Saturday laſt, That if Relief did not come by Monday night, they ſhould no more believe him, nay, they ſhould Hang him. We have not got our Guns and Ammunition from Wallingford as yet, but however we have ſcraped up a few which ſtand us in very good ſtead. Laſt night we got Two little Guns planted, which in 24 Hours will take away their Mills, and then, as Poyer himſelf Confeſſes, They are all undone: We made an attempt to Storm it about Ten Days ſince, but our Ladders were too ſhort, and the Breach ſo as Men could not get over; we loſt a few Men, but I am confident the Enemy loſt more; Capt. Flower of Col. Dean's Regiment was wounded, and Major Grigg's Lieutenat and Enſign ſlain; Capt. Burges lies wounded and very ſick: I queſtion not but within a Fortnight we ſhall have the Town. Poyer hath engaged himſelf to the Officers of the Town, not to keep the Caſtle longer than the Town can hold out; neither indeed can it, for we can take away his Water in Two Days, by beating down a Stair-Caſe which goes into a Cellar where he hath a Well: They allow Men half a pound of Beef, and as much Bread a day, but it is almoſt ſpent. We much rejoyce at what the Lord hath done for you in Kent. Upon our Thankſgiving for that Victory, which was both from Sea and Leaguer, Poyer told his Men that it was the Prince was coming with Relief. The other night they mutinied in the Town. Laſt night we fired divers Houſes, which runs up the Town ſtill; it much frights them: Confident I am we ſhall have it in 14 Days, by Starving. I am,

Sir,

League before Pembroke,
June 16. 1648.

Your Servant.

From the Head Quarters, June 19. came thus, “Three of the Six Harwich Ships that preſented their Service to the General, Engaged with the Two Ships that the Forces in Colcheſter had to lay open the River, and ſecure their paſſing in and out; ſome Dragoons from Merſey Fort joined with them, and after ſome skirmiſh, with the loſs of Two Men, boarded the Two Ships, and took them; they have ſent away one of the Ships, and keep the other to attend them in Colcheſter, who ſent a Party of Horſe and Foot to relieve the Ships; but the Prize was taken aſhoar before they came; and becauſe theſe ſhould not loſe their Labour, a Party of the Lord General's Engaged them at Wivenall, a Village, they hitherto poſſeſſed, and took Forty of them priſoners. One of the Frigats taken had Ten, the other Twelve pieces of Ordnance.

Lieut. Colonel Gardner, once Vice-Governor of Farrington-Houſe, and others, were taken Priſoners going to Colcheſter.

An. 1648.

The Priſoners taken, confeſs, That the intent of Goring's Army was to go through Colcheſter into Suffolk, ſo into Norfolk, and back through Cambridgeſhire, by which time they ſhould have a gallant Army; and then they would go up to the very Walls of London, where their own Party would join with them in plundering that Rebellious City.

Sir Charles Lucas his offer for exchange of Priſoners rejected.

Sir Charles Lucas ſent a Trumpet, propoſing an exchange for Priſoners, but offering Private Men for Officers and Gentlemen, it was rejected. The Lord-General ſent his Letter to Colcheſter, to acquaint them, That Sir Charles Lucas had forfeited his Paroll, his Honour and Faith, being his Priſoner upon Paroll, and therefore not capable of Command or Truſt in Martial Affairs: To this an Anſwer, or rather Excuſe was returned. Yeſterday in the Evening came a Letter from Sir William Maſſam, and the reſt of the Committee under reſtraint in Colcheſter; "That they made it their Requeſt to his Excellency, to enter 'into a Treaty for Peace; and in the ſame Paper a Line or Two Signed, 'Norwich, Arthur Capel, Charles Lucas; That they thought fit to give 'the Committee leave to Sign that Paper, and that they intended by 'it a general Peace. No Anſwer as yet returned, and believed the 'Committee was forced to Sign this Paper.

The Committee under reſtraint in Colcheſter, deſire a Treaty.

Wedneſday, June 21.

Ordinance for Presbitery read and committed.

Some perſons taken up in lieu of thoſe detained in Colcheſter.

THis day the Ordinance for the more effectual Settling the Presbyterial Government throughout the Kingdom, was read the Second time in the Houſe of Commons, and Committed; Report was made to the Houſe from the Commitee appointed to apprehend and keep in cuſtody Twenty Perſons of the King's Party, in lieu of thoſe detained in Colcheſter; upon which ſome are apprehended: And it was Ordered, That the ſaid Committee ſhould have the Speaker's Warrant to break open doors, &c. in caſe of oppoſition. The Members ſerving for Eſſex were ordered to go down to uſe their Endeavours for better ſecuring of that County, and ſettling the Peace thereof.

1000 l. Ordered for the fortifying of Briſtol.

200 DemyCulverin Shot taken out of Arundel-Caſtle.

Mr. Dowcet, &c. that endeavoured the King's eſcape, brought up Priſoners.

Ammunition Ordered for the ſervice of the North.

An Ordinance for ſettling the Militia of the City and County of Briſtol was read, and aſſented unto; and 1000 l. ordered for the repair of Fortifications, and victualing of Briſtol Fort and Caſtle.

Ordered, That 200 Demi-Culverin Shot be taken out of Arundel Caſtle for the Service of the Iſle of Wight. The Articles of Faith and Texts of Scripture to them brought in by the Aſſembly, were Ordered to be Printed.

This day Mr. Dowcet, and the others that endeavoured the King's eſcape out of the Iſle of Wight, were brought up Priſoners, and committed to Peter-Houſe.

The Commons ordered 6000 Muſquets with Bandeliers, and 500 Caſe of Piſtols, with Saddles and Furniture for Horſe, 4000 Pikes, and 5000 Swords, with Ammunition, to be provided for the Service of the Northern Counties.

The Lords this day Debated the Inſtructions for the Judges Declaration for the Counties, but the great buſineſs was, to conſider of a way for the ſpeedy ſettling of the Kingdom in Peace, and made ſome progreſs in it; and Ordered to proceed therein on the Morrow.

Orders are ſent to the Maſters and Wardens of the ſeveral Companies in London from the Lord Mayor; That whereas Saturday next is to be a Common Hall, as uſually on every Midſomer-day, for the chuſing of Sheriffs for the City of London, that in regard ſome perſons may in theſe diſtracted times croud in with thoſe of the Livery (who are only to be there at common Halls) that therefore they will be careful (every Company reſpectively) to ſee who, and what they are that come to the Guild-Hall with them, to prevent the coming of ſuch as are not of the Livery.

From the Leagure before Colcheſter, June 21. came farther to this purpoſe; “ The Enemy within the Town are fortifying amain, and endeavour to get Proviſions from Tendering Hundred, which cannot be conſiderable, nor yet prevented, unleſs the Suffolk Forces were come up, for whom Col. Whaley is gone: They are impoſing a Fine upon the Town, forcing all between 16 and 60 to bear Arms, and are preparing Horſe-Mills and Hand-Mills to grind their Corn. The Lord General begun a Work yeſterday at the North Gate, and the Soldiers maintain it with much Gallantry and Reſolution. The Trumpeter with a Meſſage for a Treaty is not yet returned, nor muſt not, till the Mortar-pieces and Granadoes come up; and then accept of what the General offers; elſe Thunderbolts and Granadoes will be their doom. They have twice marched out with Foot and Long-Boats to regain Merſey Iſland, but returned with Loſs, for our Forces fell upon them, and beat them back into the Town. The Soldiers begin to deſpair, but the Earl of Norwich feeds their Fancies with vain Deluſions, telling them that the General had ſent a Trumpeter to them, offering to draw off, bid them chew their Bullets, all the Roundheads in London were plundered, only their Friends had left ſome for them, as deſerving it. And he farther intimated, that Major-General Langhorne with 10000 Men were within 14 Miles, and would fall on the General's Rear very ſuddainly.

Thurſday, June 22. 1648.

THE Houſe was this day informed, That one Captain Veſey (a Trrained-Band Captain of the County of Eſſex, who lately endeavoured to invite all his Company to come into Colcheſter and join with the Lord Goring) was taken Priſoner by the Lord General's Forces; They Ordered, “That his Excellency ſhould proceed againſt the ſaid Capt. Veſey by Martial Law.

The Houſe was informed, That the Contracters for the Sale of Biſhops Lands were at the door, they were called in, and preſented to the Houſe a Petition, Humbly deſiring the removal of Obſtructions, in the Sale of Rectories, part of the Revenues of Deans and Chapters; which was read, and after ſome Debate, Ordered to be referred to the Committee, appointed to conſider of removing Obſtructions in the Sale of Biſhops Lands, who were ordered to report their Opinions with all convenient ſpeed.

An Ordinance was read for ſettling the Militia of the City of Weſtminſter, and after ſome Debate, Ordered to be read again on Saturaay next.

An Ordinance was reported to the Houſe for diſcharging the Sequeſtrations, and taking off the Delinquency of Sir John Strangewayes, and his Son; and accepting the Fine which he has paid for his Delinquency; which was Aſſented unto.

The State of the Navy was this day reported to the Houſe, which took up much time; and it was thereupon Ordered, ‘That the Sum of 40000 l. ſhould be advanced upon the Credit of the Exciſe in courſe, with Allowance of 8 l per Cent. per Annum to the Advancers for the uſe of the Navy, and that an Ordinance be brought in to this purpoſe.

‘That the Committee of the Army ſhould pay the 2500 l, borrowed by them of the Committee of the Navy.

‘That the Ships now in readineſs for part of the Summer's Fleet be forthwith Manned, and Set forth, in order to the reducing of the Revolted Ships.

The Houſe was informed, That the Iſle of Wight was not in a very ſafe condition without ſome additional Strength: They thereupon Ordered, ‘That it ſhould be referred to the Committee at Derby-houſe, to take care for the Safety of the ſaid Place both by Sea and Land.

Friday, June 23. 1648.

THE Houſe of Commons this day reſumed their Debate, as to the ſpeedy Settlement of the Peace of the Kingdom, and Ordered, ‘That it ſhould be referred to a Committee, to conſider how far the Parliament have gone in order to a Peace, and what Offers have been made by the King for that purpoſe, and what is fit farther to be offered to him in relation to the ſettling a well-grounded Peace in this Kingdom; and likewiſe to conſider of the Place, Manner, and Circumſtances, in relation to this Buſineſs, and to Report with all ſpeed to the Houſe; and that the Lords Concurrence ſhould be deſired herein.

Debate about His Majeſty's Perſon.

The Houſe then had much debate concerning His Majeſty's Perſon; and the Queſtion was put, Whether His Majeſty's Perſon ſhould be removed from Carisbrook Caſtle to Windſor Caſtle, in order to a Perſonal Treaty upon ſuch Things as both Kingdoms ſhall conclude on; But this Buſineſs was not then fully agreed on.

A Letter from Colonel Hammond by Captain Rolſe, concerning the Charge againſt them.

A Letter this day came to the Houſe from Col. Hammond by Capt. Rolſe, giving Anſwer to the Scandalous Charge laid upon himſelf and the ſaid Captan by Mr. Osborne, in that ſeigned Relation printed, putting himſelf wholly upon the Knowledge of His Majeſty, and what he ſhall ſay therein.

Capt. Rolſe denies the Charge.

Captain Rolſe was called in, and Mr. Speaker acquainted him with the Heads of the Charge againſt him; which he abſolutely denied, or that ever he had any Diſcourſe with the ſaid Osborne to that purpoſe.

The Charge ordered to be printed.

The Houſe hereupon, to give the Kingdom Satisfaction, Ordered, ‘That the Charge, Col. Hammond's Letter by way of Anſwer, and the Houſe's Order for giving Freedom and Security to Osborne for 40 days to make good the ſaid Charge, ſhould be forthwith Printed. A Letter was this day read, in Anſwer to a Letter of the 21ſt from Col. Jones, which was Aſſented unto.

The Houſe then Ordered, ‘To Adjourn until Monday Morning, and hereafter to Adjourn from every Friday to Tueſday following.

The Enemy in Colcheſter ſally out, and are repulſed.

From the League before Colcheſter by Letters dated Thurſday, June 22. came as followeth: ‘This day was the firſt Salley that ever the Enemy made out of the Town, whatever Reports you have had out of London ſince the firſt Battel, being with 30 Horſe and 40 Foot, to diſcover our new Work; but 14 of your Muſkettiers beat them from their Works.

W*E are commanded by Sir* Charles Lucas, Commander in Chief of His Majeſty’s Forces in Eſſex, *to deſire your Poſitive Anſwer, Whether you do declare your ſelves to be our Enemies or no? Gentlemen,

Your Friends and loving Neighbours,

We had likewiſe a true Copy of a Proclamation by His Excellency the Lord Fairfax, Publiſhed throughout the Army, as followeth:

The General’s Proclamation publiſhed throughout the Army.

WHereas, in Anſwer to a Letter ſent out from Colcheſter concerning a Treaty, I have offered Liberty to all Private Soldiers, and Perſons of that Rank, laying down Arms, to depart to their ſeveral Homes, and to be free from the Violence of the Soldiers, together with other Conditions to Perſons of other Quality: I do therefore Require and Command all Officers, Soldiers, and others whom it may concern, That in caſe before Acceptance of our Agreement thereupon, the Conditions tendered to all the Enemy’s Party for the Surrender of the Town, and Private Soldiers, or Perſons of that Rank, ſhall come away from the Enemy, with their Arms, or without, and ſhall peaceably come into the Guards, rendering ſuch Arms as they have, or ſhall bring with them; that in ſuch caſe no Plunder nor Violence ſhall be committed upon any ſuch Perſons, but they be quietly brought to the Head-Quarters, there to receive Paſſes for their Repair to their own Homes. Given under my Hand and Seal the 22d of June, 1648.

A farther Account from Colcheſter.

Saturday, From the Leagure before Colcheſter we had farther as followeth: ‘Once every day you ſhall be ſure of an Account of Affairs ‘here, though nothing be done, to ſtop the Mouths of thoſe who daily invent Lies, having nothing elſe to ſupport their tottering Cauſe. ‘This day proving extraordinary wet, gave the Enemy encouragement ‘to come out of their dry Houſes with ſome Men, as if they had intended to ſally out, which gave us an hopeful Alarm to have an En-

'counter with them, which both now and hitherto they have avoided. 'That which I obſerved upon it, was the extraordinary Readineſs and Chearfulneſs of the Soldiers (notwithſtanding they were wet to their Skins) to ſtand to their Arms. The Country Soldiers of Eſſex deſerve Commendation likewiſe for their Readineſs, who have ſtood ſo many Cannon-ſhot, inſomuch that for the future they deſerve to be called Eſſex Lions, and we will turn the Calves into the Town.

Two Cannon from the new Battery play into the Town.

'This day two of our Cannon from the new Battery played into the Town, which much terrifies 'em within; and when we ſent a Party under Lieutenant Chillenden, with Ammunition, to meet the Suffolk Forces, though they march'd within Muſket-ſhot of the North Gate, yet they attempted not to make the laſt Salley, or to fall upon the Rear.

Suffolk Forces aſſiſt in blocking up the Eaſt Gate.

'The Suffolk Forces have been this day at their Rendezvous; but ſome Scruples they made touching their marching out of their own County, being I hope this day ſatisfied, we expect them to morrow without fail to aſſiſt in the blocking up of the Eaſt Gate, which by reaſon of our handful of Men we could not hitherto accompliſh; and then the Enemy is paſt all Sallies, if he had Courage to do it; and beſides, we ſhall immediately fall upon Sir Harbottle Grimſtone's Houſe, which the Enemy had ſoundly plundered, and turned out his Lady.

The Cannon on both ſides play hard.

Farther from the Head Quarters, dated June 25. at Two in the morning, thus: 'The laſt night the Enemy was very ſilent, but this day played very hard, yet did not any Execution; our Cannon likewiſe played into the Town, and near St. Mary's Church killed one, and wounded two. This day we finiſhed a Bridge over the River, whereby we can hold Communication with the Suffolk Forces, who are this day come over, conſiſting of about 2000 Foot, and 5 Troops of Horſe; they are intrenching themſelves before the Eaſt Gate, and have left a competent Number to ſecure Cattaway, Nayland, and Streetford Bridges. Their Intrenchments being once finiſhed, I hope we ſhall ſuffer the Enemy to take little Reſt until we have reduced them.

Monday, June 26. 1648.

The Debate reaſſumed for ſettling the Peace of the Kingdom.

THE Houſe of Commons this day farther reſumed the Great Debate, in order to the Speedy Settlement of the Peace of the Kingdom; and they then went on to the Nominating a Committee, who are to Debate and Report their Opinions as to the Manner and Place of Treaty with His Majeſty, for Settlement of the Peace of the Kingdom; And a Meſſage was ſent to the Lords for their Concurrence herein: Upon which, their Lordſhips named a Committee of their Houſe to join with the Commons as was deſired; The Names of the Committee of Both Houſes are as followeth; Of the Houſe of Pears, the Earls of Northumberland, Kent, Rutland, Lincoln, Suffolk, Stamford, L. Bartlet, L. North, L. Hundſdon, L. Harbert: Of the Houſe of Commons, Sir Walter Earle, Sir Harbottle Grimſton, Sir John Watts, Sir William Lewis, Sir Richard Onſlow, Sir Gilbert Gerhard, Sir James Harrington, Sir John Burgin, Sir John Evelin of Wilts, Sir Martin Lumley, Sir Robert Harlow, Mr. Prideaux, Mr. Swynfen, Mr. Maynard, Mr. Wheeler, Mr. Hungerford, Mr. Pierpoint, Mr. Liſle.

Mr. Mildmay's Election made void, and Sir J. Clotworthy readmitted.

The Committee of Privileges made Report to the Houſe, of the Caſe of Sir John Clotworthy and Mr. Mildmay, and after ſome Debate it was Voted, 'That the Election of Mr. Mildmay was void, and that the former Order, prohibiting Sir John Clotworthy and Mr. Mildmay to ſit in the Houſe till farther Order, be Revoked; and that the ſaid Sir John be Re-admitted.

The Note ſent up yeſterday to Dr. Burgeſſe, when in his Pulpet, ſubſcribed by divers Citizens and others, deſiring him, To give God Thanks for preſerving His Majeſty from Poiſoning, and to Pray for the Forces under the Command of the Earl of Norwich, Lord Capel, and Sir Marmaduke Langdale; was Read in the Houſe, and upon Debate thereof, Ordered, 'That the Militia of London do ſend for the Parties whoſe Names were ſubſcribed.

'Biſhop Wren, and Mr. Capel, Son and Heir to my Lord Capel, Ordered to be added to thoſe who are to be ſent Priſoners to his Excellency, and to be Exchanged for, or uſed as the Committee of Eſſex in reſtraint with the Lord Goring.

The Northern Letters this day from York, Newcaſtle, Major General Lambert's Quarters at Penrith, and from the Lancaſhire Forces, all of them to one and the ſame purpoſe, give to underſtand thus much: "Major General Lambert hath retaken Appleby Caſtle, in which was 6 Barrels of Powder, 300 Arms, and 1500 Weight of Match; alſo Grayſtock Caſtle and one other. The Lancaſhire Forces are come to him, being one Regiment of good Horſe, and two Regiments of Foot; theſe joined, they advance 8000 Horſe and Foot againſt Langdale, who is retreated to Carliſle. General Lambert was within a Mile of the City, draws his Men into Battalia, expecting Langdale would fight, but he refuſed; and yet unwilling to go farther North on that Coaſt, ſends 8 Troops of Horſe to Hexam in Northumberland, to fright away many Gentlemen and others to Newcaſtle. Colonel Gregory Fenwick and Major Sanderſon, who until now lay to ſtrengthen Berwick, having Notice, that Langdale's Horſe intended to get between them and Newcaſtle, retreated within four or five Miles: The Enemy then marches to Anwick, and another Party of his Horſe (for Foot he hath but few or none) gone a long time towards Berwick) among whom are two Troops of Gentlemen excellently well mounted. This Remove it's conceived, is the better to avoid fighting, ſecuring themſelves under Berwick and Carliſle, receiving from Scotland if any come, and waiting the Prince's Arrival and thoſe with him. The Horſe of Biſhoprick of Durham, are commanded to join with thoſe of ours in Northumberland, the better to withſtand the Force of Langdale: Many come, Engliſh and Scotch, out of Scotland, who ſpeak the Condition of Affairs very ſad there, and that great Violence is uſed towards all that will not adhere to the new War. Some Miniſters already Executed, more Impriſoned; all that endeavour to obſtruct the preſent furious Proceedings of the new prevalent Party, are, by Power given to the Committee for that Purpoſe, to be ſecured, and their Goods to be confiſcated. Their Oath is framed and urged already, upon the Nobility and Peers, but no other: The Lord Chancellor, Lowthean, Wariſton, and ſeveral other Lords and Gentlemen, are fled upon it to ſeveral ſtrong Holds; and General Leſhly. and others with him, into Fife: There was a purpoſe of the well-affected in the Weſt parts of that Kingdom, to have imbodied to the Number of 10000, but prevented by the Advance of the Lieutenant General Middleton thither, ſo as not above the number of 1500 got together; thoſe be ſummoned and willed to return to their homes. This drew off many, but the reſt reſolved to outbid all, adventured and would not ſtir; Three hundred of theſe the Lieutenant General Middleton forced to a Water ſide, that they muſt either yield or fight, the latter of which they choſe; and did it with ſo much Courage, that they

Many English and Scotch ſpeak the ſad Condition of that Kingdom, and the violence uſed towards thoſe that will not adhere to the new War.

‘they beat off his Horſe, and put them to a Rout and Flight, and thereby got opportunity to ſecure themſelves in Galloway, a Gariſon of Argile's. 500 more, being all that ſtayed of the 1500, which had been old Soldiers, got into a Bog for their own preſervation: Argile hath been ſent to by the now late Committee of Eſtates, to know the Reaſon, why his new Regiments now with him, yield not Obedience to to the Commands of the preſent Officers of the Army? He replied, he would examine it, and ſhortly return them an Account or Reaſon of it: Middleton, Bartlet, Vury, have accepted Commands under the new General Hambleton, old Leven, David Leſly, Holburne, Colonel Carr, Lieutenant Colonel Carr, Lieutenant Colonel Middleton, and ſeveral; yea, moſt of the Officers employed by themſelves, and we in England have refuſed; honeſt Men ſay, never was ſuch a ſad Perſecution in that Kingdom; yet God hath exceedingly emboldened the Spirits of the Miniſtry and others to withſtand them, as if a Deliverance were behind the Curtain for them.

‘The laſt Week we told you of a Petition from the Inhabitants of Colcheſter, and a Letter from the Lord Goring to the General in their behalf; That Liberty might be granted to the Bay and Say-makers in that Town, to have a free Trade with London during the Siege; we had then alſo given you the General's Anſwer, but wanted room; we will for better ſatisfaction give it you now.

For the Mayor, Aldermen, and Inhabitants, of the Town of Colcheſter.

The General's Anſwer, to the Petition of the Bay and Say-makers in Colcheſter. and Lord Goring's Letter on their behalf.

Gentlemen,

IT had been good, that the unavoidable conſequence of War, that of reſtraining Trade to a Town beſieged, had been conſidered of by the Inhabitants of your Town, before their admittance of thoſe Forces, which have neceſſarily drawn it upon them; and which indeed firſt began the new diſturbance upon this County and the Kingdom, and that Interruption to your Trade which is complained of. You cannot but remember, that even during the firſt War raiſed againſt the Parliament, while you had none but the Parliament's Forces among you, both your Town and this whole County had as free Trading with London and the parts adjacent, as if there had been no War. And after that, by the Bleſſing of God, the adverſe Forces were in all Parts ſubdued, the whole Kingdom enjoyed for ſome time univerſal Quiet; there was again all freedom of Trade and Commerce throughout all parts, the Forces of the Parliament diſbanded and leſſened by degrees, and therewith Taxes abated; all Plunder and Abuſe of the Soldiers reſtrained, and at laſt free Quarter alſo taken off; and there was no doubt but, with the Bleſſing of God, the Kingdom might have been ſpeedily ſettled and eaſed of its Burthen by degrees, as the ſafety thereof would admit, had it not been for the new diſturbances raiſed chiefly by that Party, whom your Town hath afforded harbour and ſhelter unto for the preſent; where, had they not been admitted, and through the advantage of the place gained ſome preſent breathing, there was little doubt, but by God's Bleſſing, they might, e're this time, have been broken or driven far enough off; and your Town had enjoyed without Interruption the ſame freedom of Trade, and all things elſe, as formerly they had done: And as the preſent Interruption thereto is thus drawn upon your Town, not by my default, but theirs and the Towns-Mens, ſo the firſt beginning thereof, which the Petition alleadges to have been three Weeks paſt, was ſingly by them; there being at that time none of my Forces entred into this County, nor any that ſtop'd your Trade, but the Lord Goring, and thoſe in Conjunction with him, who then lay at Bow, and afterwards at other places upon the London Road; which ſo ſoon as by their diverting another way, it was cleared, there was no ſtop of Trade by the Forces under my Command, either to other parts of this County or your Town, until by their admittance thereinto. I was neceſſarily drawn down hither to beſiege them; now to allow freedome of Trade to a beſieged Town, implies ſo much diſadvantage or prejudice to the Beſiegers, and ſuch advantages to the beſieged, as the like Motion was never yet granted, nor I think made, elſewhere; and therefore as to your and the Inhabitants deſire thereof, their hopefulleſt and ſureſt ways to a full freedom therein, will be ſuch as tend to the reſtitution of the Town and County (as far as may be) into the ſame Condition, wherein they were before thoſe Forces which occaſioned the Interruption came in: And, as in order thereunto, I lately offered fair Conditions in a Letter to the Lord Goring, Lord Capel, and Sir Charles Lucas, though perhaps concealed from you; though they be rejected by them, yet I ſhall be ready to make good the ſame to all that ſhall timely embrace them, except thoſe three Perſons themſelves. And for the mean time, here are many Gentlemen and others of known Eſtates in this County, and divers Inhabitants of your Townſmen, eminent in Trade; who declare themſelves willing to take off all the Bays and Says made in the Town, at ſuch prices as they are uſually ſold for, and give good Security for payment within a fortnight after the Town of Colcheſter ſhall be taken, ſurrendred or quitted; which I hope would be readier payment by many Months, than thoſe Commodities are uſually vended for; or elſe to take them off upon ſuch certain days of payment, as Merchants ordinarily do in that Trade. And though it be a Favour without an Example to a beſieged Town, yet in order hereunto, I ſhall give way to thoſe Commodities, to be freely brought to Stanaway Heath, there to be either ſold upon the Terms aforeſaid, or elſe to be returned into the Town if they cannot bargain; and ſhall give paſſage to and from that place, to the Perſons and Goods of thoſe Tradeſmen, at ſuch times as I ſhall find moſt convenient to be ſet apart for that purpoſe.

Your aſſured Friend,

June 24. 1648.

Tho Fairſax.

Lord Capel deſires, that two Deputies for the Bay and Say-makers may come and treat with the General about a free Trade.

Saturday laſt a Trumpeter came from the Lord Capel, to deſire that Abraham Harſdon and John Raynar, Deputed by the Bay and Say-makers of Colcheſter, might come and treat with His Excellency about a free Trade.

Two Trumpeters and divers Soldiers deſert Colcheſter.

The Lord Capel's Trumpeter, and Colonel Panton's, and divers Soldiers, are this day come from the Enemy; and many have come ſince the General's Letter into the Town, promiſing Liberty to Soldiers, and others of the ſame Rank, to go and live quietly at their own homes.

Colonel Slingsby, Colonel Beale, Colonel Tuke, Colonel Champnes, and divers other Colonels, are very active in this Town.

The Forces in Colcheſter encouraged to hold out.

The Lord Goring and the reſt of the Officers, keep up the Spirits of their Soldiers with falſe Information: When they ask'd what our Trumpeters come ſo often about, they told the Soldiers, "That it was about a Treaty; and that the General offered Fifty Thouſand pounds, if he would let him draw off quietly with his Army, but that he would not grant it.

Petition of the Lord Mayor, &c. for a perſonal Treaty &c.

THIS day a Petition from the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council of the City of London, was preſented to both Houſes of Parliament; The Subſtance thereof, for ſatisfaction of thoſe that have not ſeen the Petition, take briefly thus:

"That a perſonal Treaty may be obtained betwixt His Majeſty and both Houſes, in the City of London, or ſome other convenient Place; where it may be moſt for the Honour of His Majeſty's Royal Perſon, and Preſervation of the Parliament, as their Honours thought fit; unto which Treaty they humbly deſire our Brethren of Scotland may be invited; That ſo, according to the Duty of our Allegiance, Proteſtation, ſolemn League and Covenant, His Majeſty's Royal Perſon, Honour and Eſtate may be preſerved, the Power and Priviledge of Parliament maintained, the juſt Rights and Liberties of the Subjects reſtored, Religion and Government of the Church in Purity eſtabliſhed, all Differences may be the better compoſed, and a firm and laſting Peace concluded;

An. 1648.

‘and the Union between the two Kingdoms continued according to the Covenant; all Armies disbanded, and all your Soldiers juſt Arrears ſatisfied; the Kingdoms Burthens eaſed; and the laudable Government thereof, by the good and wholſom Laws and Cuſtoms, happily advanced.

The Lord's Anſwer to the Petition.

To this the Lords anſwered, “Giving the Petitioners hearty Thanks for their Continuance of their good Affection to the Parliament, and Inclination to the Peace and Settlement of the Kingdom.

The Commons Anſwer.

The Houſe of Commons gave them this Anſwer, “That they have the ſame Fellow-feeling with the City and Kingdom of their Sufferings by War, and the ſame Deſires with them, to attain to a ſafe and well grounded Peace: They have, for that end, ſpent a great part of this laſt Month in Conſiderations of Peace, and have made ſome Progreſs therein; and for the more ſpeedy diſpatch of what farther remains to be done, the Houſes have appointed a Committee to conſider what the King hath offered, and what is farther to be offered to the King, for his ſatisfaction, for ſettling of a ſpeedy and well-grounded Peace, and to conſider of Time, Place, and other Circumſtances, for conveniency of Addreſſes to be made to His Majeſty; and they doubt not, but what they have done, and ſpeedily ſhall do herein, will be fully ſatisfactory to the City of London, and to all others that deſire to ſee the Troubles of this Kingdom ended in a ſafe and juſt Peace. And for your good Affections to the Parliament and Kingdom, manifeſted by your Actions in the late War, and in your preſent Petition for a ſafe and well grounded Peace; the Houſe hath Commanded me to give you Thanks.

Farther Account from Colcheſter.

From Colcheſter League June 26. 1648.

“This day the Enemy drew out ſome Foot into their Orchards and Cloſes under their Works; our Foot immediately went into the open Field, beat them into their Guards, and made thoſe that kept the Guards run alſo; and took their Hour-glaſs, ſet their Guard-Houſe on Fire, killed Two, and brought away one Cook of Greenwich, a Baker, Priſoner. The Suffolk Forces work diligently in making their Trenches before the Eaſt Gate; The Enemy hath quitted Sir Harbottle Grimſton's Houſe at Bradfield, having plundered it ſufficiently, and are retreated to my Lord Banning's Houſe.

Colonel Barkſtead's Regiment are marched over our new Bridg, and are intrenching themſelves about the North Gate.

‘This Night ſome Horſe of Colonel Whaley's were ſent to fire the Enemy's Windmills, which they effected; they have yet two Water-Mills, which we hope alſo to make unſerviceable to them before to morrow.

Wedneſday, June 28. 1648.

THIS day was the Monthly Faſt-day; The Houſe gave Thanks to the Miniſters that preached, and Ordered their Sermons to be Printed.

Further from Colcheſter.

From the League before Colcheſter by Letters the 28. of June, 1648. came as followeth:

‘Yeſterday the Suffolk Forces fell upon the Enemy, killed Two, and took Ten Priſoners; whereof a Kentiſh Man and two London Apprentices, very reſolute Men; they had chewed Bullets rowled in Sand in their pockets, contrary to the Law of Arms; and without doubt, Colonel Needham was ſhot with ſuch, for we have had Shots more dangerous than his Cured: Likewiſe the ſame day 30 of ours fell upon two Troops of the Enemy, killed Two and wounded many. Near the Hedge laſt Night, we had a purpoſe to begin a Battery cloſe under the Walls, but that the Country failed to bring in their Tools; the Enemy ſuſpected it, by viewing of the Ground the day before, ſallied out laſt Night with 100 Horſe in a full Career, thinking to ſurprize our Men; but failing there, they advanced on a ſwift March to our Horſe Guards, and their ſwifteſt came within our Centinels, to our Guard, and diſcharged Piſtols, which gave our main Guard Notice, who inſtantly mounted and charged the Enemy, and pelted them with Shot to their Hedges; which they had lined with Muſqueteers, and took off his Headpiece that Commanded in Chief. We had Intelligence laſt Night out of the Town, That their Horſes were ſadled, and that they intended to break thorough by the way of Walden, which probably they were intended to have done; for thoſe who came out (as one of them confeſſed) were the Commanders in Chief and Gentlemen of Quality, who, if they eſcape not, muſt cut the Throats of all their Horſes. The Enemy ſhoots Iron pieces, which makes us think they have near ſpent their Shot; nothing hath hapned this day remarkable.

News came this day, “That a Party of the Enemy from Pontefract, had poſſeſſed themſelves of Axholme Iſland near Trent.

Iſland of Axholme poſſeſſed by the Pontefracters.

THree Petitions were this day preſented to the Houſe, from the Mariners of Trinity Houſe; The one intituled, The humble Petition of the younger Brothers of Trinity Houſe; the ſecond entituled, The humble Petition of the Commanders, Maſters, and Marriners, of the Shipping belonging to the River of Thames; the third, The humble Petition of the Maſter, Wardens, and Fellows, of Trinity Houſe; praying a perſonal Treaty with His Majeſty, &c. Which Petition was read in the Houſe of Commons; and a Committee appointed to draw up an Anſwer thereunto.

Three Petitions of the Marriners read, and a Committee appointed to draw up an Anſwer.

The Suffolk Forces work apace in making their League; The Enemy is debarred from all manner of Proviſions out of Tendring Hundred or elſewhere, and believe it can hardly eſcape us any way. Wedneſday, a Party of the Suffolk Forces from Cataway-Bridge, went into Tendering Hundred, and took ten Troopers of the Enemy plundering, and afterwards went to Sir Harbottle Grimſton's Houſe at Bradfield, where they found it a miſerable place; all the Goods in and about the Houſe taken away, the Beds torn in pieces; the Enemy hath done above a 1000 l. Damage there. A Meſſage from the Lords, about a perſonal Treaty.

A Meſſage this day came from the Houſe of Lords, acquainting them; "That the Members of their Houſe, of the Committee appointed to conſider of a perſonal Treaty with His Majeſty, who met yeſterday and had a great Debate about a Perſonal Treaty, with His Majeſty's Remove nearer London; had Reported two Votes in relation to that Buſineſs, in which the Lords had Concurred, and deſired the Concurrence of that Houſe thereunto. Hereupon the Members of the Houſe of Commons of the ſaid Committee, made their Report of the ſaid Votes, which were to this Purpoſe; "Firſt, That the Vote of the 3d of January, 1647. forbidding any Addreſſes to be made to, or received from His Majeſty, ſhould be made Null. 2. And, that His Majeſty be removed to ſome of his Houſes within 10 Miles of London.

The Houſe of Commons Ordered, "That in reſpect the Houſe of Peers had agreed to ſit to Morrow and Monday, for diſpatching the great Buſineſs of a Perſonal Treaty, which the Kingdom ſo much expect; That they would likewiſe ſit on the ſaid days; and that to morrow this Meſſage be farther Debated.

Another from the Lords, on behalf of the Lady Capel.

Another Meſſage came from the Lords, “ Recommending the Petition of the Lady Capel on the Behalf of her eldeſt Son, who is apprehended and ſent down Priſoner to the Lord General, to be uſed in the ſame Condition, as the Committee of Eſſex are with the Enemy; and deſiring, that ſhe may have ſuch ſatisfaction herein, as may be for the Juſtice and Honour of the Parliament.

A Letter to be ſent to the General on her behalf.

The Houſe hereupon Ordered, “ That a Letter ſhould be written from the Houſe to the Lord General Fairfax, with the Petition of the ſaid Lady Capel therein; and that His Lordſhip be deſired, to do therein, as may be for the Juſtice and Honour of Parliament.

Another Meſſage, That Mr. Dowcet be required to give his Teſtimony, in caſe of Major Rolfe.

A Meſſage this day from the Lords, deſiring that one Mr. Dowcet may have free Liberty to attend their Lordſhips, as often as his Teſtimony ſhall be required in the Buſineſs of Major Rolfe; and to return him with Safety, which was aſſented unto. Their Lordſhips alſo Ordered Major Rolfe to be Committed Priſoner to the Gatehouſe.

The Committees of Suſſex and Worceſterſhire to have Power to raiſe Horſe and Foot, to ſuppreſs Inſurrections.

The Houſe Ordered, “ That the Committee of Suſſex, and the Committee of Worceſterſhire, ſhall have leave to raiſe ſuch Horſe and Foot, as they ſhall think fit, for ſuppreſſing all Tumults and Inſurrections in their Counties; and for preſerving the Peace thereof.

The reſt of this day was ſpent upon the Ordinance for Religion.

Farther from Colcheſter.

From the League before Colcheſter came farther thus: “ As ſoon as it was day this Morning, Thurſday June 29. the Enemy plaid with their great Guns againſt our Horſe-Guards and new Work near the Alms-Houſe; but when they ſaw how deep our Men were in their Trenches, that the Shot could not hurt, they deſiſted ſhooting with great Shot, and fell to annoy us with ſmall Shot out of Mr. Grimſton's Houſe, ſtanding near the Walls of the Town; but our great Cannon ſhooting thorough and thorough the Houſe, cutting off the Arms and Legs of many of them, they were glad to fly into the Town, and in a malicious humour ſet the Houſe on Fire, and burnt other Houſes with it.

“ The Enemy ſallied out laſt Night, on the other ſide the League, towards Suffolk; which our Horſe diſcovering, lined the Hedges with Dragoons, and went on with a Party of Horſe, as if they had meant to Charge the Enemy; and then facing about run away, as if they had been afraid of the Enemy who purſued them; and as ſoon as they came up, the Dragoons did ſo gall the Enemy with Shot, that they forbore to advance farther; there being at that time a Lieutenant Colonel, and four other Officers of the Enemy, very deſperately wounded, and ſome ſlain: And ſome who came out of the Town this day, confirmed the ſame. And this Morning they ſallied out again with their Troops of Horſe, 500 Foot and a Drake: Our Horſe-Guards that were upon the Road from Eaſt-gate toward Tendring Hundred, perceiving the drawing out both Horſe and Foot towards Grimſtead Church; and that the Paſſage being narrow, the Horſe could not engage them; Foot were ſent for to come to the aſſiſtance of the Horſe: But before our Foot could come up from the Suffolk Forces, the Enemy had taken up thereabouts, and driven in ſome Cattel, and killed one Mr. Sandford at Burleſca, that had Intereſt in the Caſtle; though it is ſaid he was ‘their great Friend. And this Night we had deſigned to have fortified Grimſtead Church near the Hive, with Foot and a Piece of Cannon; ſo that they muſt take their Fare-well of any more Proviſion. Had the Suffolk Fort been finiſhed ſooner, we ſhould have had Foot as well as Horſe, to have ſecured that Hundred. Four Companies of Colonel Ingoldsby's Regiment, and ſome Horſe, are marched to ſecure the Church, which Commands the Cauſey, and gives paſſage over Hive-Bridge into Tendering Hundred.

A Colonel that came out of Colcheſter taken.

‘There was this day taken Priſoner in or near Harwich, a Colonel that came out of Colcheſter, who, upon Examination, called himſelf by the Name of Colonel Smithſon; but ſome Townſmen, who ſaw him there in Town, ſay, that his Soldiers called him Colonel Bard; but thoſe that have ſeen him ſay, it is not Sir Henry Bard.

The beſieged gave out that 700 London Apprentices were coming for their Relief.

‘This day the Enemy in Colcheſter gave out, That 700 London Apprentices, with four Guns, were this Night come to Chelmsford for their Relief, That the Parliament Men are all driven from Weſtminſter into the Army.

They burnt Mr. Barrington's Houſe, and threaten to burn the Subburbs.

‘The Enemy have this Night burnt Mr. Barrington's Houſe, on the other ſide the Town; they give out that they will fire the Subburbs. They are fortifying the Lord Dacres his Houſe in the Town, it being moted round, and are reſolved to keep that to the laſt; ſo that nothing but Deſtruction is expected to this poor Town.

Debate of the three Bills to be ſent to Scotland.

THE Houſe this day, according to former Order, reſumed the Debate of yeſterday, concerning the not inſiſting upon the three Bills ſent into Scotland, and the Vote reported from the Committee, That His Majeſty ſhould come within Ten Miles of London to ſome of his Courts: And it being a Buſineſs of that Concernment, the Houſe Ordered a further Debate of this Buſineſs to be on Monday next. And becauſe there ſhould be a full Houſe at the Debate of a Buſineſs of ſo great Concernment; They Ordered, ‘That all the Members that are in Town, be required to attend the Houſe on that day.

Committee appointed to take Care the Army be ſupplied with Moneys.

The Houſe received a Letter this day from the Lord General, giving the Houſe an Account of Affairs before Colcheſter, the Sum whereof you have before: The Houſe Ordered, ‘That Four Members of the Committee of the Army, the Members of the Houſe of Commons of the Counties of Norfolk, Suffolk, Hertfordſhire, Cambridge, and Eſſex, being joined with them, ſhould go down to the Army, and Iſſue out their Warrants, and take Care, That that part of the Army before Colcheſter may be ſupplied with Moneys out of the Aſſeſſments of Eſſex and the adjacent Counties; and that they have the ſame Power there, as when they ſit here, in order to the receiving and iſſuing out Moneys.

4500 l. to be raiſed in Eſſex, for two Troops of Horſe and one Company of Dragoons.

An Ordinance for raiſing 4500 l. in the County of Eſſex, for advancing of two Troops of Horſe, and one Company of Dragoons, for the Service of the ſaid County, was read and aſſented unto.

The like Ordinance for the County of Suſſex was read, and upon the Queſtion aſſented unto.

The General's Letter from the League before Colcheſter to the Parliament.

Letters this day from the League before Colcheſter, inform as followeth: " This day we have been very quiet, not one Man nor Horſe ' of the Enemy's appearing out of their Works; our Men have ſecured ' Greenſtead-Church, and the Paſs from the Hithe, ſo that now both the ' Eaſt and North Paſſages are ſo ſtopp'd, that they can make no Incurſion into Tendering Hundred, or any part, for Proviſion. The Work ' near the Alms-Houſes, begun the other Night, is now almoſt finiſhed; ' they Graft ſo high, that they are forced to make uſe of Ladders for the ' perfecting thereof. Our Purdues lie ſo near the Enemy, as to hear them ' diſcourſe, drink Healths, &c. Some of our Muſqueteers go ſo near the ' Town, towards the head Gate, that the Enemy's Muſqueteers fired out ' of the Windows upon them: The Enemy this day opened three of their ' Sally-Ports, and left only Head-Gate block'd up; which, as is conceived, is in relation to an Eſcape.

His Letters to the Lord Goring &c.

This day His Excellency ſent in a Letter, ſignifying, " That the Parliament being ſenſible of their ſeizing of Sir William Maſſam and others ' of the Committee, not being Priſoners of War, had ſent down the ' Lord Capel's Son, with others, that he might be ſent in Exchange for ' Sir William Maſſam. His Excellency therewith ſent Two Affidavits upon Oath; by which it appeared, That by the Earl of Norwich and the ' Officers Directions, the Soldiers had chewed Bullets, and caſt with ' Sand, delivered out of the Stores, (whence they uſually received Ammunition) which being a thing contrary to the Law of Arms, he required the like might be forborn for the future, or to expect what will ' follow.

The Lord Goring's Anſwer.

To that concerning the Lord Capel's Son, this Evening His Lordſhip made a particular Anſwer; That he conceived it inhumane, and that if all the Committee had been offered for him, he would have diſdained the Motion; and that he joyed to ſee any of his, (if no other way) yet by their Sufferings, to pay that Duty they owe to the King and known Laws of the Kingdom. To that concerning Bullets, the Generals returned Anſwer, denying any ſuch Command or Practice; but for rough caſt Slugs, they were the beſt they could ſend on the ſudden.

Major Rolfe removed from his Lodging to the Gatehouſe.

This day Major Rolfe, by Order of the Lords, was removed from his Lodging in London, where he lay very ill of a great Diſtemper in Body; and was carried in a Horſe-litter, guarded by a Company of Trained-bands, to the Gatehouſe at Weſtminſter. Before he was removed, he ſent a Letter to the Lords by two Chirurgeons attending him, which was as followeth.

His Letter to the Lords.

My Lords,

B*Eing informed, That this honourable Houſe hath paſſed an Order for my Commitment, and knowing my ſelf (I ſpeak in the preſence of God who ſearcheth all hearts) to be ſo perfectly clear and innocent of that foul and horrid Crime charged upon me, that I abhor the very Thoughts both of it, and alſo of concealing my ſelf from your Lordſhips; earneſtly deſiring an Opportunity of appearing, for vindication of my Innocency in this Matter, or whatever elſe Malice in wicked Men can lay againſt me; Reſting fully aſſured, That whatſoever Award I may find at the hands of Men, I ſhall enjoy the happineſs of an upright and peaceable Conſcience with the ſame God.*

I ſhould ſtill have attended your Lordſhips pleaſure, had not that Diſtemper of Body, (which was before upon me) by its growth neceſſitated me to apply my ſelf unto the uſe of Means; whereby I am at preſent ſo diſabled, that without apparent danger, I cannot now wait upon your Lordſhips; the Truth whereof theſe Bearers my Chirurgeons can teſtifie. Thus craving your Lordſhips favourable Couſtruction of my preſent Condition, with acceptance of theſe Lines, I reſt,

Your Lordſhips moſt humble Servant,

The Debate concerning a perſonal Treaty reaſſumed.

THIS day the Houſe of Commons, according to former Order, reſumed the grand Debate, Concerning a perſonal Treaty to be had with His Majeſty; and whether the Three Bills ſent into Scotland ſhould be inſiſted upon before the Treaty. The Debate hereupon held very long this day; and at laſt it was reſolved, "That the Three Bills, viz. 'The Firſt for ſettling the Presbiterial Government for three Years; The 'Second for recalling all His Majeſty's Declarations and Proclamations 'againſt the Parliament; The Third for ſettling the Militia in the hands 'of the Parliament, ſhould be drawn up, and ſent as Propoſitions: To 'which His Majeſty is to give his Approbation, by ſubſcribing his 'Hand before a Treaty; and to give Aſſurance to paſs them into Acts, ſo 'ſoon as he ſhall come to London and ſit in Parliament.

The Time and Place of Treaty is not yet reſolved on, but admits of another Debate

Private liſting of Soldiers diſcovered, and the chief Actors apprehended.

The Houſe was informed, how that the Royal Party in and about London have been, and are very active, in private liſting of Soldiers, and raiſing of Horſe and Arms, as was ſomewhat more publickly diſcovered yeſterday in Loathbury, where they were liſting: And upon notice, the chief Actors being apprehended, were reſcued again by their own Party, and four of them eſcaped.

For the better ſecurity of the City, a new Regiment of Horſe to be raiſed.

The Commons conſidering of the Carriage of this buſineſs, and the great danger of the City and Parliament, reſolved for their better Guard and Security, to raiſe a new Regiment of Horſe, and put them under the Command of Major General Skippon. Ordered 5000 l. out of Haberdaſhers and Goldſmith's Hall for raiſing of them; and ſuch Citizens or others, as pleaſe to ſend in any Horſe or Arms voluntarily, under the ſaid Major General's Command, for the defence of the Parliament, City, and Parts adjacent, they have declared it an acceptable Service.

14000 l. to be raiſed upon the Eſtates of Delinquents in Kent and Eſſex.

An Ordinance for raiſing 14000*l.* upon the Eſtates of ſuch of Kent or Eſſex as have engaged in the late Inſurrections there, was put to the Queſtion, and paſſed.

The Pontefracters plunder the Country.

* July 3.

The Poſt Letters from the North were this Week intercepted. From Belvoir Caſtle, June 30. came as followeth: "The Enemy at Pontefract 'Caſtle ſtill go on at pleaſure, taking and plundering whom they pleaſe, 'and yet pleaſe to deal ſo with none but thoſe who have been moſt 'active for the Parliament. Having quitted the Iſle of Axholme, they came 'towards Lincoln, and * yeſterday entred the City, plundered the Houſe of 'Captain Pert, who is now in Arms in Northumberland for the Parliament, 'and may do as much for them and many others, to the great Dam'mage if not Ruine of them. They have Priſoners Captain Bees, Captain 'Fines, and others; Colonel Roſſiter was at a diſtance. They went far'ther on, and took Priſoner Mr. Ellis; they brag they have 3000 liſted 'in Lincolnſhire; but there are divers Thouſands in Leiceſter, Derby, Rut'land, and Lincolnſhire, who are ready to join againſt theſe.

They killed one Mr. Smith in Lincoln, belonging to the Sequeſtration.

Ordinance to be brought in for ſecuring the juſt Debts of thoſe that have adhered to the Parliament.

THE Commons, for ſatisfaction of the Debts of the Kingdom, upon Complaint of many of them to the Houſe; and for a farther Encouragement to ſuch as ſhall aſſiſt them for the time to come, (if the Treaty takes Effect or not) paſs'd a Vote, "That before a Treaty be concluded, all juſt Debts to ſuch as have adhered to the Parliament in this War, ſhall be paid or ſecured; and that an Ordinance be brought in to this Purpoſe.

Derby Houſe Committee to take off the Security of Suſſex.

The Forces in Suſſex, though much allayed, yet a great Danger apprehended, if the Garriſons of that County ſhould not be ſpeedily ſecured. It was therefore referred to Derby Houſe, to make Farnham Caſtle defenſible, and likewiſe ſecure Rigate, Martin Abby; and all other places of Strength in that County.

Long Debate about the Militia of the whole Kingdom.

The Ordinance for the Militia of the whole Kingdom admitted of a ſerious and long Debate; many Gentlemens Names of ſeveral Counties deſired to be incerted, but rejected. A Clauſe to be added thereunto, viz. "That no new Forces be raiſed or put into Garriſons, without the Conſent of the Committees of the Militia of the ſeveral Counties, Committed.

The Forces under the Command of Sir Richard Tempeſt, defeated by Colonel Lilburn.

By Letters this day out of Lancaſhire is certified, "That a Party of 600 Horſe, under the Command of Colonel Lilburn, engaged againſt the Forces under Sir Richard Tempeſt and others joined, to the Number of a 1000. After ſome hot Diſpute, 600 of the Enemies Horſe taken, and 300 Priſoners; amongſt which were many Knights and Gentlemen of Quality: This Intelligence we had farther confirmed from Newcaſtle the day following.

Sir George Aiſcough declared againſt the Revolters.

From the Navy came Letters, "That Sir George Aiſcough is come in with the Lion, one of the Parliament's Ships, and declares his hatred againſt the Perfidiouſneſs of the other Ships that are gone away, and ſtand out againſt the Parliament; engaging himſelf and the whole Ship with him, to do their beſt for reducing the Revolters.

From the League before Pembroke in Wales, by Letters June 28. is thus written:

The Town of Pembroke reduced to ſtraights.

"Tueſday laſt we gave the Town an Allarm; 120 within laid down their Arms, vowing never to take them up again: They were of Colonel Boteler's Regiment; but Poyer and Langhorne, prevailed with them by telling them if Relief came not in five days, they would yield, and they ſhould hang them if they did not. They confeſt on Friday laſt, they had not Proviſions for 14 days; we expect every day that moſt of them will come to us through want; they only have a little Rain-water and Bisket left; it's ſtill feared, Poyer will go into the Caſtle with ſome Gentlemen, and leave the reſt to Mercy. If we get the Town, we doubt not to carry the Caſtle ſuddenly; our Guns for want of Wind are not yet come from Briſtol, we expect them hourly; had they come, we had done before this; we ſhot Stones into the Town with our Mortar-pieces, which kill'd divers.

From Colonel Jones, Governour of Dublin in Ireland, is thus written:

SIR,

Moneys and Proviſion arrived at Dublin.

HERE is arrived Moneys from Briſtol, 50000 l. which was once deſigned for Munſter; and 3391 l. 6 s. 6 d. from London. 6000 Saits, and all ſorts of Grain; 6571 Barrels; had I but Men, I ſhould, (God aſſiſting) ſoon end this War. When my Meſſenger returns out of Munſter you ſhall hear farther. I am,

Letters from the Leaguer before Colcheſter.

“From Colcheſter Leagure came thus, dated this Morning at four a Clock; Our great Guns and Carriages are come, the Cannon planted, Lieutenant Colonel Pitman, Mr. Gibſon, and Lucas his Carpenter, with others, have deſerted them. Mrs. Gibſon, Mrs. Lamb, and others of the Enemies Wives, came out, but were turned into Colcheſter again. The Wives of the well-affected are not ſuffered to come out, and complained to the Lord Goring for want of Victuals, many ready to ſtarve; he ſaid they muſt not complain, till Horſefleſh is worth 10 d. per Pound, but appeaſed by giving them Moneys We kill'd ſome of their Horſes under the Walls; Horſe-meat and Corn they are not diſtreſſed of; when the Line is finiſhed from the North-bridge River to Sir Charles Lucas his Houſe, the General will batter and ſtorm. They have in Colcheſter 20 Pieces of Ordnance, and 200 Barrels of Powder, but want great Shot.

The Common Council of London petition to have the Militia ſettled.

THE Common Council of London preſented a Petition to both Houſes this day, with another Petition from the Commiſſion-Officers of the Trained-bands of London; deſiring, First, “That the Militia of the City of London and adjacent Parts, may be ſettled in one Committee: And if the Parliament ſhall think fit, to join ſome Perſons of the Parts adjacent to the Grand Committee, they may be ſuch as have no Places of Profit, which depend upon the continuance of War and our Troubles; or have ſhewed themſelves diſaffected to the ends of the Covenant. 2. That the King may be brought to London with Freedom, Honour, and Safety, to treat with His Parliament for ſettling of a ſafe and well-grounded Peace. 3. That the Militia of the City of London may have Power to raiſe Horſe, (if need be) for the Defence of the King, Parliament, and City.

The Lords declare their willingneſs to grant their deſires.

The Lords gave Anſwer, “That they have conſidered of the Petitions; they had of themſelves made ſome Progreſs in thoſe things mentioned therein: And they do now declare, That they have thought fit to grant their Deſires in all their particulars contained in the Petitions; in Confidence that the City of London will be careful to make good their great Engagement now made, for the preſerving and ſecuring His Majeſty's Perſon, and the Parliament, from Tumults, Mutinies, Inſurrections, or other Diſorders, that may interrupt the Honour, Freedom, and Safety, of the King or Parliament. And they cannot doubt, but that they will ſtill adhere to live and die in Defence of the King and Parliament, according to their Covenant. Mr. Speaker, by Command of the Houſe of Commons, gave them this Anſwer.

The Commons alſo agree to the ſettling the Militia.

“The Houſe have read your Petition, and the Petition annexed; and they have agreed to the joining of the Militias.

Eighty Seamen offer their Service towards reducing the Revolted Ships.
Sir Arthur Haſlerig's Letter of his Succeſs againſt Langdale. July 1.

affected Seamen of Trinity Houſe, Maſters of Ships, &c. Offering their Service upon the Command of the Parliament, for the Reducement of the revolted Ships, if Shipping may be deſigned for that purpoſe; upon reading their Petition they had Thanks given them, and the buſineſs referred to a Committee.

A Letter was this day read in the Houſe of Commons, from Sir Arthur Haſlerig, Governour of Newcaſtle, of a gallant Victory obtained againſt Langdale's Forces in Northumberland, July 1. The Sum of all is thus, " Langdale, as you heard laſt week, retreated, upon Major-Gene‘ral Lambert's approaching, and would not engage his Forces upon ‘terms of advantage, reſolving to preſerve his Body whole to join with ‘the Scots; and upon his Retreat to Carliſle, he ſent Col. Tempeſt, with ‘7 or 800 of his Horſe, to meet Col. Grey, that was before that time
‘kept up in Berwick by our Northumberland Horſe, with the aſſiſtance ‘of Major Saunderſon's two Troops; but upon Col. Te[illegible]'s coming in-
‘to Northumberland, ours drew towards Newcaſtle, and Col. Grey with ‘his Forces from Berwick, joined with Col. Tempeſt about Alnwick: Sir
‘Arthur Haſlerig then ſent for the Biſhoprick's Regiment of Horſe, un‘der Col. Wren, to come into Northumberland, to join with Col. Fen‘wick, who commanded Northumberland's new raiſed Regiment; and ‘Major Sanderſon alſo mounted about 100 of his Foot as Dragoons,
‘and ſent them to them; He writ alſo to Major-General Lambert,
‘letting him underſtand that the Enemy was joined, and intreated
‘him to ſend ſome Aſſiſtance immediately to our Forces. Upon Friday
‘laſt Col. Lilburn, with Three Troops of Horſe, came to them at *Chol-
‘lerton*, and that Evening they marched towards the Enemy that lay
‘about Eſlington and Whittingham, and all along Cocquet water; and ha‘ving marched all that night, the next Morning they fell into their Quar‘ters, and they fell in ſo cloſe from Town to Town for about Seven ‘Miles, that they ſuffered the Enemy to take no Alarm. There are ‘taken moſt of the conſiderable Gentlemen of Northumberland, and ‘Biſhoprick, that were the firſt Beginners of this War, and Encoura-
‘gers of the Scots to come into England, and at leaſt 300 private Sol‘diers, and between 5 and 600 Horſes, and good ſtore of Arms, with-
‘out the loſs of one Man on either ſide. A Liſt of the Commanders
‘and Gentlemen is alſo ſent. This Victory was very ſeaſonable, but ‘we may not think the Work of the North over by it; for it is certain ‘That the Scots are come very near the Borders, and Langdale is joined ‘with them, and their numbers will be far too great for what we are Proviſions grown ſcarce in Colcheſter.

League before Colcheſter, this 4 July, 1648. "This day produced no 'matter of Action. The Enemy, by reaſon of the great Flood, cannot 'eſcape over the River, had he purpoſe to do it; we keep ſtrong 'Guards on this ſide the Town, in caſe they attempt this way; ſeve'ral come out of the Town, and do confirm what others daily tell us, 'of the great want of Bread amongſt the Townſmen. The Peo'ple complained of their great want to the Lord Goring; He and his 'Officers anſwered, They muſt not complain till Horſe-fleſh came to 'be 10 d. a pound.

'We make all the haſte we can with our Line, to the end we may 'ſpare more Horſe and Foot, if the deſperate Party about London ſhould 'attempt to get into a Body, with intention to raiſe the Siege.

The Line about the ſaid Town haſtened. A Porter from London got into Colcheſter, puts them in hopes of Relief.

This day a Porter in Soldier's Habit, who came from the Bell in Grace-Church-ſtreet, got into Colcheſter, with Intelligence from the Malignant Party in the City, aſſuring the Enemy that there was a great Force coming from London for their Relief: And Wigmore the Carrier did undertake that Credit might be given to the Porter in what he ſaid.

Major-General Brown to continue Sheriff of London.

THE Houſe of Commons this day Voted, “That they did give leave, that Major-General Brown ſhould continue one of the Sheriffs of the City of London, according to the Election of the ſaid City.

The Houſe conſidered of the good Affections and Forwardneſs of many well-affected Perſons in the ſeveral Counties of the Kingdom, that have raiſed Forces for Defence of themſelves and their Counties, and have not any Authority of Parliament for ſo doing, being compelled thereunto by neceſſity; The Houſe hereupon Declared, “That it was an acceptable Service in all ſuch as have, or ſhall raiſe Forces in this Kingdom againſt the Common Enemy.

Letters from Scotland.

Letters this day came out of Scotland from our Commiſſioners, Dated the 21 and 27 of July laſt, with ſeveral Copies of Meſſages from them to the Parliament of Scotland, and their Anſwer thereunto.

The ſaid Letters Debated.

They likewiſe acquainted the Houſe, That they had Granted a Paſs to Monſieur Monteril, Chief Agent for the King of France, to come to London. The reading theſe Letters and Papers took up moſt part of the day; and becauſe the whole Kingdom may receive Satisfaction in the Tranſaction of the Commiſſioners of Scotland, and of the Brotherly Love and Union endeavoured to be preſerved by this Kingdom; They Ordered; “That all the Letters and Papers ſhould be forthwith Printed.

The Houſe then Conſidered of the Security of their own Sitting, and the Safety of the City of Weſtminſter; and in order thereunto, Voted, “That the Horſe already Liſted and to be Liſted, under the Command of Col. Boteler, and Quartermaſter-General Fincher, ſhould be Quarted at the Meuſe.

Letters this day from the League before Colcheſter give to underſtand a notable piece of Service at that League yeſterday, July 5. Thus, Thoſe in Colcheſter Sally out and were defeated.

“The Enemy Sallied forth at Eaſt-Bridge about Eight on Wedneſday in the Morning with 1000 Foot and 300 Horſe, and fell on our Guard very ſuddenly, and ſurprized ſome of them, being Countrymen, the reſt retreated to the main Guard; Col. Whaley perceived what advantage the Enemy had got, preſently advanced with his Horſe to get between them and home, whilſt Col. Barkſtead's Regiment Advanced towards the Front, and routed both Horſe and Foot together, and took about 100 Priſoners, the moſt of them miſerably wounded; the Soldiers giving them a Payment for their poiſon'd Bullets; about 20 of the Enemy were ſlain on the place, moſt Gentlemen, their good Apparel and white Skins ſpeak no leſs: Lieutenant-Col. Weſton, Son to Sir Richard Weſton, and Two Captains more, were taken Priſoners; the Retreat was ſo haſty, that our two Drakes which they ſurprized at Eaſt-Bridge, they left behind, ſo that we gained them, the Houſe, and Turnpike, where we formerly were. Lieut. Colonel Shambrooke was ſhot in the Body, the Bullet ſince taken out, and we find it poiſon'd, boiled in Coprice; our Soldiers hope to be revenged ‘of them the next Engagement for this poiſon'd Bullet. Capt. Moody, who Commanded a Troop of Suffolk Horſe, was taken Priſoner, engaging the Enemy very boldly in Perſon; one Soldier had his Leg ſhot off with a great Bullet, and ſome wounded. The Enemy was this day ſo ſufficiently beaten, that unleſs Hunger, which breaks Stone Walls, enforce them to play their laſt Game, they will no more appear.

Friday, July 7. 1648.

A Treaty with the Aldermen, &c. about the ſecurity of the City.

THE laſt Night a Committee of both Houſes Treated with the Committee of Aldermen and Common Council of London, about the Security the City would give for the Security of His Majeſties Perſon, and the Parliament, during the time of their Treaty in London, if it ſhould be ſo agreed for His Majeſty to come to London to a Treaty; and this day the Cities Anſwer hereunto was Reported to the Houſe, and ſome Debate thereupon; the Buſineſs being of that weight and importance, and the Houſes deſiring to give the City and Kingdom Satisfaction herein, Ordered, “That notwithſtanding the general Order of Adjournment from Friday till Tueſday following, the Houſe ſhould Sit both Saturday and Monday.

Letter from the Duke of Buckingham, &c. to the City, inviting them to join with them.

The City likewiſe this day acquainted the Houſe with a Declaratory Letter they had the laſt Night ſent them, Directed To the City of London, and Signed by the Earl of Holland, Duke of Buckingham, and the Earl of Peterborough; Declaring their Intentions, to join with the Forces of Surrey, Suſſex, and Middleſex, to Releaſe and Preſerve His Majeſties Perſon, to bring him to his Parliament, to ſettle Peace in the Kingdom, and to preſerve the known Laws of the Kingdom; inviting the City to join with them, or at leaſt not to be active againſt them. The Letter to the City, for better Satisfaction, was as followeth;

To the Lord Mayor, Aldermen and Commons of the City in Common Council Aſſembled.

The Letter at large.

Having a long time beheld the ſad Calamities and Miſeries of theſe Kingdoms, and finding no other means for Redreſs, we are forced into this Undertaking, which we deſire may be rightly underſtood of all that are Well-affected, but not to the preſent Deſigns, eſpecially of this City, whoſe Actions and Endeavours do ſufficiently evidence their good Affections: To this end we have incloſed a brief account of our Intentions, or Pretences of Peace to the Kingdom, which we hope may give Satisfaction both to you, and the whole Kingdom, whoſe Aſſiſtance, with God's Bleſſing, we deſire no farther, than our Deſigns are real for the Good and Happineſs, both of the King, Parliament and Kingdom, according to our Covenant.

Your Humble Servants,

G. Buckingham, Holland, Peterborough.

The Commons debate the ſaid Letter, and Declare them Traitors.

And Order their Eſtates to be Sequeſtred.

The Houſe of Commons had Debate hereupon, and Voted, “That the ſaid Earl of Holland, Duke of Buckingham, and Earl of Peterborough, had Levied War againſt the Parliament and Kingdom; and in ſo doing were Traitors, and ought to be proceeded againſt as Traitors.

They farther Ordered, “The Eſtates of the ſaid Earl of Holland, Duke of Buckingham, and Earl of Peterborough, ſhould be Sequeſtred by the ſeveral and reſpective Committees where they lie, and all the Eſtates of all other Perſons, that join with them herein.

An. 1648.

The Lords deſire Mr. Dowcet may be Diſcharged.

The Lords deſired, by way of Meſſage, that Mr. Dowcet might be diſcharged upon ſufficient Bail, to attend the King's Council, in the buſineſs of Major Rolfe.

1500 l. a Month to be Levied upon the County of Lincoln.

An Ordinance was read for Leving the Sum of 1500 l. per Month, upon the County of Lincoln, for maintenance of a Regiment of Foot in that County; and Aſſented unto.

A farther Account of the Succeſs againſt Colchester.

From the League before Colcheſter, July 6, 1648. Twelve at Night. 'We have got farther Intelligence of yeſterday's buſineſs, and find it to 'be a greater Victory than at firſt we conceived; for we underſtand 'from good hands in the Town, That as they had Officers of Quality 'ſlain in the field, ſo they have had ſome dead ſince they were brought 'wounded into the Town; and that divers of their Officers received 'very dangerous wounds.

They much lament their Loſs.

'They much lament that their Succeſs was no better, in regard they 'drew out all their conſiderable Foot they had in the Town, leaving 'not 600 upon the Line, and thought, by this Attempt upon our freſh Sol'diers, to have fleſhed their Men for farther Service.

Draw out again but attempt nothing.

'This day the Enemy drew out on this ſide the Town, as if they 'would have interrupted our Men in the new Work they are making 'near the Lord Lucas his Houſe; but they did not attempt it, neither 'would our Cannon give them leave to ſtay long without the Walls.

The Town reduced to great want.

'It is Certified from all hands within, That their Hearts are very much 'down, and that the Conditions offered would now be acceptable. 'The Lord Goring and Capel carry things very high and peremptorily, 'but Sir Charles Lucas more moderate; the Townſmen are infinitely wea'ry of their Company; Butter is not to be had under 5 s. the Pound, and 'Cheeſe almoſt at as dear a rate; and the Soldiers do ſeize upon the 'Meal at the Mills, and Bread at the Bakers, which doth reduce the 'Townſmen to extream Miſery and want of Bread.

'We are reſolved to undergo hard Duty, but we will ruin their Horſe, 'if they attempt to eſcape.

Capt. Moody exchanged.

'Capt. Moody, who was taken Priſoner, is ſorely wounded, but is this 'day exchanged; the Enemy had 24 Priſoners of ours, and we 96 of 'theirs; a Trumpeter is gone about the exchanging of them.

'Lieutenant-Col. Shambrooke is dead of the ſhot he received by the 'poiſoned Bullet; and many of the Priſoners we took yeſterday, are 'likewiſe dead of thoſe Wounds and Cuts they received, meerly for 'their uſing of poiſoned Bullets, who otherwiſe had received fair Quar'ter.

An Order was made, For 540 l. to Colonel James Hopton, and 770 l. for Colonel Herbert, as to their Arrears.

Col. Roſſiter routs the Pontefract Forces.

Letters this day to the Houſe from Colonel Roſſiter, from Nottingham, July 6, ‘That he had met with the Pontefract Forces upon their Return after their Plundring Voyage, and engaged them at a Place called Willoughby-Field, routed their whole Party, conſiſting of about 1000, took 600 Horſe and their Riders, the Commander in Chief, and all his Officers, all their Bag and Baggage, the reſt routed, but not many ſlain; Colonel Roſſiter unhappily wounded in the Thigh. Captain Harwood, who brought the Letters, had 100 l. given him by Order of the Houſe.

Letters from Sir Mich. Leveſey, of the defeating the Forces under the D. of Buckingham, &c. near Kingſton.

This day came Letters to the Houſe, of the Proceedings of Sir Michael Leveſey and the Forces with him againſt the Earl of Holland, Duke of Buckingam, his Brother the Lord Francis, Earl of Peterborough, and the reſt about Kingſton; ‘That on Friday Morning this Party marched from Darking with their whole Force to poſſeſs Rigate, which they had, and quitted the day before; but their Deſign was now diſappointed by Major Gibbons, and two Troops of Colonel Rich's Horſe entring the Town before; Upon this they marched the next way for Kingſton, ours purſued thoſe, and took ſome Horſe and Men Priſoners betwixt Uwell and Nonſuch-Park: In the mid-way between Nonſuch and Kingſton, the Enemy drew up and faced us, this was ſometime diſputed by Parties, whilſt the Enemy ſent their Foot before into Kingſton to ſecure their Retreat; the Forlorns fought gallantly, ours led on by the Cornet of Colonel Riches, who was ſeconded by Major Gibbons's Troops, and their Diviſion followed cloſe on: The Enemy was routed, and the Purſuit violently followed to Kingſton; but the Foot ſent before making good the Turnpike, and our Foot not being come up, it was not thought fit to enter the Town with them. Friday Night we kept our Guard on that ſide the Town, thinking to make ſome farther Attempt this Morning, but they not anſwering our Alarm, the Horſe-Guard advanced into the Town, and found it quit of the Enemy; they left near 100 Horſe in the Town with their Carriages, and took their Flight over the Bridge towards Harrow on the Hill, whither we are now in Purſuit of them. In this Service, about 20 ſlain, the Lord Francis dangerouſly wounded, if not dead; the Earl of Holland ſaid to be ſhot in the Shoulder; Colonel Howard, and ſome others of Note, hurt; about 100 Priſoners, and 200 Horſe taken: The Enemies Strength now on their Flight is about 400, and gone towards St. Albans, and ours after them; Colonel Scroop, with a Regiment of Horſe, alſo on his March to join with ours.

Letters from the League before Colcheſter.

From the League before Colcheſter, by Letters this day dated at Noon, came as followeth; ‘The Enemy ſhot much yeſterday with a great Piece from the Top of St. M.ly's Church, to annoy our Men at work upon the Line, which goes very faſt on; but our Cannon from one of our great Forts fetched down the Battlements of the Church, and could not chuſe but do Execution on thoſe in the Steple, and afterwards they never made a Shot; They ſupported the Spirits of their Men, That the City of London appeared for them; That 1000 Horſe were advanced to raiſe the Siege; and That of a certain the Parliament was broke up; and many of the Members cut in Pieces. They ſcattered Papers in the Field, that our Soldiers might find them; the Ef-

'fect was, That they were in no Treaty with the Lord Fairfax for Surrender,
'or would harken to it; and that whereas it was reported, They would give
'no Quarter to his Soldiers, they declared; That they would receive them
'with much Affection, and put them in all Reſpects equal to themſelves.
'Thus you may ſee what Shifts they make to uphold the Hearts of their 'Men, and all little enough to preſerve them from running away. We 'took ſome Priſoners, and found 10 Slugs done with Sand in one of 'their Pockets; a Trumpet is gone to the Lord Goring, to let him know
'what their Soldiers muſt expect. The Enemy was very quiet all this 'night, and have not appeared all this Forenoon. According to a Let'ter July 8, at Noon, from the Houſe of Peers, the General hath re'turned the Lord Capell. Colonel Scroop is gone with a Regiment of 'Horſe to join with Sir Michael Leveſey, againſt the Earl of Holland and
'the reſt; and no doubt you will hear a good Account of them within a 'day or two.

Monday, July 10. 1648.

THIS day the Houſe of Peers, at a Conference of Both Houſes, gave Reaſons to the Commons, wherefore they deſire that the Three Propoſitions ſhould not be inſiſted on before a Treaty with His Majeſty. I. That ſo there may be no delay in the Thing, a ſpeedy Perſonal Treaty being ſo much deſired, and Petitioned for. II. It's the Deſire of the Parliament of Scotland. III. The Agreement upon the Treaty will be the more Authentick. IV. It's probable, having no Army in being, His Majeſty will condeſcend to that, which at Uxbridge and Oxford He refuſed. V. It's not the way of Treaties to Confirm any before all is Agreed, eſpecially thoſe of moſt Concernment, and that which chiefly will be inſiſted upon. Theſe or to this Effect, with ſome other, were given, and the Concurrence of the Commons deſired.

From the Quarters of Colonel Lambert near Carliſle, June laſt, was thus written:

Letters from General Lambert*'s Quarters, of the Succeſs of his Forces.*

SIR,

Since we came into theſe Parts we have taken five Caſtles from the Enemy, viz, Appleby, Brougham, Graſtoke, Roſe, and Selby; Roſe was taken by Storm of 200 Foot, being a commanded Party, and taken within two Hours; the Place is ſtrong, had 40 Men in it. The Governour ſtood and refuſed two Summons, and yet Quarter was given, only one of the Enemy ſlain, and one hurt, not one of ours killed or hurt. Selby Caſtle was taken by a Party of Horſe only, they fired but one Piece, and one Trooper going up to the Walls and ſhewing his Piſtol to them, and threatned what he would do if they fired any more, and that they ſhould have no Quarter, they preſently yeilded. On Sunday night laſt our Army coming to Warwick Bridge, four Miles from Carliſle, the Enemy kept a ſtrong Guard of Horſe and Foot there; we were upon them before they were aware; they left their Guards and fled; our Forlorn purſued them to the Walls of Carliſle; we took 100 Priſoners Horſe and Foot, and 40 Horſe, and gave them ſo hot an Alarm, being in the night, that from all their Quarters they ran both Horſe and Foot to Carliſle, in ſo great a Confuſion, that if it had been day, we had taken at leaſt 1000 of them: They pretend they will not fight till the Scots come in, and we have received credible Information, That ſeveral Regiments of Scotiſh Horſe are ready to join with them, and I think they will do it, do what we can; but when that's done, we ſhall not refuſe to fight, though they ſhould be twice our Number: We have had miſerable Marches, and moſt pitiful Quarters, in this barren and undone Countrey.

Tueſday, July 11. 1648.

THIS day a Letter was read in the Houſe of Commons from Colonel Hammond, Governour of the Iſle of Wight, deſiring, That Osburne's Charge againſt Major Rolfe may come to a ſpeedy Hearing; and we will, for more Publick Satisfaction, inſert the Letter as followeth:

Colonel Hammond*'s Letter, deſiring Major* Rolfe*'s ſpeedy Hearing.*

To the Honourable William Lenthall Eſq; Speaker of the Honourable House of Commons.

Mr. Speaker,

Being deeply ſenſible of the Reflection upon me, and divers other Innocent Perſons, by Mr. Osburn's Proceedings, in Excuſe of his Odious Treachery, I am bold to beg of you, That this Charge againſt Major Rolfe may be brought to a ſpeedy Examination, who, I am confident, will appear a Man exceedingly injured, and this only a Deſign to work greater Diſturbances in theſe diſtracted Times. As this horrid Scandal relates to the Army, I muſt ſay, That neither directly nor indirectly, from any Member of it, or from any other Perſon or Perſons whatſoever, did I ever receive a Word or Tittle tending in the leaſt to ſuch a wicked Purpoſe; much leſs as it relates to my ſelf, could I, or did I ſpeak any ſuch thing to Major Rolle. But this is not the Firſt Fruit of this kind I have received for my faithful Service to you, nor is it more than what I have expected; yet herein I am ſatisfied, That in Faithfulneſs and Integrity I have ſerved your Commands with all poſſible Care of, and Reſpect to, the Perſon of the King; ſo that come what will come, I can ſay from a good Conſcience, The Will of God be done: And in this I appeal to His Majeſty, who of any Man beſt knows it, and who doth, and I doubt not will ſtill do, upon every Occaſion, as Opportunity ſerves, ſufficiently clear me. Sir, If through Mr. Osborn's Malice, or rather the wicked Deſign of thoſe who have ſet him at work, you have received the leaſt Prejudice of me, be pleaſed to ſend down ſome other, whom you may judge more worthy your Truſt, to receive my Charge; and I ſhall immediately, with all poſſible ſpeed, preſent my ſelf to you to receive your Pleaſure. In the mean time, it ſhall be the Buſineſs of my beſt Endeavours, to preſerve His Majeſty's Perſon from Danger, as well as in Security in this Place, according to your Commands, until I receive Inſtructions for his Removal, which I hope, and expect will be ſudden. Sir, When I am throughly conſidered, you will find none more Faithful to you, and more Obſervant to your Commands, than,

Letters were read in the Houſe, of a Deſign of Riſing by the Malignants in Worceſterſhire, Shropſhire, Stafford, and Herefordſhire, and to poſſeſs ſeveral ſtrong Places, to make them Garriſons for the King; but the the Deſign was diſcovered, and through the vigilancy of the Governour of Hartlebury Caſtle prevented. Major Harcot, a chief Actor for the King, and ſome others, taken Priſoners; who confeſſed the whole Deſign.

Worceſter and Hartlebury to be re-garriſoned.

The Houſe made an Order, Approving of the Re-garriſoning of Worceſter, by Colonel Dingley, and the well-affected Gentlemen of that County; the like for Re-garriſoning of Hartlebury; and referred to a Committee to conſider how Moneys may be raiſed for the Maintenance of the Forces of theſe Garriſons.

The Return of Southwark Borough referred to the Committee for Elections, with the Miſdemeanour of the Sheriff of Berks, in making two Returns for this Place. Major Rolfe to have a convenient Lodging as a Priſoner, and his Doctor, Chirurgeons, and Friends, to have admittance to him. A Letter was ſend to Colonel Hammond from the Houſe, giving him Thanks for all his good and faithful Services, and deſiring his Perſeverance; Read and Approved of.

Committees of both Houſes, and Common-Council, about the Safety of King and Parliament.

The Committee of both Houſes of Parliament, and the Committee of the Common Council of London, have had ſeveral Meetings about the City's Engagement for the Safety of the King and Parliament, du-

An. 1648.

ting the intended Treaty, if in London; and this day a Common-Council being called in London, Report was made of the whole Tranſaction in this Buſineſs, and Approved of by the Common-Council to be preſented to the Houſes: Some of the chief Heads whereof, for better ſatisfaction, we will give you briefly as followeth;

The Committee deſire to know what is meant, That King and Parliament may meet in Freedom, Honour, and Safety?

The Committee of Parliament did deſire to be ſatisfied what was intended by thoſe Words in the Petition of the Military Officers, wherein the Petition of the Common-Council to the Parliament do concur, viz. That the King and Parliament may Meet and Treat with Freedom, Honour, and Safety, according to the antient and fundamental Conſtitutions of this Kingdom.

The Committee of Com. Council's Anſwer, To be free from Force, or Violence.

To this the Committee of the Common-Council made Anſwer, and Approved of by the Common-Council; We mean, That the King and Parliament may Meet and Treat free from Force or Violence, which we conceive to be according to the ancient fundamental Conſtitutions of this Kingdom?

What is meant by, Defending King and Parliament according to the Covenant? Anſw. Free from Force or Violence.

The Committee of Parliament did farther deſire to be ſatisfied, What is meant by theſe Words, viz. That they will defend His Majeſty's Royal Perſon and the Parliament during the Treaty, according to their Covenant?

To which was Anſwered; We mean, That during the Treaty, we will defend the King and Parliament, as much as in us lieth, free from all Force and Violence.

Whether the City will maintain Guards during the Treaty? Anſw. They will for the preſent, and afterwards refer themſelves to King and Parliament for Satisfaction.

The Committee did farther propound, ‘That in caſe the Parliament ſhall make choice of this City to be the Place of the Treaty, and that the Common Council, on the behalf of the City, do engage themſelves to defend both King and Parliament from Violence during the Treaty, Whether the City will maintain their Guards at their own Charge?

To which it was declared by the Common-Council, ‘That if the ſaid intended Treaty be in London, then the City will for the preſent defray the Charge for the maintaining of the Military Guards for the purpoſe aforeſaid, during the Treaty, and afterwards refer themſelves to the King and Parliament for ſatisfaction thereof.

Quere, Whether They will Engage, in caſe the King and Parliamt. do not agree, His Perſon ſhall be diſpoſed of by Parliament? Anſw. That they think themſelves bound to ſubmit to the Houſe.

The Committee did farther propoſe, ‘That in caſe the King ſhall not conſent and agree to ſuch Things as ſhall be propounded and inſiſted on by both Houſes of Parliament in this Treaty, for a ſafe and well-grounded Peace, Whether they will undertake and engage, That the Perſon of the King ſhall be diſpoſed of as both Houſes of Parliament ſhall think fit?

To this the Common Council, after large Debate thereupon, did declare, ‘That in caſe the ſaid intended Treaty ſhall be in London, and that His Majeſty and His Parliament ſhould not agree, (which God forbid) then they conceive themſelves bound to ſubmit to the Wiſdom of both Houſes of Parliament.

Quere, By what means will they defend King and Parliament from Violence? Anſw. By the Trained-Bands.

The ſaid Committee did likewiſe deſire, ‘That the Committee of Common Council, and the Military Officers, ſhould ſatisfie them in what manner and by what means they will make good their Engagement, by defending the King and Parliament againſt all Violence.

To which, Anſwer was made and propounded as followeth, viz. ‘We do declare, and we are ready, according to our Engagements, as much as in us lieth, by the Trained-Bands of the City, and the late Lines of Communication, to guard and defend the King and Parliament from all Force and Violence; and to the end, that we may be enabled to perform the ſame, we do humbly offer, That the Ordinance for the Uniting of the Military Forces within the late Lines of Communication, and the Pariſhes of the Weekly Bills of Mortality, to the Forces of the City, to be one intire Militia, may be ſpeedily paſſed;

'That the Militia may be enabled to raiſe ſuch other Forces as they ſhall find needful to carry them through this Service; and that no other Forces may be raiſed or made uſe of within this City, and late Lines of Communication, but by Authority of the ſaid Militia by conſent of Common Council.

'To conſider what our Dangers are, either from without or from within, and therefore propounded, viz. For thoſe without, and for our better Security in guarding the King and Parliament, we deſire that ſome courſe may be taken, as ſhall be thought fit by Wiſdom of Parliament; That no Forces in Arms may come within 30 Miles of London, during the time of the Treaty; and for thoſe within, That what Perſon or Perſons ſoever ſhall make any Tumult, Inſurrection, or Diſturbance, during the time of this Treaty, after Proclamation made, it ſhall be Death.

Propoſed, That no other Forces may come within 30 miles of the City during the Treaty.

'That if the Wiſdom of Parliament ſhall think fit, That none that have born Arms againſt the Parliament, or have or ſhall contribute thereunto, ſhall be permitted during the ſaid Treaty to come within 30 Miles of London, without Leave of the Parliament had or to be had.

None that bore Arms againſt the Parliament be permitted to come within the ſaid diſtance.

'Theſe things being Approved of by the Common-Council, they were ordered to be communicated unto the Committee of Parliament, to be by them preſented unto both Houſes of Parliament; and alſo to declare to them, That 'tis the humble deſire of this Court, That the ſaid Treaty may be with all expedition, for preventing of farther Inconveniencies; and likewiſe, That this Court will do their Endeavours, if the ſaid Treaty be in London, for the finding out of ſome convenient Place within the City for that purpoſe, and ſuch other Accommodations as ſhall be fitting.

The Common-Council deſire a ſpeedy Treaty.

'Ordered likewiſe by this Common-Council, That the Common-Council Men and Commanders, or ſuch as they ſhall appoint, ſhall within their ſeveral Precincts, either by calling all the Inhabitants before them, or by going from Houſe to Houſe, receive their Concurrence to the ſaid Engagement, by Subſcription of their Names; which is put in execution accordingly throughout the City.

Subſcriptions to a Perſonal Treaty.

From the Leaguer before Colcheſter, July 1. came to this purpoſe: 'Our Line goes on ſo faſt, that we are in far better caſe to offend the Enemy, and correſpond with Suffolk. Many of their Men come to us; the People in the Town in great want; all their Bread is made of Rye, and but half ground, and that not without a Ticket; their Hay gone; the Green Corn they cut for their Horſe, they fetch with hazard of the Lives of their Men. Yeſterday having placed a Guard to ſecure thoſe who came to get Horſe-meat, the Guard was beaten by us, divers of them killed, ſome taken: Great ſhooting with Cannon from both ſides; they have ſpent very much Powder, more yeſterday than in 10 days before; we raiſed this night a new Battery, to beat them out of St. Mary's Steeple, where they have planted a Demi-Culvering, which annoys us in our new Quarters; we have two whole Culverings play hard againſt the Lord Lucas his Houſe; the Women would come in great Companies out of the Town, but that it is not permitted.

Letter from Colcheſter.

Letters came this day of the total defeating of the Royal Party, with the Earl of Holland, &c. at St. Needs, July 10. The Particulars thus certified: 'The Party of Horſe commanded by Colonel Scroop, ſent from the Leaguer before Colcheſter, whom we mentioned the laſt week to meet with the Royal Army, came to Hertford on Saturday, where they got knowledge of their Enemy's Poſture and place of Quarter; they got into Hertford ſome ſkilful Guides, who brought them the neareſt and beſt way to St. Needs on Monday morning, before the Nobles could ſhift away, yet not before they were got into ſome Bodies in the Town; the Parliament's Forlorn being entred, charged, routed them before the Body came up, but when come up, there was ſpeedy work made with them; that in an inſtant they fled ſeveral ways, yet many fell, and of the Chief; the Duke of Buckingham fled with about 60 Horſe to Lincolnſhire; our March was ſo long, and our Horſe ſo tired, that we could not purſue; we have Priſoners, the Earl of Holland, took in his Chamber, Sir Gilbert Gerrard, Colonel Skeimiſher, Major Holland, Major Stepkin, Lieutenant-Colonel Goodwin, and Colonel Dalbeire ſlain, Colonel Leg wounded, 100 Priſoners, beſides Sir Kenelme Digby's Son ſlain, a Colonel and divers other Officers ſlain, whoſe Names we cannot yet learn; we had more than 100 gallant Horſe; for Gold and Silver, good Clothes, and Weapons, good ſtore.

The Lord Andover going to the Prince, taken.

'There is ground to believe, that the Duke of Buckingham and thoſe with him will deſiſt, and ſeek Mercy of the Parliament. The Lord Andover, going to the Prince, is taken, and put into Dover Caſtle. We had two Men ſlain, Colonel Scroop's Captain Lieutenant wounded, and three more.

Letters from the North of the advance of the Scots Army.

Hamilton ſends a Complimental Letter to Lambert.

Lambert's ſmart Reply.

Letters this day to the Houſe farther from the North, give to underſtand, 'That after that notable Defeat given to Langdale's Forces by Colonel Robert Lilburne, the Forces under his Command have ever ſince quartered in and near Hexam, being three Regiments, viz. Northumberland's, Biſhoprick's, and his own: Though the Civility of theſe Soldiers be great, yet the Charge unſupportable. The noiſe of the Scot's entrance into the Kingdom makes the Levies much increaſe, and the Burthen the greater. The Advertiſement given this night to Colonel Lilburne from Perſons of Quality and well-affected, That 9000 Horſe and Foot of the Scots are joined with Langdale's Forces, and advanced within eight miles of Carliſle, intending to fall upon Major General Lambert's Forces there, hath occaſioned the remove of theſe three Regiments, who are advanced with intention to join with Major-General Lambert, to fight the Enemy, which with the Aſſiſtance of the new Levies, will make a conſiderable Body, and though leſs than the Enemy by ſome Thouſands, yet are reſolved to fight them. Duke Hamilton ſent a Compliment this day to Major-General Lambert, That he was upon Advance of an Army towards England, for that the Parliament of England had given no Satisfaction to the Deſires of the Parliament of Scotland, and could not avoid the Northern Parts of England; he aſſures the Major-General, he intends no hurt to him or the Kingdom, which his future Carriage would demonſtrate. The Major-General returns him a tart Anſwer, and tells him, That as to Nonſatisfaction from this Parliament, he had nothing to ſay, but as to his coming in a Hoſtile way into England, he would oppoſe to the utmoſt, and fight him and his Army as Traytors and Enemies to the Kingdom, ‘dom, upon all opportunities; That this great Breach of the Covenant, and large Treaty between the two Nations, he doubted not but would be revenged upon them to their utter Ruine, and was aſſured of Aſſiſtance herein of all true Engliſh Men, and right Covenanters of the two Nations. This Anſwer of Major-General Lambert, was read in the Houſe of Commons, and Approved of.

Letters from France of the 6th of July ſay, ‘Prince Charles ſailed from Calais on Thurſday laſt, bound for Holland, or by this time there, in a Dutch Veſſel of 36 Pieces of Ordnance; and with him Prince Rupert, the Lord Hopton, the Lord Wilmot, and the Earl of Branford, Ruthen, formerly General for the King; the Lord Jermin returned to St. Germains.

Thurſday, July 13. 1648.

THE Houſe of Commons this day conſidered the great Inconveniencies occaſioned by bringing of Priſoners of Quality into the City of London, cauſing Tumults, Inſurrections of the common People; for prevention thereof for the future, they Ordered, ‘That no more Perſons of Quality ſhould be brought up Priſoners to the City, but be diſpoſed of to other Places of Strength in the Kingdom, and there to remain till farther Order. In Proſecution hereof, the Houſe Ordered, ‘That the Lord Andover ſhould be continued Priſoner at Dover, and not removed as was intended: The Earl of Holland alſo ordered to be ſent to Warwick Caſtle.

Inconveniencies by bringing Priſoners to London.

E. of Holland to be ſent to Warwick Caſtle.

Upon the Report this day from the Committee at Derby-Houſe, the Houſe Ordered to agree with the ſaid Committee, ‘That 1000 Foot and 500 Horſe ſhould be ſpeedily advanced by the County of Eſſex, for preſervation of that County in Peace, and ſuppreſſing of all Inſurrections for the future: When this Army ſhall be drawn from thence, to be maintained out of the Eſtates of ſuch of that County, as have engaged with the Enemy.

1000 Foot and 500 Horſe to be advanced by the County of Eſſex.

A Letter came this day from Colonel Rich, ‘Giving the Houſe an Account of the three Beſieged Caſtles in Kent, and that one of them had ſurrendred upon Articles, and doubted not but that the other two would be delivered in a ſhort time, they being in much want of Proviſions; the Articles he incloſed, and deſired the Approbation of the Houſe thereunto.

A Letter concerning 3 Beſieged Caſtles in Kent.

After the Reading thereof, the Houſe paſt a Vote, Declaring their Approbation of the ſaid Articles.

The Houſe Ordered a Letter of Thanks ſhould be ſpeedily ſent to Colonel Rich, for his good Service.

The Articles for their Surrender approv'd: Thanks to Col. Rich.

They likewiſe Ordered, the Sum of 600 l. ſhould be advanced by the Committee of the Army, for the buying of Match and Bullet for the Forces under Colonel Rich.

600 l. Ordered for Match and Bullet for his Forces.

They farther Ordered, ‘That the Eſtates of the Lord Duke of Buckingham, Lord Francis, and Sir Francis Ratcliffe in the North, ſhould go towards the Maintenance of the Forces under Major-General Lambert.

Eſtates of the D. of Buckingham, &c. towards Maintenance of Lambert's Forces.

Friday, July 14. 1648.

A Letter this day came from Major-General Lambert, of the 10th Inſtant, from Perith, informing the Houſe, ‘That Duke Hamilton is Advance of D. Hamilton with 10000 Horſe and Foot.

Hamilton and the Forces with him declared Enemies, and thoſe that aſſiſt them to be proceeded againſt as Rebels and Traitors.

‘is advanced into the Kingdom, with an Army conſiſting of about ‘10000 Horſe and Foot; with whom Sir Marmaduke Langdale hath joined, ‘and that their Army is at Carliſle, and thereabouts. The Houſe had much Debate concerning this Buſineſs, and at laſt came to this Reſolution by way of Declaration, ‘That the Forces that are now come out ‘of Scotland into England, in a hoſtile manner, being without the Authority of the Parliament of England, are Enemies to the Kingdom of England: And that all ſuch Perſons, either of this Kingdom, or the Kingdom of Ireland, that do or ſhall hereafter adhere unto, voluntarily aid, ‘aſſiſt, or join with them, are Rebels and Traytors to the Kingdom of ‘England, and ſhall be proceeded againſt, and their Eſtates Confiſcated, ‘as Traytors and Rebels.

Moneys to be advanced for ſupply of the Northern Forces.

The Houſe conſidered how Moneys might ſpeedily be advanced for encouraging and ſupplying the Forces of the North, and Voted, ‘The ‘Sum of 20000 l. ſhould be advanced upon the Exciſe in courſe, with ‘Allowance of 8 l. per Cent. per Annum to ſuch as ſhall advance the ‘ſame, or any part thereof, for the Forces of the North; and that an ‘Ordinance to this purpoſe be ſpeedily drawn.

And for more conſtant Pay, the King, Queen, and Princes Revenues in the North, to be paid to the General Receiver of Yorkſhire.

More Forces to be ſent down to Lambert.

Farther Debate about the Security offered by the City during the Treaty.

And for a farther Encouragement, and more conſtant Pay for them, the Houſe Ordered, “That all the King's, Queen's, and Prince's Revenues in the Northern parts of this Kingdom, ſhall be collected as formerly, and paid by the General Receiver of Yorkſhire to the Commander in Chief of the Northern Forces, for the Maintenance and ‘Pay of all the Northern Forces.

The Houſe referred it to the Committee, to conſider of ſending more Forces down to Major-General Lambert. The reſt of this day was ſpent upon the Reports from the Committee of both Houſes, and Citizens, concerning the Security they offer to His Majeſty and both Houſes of Parliament, during the Treaty (if at London.) The further Conſideration thereof was ordered to be reſumed to morrow Morning.

Saturday, July 15. 1648.

Letters from Cromwel of the Surrender of Pembroke-Caſtle.

The Articles agreed on.

Letters this day came from Lieutenant General Cromwell, to His Excellency the Lord Fairfax, and the Committee at Derby Houſe, of the Surrender of Pembroke Town and Caſtle, Tueſday laſt the 11. of July 1648. upon theſe Articles; “That Major General Langhorne, Colonel Poyer, Colonel Humphrey Matthews, Captain William Bowen, and ‘David Poyer, do ſurrender themſelves to the Mercy of the Parliament. ‘That Sir Charles Kemiſh, Sir Henry Stradling, Mr. Miles Button, Major Pichard, Lieutenant Colonel Stradling, Lieutenant Colonel Langhorne, Lieutenant Colonel Brabſon, Mr. Gamage, Major Butler, Mr. Francis Lewis, Major Matthews, Major Harniſh, Captain Roch, Captain ‘Jones, Captain Hugh Bowen, Captain Thomas Wats, and Lieutenant ‘Young, do within ſix Weeks depart the Kingdom, and not to return ‘within Two years: All Officers, Gentlemen, and private Soldiers, not ‘before named, ſhall have free Liberty to go to their ſeveral Habitations, ‘and not to be plundered. And all ſick and wounded Men, to be carefully provided for, till they be well. That the Townſmen ſhall be free ‘from Plunder and Violence, and enjoy their Liberty as heretofore. ‘That the Town and Caſtle of Pembroke, with all the Arms, Ammunition and Ordnance, together with the Victuals and Proviſions for ‘the Garriſon, be delivered unto Lieutenant General Cromwell, for the ‘Uſe of the Parliament; which was done accordingly.

"Friday Morning laſt, the Lieutenant General intended his March with his Army towards the North, to join with Major General Lambert, to fight the Scots. The certain number of Scots entred the Kingdom is, 6500 Foot, 2600 Horſe.

Cromwel's March, towards the North, to fight the Scots.

The Houſe this day declared, That they would adhere to their former Vote; "That His Majeſty ſhould ſign the three Propoſitions, before any perſonal Treaty be had with His Majeſty. And a Committee was appointed to give the Lords Reaſons, why they ſo adhere to their firſt Vote; and that this Buſineſs be reſumed on Monday next.

The Houſe adhere to their former Vote, That His Majeſty ſign the three Propoſitions, before any perſonal Treaty.

From the Iſle of Wight, came as followeth:

Letter from the Iſle of Wight, of His Majeſty's ſatisfaction in the Governor's reſpect to him.

SIR,

HIS Majeſty is pleaſant and in good Health: He hath much Diſcourſe with the Governour, of whom he lately gave a very honourable Teſtimony, before divers Gentlemen of the Royal Party; Giving them to underſtand, That the Governour had been very civil and reſpectful in his Carriage to him; and that he was a Man of Honour and Truſt; and therefore they ſhould not credit thoſe ſcandalous Reports that were raiſed of him. This Teſtimony of His Majeſty being true, he commanded them to declare it to their Friends. And farther, having declared Intelligence, That Osborn had unjuſtly and ungratefully aſperſed the Governour; His Majeſty was pleaſed to tell him, That as touching the preſervation of his Perſon from Poiſon, or any other horrid Deſign, he was ſo confident of the Honeſty and Faithfulneſs of the Governour, That he thought himſelf as ſafe in his hands, as if he were in the Cuſtody of his own Son.

Thus you ſee His Majeſty is ſo ingenuous, that he will give thoſe their due, that are of contrary Principles to him. Mr. Throughton, the Governour's Captain, told His Majeſty, That he hoped there was not any about him who durſt entertain a Thought of doing hurt to His Perſon, it being a thing ſo inhumane and barbarous. The King anſwered, That he hoped there was not any ſo cruelly minded.

SIR, I am confident His Majeſty hath not the leaſt jealouſie of that which is groundleſly ſuggeſted in the late ſcurrilous Pamphlets, as if there had been a Deſign in ſome about him to offer Violence to His Royal Perſon.

I thought it my Duty to make this true Relation, deſiring you would publiſh it for undeceiving the people.

Cariſbrook Caſtle,
July 14. 1648.

Letter of the Condition of Colcheſter.

League before Colcheſter, July 14. 7 at Night. "Yeſterday the Enemy were all drawn up into the high Street in Colcheſter, which gave an Allarm to our Forces on Suffolk ſide, and they to thoſe on this ſide, but were beaten in with Loſs. One Captain Taylor came out of the Town to the General; he relates the great neceſſity of the Town; and that many of the Souldiers would come out, if they knew the Lord General's Conditions. The Soldiers wrought all laſt Night, in making a Battery againſt St. John's, which much angred the Enemy; for they ſhot inceſſantly all laſt Night and this Morning, but did us little hurt; and about ſix of the Clock in the Morning, our great Guns began to play, and made a Breach in the Wall, notwithſtanding their Wool-Sacks, which our Soldiers fetch'd upon their Backs; and beat them out of the Court-Yard into another, into the Houſe, and afterwards out of the great Houſe into the Gatehouſe, where they fortified themſelves with their ſtrong Guard: And our Men have got betwixt them and the Town, and poſſeſs'd themſelves of St. Giles's Church, and ſent another Party into the Hithe, to intercept their Guard there from returning back into the Town.

Another Letter from Colcheſter.

League before Colcheſter, July 14. 12 at Night. "In my laſt to you this Evening, I made mention of the General's ſending a Party, to interpoſe

Duke of Buckingham's &c. privately eſcaped to London.

‘terpoſe betwixt the Guards at the Hithe and the Town, which accordingly was done, and Colonel Whaley appointed, with ſome of his Horſe and the Suffolk Foot, (at low Water) to come over; and a Party of ours under Colonel Ewers to join with him, and to fall upon the Church of the Hithe where their Guard was; and accordingly both Parties advanced: But Colonel Whaley and the Suffolk Foot were there before thoſe on this ſide, and fell upon the Church; whereupon the Enemy cried for Quarter. There were taken Priſoners in the Church, between 80 and 100. moſt of them Kentiſh Men. I ſuppoſe, before this, you have the total Rout of the Duke of Buckingham's Party, after their Defeat at St. Needs; and of Captain Butler's falling upon them coming from Oundle. The Duke of Buckingham, Sir Thomas Bludder, and two more, with their Company, got away, and went privately to London; many of them wounded that eſcaped. One Sir Edmond Haleſcue lies wounded; one Lieutenant Colonel Fowler ſlain; Dalbeere died of his Wounds the 11*th* inſtant.

Another Letter from Colcheſter of taking the Gatehouſe of Sir John Lucas his Houſe, and firing the Suburbs of the Town.

League before Colcheſter, July 15. 12 at Night. “You had before the taking of Sir John Lucas's Houſe. This Afternoon we took the Gatehouſe, which was hard diſputed; a Hand-Granado was thrown amongſt them, which lighting upon their Magazine of Powder, about 40 of them were blown up. We took about 60 Priſoners, the reſt of Sevenſcore were deſtroyed and killed; this ſo enraged the Enemy, ſeeing themſelves beaten into the Town, and confined within the Walls, they fired all the Suburbs round the Town: And it is the ſaddeſt Spectacle that ever was ſeen, ſince this War began; the Houſes for above a Mile being all of a Flame.’

Monday, July 17. 1648.

Debate about the Treaty with His Majeſty reaſſumed.

THE Houſe of Commons this day reſumed the Debate of the Treaty with His Majeſty; and having before reſolved to adhere to their former Votes, That His Majeſty ſubſcribe the Three Propoſitions before a Treaty, viz, To ſettle the Militia for Ten Years. The Presbiterial Government, And to recall all Proclamations and Declarations againſt the Parliament;

Debate about the Place for the Treaty.

They this day had Debate, as to the place to which His Majeſty ſhould come to treat; and Voted, “That after the three Propoſitions be conſented unto and ſigned, the King be deſired to name three Places within twenty Miles of Weſtminſter, two of which to be at leaſt ten Miles diſtant from Weſtminſter, where the Treaty ſhall be: And then both Houſes of Parliament ſhall have Choice of one of them, ſo nominated by His Majeſty, which they ſhall think fit.

Confirms what the Governour of Newcaſtle did in laying a Tax upon Salt.

The Commons this day agreed to Ratifie what was done by the Governour of Newcaſtle, in laying the Tax upon Coals and Salt: Gave 20*l.* to the Meſſenger that brought the News of the Surrender of Pembroke: Voted a Pardon to many in the Inſurrection in Kent; to all ſuch as came away upon Indemnity offered; and to all ſuch as can make it appear they were forc'd. Mr. Vaughan, that was apprehended at Rumford, his Papers and himſelf, referred to Derby Houſe.

Petition to haſten the perſonal Treaty.

A Petition was preſented this day to the Houſe, in the Name of the Inhabitants of Weſtminſter, the Hamlets of the Tower, the Borough of Southwark, and Parts adjacent, in Concurrence with the City of London; “That the Perſonal Treaty may be haſtened, and the Militia of the outparts united with the City, &c. which Petition was read; and Mr Speaker, by Command of the Houſe, gave this Anſwer to the Petitioners

“The Houſe has received your Petition and read it, and the Houſe hath already Voted, That the Militia ſhall be joined, and for the manner how, they have referred it to a Committee, to which they have likewiſe referred your Petition; and the Houſe has taken notice of the expreſſion of your ample good Affection, and of your approbation of their Votes touching a Treaty; for the Matter, being for Peace, no good Man but deſires it; and for your great and good Affections expreſſed in this Petition, the Houſe have Commanded me to give you real and very hearty Thanks.

There was news this day of the Duke of York's coming to the Downs with the Revolted Ships, and that they had landed Men; but it proved otherwiſe.

From the Leagure before Colcheſter, July 16. “The laſt night the Enemy endeavoured to eſcape with their Horſe, at a Ford over a River, with ſome Foot, near the North Bridge; but ſo ſoon as our Scouts fired at them they run in again.

This day his Excellency being deſirous, as much as in him lay, to prevent the ſhedding of more Blood, or the Town from farther Ruine, ſent a Summons to the Earl of Norwich, Lord Capel, and Sir Charles Lucas, to ſurrender the Town for the Service of the Parliament; who returned a bold and ſcornful Anſwer, That if any more Letters of that kind were ſent them, they would hang up the Meſſenger.

Letter from Colcheſter, that their Horſe attempted to eſcape, but were beaten in again. The General's Summons to the Town ſlighted.

‘Preſently after our Trumpeter was returned, they ſet another Street on fire, as if they had repented they had done ſo little evil the night before, in Burning many hundred Houſes.

‘Our Battery hath been preparing this day, with which we hope to diſmount their Cannon, and gain part of their Walls, and doubt not but by degrees, and that ſhortly too, with God's Bleſſing upon the endeavours of this handful of Men, to reduce them to Obedience: Before we attempt any thing upon the Town, the General intends to ſend for all the Women and Children to come out.

The Batteries againſt the Town prepared.

The Summ of the Northern Letter this week, take as followeth;

Sir,

We can now aſſure you that the Scots are come into England, with a conſiderable Force of Horſe and Foot, under the Command of Duke Hamilton; the time of their entring is ſaid to be about Four a Clock on Saturday Morning laſt. Duke Hamilton himſelf came in Perſon to the City of Carliſle that night, and was entertained with great Rejoycing by the Soldiers there; the Ordnance were ſhot off, and Bells rung, with great Acclamations. The Van of the Scots Forces lie now about Wigton, Five Miles Weſt of Carliſle; when they have conſulted there with Sir Marmaduke Langdale, it will be reſolved if they march towards Lancaſhire, or, which is more likely, towards Newcaſtle; Duke Hamilton marched himſelf in the Van of the Scots Army, with his Trumpeters before him, all in Scarlet Cloaks full of Silver Lace, in great ſtate; with the Duke did march a Life-Guard of Scotch-men, all very proper, and well cloathed, with Standards and Equipage like a Prince; in the Van of the Army there marched Four Regiments of Horſe, Seven Colours in a Regiment, in all about 2000 in the Van; their body of Foot in the middle, led by Major-General Middleton, Seven Regiments, Ten Colours to a Regiment; the Foot in all about 7000. They have brought ſome Carriages, but the Artillery, and compleating of the Carriages is to be from Carliſle; which was one great Reaſon of the Duke's ſo much haſtning thither as ſoon as he entred England: In the Rear of the Army, march another diviſion of Horſe, with the Earl of Kalender, about 1500; Major-General Monro, it is ſaid, will join them with 3000 from Ireland of the Scots that are there, under his Command, only ſome few Iriſh that have recruited the Regiments. Sir Marmaduke Langdale hath about 3000 Engliſh that he can Arm, and draw into the Field to join them.

The Letter from Duke Hamilton, General of the Scots Forces, to Colonel-General Lambert.

Duke Hamilton's Letter to Major-General Lambert.

Noble Sir,

T*HE Parliament of the Kingdom of* Scotland, upon the Conſideration of the great danger iminent to Religion, His Majeſties Sacred Perſon, and the Peace of His Kingdoms, for the prevailing Power of Sectaries and their Adherents in England, did lately ſend to the Honourable Houſes of Parliament ſuch Demands as they conceive juſt and neceſſary; and have great Forces drawn together upon their Borders. The Committee of the Eſtates of Parliament have thought fit to lay their Commands upon me, with ſuch other Noble Perſonages as they joined with me in this Service, for the proſecuting their juſt Deſires, in purſuance of the ends of the Covenant, according to the joint Declaration of both Kingdoms, January 6. 1643. and 1644. for ſettling Religion, liberating His Majeſty from His baſe Impriſonment, freeing the Honourable Houſes from ſuch Conſtraints as have been by Forces long upon them, Diſbanding of all the Armies, whereby the Subject may be free from the intolerable Taxes and Quarter, which they have ſo long groaned under; and for the procuring the Settlement of a ſolid Peace and firm Union betwixt the Kingdoms, under His Majeſties Government: Theſe being the true Intentions and Deſires of the Kingdom of Scotland, who will moſt faithfully obſerve on their part their Engagement by Covenant and Treaty to their Brethren of England; I expect you will not oppoſe their Pious, Loyal, and neceſſary Undertakings, but rather join with them in the proſecution of their ends. I ſhall deſire that the Bearer, my Trumpeter, may not be long kept, but return with your preſent and poſitive Anſwer, that accordingly I may move as I am Commanded,

Sir,

Annan, July 8,
1648.

I am your Humble Servant,

J. Hamilton.

Colonel-General Lambert's Anſwer.

Major-General Lambert's Anſwer.

My Lord,

I Received a Letter from your Excellency by your Trumpeter, which mentions, That the Parliament of Scotland, having, upon the conſideration of the danger to Religion, His Majeſty's Perſon and Kingdom, by Sectaries in England, Addreſſed themſelves to the Parliament of England for Redreſſes, have not received a ſatisfactory Anſwer therein; to which, my Lord, I ſhall not take upon me to give an Anſwer, ſeeing the late Ordinances concerning the ſettling Religion, their ſeveral Addreſſes and Propoſitions tendred to His Majeſty, in order to the Peace and Well-being of his Kingdoms, are Publiſhed and laid open to the view of the whole World: and which, I doubt not, is well known to your Excellency. To what your Excellency mentions concerning the increaſe of Danger, by the drawing of ſome Forces upon the Borders of Scotland, I can more fully Anſwer, having the Charge and Conduct thereof, by Commiſſion from his Excellency the Lord Fairfax, and have his poſitive Command to be moſt tender in Acting any thing that might give any ſeeming occaſion of Offence to our Brethren of Scotland; which Command I may confidently ſay, I have hitherto moſt cautiouſly and punctually obſerved; And farther, That I do believe it never entred into the Thoughts of the Parliament, or his Excellency, to Act any thing prejudicial or harmful to the Kingdom of Scotland.

And what the true Reaſons are which did occaſion their Force ſo near the Borders, I ſhall not need to mention, all Men knowing it to be for ſuppreſſing Sir Marmaduke Langdale, and his Adherents, who are many of them Papiſts, and grand Delinquents, and are lately riſen in Rebellion againſt the Parliament, and have ever been, and ſtill are notorious Oppoſers of the ends of the Covenant, according to the joint Declaration of both Kingdoms, Jan. 6. 1643, 1644. for ſettling of Religion, and His Majeſty in His due Rights and Prerogative; and for procuring of firm Peace and Union betwixt both Nations.

For what your Lordſhip mentions for the freeing of the Honourable Houſes from Reſtraint of Forces being upon them; I cannot but wonder at their Artifice, who have ſo cunningly ſuggeſted theſe things to the Parliament of Scotland, as to poſſeſs them with the Belief thereof; ſeeing it is apparent to all Men, That the Parliament Sits and Votes free, and no viſible Force in this Kingdom act any thing but their immediate Command, even theſe, and ſome few of their Adherents formerly mentioned.

And for your Lordſhips farther ſatisfaction in this, I know no ſurer way to underſtand the Truth, than by Anſwer from the Parliament; I ſhould trouble your Lordſhip too much in Anſwer thereunto, if I ſhould but briefly run over their Labours for the Disbanding of all Forces, except ſuch as they did judge neceſſary for the Kingdom, and their own Defence; as alſo their Zeal for freeing the Subject from unneceſſary Taxes and Quarters, which I perſwade my ſelf your Lordſhip cannot but in ſome meaſure have heard of before this time; and therefore I ſhall, in ſatisfaction to your Lordſhip's expectation that I ſhall not oppoſe the Committee of Eſtates, in their Pious, Loyal, and neceſſary Undertakings, Anſwer, That I conceive their Reſolutions to be wholly grounded upon Miſtakes; deſiring you alſo to conſider, whether not contrary to the Covenant: And I muſt, in proſecution of the Truſt repoſed in me, to the utmoſt of my Power, oppoſe all Forces whatſoever, either raiſed, or brought into this Kingdom, except thoſe by Authority and Command of the Parliament of England; in which I hope your Lordſhip will not oppoſe, but rather aſſiſt me, if the Parliament of England deſire it. I have, according to your Excellency's deſire, returned your Trumpet as ſpeedily as I could diſpatch him; and doubt not but upon your Lordſhips Addreſſes to the Parliament of England, tendred to your Lordſhip, as an Anſwer from,

June 8. 1648.

My LORD,

Your Excellencies Moſt Humble Servant,

J. Lambert.

Tueſday, July 18. 1648.

THis Day, according to former Order, the Report of the Declaration, calling to mind the great Victories that God hath pleaſed to give the Parliaments Forces within theſe few late Months over the Enemy; and how God hath of late owned the great Cauſe of the Parliament and Army, was made: And after Three times Reading Aſſented unto, and Ordered to be ſent to the Lords for their Concurrence.

Several Petitions were preſented to the Parliament; Two from the Common-Council of London; The Firſt to the Commons, in Anſwer to their Deſires to the Town of Newcaſtle upon Tyne, for laying an Impoſition upon Coals; ‘That they cannot find any expedient for the Supply of the Garriſon in Newcaſtle, as is propounded; yet they do of‘fer, That if the Profits of all the Places and Employments, enjoyed ‘contrary to the Self-denying Ordinance of the 4th of April, 1645. and ‘the ſeveral Votes of the 10*th* of June, 1647. and likewiſe the Pro‘fits of the ſeveral Places belonging to Cuſtoms, Excize, Poſtmaſters, ‘Committee-men, Offices Sequeſtred, and ſuch like, may be diſpoſed ‘of for the Publick Occaſions of the Kingdom, and not converted to ‘Private Uſes, (reaſonable Salaries for ſuch and ſo many as ſhall be ‘neceſſarily employed therein excepted) they will advance a conſidera‘ble Sum of Money for the other Publick Charge during the time ‘of the miſerable diſtractions of this Kingdom; and therefore Pray, ‘That

Two Petitions from the Common-Council of the City of London.

An. 1648.

'That no Tax or Impoſition be laid upon Coals, and the aforeſaid Repreſentations may be effectually taken into the grave Conſideration of this Honourable Houſe. The ſecond, to both Houſes, 'That an Ordinance of Parliament may be ſpeedily paſſed, for the adding unto the preſent Militia of London the Fifteen Perſons nominated by the Common-Council, and by them humbly Preſented, and ſubmitted to the Honourable Houſe of Parliament for their Confirmation. Another Petition was preſented from the City of London, in which the Common-Council was not engaged, ſigned by about 10000 hands, deſiring, 'That that the ſaid Militia may continue diſtinct, as now they are; That the Parliament will keep the Power in their own hands, and have liberty to call what Forces they pleaſe to their Aſſiſtance, &c. Both theſe Petitions from Weſtminſter, Southwark, &c. for Joining, and againſt Joining, were all referred to a Committee, to examine the Right of both Parts, and hear both Parts, and Report back to the Houſe.

A Petition of the Watermen for a Perſonal Treaty.

A Petition this day from the Watermen upon the River of Thames, deſiring a Perſonal Treaty, and the ſpeedy ſettlement of the Peace of the Kingdom, was read, and the Petitioners called in, and Mr. Speaker acquainted them, That moſt of the Petitioners were Witneſſes of what the Parliament's Endeavours have been to ſettle the Peace of the Kingdom, that it was a Buſineſs now before them, and the Houſe doubted not to do therein as ſhall be for ſatisfying the whole Kingdom, and gave the Petitioners Thanks for the private Addreſſes with that Petition with a few of the Petitioners, according to the Declaration in that behalf.

Thankſgiving ordered.

The Houſe having Voted to morrow a Day of Thankſgiving for the City and Suburbs, for the great Victories lately to the Parliament's Forces, Ordered, 'That the 9th of Auguſt next ſhould be obſerved a day of Thankſgiving through the whole Kingdom for the ſaid Mercies.

Thoſe in Colcheſter attempt to eſcape, but were beaten in again.

From the League before Colcheſter, July 15. 'They in the Town attempted to eſcape, laying Stones in ſome places, but were beaten in with loſs of five, and divers wounded; the 16th they did the like, but like Rabbets run to their Burrows at ſight of our Men: They have ſet another Street on fire, not permitting the People to take out their Goods. The General on the 17th ſent in one to have them deliver up the Town; they refuſed; their laſt Water-Mill is ſpoiled; they have ſtood Saddled every night but the laſt, with intent to make away, as is conceived.

Wedneſday, July 19. 1648.

THIS Day being Thankſgiving-Day, there Preached before the Houſe at St. Margaret's Weſtminſter, Mr. Obadiah Sedgwick, and Mr. Bond.

Something farther from the North is as followeth:

A Letter from the North of ſome remarkable Paſſages.

SIR,

H*Aving by Accident a Letter come into my Hands, intended to be ſent to* London to ſome eminent Men, and finding it a Diſcovery of ſome Things very conſiderable, rable, it being taken with other things from a Gentleman of Quality, by one of our Party, I conceived it my Duty to ſend it to you; perhaps there may be ſomething in it ſatisfactory to your ſelf or others: Methinks it plainly diſcovers the Intentions of the Scots and Royaliſts meerly to abuſe the honeſt Preſbiterian Party, and to make uſe of them only to ſerve their own turns upon them, and afterwards throw them, as uſeleſs Shooing-horns, aſide. I am ſorry to hear your City ſo much ſlights the Army, and as 'tis ſaid here, a great Part of them are become Factors for thoſe that would inſlave them and theirs: Had not you fair Warning about a Year ſince? But what ſhall I ſay, Midſummer-Moon, and that time of the Year, is ſurely very dangerous. How ſad it is to think, that Godly Men ſhould conteſt ſo much about Circumſtances, whilſt the Publick Enemies to Truth and Piety can agree againſt their Peace, and the Means to procure it! We have ſeen Papiſts, Atheiſts, Proteſtants at large, the Epiſcopal Faction, and, what is moſt to be lamented, even thoſe many Times which have, and hold forth, a fair Shew of Religion, do deſire to perſecute thoſe that deſire to keep cloſeſt to the Rule, and do even conſtantly Pray for them; and ſuch do more Hurt than thoſe that be openly Prophane: You ſee how diligent they are in their way; let it incite us to Labour the more to be united, laying aſide all Differences in Opinion, and keep our ſelves cloſe to thoſe Principles which did firſt engage us againſt the Common Enemy; for otherwiſe we ſhall give them Advantages againſt us, and we ſee they will leave no Stone unturn'd, both by Policy and underhand Dealings with our Councils and Forces, Foreign Powers, and continue all Inſurrections in ſeveral Places, abuſing the People with ſpecious Pretentes, as if they were the only Men for Peace, when as they ſeek nothing leſs than ſuch a Peace as is likely to prove well-grounded and laſting. You may gather by the Incloſed, how falſly they report Things: This I thought fit to impart unto you, and remain,

The Copy of a Letter from a Cavalier in Carliſle, to his Brother in London.

SIR,

A Letter from one in Carliſle to his Brother in London.

Your Health and Proſperity prefixed with the reſt of our Friends, theſe are to let you know, That we have excellent good News out of France, and do expect the Prince his Highneſs here ſuddenly, who hath ſent a Letter and Declaration to our General Langdale, to Publiſh to the Army and Country-People, which is to this effect: That the King his Father being Priſoner by the Parliament, is rather a Faction therein; he is reſolved to uſe all poſſible Means to free him, and Reinthrone him; and to that end, deſires that all poſſible Means may be uſed to prevail with all, of what Rank or Quality ſoever, to join with our Party; and doth Promiſe and Engage himſelf, and earneſtly Deſire and Require Langdale, and the reſt of his Friends, to Engage themſelves in his Name and Behalf: That all that have heretofore adhered to, or acted for the Parliament, and ſhall now come in and join with us, ſhall not only have Pardon and Indemnity for what is paſt, but ſhall alſo have all their Arrears paid them, or at leaſt ſo much as ſhall fully and contentedly ſatisfie them for all their former Service performed for the Parliament. This takes exceedingly with many, and we hope will do, not only with the Royaliſts, but alſo with the Presbyterians, who we hope will be ready to join, eſpecially now the Scots are come in, who do declare for King, Covenant, and Presbyterial Government.

We labour all we can to procure the Union between the Presbyterians and us, and doubt not but this will take: We are exceeding glad the Deſign doth Proſper ſo well with you, and deſire you to be as Active now as poſſible you can; and as you have greater Intereſt in many in your City, who are Eminent, and able to do more than others in carrying on the Deſign; ſo your Care and Induſtry herein muſt be more now than ordinary, eſpecially with thoſe who are moſt Eminent, and leaſt to be ſuſpected. I am glad to hear ſo many of your City and Trained-Bands are ſo right; they being Encouraged, may do much: But take heed how you diſcover too much to them, until you get His Majeſty to London, and then you will know what to do. Acquaint our Friends herewith, and by all means perſwade them all to provoke all they can to a Deteſtation of that Bloody, Deſtroying, and Factious Army; we hope to meet with ſome of them ſhortly: We courted the Lancaſhire Forces, but could do no Good upon them; yet we have ſome Friends there, which in time may do us Service. Whatſoever you hear of Duke Hamilton's Declaring, be conſide[illegible] he is for Epiſcopacy, and will in time make their Kirkmen know it, and all their Party,

Party, although as yet they continue obſtinate, which ſomewhat hinders us from expecting that Aſſiſtance from thence, which we were confident of. We were alſo in great hopes of a conſiderable Party in Arms near your City: Duke Hamilton is to march along the Eaſtern Coaſt, and our Army from Carliſle along the Weſt; yet ſo as we may be capable to join upon any occaſion againſt any Forces of the Parliament's. You ſhall hear farther ſhortly, from

Your true Brother, &c.

Thurſday, July 20. 1648.

A Letter from the Committee in Suſſex, concerning the Riot there.

A Letter this day came to the Houſe of Commons from the Committee of Sequeſtrations ſitting at Horſham in Suſſex, of the late Inſurrections there, and how it was ſuppreſſed by the honeſt Party; they likewiſe incloſed the Examinations of many concerning this Riot, and found that one Mr. Middleton, a Member of the Houſe of Commons, was guilty therein, and therefore have committed him to Arundel Caſtle; they deſire the Approbation of the Houſe in this buſineſs: The Houſe hereupon Ordered, 'That they Approved of what the Committee had done in committing Mr. Middleton, and ſuppreſſing the 'Tumult in that County; and farther Ordered, 'That the Governour 'of Arundel Caſtle ſhould permit the ſaid Mr. Middleton to come up, 'and attend the Committee appointed formerly concerning Riots and 'Tumults, to the end he may be examined concerning this buſineſs.

According to former Order, the Houſe proceeded in reading the Scots Declaration, and ſpent much time therein.

The Lords deſire the Commons Concurrence for Indemnifying the D. of Bucks.

A Meſſage came from the Lords, Deſiring the Commons Concurrence to an Ordinance for quitting and indemnifying the Duke of Bucks, for this late Engagement againſt the Parliament, if within 14 days he ſhall come in after publication thereof.

Debate about intercepted Letters from Scotland.

The Houſe, according to former Order, on Tueſday laſt ſpent much time concerning the intercepted Scots Letters, ſent up to the Houſe by Major General Lambert; theſe Letters were referred to farther Examination: The Houſe of Commons Ordered, 'That theſe Letters ſhould 'be communicated to the Lords at a Conferrence.

Thoſe that invited or aſſiſted D. Hamilton's Invaſion of this Kingdom, are declared Traytors.

The Houſe hereupon Declared, 'That all Perſons whatſoever which 'are of this Kingdom, and have invited the Army of the Scots, now 'under the Command of Duke Hamilton, to come into the Kingdom 'of England, or have any ways aſſiſted that Army in this Kingdom, 'are Traytors, and ſhall be proceeded againſt accordingly. The Houſe conſidered of our Commiſſioners in Scotland, Whether it was ſecure for them to ſtay any longer there, ſeeing that Kingdom hath proclaimed War againſt England; and it was Ordered, 'That the ſaid Commiſ'ſioners ſhould be deſired forthwith to make their repair into this 'Kingdom.

Friday, July 21. 1648.

Revolters from the Parliament's Service to be tried by a Council of War.

THE Houſe this day conſidered of ſuch as have formerly ſerved the Parliament, and in this War, and have revolted to the common Enemy of late: And upon this Debate Voted and Declared; "That all 'Perſons whatſoever, that have ever ſerved for the Parliament of Eng'land, and have, or ſhall hereafter, revolt to the Enemies thereof, that 'are in open Hoſtility againſt them; and have been, or ſhall be taken

'Priſoners, be ſent to the Lord General Fairfax, and tried for their Lives 'by a Council of War.

And the General to grant Commiſſions to this purpoſe.

And for the better effecting hereof, in the ſeveral Counties of the Kingdom, where ſuch ſhall be taken; the Houſe farther Ordered, "That the Lord General ſhould be deſired, to grant Commiſſions to 'Officers and Gentlemen of the ſeveral Counties, for the Trial of ſuch 'as have revolted from the Parliament, by Marſhal Law. The Houſe was informed That Captain Tarrington was at the door; He was called in, and acquainted the Houſe, how by his weak Endeavours, God was pleaſed to prevent the Enemies Deſign, in taking Doyley Caſtle, Hereford, and other ſtrong places in that County.

Captain Yarrington rewarded for his good Service.

The Houſe receiving great Satisfaction therein, and looking upon this as an extraordinary Providence and Service of the ſaid Captain; Ordered, "That the Sum of 500 l. ſhould be raiſed upon the Eſtates of the 'ſaid Sir Henry Lingen and other Delinquents in that great Deſign, and 'beſtowed upon the ſaid Captain Tarrington for this great Service.

Inſtructions agreed to be ſent to the Lord Admiral.

A Report was made to the Houſe from the Committee at Derby Houſe, of the Inſtructions ordered to be drawn up by them for Mr. Bence, and Mr. Walter Strickland, to go to the Lord Admiral, and adviſe with, and be aſſiſtant to him upon all Occaſions, and to give the Houſe an Account of things as occaſion ſhall be; And upon the Queſtion approved of, and Ordered to be tranſmitted to the Lords for their Concurrence. The Houſe proceeded in reading the Scot's Declaration, which took up the greateſt part of this day.

Saturday, July 22. 1648.

The Lord Mayor &c. Complain, of liſting Men under Major General Skippon.

THE Houſe this day received a Petition from the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council Men in Common Council aſſembled; complaining of the liſting, and the manner of liſting of many in the City and Subburbs, under Major General Skippon, though according to Ordinance of Parliament; upon which they had much Debate. The Houſe Voted, "That they inſiſt upon the Ordinance of 20. June, '1648. for giving Power to Major General Skippon, to raiſe and liſt Forces for ſuppreſſing Inſurrections againſt the Parliament, or to the Diſturbance of the publick Peace of the Kingdom; and for a farther Vindication and Confirmation of the ſaid Major General, and thoſe acting under him, from all Malignity caſt upon him.

The Houſe approves of what the Major General had done.

The Houſe farther Ordered, "That they approve of what Major General Skippon had done, or any other Perſons under him have acted or 'done, according to the Ordinance of Parliament.

The Militia for the out Parts, to receive Complaints of indirect liſting of Men.

The Houſe Ordered, "That it ſhould be referred to the Militia of 'the out Parts and the ſeveral Counties, to receive all Complaints of 'indirect Carriages in liſting of any Forces in the Kingdom, and in 'their ſeveral Diviſions, without the Authority of Parliament.

The Petitioners being called in, the Houſe acquainted them, when they paſs'd the Ordinance for Major General Skippon to liſt Forces, for the Security of Parliament and City, and the whole Kingdom, there were then many dangers and deſigns upon them, which they ſee not yet abated. That as for any diſorderly liſting, without the Authority of Parliament, the Houſe had referred that to the Examination of a Committee.

The Houſe to be called over.

The Houſe Ordered to call over the Liſt of their Members the 7th of the next Month, only ſuch employed in the Country by ſpecial Order to be excuſed.

'League

Thoſe in Colcheſter reduced to Horſefleſh, &c.

'League before Colcheſter July 21. Here is little News ſtirring at pre-'ſent; the Enemy in Colcheſter have now begun to eat Horſefleſh, you 'may believe it; how they will digeſt it I know not: Many come out 'from them daily, (eſpecially the Women) whom they reſolve to 'ſtarve firſt; they are almoſt deſperate, notwithſtanding their great 'boaſting of Relief, and will ſell their Lives at a deſperate Rate: And 'to that purpoſe, if we may credit thoſe that come out, are providing 'all the Pitch and Tar they can get, and have Fires under the Wall to 'heat the ſame, and to throw it with Frying-pans againſt our Men, in 'caſe they attempt a Storm; and have alſo provided Sithes to cut off 'our Men at their coming up. But theſe new ſound Stratagems will not 'ſecure them as you ſhall hear farther ſhortly. Laſt Night they were qui-'et for the moſt part, only about 12 a Clock gave a great Shout to 'allarm our Men, which ours anſwered with another Shout, and no 'more done. We are cutting off a Paſſage which ſupplies the Town for 'the moſt part with Water.

Monday, July 24. 1648.

Lord Admiral mpowered to ndemnifie ſuch as return from he revolted hips.

THE Houſe this day Ordered, "That Power ſhould be given to 'the Lord Admiral, to give Indemnity to ſuch Marriners, as 'ſhould come in from the revolted Ships. That the farther Power to 'be given to him be debated to morrow.'

0000l. for e Northern rmy.

An Ordinance was read, for payment of 40000 l. out of the Exciſe in courſe, with Allowance of 8 per Cent, to the well-affected Advancers thereof, for the Pay of the Northern Army, and Aſſented unto. Alſo an Ordinance for the payment of the King and Queen' Revenue for the maintenance of that Army. Upon the Report of the Committee at Derby Houſe, it was Ordered: "That it ſhould be referred to the ſaid Com-'mittee, with the Committee for the Army joined, to provide the Artil-'lery for Major General Lambert, and the Forces of the North.

The Scots in Ireland prevented of being tranſported into Scotland by Capt. Clerk.

The Houſe was informed, That ſome Endeavours had been made, by diſaffected Men, to tranſport ſome of the Scot's Army in Ireland, into this Kingdom; but was prevented by one Captain Clark, a faithful and diſcreet Commander. The Houſe hereupon Ordered; "That they 'approved of what the ſaid Captain had done in relation to this Buſi-'neſs; and did, for the time to come, Authorize him, and the Ships 'near him, to make ſtay of ſuch Ships as ſhall ſo endeavour to tranſport 'the Scots away. And for an Encouragement to all ſuch of the Scottiſh 'Nation as ſhall not deſert the Parliament's Service in that Kingdom, 'the Houſe Ordered, That they ſhould be equally provided for, as the 'reſt of the Engliſh Soldiers in that Kingdom.

They farther Ordered, "That the Officers with Major General Lambert ſhould yet continue with him, till others came to him; notwith-'ſtanding any other Order to the contrary.

Debate about the Aſſembly's Catechiſm.

The Houſe then ſpent much time, upon the Paragraph of the large Catechiſm, which was Committed; and the Aſſembly deſired to explain upon ſome Words therein.

Upon the Approach of the Scots, the Parliament's Forces retreat to Appleby.

Out of the North by Letters this day from Major General Lambert's Quarters now at Bowes, July 19. came as followeth: "Upon the Ap-'proach of the Enemy with their whole Body, within two Miles of Pen-'rith, on Friday Night the 15. of July, it was thought fit, upon Advice 'at a Council of War, to draw off our Forces from thence, and to retreat 'to Appleby, and farther if occaſion ſhall be. The Reaſons moving were,

'1. To

‘1. The paucity of our Forces, compared with the Enemy's conjoined Bodies. 2. We had ſome additional Forces coming up to us out of ſeveral Counties, as Yorkſhire, Northumberland, and Durham; and it was not held Wiſdom to hazard a Fight with our ſmall Number, conſidering the Conſequence to theſe Parts, and to the whole Kingdom, if it had not proved well; when we might eaſily retreat, and to ſuch Advantages. 3. We were tender in being too forward to engage, in regard we had not underſtood the Pleaſure of the Parliament, upon the coming of the Scottiſh Army into this Kingdom. Accordingly that Evening we retreated from Penrith, and came to Appleby very ſafe, the Enemy never appearing in our Retreat at all; where we lay from Saturday till Monday Morning without diſturbance, ſave illneſs of Weather; though the Enemy marched after with their whole Body, and pitched with their Foot between two Bridges near Brougham Caſtle, 7 Miles from Appleby, and their Horſe about them. But on Monday Morning, they marched again with their whole Body towards us: And it being a very dark rainy Morning, were within a Mile of our Horſe Guards before they were diſcovered; all our Horſe having been that Night, in expectation of their Approach, drawn together, and continued till the Morning; and then not hearing of the Enemy's March, and by reaſon of the great Rain and Cold in which they had been all Night, and not in Quarters for a Fortnight before, they were diſmiſs'd to ſome Towns near Appleby for Refreſhment. About nine a Clock came this Allarm, and the Enemy preſently appear'd in three great Bodies, upon three great Hills, very advantagious for them, within half a Mile of Appleby; ſo that our Horſe-Guards were forced to retreat to the Town, and the Enemy followed very hard; but Colonel Harriſon, with the Horſe-Guards, Charged the Enemy, and gave a Check to their Advance: And being more forward and bold, then his Men did ſecond him; having hold himſelf of one of the Enemy's Horſe Colours, he received three Wounds; one Cut on the Bridle Wriſt, and a Prick in the Back and Thigh; but we hope none of them mortal. Captain Cromwel's Lieutenant, at their Charge, who behaved himſelf very ſtoutly, was ſlain, and ſome of the Enemy. Our Foot were preſently in readineſs, and drawn down, and placed at their ſeveral Paſſes and Baracadoes, to prevent the Enemy's Horſe careering into the Town to make way for their Army, which they reſolutely attempted to do, but were valiantly repuls'd; and then with ſhouting our Foot were moſt of them drawn out of the Town, to line the Hedges, and ſtop the Approach of their Body, till our Horſe could be embodied; being placed near the Enemy's Body, who drew out ſeveral ſtrong Parties, to break into the Town, every quarter of an hour, but were forced to retreat as faſt as they came on. A ſmall Party of ours, Commanded by Captain Hatfield, advanced to the Gallows-Hill, where there was a great Body of the Enemy, and gave them ſuch a Charge, that they forced their whole Body to retreat, and came off with Freedom and Honour.

From Appleby they draw off to Kirby Stephen

‘During this time, our Horſe were drawing up from their Quarters into a Body, and came all ſafe together; the Foot crying out a Field, a Field. It was again reſolved at a Council of War, to draw off and go to Kirby Stephen: In this Service were only two ſlain, and two or three wounded, and Lieut. Shears taken Priſoner. The Enemy had above 40 ſlain, many wounded, and ſome taken; amongſt the reſt, one of Duke Hamilton's Chirurgeons.

‘We came that Night to Bowes, in order to join with other Forces.

Conference about the perſonal Treaty.

THIS day both Houſes had a Conference, about the perſonal Treaty with the King. The Commons gave Reaſons why the three Propoſitions ſhould be ſent to His Majeſty, to paſs before a Treaty. The Lords gave Reaſons againſt it, and that all be done by Treaty: To this the Commons replied; and for better ſatisfaction, we will give you ſome of the Reaſons on both ſides: And firſt the Commons gave Reaſons to this purpoſe.

Militia to be firſt ſettled.

They ſay, "That the Diſaffection to the Parliament, and thoſe that have adhered to them, is ſuch in all Parts, (eſpecially in and about London) That if the King grants not the Militia before he comes, there will be no Safety, nor is the Treaty like to proceed: For many will endeavour to bring in His Majeſty without any Agreement; yea, with Deſtruction to the preſent Parliament. Secondly, if the Presbiterian Government be not Decreed, all things will grow into Confuſion in the Churches, and the preſent Miniſtry be great Sufferers. Thirdly, if the Declarations be not recalled, the Parliament is not in Capacity to treat, having been declared Rebels and Traitors, and no Parliament, but a pretended one all along the Differences; which was never done by any of the Kings of England. And whereas it may be objected, theſe things need Debate; it's anſwered, His Majeſty is not ignorant of the full Demand of theſe, they having been over and over preſented to him And to the two firſt he hath declared a willingneſs; nor yet is he obliged to paſs them as Bills, unleſs all other things are agreed upon; and if no Agreement, (he being at liberty) a new War is like to enſue, or to this Effect: And when His Majeſty hath Signed theſe, they will treat perſonally; that is, a Committee of Lords and Commons, with Himſelf, at the place agreed upon.

The Lords reply, that it was not probable the City, who had petitioned for a Treaty, would put it on to the diſadvantage of the Parliament.

The Lords Reply to this Effect, "That they could not imagine, nor was it probable, that the Parts about London who had petitioned for a Treaty, would put it on to the diſadvantage of Parliament or Commonwealth. Secondly, That they did not apprehend any prejudice to the Parliament's Party during the Treaty. Thirdly, His Majeſty had declared, he would conſent to all together; and not to any before all was agreed. And laſtly, That in Caſe there were no Agreement, they were in State as before. To this was replied preſently, by a Member of the Commons Houſe, it being a free Conference (to this Effect,) That there was no doubt, but thoſe in the Parts about London, would put forward the Treaty, to the diſadvantage of Parliament and Kingdom; being ſuch who had not only petitioned the re-eſtabliſhment of His Majeſty without Conditions, but had taken up Arms, and were now in Arms, for no leſs in ſhew, nay in Words, than to cudgel them into a Treaty (as they ſay in Colcheſter.) Secondly, for His Majeſty's ſaying He would not paſs any before all were agreed; it ſeems not; for he pretends to be willing to paſs theſe only upon Conditions, or in any way, as that de facto he will; and de jure, the Power ſhall be declared in him; which were for the Parliament to part with That, that will be their irrepairable Loſs and Deſtruction. And beſides, as to Security, what appears, unleſs the Grant of theſe Propoſitions? For it's ſuppoſed, the Treaty will be in or near London. And what is ſaid, how His Majeſty ſhall be, who ſhall be with him? How the diſaffected to Parliament ſhall be ordered? And beſides, if this be not, why may not theſe things ſettled by Law revive Epiſcopacy again Set on foot? All the 'Miniſters put out for Scandal re-enter? Others of honeſt Life put to ſeek their way of Life; Ordinances for Money deny'd of all ſorts, as they were formerly when His Majeſty was in Arms, where He was. And Laſtly, in caſe no Accord be mad, can any think, after the probable flowing in of all the afore-named, that His Majeſty and Parliament be in State as before; nay, may it not rather be thought they will be all in Blood again, and a new and laſting War Contracted, with many other weighty Reaſons.

Intercepted Letters from the Scots, ſent up by Major-General Lambert, to the Houſe were this day read; "That in Characters Ordered to be referred to a Committee to find out the Clavis, who had Power to ſend for and ſecure ſuch Perſons concerned therein, as they ſhould think fit.

Intercepted Letters from Scotland, referred to a Committee.

Letters this day from Major-General Lambert were read, giving an account of his late Retreat, and the Reaſons why he did not farther engage the Enemy, which we gave you before. The Houſe hereupon Ordered, "That it ſhould be referred to the Committee at Derby-Houſe, who had Power given them to Command ſuch Forces at Glouceſter, and all other Gariſons in the Kingdom, to march forthwith into the North to join with Major-General Lambert, to hinder the farther advance of the Scots Army into this Kingdom.

Letters from Lambert; giving an Account of his Retreat.

The Houſe farther Ordered, "That the Ships at Munſter ſhould be joined with Capt. Clark, for ſtay of ſuch Ships as ſhall endeavour to Tranſport any of the Scots into this Kingdom.

Ships at Munſter to ſtop the Scots going out of Ireland

The Houſe conſidered how Moneys might be ſpeedily advanced for the Forces of the North, which took up much time; and the farther Conſideration was referred to the Committee of the North.

Debate about Money for the Northern Forces.

A Committee was Ordered to go into the City, to deſire the repayment of their Arrears to the Army; and Letters were Ordered to be writ by the Committee of the Army to the ſeveral Counties, for the ſpeedy payment of their Arrears due to the Army.

A Committee to haſten the payment of the Arrears to the Army.

The Houſe Ordered, "That the Lord Admiral ſhould have Power given him to diſmiſs ſuch Ships as his Lordſhip ſhould think were not for this Service.

The Lord Admiral to diſmiſs ſuch Ships as are not fit for Service.

It was Ordered, "That Southampton Forces ſhoul be made up 200 Foot, and Two Gunners more allowed.

The Commons paſſed Two Ordinances; The one, "For removing "Obſtructions in the Sale of Biſhops Lands; The other, "For Settling "in the County of Dorſet, a Power for their Militia to raiſe ſuch Forces "as other Counties. Both which were ſent to the Lords by a Meſſage, and their Lordſhips Concurred therein; and the Ordinance for the Militia for Huntingtonſhire, in which the Lords made ſome Amendments.

Two Ordinances ſent to the Lords for their Concurrence; One for removing Obſtructions in the Sale of Biſhops Lands. The other for the Militia.

Several Reports were made from the Committee at Derby-Houſe, and Orders made thereupon; as upon Col. Hammond's Letter, Ordered the Payment of 200 l. for Cariſbrook-Caſtle, and 200 l. for Hurſt-Caſtle; Theſe Sums to be paid by the General-Receiver of Hampſhire. Agreed that a Troop of Horſe be ſent into that Iſland for farther Security. '2000 l. Ordered out of the Sequeſtred Eſtates of the Duke of Buckingham, Earl of Holland, and the reſt that engaged for Payment of the two Troops of Reformadoes attending the Houſe.

Reports made from the Committee at Derby-Houſe.

The Houſe paſſed theſe Votes formerly made, for Monies out of the Revenue, the Duke of Buckingham's Eſtate, &c. for ſupply of Major-General Lambert, into Ordinances; the Lords Concurrence to be deſired.

Five Hundred pounds for the ſupply of a Gariſon not to be named.

Upon a Report made from Derby-Houſe, a Vote paſſed for 500*l.* to be advanced for the Supply of a Garriſon, not then to be named; with ſome other Inſtructions for the Committee at Derby-Houſe, concerning that and other places.

Wedneſday, July 26. 1648.

THIS was the Monthly Faſt. Mr. Marſhal and Mr. Ranelaugh, Preached before the Commons; The Houſe ſate, and Ordered them Thanks, and to Print their Sermons: And that Mr. Boulton and Mr. Strong be deſired to Preach the next Faſt.

Sir John Owen ſent to the Gatehouſe.

Sir John Owen was ſent to the Gatehouſe, and to Morrow to Windſor-Caſtle, upon a Charge of High Treaſon, and Murther, for the buſineſs of North-Wales.

Mr. Aſhburnham to be exchanged for Sir William Maſſam.

From the League before Colcheſter, July 25. 1648. "This Morning 'a Trumpeter went into the Town about the exchange of Mr. Aſhburnham, for Sir William Maſſam; the chief thing in difference about this 'Exchange is, thoſe in the Town would have the Lord General give 'Mr. Aſhburnham a Paſs to go whither he pleaſeth, and they ſay, they 'will give one to Sir William Maſſam, to go all England over.

The Water cut off from Colcheſter.

'We have cut off all their Pipes for Water, by which means we have 'not only prevented them of good Water, but have furniſhed our ſelves 'with good ſtore of Lead; they have very little Water in the Town 'but what is Muddy, or annoyed with dead Horſes; the Common Soldiers have now lived upon Horſe-fleſh, for the moſt part of Five days 'together.

A Horſe roaſted whole.

'The other night they roaſted a whole Horſe at one of their Courts 'of Guard; the Foot were very merry at it, but the Troopers are diſcontented for the loſs of their Horſes, not knowing how to get others; 'nor well liking the Service of Mowing with their new deviſed long 'Sithes, which weapons are put into the hands of ſuch as were Troopers.

Forty Horſe turned out to Graſs without the Walls.

'They turned forth to graze under the Walls about 40 Horſe, which 'our Men fetched away; they are altogether unſerviceable, for that they 'are almoſt ſtarved.

'The Lord-General being deſirous to gain this place without ſhedding 'any more Blood, if it be poſſible, thought of a device to let the Soldiers in the Town know, what was thought hitherto to be concealed from them, viz.

Papers ſhot into the Town upon the head of an Arrow, to let the Soldiers know, what Conditions they might have.

'That if they would deliver up the Lord Goring, the Lord Capel, the 'Lord Loughborough, and ſome other of the Chief of the Town, the reſt 'ſhould have Quarter and Paſſes to go to their own Houſes; and Papers ſignifying thus much were ſent into the Town upon the head of an Arrow, 'of which we hear nothing yet.

Great Guns expected in the League from London.

'To Morrow we expect the other great Pieces, and the Ammunition from London, to come up to us; and then you will hear more, if 'they yield not before, which can hardly be expected; for that certain 'Intelligence is come, That the Prince and the Duke of York are come 'to Yarmouth with Nineteen Sail of Ships, in which are ſaid to be about '2000 Men; ſome of them landing near the Town, were ſet upon by a 'few of our Horſe, which were there, and after a little Fight with them, 'we took ſeven Priſoners, the reſt getting into the Town, from whence 'a Party of Townſmen iſſued out, and reſcued the Priſoners from us, and 'placed a Guard at the Turnpike.

Prince and Duke with 19 Sail of Ships and 2000 Men come near Yarmouth.

“There is great Diviſion in the Town; ſome are for the Prince's Landing there, and others againſt it; but we may gueſs by this Act of theirs in reſcuing thoſe Priſoners, which ſide it is that is moſt prevalent, and what we may expect farther from them; the deſign of the Prince coming thither, is undoubtedly for the Relief of Colcheſter (if poſſible,) for it is not above two Days march from thence: Col. Scroop, with eight Troops of Horſe and Dragoons, is ordered by the Lord General to march from the League towards Yarmouth, and attend the motion of the Prince, if he land w[illegible] any Forces there; with whom, it is ſaid, a Thouſand of the Norfol[illegible]oot will join, and if need be, we ſhall ſpare more Forces from thence, and yet be able to make good the League.

The Town divided about their Landing.

Letters from Major-General Lambert certifie, “That he is come to Bowes, and Duke Hamilton at Appleby; they have had ſeveral Skirmiſhes in Parties, but not many Men loſt on either ſide; Yorkſhire Horſe, and a Thouſand of Lieutinant-General Cromwel's Foot, are by this time joined with him; and being thus united, we ſhall be in a very good poſture to give the Scots and Langdale's Forces a Field Fight.

Lambert come to Bowes, and Hamilton to Appleby.

Amidſt theſe times of killing and deſtroying, it is a work of Charity to Save ſuch as may be Saved. To this end a Medicine is offered, by which many Lives have been Saved, and in ſo dangerous a Caſe, that it hath been often left by Phyſitians as deſperate, and by one of the greateſt of Phyſitians in this Kingdom, hath been thought remedileſs, but only by cuting a hole in the Breaſt, ſo that both Pain and Danger is here prevented by an eaſie Remedy.

Medicine offered in deſperate Caſes.

When the Pluriſie is paſt the time of Blood-letting, take an Apple and cut away the top of it to make a Cover, then pick out the Core, and fill the empty room with the white of Frankinſence, then lay on the Cover, and Roaſt it, when it is ſoft bruiſe and mix it all together, then put ſo much Sugar to it as will make it ſavory; let the ſick Perſon eat it, and it fails not to Cure: If need be, it may be taken more than once.

Another in the Caſe of a Pleuriſie.

Thurſday, July 27. 1648.

A Meſſage this day came from the Lords, deſiring the Commons Concurrence to an Ordinance for conferring the Honour of Conſtable of Windſor-Caſtle, with the Keeper of the Great Parke on the Earl of Pembroke. The Houſe Debated hereupon, and Ordered to agree with their Lordſhips herein.

Earl of Pembroke to be Conſtable of Windſor-Caſtle, and Keeper of the Great Park.

They likewiſe deſired that Mr. Osborn, Mr. Worſley, and Mr. Dowcet, might have liberty to go down to Southampton Aſſize, and that St. James's Fair, kept in the Fields near St. James's, might be put off; To which no Anſwer at preſent was given.

The Houſe conſidered of the Caſe of Serjeant Glanville, reported from the Committee appointed to conſider thereof.

The Houſe Ordered, “That the 9*th*. part of the Land of the ſaid Serjeant Glanville ſhould be accepted of for the 5*th* and 20*th*. part of his Eſtate.

“That the Bail of the ſaid Serjeant ſhould be Diſcharged, and likewiſe himſelf of all Impriſonment.

Serjeant Glanvill*'s Caſe Reported; the 5th part of his Eſtate accepted for his Compoſition*

His Bail diſcharged.

A Report was this day made from the Committee appointed to Conſider of the Stores of the Kingdoms; and it was thereupon Voted, “That 4000 l. ſhould be forthwith advanced for furniſhing them; and that Forty Thouſand pounds to be advanced for furniſhing the Naval Stores.

Eight thouſand Pounds for Tilbury-Fort.

‘that it ſhould be referred to the Committee of the Navy, how this ‘Sum may be ſpeedily advanced. The Houſe was informed of the great want of Proviſions for Tilbury Fort, and the Arrears due unto them: They Ordered, “That it ſhould be referred to a Committee, to furniſh ‘Them with Proviſions and Victuals forthwith: And farther Ordered, “The Sum of 8000 l. ſhould be Charged upon the Excize with Intereſt, for the Pay of that Fort.

It was referred to a Committee to ſtate the Diſburſements of Col. Willoughby for Tilbury-Fort, to the end ſpeedy Payment may be made thereof.

They Ordered the Order (for keeping the 9th. of Auguſt next a day of Thankſging throughout the Kingdom) ſhould be Printed.

Friday, July 28. 1648.

Farther Debate concerning the Treaty.

THE Houſe of Commons this day, according to former Order, took into Conſideration the Debate concerning Peace; and the Lords Reaſons yeſterday for adhering to their former Vote to Treat with His Majeſty upon the Propoſitions Preſented to His Majeſty at Hampton-Court, without the Signing of the Three Propoſitions before the Treaty.

At laſt the Commons Concurr with the Lords for a Perſonal Treaty in Cariſbrook-Caſtle.

The Buſineſs being of great Importance, took up many Hours Debate; at laſt the Queſtion was put, “Whether that Houſe would Adhere to their firſt Vote, viz. That the King ſhould Sign the Three Propoſitions before the Treaty, or no: And upon diviſion of the Houſe, ‘It was ‘carried in the Negative Voice: And the Commons thus concurring with the Lords for a Perſonal Treaty, they then Debated where this Perſonal Treaty ſhould be, Whether in Cariſbrook-Caſtle in the Iſle of Wight, or elſewhere in that Iſland; and this took up much time, but at laſt it was Reſolved, “That His Majeſty in Perſon ſhould be Treated with by Commiſſioners of both Houſes of Parliament in the Iſle of Wight, upon the whole Matter of the Propoſitions at Hampton-Court, ‘for ſettling the Peace of this Kingdom.

Letter from Lieutenant-General Cromwel, concerning his marching Northward.

A Letter was this day read from Lieutenant-General Cromwell, who ‘was on Wedneſday laſt upon Advance with his Forces as far as Glouceſter; ‘the Letter was Reported from Derby-Houſe, ‘Deſiring that his poor ‘wearied Soldiers may have Shoes provided them, the better to enable them to take their long march into the North: According to the ‘Orders of Parliament in that behalf.

Three Thouſand pair of Shoes to be prepared for them.

The Houſe Ordered, “Three Thouſand pair of Shoes ſhould be ‘prepared for Lieutenant-General Cromwel's Foot, advancing into the ‘North, and theſe to be in readineſs for them as they march through Northamptonſhire.

Two Expreſſes from Yarmouth.

From the League before Colcheſter this 27 July. “This day two Expreſſes came from Yarmouth to his Excellency, the one from the Town, ‘Shewing how much they were laboured by the Prince, for Admittance into the Town, and that notwithſtanding it was modeſtly excuſed; Whereupon the Prince hoiſted Sail, and put to Sea, towards ‘Harwich or the Downs: The other Expreſs came from the Forces ‘that were ſent by his Excellency under the Command of Major ‘Jarmy, a faithful and ſtout Commander, informing, “How confidently the Ships attempted to land a Trumpeter to ſummon Yarmouth; ‘that he took ſeven of thoſe that came with the Trumpeter, whoſe Examination Declares ſomething of Importance, and do particularize, ‘that they were aboard the Admiral, wherein then was the Prince, Prince Rupert, the Lords Willoughby, Wilmot, Hopton, Culpepper, Gerrard, Sir Henry Palmer, and many more Perſons of Quality; That they were reſolved, by a Council of War, to ſink Ships in the Harbour, by reaſon they had not admittance into the Town; but put not their Reſolutions into execution. Major Jarmy was put to great ſtraights to ſecure both ſides of the Town, being denyed the uſe of the Ferry-Boat, or any other Boat, although plenty, to paſs the River; and was forced to ſwim over a Troop of Horſe: His Faithfulneſs and Diligence deſerves to be taken notice of.

‘Captain Johnſon endeavoured to raiſe a Tumult, and make head againſt the Parliament; the Multitude throwing up their Caps, and crying, For Prince Charles and Captain Johnſon.

‘Bayliffs and other Magiſtrates did appeaſe the Tumult, and a Preſent of Proviſions was ſent Aboard to the Prince. It was a happy time that thoſe Horſe and Dragoons came into thoſe parts; Col. Scroop's Horſe being not yet come up. There was taken from ſome that came from aboard, the heads of a Declaration to be publiſhed by the Prince, a Coppy whereof I have ſent here incloſed: There was nothing of Note this day before Colcheſter.

Letters from Dublin, July 20. were read in the Houſe, by which 'tis thus certified: ‘The Differences here between Preſton and Owen Roe, we believe, are fully heighten'd, ſo as we are ſecure from them this Summer; Preſton fell upon a Party of Owen's, commanded by Colonel Fox, whom he had left to manage the Siege againſt the Caſtle of Athlone, in the County of Weſt-Meath, killed near 500 of them, with the loſs of near 100 of his own. All the Miſchief that hath befallen us of late, hath been the loſs of Cruces Fort, and Killalone, two Garriſons in Pudſonby's Quarters, taken by Fleming. It's certified from Munſter, That the Lord of Ormond is expected ſuddenly at Cork, with ſome of his Retinue, a Houſe being taken for him; the Aſſurance of his coming hath diſcovered what we feared; viz. That a General Revolt was intended in this Kingdom, and we have found it in this Place; for a Combination is detected for a Surprize of this Caſtle, and then the City, and all our Footing in Ireland. Moſt of the Confederates are taken.

From the North, the Letters by the Poſt this day, and firſt from Newcaſtle, July 27. came as followeth: 'Major-General Lambert remains about Bernard Caſtle; he is in daily Expectation of the Forces from the South Parts under Lieutenant-General Cromwell, ſome of which are to join with him this day; Our Party (in Appleby Caſtle, beſieged by Sir Philip Muſgrave) have Proviſions for ſix weeks, before which time they expect, and no doubt will be Relieved; The great number of additional Scots (ſaid to be come both by the way of Carliſle and Berwick) proves but 150 landed at Warkington, very poor and unarmed, and ſome 3 or 400 with the Earl of Calender, Governour of Carliſle, as Lodowick Leſly is of Berwick, with the Artillery. The Cry in the Town of Berwick by the People is much to be pitied; and the like Cry is in Cumberland and Weſtmerland, whence the People fly to Parts adjacent, without any thing for Supply of their Neceſſities, being turned out of all by the Scots, who with Wives and Children take Poſſeſſion, the Engliſh chuſing rather to wander than endure ſuch Oppreſſions, wiſhing the Scots would be ſo kind as to Quarter only upon their Friends, and haſt to thoſe Parts where they have moſt, which they ſhortly muſt, there being nothing almoſt left for Man or Beaſt where they are.

And farther from Major-General Lambert's Quarters at Baynard's Caſtle, July, 28. to this Purpoſe: 'Lieutenant-General Cromwell's Horſe (conſiſting of 30 odd Troops) joined with Major-General Lambert the 27th; which no ſooner came near the Major General's farther Quarters, but fell upon Action with a ſmall Party, with which they reſolved to try the Scot's Scouts, who forced them to Retreat within two Miles of Appleby, where their main Guard was. The Scots advance not, nor hath the Major-General given ground theſe 10 days and upwards; no Action hath been between them, only the Scouts ſometimes diſpute it. The Major-General increaſes daily, his Number conſiſts of 9000, and with the Foot of the Lieutenant-General's, with other Forces, (joined with him in Nottingam, Leiceſter, and Derbyſhire, which will compleat 5000) his Army will be very Numerous, and more Offenſive than Defenſive.

Notwithſtanding the Houſe is informed, there is much of Arrears in your County; ſo that many Inconveniences are like to come upon the County, and the Soldier, unleſs Money be ſpeedily provided and gotten in for them: I am commanded by the Houſe of Commons, to ſignifie this unto you, and to deſire you to proceed vigorouſly and ſpeedily in the collecting and getting in the Arrears of the 9 Months, and the laſt Months, and to puniſh the Defaulters; that out of that the Forces may be ſupplied, and encouraged in the hard and great Duties they are now upon. This being of ſo great and eminent Concernment to the Safety of the Kingdom, they doubt not of your Care and hearty Endeavours in the performance thereof. I am,

“From the Leagure before Colcheſter, July 31. All is ſilent here, hardly a great Gun in an Hour to be heard; the Suffolk ſide is now cloſing ‘up with a Line, which is at a near diſtance, and will not be compleated till Tueſday Night: This done, His Excellency may ſpare a conſiderable Brigade of Horſe and Foot, if any Occaſion happens. The ‘Two Demy-Cannon were mounted againſt St. Mary's Church, and ‘after a few Shots, brought down a great part of the Steeple, and the ‘Ordnance mounted therein; which, falling upon the Leads, brought ‘down moſt of it with them, in which the Ordnance is buried.

The Houſe likewiſe Ordered, " That the Lord Mayor and Common ' Council ſhould be enjoined, not to return any Anſwer thereunto, or ' proceed thereupon, without ſpecial Order or Leave of the Parliament.

Caroli I.

The Earl of Middleſex, and the two Commoners appointed, took their Journey this day towards the Iſle of Wight, with the Votes of the Houſes, for a perſonal Treaty with His Majeſty, in what Part or Place of that Iſland His Majeſty ſhall appoint. They are to return within Ten days, according to the Votes you had before.

From the League before Colcheſter, Aug. 3. came as followeth: " I 'have forborn to write unto you theſe Three or Four days, by reaſon 'there hath but little of Note happened in our League. On Monday 'Night laſt, our Men being at work near the middle Mill, a Party of 'the Enemy's Forces, (about 20) came out of the Town; and wheeling about the River, came with Spades and Shovels, and not above 'Six Muſqueteers: They paſs'd the firſt Guard, telling them they 'came to make an end of their Work, began the Night before: But the 'Second refuſing to let them come on, they fired at our Men; who 'charged again, and killed one of them who was a Lieutenant; the reſt 'fled back into the Town, and carried one of our Serjeants Priſoner 'with them.

'Tueſday there came divers Soldiers out of the Town, a Lieutenant and 'Cornet of Horſe, and 3 or 4 Troopers, with their Horſes and Arms; 'an Enſign of Foot, and 9 or 10 others; they began to be weary of eating Horſefleſh; they ſaid divers will come out, if they can get opportunity.

"Wedneſday we underſtood, That the Town of Yarmouth had returned an Anſwer to Col. Scroop, the Subſtance whereof is: That they 'have declared themſelves, that they will adhere unto the Parliament, 'againſt all Intereſt that ſhall riſe up or appear againſt them. That 'they will, (if His Excellency command it) admit of the Forces into 'the Town, which he ſhall ſend unto them, Thar Col. Scroop ſhall have 'Liberty upon all Occaſions, with his Horſe and Dragoons, to march 'through the Town; and they are able of themſelves to ſuppreſs all 'Tumults that ſhall ariſe within themſelves. And to that end they are 'raiſing of their Trained-bands, Four Companies, and 200 Auxiliaries 'to be added unto them. Col. Scroop has reſted ſatisfied with this Anſwer, till he hears farther from His Excellency; it is much doubted, 'they will not be able to prevent Diſturbances, how confident ſoever 'they may ſeem to be.

"Thurſday Aug. 3. There are 17 of the Enemy come out of the Town to 'our Guards. They complain, That their allowance of Bread, which 'was before 14 Ounces a day to a Man, is now abated to Ten; That 'their Horſefleſh is much tainted. Juſt now there are 20 more of the 'Enemy come out of the Town; they ſay, that the Horſefleſh appointed for them hath many Gentlewomen with black Bags walking in 'them, and that more of their Fellows will follow them. I here encloſed the Names of the Exchange, propounded for our Committee; 'which they refuſed.

From the General's Tent,

Saturday, Aug. 5. 1648.

THE Houſe conſidered of the ſad Condition this Kingdom is like to fall into, and the great Judgment of God upon it, through want of ſeaſonable Weather to ripen and gather in the Fruits of the Land: And upon ſerious and ſad Conſideration thereof, Ordered, " That

'Thurſday next ſhall be appointed a Day of Humiliation for the City of London and Suburbs thereof, within the late Lines of Communication, for bewailing the Sins of the Nation, and for crying mightily to God for removal of his heavy Judgments from it, in ſending us more ſeaſonable Weather than heretofore we have had.

They Ordered, " That this Order ſhould be printed and publiſhed, and ſent to the Lord Mayor of the City; who is deſired to give Notice thereof to all the Miniſters within the City and Suburbs.

They farther Ordered, " That Mr. Marſhal and Mr. Herricke ſhould be deſired to Preach before the Houſe of Commons, on Thurſday next, at S. Margaret's Weſtminſter.

The Houſe then, according to former Order, conſidered of the Self-denying Ordinance, for taking away all publick Places of Benefit confer'd upon any Member of Parliament, ſince the beginning thereof, by Order of Ordinance of Parliament; which was read the firſt time, and re-committed.

From the Leagure before Colcheſter, Aug. 6. 1648. " If it be wondred why Colcheſter is not taken, we give Anſwer; We can take it when we pleaſe by Storm in few Hours warning: But ſeeing we are in very good hopes to take it by ſtarving ſhortly, I ſee no Reaſon (to ſatisfie Men's humours) to caſt away our Men by Storm. If Relief come by Sea or Land, we can draw off 2000 old Soldiers and fight them; or if the Relief be too ſtrong, upon few hours warning ſtorm the Town and carry it. We know their Condition within, and every day adds to their weakneſs; near 200 are lately run from them, and every day (as they get Opportunity) they come out. Let them eat Horſefleſh and Maggots till the Flux (already among them) increaſe their Diſeaſes: They do us no hurt, but rather a Courteſie; they keep us from Diſeaſes, and healthful, by cauſing our Men to be in continual Action. This day, we had 35 Priſoners come out in Exchange for ſo many ſent in yeſterday, which are all but one or two Priſoners they have of ours, though we have many of theirs. The middle Mill, (which we fired a Week ſince) is ſpoiled by our Cannon, that it cannot be ſerviceable.

Monday, Aug. 7. 1648.

The Houſe ordered to be called over this day ſevenight.

This day the Houſe of Commons was to meet generally, according to the calling over the Liſt of their Members, ſuch only excepted as were ſpecially employed by Order of the Houſe; but finding the appearance ſo ſmall, they Ordered, That the Houſe ſhould be called over this day Sevenight, againſt which day a farther Order was made for all Members to appear.

The General deſired to recall his Orders to Sir Hardreſs Waller's marching out of the Weſt, &c.

The Houſe was informed, That Sir Hardreſs Waller being ready to march out of the Weſt, according to his Excellencies Order for that purpoſe, the County apprehended themſelves in great danger, lying naked to the approach of any Enemy; and many there are that did wait for ſuch an opportunity: And unleſs they might receive Encouragement by Protection, after they had appeared for, and engaged with him, they ſhould be tender hereafter how they appeared for him, or any of the Parliaments Friends again. The Houſe hereupon Ordered, “That his Excellency the Lord-General ſhould be deſired to recall his Orders for Sir Hardreſs Waller to march out of the Weſt.

Colcheſter League Aug. 8. “The Enemy are very quiet, not firing Gun, or ſcarce a Muſquet in a day: We wait until their Horſefleſh be all ſpent; they come daily from the Enemy, 20 or 30 in a day. Yeſterday almoſt a whole Guard came away together; their Wine and Raiſins are near ſpent, ſo that the common Soldiers get none. Yeſterday they killed 30 Horſes to powder up, ſome Horſefleſh having been put up before, but not well, for it bred Maggots. The bloody Flux is among them, by reaſon of their bad Diet: The Enemy have drawn off moſt of their Guns from the Wall, and we think intend to fortifie the Streets; that ſo they may be able to keep that ſhorter Line with fewer Men: Others believe, they will quit the Town, and retire to the Caſtle, where they are building; therefore to keep all in, is ſure the beſt way; and it is ſaid, they will carry our Committee along with them into the Caſtle, and cut their Throats, if they may not have Conditions for themſelves. The Allowance of Bread is decreaſed to 7 Oz. a day to a Man.

From Holland came Letters to this purpoſe. Aug. 14. Stilo Novo.

SIR,

THE Merchants, and moſt here, begin to reſent the buſineſs of the Prince of Wales in a very ſtrange manner, becauſe they apprehend his being upon the Downs with ſo conſiderable a Party of the Navy, for fear it obſtruct Traffique. The Prince of Orange is very earneſt in getting an encreaſe of Ships; and let me tell you for a Secret, there is much tampering to borrow ſome Regiments to attempt ſomething in England; and as ſome ſay (who are in the Council) it is thought you may have good cauſe to ſecure Pool, Lime, and Weymouth; withal, it is a little feared, That ſome with you Intereſſed do not ſo much conſult the Intereſt of the Kingdom, or their own Reputation, as Men in their places ought; but are too much complying with an Adverſe Party: But I am unwilling to lay an Imputation upon any, and therefore I will ſay no more upon that particular.

My Lord of Peterborough is here, and Mr. Stafford, a Northamptonſhire Gentleman who was by his Garb and Diſguiſe thought to be a French Cavalier; he has lately taxed ſome body that were in my Lord of Holland's late Action, and has preſſed the Matter to the height of a Duel; wherein, though many ſuppoſe he had the better Cauſe, yet he had the worſt fortune to be dangerouſly wounded: By my next I hope to give you ſome particulars of the States Conſultation concerning Trading; but in the mean time you muſt know the Prince labours much to a good underſtanding here, and in order to that, has cauſed his Declaration and Letter to your City to be Printed in Dutch and French; they leave no way unattempted to drive on their ends.

Friday, Aug. 11. 1648.

THE Houſe this day Ordered, "That the ſpecial Thanks of the 'Houſe ſhould be given to Mr. Caroll, Mr. Martial, and Mr. Aſh, 'for the great pains they took in Preaching yeſterday before the Houſe 'of Commons; and that they have the liberty to Print their Sermons, as others, upon the ſame occaſion.

The Houſe then fell upon the buſineſs of the Church. The Title to the Ordinance for ſettling the Government of the Church, was Read, and Aſſented unto.

The main buſineſs of the day was the Reading the Ordinance for the Militia of the County of Wilts, being Reported from the Committee, to which it was Committed; this took up much time, Vote every Name one by one, which at laſt was Aſſented unto, and Ordered to be ſent to the Lords for their Concurrence.

From the Iſle of Wight came Letters to this purpoſe. Aug. 11. 1648. "On Sunday laſt in the Morning the Earl of Middleſex, Sir John 'Hippeſley, and Mr. Bulkley, arrived in this Iſland; they came 'to Newport that Night, and had Acceſs and Audience at Cariſbrooke-'Caſtle the next day about 9 in the Forenoon; at which time the Earl 'of Middleſex read the Votes of the Houſe concerning a Perſonal Treaty, 'and delivered them to the King: His Majeſty received them with 'much Cheerfulneſs, and made a Speech to this purpoſe; That no Man deſired Peace ſo much as he, (look on him in his ſeveral Relations, as a King, a Husband, a Father, a Maſter) and that he would give Ear to any Motion or Overture which might conduce to a good Accommodation: For (ſaid he) Whoever they be that gain by theſe Troubles, I muſt needs be a looſer.

Earl of Middleſex, &c. in Wight Iſle, had Audience of His Majeſty, and read the Votes for a Perſonal Treaty; to which the King in a Speech declared his willingneſs.

'His Majeſty demanded of the Commiſſioners, How long they were 'to ſtay in the Iſland? To which it was Anſwered by my Lord of 'Middleſex, That they were confined by the Two Houſes to Ten Days 'from the time they ſet forth from London: His Majeſty Replied, That the time was ſhort, and that he had no Clerk to write for him, but he would (nevertheleſs) diſpatch them within the time limited.

The Commiſſioners declare they could ſtay but 10 days, &c.

Saturday, Aug. 12. 1648.

THE Houſe of Commons this day, according to former Order, took into Conſideration the Ordinance for ſettling the Militia of the Kingdom, and ſate in a Grand Committee about the ſame till 11 a Clock. A Conference was then deſired with their Lordſhips, concerning cerning the buſineſs of Major Rolfe and Mr. Albarton, which took up much time. The Commons alledged, “That Major Rolfe was committed by their ‘ Lordſhips without ſhewing any cauſe in the Warrant, and they ſaw ‘ more cauſe to clear him, than to have him Committed: That Mr. ‘ Albarton was a dangerous Perſon, employed by the Declared Enemies ‘ to the Kingdom, from whom many Letters of dangerous Conſequence ‘ were taken, which were Diſciphered and Communicated to the Common-Council of the City; and having delivered his Letters to His Majeſty, they conceived it neceſſary to return to his own Country, and not ‘ to be protected here to do ill Offices to this Kingdom.

Reaſons to the Commons for diſabling Major-General Skippon to Liſt Forces.

Their Lordſhips deſired, at this Conference, the Commons Concurrence to the Ordinance for diſabling Major-General Skippon to Liſt Forces, and gave the Houſe of Commons Reaſons for the ſame:

1. ‘The Liſting of Apprentices and Servants at unſeaſonable times in ‘ the Night.

2. ‘The Jealouſie the City of London will have, that the Parliaments Affections are Alienated from them, in not granting their Requeſt; with ‘ many others. The Houſe took time to Debate and Anſwer both ‘ theſe.

Exchanges to be made of King and Parliaments Priſoners.

They farther Ordered, “That the Committee of Eſſex, in reſtraint ‘ at Colcheſter, ſhould be exchanged for ſo many of the King's Party, ‘ that are Priſoners to the Parliament.

Sir Peter Killigrew's Letters to the Houſes of the Commiſſioners journey for London, and the King's Agreement to a Treaty at Newport.

Sir Peter Killigrew came this day from the Iſle of Wight, and brought Letters to the Houſes, “That our Commiſſioners are upon their Journey for London this Night or to Morrow. That the King hath condeſcended to a Perſonal Treaty in Newport, in the Iſle of Wight, and ‘ deſires that the Kingdom of Scotland may Treat alſo; but for that, ‘ He leaves it to both Houſes to ſend to Scotland, or if they refuſe to ‘ ſend Commiſſioners, His Majeſty will Treat with the Parliament of ‘ this Kingdom alone.

The General received a Letter from the Bailiffs of Yarmouth, of a Letter and a Declaration received by them from Prince Charles, &c.

This day his Excellency received a Letter from the Bailiffs of Yarmouth, “That they had a Letter from Prince Charles in the Downs, with ‘ a Declaration incloſed, by a Fiſherman of that Town, who was intercepted there, going to a Market in France with his Fiſh, and had ‘ his Fiſh taken out of his own Veſſel into the Admiral where the Prince ‘ was; the Coppy of the Letter I have ſent you incloſed; the Declaration was in Print before. The Anſwer of the Town of Yarmouth is. “That they will ſtand to their firſt Engagement to the Parliament, and ‘ oppoſe all Hoſtile Attempts againſt them and the Kingdom, although ‘ they know their whole Eſtates, which conſiſt in Shipping and Trading upon the Sea, do lie at the mercy of thoſe that have the Command at Sea, yet they ſhall truſt God with Themſelves and Eſtates; ‘ and continue their careful Endeavours for the Safeguard and Preſervation of the Town from all Hoſtile Attempts and Invaſions. His ‘ Excellency in Anſwer took notice of their timely Advertiſement, and ‘ that he would not put any Forces into the Town, unleſs they (and ‘ neceſſity) ſhould require it.

The Prince's Letter to the Town of Yarmouth, was as followeth:

CHARLES, Prince.

Truſty and Well-beloved, We greet you well. The late Evidences we have received of your good Affection to us, and the Deſires we have to expreſs a particular Care of that Town of Yarmouth engage us to ſend you a Copy of our Declaration; which we have already ſent to the City of London, and intend to publiſh to the whole Kingdom, upon thoſe Heads we formerly delivered to two of your Aldermen, that came to us on Board the Fleet in Yarmouth Road. And we hope you will now think it your Duty, as well as your Intereſt, to declare and avow a Concurrence with us for His Majeſty, upon the Grounds and for the Ends expreſſed in our ſaid Declaration, as we ſhall be careful to protect your Ships and Commerce, and to give all ſuch other Aſſiſtances in our Power, as you ſhall deſire from us.

We exhort you therefore, not to be wanting to your ſelves, nor to the Kingdom; but with Courage and Confidence, to join with us and thoſe Forces, (both English and Scots) which already appear, for the obtaining of a happy and well-grounded Peace (in ſpight of all Oppoſition;) and for the freeing of all His Majeſty's Subjects from Tyrany, Oppreſſion, and all illegal Taxes; ſuch Ends as all good Men ought to deſire, and expect the Bleſſing of Almighty God upon their Endeavours to obtain the ſame. Given under my Hand and Seal the day of Aug. In the 24th Year of the Reign of our Royal Father the KING.

The Letter declares that they would Concur with the Prince for His Majeſty expreſſed in the Declaration, and with Courage to withſtand Oppoſition to His Majeſty.

The Superſcription thus:

To our Truſty and Well-beloved, the Bailiffs, Aldermen, and the reſt of the Corporation and Inhabitants of Yarmouth.

No News farther from the North, but that Major General Lambert is about Rippon; Lieutenant General Cromwel joined with him; and the Scots at Kendal and about Lancaſter.

Monday, Aug. 14. 1648.

THE Commiſſioners ſent to His Majeſty about the Treaty, being returned, they this day made Report to the Houſes of their Reception and whole Tranſaction with His Majeſty; and withal, communicated His Majeſty's Letter in Anſwer to the Houſes, which was read in the Houſe of Peers.

The Commiſſioners ſent about a Treaty with His Majeſty, made their Report, &c.

And for better ſatisfaction, in order to the Votes paſſed by both Houſes upon this Letter of His Majeſty's, we will give it you here at large.

Cariſbrook Caſtle, Aug. 10. 1648.

I*F the Peace of* my Dominions were not much dearer to me than any particular Intereſt whatſoever, I had too much Reaſon to take notice of the ſeveral Votes which paſſed againſt me, and the ſad Condition I have been in now above theſe 7 Months. But ſince you, my two Houſes of Parliament, have opened (as it ſeems to me) a fair Beginning to a happy Peace, I ſhall heartily apply my ſelf thereunto: And to that end, I will as clearly and ſhortly as I may, ſet you down thoſe things which I conceive neceſſary to this bleſſed Work; ſo that we together may remove all Impediments that may hinder a happy Concluſion of this Treaty; which with all Chearfulneſs I do embrace.

Letter of His Majeſty, being an Anſwer to the Houſes.

And to this wiſhed end your ſelves have laid moſt excellent Grounds; for what can I reaſonably expect more, than to treat with Honour, Freedom, and Safety, upon ſuch Propoſitions as you have or ſhall preſent unto me, and ſuch as I to you? But withal remember, that it is the Definition, not Names of things, which make them rightly known; and that without means to perform, no Propoſition can take effect. And truly my preſent Condition is ſuch, that I can no more treat, than a blind Man can judge of Colours; or one run a Race, who hath both his Feet tied together. Wherefore my firſt neceſſary Demand is, That you will recall all ſuch Votes and Orders, by which People are frighted from coming, writing, or ſpeaking freely to me.

His Majeſty deſires to recall all Votes, which frighten People from writing or ſpeaking freely.

Men of all Profeſſions to wait on him in this Treaty.

That he may have the ſame freedom, as when laſt at Hampton-Court.

Deſires to know the true ſtate of all his Dominions, &c.

Next, That ſuch Men of all Profeſſions, whom I ſhall ſend for, as are of neceſſary uſe to me in this Treaty, may be admitted to wait upon me: In a word, that I may be in the ſame State of Freedom I was in when I was laſt at Hampton Court. And indeed, leſs cannot in any reaſonable Meaſure make good thoſe Offers which you have made me by your Votes; for how can I treat with Honour, ſo long as People are terrified with Votes and Orders againſt coming to ſpeak or write to me? And am I honourably treated, ſo long as there is none about me, (except a Barber who came now with the Commiſſioners) that ever I named to wait on me? Or with Freedom, (until I may call ſuch unto me, of whoſe Services I ſhall have uſe in ſo great and difficult a Work?) And for Safety, I ſpeak not of my own Perſon, having no apprehenſion that way, how can I judge to make a ſafe and well-grounded Peace, until I know without diſguiſe the true preſent State of all my Dominions; and particularly of thoſe, whoſe Intereſts are neceſſarily concerned in the Peace of theſe Kingdoms? Which leads me naturally to the laſt neceſſary Demand I ſhall make for the bringing of this Treaty to a happ End; which is,

To invite the Scots to authorize Perſons to treat upon ſuch Propoſitions as they ſhall make.

That I alone, or you jointly, do invite the Scots to ſend ſome Perſons, Authorized by them, to treat upon ſuch Propoſitions as they ſhall make: For certainly, the publick and neceſſary Intereſt they have in this great Settlement, is ſo clearly plain to all the World, that I believe no body will deny the neceſſity of their Concurrence in this Treaty, in order to a durable Peace. Wherefore I will only ſay, That as I am a King of both Nations, ſo I will yield to none in either Kingdom for being truly and zealouſly affected for the good and Honour of both; my Reſolution being never to be partial for either to the prejudice of the other.

Newport His Majeſty firſt names as the place to treat in but judges near London more proper, becauſe of ſettling Peoples minds by his preſence.

Now as to the place, (becauſe I conceive it to be rather a circumſtantial than real part of this Treaty, I ſhall not inſiſt ſo much upon it) I name Newport in this Iſle. Yet the fervent Zeal I have, that a ſpeedy end be put to theſe unhappy Diſtractions, doth force me earneſtly to deſire you to conſider what a great loſs of time it will be, to treat ſo far from the Body of my two Houſes; when every ſmall Debate (of which doubtleſs there will be many) muſt be tranſmitted to Weſtminſter before it be concluded.

And really I think, (though to ſome it may ſeem a Paradox*) that People's minds will be much more apt to ſettle, ſeeing me treat in or near* London, than in this Iſle. Becauſe, ſo long as I am here, it will never be believed by many, that I am really ſo free, as before this Treaty begin I expect to be. And ſo I leave and recommend this Point to your ſerious Conſideration. And thus I have not only fully accepted of the Treaty which you have propoſed to me by your Votes of the 3d of this Month, but alſo given it all the furtherance that lies in me, by demanding the neceſſary Means for the effectual Performance thereof: All which are ſo neceſſarily implied, though not particularly mentioned in your Votes, as I can no ways doubt of your ready Compliance with me herein. I have now no more to ſay, but to conjure you, by all that is dear to Chriſtians, honeſt Men, or good Patriots, That you will make all the Expedition poſſible to begin this happy Work, by haſtening down your Commiſſioners fully Authorized, and well inſtructed; and by enabling me (as I have ſhewed you) to Treat. Praying the God of Peace ſo to bleſs our Endeavours, that all my Dominions may enjoy a ſafe and well-grounded Peace.

Deſires a ſpeedy Expedition, to haſten this work by authorizing fully Commiſſioners, and enabling His Majeſty to treat.

CHARLES R.

To the Speaker of the Lord's Houſe pro tempore, to be communicated to the Lords and Commons, in the Parliament of England at Weſtminſter.

The Commons Concurrence deſired by the Lords, That two of His Majeſty's Chaplains may come to him.

The Earl of Middleſex delivered to the Lords a Letter, which Colonel Hammond ſent after them, of His Majeſty's Deſires to have two of his Chaplains allowed him; and the Lords Ordered Dr. Sheldon and Hammond to wait on His Majeſty; the Commons Concurrence to be deſired. Col. Denzil Hollis came this day to the Houſe and ſate.

An Expreſs from Sir Arthur Haſlerig at Newcaſtle, declaring Lt. Col. Lilburn's Revolt, &c.

An Expreſs came this day to the Houſe, from Sir Arthur Haſlerig at Newcaſtle, dated Aug. 11. Giving the Houſe an Account of the Revolt and ſtorming of Tinmouth Caſtle, in brief thus:

"Wedneſday laſt, Lieutenant Colonel Henry Lilburn commands moſt 'of his Officers and Soldiers out of the Caſtle upon Service; reſerves a few, moſt of which of his own Mind; afterwards diſcharges the Priſoners, and calling all the Soldiers together, declares for himſelf and KING Charles; and ſuch as did not yield hereunto, were dead Men. Hereupon, many of the honeſt Soldiers get over the Wall; a Corporal refuſed to yield hereunto, forthwith the Lieutenant Colonel run him through; after this he ſends down to Sheilds and Towns adjacent, deſiring ſuch as love KING Charles to join with him for his aſſiſtance, which many did accordingly. This ſad News being brought preſently to Newcaſtle, Sir Arthur Haſlerig draws out a conſiderable Brigade of Foot, and 100 Dragoons, and gives them in Command to Lieutenant Colonel Aſhfield and Major Cobham, with Order to ſtorm the Caſtle with expedition: They advance all Night; Ladders are ſent after them by Sea; about 2 in the Morning they fall to work; the Ladders prove too ſhort; the Lieutenant Colonel fires 4 Pieces of Ordnance upon the Stormers; they not diſcouraged, force in at the Portholes, and after a ſhort diſpute become Poſſeſſors of the Caſtle, and Maſters of the Soldiers, who cry out for Quarter and then yield; many of theſe within were ſlain; amongſt the reſt, the perfidious Governour's Body was found; three of the Stormers were wounded, but one ſlain.

Tinmouth Caſtle taken by Col. Aſhfield and Major Cobham by Storm, the perfidious Governour killed, 3 Stormers wounded and one ſlain.

‘The Scots play Sweep-ſtake, take nothing but all Moveables; Cows and Sheep in great abundance, and all Houſehold-ſtuff to the very Pot-hooks; they take our Children, and make us pay Ranſom for them, and force our Women before our Faces, (the like Impudence never ſeen.) The Lieutenant General remained at Doncaſter from Monday to Wedneſday, where moſt of his Train being come up, he march'd toward Lambert, but took Pontefract in his way, fell in and took 4 of the Enemy: He hath left 11 Troops there, and march'd with his Body to Lambert; from whom came an Expreſs to the Lieutenant General, that the Country came in very faſt to him, deſiring him to take the advantage of the Enemy ſcatter'd in other parts thereabouts; the main Body of them not moving at all from Kendal.

The Scot's Cruelty and poorneſs of Mind.

Lt. General fell in and took 4 of the Enemy, and left 11 Troops there marching to Lambert.

“From Stafford Aug. 14. it is thus written: Colonel Stepkins, who formerly betrayed this Garriſon to the Parliament, hath long waited an Opportunity, to reingratiate himſelf in His Majeſty's Favour, by ſurprizing the ſame for His Majeſty's Service. The Deſign was laid very cunningly, but prevented by the Vigilancy of Captain Stone, (the preſent Governour, and a faithful Gentleman) and Stepkin ſlain.

Col. Stepkins ſlain, in attempting to ſurprize Stafford Garriſon, by Capt. Stone Governour.

The Princes Forces march up with great Reſolution, and to prevent the Parliament's Horſe from annoying them, had marſh Ground for their Action and Retreat, which put the Horſe upon a loſs, not knowing how to engage. Thereupon the Major wheels about, in a way of Retreat, which occaſion'd them to advance to firmer Ground in hope of Victory; which the Horſe Party preſently got hold of, flank'd them, and were almoſt in the Rear of them; the 300 Muſqueteers at the ſame time advanced, diſcharge, and preſently the Prince's Party was in diſorder, and the Parliament's fell to Execution: Near 200 were ſlain upon the place, of whom many of Quality; 100 Priſoners were taken, 300 Arms, as it is conceived; there is not 100 Men returned that are ſerviceable, the reſt wounded and fled; divers fled for Life into the Caſtle; to fetch in whom, came Forces out, who alſo were beaten in, and glad to leave their Arms behind them.

Were killed, Col. Rich's Quartermaſter, Major Husband's Lieutenant, 3 Horſemen wounded, and 4 Footmen killed.

The Houſe ordered a Letter of Thanks be ſent to Col. Rich for his great Care in that Action.

A Report being made to the Houſes, of the Tranſactions of their Commiſſioners, employed to negotiate a Contribution in the Low Countries, for the Relief of the Proteſtants in Ireland; and being fully ſatisfied with the Account of the ſaid Commiſſioners concerning that Service, both Houſes this day paſſed this enſuing Manifeſto.

The Houſes ſatisfaction in their Commiſſioners for relief of the Proteſtants, &c.

Die Veneris, Aug. 18. 1648.

THE Lords and Commons Aſſembled in the Parliament of England, taking into their Conſideration the moſt miſerable ſad Condition of all the Britiſh and Proteſtants within the Kingdom of Ireland, through the late horrid Rebellion; and the moſt barbarous Cruelties there acted upon them by the bloody Iriſh Rebels: And finding, that in regard of the great Diſtractions within the Kingdom, they were not then able to afford them ſuch preſent Relief and Supplies, as their Neceſſities required; did, by an Ordinance of both Houſes, appoint Mr. Adam Lawrence, Mr. Dierick Hooſts, Mr. Maurice Thompſon, and Mr. Nicholas Corſelly of London, to be Commiſſioners; and ordered them preſently to repair to the High and mighty Lords, the States General of the united Provinces, and likewiſe to the Burgo-maſters of the ſeveral Cities, and all other well-affected People to the Proteſtant Cauſe; there to negotiate for the Relief of the Britiſh and Proteſtants in Ireland, either by Subſcriptions of Land, Loans, voluntary Contributions, or other ways: Now whereas the ſaid Commiſſioners have preſented to both Houſes of Parliament a full Account of their whole Proceeding in that Buſineſs, whereby it doth appear, that the full Sum of One and thirty thouſand two hundred and eighteen Pounds Twelve Shillings and Six Pence was brought in by the voluntary Contribution of the well-affected People in the United Provinces, for Supply of the Britiſh, and Proteſtants within the Realm of Ireland, and diſpoſed of accordingly in Victuals:

The Diſtractions of the Kingdom make them unable preſently to relieve them.

Adam Lawrence &c. to repair to the States General &c.

The ſaid Lords and Commons, taking notice of the extraordinary great Affection of the People of the United Provinces declared herein towards them, have thought fit to publiſh this Manifeſto, as an Acknowledgment of their Pious and Charitable Senſe of the miſerable Condition of their diſtreſſed Brethren in Ireland, in their Benevolence for the Relief of thoſe Proteſtants who had ſo highly ſuffered through the moſt horrid Cruelties of thoſe bloody Rebels. And they being given farther to underſtand of the great Care and Diligence, as well of the ſaid Commiſſioners, as alſo of Mr. Tho. Cave, Mr. Charles Looten, Mr. William Watſon, and Mr. Jonas Abeeles, the Treaſurers in Amſterdam; and Mr. Jeronimo William Aſhnam, Mr. Peter Bouderen Courten, and Mr. John de Durper Cozen, Treaſurers in Middleburgh; who did with much faithfulneſs go through this Work, diſcharging the Truſt repoſed in them, without making any Defalcation for their Charges, or Salary, out of thoſe Contributions; do likewiſe give the ſaid Commiſſioners and Treaſurers their moſt hearty Thanks, and to all others who have aſſiſted in this good Work ſo ſeaſonably performed for the Relief of the Britiſh and Proteſtants in Ireland.

Five Soldiers Deſerters ſwim the River, and declare the miſerable Condition of that place.

From the Leaguer before Colcheſter, Aug. 18. The laſt Night Five Soldiers came from the Enemy, and ſwam over the River, Three of them being Townſmen, who did expreſs, that the Cries of Women and Children, and the poorer ſort, are ſuch as would grieve any Heart to hear them; that if they be not permitted to come out, they muſt Starve; Three of theſe Men left their Arms behind them, pretending they came to let us know the Certainty of the Condition of the Town; we hope that Hunger will neceſſitate the People to ſomething which may occaſion the Soldiers to join with them, which may facilitate our Work in gaining the Town; the Honeſt and Well-affected People that are there, we very much pity their Condition; and could we ſingle them out from the reſt, they might have Paſſes from the General; but Goring will let no Well-affected come out, unleſs ſome that are Ill-affected, may come out with them.

Yeſterday there came out a Woman and five Children, one Sucking at her Breaſt; ſhe fell down at our Guards, beſeeching them to paſs beyond the Line; the People in the Town looking to ſee if they had admittance, reſolving to follow them; but the Guards were neceſſitated to turn them back again, or otherwiſe Hundreds would come out, which would much prejudice the Service.

Theſe Soldiers and the Woman ſaid, That could they get but Dogs and Cats to eat, it were happy for them, but all the Dogs and Cats, and moſt of the Horſes, are near eaten already: Some ſad thing of neceſſity muſt befall the Town ſuddenly.

A Trumpeter come from the Enemy, deſires to know whether they may have Relief or not.

Juſt now our Trumpeter is come from the Enemy in Colcheſter, deſiring leave to ſend to know whether they may have Relief, or not, and if they ſee no hopes of any, within 20 Days, then to Treat. By this you may gueſs the neceſſity of their Condition; and what a few days may produce. My Lord General returned Anſwer; That he cannot give way to their Deſire, &c. That he doubts not but within leſs time than 20 days to have the Town without Terms: They have this day refuſed to exchange the Earl of Cleaveland, &c. for any of the Committee, which is a ſign they reſerve the Committee to ſerve themſeves. Another is ſtoll'n out of Town, who ſaith, That this day the Women and Children were at the Lord Goring's Door for Bread; That he told them, They muſt eat their Children if they wanted: The Women Reviled his Lordſhip, told him, They would pull out his Eyes rather than ſtarve, and were in a high Diſcontent; and that all the Inhabitants ſet the Women on, and ſome Soldiers diſlike it not.

Your Servant,

W. C.

I have ſent you encloſed a Copy of the Prince's Letter to the General, and his Excellency's Anſwer.

The Prince's Letter not to proceed rigorouſly againſt Major-General Langhorn, Col. Powell. and Col. Poyer.

Being informed that ſome rigorous Courſe is intended againſt Major-General Langhorn, Col. Powell, Col. Poyer and others, now Priſoners of War, for things done under the Authority of my Commiſſion; I think fit to let you know, That I cannot but be extreamly ſenſible of ſuch a Proceeding, as well in regard of the Merit of the Perſons, as of my own Honour, which I take to be highly concerned in their Preſervation; As alſo, becauſe thereby a neceſſity will be put upon me, of proceeding with ſuch as ſhall fall into my hands in a way very contrary to my Nature, and as far from my Intention, unleſs I be neceſſitated thereunto by your Rigour to theſe Gentlemen: I deſire therefore, that by your Care, and ſeaſonable Interpoſition, ſuch Moderation may be uſed towards them, as becomes Soldiers to one another, and as I conceive to be due to them; which will be an Engagement to me to purſue my Inclinations towards thoſe that ſhall be in my Power: And ſo I remain,

Your Loving Friend, CHARLES P.

His Excellency's Anſwer.

His Excellency's Anſwer to the Prince.

I Have acquainted the Houſes with your Highneſſes Letter concerning Major-General Langhorn and the reſt; it being not in my Power to act farther, the Parliament having Ordered in what way they ſhall be proceeded againſt, not ſo much that they were in Hoſtility againſt them, I ſuppoſe, as that they have betrayed the Truſt they repoſed in them, to the ſad engaging this Nation again in War and Blood: So it is not in my Power to interpoſe their Juſtice; but that all Obſtacles of a juſt and firm Peace may be removed, ſhall be the earneſt Prayer of

The Commons Ordered, To deſire a Conference with the Lords about it, and that Letters be ſent to the Lord Admiral, and the Lord General, to make ſtay of all ſuch Perſons, notwithſtanding their Order.

Col. Horton took Sir Henry Lingen, &c. and regained all the Horſe and Priſoners taken from Coll Harlies.

From Salop, Aug. 19. came Letters, “ That Sir Henry Lingen, and a ‘Party of Cavaliers, took about 60 of Col. Harlies Horſe, Men and ‘Arms, about Lempſter in Herefordſhire; but two or three days after, a ‘Party of Col. Harlies, with a Party of Col. Horton's, met with Sir Hen. ‘Lingen's Company, between Radnor and Montgomeryſhire, regained all ‘their Horſes and Priſoners, took Sir Henry Lingen and Col. Crofts, with ‘many other Commanders, Priſoners, ſlew divers of the Party, and ‘routed the reſt.

Little news at Colcheſter, but carrying on our Approaches, &c.

A Letter from the Lord Norwich, &c. with a Petition of the Inhabitants to Treat of a Surrender.

From Colcheſter League, Aug. 19. “ We have little News here; our ‘great Work now, is the carrying on of Approaches, which are ſo ‘near, that our Soldiers and theirs lay aſide Muskets, and inſtead of ‘Shooting, caſt Stones one at another. Our Line between Botolphs-‘Gate and Eaſt-Gate is almoſt brought to their Wall: The Enemy in ‘Town are full of Diſtractions, and the Inhabitants of Straits and Di-‘ſturbance, as you will perceive by the incloſed Petitions, which were ‘this day ſent unto his Excellency in a Letter from the Lord Norwich, ‘and the reſt, expreſſing, That they had, at the deſire of the Inhabi-‘tants, thought fit to ſend them, and that they ſhould be conſtrained, ‘for the better accommodation of the Soldiers, to turn out the Towns-‘People, whereby their Houſes and Goods would be left liable to ſpoil ‘and Ruine; for the prevention whereof, they had thought fit to Treat ‘with his Lordſhip for the Surrender of the Town, if he pleaſes; To ‘which perpoſe they would ſend ſix Officers, if his Lorſhip appointed ‘the like number to meet them on his behalf. With this Letter there ‘came another, offering the exchange of Capt. Gray, for Mr. Weſton, ‘and Mr. Rawlins. His Excellency's Anſwer was, That as to the ex-‘change he accepted of it, but as to the matter of Treaty, he would ‘ſend Anſwer by a Meſſenger of his own; as yet no inclination to ‘grant their Requeſts; the Officers are to adviſe about it to Morrow, ‘Delay being now the beſt part of our Game. This Evening his Ex-‘cellency going into one of the Forts near Eaſt-Gate, the Enemy diſ-‘charged a Drake with Caſe-Shot, which ſcattered Dirt upon him and ‘his Attendance, which they and their Party had often done before; ‘but, as that, ſo this, did none of them any harm; our Men killed ‘one of theirs looking over the Wall: The other day Sir Richard Ha-‘ſtings's Boy being exchanged for one Gooday a Townſman, whom the ‘Enemy had apprehended for a Spie, having heard ſome Diſcouſe among ‘the Soldiers, told it; and amongſt the reſt, that our Soldiers bid him ‘Commend them to Goring, and tell him, They would bore a hole through his Noſe, and draw him with a Rope through Cheapſide, Crying, here is the great Bull of Colcheſter.

The Petitions were as followeth:

"Colcheſter Aug. 22. I told you before of Goring's Letter to the General, deſiring the People might come out; the next day they ſent out '500 Women, who with much Confidence march towards Colonel 'Rainsborough's Quarters; he commands a Cannon to be ſhot off, but ſo 'as not to hurt them; they come on notwithſtanding; he orders the 'firing ſome Muſquets with Powder; that daunts them not; he ſends out ‘ſome Soldiers, bids them ſtrip ſome; this makes them run; but Four were ſtripped; the Town refuſes to let them in; they ſtand between both: The General ſends, tells them of their Cruelty, and ſaith, they ſhall anſwer for their Blood; they regard not that. One of our Horſe being ſhot as he ſtood Centinel, there came many out to fetch him in, who were ſhot at, and ſome killed, yet got not the Horſe: The next day they came again, and when ſtinking they adventured their Lives to cut Pieces off. Wedneſday, Aug. 23. 1648.

A Letter from Lt. General Cromwel.

THIS day came a full Relation to the Houſe, under Lieut. General Cromwel's own hands, of the great Victory againſt the Scot's Army in the North; the particulars we will give you as briefly as may be, according to the Lieut. Generla's Letter, Dated Aug. 20.

AFTER the Conjunction of that Party which I brought with me out of Wales with the Northern Forces about Knaresborough and Wetherby, hearing that the Enemy was advanced with their Army into Lancaſhire, we came the 6th inſtant to Hodder-Bridge over Ribble, where we had a Council of War; and upon Advertiſement the Enemy intended Southward, and ſince confirmed, that they reſolved for London it ſelf, and Information that the Iriſh Forces under Monroe lately come out of Ireland, which conſiſted of 1200 Horſe and 1500 Foot, were on their March towards Lancaſhire to join with them; it was thought to engage the Enemy to fight was our Buſineſs: And accordingly marching over the Bridge that Night, quartered the whole Army in the Fields. Next Morning we marched towards Preſton, having Intelligence, that the Enemy was drawing together thereabouts from all his Out-quarters; we drew out a Forlorn of about 200 Horſe and 400 Foot; theſe gallantly engaged the Enemy's Scouts and Out-guards, until we had opportunity to bring up our whole Army. So ſoon as our Foot and Horſe were come up, we reſolved that Night to engage them if we could; and therefore advancing with our Forlorns, and putting the reſt of the Army into as good a Poſture as the Ground would bear, (which was totally inconvenient for our Horſe, being all Incloſure and miery Ground) we preſſed upon them through a Lane, and forced them from their Ground, after four Hours Diſpute, until we came to the Town; into which four Troops of my Regiment firſt entred; and being well ſeconded by Col. Harriſon's Regiment, Charged the Enemy in the Town and cleared the Streets. At laſt the Enemy was put into Diſorder, many Men ſlain, and many Priſoners taken: The Duke with moſt of the Scot's Horſe and Foot retreated over the Bridge; where, after a very hot Diſpute betwixt the Lancaſhire Regiments, (part of my Lord General's and them being at puſh of Pike) they were beaten from the Bridge, and our Horſe and Foot following them, killed many, and took divers Priſoners; and we poſſeſſed the Bridge over Darvent and a few Houſes there, the Enemy being drawn up within Muſquet Shot of us, where we lay that Night, we not being able to attempt farther upon the Enemy, the Night preventing us. In this poſture did the Enemy and we lie the moſt part of that Night; upon entring the Town, many of the Enemy's Horſe fled towards Lancaſter, in the Chaſe of whom we had divers of our Horſe, who purſued them near Ten Miles, and had Execution of them, and took about Five hundred Horſe, and many Priſoners: We poſſeſſed in the Fight very much of the Enemy's Ammunition; I believe they loſt Four or Five Thouſand Arms; the number of the ſlain we judge to be about a Thouſand, the Priſoners we took near about 4000.

In the Night they marched away, 7 or 8 Thouſand Foot, and about Four Thouſand Horſe; we followed them with about Three Thouſand Foot, and about Two Thouſand Five Hundred Horſe and Dragoons; and in this Proſecution that worthy Gentleman Colonel Thornhaugh, preſſing too boldly, was ſlain, being run into the Body, Thigh, and Head, by the Enemy's Lancers: Our Horſe ſtill proſecuted the Enemy, killing and taking divers all the way; but by that time our Army was come up, they recovered Wigan before we could attempt any thing upon them. We lay that Night in the Field cloſe by the Enemy, lying very dirty and weary, where we had ſome skirmiſhing, &c. We took Major General Van Druske, Col. Hurrey, and Lieut. Col. Ennis.

The next Morning the Enemy marched towards Warrington, made a ſtand at a Paſs near Winaick; we held them in ſome Diſpute until our Army was come up, they maintaining the Paſs with great Reſolution for many Hours; but our Men, by the Bleſſing of God, Charged very home upon them, beat them from their Standing, where we killed about a Thouſand of them, and took (as we believe) about Two Thouſand Priſoners, and proſecuted them home to Warrington Town, where they poſſeſſed the Bridge. As ſoon as we came thither, I received a Meſſage from Lieut. General Bailey, deſiring ſome Capitulation; to which I yielded, and gave him theſe Terms: That he ſhould ſurrender himſelf and all his Officers and Soldiers Priſoners of War, with all his Arms, Ammunition, and Horſes, upon Quarter for Life; which accordingly is done. Here are took about Four Thouſand compleat Arms, and as many Priſoners: And thus you have their Infantry ruined.

The Duke is marched with his remaining Horſe (which are about 3000) towards Namptwich, where the Gentlemen of the Country have taken about 500 of them; the Country will ſcarce ſuffer any of them to paſs, but bring in and kill divers as they light upon them. I have ſent Poſt to my Lord Grey and Sir Edward Roades, to gather all together with Speed for their Proſecution; Monroe is about Cumberland, with the Horſe that ran away, and his Iriſh Horſe and Foot; but I have left a conſiderable Strength I hope, to make reſiſtance, till we can come up to them.

Thus you have the Narrative of the particulars of the Succeſs. I could hardly tell how to ſay leſs, there being ſo much of God, and I was not willing to ſay more, leaſt there ſhould ſeem to be any thing of Man; only give me leave to add one word, ſhewing the diſparity of the Forces of both ſides, that ſo you may ſee, and all the World acknowledge, the great Hand of God in this Buſineſs. The Scot's Army could not be leſs than 12000 Foot well Armed, and 5000 Horſe; Langdale not leſs than 2500 Foot, and 1500 Horſe; in all, One and Twenty Thouſand: In ours, in all, about 8600; and by Computation, about 2000 of the Enemy's ſlain, betwixt Eight and Nine Thouſand Priſoners, beſides what are lurking in Hedges and private Places, which the Country daily bring in or deſtroy.

A ſolemn Thankſgiving to be the 7th of Sept.

This Letter being read in both Houſes, it was Ordered: "That 'Thurſday come Fortnight, the 7th of Sept. next, be appointed a Day 'of ſolemn Thankſgiving through the whole Kingdom, unto Almighty 'God, for his wonderful great Mercy and Succeſs to the Forces under 'Lieut. General Cromwel, againſt the Scots whole Army under Duke 'Hamilton, on the 17th, 18th, and 19th. of this preſent Aug. in Lancaſhire. Provisions for Shoes and Stockings, alſo referred to a Committee.

Proviſions for Shoes &c.

Mr. Sexby had given 100 l. Major Burey 200 l.

Mr. Edward Sexby, who brought up a ſecond Letter, had 100 l. given him for his pains. Major Bury that brought the Lieut. General's Letter, who was very gallant in this Service, was Ordered 200 l.

They Ordered, "That Commiſſions ſhould paſs under the Great Seal 'of England, to Commiſſioners in the ſeveral Counties of Lancaſhire, York, 'Durham, Northumberland, Cumberland, and Weſtmorland, and other Pla-'ces of this Kingdom, to enquire what loſs is ſuſtained by every particu-'lar Perſon in this Invaſion of the Scots; to the end Satisfaction may be 'given therein.

Goring's Letter to the General, not accepting of the laſt Propoſal.

My Lord,

UPon a Solemn Debate of the Officers here, upon occaſion of your former Letters of Demanding the Perſons of all the Officers here, above the Quality of a Lieutenant, to render themſelves to Mercy; it was unanimouſly reſolved by them, not to yield to the Mercy of any other, but that of God alone: And that all means may be on our part uſed, for the farther avoiding of the effuſion of more English Bloud, we have ſent you here incloſed the loweſt Conditions which in ſubſtance we can receive with Honour, conceiving the like were never refuſed to any, far lower reduced than we can yet yield our ſelves to be: But if there be any doubt in the Form of Words, or Circumſtauces, we will, if you like of it, Send one Gentleman, or more, that by a Conference with the like number appointed by you, may clear all ſcruples, and agree of the time of performance.

From the League before Colcheſter came farther, "That this day about 12 of the Clock, the Enemy ſent out a Drum, with Mr. Bernardiſton, one of our Committee, and Col. Tuke, one of their Party; ſeeing no hope to Treat upon the Articles, they ſent out to deſire to Treat upon what was offered formerly by his Excellency, viz. Concerning the Explanation of the words, To ſubmit to Mercy; How far that Mercy might extend; and concerning the inferiour Officers and Soldiers, and Townſmen. His Excellency call'd a very full Council of War, and upon Debate it was reſolved: That in regard the inferiour Officers and Soldiers had ſlipt their opportunity, that now they ſhould have only fair Quarter: And that a Treaty be admitted, provided the Committee under Reſtraint be forthwith releaſed, upon circumſtances neceſſary for clearing, and orderly performance of the Fair Quarter now offered; Alſo, to Treat as to the ſecuring the Town from Plunder, &c. And that the Lords General Officers, and Captains &c. be rendred up to Mercy.

'The laſt Night the Officers did give the Soldiers Sack, Burnt Claret, Raiſons, Prunes, and good words, for to join with them to break through; they prepared Poles and Boards to break over North Bridge, which way they did intend to eſcape; and when they were all drawn out into the Town, the Soldiers did agree amongſt themſelves, that they would not condeſcend to their going out, for they knew then they would break through themſelves, and leave the Soldiers to the mercy of our Soldiers; and ſome of the Soldiers got to the Gates, and ſaid, That they would kill their Officers if they offer'd to ſtir out. In this high diſtemper of Mutiny the Enemy now are, and we doubt not of Concluſion concerning the Surrender of the Town to Morrow, which we hope to have upon Monday next, or Tueſday at fartheſt.

And this Afternoon Col. Rainsborough's Regiment, and another Regiment entred the Town, and accordingly the Articles in all things elſe performed; you will very ſuddenly receive an Account from his Excellency, of the particulars of this Buſineſs; as alſo a Liſt of what Perſons of Quality, Officers and Commanders are at Mercy; the number of Ordnance, Arms, and quantity of Ammunition. This Morning we rode round about the Wall of the Town, and find it to be a very ſtrong Place in all parts of it; where it was weakeſt there they made ſtrong Works, and ſtrengthened it with Earth; it was a ſad Spectacle to ſee ſo many fair Houſes burnt to Aſhes, and ſo many Inhabitants made ſo ſickly and weak, with living upon Horſes and Dogs; many glad to eat the very Draught and Grains for preſervation of Life, I remain

At firſt he ſeemed much diſmayed, but took ſomewhat better Courage before he died. Sir George Liſle, and Sir Bernard Gaſcoigne (after much Expoſtulation and Diſcourſe, firſt with the General's Chaplain, who did not like the Offer of auricular Confeſſion) conferred with the Lord Goring's Chaplain.

My Lord,

I have herewith ſent you the Articles, with the Explanations annexed; upon which it hath pleaſed God in his beſt time to deliver the Town of Colcheſter, and the Enemy therein, into our hands, without farther Bloodſhed; ſaving that, for ſome ſatisfaction to military Juſtice, and in part of Avenge for the innocent Blood they have cauſed to be ſpilt, and the Trouble, Damage, and Miſchief, they have brought upon the Town, this Country, and the Kingdom; I have, with the Advice of a Council of War of the chief Officers, both of the Country Forces and the Army, cauſed two of them who were rendred at Mercy, to be ſhot to death before any of them had Quarter aſſured them. The Perſons pitched upon for this Example were, Sir Charles Lucas and Sir George Liſle; in whoſe military Execution, I hope your Lordſhips will not find Cauſe to think your Honour or Juſtice prejudiced. As for the Lord Goring, Lord Capel, and the reſt of the Perſons rendred to Mercy, and now aſſured of Quarter, of whoſe Names I have ſent your Lordſhips a particular Liſt; I do hereby render unto the Parliament's Judgment, for farther publick Juſtice and Mercy to be uſed, as you ſhall ſee Cauſe. I deſire God may have the Glory of his multiplied Mercies towards you and the Kingdom in this kind: And in the Condition of Inſtruments as to the Service here, the Officers and Soldiers of Eſſex and Suffolk, who in this time of ſo dangerous defection have adhered conſtant to yours and the Kingdoms Intereſt, for their faithful Demeanour, and patient Indurance, in the hardſhip of this Service, are not to be forgotten.

Queries propounded by the Commiſſioners of Colcheſter &c

Queries propounded by the Commiſſioners from Colcheſter, to the Commiſſioners of His Excellency the Lord Fairfax, upon the Conditions ſent into the Town.

I. What is meant by fair Quarter?

II. What by rendring to Mercy?

To the Firſt, “By fair Quarter we underſtand, That with Quarter for their Lives they ſhall be free from wounding or beating, ſhall enjoy warm Cloaths to cover them and keep them warm; ſhall be maintained with Victuals fit for Priſoners, while they ſhall be kept Priſoners.

To the ſecond, “By rendring to Mercy we underſtand; That they be rendred, or render themſelves to the Lord General, or whom he ſhall appoint, without certain Aſſurance of Quarter; ſo as the Lord General may be free to put ſome immediately to the Sword, if he ſee Cauſe; although His Excellency intends chiefly, and for the generality of thoſe under that Condition, to ſurrender them to the Mercy of the Parliament in General. There hath been large Experience, neither hath His Excellency given Cauſe to doubt of his Civility to ſuch as he ſhall retain Priſoners; although by their being rendred to Mercy, he ſtands not engaged thereby.

Upon return of theſe Anſwers, the Commiſſioners from Colcheſter propounded theſe two farther Queries.

I. Whether thoſe that were ſurrendred to Mercy, ſhould enjoy their wearing Cloaths, as well thoſe on their Backs, as what other Change they have?

II. Whether the Noblemen and Officers ſhall have uſe of their own Horſes, to the Places where they ſhall be confined?

To which it was anſwered by His Excellency's Commiſſioners.

“To the firſt, it is intended, That thoſe who ſhall be rendred and received to Mercy, ſhall enjoy the wearing Cloaths on their Backs; but for more, the General will not be engaged.

“To the ſecond, it is expected, in Caſe of Surrender upon Treaty, That all Horſes as well as Arms be delivered up; and for Circumſtance thereof, there is to be an Article; yet for the Gentlemen and Officers under this Condition in Queſtion, when any ſhall be removed to the place of Confinement, His Excellency will take Care for Horſes to carry them with reſpect to their Qualities; but for allowing their own Horſes, he will not be engaged.

Tueſday, September 5. 1648.

A Letter from the Earl of Warwick to the Houſe, of the purſuit of the Prince and the Revolted Ships. The particulars of his purſuit follow.

THIS day a Letter was read from the Earl of Warwick, directed to the Lords and Commons at Derby-Houſe, Giving an Account of his Proceedings and Purſuit of the Prince, and the Revolted Ships, to this purpoſe.

" Auguſt 29. The Fleet with me proceeded down as low as the Shooe; that day we diſcovered the Revolted Ships, ſmall and great, at leaſt Twenty in number; that night we Anchoring off the Buoy of the Nore-edge, and the Enemy not above a League diſtance from us, the Prince ſent me a Summons by Mr. Henry Seymour, which I received, and Anſwered, as I gave an Account in my laſt; Tueſday and Wedneſday no Engagement; Thurſday I called a Council of War, and then it was again conſidered, That the Portſmouth Fleet was not come in, nor heard of; that ſome Ships of this Fleet, eſpecially the great ones, would in all probability be forced upon the Sands, if we ſhould here Engage; which would alſo produce the like effect, as to ſome of the Revolted Ships, whereby the ſtrength of the Navy would be much impaired; that on the miſcarriage of this Fleet, depended the miſcarriage of the Portſmouth Fleet, and the putting of very high advantages into the Enemies hands, farther to prejudice the Trade of the Kingdom, and to make their ſtrength at Sea much more conſiderable; upon which, and ſome other grounds then offered, it was unanimouſly reſolved, that the Ships of this Fleet ſhould obſerve the Enemies motion, and if he plies up, then to ply up before him; but by the time that theſe and ſome other Reſolutions of the Council of War were digeſted, and ready to be Signed, the Vice-Admiral of the Revolted Ships did weigh, and ſhortly after ſo did the reſt, and forthwith their whole Fleet ſtood away; I did thereupon give Order to the Fleet with me to weigh, and give them Chace, although the Portſmouth Ships were not yet come up, ſome of our Ships keeping at a ſmall diſtance.

'The next Morning we found that the Revolters had withdrawn themſelves in the night, and about 6 of the Clock we diſcovered the Portſmouth Ships; whereupon I gave Order to weigh, but the Wind grew ſo high, that the Pilot delivered his Opinion, that this Ship would not in ſuch weather be able to Sail, without danger of ſiding upon the Gunfleet-Sands; whereupon we remained there at Anchor all that Day, the Wind continuing till Night very high.

'This Day we weighed from the middle of the Gunfleet, and met with all the Portſmouth Fleet, and proceeded together to Alborough Rode, to enquire after the Revolted Fleet; where Anchoring, I ſpoke with the Captains that came from Portſmouth, who repreſent their ſeveral Companies, to be as Cordial and Reſolute for the Enemies Reduction, as could be deſired.

“Since our coming hither, I have endeavoured to inform my ſelf, which way the Revolters are gone, and find it moſt probable, that they are retired to Goree, there being not the leaſt Intimation in theſe Parts, that they are gone Northwards: Therefore ſhall (God willing) repair to morrow Morning towards the Downs, where I ſhall expect your Lordſhip's farther Commands, intending in the mean time to ſend an Expreſs to Holland for a certain Account, whether the Ships are in Goree; that I may be in a quicker Capacity to put in Execution ſuch Orders, as ſhall be given me in Charge concerning them.

“I ſhall do no more, but to commend it to your Lordſhip's Conſideration, whether it may not be neceſſary, That the Order be renewed for Indemnity to the Revolters, upon their Submiſſion to the Parliament's Obedience.

Aboard the St. George, Alborough Road, Sept. 2. 1648.

That all Malignants in Surrey, Eſſex, &c. be incapable to be impannelled on the Jury.

The Houſe was then informed, that in many Counties of this Kingdom, the Malignants were rather choſen to be of Juries, than any other, whereby great danger, and ſometimes loſs of Life, might accrue to the Friends of the Parliament; and eſpecially in theſe Counties, where the Enemy did lately riſe. The Houſe to prevent this for the future, and to give an Encouragement and Juſtice to their Friends, Ordered, “That all Perſons that were in the late Inſurrections, in the Counties of Surry, Suſſex, Kent, and Eſſex, may for ever hereafter be incapable of being Impannell'd upon any Jury whatſoever: And that the Judges who ride the ſeveral Circuits of the Kingdom, and the Juſtices of Peace of the ſeveral Counties, do take ſpecial Notice of this Order, and ſee the ſame put in Execution from time to time.

All former Ordinances of taking away the Voices of Delinquents in Elections, be put in Execution.

They were likewiſe informed, That in many Cities and Corporate Towns in this Kingdom, the Malignants that inhabited therein were ſo preſumptuous, notwithſtanding the Votes of the Houſes to the contrary, to give their Voices in Election of Officers; the Houſe hereupon Ordered, “That the former Orders or Ordinances for taking away the Voices of Delinquents in Elections, ſhould be put in Execution; and all Officers of Cities and Towns Corporate were required to take ſpecial Notice thereof.

Upon Call of the Members any that are then abſent, to have a Fine impoſed on them.

The Houſe then debated concerning a Call of the Members that were abſent, and had made their Excuſes upon their laſt Call; and Ordered, “That the Houſe ſhould be called on this day 3 Weeks, and that all the Members that are abſent ſhould be required to attend on that Day; excepting ſuch as were upon extraordinary Employments, and the Houſe ſhould think fit to excuſe; and all ſuch as did not attend accordingly, to have a Fine impoſed upon them.

Order'd 20 l. to be impoſed on abſent Members.

The Houſe had much Debate, concerning the Fine to be impoſed upon ſuch Members as make Default; 100 l. was at firſt propounded, then 50. but at laſt it was Ordered, that 20 l. ſhould be impoſed upon them.

Lord Admiral's farther Relation of the flight of the Prince, and the Conjunction of the Portſmouth Ships with his, &c.

THIS Day came farther from the Earl of Warwick to the Houſe of Peers to this purpoſe: ‘ The Proceedings of the Fleet, ſince our ‘ weighing from Lee-Rood, was repreſented in my laſt; ſince that, it hath ‘ pleaſed God to bring the whole Fleet ſafely into the Downs: And now ‘ I ſhall make bold to give you the Trouble of this Addition.

IT pleaſed God, notwithſtanding all the Counter-works of the Kingdom's Enemies, and the great Diſcouragements that occurred in this Expedition, to enable us, after ſome time, to get the Ships lately in the River of Thames conveniently Manned; His Power and Goodneſs to the Nation was farther manifeſted, in giving to the Companies of thoſe ſeveral Ships Spirits unanimouſly to engage their Reſolutions againſt the Common Enemies of the Kingdom at Sea, that had ſo wickedly departed from their Truſt and Duty, where- of we had a moſt glorious and ſeaſonable Experiment, at that time when the Enemy drew near us with a Fleet above the proportion of that Strength we then had, to the defeating and diſappointment of that Confidence of ſome who fooliſhly boaſted of the great ſhare and intereſt in their Affection.

That Mercy the ſame Power was pleaſed to Second, with cauſing thoſe Enemies to turn their Backs, even when his Arrows were but making ready upon the String againſt the Face of them; and yet God reſted not there, but the next day after the Enemies Retirement, he was pleaſed to bring into a happy Conjunction with us the Portſmouth Ships, whoſe Companies had likewiſe teſtified the ſame Spirit of Courage and Unanimity for the Parliament's Service: And now we are here together, with a Fleet, which for Number and Quality of Ships, and Temper of Seamen, is fitted, I hope, through the ſtrength of God, effectually to execute and accompliſh whatever may rationally be expected from it for the Publick Service. A Liſt of the Ships I have here incloſed; and truly I may not omit to repreſent the Fidelity, Conſtancy, and Courage of the Captains, having had no occaſion, ſince my coming forth, to take notice of the leaſt Backwardneſs of any of them to purſue their Duty to their utmoſt diligence.

I ſhall ſtay here a little time to ſupply Water, Ballaſt, and a few other Neceſſaries; which being compleated, I ſhall, God willing, improve Time and Opportunity with all poſſible Advantages for Action, not doubting but as God hath hitherto helped us, ſo he will ſtill accompany us with his Preſence, Councel, and Bleſſing, and make bare his Glorious Arm at Sea as he hath done on Shore, and ſo make it good, that he is the Strength and Confidence both of the ends of the Earth, and of them that are far off upon the Sea.

I ſhall add, That being upon the place, I have conſidered the great Importance of getting the Caſtles at the Downs into a condition of Service, the Protection of the Fleet, and of Trade, having ſuch a Dependance thereupon; of their great Ruines, I am now an Eye-witneſs: If therefore a Courſe may be thought upon for their putting into Repair, and ſettling of an Eſtabliſhment for their future Pay, it would be worthy of the Parliament's Care to direct it, which in diſcharge of my Duty I do earneſtly recommend unto them accordingly. And ſo deſiring God to Direct and Proſper all your Councels to his Glory, and the Kingdom's Settlement, I reſt,

A Petition of Thouſands well-affected about London.

A Petition was this day delivered to the Commons, Intituled, An humble Petition of Thouſands of well-affected, dwelling in and about London; giving the Houſe many Reaſons why they firſt aſſiſted them in this War with their Perſons and Purſes; and let them know, they expected other ways from them than a Treaty, and ſuch other things as they find inſiſted upon, and that they would have proceeded upon, and perfected ſuch as they after mention'd, which are 27. And becauſe of ſuch high Concernment, we will inſert the Heads briefly.

The Heads of the ſaid Petition

1. That they would make good the Supream of the People from all pretences of negative Voices, either in the King or Lords.

2. That they would have made Laws for Election of Repreſentatives yearly, and of Courſe, without Writ or Summons.

3. That their time of Sitting exceed not 40 or 50 days at the moſt, and to have fixed an expreſſed time for the ending of this preſent Parliament.

4. That they would have exempted matters of Religion and God's Worſhip from the compulſive or reſtrictive Power of any Authority.

5. That none be forced or preſſed to ſerve in War.

6. That they would have made both Kings, Queens, Princes, Dukes, Earls, Lords, and all Perſons, alike liable to every Law of the Land.

7. That all Commoners be freed from the Juriſdiction of the Lords in all Caſes; and to have taken Care, that all Tryals be only of 12 ſworn Men, and no Conviction but upon Two or more ſufficient known Witneſſes.

8. That none be examined againſt themſelves, nor be puniſhed for doing of that, againſt which no Law hath been provided.

9. That the Proceedings in Law be abbreviated, mitigated and made certain, the Charge thereof in all particulars.

10. That all Trade and Merchandizing be made free from all Monopolizing and Engroſſing, by Companies, or otherwiſe.

11. That the Exciſe and all kind of Taxes, except Subſidies, be taken off.

12. That you would have laid open all late Incloſures of Fens, and other Commons, or have encloſed them only or chiefly to the Benefit of the Poor.

13. That they would have conſidered the many Thouſands that are ruined by perpetual Impriſonment for Debt, and provided to their Enlargement.

14. Have ordered ſome effectual Courſe to keep People from begging and Beggery, in ſo fruitful a Nation as through God's Bleſſing this is.

15. That they would have proportioned Puniſhments more equal to Offences that ſo Mens Lives and Eſtates might not be forfeited upon trivial and ſlight occaſions.

16. Have removed the tedious Burthen of Tythes, ſatisfying all Impropriators, and providing a more equal way of Maintenance for our poor Miniſters.

An. 1648.

17. Have raiſed a Stock of Money out of confiſcated Eſtates, for Payment of thoſe, who contributed voluntarily above their Abilities, before thoſe that diſburſed out of their Superfluities.

18 Bound themſelves and all future Parliaments from aboliſhing Propriety, leveling Men's Eſtates, or making all things common.

19. That they would have declared, what the Duty or Buſineſs of the Kingly Office is, and what not; and aſcertained the Revenue paſt Increaſe or Diminution; that ſo there might never be more Quarrels about the ſame.

20. That they would have rectified the Election of publick Officers for the City of London, of every particular Company therein; reſtoring the Commonalty thereof to their juſt Rights, moſt unjuſtly withheld from them, to the producing and maintaining of corrupt Intereſt, oppoſite to common Freedom, and exceedingly prejudicial to the Trade and Manufactures of this Nation.

21. That they would have made full and ample Reparations to all Perſons that had been oppreſſed by Sentences in High Commiſſion, Star-Chamber, and Council-Board; or by any kind of Monopolizers or Projectors, and that out of the Eſtates of thoſe that were Authors, Actors, or Promoters of ſo intolerable Miſchiefs, and that without much Attendance.

22. That they would have aboliſhed all Committees, and have conveyed all Buſineſſes into the true Method of the uſual Tryals, of the Common-Wealth.

23 That they would not have followed the Example of former Tyrannous and Superſtitious Parliaments, in making Orders, Ordinances or Laws, or in appointing Puniſhments concerning Opinions or Things ſupernatural, ſtiling ſome Blaſphemies, others Hereſies.

24. That they would have declared, what the Buſineſs of the Lords is, and aſcertain their Condition, not derogating from the Liberties of other Men; that ſo there might be an end of ſtriving about the ſame.

25. That they would have done Juſtice upon the Capital Authors and Promoters of the former or late Wars.

26. That they would have provided conſtant Pay for the Army, and given Rules to all Judges, and all other publick Officers throughout the Land, for their Indemnity; and for the ſaving harmleſs all that have any ways aſſiſted them.

27 That they would have laid to heart the abundance of innocent Blood that hath been ſpilt, and the infinite Spoil and Havock that hath been made of peaceable harmleſs People, by expreſs Commiſſion from the King; and ſeriouſly to have conſidered, whether the Juſtice of God be likely to be ſatiſfied, or is his yet continuing Wrath appeaſed by an Act of Oblivion.

The Houſe thanks them for their Care, &c.

The Houſe received this Petition, and returned Anſwer thereunto, which was to this Effect: viz. "That the Houſe gave them Thanks for their great Pains and Care to the publick Good of the Kingdom, and would ſpeedily take their humble Deſires into Conſideration.

A Petition or Repreſentation of the well-affected Maſters and Commanders of Ships.

A Petition was likewiſe preſented the Houſe, Intituled, The humble Petition or Repreſentation, of well-affected Maſters and Commanders of Ships; Setting forth, "That as in Judgment and Conſcience being thereunto induced by the ſolemn Declarations of Parliament, they at firſt did, and ſtill do, contribute their Eſtates, and adventure their Lives, for the Preſervation of the Parliament's Honour; ſo they expected the ſecuring of the People's juſt Rights and Liberties.

Deſiring a Redreſs of their Slavery and Oppreſſion.

"That, contrary to the ſaid Declarations and their own Expectations, they have found ſuch Practices promoted of late days, as hath not only wounded the Parliament's Honour, and made them become odious in the Eyes of many of the Nation; but alſo inſtead of Freedom and Preſervation, ſo ſolemnly propounded to the People, Slavery and Oppreſſion is entailed to them and their Poſterity, as the only Price of that Blood, and Treaſure ſo freely lent and expended in the late War, &c.

"That ſince the Hollander hath almoſt engroſſed all the Trade at Sea, and now abſolutely refuſeth to grant Convoys to the Engliſh as heretofore; and foraſmuch as thereby their Trade is wholly deſtroyed, ſome Merchants not daring, and others abſolutely refuſing, to ſhip their Goods with them, “That therefore the Houſe would appoint 4 or 5 fitting Ships to ſerve as conſtant Convoys, to guard their Shipping from Graveſend, into the Ports in the Netherlands and France, and return back with others homeward bound; that being the conſtant Order of the Hollander, by which Means their Trade is increaſed, and they mightily enriched. That the Houſe will prevent that Neceſſity, which muſt (if not removed) occaſion an Eſtrangement of their Affections and Aſſiſtance toward them; that as ſoon as may be, all Monopolies and Reſtraint of Trade may be removed, and ſome way taken to prevent the Shipping of Goods in foreign Bottoms, to the end that Trade again be reſtored, and the Glory of the Nation preſerved.

That 4 or 5 fighting Ships be appointed as Convoys to guard their Ships to the Netherlands.

“From the Navy came thus: Two of the greateſt Revolted Ships are put in, and mending in Holland, Three more to be mended, and ſome Commiſſions granted to Pirates, &c. A Council of War was called, and reſolved, That a Squadron be ſent after them to Holland, Two Ships to be ſent Northward, and Inſtructions for the Diſpoſe of others.

Two greateſt revolted Ships put in to mend in Holland.

A Squadron ordered after the Pirates.

There came a Gentleman from the revolted Ships, and cries out upon the Sailors, That they are inſolent in their Carriage to the Prince; “That they will obey none of the Decrees of his Council of War, ſaying, They can make their Peace with the Parliament when they pleaſe. The Prince and Ships are ſaid to be come to Goree in Zealand, where he will have publick Entertainment.

A Gentleman from the revolted Ships, declares the Sailors Inſolence to the Prince.

‘From the Iſle of Wight came Letters, that His Majeſty had his Liberty out of Carisbrook-Caſtle Wedneſday laſt, after he had dined; thoſe Gentlemen about him rid with him to this Town, and His Majeſty is this Night at Sir William Hodges's, the Place appointed for the Treaty: Some of his new Attendants are come, others expected, the Book of Common Prayer is here again.

His Majeſty has his Liberty, and rode to Sir William Hodges, &c.

From Cheſter by Letters is thus certified: “This laſt Week we had a Council of War ſat, for the Tryal of thoſe that had a hand in the Plot, for the betraying this Caſtle and City; Two were condemned, Lieut. Oldham is juſt now executed in the Market-place: It was believed Corporal Aſhton and others would be reprieved, but is ſent to Execution. Lieut. Oldham did confeſs, that ſuch a Plot was propounded, and that he had an Inclination to it, upon diſapointment of ſome Preferment he expected of a Captain's Place; and that he was wrought into it by keeping ill Company in Taverns, &c. He ſaid now, ſuch a Plot was fully reſolved upon, but cleared this City and Citizens, for having any thing to do in it. Corporal Aſhton ſaid little, Mouldſworth and Baker that were Priſoners at War, and found principal Contrivers of the Buſineſs, are referred to the General.

From the North, or more particularly from York, is thus written: “There came laſt Night from Knaesborough 100 Scots Priſoners that the Country had taken up: Lieut. Lieutenant-General comes hither to morrow.

From Newcaſtle it is thus written: ‘Lieutenant-General Cromwell was with his Army the 8th of September about Durham, which was a Day of Thankſgiving for the great Deliverance for theſe Parts, and were reſolved forthwith to go on againſt the remaining Enemy, who hath left in the Biſhoprick as ill a Savour behind them as can well be imagined, plundering like Devils, terrifying the People, wounding divers, taking away the Children of others to get Money for the redemption of them; beſides Quarter, they had of divers 3 l. a Houſe, and of thoſe that cry'd up the Army of Duke Hamilton as the great Reſtorers, who finding ſuch Uſage and ſuch Civilities from the Parliament's Party, it's believed, will go near to ſacrifice to them. Saturday laſt Monroe held a Council of War at Morpeth, and reſolved to march back to the Coal-pits and fire them all, to augment the Price of Scotch Coal, and advance Navigation; but Sunday morning two Poſts came ſpeeding to have him come preſently back into Scotland, a good Pretence for his running away, for the Presbyterian Miniſters had good hold of the Civil Sword, made the noble Marqueſs of Argile General, were 4000 ſtrong, and much too hard for the new-levied Forces of Lord Lanerick, who are afraid of the Miniſters new Sword more than all their Excommunications, and yet have they proceeded to many notable Decrees to paſs by others: One is, That in regard of the great Defection to the Covenant throughout Scotland, they will not adminiſter the Sacrament of the Supper for one year to come. This ill Tidings ſaved our Coal-pits, and ſends the Scots the neareſt way over Tweed, in ſuch haſt, that they had almoſt left their Plunder behind them, had they not preferred it before Life: And thus are the Lads ſhifted once more out of England towards Kelſey, leaving the Confederate Engliſh by the way of Mortham to ſhift for themſelves, who quartered in Banburgh Hundred near Berwick. Being thus deſerted, they repair to Berwick for ſafety from the Parliament Forces; but the Governor Lodowick Leſley tells them plainly, He could not let them in, having not Proviſions: From whence it was hotly reported, and may come to it in time, That by the Direction of the Marqueſs of Argile, upon his Peril, he ſhould hold that Place for the Parliament of England. In Northumberland many were plundered to great Values, among others, Sir John Fenwick, from whom was taken his beſt Moveables, his Damage valued at 2000 l. The Sheriff of Northumberland had his Share alſo. Lieutenant-General Cromwell will come hither to morrow, and Lodgings are provided for him; and ſo forward his Forces are gone over Tine, not Meat for a Regiment being left in all Northumberland.

'Major-General Lambert goes by the way of Carliſle, many Country-'men go with him, and the Lieutenant-General likewiſe, to ſeek their 'Goods and Cattel carried into Scotland.

The Houſe did nothing in it.

Another Petition, to mind the former Reaſons, &c.

The Houſe then Ordered, 'That one Capt. Bethan ſhould be ap'pointed Provoſt-Marſhal, who ſhould have Power to apprehend all 'ſuch Perſons who ſtayed in the City, and 20 Miles diſtance, contrary 'to the Ordinance of Parliament in that behalf. The Bailiffs &c. Acknowlegments for freeing them from the fear and danger of the Nation's Enemies.

May it pleaſe your Excellency,

THE Bailiffs, Burgeſſes, and Commonalty of the Town of Ipſwich, do firſt render their humble Thanks unto Almighty God, and their Acknowledgment to your Lordſhip, for freeing them from the Fears and Dangers of theirs and the Nations Enemies.

My Lord, they are very ſenſible of their weak Powers, the more for want of Notice of your Approach, to gratifie ſuch high Deſervings, as your Lordſhip hath merited at their hands; and have juſt Cauſe to think themſelves unacceptable to you in that particular.

But the Nobleneſs of your Mind and Diſpoſition do encourage; your Lordſhip will meaſure their Intentions by their Endeavours, rather than by their weak Actions, or ſhort Retributions.

My Lord, Juſtice and Fortitude are eminent in you, and that as they ought to be in Degree and Order, the one as ſuperiour, and the other as ſubordinate. The Philoſophers had a great Debate, which was the moſt cordial Virtue, and upon a full Reſult, it was given unto Juſtice; and as Fortitude was put into Compoſition, Anſwer was given, That Fortitude without Juſtice was nothing; and that if all Men were Juſt, there need no Fortitude; but Fortitude is requiſite to maintain and ſupport Juſtice. The Splendour of your Valour is the Juſtice of your Cauſe, namely, Religion and Laws.

The Town deſirous to manifeſt their great Joy of his Lordſhip's Perſon and Preſence, &c.

My Lord, The Town are deſirous to manifeſt theſe three Things; Firſt, their humble Thankfulneſs to your Lordſhip; Next, the high Eſteem of your Honour and Virtues; And then the great joy of your Perſon and Preſence; who God, no queſtion, for your great Care of Divine Worſhip and Honour to him, and your ſincere Love of Juſtice toward Men, hath raiſed to ſuch Eminency of Renown at home and abroad, which is the more illuſtrated by your Qualification of Humility, in attributing your Succeſs only to the hand of God.

My Lord, this is a time of Action, and not of Words, and I dare not be ſo bold as to ſpend your time, and abuſe your patience by much Speech, nor am I urged thereto; for the Town hath given me but two Things, and thoſe in two Words, to preſent unto your Lordſhip, namely, Their humble Thanks for your Favours already obtained; and then, Their humble Deſires for the Continuance of them for the time to come; which if your Lordſhip will vouchſafe, they ſhall pray to the God of Power to increaſe your farther Honour and Happineſs.

My Lord, this Nation, and this Town, do more look upon your Lordſhip as the Harbour of Repoſe, for this Weather-beaten Ship of the Common-Wealth, and do believe, by God's Bleſſings upon you, they ſhall receive a bleſſed Peace; which the God of infinite and boundleſs Mercy grant to this ſo ſinful and unthankful Nation.

WE gave you before ſome Account of the Lord General's Motions from Colcheſter to Ipſwich, Yarmouth, and towards Bury in Suffolk.

folk. Since came an Expreſs farther as followeth: "His Excellency went from Colcheſter the 5th of this inſtant to Maldon, to view the Situation of the Place, where there yet remains ſome Reliques of the Roman Induſtry.

'He went thence to Merſey-Iſland, where he viewed the Fort, built for the Defence of the paſſage into Coln-River, and which was of great Advantage to us during the Siege of Colcheſter. The next day he came to Harwich, and gave Order concerning the keeping of the Guards, and to man the Works that are there made, and croſſed the River to Langer-Point, which is a Place of great Strength, and Commands the Mouth of the Harbour into the River at Harwich, as alſo at Merſy Iſland. The General was ſaluted with abundance of Ordnance; he marched on towards Ipſwich that Night, being Thurſday the 7*th* of Sep. where the Bailiffs and Magiſtrates met him a Mile out of Town, and received him with extraordinary Joy; and there was ſuch Chearfulneſs and Alacrity in the People, as hath not been ſeen in any Place, ſince the Wars began. We march'd from Ipſwich to Alborough, where His Excellency was very kindly entertained by one Eſq; Bence, a Member of the Houſe; which Place hath for its Security ſeveral Pieces of Ordinance, which he cauſed to be diſcharged. His Excellency marched from thence to Solbay, to view the Situation of that Place, which Commands a commodious Harbour; and quartered that Night at Yarmouth, where his Forces had been admitted the day before; the Bailiffs and Magiſtrates received him with very much Reſpect; the Town and Ships diſcharged above 100 Pieces of Ordnance, both at his coming in and going out: He gratified the Town in their Deſires, ſeeing it was thought convenient for the publick Good, that a Garriſon ſhould be put for a time in the Town, That Col. Desborow ſhould Command the Forces there. Their Entertainment was very noble and free; and the General deſires with all Tenderneſs to proceed in the ſecuring of that place, that the Fiſhing-Trade may not receive any Prejudice by the Soldiers being there, but that all Regard may be had to encourage them therein.

Yeſterday we came towards Norwich, where the Sheriff of the County, the Mayor, Aldermen, and Sheriffs of the City, in their Scarlet Gowns, with the Trained-band of Horſe and Foot, came out of the Town, and accompanied the General in, with extraordinary Expreſſions of their Joy in his coming thither; and feaſted him, with all his Company, in an extraordinary manner; there appeared Love in a high Degree. To morrow His Excellency marches to Bury, which is intended for ſome time to be the Head Quarters.

SIR,

ONE thing foretold in Mr. Lilly's laſt Book, above the reſt, is remarkable about the KING; who upon Tueſday laſt, as he was riding down a ſteep Hill, his Bridle broke, and the Horſe ran down with him, to the great Terrour of the Beholders; but God be praiſed, his exquiſite Skill in Riding, (but Providence chiefly) preſerved him.

THE Houſe ſate not at all this day. From Lieut. General Cromwel out of the North, by Letters Sept. 14. is thus certified; " Monday we marched from Newcaſtle to Morpeth, Tueſday to Alnwick; we left our Guns behind us there, as knowing we can ſend for them at pleaſure; we have ſent a ſtrong Party of Horſe with Major General Lambert's, towards Belford, and with him a Summons to Berwick. The Engliſh Cavaliers under Sir Tho. Tildeſly, being about 1500, lie on this ſide Berwick, as not being ſuffered to come in; it's believed they will come in if ſummoned. Monroe march'd through with 3000. and is joined with Lanerick, having 5000 more; Argile lies at Hedington, 12 Miles be-hither Edinburgh, with an Army of neat 10000 Men; theſe Scotch Parties are upon Treaty, and it's believed will not fight; they lie within 4 Miles one of another, and muſt either fight or agree. Old Leven is poſſeſs'd of Edinburgh-Caſtle: David Leſley is Lieut. General to Argile. We find no Bread in this County, but ſhall have Biſket from Newcaſtle till new Corn come, which is upon the Ground in abundant meaſure. Lieut. The Engliſh under Tildeſly and Blackſtone are about Cullingham.

Lieut. Gen. and Major General Lambert, are about Alnwick.

Col. White's and Hacker's Regiments, lie about Pontefract, &c.

Old Leven &c. have made the Committee of Eſtates to flie.

'Tis reported the Governour of Berwick will deliver that Garriſon up to the Parliament.

From Major Gen. Lambert's Quarters of the ſame Date came thus: " Monroe is certainly gone into Scotland, with all the Scots both Horſe and Foot; and the Engliſh under Sir Tho. Tildeſly and Sir Will. Blackſtone, are about Cullingham, Ten Miles on this ſide Berwick in Northumberland: The Lieut. Gen. with all the Horſe and Foot, except the Lancaſhire Forces, and the four Regiments of Horſe with Major Gen. Lambert, are about Alnwick, and are marching up to the Borders, he having ſent for theſe four Regiments, lying now about Durham, and Col. White's, and Col. Hacker's, lying about Pontefract, to march up to him with all ſpeed: It's conceived we may march into Scotland if there ſhall be need. I preſume you have heard, that David Leſley, with old Leven and Argile, are in the Head of 8000 Horſe and Foot about Edinburgh, and have made the Committee of Eſtates to flie, which is conceived to be the Cauſe of Monroe's ſpeedy March into Scotland. It is true, that Leſley the Governour of Berwick would not admit any of the Scottiſh or Engliſh Cavaliers to come into that Garriſon in their paſſage; and as it's reported, he now affirms, he always kept that Place, for the Parliament of England, and will deliver it into their hands. The latter I cannot report for certain, but ſomething there is in it. The Engliſh Cavaliers both in Weſtmorland, and Cumberland, and Northumberland, are now in ſo ſtaggering a Condition, they know not what to do, ſwearing they are bewitch'd, and will fight no more, and do daily diſband, depart from their Colours, and ſhift for themſelves. This Army's much diſcontented for want of Pay, having received none a long time, and find no Courſe taken to ſupply them; they have not a Penny to ſhoe their Horſes, and have loſt ſo many, ſlain, lamed, or tired out, in deſperate and moſt difficult Service againſt the Scots, and in the long purſuit of them; abundance of our Horſe-Soldiers are on foot, and they ſee no Courſe taken to recruit them. They are very much troubled, that the Parliament hath, ſince the routing of the Scots Army, given 40000 l. of their Money to the Navy, and have taken no Care for their Supply, after all their Service and miſerable Sufferings. They hear likewiſe, the Parliament is about to ſell the Scots Priſoners to Merchants, but they hope they will be ſo juſt, if they do ſo, as to give them the Price of their Blood, which is their lawful Prize

From York by Letters 15. Sept. 1648. “The Siege of Pontefract ſtill continues. From Leiceſter by Letters thus, “Thurſday laſt, Sept. 14. we kept a Day of Thankſgiving in this Town, with much Joy and Alacrity, for the great Succeſs againſt the Scots, it being in our apprehenſion no leſs than a clear Foundation, or a Forerunner of a good and laſting Peace: After the Sermons, my Lord Grey feaſted all his Officers, being about 150. with great Rejoycings, each engaging to other, never to decline their firſt Undertakings with his Lordſhip, but to hazard all that was dear unto them (if occaſion be) in proſecution of a good, firm, and well-grounded Peace; wherein Liberty and Property may be aſcertained to Poſterity, and all neceſſary particular Goods provided for in ample manner. Col. Martin is gone hence towards Lieut. Gen. Cromwel: The Parliament's Commiſſioners are gone to Aſhby-de-la-zouch, to ſpeak with Duke Hamilton; who, it's apprehended, will not diſcover any thing that concerns this Kingdom, but rather blame thoſe of his own Country.

General Paſton is much ſuſpected and oppoſed by Roe Oneale, and it is believed, that rather than he will be over-powred by him, he will unite himſelf to the Forces of the Lord Taffe, and the Lord Inchiquine; Col. Jones hath taken ſome ſtrong Holds not far from Kilkenny.

"His Excellency came to this Place on Thurſday laſt, with a very 'ſmall Train, ſo that there need not be any fear we ſhall ſtraighten the 'Parts about the City in Point of Proviſions; we expect daily to have 'Letters out of the North, but none are come ſince the time that Lieut. 'Gen. Cromwell marched up the Tweed; where if Berwick and Carliſle were 'not ſurrendred unto him for the uſe of the Parliament of England, ac'cording to his Demand, no doubt he is in Scotland at this hour; for 'he cannot beſiege Berwick, (it ſtandeth upon the other ſide of Tweed up'on Scots Ground) unleſs he enter that Kingdom; and there is plenty of 'Proviſions, of Corn eſpecially, between Edinburgh and Berwick, which 'muſt either be ſent or fetch'd to maintain the League. We are apt to 'believe that the Lord of Argile and the Kirk do not diſſimulate, in op'poſing Monroe and the remainder of Hambleton's Party; becauſe they 'have declared to the World, wherein the Royal Party of their Nation 'have broken the Covenant in every Clauſe, and therefore certainly will 'not make themſelves guilty of it too, by combining with them at laſt; 'we hope better things, which the next Poſt will more fully clear.

From Lieutenant General Cromwel's Quarters at Noreham near Tweed, the 20th of Sept. inſtant came as followeth: " We have received a fair, but delatory Anſwer from Berwick; had they yielded, they would have put us to it, whether to have gone ſo ſoon over Tweed; but this Denial neceſſitates it, for other way we cannot block up the ſaid Place: In relation thereto, and in purſuit of the Enemy, who lately made ſuch Spoil in England, we ſent our Major General Lambert with three Regiments of Horſe yeſterday, and this day the Foot are to follow with the reſt of the Horſe and Carriages, all but two Regiments and one of Horſe. The ſad Condition of the County of Northumberland, and our Army in it, would make a Heart of Flint to melt: Neither Corn nor Cattel did the wretched Army of Monroe leave; inſomuch that in the Head-Quarters, for divers days, neither Bread nor Drink was to be had, only a little Bisket; believe it, whatever they were in the South that called in ſuch Catterpillers, the North Part gives them no Thanks. Monroe and Lanerick make 7500. whereof 2500 Horſe; The Marqueſs of Argile and his Friends, not above 6000. and few Horſe, and new raiſed Men, and ſo no way able to deal with the other, which calls us to their help clear, and gives us Opportunity to make good our Proteſtation to them, when in former Diſtreſs, though ſince evil requited; and to ſpeak as we find, there are divers moderate ſpirited Men, whom we believe have no ſuch Stings as are to be found in our own Kingdom.

Tueſday a Paper was delivered, containing the Propoſitions, &c.

A Debate which laſted 3 Hours.

“On Tueſday Night a Paper was delivered in, containing the firſt Propoſitions for recalling Oaths, Proclamations, &c. with a Preamble in theſe Words: Whereas both Houſes of Parliament have been neceſſitated to take up Arms in their juſt and lawful Defence, &c. to which the King conſented by a Paper without the Preamble; But the Commiſſioners finding the ſame ſhort, farther inſiſted thereupon, which took up a large Debate of three Hours

Wedneſday many Arguments were uſed on both ſides, but the King deſired to conſider, &c.

On Wedneſday, wherein many Arguments were uſed on both ſides; and at length being very late, the KING deſired, That the weight of them might be farther conſidered on the morrow Morning: Yet notwithſtanding,

On Thurſday they underſtanding the King would not meet, deſired by a Paper, the Preamble might be a part of the Act of Parliament, &c.

‘On Thurſday they having Notice, That the KING would not meet, ſent a Paper, humbly deſiring, That the Preamble might be a part of the Act of Parliament; to which the ſame day was returned, That His Majeſty would looſe no time, endeavouring to ſettle a happy Peace; but nothing farther done in that, or any other thing till Monday Morning the 25th of September, when the KING declared, That he doth conſent to that Propoſition, as was deſired; which being done, great hope is given to all hearts, that this is the Forerunner of a happy Peace and Eſtabliſhment. So the KING hath declared, That nothing of his particular Intereſt ſhall hinder the Progreſs of this Treaty.

The Commiſſioners Letters by Sir Phil. Killegrew to the Parliament, declaring His Majeſty's Conſent, &c.

‘Sir Peter Killegrew came alſo this day, with Letters to the Parliament from the Commiſſioners at the Iſle of Wight; advertiſing, That His Majeſty had conſented to paſs the Preamble and Propoſition for revoking all Declarations and Proclamations againſt the Parliament; and that a Bill Paſs in Order to the Paper following to that Purpoſe; it is ſtill provided that nothing be binding, unleſs the whole be agreed upon, betwixt His Majeſty and Parliament by this Treaty; the Paper follows:

"And all Judgments, Indictments, Outlawries, Attainders, Inquiſitions, and Grants thereupon made, and all other Proceedings for any the Cauſes aforeſaid, had, made, done, or executed, or to be had, made, done, or executed; whether the ſame be done by the KING or any Judges, Juſtices, Sheriffs, Miniſters, or any others, are void and of none Effect, and are contrary to and againſt the Laws of this Realm.

"And be it farther Enacted and hereby Declared by the Authority aforeſaid, That all Judges, Juſtices of the Peace, Mayors, Sheriffs, Conſtables, and other Officers and Miniſters, ſhall take Notice hereof; and are hereby prohibited and diſcharged in all time to come, from awarding any Writ, Proceſs, or Summons, and from pronouncing or executing any Judgment, Sentence, or Decree, or any way proceeding againſt, or moleſting any of the ſaid Members of the Two Houſes of Parliament, or a any of the Subjects of this Kingdom, for any the Cauſes aforeſaid.

The Lieutenant General calls a Council of War, returns Anſwer, that he will give them Aſſiſtance, and profeſſes with all heartineſs, to be ready to join with them againſt Monroe, &c. deſiring nothing more, than the ſubduing and rooting out of Truſt all looſe Perſons, and ſuch as are Enemies to Goodneſs and good Men; aſſuring them, that in his Income he will deny himſelf and his Soldiers that, which he would take in England; and that the Enemy once ſubdued, and the Engliſh Towns delivered or gained, he will return: And as he believed God gave him and thoſe under his Command Victory over the Duke's Army, thereby to make way for his Aſſiſtance of the faithful in Scotland, ſo he ſhall perform the ſame with all Cordialneſs; and deſires that the Letter he now ſends may be kept as a Teſtimony againſt him, and thoſe under his Command, if they do not, as a Brand of their Hypocriſie for ever.

This Treaty betwixt Monroe and Argile, is expreſſed befor in the Margin

A Captain of the Army was likewiſe killed in London, and a Major the laſt Week.

A Petition of Thouſands from Oxon, &c.

A Petition was preſented to the Houſe, in the Name of many Thouſands of the County of Oxon, ſhewing their Approbation of the large Petition in the Name of many Thouſands of the City of London, City of Weſtminſter, and Parts adjacent, and the great Danger the Kingdom is in at this time; deſiring that thoſe that have ever adhered to them, and ventured their Lives and Fortunes in this great Cauſe, may not periſh ſuddenly, while the Deſtroyers Cry Peace, Peace, but ſeek after Blood; and that they would return to their firſt Principles, and not fall from the good Work of God, that God's Wrath may be appeaſed, the Enemies of him and his People be ſubdued, their Friends reconciled, which will be like Life from Death, to this poor dying Nation, and ſo by this means a well-grounded Peace eſtabliſhed. The Houſe being upon other great Affairs, deferred the farther Debate hereof till another time.

His Excellency's great Care in ſatisfying the Country, &c.

The ſhortneſs of the Soldiers Pay, &c.

From the Head-Quarters at St. Albans, by Letters September 29. is thus certified; "There hath little of Concernment happened here ſince the laſt Poſt. His Excellency takes all the Care he can to ſatisfie the Country that undergoes the great Burthen of free Quarter, Complaints coming daily concerning the ſame; and that which adds to Affliction is, That the Soldiers are not paid, whereby to enable them to diſcharge their Quarters; ſome Regiments having not one Penny Pay theſe eighteen Weeks paſt, and none having had above one Months Pay in all that time, except the two Regiments which were in Kent; and the Soldiers begin to be much diſcontented, that the Fault ſhould be imputed unto them, for not ſatisfying for what they have in Proviſions, whenas they have been ſo ill paid; it is very much feared, if ſome ſpeedy Courſe be not taken herein, neither the Country nor the Soldier will with Patience long undergo the ſame.

This Letter to the Gen. about Scotland, much to the Effect as before.

'His Excellency had Letters out of Scotland, where Lieutenant General Cromwell is with the Army, informing of the good Correſpondency betwixt the Earl of Argile's Army and ours; and that Montro was poſſeſt of Sterling-Bridge, hoping thereby to increaſe his Army; but it's conceived, it will rather leſſen their Number.

The Scotch Priſoners paſſing this way to be ſhipt, Curſe D. Hamilton. &c.

'There paſs'd ſome Scots Priſoners this way, going to be ſhip'd for beyond the Seas: Moſt of them Curſe Duke Hamilton; ſome of them who eſcaped, when they came to beg, made as if they were dumb, making Signs for Bread, leaſt their Language ſhould diſcover them:

'But being preſs'd upon, That they were Scotchmen, they began to ſpeak 'as fine Engliſh as they could, ſaying they were Yorkſhire Men; many 'of them are gone to London, where they, with others eſcaped from 'Colcheſter, and their Convoys, may be ready to join together and do 'Miſchief, if not timely looked to.

Two Letters came to the General; that two Cavaliers deſigned to ſtab him, &c.

'Two Letters came this day to the General from good hands, That 'there was a Deſign, that two Cavaliers ſhould ſtab him, during his 'Reſidence at St. Albans: Another from France came this Week to His 'Excellency to the ſame Purpoſe; and the Party is in England, and upon 'his Journey from France, that firſt diſcovered it.

CHAP. XXXI.

Proceedings in Parliament from October 2. till November 1. 1648.

Monday, October 2.

THIS day a Letter from his Majeſty was brought to both Houſes by Captain Titus: In this Letter his Majeſty propoſeth what he will conſent unto in general of the Parliament's Propoſitions, and deſires to come to London. In brief, concerning Religion his Majeſty will conſent, That the calling and ſitting of the Aſſembly of Divines at Weſtminſter be confirmed for three years by Act of Parliament, and confirms for three years the Directory, and the form of Church-Government, to be uſed for the Churches of England and Ireland, and Dominion of Wales; provided that his Majeſty, and thoſe of his Judgment, or any other who cannot in Conſcience ſubmit thereunto, be not in the mean time obliged to comply with the ſame; and that a free Conſultation and Debate be had with the Aſſembly of Divines at Weſtminſter in the mean time, twenty of his Majeſty's nomination being added to them, whereby it may be determined by his Majeſty, and his two Houſes of Parliament, how the ſaid Church-Government and form of publick Worſhip after the ſaid time, and how Religion may be ſettled, and the Articles determined, and care taken for the eaſe of tender Conſciences. Concerning the Biſhops Lands and Revenue, his Majeſty will conſent to an Act or Acts of Parliament, whereby Legal Eſtates for Lives, or for Years not exceeding 99, ſhall be made for thoſe Lands towards the ſatisfaction of the Purchaſers, and to others to whom they are engaged, whereby they may receive ſatisfaction; or his Majeſty will ſome other way provide for their further ſatisfaction: provided that the Propriety and Inheritance of thoſe Lands may ſtill remain to the Church, and the reſt that ſhall be reſerved to be for their maintenance. His Majeſty will give his Royal Aſſent for the better Obſervation of the Lord's Day, for ſuppreſſing of Innovations in Churches and Chappels in and about the Worſhip of God, and for the better advancing of the preaching of God's Holy Word in all parts of this Kingdom; and to an Act againſt enjoying Pluralities of Benefices by ſpiritual Perſons, and Nonreſidency; for regulating and reforming both Univerſities, and the Colleges of Weſtminſter, Wincheſter, and Eaton; for the better Diſcovery and ſpeedy Conviction of Popiſh Recuſants, for the Education of the Children of Papiſts by Proteſtants in the Proteſtant Religion, for levying Penalties againſt Papiſts: To an Act to prevent the Practiſes of Papiſts againſt the State, and for putting the Laws in execution, and for a ſtricter Courſe to prevent hearing and ſaying of Maſs; but as to the Covenant, his Majeſty is not yet therein ſatisfied that he can ſign or ſwear it, or conſent to impoſe it on the Conſciences of others; nor doth conceive it proper or uſeful at this time to be inſiſted on. Touching the Militia, his Majeſty will conſent to an Act of Parliament, to be in the Parliaments hands for ten years.

His Majeſty's Letter to both Houſes by Capt. Titus, what he will propoſe to in general of the Parliaments Propoſitions, That the Aſſembly of Divines may ſit for three years, with the uſe of the Directory; that Debate be had how to ſettle Church-Government.

Touching Ireland, after advice with his two Houſes, he will leave it to their determination, and give his conſent accordingly, as is herein hereafter expreſſed. Touching publick Debts, his Majeſty will give his conſent to ſuch an Act, or raiſing of Monys by general and equal Taxations. And laſtly, propoſeth, that he may have liberty forthwith to come to Weſtminſter, and be reſtored to a condition of Freedom and Safety, a thing which he ſhall never deny to any of his Subjects, and to the poſſeſſion of his Lands and Revenues; and that an Act of Oblivion and Indempnity may paſs, to extend to all Perſons, for all matters relating to the late unhappy Differences, which being agreed by his two Houſes of Parment, his Majeſty will be ready to make theſe his Conceſſions binding, by giving them the force of Laws by his Royal Aſſent.

An. 1648.

His Majeſty's Meſſage diſliked by the Commons.

Thanks returned to the Commiſſioners, requiring them to proceed, &c.

Col. Monks Letter about Belfaſt and Carickfergus.

Monro voted Priſoner to the Tower.

The Commons upon Debate of his Majeſty's Meſſage voted the ſame unſatisfactory, and that a Letter ſhou'd be ſent to their Commiſſioners in the Iſle of Wight, to acquaint them that the Houſes did well approve of their Proceedings, and did give them hearty thanks for their great care and pains in the managing of this important and weighty Buſineſs, requiring them ſtill to proceed according to their Inſtructions. Letters came from Col. Monk himſelf in further confirmation of the great Mercy of ſurpriſing Belfaſt and Carickfergus, and taking Major General Monro and his Forces Priſoners.

The Houſe voted young Major General Monro to be committed Priſoner to the Tower, for joyning with the Enemy in Scotland, and for perfidiouſly breaking the Truſt repoſed in him. Letters came of taking the Iſle of Angleſey by ſtorm, Col. Mitton having landed Men in ſeveral places in the Iſland, which no ſooner bodied, but became Poſſeſſors of it without any conſiderable loſs: 300 were taken and ſlain, the Lord Byron fled into Ireland, Lord Buckley elſewhere. Letters from Briſtol ſpeak of a ſad loſs, of a Merchant Ship that was ſunk by two Iriſh men of War, richly fraught, and had much Gold in her.

Letters of taking Angleſey by Storm.

Cromwel's Letter declaring his Army's nigh approach to Edinburgh, and blocking up Berwick.

Marquiſs Argile, &c. come as Commiſſioners from the Honeſt Party to the Lieutenant General's Quarters at the Ld Mordington's Houſe.

From Lieutenant General Cromwell's Quarters now in Scotland, and by Letters come to this purpoſe: We have now drawn the moſt conſiderable part of our Army into Scotland, the Van Quarters this night within ten Miles of Edinburgh; there is part of the Army left behind to block up Berwick, two Regiments of Foot, and the Lieutenant General's Regiment of Horſe block it up on the Engliſh ſide, we have others that keep ſtrong Guards on Scotland ſide: The Lieutenant General, and the Commanders and Officers, expreſs very great tenderneſs to this Kingdom.

Friday laſt the 22*d* of September, the Marquiſs of Argyle, the Lord Elcoe, Sir John Scot, and others, came as Commiſſioners from the honeſt Party in Scotland, to the Lord of Mordington's Houſe at Mordington, to the Lieutenant General's Quarters, two Miles from Berwick within Scotland.

That Night the Marquiſs of Argyle ſent in a Trumpet to Berwick, for a ſafe Conduct for the Lord Elcoe, and the reſt of the Commiſſioners; which being granted by the Governor, they were conducted in the next Morning: little or nothing could be done by them to the gaining of the Town.

Argile brought the Governour to Capitulation.

The Lord's Day Argyle ſent in to deſire the Governour himſelf to come forth, which he accordingly did: after much debate he was brought to this, To deſire to ſend two Gentlemen to Lanerick and Monro, to know their pleaſure concerning the ſurrender of that Gariſon. Monday Morning the Gentlemen went, having the Lieutenant General's Paſs, and a Letter from the Lord Marquiſs: we fell to our Buſineſs in order to our taking the Town, and the Lord's Day at night Colonel Pride poſſeſſed himſelf of Tweed-mouth, and the Bridg foot at the Engliſh ſide, and the next night he blew up the Houſe of Guard which they had built upon the Bridg: we were then very near them by the Scotiſh ſide, having driven away many of their Sheep from under the Wall. Monday in the Morning there came an Expreſs from General Leven, and Lieutenant General David Leſley, certifying the Lord Marquiſs, that they were very like to agree upon the old Treaty, which was to hold no longer than that night: The Conditions were theſe;

Articles of Agreement to be drawn up by both Armies under Argile and Lanerick.

1. That both the Armies, that under the Lord Marquiſs Argyle, and that under Lanerick, with all the Forces in any of the Gariſons in the Kingdom of Scotland, together with Berwick and Carliſle, be diſbanded.

2. That the ſecuring and ſettling Religion at home, and promoting the Work of Reformation abroad both in England and Ireland, be referred to the general Aſſembly, or their Commiſſioners; and that all Queſtions, and Civil Differences whatſoever, be referred to the Determination of a Parliament ſpeedily to be called.

That civil Differences be referred to the Parliament.

3. That to prevent the ruin of Religion and breach with England, no Party that were in the late Engagement againſt England, may be of the new Parliament, or General Aſſembly.

That no Party againſt England be of the New Parliament.

From Cockermouth briefly thus: It hath been a long time beſieged by 500 Countrymen; the Lieutenant General ordered the Lancaſhire-Forces under Col. Aſhton, with Col. Brigs, Col. Hacker, and Col. White's Regiments of Horſe, from Pontefract, to march up to their Relief: They might, it's believed, have been there three Weeks ago, but are not yet come up. The honeſt Governour Lieutenant Bird holds out gallantly, he hath a Fornights Proviſion yet.

Cockermouth beſieged by 500 Countrymen, yet Lieutenant Bird Governor holds out gallantly.

The Enemy had mined very near the Wall; he ſallied out, killed and took them all that were at work, and brought away their Tools, and burnt the Barn that ſheltered them; he can hold out one part of the Caſtle, though they ſhould take the other, but we hope will be relieved ſuddenly, for that there are Forces upon their march towards them. The Marquiſs of Argile took a Ship with 10000 Arms that came from Denmark, intended for Duke Hamilton; they came to Leith, where they were ſeized upon. There are about eighty Officers armed that ran away from Hamilton, now lurking about Cheviot Hills; we have ſent 120 Horſe, and 40 Dragoons towards them, which we hope will be able to give a good account of that Buſineſs. Believe it, the Godly Party in Scotland ſeem to be very ſenſible of the benefit they have lately reaped by the Victory God gave to our Army, and ſay they hope never to forget thoſe Inſtruments which the Lord choſe to work their Deliverance, and check themſelves for the hard Thoughts they formerly had of this Army.

Hopes of a ſudden Relief for the Caſtle.

Argile took a Ship with 10000 Arms from Denmark bound for Leith.

And 'tis very obſervable, that this Army which the honeſt Party in Scotland looked upon as a Bundle of Sectaries, not fit to be continued, and did many ways unjuſtly reproach, ſhould now under God be the only Authors of their Deliverance, ſome of the moſt eminent and honourable in Scotland having ingenuouſly confeſſed their Error and Raſhneſs in charging the Army laſt year with Rebellion unjuſtly, ſeeing now there is a neceſſity put upon them to tread in that very path: nay, they acted now againſt a clearer Authority, where was the Concurrence of the three States, King, Lords, and Commons.

The Intereſt of the Godly People in Scotland, as to the Civil, was once different from that of the Godly People in England, or at leaſt acted as if it had bin different; but now the Lord hath bin pleaſed ſo to order the Affairs of that Kingdom, as that the Intereſt of the Godly People there, is become the ſame with ours in England, and they and we muſt act upon the ſame Grounds and Principles; and we are perſwaded that ſo much of their Power as the Princes of the earth have lent to the ſupport of that Man of Sin, God hath and will ſuddenly utterly break and deſtroy.

Mordington in Scotland, Sept. 27. 1648.

Tueſday, October 3. 1648.

Their Lordſhips return'd anſwer, That they would take it into ſpeedy conſideration, and ſend anſwer by Meſſengers of their own.

They likewiſe ordered, that the buſineſs of the Army ſhould be further conſidered of on Saturday next, and that then the Committee of the Army ſhould report the Names of ſuch Citizens and others as have not paid their Aſſeſſments, to the end that ſome ſpeedy courſe may be taken againſt them.

Letters from the North, all Parties are agreed in Scotland.

This day came further from the North, that all things are agreed in Scotland between the Parties. All are to lay down Arms, Berwick to be delivered to the Lieutenant General, and Carliſle the 1*ſt.* of October: A Parliament is to be called, and none that were in the Engagement againſt England to be of it.

The Lords this day concurred with the Commons in the 500 l. to be given to Colonel Monke, and making him Governor of Carickfergus; alſo 200 l. for Capt. Brough who brought M. G. Monro to London.

They agreed, that the Lord Inchequin's Son be ſent into Ireland with Lieut. Colonel Bircher, and to be exchang'd for the Engliſh Officers, and others detained Priſoners by his Father. They agree that 1000 l. be paid out of the firſt three Months Aſſeſſments, for Coals for the Poor of London and Southwark according to a Grant of King James.

The Treaty goes on, and the great Buſineſs inſiſted on is, the Propoſition for ſettling Religion, which is like to take up ſome time. His Majeſty gave in a Paper to the Commiſſioners, of the Reaſons wherefore he could not condeſcend to take away Biſhops, and the Government by Biſhops, which he conceived to be of Apoſtolical Inſtitution, and alledged ſeveral Scriptures to that purpoſe; he alſo propounded ſome Queries concerning Preſbyterial Government, wherein he deſired to be ſatisfied: this was referred to the Miniſters that went along with the Commiſſioners, viz. Mr. Marſhall, Mr. Vines, Mr. Caryll, and Mr. Seyman, who drew up an Anſwer to ſatisfy his Majeſty in the things deſired. The Papers in relation to this Buſineſs are too large to be inſerted, but will for better ſatisfaction be printed by themſelves. The Treaty hereupon hath held all this Week, and nothing yet concluded on; yet moſt are of opinion his Majeſty will aſſent, and this Propoſition being over, there is leſs doubt the other in courſe will be agreed on.

The Houſe ordered that a Declaration ſhould be drawn againſt to morrow morning, to inform them that the Houſe is now upon paſſing the Ordinance for ſatisfaction of the Arrears of the Souldiery of the Kingdom, and that their coming up will much impede and obſtruct both their own and other great Buſineſſes of the Kingdom, which are now under conſideration of the Houſe, and therefore to require them to forbear coming up, either upon that or any other pretence whatſoever.

Letters from the Iſle of Wight.

Letters this day from the Iſle of Wight, concerning the Treaty give to underſtand they are not yet paſt the Propoſition concerning the Church, in which much hath been ſaid: his Majeſty deſired to ſpeak with the Miniſters ſent by Parliament, for ſatisfaction of his Conſcience, which they promiſe to their utmoſt, and Meetings were, but the Miniſters Debates firſt declared to be extrajudicial: his Majeſty ſaid, he had been bred and inſtructed in the way he ſtands for, and that by his Father, the wiſeſt King, and beſt in the World; therefore could not eaſily yield, nor muſt it be wondred if he did not. The Miniſters anſwer for his ſatisfaction, the courſe was held, and deſired he would declare his Scruples; he ſaid he had yielded far, having denied nothing but the ſale of Biſhops Lands, and deſired them to ſpeak whether his Anſwer was not good to the Commiſſioners to that part, offering a Copy to Mr. Marſhall; but he refuſed it, as not having power: his Majeſty declared his three Scruples mentioned in the laſt, which the Commiſſioners deſired to ſee before the Miniſters had them; the laſt, which was the Coronation Oath, becauſe depending upon the Law, was judged improper for them to reſolve; the other two Mr. Marſhall received, and deſired to withdraw, the King conſented; after they returned, Mr. Marſhall, Mr. Vines, Mr. Seaman ſpake, his Majeſty deſired it in writing, which they were willing to, if the Commiſſioners thought fit: the Commiſſioners treated about the Oath at Coronation, and the Miniſters were on Tueſday to bring in their Anſwer, which was done, the King's Biſhops, and other Clergy, and the Miniſters of Parliament being preſent; Mr. Vines read it, his Majeſty deſired it, promiſing to prepare an anſwer. As to the ſale of Biſhops Lands as Sacrilege, The Commiſſioners told his Majeſty, that things lay ſo much in the Laws of the Land, that the Miniſters could not judg of it: at laſt his Majeſty appeared inclinable, but ſaid that if they were alienated, then they did revert to the Crown. Thurſday, there was debate about the Directory, and the taking away the Liturgy, but nothing done: the King in this Debate asked what fault they found in the Common-prayer-book; to this was replyed, that the Liturgy was taken out of the Maſs-Book, only ſpoiled in the Tranſlation, and that his Majeſties Father King James had ſo confeſt it to be: his Majeſty ſaid, if it were good in it ſelf, that did not make it ill: the King had ſince made offer of a limited Epiſcopacy.

A Letter was this day read in the Houſe from Lieutenant General Cromwel out of Scotland, the moſt material part we will give you, as followeth; Cromwel's Letter declaring the Poſſeſſion of Berwick.

UPON Friday September 29. came an Order from the Earl of Lanerick, and divers other Lords of his Party, requiring the Governour of Berwick to march out of the Town, which accordingly he did on Saturday Sept. 30. at which time I entred, having placed a Gariſon there for your uſe. The Governour would fain have capitulated for the Engliſh, but we having this advantage upon him, would not hear of it; ſo that they are ſubmitted to your Mercy, and are under the Conſideration of Sir Arthur Haſlerig, who, I believe, will give you a good account of them, and who hath already turned out the malignant Mayor, and put an honeſt Man in his room. I have alſo received an Order for Carliſle, and have ſent Colonel Bright with Horſe and Foot to receive it; Sir Andrew Car, and Col. Scot being gone with him to require an Obſervance of the Order, there having been a Treaty and an Agreement betwixt the two Parties in Arms in Scotland, to disband all Forces, except 1500 Horſe and Foot under the Earl of Leven, which are to be kept up to ſee all remaining Forces disbanded: And having ſome other things to deſire from the Committee of Eſtates at Edinburgh for your Service, I am my ſelf going thitherward this Day, and ſo ſoon as I ſhall be able to give you a further account thereof, I ſhall do it: In the mean time I make it my deſire that the Gariſon of Berwick, into which I have placed a Regiment of Foot, and ſhall be attended alſo by a Regiment of Horſe, may be provided for; and that Sir Arthur Haſlerig may receive Commands to ſupply it with Guns and Ammunition from New-Caſtle, and be otherwiſe enabled by you to furniſh this Gariſon with all other Neceſſaries according as a place of that importance will require; deſiring that theſe Mercies may beget Truſt and Thankfulneſs to God the only Author of them, and an Improvement of them to his Glory and the good of this poor Kingdom, I reſt,

The Articles whereupon the two Scotiſh Armies are agreed, are as followeth;

The Articles whereupon the 2 Scotiſh Armies are agreed.

I. IT is agreed, That for eaſing the Burdens of the Kingdom, and to prevent Famine and Deſolation, all the Forces under the reſpective Commands of the Earl of Crawford, Earl of Lanerick, George Monro, all Forces having Commiſſion from any of the Committee of Eſtates that were for the Engagement, and all other whom they can ſtop or let, whether in the Field or in the Gariſons of Berwick or Carliſle, and all other Gariſons within this Kingdom on this ſide of Taye, be disbanded betwixt this and the firſt of October next, and that none of them be ſeen after the ſaid day in Troops, Companies, or Regiments; and that all the Forces of their Adherents, whether in Field or Gariſon by North Taye, and the high Lands and Iſles, be disbanded betwixt this and the tenth of October next, and that none of them be ſeen in Troops, Companies, or Regiments.

II. That all Forces under the Command of his Excellency the Earl of Leven, and Lieutenant General David Laſhly, alſo be diſbanded between this and the firſt of October next, except the number of 1000 Foot, and 500 Horſe, which are to be kept until the diſbanding of the Forces by North Taye, and the high Lands, and Iſles; and that the ſaid 1000 Foot and 500 Horſe ſhall be diſbanded betwixt this and the ſaid tenth of October, and that mutual Pledges be given for that effect.

III. That the ſecuring and ſettling of Religion at home, and promoting of the Work of Reformation abroad in England and Ireland, be referred to the determination of the General Aſſembly, or their Commiſſioners, and all Civil Queſtions be referred to the Determination of Parliament to ſit down before the 20th of January next.

IV. That to prevent the imminent danger to Religion, and quarrel with our Neighbour Nation, in the mean time, until the meeting of the Parliament, that all ſuch as have been imployed in publick Place or Truſt, and have been acceſſary in the laſt unlawful Engagement, ſhall forbear the exerciſe of their places, and not come to the Committee of Eſtates, to the end the Committee of Eſtates may only conſiſt of ſuch Members as proteſted in Parliament againſt the late Engagement; and in caſe any of the ſaid Forces under the Command of the Earl of Crawford, Earl of Lanerick, George Monro, and their Adherents, or any other Forces under their Command, ſhall continue in Arms, and not diſband at the Days appointed, that then the ſaid Committee of Eſtates, conſtituted as aforeſaid, ſhall continue and raiſe Forces to ſuppreſs the ſame.

V. That theſe things being agreed unto, and the Forces under the Command of the Earl of Crawford, Earl of Lanerick, George Monro, and their Adherents, now at Sterling, being diſbanded, to the end it may appear we are only ſeeking the publick good, and not the ruin of any particular Perſons or their Eſtates, as have been miſreported, we the Committee of Eſtates, conſtituted as is before expreſſed, do hereby declare our ſelves, and all that adhere unto us, that we ſhall neither challenge, nor invite any others to challenge any who have been acceſſary to the late Engagement and Service, to take away their Lives or Eſtates, Titles of Honour, or the freedom of their Perſons; provided always that no others ſhall have the benefit of the Treaty, but thoſe who being on this ſide Taye, ſhall betwixt this and the firſt of October next; and thoſe by North Taye ſhall betwixt this and the tenth of October next, declare under their Hands Writing to the Lord Chancellor, or Preſident of the Committee of Eſtates now at Edinburgh, that they accept of and ſubmit to this preſent Agreement. It is further agreed that all Perſons taken in this War ſince the ſecond of Auguſt on the other ſide, be preſently releaſed.

It's worth inſerting a Letter from the Lord Chancellor of Scotland, by command of the Committee of Eſtates, to the Lieutenant General, as followeth.

A Letter of the Ld Chancellor to the Lieutenant General, applauding the Civility he ſheweth to the Kingdom.

SIR,

We have received your Letter of the 21ſt Inſtant from Norham, wherein you were pleaſed to acquaint us with your care to prevent for the future the Diſorder of ſome Soldiers that came from England into this Kingdom without your Order, the Reſolutions you have taken for the orderly entertainment of the remaining Forces which are of your old Regiments, for which and the many Civilities and Reſpects you have ſhewed to this Kingdom, we do return you very hearty thanks. We have now agreed upon ſome Articles with thoſe Forces at Sterling, which our Commiſſioners are appointed to communicate unto you. It hath been our chief ſtudy therein carefully to avoid every thing which might import an acceſſion to the guilt of the late Engagement; and to avoid every thing which might give any ground of Jealouſy to the Kingdom of England, Orders are given for diſbanding all the Scotiſh Forces in the Gariſons of Berwick and Carliſle, and delivering the Town for the uſe of the Parliament of England, as you will be acquainted by our Commiſſioners. As we have reaſon to acknowledg the great Mercy of God in the many ſeaſonable Deliverances of both Kingdoms, ſo we are ſenſible of the advantage that hath come unto us by the near diſtance of your Forces at this time, when the common Enemy was ready to have multiplied the Troubles of both Kingdoms, whereof we ſhall always ſtudy to be mindful, and to contribute our utmoſt endeavours upon all occaſions, for the preſervation of the Union, and continuing a happy Correſpondence between the Kingdoms: In which firm Reſolution we reſt,

SIR,

EDINBURGH,
Sept. 28. 1648.

Your humble Servant,

Louden, Cr.

For the Honourable Lieutenant General
Oliver Cromwel, Commander in Chief of the Forces of the Parliament of England, upon the Borders.

Tueſday, October 10. 1648.

A Petition from the Mayor, &c. of Newcaſtle.

A Petition was this day preſented to the Houſe, ſigned by the Mayor, Aldermen, Sheriffs, Common Council-men, and other well-affected in the Town of New-Caſtle upon Tine, deſiring that the Houſe would be pleaſed, before this Treaty be ended, to execute impartial and ſpeedy Juſtice upon the greateſt Offenders and Incendiaries of the Kingdom, the Fomentors of and Actors in the firſt and ſecond War, till which they cannot expect any Bleſſing upon this Treaty; and in ſo doing, they cannot want the aſſiſtance of God and Man.

A Petition from the Gentlemen, Miniſters, &c. in the County and City of York.

Another Petition was preſented to the Houſe, in the name of the Gentlemen, Miniſters, Freeholders, and other Inhabitants in the County and City of York, of the County and Town of Kingſton upon Hull, well-affected to the Safety of the Kingdom, and the Honour of the Parliament, taking notice with admiration the diſſipating of the deſperate Deſigns, and defeating the numerous Forces raiſed this Summer by the ſubtile and malitious Enemy, which Deſign was long in hatching before it broke forth: That notwithſtanding all Advantages and Opportunities that God hath given into their hands, by defeating all the Enemies of the Kingdom; yet they nor any of them improved by executing of Juſtice upon Offenders, eſpecially upon ſuch as have polluted the Land with Blood, his Majeſty having confeſt himſelf and his Party to be guilty thereof. They humbly deſired, That there may not be a Forfeiture made of all theſe great Experiences of God's Mercies in deſtroying theſe treacherous and implacable Enemies, but that according to the Declaration of Parliament, their Proteſtation and ſolemn Covenant, exemplary Juſtice may be executed upon them, without partiality or delay; and that their Eſtates may go towards diſcharging the Arrears of the Souldiers, and other publick debts; that God may be glorified, and the Land cleanſed from Blood.

Another Petition to the ſame purpoſe was preſented from another County, but the Houſe laid them all aſide, and did nothing upon them.

Another Petition to the ſame effect.

Wedneſday, October 11. 1648.

AN Ordinance was read, for the Advance of the Sum of 5000 l. for Payment of the Horſe Guards that daily attended the Houſes, out of the Fines of certain Delinquents. This Ordinance was aſſented unto, and ordered to be tranſmitted to the Houſe of Peers.

An Ordinance aſſented to for paying 5000 l. to the Horſe Guard.

The Anſwer of the Merchants Adventurers, to the Propoſition of the Houſe, for the advance of 20000 l. for the ſervice of the Navy, was this day reported to the Houſe; the Houſe had ſome debate thereof, and voted the ſame unſatisfactory.

The Anſwer of the Merchants Adventurers; for advance of 20000 l.

The Houſe further ordered in relation to the Navy, that the Earl of Arundel's Fine, who is admitted to his Compoſition, ſhould be employed to the uſe of the Navy, and that the Committee at Goldſmiths-hall do make Payment thereof accordingly.

The Earl of Arundel's Compoſition to be employed for the uſe of the Navy.

The Houſe was informed, that the Fleet with the Lord Admiral were in much want of Proviſions; The Houſe ordered that the Committee of the Navy ſhould take care for providing a Months Proviſion for them.

The Committee of the Navy to take care for a Months Proviſion.

The Houſe of Peers this day put off the Debate of the King's Meſſage till Friday morning next.

The Debate of the King's Meſſage put off the Lds.

A Letter this day came from the Parliaments Commiſſioners in the Iſle of Wight; that his Majeſty had conſented for the ſettling the Militia by Sea and Land in the Parliaments hands for 20 Years, as deſired in the Propoſitions; but as to Religion, had given in his further reply for a regulated Epiſcopacy; or in brief, his Majeſty thus offers.

1ſt. As to the aboliſhing of Biſhops, &c. his Majeſty ſaith, As to the former he will conſent to confirm for 3 Years by Act of Parliament the Form of Church Government, and Directory for Worſhip preſented to him, but he is not ſatisfied in his Conſcience, or can be content to the utter aboliſhing of Epiſcopacy; the ſubſtance whereof he conceives to conſiſt in the Power of Ordination and Juriſdiction, as they were exerciſed by the Apoſtles themſelves and others, by authority derived from them, ſuperior to Presbyters and Deacons in the primitive times: his Majeſty's Reſolution being to comply with his two Houſes for the alteration and regulating of his preſent Hierarchy and Government, ſo as Epiſcopacy reduced to the Primitive Uſage may be ſettled and continued in this Church; and if his two Houſes ſhould ſo adviſe, his Majeſty will be content to leſſen the Extent, and multiply the number of the Dioceſſes.

2dly. As to the exception, that his Majeſty has not expreſſed his conſent for ſettling of Biſhops Lands upon Truſtees, and for the ſale of thoſe Lands: 'tis true he hath not to alienate the Inheritance of thoſe Lands, and herein he believes he hath concurrent opinions of many Divines, that in other points differ much among themſelves: but his former Anſwer containing a large offer of ſatisfaction to all thoſe that have purchaſed or diſburſed Monies upon thoſe Lands, he hopes that Anſwer, to which he now refers, will be ſatisfactory to his two Houſes.

3dly. For the calling and ſitting of the Aſſembly of Divines, his Majeſty will aſſent as is deſired.

4thly. His Majeſty will confirm the publick uſe of the Directory in all Churches and Chappels, as is deſired in the Propoſition, and will conſent to the repeal of ſo much of all Statutes, as only concern the Books of Common-Prayer, and alſo the taking the ſame away out of all Churches and Chappels, provided that the uſe thereof may be continued in his Majeſty's Chappel for himſelf and his Houſhold: And that the ſame be confirmed by Act of Parliament for three Years, provided only that a Conſultation in the mean time be had with the Aſſembly of Divines in ſuch a manner, and for the Purpoſes as are in his former Anſwer expreſſed.

Touching the Articles of Religion, his Majeſty profeſſes he hath not had time ſince they were delivered unto him, to look into them with that Deliberation which is requiſite, before he bind up himſelf and his Subjects in matter of Faith and Doctrine, and therefore deſires that part of the Propoſition may be reſpited by his two Houſes. His Majeſty will conſent to an Act for better obſervation of the Lord's-Day: as alſo to prevent the ſaying of Maſs.

And laſtly, concerning the Covenant, and the Ordinance concerning the ſame, his Majeſty's Anſwer being, That he was not yet ſatiſfied to take it or impoſe it on others, he conceives his two Houſes will not inſiſt upon it at this time, and the rather, becauſe the ends thereof will be obtained by the Agreement, if happily concluded, which God grant. Theſe are the chief Heads of his Majeſty's Meſſage.

The Houſe had ſome debate hereupon; and the Queſtion was put, whether this Paper of his Majeſty's concerning Religion, were ſatiſfactory or not, and the Houſe voted it in the Negative.

The Houſe order'd that a Letter ſhould be writ to the Commiſſioners in the Iſle of Wight, to require them to proceed in the Treaty, according to their Inſtructions; and that they ſhould not, till this Propoſition concerning the Church were ſigned, proceed to the Debate of any other new: And that in this Letter notice ſhould be taken of the extraordinary Service of the Commiſſioners, in their wiſe managing of this Treaty.

Thurſday, October 12. 1648.

The Houſe ordered, for filling the Courts of Weſtminſter-Hall with Judges, that there ſhould be a new call of Serjeants.

THE Houſe this day, according to former Order, conſidered of filling the Courts at Weſtminſter-hall with Judges; and in confirmation of the Report from the Commiſſioners of the great Seal, to whom it was ordered to conſider of this buſineſs, the Houſe ordered, that there ſhould be a new call of Serjeants, and voted,

Out of Grays-Inn, there ſhould be made Serjeants at Law, Sir Thomas Widdrington, Sir Thomas Beddingfield, Mr. Keble, Mr. Thorpe and Mr. Bradſhaw; out of Lincolns-Inn, Mr. Solicitor, Mr. Sam. Brown, Mr. Recorder Glyn, and Mr. Erle; out of the Middle Temple, Mr. Whitlock, Mr. Conyers, and Mr. Puleſton; out of the Inner-Temple, Mr. Chapman, Mr. Gates, and Mr. William Littleton.

Serjeant Roll to be Ld Chief Juſtice of the Kings Bench. Serj. Jermin, and Mr. Sam. Browne Juſtices of that Court. Mr. Whitlock Attor. Gen. of the Dutchy, &c. Mr. Prideaux Sol. General. Sir Tho. Widrington Kings Serjeant.

The Houſe ordered, that Serjeant Roll ſhould be made Lord Chief Juſtice of the King's Bench, that Mr. Serjeant Jermin and Mr. Samuel Brown ſhould be made Juſtices of that Court.

That Mr. Solicitor be made Lord Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas; that Sir Thomas Beddingfield, and Mr. Serjeant Creſwel ſhould be made Juſtices of that Court.

An Ordinance for making the preſent Governour of Dover-Caſtle Lieut. thereof.

The Declaration, giving aſſurance to the Souldiers of the Kingdom, that the Houſe is upon ſatisfying them in relation to their Arrears, and for prohibiting them not to repair unto London upon pretence of their Arrears, was this day reported and aſſented unto, and ordered to be forthwith printed and publiſhed, and ſent to the Sheriffs of the ſeveral Counties, to the end they may take ſpecial notice thereof throout the whole Kingdom.

The Declaration of the Houſe to aſſure the Soldiers of their Arrears.

Letters this day to the Houſe from the Commiſſioners in the Iſle of Wight, give to underſtand his Majeſty's Agreement to the Propoſition for Ireland, as deſired. The Commiſſioners Paper to his Majeſty, preſented October 9. 1648, was as followeth.

The Letters from the Iſle of Wight.

The Commiſſioners Paper.

1. That an Act of Parliament be paſſed, to declare and make void the Ceſſation of Ireland, and all Treaties and Concluſion of Peace, or any Articles thereupon with the Rebels, without conſent of both Houſes of Parliament; and to ſettle the Proſecution of the War in Ireland, in both Houſes of the Parliament of England, to be managed by them, and the King to aſſiſt, and to do no Act to diſcourage or moleſt them therein.

2. That Reformation of Religion according to the Covenant be ſettled in the Kingdom of Ireland, by Act of Parliament, in ſuch manner as both Houſes of Parliament of England have agreed, or ſhall agree upon, after conſultation had with the Aſſembly of Divines here.

That Reformation of Religion according to the Covenant be ſetled in Ireland.

3. That the Deputy or chief Governour or other Governours in Ireland, and the Preſidents of the ſeveral Provinces of that Kingdom, be nominated by both Houſes of the Parliament of England, or in the intervals of Parliament by ſuch Committees of both Houſes of Parliament, as both Houſes of the Parliament of England ſhall nominate and appoint for that purpoſe; and that the Chancellor or Lord Keeper, Lord Treaſurer, Commiſſioners of the Great Seal or Treaſury, Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, Chancellor of the Exchequer and Dutchy, Secretaries of State, Maſter of the Rolls, Judges of both Benches, and Barons of the Exchequer of the Kingdoms of England and Ireland, and the Vice Treaſurer and Treaſurers at Wars of the Kingdom of Ireland be nominated by both Houſes of the Parliament of England, to continue quamdiu ſe bene geſſerint, and in the Intervals of Parliament by the aforementioned Committees, to be approved or diſallowed by both Houſes at their next ſitting.

An Ordinance for ſeizing Eſtates of Delinquents in North-Wales.

The Letter from Derby-Houſe to the Admiral.

AN Ordinance and Inſtructions for ſeizing the Eſtates real and perſonal of all the Delinquents in North-wales, and the Iſle of Angleſey, for the uſe and benefit of the Navy, were read, and upon the Queſtion committed.

A Copy of a Letter from Derby-houſe to the Lord Admiral was read, and the Lord Admiral's Anſwer thereunto, which was to this purpoſe; That upon full conſideration of the preſent deſign of reducing the revolted Ships, it was thought fit, if the Parliament would approve thereof, that the Fleet ſhould remain at Goree for a certain time longer.

The Houſe ordered the Fleet to remain at Goree.

The Houſe hereupon had ſome debate concerning this buſineſs, and agreed that his Lordſhip ſhould yet continue at Goree, in order to the reducing the revolted Ships.

And becauſe Proviſion may not be wanting for the ſame during their abode there, the Houſe order'd that the Committee of the Navy ſhould take care to make Proviſion of Victuals and Money during their ſtay there; and further ordered that the Committee at Derby-houſe ſhould write to the Lord Admiral, and incloſe the ſaid Vote.

An Ordinance giving Power to a Company of Merchants.

An Ordinance was read for authorizing the Company of Merchants, that trade in France, to collect Monies amongſt themſelves, for defraying their publick Charges, and aſſented unto.

The reſt of the day was ſpent in the Report from the Committee of the Navy, in relation to the providing of Mony for the Navy.

Monday, October 16. 1648.

THIS day the Common Council of the City of London preſented a Petition to the Houſes for a ſupply of Miniſters in the City, and an allowance to them out of Deans and Chapters Lands, many places being vacant for want of means to maintain their Miniſters.

The Commons upon debate, referred it to a Committee, and who are alſo to conſider of the ſeveral complaints of the want of a good Miniſtry in other parts of the Kingdom, and to report to the Houſe thereupon: this Committee to ſit de die in diem.

Letters declare the relief of Cockermouth by Col. Aſhton.

Letters came this day to the Houſe, That Col. General Aſhton, having relieved Cockermouth-Caſtle, the Enemy betook themſelves to Appleby; the Col. General purſued, and ſent them Summons, requiring them to render themſelves to mercy, upon which they willingly conſented to a Treaty, and it was agreed the inferior Officers go home, the great ones, as Sir Philip Muſgrave, Sir Thomas Tilnſley, Sir Robert Stricland, Sir William Huddleſton, and other Officers, to go beyond Sea, and ſix Months time to provide for their Expedition. In the Town and Caſtle of Appleby were taken the 4 Knights before mentioned, alſo Sir Thomas Dacres, Sir William Blackſton, 25 Colonels, 9 Lieutenant Colonels, 6 Serjeant Majors, 46 Captains, 17 Lieutenants, 10 Cornets, 3 Enſigns, 5 pieces, 1200 Horſe, 1000 Arms, all their Bag and Baggage. From Pontefract they write, That notwithſtanding the beſieging the Caſtle, the Enemy ſallies out, went a good way into the Country, fetcht away Sir Arthur Ingram from his Houſe, and carried him into the Caſtle: but when Col. Rainsborow's Regiment is come up to us, they ſhall keep them up cloſer. Col. Boynton is ſaid to be gone beyond Sea. Lieut. Col. Paul Hobſon is Deputy Governour of Newcaſtle.

From Lieut. Gen. Cromwel's Quarters, upon their March out of Scotland, by Letters October 11. it is written.

Lieut. General Cromwel's Letter on his March out of Scotland.

IN my laſt was intimated, that the Lieut. General was going towards Edinburgh, whither being invited, he went upon Wedneſday laſt. The Lord Kirconbright and Major Gen. Holburn, came from the Committee of Eſtates to Seaton, the Head Quarter, to accompany him to Edinburgh; the Earl of Murries Houſe in Cannigate was provided for him, and a ſtrong Guard appointed for a conſtant Watch at the Gate; the Lord Chancellour, the Earl of Leven, the Marquiſs of Argile, the Earl of Caſſill, Lord Burley, David Leſley, Lord Wariſton, and many other Perſons of Quality came to welcome him thither.

The next day the Earl of Caſſill, Lord Wariſton, and two other Gentlemen being ſent from the Committee of Eſtates to receive what the Lieutenant General had to communicate unto them; he delivered to them a Paper, wherein he did demand, that to prevent the reviving, or reinforcing of their late Engagement and Invaſion, none that had been in action therein, or acceſſary thereunto, might henceforward be imployed in any publick place of truſt whatſoever.

The Ld Caſſil, &c. gave a very ſatisfactory Anſwer to his Lordſhip's Demands.

On Friday, the ſame Perſons brought back from the Committee of Eſtates a very ſatisfactory anſwer, giving aſſurance in the name of the Kingdom of Scotland, that accordingly none ſhould be imployed, with this Addition only, without the Conſent of the Kingdom of England, which the honeſt Party thought to be the ſureſt lay, and a bar againſt the Malignants creeping in any more. Several ſelect Miniſters alſo come from the Commiſſioners of the Kirk, both to congratulate and diſcuſs, for mutual ſatisfaction of which I hope a good fruit will appear. The Lord Provoſt, and ſeveral eminent Citizens performed a Viſit alſo, and old Sir William Dick in the name of the reſt made a great Oration. The Lieut. General having the ſame day (we came to Edinburgh) received the Votes, that he ſhould aſſiſt the Diſſenters in Scotland, he in the cloſe of his Paper, acquainted the Committee therewith, and withal reſerved the latitude for any further Deſires or Demands, that might be found cauſe for by the Parliament of England. Upon the point of Aſſiſtance, the Marquiſs of Argile, and the aforenamed Committee of four, were ſent to adviſe.

The Lieut. General received the Votes of the Houſe to aſſiſt the Diſſenters in Scotland.

And for as much as they in Scotland are raiſing a new Model, about 3500 Horſe and Foot, to command which they are, after an Example, rather ſolicitous for godly and well-principled Men, than only experienced Soldiers:

They have deſired two Regiments of Horſe, and ſome Dragoons, to ſtay for ſome time in Scotland.

This makes mention of their being entertained by the Ld Provoſt.

Our Entertainment during our abode at Edinburgh, was taken care of, and defrayed by the Lord Provoſt, by order of the Committee of Eſtates; and when we were about to come away, ſeveral Coaches were ſent to bring up the Lieut. General, Leven, Sir Arthur Haſlerig, and the reſt of the Officers to Edinburgh-Caſtle, where was provided a very ſumptuous Banquet; the Lord General Leven, the Lord Marquiſs of Argile, and divers other Lords, being preſent to grace the Entertainment. At our departure, many pieces of Ordinance, and a Volley of ſmall ſhot was given us from the Caſtle, and we convoyed by ſome Lords without the City, where we parted. Moſt of all

An. 1648.

Monro's and Lanerick's Men disbanded.

Monro's Forces are disbanded, and himſelf; and many of his Officers come to Edinburgh, not well knowing what to do with themſelves, being outed in Ireland, as well as their great hopes of advantage in England and Scotland. Lanerick's Men are alſo disbanded, and their Hoſtages returned. Edinburgh being full of Malignants, it hath occaſioned the Proclamation, that they ſhould depart the City, and not remain within ſix miles. Major General Lambert, who is well liked on by the honeſt Party in Scotland, is to be left here with two Regiments of Horſe, and two Troops of Dragoons. Lanerick and Glencarne have not accepted of the Articles of agreement, but intend to go for Holland, which raiſeth a ſuſpicion that they have hopes to bring into the North the Prince's Army, which is ſaid to be in a readineſs to come thence. Sir John Cheiſly, and Mr. Robert Blayre the Miniſter are gone for London, with inſtructions from this Eſtate and Kirk, to repreſent their condition, and give an account of their late actions.

Sir J. Cheiſly and Mr. R. Blayr, Miniſter, are gone for London.

The malignant Magiſtracy of Edinburgh is now utterly changed, and a whole ſet of honeſt Men brought in: good Elections for the next Parliament are made in all, or moſt places. We are now going to Carliſle.

Letters this day from Newport in the Iſle of Wight, give to underſtand, That the Treaty goes on apace, as to all matters yet propoſed, except that of the Church: his Majeſty hath granted, beſides that of Ireland mentioned before, that of the publick Debts of the Kingdom, which is, That ſuch Act or Acts for raiſing Monies for the payment and ſatisfaction of the publick Debts and Damages of the Kingdom, and other publick uſes, as ſhall hereafter be agreed on by both Houſes of Parliament; and, that if the King do not give his aſſent thereunto, then it being done by both Houſes of Parliament, the ſame ſhall be as valid to all intents and purpoſes, as if the Royal Aſſent had been given thereunto, with this Proviſo, the ſaid publick Debts to be brought in within two Years.

Alſo the Propoſition for taking away all Honours, which runs thus; That by Act of Parliament all Peers made ſince the day that Edward Lord Littleton (then Lord Keeper of the Great Seal) deſerted the Parliament, and that the ſaid Great Seal was ſurreptitiouſly conveyed away from the Parliament, being May 21. 1642. and who ſhall be hereafter made, ſhall not ſit or vote in the Parliament of England, without conſent of both Houſes of Parliament; and that all Honour and Title conferred on any ſince May 20. 1642. ſeeing it was the day both Houſes declared, that the King ſeduced by evil Counſel, intended to raiſe War againſt the Parliament, be declared null and void.

As to the bringer they endured him not, becauſe they believed by his Counſel their Prizes taken from the Merchants was beſtowed upon the Gallants to ſwagger with at the* Hague, but that alſo is near ſpent; the Sailors gone many of them on Shore, inſtead whereof Landmen are put. The 15 Dutch Ships, under Command of Admiral Vantrump, weary of ſtaying ſo long in attendance upon both Fleets, 'tis believed will ſuddenly leave them to do as they pleaſe, keeping cloſe to a Neutrality, which is like to gain my Lord Admiral the Ships at eaſie rates; but if the Prince's Ships get out, and no agreement at Newport, Prince and all will undoubtedly be for Ireland. The Lord Culpepper hath been charged here with diſcovering the Prince's Secrets to the Parliament; he preſſes that they would prove what they ſay. My Lord Percie is confin'd to his Chamber, for giving one the Lie in preſence of the Prince. The young Lord Goring *is here again, but cannot get a Protection to keep him from Arreſts. Letters from Holland.

From Dublin October 7. they write for certain, That the Marquiſs of Ormond is at laſt landed at Wexford, and for his better welcome, hath brought over with him 4000 Arms, and 500 Curiaſſers Arms; part of that ſupply deſigned for the Scots Army in England by the Lord Jermin, and thoſe in France: he hath not brought above 50 Cavaliers, and yet enough to put this poor Kingdom into more troubles, and make it the Seat of their malice, when it can have no vent in England. We are in exceeding want of Men and Money, without which we can do nothing, unleſs it be to ſnatch away a Gariſon, and ſo away.

Marqu. of Ormond is landed at Wexford.

The Arrival of the Marquiſs of Ormond in Ireland, conſidered with the Diſcourſes in the Prince's Court in Holland, ſhews there's a deſign to keep Ireland in Commotions, beſides what will at Spring be on foot again in England; all which muſt be expected, the Treaty not ſucceeding.

Wedneſday, October 18. 1648.

THIS Day a Letter was read in the Houſe of Commons from the Lord General Fairfax, intimating the preſent Proceedings of the Army, and how that ſeveral Petitions are promoting amongſt the Soldiery, purporting the great Difficulties which they had undergone this Summer, in ſubduing their Enemies, and received very little pay, yet underſtood Taxes were generally paid, deſiring that the Army be divided into the Counties proportionable to the Tax they pay, and alſo that their Arrears may be thought of, eſpecially the laſt. Upon reading the ſaid Letter, the Commons ſpent much time in debate thereof, and came to this Reſult, Ordered that the Soldiers deſires be ſatiſfied.

That the deſires of the Soldiery be forthwith ſatisfied, and that ſpeedy care be taken for ſettling their Arrears.

There have been alſo other Petitions preſented to the General from the Officers and Soldiers of the Army to the purpoſe aforeſaid, and ſome larger are more particularly from Commiſſary General Ireton's Regiment, the Heads of their Deſires being theſe:

1. That Search and Juſtice be made and executed on the Encouragers of the late Rebellion.

2. That impartial Juſtice be done to all Criminals.

1. That there may be a ſtrict Scrutiny for the more full diſcovery of ſuch Perſons as were Contrivers or Encouragers of the late Rebellions, and ſecond War; and that Juſtice ſpeedily be executed on them according to the late Orders of Parliament.
2. That impartial and ſpeedy Juſtice may be done upon all criminal Perſons, and eſpecially upon ſuch who have or ſhall endeavour to obſtruct the courſe thereof, or have betrayed their Truſt, or been Authors of ſhedding that innocent Blood, which calls to Heaven for Vengeance, that ſo we may be at Peace with God.
3. That the ſame Fault may have the ſame Puniſhment, in the Perſon of King or Lord, as in the pooreſt Commoner.

4. That ſuch be proceeded againſt as Traitors.

5. That the Army have their Payment of former Arrears.

6. That oppreſſion of free Quarter be taken off.

4. That all ſuch may be proceeded againſt as Traytors, who act or ſpeak in the Kings behalf, till he be acquitted of the guilt of ſhedding innocent Blood.
5. That the Army ſpeedily have their Pay, or a preſent courſe be taken againſt thoſe who unjuſtly withhold it, and that they may have the Arrears due ſince January 15. before they be ordered to pay Quarters, and effectual Proviſion made for the Payment of former Arrears.
6. That the intolerable oppreſſion of free Quarters be immediately taken off, and that for the time to come, whilſt there is neceſſity for an Army, there may be aſſignations given to each Regiment, Troop and Company, which may be conſtant, during the eſtabliſhment of the Army; that the Money may not paſs from hand to hand, till it is half imbezeled, but be paid immediately from the Countries to the Soldiery, that ſo all free Quarter for ever avoided, it may return from the Soldiery to the Countryman again.

Laſtly, to prevent malicious Aſperſions to deſtroy Magiſtracy.

And laſtly, fearing leſt the inveterate malice of their Adverſaries ſhould aſperſe them with a deſign to deſtroy Magiſtracy and Property; they do declare, that they ſhall conſtantly endeavour to defend them both with their Lives and Fortunes.

Charles R.

That all other Perſons in this Propoſition ſhall ſubmit to a moderate Compoſition, and for the ſpace of three years ſhall not ſit, or ſerve as Members, or aſſiſt in either Houſe of Parliament, without Conſent of both Houſes of Parliament.

Newport, October 18. 1648.

Beſides this Paper concerning Delinquents, ſome other Papers were read of their Tranſactions upon the Treaty, which took up much time; the Houſe ordered hereupon, That all the Lord's Days, and Faſt-days ſince the beginning of this Treaty ſhould not be accounted any part of the 40 days, there being ſix Lord's-days and two Faſt-days, which will admit the Treaty a week longer than was expected.

The Houſe hereupon ordered that a Letter ſhould be written to the Lord General, and this Letter of Sir Henry Cholmly's incloſed therein, to acquaint him with this whole Buſineſs, and to deſire that his Excellency would be pleaſed to ſettle the ſame, ſo as it may be for preſervation of the Honour, and clearing the Fidelity of Sir Henry Cholmley, and likewiſe that the whole Buſineſs may be carried on againſt the Enemy with all the Advantage that may be.

The Houſe ordered that the Sum of 100 l. ſhould be beſtowed upon Capt. Wolfe that brought the News of the ſurrender of Carliſle, and ordered Mr. Noble 20 l. who likewiſe brought up Letters concerning the ſame Buſineſs.

The Houſe of Lords deſired the Commons Concurrence for Dr. Baſtwick.

The Houſe reſumed the Conſideration of the King's Meſſage.

The Houſe ſpent much time in Debate of the King's Meſſage concerning the exempted Perſons upon Life, but came to no concluſion, and ordered to reſume the conſideration thereof the next week.

The Houſe of Peers likewiſe ſpent the whole day about this Buſineſs.

Saturday, October 21. 1648.

ACcording to former Order the Houſe took into conſideration the Reports from the Committee of the Army concerning the taking ing off of free Quarter: The Houſe hereupon ordered that Members ſhould be imployed to uſe their beſt endeavours to bring in the Arrears of the Aſſeſments of the Army under his Excellency's Command, that ſo free Quarter may be taken off for the future.

Ordered to bring in the Arrears of the Aſſeſſments.

They likewiſe voted that Members ſhould be ſent down to the General to confer with him and his Officers (ſuch as he ſhall appoint) how the Army and other Forces of the Kingdom may be reduced to the eſtabliſhment, and how they may have ſatisfaction.

The Houſe voted a Conference with the General and his Officers.

The Houſe appointed a Committee to confer with his Excellency the Lord Fairfax, and accordingly how the Army may have ſatisfaction for the Pay due unto them ſince the 15*th* of January 1647. and that they may likewiſe conſider of free Quarter, to the end there may be an abatement thereof; and likewiſe that the Committee ſhall have power to confer with the Lord General, and ſuch Officers as his Excellency ſhall appoint, how the Army may be quartered upon the former Inſtructions.

An Information came this day to the Houſe againſt Colonel King of the County of Lincoln, of dangerous Conſequence againſt the Army under the Command of the Lord Fairfax, with the names of the Witneſſes that prove the ſame: The Houſe ordered that Col. King ſhould be ſent for by the Committee of the Army to anſwer the ſaid charge, and that he attend the ſaid Committee till ſuch time as he hath given anſwer thereunto.

An Information came to the Houſe againſt Col. King.

Monday, October 23. 1648.

THe Houſe of Commons this day according to former order heard Mr. Swinfen's Report for disbanding Supernumeraries in the ſeveral Counties of the Kingdom, and they voted thereupon to disband all the Horſe in the County of Northampton except 80, all the new-levyed Horſe in Oxfordſhire, Herefordſhire, Derbyſhire, Southamptonſhire, Gloceſterſhire, Warwickſhire, Nottinghamſhire, being no part of the Army, and that the Committees of thoſe Counties do pay them their Arrears, ſince laſt raiſed: And alſo for the new-levyed Forces in Yorkſhire, ſo ſoon as the Forces of the Army ſhall come up and beſiege Pontefract and Scarborough. Belvoyer-Caſtle in Nottinghamſhire to be reduced, all the new Levies in Somerſetſhire to be disbanded and paid, and his Excellency ordered to ſlight Bridgwater, Bath, and Dunſtar, or man them.

The Houſe order'd to disband all the Horſe in the County of Northampton.

This day Sir Peter Killegrew returned from the Iſle of Wight, and brought a Meſſage from his Majeſty of the 21*ſt* of October, of his Majeſty's further Conceſſions touching Epiſcopacy, which take at large:

Sir Peter Killegrew's Meſſage from his Majeſty touching Epiſcopacy.

1. He hath particularly conſented to the aboliſhing of Archbiſhops, Chancellors, Deans, and Chapters, &c. and the whole Hierarchy, ſave Biſhops.

2. Whereas he did formerly conſent to confirm the Form of Church-Government for three years, he hath now expreſly conſented that no other ſhall be uſed, and the exerciſe of Epiſcopal Government ſhall be wholly ſuſpended during that time.

3. Whereas Epiſcopal Juriſdiction, if no other had been agreed upon in the mean time, might have riſen up after the three years, he hath now expreſſed his Conſent, that none ſhall be exerciſed after that time other than Ordination, which is reſtrained to the Counſel and Aſſiſtance of Presbyters, but ſuch, and in ſuch manner as ſhall be agreed by him and his two Houſes; whereby until ſuch Agreement, or if it be not otherwiſe agreed, Epiſcopal Juriſdiction is wholly laid aſide.

His Majeſty conſented, 1. That Nomination of great Officers be by both Houſes. 2. Concerning the City of London. 3. That concerning the great Seal. 4. That concerning the Court of Wards.

His Majeſty alſo this day conſented to the following Propoſitions,

I. To that for nomination of the great Officers of the Kingdom, &c. as is deſired in the Propoſition, the nomination of them to be by both Houſes during the term of ten years.

II. To that concerning the City of London, as is deſired in the Propoſition.

III. To that concerning the Great Seal, &c. as is deſired in the Propoſition.

IV. To that concerning the Court of Wards, &c. as is deſired in the Propoſition, a recompence being aſſured to his Majeſty of one hundred thouſand pounds per annum to him, his Heirs, and Succeſſors, in lieu of the Court of Wards.

Newport, October 21.

His Majeſty's final Anſwer to the ſaid Propoſition.

His Majeſty conceives, That his former Anſwers to your Propoſitions concerning the Church, would have given more ſatisfaction to his two Houſes, than is expreſſed in your Papers of the ſixteenth and ſeventeenth of this inſtant; containing in them, if conſidered in their full extent, Conceſſions of the moſt material things deſired, and therefore as well for a Declaration of his clear intentions by thoſe former Anſwers, as for a further and final Anſwer to the ſaid Propoſition and Paper of the 17*th*, his Majeſty ſaith as followeth,

That the Hierarchy be aboliſhed.

That albeit for the reaſons expreſſed in his former Paper, he cannot conſent to a Bill, and the Ordinance for aboliſhing Biſhops, yet for the ſatisfaction of his two Houſes, and ſettling the publick Peace, he will conſent to a Bill for the taking away all Arch-Biſhops, Chancellours and Commiſſaries, Deans and Sub-Deans, Deans and Chapters, Arch-Deacons, Canons and Prebendaries, and all Chaunters, Chancellours, Treaſurers, Sub-Treaſurers, Succentors and Sacriſts, all Vicars, Choral and Choriſters, old Vicars and new Vicars of any Cathedral or Collegiat Church, and all other their under Officers, out of the Church of England, and Dominion of Wales, and out of the Church of Ireland.

That Epiſcopal Government be ſuſpended.

And further, his Majeſty will conſent to ſuſpend the exerciſe of all Epiſcopal Government for the ſpace of three years, and hath conſented, and will conſent to confirm the Form of Church Government now preſented to him for the ſaid three Years, and that no other ſhall be uſed during that time; in which time his Majeſty continues his deſires, that a conſultation may be had with the Aſſembly of Divines at Weſtminſter, twenty of his own Nomination being added, to the end that his Majeſty and his two Houſes may within thoſe three Years inform themſelves of the Practice of the primitive Church in point of Epiſcopacy, and may accordingly agree in limiting the Biſhops to the Counſel and Aſſiſtance of Presbyters, and in the exerciſe of their Juriſdiction, and increaſing their number if it be thought fit.

And his Majeſty will conſent, that in caſe no Settlement ſhall be agreed on within the ſaid three Years, then after the ſaid time the Power of Ordination ſhall not be exerciſed by Biſhops without the Counſel and Aſſiſtance of Presbyters, and that no other Epiſcopal Juriſdiction ſhall be exerciſed by Biſhops but ſuch and in ſuch manner as ſhall be agreed on by his Majeſty, and his two Houſes of Parliament.

His Majeſty's further Propoſition about Epiſcopacy.

And his Majeſty doth profeſs, That if in that time he be convinced, that the Function of Biſhops is not agreeable to the Word of God, or that Chriſt commanded any other Government, he will moſt chearfully embrace that, and take away Epiſcopacy; but until he be ſo convinced, he believes himſelf bound in Conſcience, as it is above expreſſed. The reſt of his Majeſty's Anſwer to the Propoſition concerning Religion, as it was this day delivered by him to the Commiſſioners to be tranſmitted, is the ſame as that of the ninth inſtant; his Majeſty profeſſing, that this now was the furtheſt that he could go in Conſcience.

From St. Albans they ſpeak of ſome intendment of removing the head Quarters to Windſor, but ſince again otherwiſe determined, and the head Quarters likely to continue where they are this Winter. His Excellency hath returned his Anſwer to the Houſe concerning the Lord Goring and Capel to be ſurrendred to mercy, which take as followeth.

His Excellency's Anſwer concerning the Ld Goring and Capel.

The Quarter not upon Capitulation or Agreement.

The Extent of common Quarter is aſſuring of Life againſt military Sword.

“ Tho his Excellency could not eaſily underſtand what it was, which in his former Letter to the Houſe of Commons, concerning the Lords Goring and Capel, ſhould ſo much need a ſerious explanation as to the point in Queſtion, yet ſuppoſing the ſcruple to be whether in aſſuring of Quarter to the ſaid Lords and the reſt, did extend, or doth imply to ſecure them from further queſtion as to Life, before their own or other civil Judgment, for the War levied by them. Anſwered thus; That the Quarter to them was not upon Capitulation or Agreements; and therefore could ground no more claim than common Quarter to any Enemy, taken in a Field-Engagement, or other Action. Now for the ſenſe and extent of common Quarter given, have always underſtood it to be an aſſuring of Life againſt the immediate execution of the military Sword, or any further execution thereby without judicial Trial: but whether it imply to protect, or exempt them from any judicial Trial or Proceeding to Life, either by the civil Sword of that Authority againſt which being ſubject they rebel, or by the martial Power, as to Perſons and Cauſes ſubject to its cognizance, having never ſo underſtood it, nor known to be ſo, his Excellency left it to their determination; and that ſome Power of giving Quarter every Souldier alſo hath in his proper Action, which is daily uſed by them, if they ſee cauſe, to all ſorts of the Enemy, and is, unleſs where particular Command is before hand to the contrary, always allowed, whatever the Perſons prove, becauſe not underſtood to extend to further exemption than as aforeſaid; and whether now it ſhould be taken otherways, and that the Souldiers granting Quarter ſhall be a full pardon as to Life, but not his Excellency's ſenſe; but the general ſenſe and practice in all Wars, and of both Parties in this War, give the Determination: but if it were not ſo, then not only no Rebel by that civil Judicature to which he ſtood a Subject, but alſo no Revolter, nor Deſerter of his Colours or Truſt, “running to the Enemy, nor any Spy or the like, by the martial Power, after once taken to quarter, ſhould ever be brought to a judicial Trial or Execution for their Revolt and Treachery: and therefore he did not urge thoſe things out of any particular animoſity to the Lord Goring; for were he even an innocent Perſon, or one for whom he would beg their Pardon, yet he ſhould not by any opinion or ſilence be guilty of ſtaying their judicial Proceeding upon any ſuch ground. The Admiſſion whereof would at once condemn ſo much the juſt and neceſſary practices of the Parliament and other States, and alſo exclude or prejudg his future Proceedings in publick Juſtice againſt any Perſon for Rebellion, Revolt or Treachery in War, who after utmoſt extremity againſt them could find but any Soldier of theirs to give him Quarter.

Ann. 1648.

The Committee of Eſtates reſolve to raiſe but 2500 Foot and 600 Horſe.

They beſeech his Majeſty to hearken to the Parliament.

Letters from Scotland the 17 inſtant thus mention; The Committee of Eſtates have this Week been about their Forces, which they have reſolved ſhall be but 2500 Foot, and 600 Horſe, for the Weſt is ſure to them, the South under the eye of Barwick and Carliſle: 'tis conceived this Force is enough to gariſon and keep quiet the North and Eaſt; the keeping up their laſt Army under David Leſley, who alſo commands this, was no ſmall Prejudice by being the cauſe of the late Engagement againſt England; for the Souldiers intereſts thwarting the Kingdom, and they now find much preſſing to bring in Officers, who though without palpable exception, yet not throughly to be confided in; beſides there is an Eye of reflection upon England, as the beſt ground of confidence under God to help in time of need. Mr. Parſons that came from his Majeſty is not like ſuddenly to get Anſwer, he is now to have it from Men of other tempers; that ſent will complain of the miſeries ſuffered by the late Engagement, declare how they were forced to riſe in Arms, what were the conſequence of it, and what their reſolutions are ſince; for which they refer the King to their agreement with Lanerick, and their late Declaration. They beſeech his Majeſty at laſt to hearken to the Advice of his Parliament, in conſenting to the Propoſitions of both Kingdoms, and eſpecially to thoſe concerning the Covenant, and Reformation of Religion, which they underſtand to be the point he ſticks moſt at, and they in honour and intereſt are moſt obliged to ſtick to, and without which they tell him his Throne cannot be eſtabliſhed in Righteouſneſs, &c.

They write to the Prince.

They have alſo writ to the Prince, dehorting him from that courſe of oppoſition he is in, and from attempting any Act of Hoſtility againſt their Kingdom; and ſince all worldly Policy and Projects have failed, that he would apply his endeavours to mediate with his Father that he would conſent to the Propoſitions of both Kingdoms, and eſpecially the Covenant. Sir John Chieſley, who is this day on his way to London, is to communicate them to the Houſes, then they are to be ſent to his Majeſty, and with them two frowning Letters from the general Aſſembly and Commiſſioners of the Kirk, who can ſpeak more plainly in name of their Maſter, than the Eſtates can in their own. George Monro, Colonel Dyell, Colonel John Hambleton Lord of Colington, and other Deſperadoes went yeſterday and to day over into Fife, where Lanerick, Crawford, Duery, and other Ringleaders of that Party were before, they give out it is only to take a drink at parting: Monro and Hambleton having received Paſſes from Leven to go to Swedeland, but wiſe Men apprehend ſome miſchief in brewing, concurrent with ſome deſign in England; and therefore the old Highland Regiment that was about Edinburgh is diſpatched to Sterling, and ſome Horſe to St. Johnſtons: ſome think it good diſcretion, that the Scots Priſoners of note in England be kept cloſe in the Heart of that Kingdom, and not ſuffered to come near Scotland or London. Juſt now comes News that Lanerick went this Night privately but with one Servant from his Houſe, none knows whither.

And by other Letters from Major General Lambert's Quarters in Scotland, is thus written.

Lambert's Letter about the Affairs in Scotland.

I Believe you have ſeen the Declaration of the Committee of Eſtates concerning the late Ingagement, being, as I underſtand, ſent from Edinburgh by the laſt Poſt, ſo that I need not acquaint you therewith: divers of our Souldiers have lately had particular Injuries offered to them, by being ſet upon in the High-ways, and other Places, by ſome looſe and deſperate Perſons in this Kingdom; many of their Horſes have been taken away, ſtolen, &c. and other things: and truly there is ſuch watching and waylaying of us, that we dare not ſtir without cockt and prim'd, and reſolute to meet with ſome Encounter before we come to our Journeys end; particularly ſix of Major Gen. Lambert's Regiment, with one Quarter-Maſter Dimond that commanded them, were ſet upon by 14 or 15 of theſe Rogues at the ſhutting up of the Evening, within two Miles of Edinburgh; the others as ſoon as they diſcovered ours to be Engliſh, having the advantage of their Swords ready drawn under their Cloaks, immediatly fell upon them with Sword and Piſtol; ours was not much unready, nor turning their backs, becauſe of their number, preſently fell to defending themſelves: they fought with them about a quarter of an Hour, laid three of them ſprawling upon the Ground before them, wounded moſt of the reſt, routed them, and came off without any hurt. Many of the like happen, but our Men being now upon their conſtant Watch, ſeldom come off with the worſt. You ſee with what danger notwithſtanding we are in by ſuch private lurking Enemies as theſe are: nevertheleſs the Committee of Eſtates have taken into conſideration, and uſed means to give ſatisfaction to all our loſſes in this kind, and to prevent the like for the future, as by the incloſed Paper you will perceive, which hath given us ſome Incouragement.

But we hope our ſtay will not be long now; about 14 days will give us a diſmiſſion, tho thoſe that are well-affected to this Committee of Eſtates are jealous that the malignant Party watch but an opportunity of our departure, and to ſhew themſelves again; and that is the cauſe, that by an advantage of our Preſence the Committee of Eſtates do think fit to put themſelves into a poſture of defence by continuing a ſtanding Force, for ſurpreſſing and keeping down of that Party, in caſe they do attempt any ſuch thing. Within this 14 days they will have compleated about 600 Horſe in ſeveral Troops, 4000 Foot, and it's conceived old Leſly will have the Command in chief. The next Convention of Parliament begins in January, for which the Members in the ſeveral Shires are already moſt of them elected; and thoſe that are well affected to the preſent Committee, ſay they are moſt of them well-choſen, ſo that the cruſhed Party muſt expect to be more trampled on.

given Commiſſion to Col. Rainsborow to command in chief before Pontefract-Caſtle, and that it tended much to his Diſhonour, having had the command of them hitherto, deſiring that the Houſe would take ſuch order that his Reputation and Honour might not ſuffer; that he would be very tender of his Honour, and would anſwer the Houſes expectation therein.

The new Forces in Kent that were not of the Army to be forthwith disbanded except 4 Companies.

The Houſe ordered that all the new Fores in Kent, not of the Army, ſhould be forthwith disbanded all but four Companys, and that the Committee of that County ſhould pay them off, and diſband them accordingly.

Gentlemen of 4 North Counties to meet at Baynards-Caſtle about ſettling the Counties.

Skippons Regiment marches.

This Night the Scots Commiſſioners came Poſt hither.

The Lieut. General, Sir Arthur Haſlerig, and the Committee of Cumberland, have ordered the ſlighting of Cockermouth-Caſtle, and Appleby. Tueſday next the Gentlemen of the four Northern Counties are to meet at Baynards-Caſtle, to conſider of ſettling the Counties into an Aſſociation. The Lieut. General and Sir Arthur will be there. The Van of our Army will be to morrow as far as Pomfret, to wit, Col. Sanders Regiment: Col. Prides Foot, &c. are about Richmond: this day we are to be entertained by the Mayor of Newcaſtle at dinner; we ſhall go to Durham at furtheſt to morrow morning: Major Gen. Skippons Regiment, that hath been ſo long at Newcaſtle, marches with the Army inſtead of Col. Overton, that is left in Barwick. The Biſhopricks Regiment of Horſe is left at Carliſle. Monday laſt when we came to this Town, we were entertained with many Guns, and ringing of Bells. The Committee of York have ordered the ſlighting of Knaresborow, Helmſley, Bolton, Mulgrave, Midleham, Sheafield, Wreaſtle, and Skipton. This Night the Scots Commiſſioners came Poſt hither; namely, Sir John Chieſley, Mr. Blayre the Miniſter, and two other Gentlemen: they are coming to London, to declare their diſlike of the late Armies coming in, and deſire a fair Correſpondency betwixt the Nations. To morrow we go to Durham, where we ſhall ſpend three or four days in Councils of War; 'tis thought the great Welſh Priſoners will be tried there.

Pendennis, October 18.

Sir Hardreſs Waller held a Council of War for trying one M. Richard.

Here hath been a dangerous deſign for betraying this ſtrong and conſiderable place, which was by corrupting ſome private Souldiers formerly of the King's Party: the deſign was managed by Major Groſſe, chief in the late Inſurrection at Penzance, who is ſince this diſcovery with divers of his Confederates fled to revolted Scilly. Since Hardreſs Waller hath held a Council of War, according to Power given him, and one hath been ſentenced to Death; there being like ground to proceed againſt one Martin Richard, who was employed to corrupt the Soldiers, and the chief Inſtrument to work the buſineſs, as himſelf confeſſeth; but being a Country man and no Souldier, ſome ſcruples aroſe about trying him. The Articles of War relating to Souldiers only, in which regard our Governour, whoſe faithfulneſs neſs and circumſpection is highly to be commended, hath recommended it to Parliament. Divers of Quality, beſides thoſe fled with Groſſe, being accuſed by thoſe taken, are gone ſeveral ways: this purports no great likelihood of an intended real Accord or Peace in England, theſe being ſet on work by greater.

The like to that part of his Anſwer concerning the aboliſhing of Popery, in deſiring to have it tolerated in the Queen's Chappel and for her Family: the like for alienating of Biſhops Lands, and ſale of Deans and Chapters, and many others, upon thoſe Reaſons preſented by that Committee.

A Meſſage to be ſent to his Majeſty to declare againſt the Rebellion and Truce in Ireland.

Letters from York of the Lieut. Gen. arrival at Newcaſtle.

By Letters from York, October 22. thus: The laſt told you, we were to be welcomed at Newcaſtle, we were received with very great acknowledgments of love, ſtay'd there three days, partly to give our Army a little reſt, alſo for the having our Train come up to us from Berwick. The 19*th* we were very ſumptuouſly feaſted by the new Mayor of Newcaſtle: the next day we came to Dureſme late in the Night: the next day we ſpent in trying Miſdemeanours, as not having had ſo much ſpare time ſince our Lancaſhire Buſineſs, which was no time ill ſpent.

The Committee's Letter to the Lieut. Gen. deſiring his March to Pomfret.

That Night there came a Letter from the Committee of York, deſiring the Lieutenant General to march to Pomfret to take the care of reducing that place: he ſent them word, that there were already upon their March two Regiments of Horſe, and two of Foot, which would be there in four or five days, and he would come himſelf with what ſpeed he could: he ſent for three Troops of Dragoons from Derbyſhire to meet him there, which he intends for the ſtrengthening of the Guards of Horſe; and to the Committee for one thouſand working Tools to be ready at his coming, as likewiſe what Carts they could ſend. Sunday we kept a day of Thankſgiving for the good Succeſs God has given us in our Expedition in Scotland. Monday was ſpent in Councils of War, where a Soldier was ſhot to death for plundering in Scotland. Tueſday we came to Barnard-Caſtle, where we had a Meeting with the Gentlemen of the four Northern Counties, who agreed upon a Petition, and ſigned it for the Parliament, for Juſtice againſt all Delinquents, and for a Commiſſion of Oyer and Terminer to be ſent down to try ſuch as they ſhould apprehend; and likewiſe a Letter ſigned by them to the Parliament, deſiring a Settlement of Pay for 1200 Foot in Barwick, and a Regiment of Horſe under Col. Fenwick, as likewiſe 800 Foot in Carliſle, and a Regiment of Horſe. A Breviate of what was concluded at this Meeting follows.

A Petition by Gentlemen of 4 North Counties.

“ That the moſt eminent Gentlemen of theſe Counties, or the moſt part of them who have been active in the late deſign againſt the Parliament, may be forthwith ſecured or removed, and that Order may be preſently iſſued forth for this purpoſe; which being effectually acted, we conceive leſs ſtanding Force will ſuffice.

“ That Order may be preſently given forth to the Commanders in chief of the Horſe in either Counties, Northumberland and Cumberland, for apprehending and bringing to the common Goal all Moſs-troopers; and that ſome active Men of each County, who do know the Borders, may be ſolicited for their concurrence herein.

“ That in regard the Counties are extreamly deſtitute of Mony, Corn, Firing, Hay, and other Goods, the ſtanding Forces, for avoiding of a Famine, which in appearance is to be feared, may be reduced to as ſmall a number as the preſervation of the Publick, and theſe parts, doth poſſibly admit: that ſome courſe may be inſtantly agreed on and taken for the preſent Maintenance of the Gariſons and other ſtanding Forces; and that the Parliament may be ſolicited, that this Maintenance may be at the common charge of the Kingdom, from which ſee the deſign not only putting out of Truſt, but ſecuring of all who have been in the late Engagement, which will be proſecuted to Dover and Kent, Rye in Suſſex, and the Mount of Cornwal.

Letters from St. Albans mention a Petition preſented to the Lord General from Col. Ingoldsby's Regiment at Oxford, which becauſe of publick Concernment, take as followeth.

To his Excellency, the Lord Fairfax, our Noble General;

The humble Petition of the Officers of Col. Ingoldsby's Regiment, in the behalf of themſelves and private Soldiers, now lying in the Gariſon of Oxford:

Sheweth,

THat your Excellency's endeavours and ours for common Freedoms have been ſo hazardous to us, ſo chargeable to the People, and ſo wonderfully owned by God himſelf, that once before and now again God hath given us a total Victory over the Enemies of our Liberties, and given thoſe into our hands that would have enſlaved us; ſo that nothing remains to be done to make and keep us and all he honeſt People of the Nation Freemen, and to make the hazards hazards of our Lives, and loſs of ſo much Blood to be effectual to us, but an immediate care that Juſtice be done upon the principal Invaders of our Liberties, namely, the King and his Party, whom the Parliament hath formerly declared no Addreſſes to: the Army likewiſe declared to live and die with them in the Proſecution thereof.

A Petition to the Ld Gen. at St. Albans.

That likewiſe ſufficient Caution, and ſtreight Bonds be given to future Kings for preventing the enſlaving the People hereafter; and that grounds of Encouragement be given to the People of ſucceeding Generations for defending themſelves againſt the like attempts: then might we with chearfulneſs return to our ſeveral Callings, hoping to live in Peace, bleſſing God for his Goodneſs.

But we are almoſt paſt hopes of obtaining theſe things, and it cannot but lie heavy upon our Spirits, to apprehend that all our Harveſt ſhould end in Chaff, and what was won in the Field ſhall be given away in a Chamber: For the Treaty now in hand is the matter of our preſent doubts, the Iſſue of it can neither be juſt nor ſafe. And ſeeing that upon the well or ill cloſing of our late and yet continued Diſtractions, depends the outward Weal or Wo of us and our Poſterity, and that is a thing ought to be looked after, as to the making ſucceſsful all our former Victories, which God hath bleſſed us with; We therefore humbly pray your Excellency, that you would be pleaſed to reeſtabliſh a General Council of the Army under your command, to conſider of ſome effectual Remedies hereunto, either by repreſenting the ſame to the Houſe of Commons, as the Petitioners of London and divers other places have done, or by ſuch way as your Excellency with your Council ſhall think fit in a buſineſs of ſo high concernment to 3 Nations, having expended ſuch vaſt quantities of Blood and Treaſure in hopes of better things.

And Your Petitioners ſhall pray, &c.

Tueſday, October 31. 1648.

Ordered that all Members pay Aſſeſſments to the Army.

THE Houſe this day called the Collectors of London before them; and one of their great Objections were, that few of thoſe that would not pay ſaid it was no reaſon that Members ſhould be excuſed; and tho there was a former Order for aſſeſſing of the Members, yet not any of them would pay. The Houſe therefore made an Order to enjoin all their Members to pay their Aſſeſments to the Army, equal with the reſt of the Subjects.

His Majeſty's Anſwer concerning the Church voted unſatisfactory.

The Houſe ſpent much time this day in debate of that part of his Majeſty's Anſwer concerning the Church, and voted it unſatisfactory.

Letters about Affairs in Ireland.

A Letter came from Sir Hardreſs Waller in further confirmation of the Lord of Ormond's being in Ireland to make Truce and join with the Rebels and the diſaffected Proteſtant Party of that Kingdom, the better to deſtroy the Forces under the command of Col. Jones and Col. Monk, by Commiſſion from his Majeſty. The Houſe hereupon ordered to refer this Letter to the Committee at Derby-Houſe, and the Committee of the Army.

AFTER our hearty Commendations, being arrived in this Kingdom, qualified with a Power to treat, and conclude a Peace with the Confederate Roman Catholicks, or ſuch as ſhall be deputed or authorized by them in this behalf, we have thought fit by theſe our Letters, to make the ſame known to the Aſſembly of the ſaid Confederate Roman Catholicks now at Kilkenny, as alſo in purſuance of the Paper of the 13th of May laſt delivered to their Commiſſioners at St. Germains; we expect them that have been wrong'd. The Committee of Eſtates do what they can to ſettle the Kingdom, they have made new Committees for Sea and Land; and moſt Officers, where any have been forward in the late Engagement, are ſet aſide. They have damn'd their Engagement in this City made for Money for the Party that were in England, and confirmed in a full Aſſembly of the States all their Tranſactions with Lieutenant General Cromwel. The Kirk-men go on with the greateſt earneſtneſs and ſeverity againſt thoſe of the new Engagement; not a Man is admitted to the Sacrament of them; divers of them return hither, and to other parts of this Kingdom, but are look'd upon with ſuch an evil Eye, that for want of relief they die in the high ways: An exceeding Eſteem by the well-affected is had here of the Engliſh, and particularly Lieutenant General Cromwel, and Sir Arthur Haſlerig are in high Honour, as ever Engliſhmen were in this Kingdom.

Proceedings in Parliament from November 1. till December 1. 1648.

Wedneſday, November 1. 1648.

An Ordinance for ſequeſtring Eſtates of new Delinquents in Eſſex.

AN Ordinance was this day read in the Houſe of Commons for ſequeſtring the Eſtates of the new Delinquents in the County of Eſſex, and imploying the Monies ariſing thereupon for the good of the ſaid County; and after the ſecond eading was committed.

The Houſe ordered that the Place in the Tower formerly beſtowed upon Mr. Nichols, one of the Members, ſhould be now conferred upon him during his Life by Patent; and the Commiſſioners of the Great Seal of England are required to paſs a Patent in uſual form for ſetling the ſaid place upon him accordingly.

His Majeſty's Meſſage concerning Ireland voted unſatisfactory.

The Houſe then reſumed the Debate upon his Majeſty's Letter, and fell upon that part of it concerning Ireland, and voted that the ſaid Meſſage of his Majeſty was unſatisfactory.

They then conſidered of that part of his Majeſty's Meſſage concerning the levying of Moneys for the payment of the publick Debts of the Kingdom, and voted that part likewiſe unſatisfactory.

The reſt of the Particulars of his Majeſty's laſt Meſſage, were ordered to be debated de die in diem till finiſhed.

The Murder of Col. Rainsborough, &c.

A Letter this day came from Doncaſter, That 40 Horſe ſallied out of Pontefract on Sunday Morning towards Doncaſter, and killed the Sentinel, then rid on; three of them came to Doncaſter, and asked for Col. Rainsborough's Quarters about five a Clock, and ſo to his Chamber, and there called to him, and ſaid they had a Letter from Lieutenant General Cromwel; the Colonel roſe and opened to them, for he expected ſuch a Letter as they pretended that morning; but they preſently got him down, and ran him into the Neck, and to the Heart, with other Wounds, and left him dead, and eſcaped without any hindrance given: his Corps was ſending up to London.

Thurſday and Friday, November 2. and 3.

Complaint of the Merchants trading to France, refer'd to a Committee.

A Petition was this day preſented to the Houſe of Commons from the Merchants trading into France, complaining of many Grievances in relation to their Freedoms. The Houſe referred it to the Committee of the Navy to conſider thereof, and to examine the ſaid Grievances mentioned in the Petition, and to report it to the Houſe.

His Majeſty's Meſſage deſiring the Primate of Armagh, &c. to be admitted to him.

A Meſſage this day from his Majeſty was read in the Houſe of Commons, deſiring the Primate of Armagh, Biſhop of Worceſter, Biſhop of Rocheſter, Dr. Ferne, and Dr. Morley may be admitted to him with all convenient ſpeed, that ſo his Majeſty may receive all poſſible Information for the clearing his Judgment in a matter nearly touching his Conſcience.

The Houſe order'd the ſame.

The Houſe in debate thereof ordered that Dr. Uſher, Dr. Bramhall, Dr. Prideaux, Dr. Warner, Dr. Ferne, Dr. Morley, ſhould have leave to go to the Iſle of Wight, and confer with his Majeſty about ſatisfying his Judgment concerning the buſineſs of the Church.

The Houſe agree for 14 days longer Treaty with his Majeſty.

The Houſe conſidered of the Meſſage ſent yeſterday from the Lords, deſiring the Concurrence of the Houſe of Commons to an Ordinance for prolonging the Treaty 14 days longer, and upon debate voted, that 14 days longer ſhould be added to the time of the Treaty with his Majeſty.

The Houſe ordered that the Lord Mayor of London, Alderman Reynoldſon, ſhould be deſired to call a Common Council upon Saturday, for that a Committee of Parliament ſhould come and propound ſome things to them from the Parliament.

A Common Council call'd.

A Committee was appointed to go and meet the Common Council on Saturday, and to propound unto, and deſire of them the Loan of 4000 l. for the maintenance of the Treaty 14 days longer, upon the ſame ſecurity as they advanced the former 10000 l. upon.

Lieut. General order'd to take care to find out the Murderers of Col. Rainſborow.

The Commons took notice of the horrid murder of Col. Rainſborow at Doncaſter, and thereupon ordered that it ſhould be referred to Lieut. General Cromwel to take ſpecial care, and make ſtrict examination concerning the ſaid Maſſacre, and to certify it with all ſpeed to the Houſe.

Letters came from the Commiſſioners in the Iſle of Wight, and his Majeſty's Anſwer to the declaring againſt the Lord Ormond's joyning with the Rebels in Ireland to deſtroy and maſſacre the Proteſtant Forces; upon the reading whereof the Houſe voted his Majeſty's Anſwer concerning the declaring againſt the Conjunction of the Lord of Ormond's Forces with the Rebels of Ireland is unſatisfactory, his Majeſty juſtifying the ſaid Ormond in that bloody and traiterous Act.

Saturday, November 4.

Six Commiſſioners ordered to continue the Treaty with his Majeſty.

THE Houſe of Commons this day voted, that all the Commiſſioners of Lords and Commons appointed to treat with his Majeſty in the Iſle of Wight ſhould have power to nominate any ſix of them to continue there upon this Buſineſs of the Treaty, and the reſt to return if they pleaſe to London. The Lords Concurrence being deſired therein, the Lords returned Anſwer, That any three of them ſhould have power to treat with his Majeſty, one Lord, two Commoners. The Commons agreed with the Lords in this.

A Debate concerning guarding the Houſe, and a Committee to confer with the Common Council.

The Commons ſpent much time in the Debate of the Report concerning the guarding of the Houſe, which was clearly and unanimouſly concluded to be in great danger by reaſon of the malignant Party who flockt up to London, and as is conceived upon ſome dangerous Deſign at the Breach of the Treaty, moſt of them having Daggers and Piſtols in their Pockets.

The Houſe ordered that a Committee of the Houſe of Commons ſhould confer this day with the Common-Council of London, concerning the Security of the Parliament and Kingdom, and to report with ſpeed.

Monday, November 6.

The Commons vote that Ld Digby, E. of Newcaſtle, and Sir Mar. Langdale, be 3 of the 7 exempted from Mercy.

THE Houſe of Commons ſpent this whole day in debate of the Perſons to be exempted out of Mercy upon the Propoſitions for Peace; and for the number of them, they agreed with the Lords that they be 7. The Queſtion then remained, whether thoſe 7 nominated by the Lords ſhould be them, but agreed not in this: wherefore entred into a particular debate of them, and voted that George Lord Digby, the Earl of Newcaſtle, and Sir Marmaduke Langdale, be three of them. The Earl of Derby was put to the Vote, but not carried; the reſt are to be voted to morrow.

An Ordinance for Committees and Sequeſtrators.

The Lords had read an Ordinance in purſuance of a former, requiring all Committees and Sequeſtrators to bring in their Accounts of what Money they have received in way of Sequeſtration, and how disburſt upon Oath, on pain of being ſequeſtred: And if any Falſhood be proved, they are to forfeit double the value, one Moiety to the Diſcoverer, the other to them that attend the Audit.

A Letter and Petition from the Gentlemen of the Northern Counties.

A Letter this day came to the Houſe from Barnards-Caſtle, directed to the Speaker, and a Petition incloſed, ſigned by the well-affected Gentlemen of the four Northern Counties. The Letter and Petition for better ſatisfaction take as followeth:

Mr. Speaker.

L*ieutenant General* Cromwel upon Conference with us Gentlemen of the four Northern Counties, conceives it neceſſary, That the ſtanding Gariſon of Berwick be 1200 Foot, and the Gariſon of Carliſle 800, and that there be alſo two Regiments of Horſe, conſiſting of 600 in a Regiment, to be ready upon all occaſions to reſiſt and oppoſe any Invaſion that may happen by Sea or Land, and to quell Inſurrections that may riſe among us, and to ſuppreſs the Moſs Troopers, they being now ſtronger than ever, many of the Enemies Horſe being gathered to them. We ſhall moſt really and heartily endeavour to the utmoſt theſe poor Counties are able: But Sir, you know our intolerable Sufferings, not only this Summer, but from the beginning of theſe Kingdoms Troubles; and our Petition doth a little ſet forth the ſad Condition that we are now in. We therefore moſt earneſtly intreat you to move the Houſe that theſe Forces both of Horſe and Foot may be maintained by the whole Kingdom, not only in reſpect of our extream Poverty and Diſabilities, but becauſe they are the frontier Gariſons between the two Kingdoms, and have ever been maintained by the Publick. We preſs this the more earneſtly, knowing the neceſſity of a ſpeedy Proviſion, and the impoſſibility for theſe Counties to provide for ſuch a force; and to what general way the Houſe pleaſes to appoint, we ſhall willingly and freely contribute our Proportions, and labour both in that and all other things to ſhew our ſelves,

Barnard-Caſtle,
October 25.
1648.

S I R,

Your faithful Servants.

To

Ann. 1648.

To the Honourable the Houſe of Commons,

The Humble Petition of the Gentlemen of the four Northern Counties at their Meeting at Barnard-Caſtle;

Sheweth,

“THAT your Petitioners had formerly ſome hopes, that lenity towards thoſe who had been in Arms and otherwiſe active againſt the Parliament, would ſo far have prevailed with them, that your Petitioners might have peaceably enjoyed their own habitations; but we have lately found by woful experience, that the permitting ſuch Perſons, eſpecially thoſe of intereſt in the County, to live amongſt us, hath brought moſt unſufferable miſery upon theſe Counties, inſomuch as we may juſtly fear the periſhing of many Families this Winter for want of Bread; Gentlemen of Quality and their Families having no other drink but Water: and as an exceeding addition to our former ſorrows, ſuffered this Summer by impriſoning our Perſons, diſpeopling our Towns, compelling all to bear Arms betwixt the age of 60 and 16, to aſſiſt againſt the Parliament, and by deſtroying our Corn and Goods, and killing our Neighbours and Countrymen, and driving away our Cattle.

“And alſo by bringing into the Kingdom a foreign Nation, and by treacherouſly ſurprizing and moſt baſely delivering into the Scots hands the two conſiderable Towns of Barwick and Carliſle; and by further aiding and aſſiſting of them towards the ſubduing and enſlaving of our Kingdom, that many of the Actors, Contrivers and Aſſiſters in that horrible and traiterous Deſign, not only againſt our Counties, but the Parliament and Kingdom, are after all their Summers abominable Treaſon and Outrages, now returned with much confidence and boldneſs to their own Houſes, intending to hatch, as we have cauſe to believe, new Plots this Winter amongſt us.

“The Premiſes conſidered, your Petitioners pray that Juſtice may be ſpeedily executed on ſuch implacable Enemies and declared Traitors to the Parliament, Kingdom and their Countries; and to that end a Commiſſion of Oyer and Terminer with learned and faithful Judges may be forthwith ſent down into theſe Northern parts, or ſuch other legal courſe reſolved on, as to your Wiſdoms ſhall ſeem beſt for their ſpeedy Tryals in theſe Northern Counties where they have committed the Offences; and that a Solicitor be forthwith ſent down into theſe parts, that ſuch as are fled out of the Kingdom or gone beyond Sea, may be proceeded againſt according to Law. We know no other way under God to prevent a new War, for many Delinquents late in Arms are not only returned to their own Houſes, but meet and have already their private conſultations, pretending Articles for their peaceable living at home, and are thereupon ſo inſolent, that they ride arm'd to publick places, and do not ſtick to ſay that they yet expect a turn for all this; and we find by experience that unleſs the Houſe do ſeverely proceed againſt ſuch notorious Delinquents, many of the People in theſe parts will adhere to them, and juſtifie their Actions, and be ready to riſe up in Arms with them upon all Occaſions. We preſs more earneſtly the granting of this, knowing that the Peace and Quiet of the North, if not of the whole Kingdom, depends upon it.

And we ſhall ever pray, &c.

The Petition read, but no Vote paſſed on it.

This Letter and Petition were read in the Houſe, but no Vote paſſed upon them.

At St. Albans the People cry out againſt Free-Quarter.

From St. Albans is certified, That on Saturday laſt there ſhould have been a meeting of Officers, but it is put off till Tueſday; that the cry of the untolerable burden of Free-Quarter is ſo great by the People in the ears of the Soldiers, that it is to be feared it will break out into ſome Diſtemper, let the Officers do what they can, if not timely prevented.

Letters

Account from Pontefract.

Letters by a Poſt extraordinary, who came to London on Saturday Night laſt from Pontefract, ſignify the great diſcontents of the County at Sir Henry Cholmleys ill management of the Siege againſt Pontefract, his Horſe permitting the Enemy ſince his laſt Letter to the Houſe, (wherein he ſaid he had coopt them up in the laſt hole) to fetch in 200 head of Cattle at a time, and all other ſorts of Proviſions, and to go out by parties, doing great miſchiefs, and more particularly the horrid murder of Col. Rainsborow, and to return back again at noon-time of the day, and not a Piſtol fired at them: ſome of his own Officers of Foot are bringing up Articles to the Houſe concerning him.

Lieut. Gen. continues near Pontefract to ſettle ſeveral Poſts.

Lieutenant General Cromwel is at Biron Houſe near Pontefract, and there continues till he hath ſo ſettled the ſeveral Poſts as that the Enemy may not, as they have done, break forth, plunder and undo the County; which done, he goes to the Head-Quarters, as expected.

Tueſday, November 7.

Greenvil, Jenkins, Dodrington and Winter be exempted from pardon.

THEY fell into debate, according to yeſterdays Order, concerning the reſt of the 7 exempted Perſons, and voted,

That Sir Richard Greenvil, Judg Jenkins, Sir Francis Dodrington and Sir John Winter ſhould be the reſt of the 7 excepted from pardon.

Letters from Scotland.

From Major General Lambert's Quarters yet in Scotland, came Letters November 1. thus.

The Major General is ſtill in this Kingdom, with three Regiments of Horſe waiting on the Pleaſure and Command of the Committee of Eſtates, and we are not like to remove till we have their Diſmiſſion, tho we all long to be in our own Kingdom again, and are in a great deal of bondage while we continue here, which I believe will be at leaſt ten days longer. They are very ſenſible of the great benefit they have of our Preſence here, becauſe they cannot act ſecurely without us, till their own Forces are compleated: we are no burden at all to the well affected, who were againſt the Engagement, quartering all together upon the contrary party, and have all this while lain in the County of Lothian till now. Colonel Twiſleton's Regiment is removed into the Merſe more Southward.

The Eſtates altered from Malignancy.

The Eſtates of this Kingdom are much altered of late; the malignant party being pulled down, and the other ſet up: but the alteration is good, if they have hearts and wiſdom to make a right uſe of it.

The new Parliament to meet January 10th.

The New Parliament was laſt Week indicted at the Market-Croſs at Edinburgh, to convene the tenth of January next.

The Prince has the Small Pox.

English Merchants ſeek reparation for their Loſſes.

By Letters from the Hague, it is advertiſed that the Prince is there ſick of the ſmall Pox; the Duke much feared. Some Engliſh Merchants that had their goods taken by the revolted Ships, are come hither for reparation, ſeeking a courſe againſt the Officers, which they hope in Juſtice cannot be denied. Theſe things and the diſorders of the Seamen, with want of Money, cauſe great combuſtions. Upon diſcontent the Ld Willoughby and Sir W. Batten have left the Prince, and Prince Rupert is now Admiral; ſpeaks big words that he will out in deſpite to the Earl of Warwick, and with a good Wind get for Ireland; yet their Reſolutions depend much upon ſucceſs of the Treaty. The Lord Culpepper diſcontented is gone to Vienna; divers Meetings have been between ſome of the Engliſh of the Princes Party and others of the Parliament: The Royaliſts are willing to come in in caſe the Treaty ſucceed not: Meſſengers have been ſent to Ireland and no anſwer, which puts all to a ſtand; divers Iriſh Ships are in theſe parts, to whom repair divers diſcontented, and all for Ireland, not knowing whither elſe to go.

Wedneſday,

An. 1648.

Wedneſday, November 8.

The ſad condition of Plymouth Gariſon.

A Letter was read this day in the Houſe from Col. Welden Governour of Plymouth, ſetting forth the ſaid condition of that Gariſon for want of Pay.

Aſſignments for paying Sir H. Wallers Forces.

The Houſe ordered upon this Letter that the Aſſignments laid near Plymouth for payment of Sir Hardreſs Waller's Forces, be laid elſewhere of further diſtance from Plymouth; and that thoſe Aſſignments be made over to Col. Welden for payment of the Gariſon of Plymouth.

Berwick and Carliſle referred.

The Houſe ordered that the conſideration of the Gariſons of Barwick and Carliſle ſhould be referred to the Committee of Derby-Houſe.

The Houſe conſidered of raiſing Monies for disbanding the Lancaſhire Forces, and ordered Monies accordingly, and ſent to the Lords for their concurence.

The reſt of this day was ſpent in debate whether any more than 7 ſhould be exempted from pardon; and when the Queſtion was put, it was carried in the Negative voice.

Both Houſes agree to pay off the Parliament Guards.

A Meſſage was ſent to deſire their Lordſhips concurrence for an Ordinance for advancing of Monies for pay of the Parliaments Guards, by ſuch Monies as ſhall be lent unto Haberdaſhers-Hall; they who lent formerly to double theirs according to the Order of Biſhops Lands. To which their Lordſhips concurred with ſome amendments, and added five Lords to that Committee, viz. the Earl of Lincoln, Earl of Mulgrave, Earl of Rutland, Earl of Suffolk, Lord Hundſdon. And a proportionable number of the Houſe of Commons are to be added.

Another Meſſage was for the diſpoſal of 300 l. formerly allowed for the Lord Willoughby of Parham before he deſerted the Parliament, but nothing done upon it.

Several Lords and Commons come from the Treaty.

This day came ſeveral Lords and Commons from the Treaty, divers of his Majeſty's being come before; there ſtay behind the Lord of Northumberland, Mr. Pierpoint and Mr. Holles.

A Dunkirk Frigot with Iriſh taken near New-port.

There was laſt Week a Ship called a Dunkirk-Frigot, manned with Iriſh, taken near Newport; it was conceived ſhe hovered there for ſome end, and more than ordinary.

His Majeſty ſticks at the word Biſhop, &c.

His Majeſty hath made his further condeſcenſion concerning the Church, but ſticks at the word Biſhop, yet is content he ſtands in condition only of a primer Presbyter; nor is he willing Biſhops Lands ſhould be ſold.

The deſperate condition of Ireland.

Letters from Ireland ſpeak further of the deſperate condition of that Kingdom, and the particular diſtreſs of the City of Dublin without preſent relief; but Col. Jones and Col. Monk reſolve to ſtand to their Principles, and improve that ſtrength they have to the beſt advantage for defence of the Proteſtants againſt that horrid Ingagement with the Rebels.

The Council of War concern'd for the odium of Free-Quarter.

Lieut. Gen. expected after his Inquiſition about Col. Rainsborough's Murder.

From the Head Quarters at St. Albans, Letters ſpeak of the meeting of the General Council of the Army this day there: the Officers expreſs great ſorrow for the Odium caſt upon the Army by Free-Quarter, and conceives there's a deſign to ſtop pay, purpoſely to continue it: much could not be done at this their firſt Meeting, they ſit again on Friday. The Lieutenant General is not yet come, but ſhortly expected, he hath much to do in the North about ſettling the Sieges at Pontefract and Scarborough. A Committee do alſo meet with the Lieutenant General by way of Inquiſition after the death of Col. Rainsborow, whoſe Body will be in London on Tueſday next to be honourably interred.

Thurſday, November 9.

The Committee of the Tower to adviſe about the ſecurity of it.

THE Houſe this day was informed that the Tower of London was in ſome danger of ſurprizal by reaſon of much reſort thereunto by Malignants and other deſperate Perſons, and having an inconſiderable Guard beſides, which with the diſaffection of many of them did occaſion much fear thereof. The Houſe hereupon ordered that it ſhould be referred to the Committee of the Tower to adviſe with the Lieutenant thereof concerning the ſecurity of it, and that they have power to remove what Guards they ſhall think fit, and appoint others in their ſtead.

The Committee of the Counties to receive ſecurity of all Delinquents not compounded.

They ordered that an Ordinance ſhould be brought in to this purpoſe, to require and authorize all the Committees of the ſeveral Counties of this Kingdom to receive very ſufficient ſecurity of all the Delinquents in their Counties that have not compounded for their Delinquences, not to ſtir above 5 Miles from the place of their abode, and to act nothing prejudicial to the Parliament; and ſuch Delinquents as ſhall refuſe to give the ſaid ſecurity, to be forthwith ſecured by them.

Some of the Commiſſioners report the buſineſs of the Church.

Some of the Commiſſioners of the Parliament being returned from the Iſle of Wight, reported to the Houſe their Tranſactions upon the buſineſs of the Church, and other things in relation to the Treaty, and the laſt Papers betwixt his Majeſty and them, which are as followeth.

His Majeſty's Final Anſwer and Conceſſions concerning the Church and Biſhops, delivered to the Commiſſioners the 4th inſtant.

FOR a Final Anſwer to you, as to the Paper of the firſt of this inſtant, and the Votes therein mentioned concerning the Church, his Majeſty ſaith, That his Conceſſions expreſſed in that Paper and miſapprehended in theſe particulars following, viz. He neither did nor doth intend to make any more new Biſhops during the term of 3 Years; now in the end of 3 Years that the power of Ordination ſhould be practiſed in the old manner as formerly: heretofore the Biſhops were at liberty to call what Presbyters they would to aſſiſt in Ordaining, but were not bound to their Counſel or Conſent; but his Majeſty doth now intend and will conſent that Biſhops ſhall not receive any into holy Orders without the conſent of a limited number of Presbyters to be choſen in ſuch manner as ſhall be agreed on by his Majeſty and his two Houſes for that purpoſe: neither did his Majeſty intend that after the end of three Years no certain way ſhould be ſettled concerning Eccleſiaſtical Government, for that his Majeſty did propoſe during the three Years to have a conſultation with the Aſſembly of Divines, twenty being added of his own Nomination; which if his two Houſes ſhall reſolve to entertain, it cannot well be doubted, but upon the debate ſuch a Government will be agreed upon by his Majeſty and his two Houſes, as ſhall be beſt for the Peace of the Church, and moſt proper to prevent thoſe diſtractions which his two Houſes apprehend may enſue.

His Majeſty will make no new Biſhops for 3 Years.

Biſhops to receive none into Orders without the Presbyters.

His Majeſty will uſe another Form of Prayer.

And as to that part of the Propoſition concerning the Book of Common Prayer; for the Satisfaction of his two Houſes, his Majeſty will not inſiſt upon any proviſion for continuance of the ſame in his Majeſty's Chappel for himſelf and his Houſhold: nevertheleſs his Majeſty declares, that he intends to uſe ſome other ſet form of Divine Service.

Ann. 1648.

Conſents to prevent ſaying Maſs in the Court, &c.

And as to that part of the Propoſition, that an Act or Acts be paſſed for a ſtricter courſe to prevent the ſaying and hearing of Maſs in the Court, or any other part of the Kingdom, or the Kingdom of Ireland, his Majeſty will conſent thereunto.

As to all other Particulars in your Paper mentioned, his Majeſty having in his former Anſwers conſented ſo far as poſſibly he can, as he ſtands at preſent perſwaded in his Judgment, doth refer himſelf thereunto; and ſince his Majeſty by his Conceſſions hath brought all differences concerning the Church into ſo narrow a Compaſs, that the chief viſible Obſtruction is that wherein really in conſcience he is not ſatisfied, he hopes his two Houſes will not put further Preſſures of ſo tender a nature upon him, when it is moſt likely the time and debate will happily reconcile all theſe Differences.

Newport, November 4. 1648.

To this the Commiſſioners gave in a Paper as followeth:

His Majeſty's particular Exceptions deſired to the ſaid Ordinances, &c.

“WHereas we by our Paper of the third inſtant deſired your Majeſty to expreſs your particular Exceptions to the Ordinance mentioned and contained in the Propoſition concerning the Church, unto which your Majeſty by your Anſwer thereunto this 4th inſtant is pleaſed to ſay, thoſe Ordinances being many and large, and that after this day we can receive no more Papers without further Inſtructions; and therefore conceive your ſelf ſo limited in time, that your Majeſty cannot ſo ſuddenly give your particular exceptions to the ſaid Ordinance: We humbly conceive thoſe Ordinances having been many days ſince the beginning of this Treaty in your Majeſty's hands, and under your Majeſty's Conſideration, the ſame cannot be new unto your Majeſty; and therefore we again humbly deſire your Majeſty to expreſs your particular Exceptions to the ſaid Ordinances, as by our ſaid Paper of the third of this inſtant we have formerly deſired.

His Majeſty replies as followeth

His Majeſty excepts againſt the form of the Ordinances.

FOR a final Anſwer to you as to your Paper of the fourth inſtant, whereby you deſire his Majeſty to expreſs his particular Exceptions to the Ordinance mentioned of the Propoſitions concerning the Church, his Majeſty ſaith, That by his Anſwer of the ninth of October he did expreſs the general Reaſon why he did not conſent to the ſeveral Ordinances in the form they are now penned, and that he heard no more thereof until he received your Paper late in the Evening laſt night: ſo that thoſe Ordinances have been many days in his Majeſty's hand, and are not new unto him; yet this being the laſt day wherein you by your Inſtructions can receive any Papers from him, his Majeſty cannot in ſo ſhort time review the ſeveral Ordinances, and ſtate the particular Exception thereunto, and therefore he adheres to his former anſwer therein.

Ld General's Letter concerning free Quarter.

SIR,

Having had a Meeting of divers Officers of the Army, I apprehend their general ſad Reſentment of the many Preſſures now lying upon the Kingdom; in particular, that of free Quarter, whereby they and the Souldiers under their command, who have faithfully ſerved their Generation, are even a burden to themſelves, becauſe they are ſo much to the poor Country, which is the more grievous to them, becauſe they have generally paid their Aſſeſſments, and yet the Army not enabled to pay their quarters, or provide themſelves Neceſſaries againſt the Injury of the approaching Seaſon. I hoped e'er this we ſhould have received ſome good fruit of your laſt being with us, the matters then agreed being of ſuch publick Concernment, and ſo much requiring expedition. I deſire you to improve your utmoſt endeavour for a quick diſpatch in providing effectually for the Premiſes, to prevent thoſe ill Conſequences which otherways delay therein may produce: I requeſt you to communicate this to the Houſe; ſo hoping to hear ſpeedily from you, I remain

Your very aſſured Friend,

Fairfax.

From the North this day, and firſt from Major General Lambert's Quarters upon his march back out of Stotland, Nov. 9. thus:

Lambert's diſmiſſion from the Committee of Eſtates, &c.

WE have received a diſmiſſion from the Committee of Eſtates, and are upon our march for England; yeſterday Col. Twiſleton*'s Regiment marched over* Twede, and are towards Hexam on that ſide. This day the Major General and Col. Lilburn*'s march over alſo nearer* Berwick, and march on that ſide. The Major General will be this night at Berwick; on Monday laſt he went to Edinburgh to take his leave, and the Committee of Eſtates gave him many Expreſſions of thanks for his Service done to this Kingdom, which I believe will not end ſo, without ſome farther Token and Teſtimony thereof. At out coming out of Edinburgh, they gave us ten pieces of Ordinance from the Caſtle for a Farewel.

From near Pomfret, November 11. We were going on with the Siege, or blocking up of Pomfret to admiration, conſidering our Wants, compared with the Seaſon and diſcouragements from your parts: upon our approach in order to a cloſe ſiege, the Enemy the laſt night quit the New Hall which they had fortified, and ſet it on Fire; our Men ſuddenly quench'd it, it became a very advantageous place and quarter, in reference to a cloſe Siege. We have poſſeſſed alſo a ſtrong Houſe near the old Church, ſo that there comes not out a Man: the caſe is altered with them, we go on apace with our Line, my Lord General and Col. Bright's Foot are upon Duty; alſo Col. Fairfax*'s and Col.* Maleveryes in the Town. We ſent them a Summons as followeth:

The Governour of Pontefract-Caſtle gave this Anſwer.

The Governor's Anſwer queſtioning his Power.

SIR,

I Am confident you do not expect that I ſhould paſs my Anſwer before I be ſatisfied that the Summoner has Power to perform my Conditions, which muſt be confirmed by Parliament: Beſides, the diſpute betwixt your ſelf and Sir Henry Cholmley, Commander in chief by Commiſſion of the Committee of the Militia of Yorkſhire, who, as I am informed, denies all Subordination to your Authority, when my Underſtanding is cleared in this concerning ſcruple, I ſhall endeavour to be as modeſt in my Reply, as I have read you in your Summons.

Your Servant,

John Morris.

For Lieutenant General Cromwel.

The Souldiers deſire a Summons.

Cholmley*'s Horſe will be disbanded.*

Cholmley's Horſe are ſupplied.

The Souldiers called over the Walls, asking why they had not a Summons, by which we conceive the Governour did not let them know he had received one. Col. Cholmley's Horſe will be disbanded by the Committee, we like well Col. Bethel's. Langdale is eſcaped out of Priſon at Nottingham. Scarborough will not hold out long, the Men run ſo faſt away. Col. Cholmley's Horſe now diſcharged, are ſupplied by the Regiments of the Lieutenant General's, Col. Harriſon's, and the Dragoons.

Tueſday, November 14.

The Lords are for baniſhing the 3 Peers, which may begin at their Houſe.

THE Lords at a Conference this day, declared to the Commons that three of thoſe which they voted to be baniſhed are Peers of the Houſe; yet to avoid differences they concur to thoſe 3 to be baniſh'd; only the Ordinance, in reſpect of their Privileges, they deſire may begin at their Houſe: and to the other 4, their Lordſhips do concur; and their Lordſhips deſired that the Ordinance may be ſpeedily diſpatched, becauſe the Lords have given them but 14 days time to be gone, after the paſſing of the Ordinance.

His Majeſty conſents to the little Catechiſm, and that the Parliament diſpoſe of great Offices for 20 years.

This day a Meſſage came from his Majeſty of further condeſcenſion upon the Treaty, viz. That he did conſent to the little Catechiſm, with the addition of a Preface; and alſo that the Parliament diſpoſe of all great Officers for twenty years, as they deſire.

This day came Letters from the Earl of Warwick, and a Declaration in vindication of himſelf from the Scandal caſt upon him concerning his Proceedings; which is as followeth.

The Earl of Warwick's Declaration.

"HAving this day ſeen a Letter from London, dated the third of this inſtant November; importing, That there is a Pamphlet printed, intituled, A Declaration of the Earl of Warwick, ſhewing his Reſolution to join with the Prince, if the Treaty take not effect; I thought my ſelf bound to take notice of it, having ſo horrid a Reflection upon my Honour, and wickedly aſperſing me with a ſuppoſed Reſolution, ſo repugnant to the Truſt which I hold under the Parliament: and therefore I do hereby declare, That as both Houſes of Parliament have been pleaſed to intruſt me with the Charge of the Fleet; ſo I have endeavoured to improve that Authority committed to me, with a faithful and inviolable reſpect unto my Duty.

"When I firſt undertook this great Charge, I was really ſenſible how much the Cauſe, Truth, and Glory of God, the ſettlement of my Country's Peace, and the preventing of the bloody and deſperate Deſigns of the Enemies thereof, depended upon the management of this Expedition; and how much I was obliged in Conſcience and Honour to omit nothing that might have a tendency to thoſe ends: That Obligation I have, according to my beſt Reaſon and Judgment, faithfully diſcharged, and by the Bleſſing of Heaven have received this fruit, notwithſtanding the many Obſtructions and Difficulties that intervened; that the Honour of the Parliament by Sea is cleared; the Fleet committed to my Charge preſerved in a condition of Honour and Safety; the Affections of the Seamen ſettled; the Deſign of thoſe wicked Revolters, that perfidiouſly betrayed ſo conſiderable a part of the Kingdoms Navy, broken, and ſuch as aſſociated with them either rendred or reduced, other than thoſe few that for a while have baſely ſheltered themſelves within the Sluce at Helver, and one that was out of his Harbour when I came into it. And as to the pretended Reſolution of my joining with the Prince, in caſe the Treaty ſhould not take effect, falſly charged upon me by that Pamphlet;

"I do profeſs in the preſence of God, who knows my Heart and Ways, that it never entred into my thoughts, and that my Soul abhors it, as inconſiſtent with my Duty, prejudicial to the Parliament, deſtructive to the Kingdom's peace, and unworthy of a freeborn Engliſhman; being confident that the Parliament will omit nothing on their part to make the Iſſue of the Treaty, by God's Bleſſing, ſucceſsful and happy: and therefore, as I have hitherto been faithful to the Kingdom, and to the Parliament, where I have the Honour to ſit as Peer; ſo I do and ſhall ſcorn to ſacrifice my Conſcience, and thoſe publick and dear Concernments of my Country, wherein I have a Portion, to this miſled Fancy of any Perſon, of what rank, quality, or condition ſoever: and while I have a heart and hand, I ſhall not fail, by God's aſſiſtance, to have them on all occaſions lifted up for the Service of the Par“liament, and common Intereſt of England, with my uttermoſt Integrity, and to my higheſt hazard; and my Actions ſhall confute the Lies and Jealouſies as well of that falſe Author, as of any other, who either from an Ignorance of my Proceedings, or perhaps from a ſenſe of their own guilt, dare take the freedom in theſe times, wherein the Tongue and Preſs aſſume ſo luxurious a Latitude, ſo unjuſtly to beſpatter my Honour and Intentions; to vindicate the ſincerity whereof I ſhall commit my ſelf to him that judgeth righteouſly.

Wedneſday, November 15.

COL. Roſſiter coming this day into the Houſe, they ordered that the Thanks of the Houſe ſhould be given to him for his great Services to this Kingdom, and for all the hazard undergone, and Blood that hath been ſhed for them; and accordingly Mr. Speaker gave him the hearty thanks of the Houſe.

Thanks given to Col. Roſſiter for his Services to the Kingdom.

According to former order the Houſe fell upon debate of the Report of the Committee to whom the conſideration of his Majeſty's Propoſitions were referred. The Houſe upon debate thereof paſt ſeveral Votes thereupon.

1. That concerning his Majeſty's coming to London, it ſhall be with freedom, ſafety, and honour, ſo ſoon as the Conceſſions of the Treaty are concluded and agreed.

The Houſe voted his Majeſty's coming to London with freedom, &c.

2. That his Majeſty ſhall have his Lands and Revenues, what is legally his, made good unto him, according to the Laws of the Kingdom.

3. What his Majeſty ſhall paſs away of his legal Rights, his Majeſty ſhall have allowance in compenſation thereof.

4. That an Act of oblivion be preſented to his Majeſty to be paſſed, with ſuch Limitation as ſhall be agreed on by both Houſes of Parliament.

Theſe Votes were accordingly agreed upon by both Houſes of Parliament, to be ſent to his Majeſty.

A Letter this day came from Lieutenant General Cromwel, acquainting them with the Condition of his Forces now laid down before Pontefract-Caſtle, and that they cannot be able to carry on that work, or that of Scarborough, unleſs Ammunition be ſpeedily ſent down unto them.

Lieut. General cannot go forward in the Siege of Pomfret nor Scarborough without Ammunition.

The Houſe hereupon ordered that it ſhould be referred to the Committee of the Army, to conſider of the ſeveral Particulars mentioned in the Lieutenant General's Letter, and to ſupply them with all convenient ſpeed.

A Committee order'd to ſupply them.

They likewiſe ordered that the Lieutenant of the Ordinance ſhould be required to deliver out of the Stores remaining in his hands 250 Barrels of Powder, with Match and Bullet proportionable, for the better carrying on of the Work before Pontefract and Scarborough.

A Meſſage this day came from the Lords, deſiring the Concurrence of the Houſe to the ſeven excepted Perſons ſent down unto them, in which their Lordſhips had left out the Earl of Newcaſtle and Sir John Winter.

The Houſe ſpent much debate hereupon, and ordered that the Houſe adhere to their former Vote for the Earl of Newcaſtle to be one of the exempted Perſons.

They likewiſe adhered to their Vote for Sir John Winter to be excepted againſt.

For the Honourable William Lenthall, Eſq; Speaker of the Houſe of Commons.

Some chief Heads of the Remonſtrance, after the Preambulary Part, which is to ſhew the Meſſages of the King and Parliament ſeverally, alſo in all Treaties between them, eſpecially in that they are now in, with Reaſons therefore and Objections anſwered, from whence theſe Conſequences are drawn.

“ 1. THat they conceive the Parliament hath abundant cauſe to lay aſide any “ further Proceeding in this Treaty,and to return to their Votes of Non-addreſſes,
“ and ſettle with or againſt the King, that he may come no more
“ to Government ; and this, firſt by rejecting thoſe Demands of the King
“ for himſelf and Party, eſpecially concerning his Reſtitution and coming to “ London with Freedom ; and that they proceed againſt the King in way of Juſtice,for “ evils done by him, and in order thereto,to have him kept in ſafe cuſtody.
“ 2. To lay aſide that bargaining Propoſition with Delinquents, which “ will preſent the thing done by contract with the King, and not in a judicial “ way, and by that Power, that no Delinquents be partially dealt with, protected “ nor pardonable by other Power, only moderated upon ſubmiſſion: and “ among theſe Offenders they offer,
“ (1.) That the King be brought to Juſtice, as the capital cauſe of all.
“ (2.) That a timely and peremptory day be ſet for the Prince of Wales, and “ Duke of York, to come in and render ; if not, they be declared incapable of “ Government, or any right in England, and ſtand exiled for ever as Traytors ;
“ and if they render themſelves by the time, then the Prince to be proceeded againſt
“ or remitted as he ſhall give ſatisfaction, and the Duke the like, and “ that the Revenue of the Crown be ſequeſtred. Alſo the 10000 l. to be added,
“ be diſpoſed to publick uſe. (3.) That publick Juſtice may be done “ upon ſome capital Cauſers or Actors in the War. (4.) That the reſt upon “ ſubmiſſion may have mercy for their lives. (5.) That the Soldiers have “ their Arrears, publick Debts paid, chiefly to thoſe who voluntarily laid out
“ their Eſtates, and ventured their Lives, and this to be done by Fines of Delinquents,
“ and the Eſtates of thoſe excluded from Pardon. After publick “ Juſtice thus done, then that a reaſonable certain period be put to this Parliament.
“ There want a hundred good Laws, as many to be repealed, as many
“ to be explained, muſt not that be firſt done? and at this period it may be agreed “ that there be a certain ſucceſſion of future Parliaments Annual or Biennial,
“ with ſecure Proviſion, (1.) For the certainty of meeting. (2.) For equal “ diſtribution of Elections, to render the Commons Houſe an equal Repreſentative.
“ (3.) For certainty of the Peoples meeting, and that none
“ who have engaged in the late War, or ſhall engage againſt the right of Parliament
“ and Kingdom, or adhere to the Enemies thereof, be capable of electing “ or being elected, during ſome Years, nor thoſe who ſhall not join with “ but oppoſe this Settlement. (4.) For clearing the Power of this Repreſentative,it “ be declared to have the ſupream power,as to the governing and preſervation
“ of the whole, as to the People of England, and to altering, repealing, or aboliſhing
“ of Laws,the making War or Peace,the higheſt or final Judgment in all “ civil things ; and all Miniſters or Officers of State ſhall be accountable to them, “ bound and concluded thereby, provided, 1*ſt*, They may not cenſure or queſtion
“ any man after the end of this Parliament for any thing ſaid or done in reference “ to the late War. 2*dly*, They may not render up, give or take away any

Thurſday, November 23.

THIS day came Letters to the Houſe from the Commiſſioners with his Majeſty, and his Majeſty's ultimate Anſwer concerning Biſhops and Biſhops Lands as followeth, with the Commiſſioners Anſwer. Newport, November 18. 1648.

His Majeſty's Anſwer to the Commiſſioners Paper about the Church.

His Majeſty's Anſwer about the Church.

Charles R.

“IN Anſwer to your Paper of the 17*th* Inſtant, whereby you have acquainted his Majeſty with the Votes and Reſolutions of both Houſes of November 15. inſtant, and thereupon deſired his full aſſent to the ſeveral parts of the Propoſition mentioned in thoſe Votes, according to your former deſires contained in your Paper of the 25*th* of September concerning the Church:

“His Majeſty ſaith, that he hath well weighed and examined his Conceſſions to that Propoſition, and is very ſorry to find, that notwithſtanding all his care and endeavours to give his Houſes ſatisfaction mentioned in four Anſwers already given in to you upon that Subject, by which he hath conſented to whatſoever he dare with a good Conſcience grant, yet his Anſwers are ſtill returned back unſatisfactory. But his Majeſty upon peruſal of your former Papers, finds that the main diſſatisfaction of his two Houſes reſts in the matter concerning the abolition of Biſhops, Sale of their Lands, and his Majeſty's intention to uſe a form of Divine Service in his Chappels. As to theſe particulars, his Majeſty doth again clearly profeſs, that he cannot with a good Conſcience conſent to the total Abolition of the Function and Power of Biſhops, nor to the intire and abſolute Alienation of their Lands, as is deſired, becauſe he is yet perſwaded in his Judgment that the former is of Apoſtolical Inſtitution, and that to take away the latter is Sacrilege; neither can his Majeſty communicate in a publick Form of Divine Service, and adminiſtration of the Sacrament, where it is wholly uncertain what the Miniſter will offer to God; and therefore he cannot recede from his former Anſwer in any of thoſe particulars. And if his two Houſes ſhall ſeriouſly conſider how that his Majeſty by his former Anſwer hath totally ſuſpended Epiſcopal Government for three years, and after the ſaid time, limited the ſame in the Power of Ordination and Juriſdiction, and that the primitive Office of a Biſhop only is by him endeavoured to be preſerved, and that the Biſhops Lands are heavily charged with Leaſes for 99 years, and the Deans and Chapters, and other their Dependents taken away; his Majeſty is confident, his two Houſes cannot think it reaſonable in a matter of this nature to offer any violence to the Conſcience of their Soveraign, nor to ſuffer theſe differences which reſt in ſo narrow a Compaſs, to hinder the Settlement of ſo bleſſed a Peace in this Kingdom. And if his two Houſes ſhall not think fit to recede from the ſtrictneſs of their demands in theſe Particulars, his Majeſty can with more comfort caſt himſelf upon his Saviour's goodneſs to ſupport him, and defend him from all Afflictions, how great ſoever, that may befal him, than for any politick Conſideration, which may ſeem to be a means to reſtore him, deprive himſelf of the inward Tranquillity of a quiet Mind. Whereſore as to theſe Particulars before-mentioned, as alſo concerning the Articles of Religion, and what elſe remains in difference upon this Propoſition, his Majeſty adheres to his former Anſwers, and hopes that his two Houſes upon a review and further conſideration of his Reaſons, will therewith reſt fully ſatisfied.

The Commiſſioners Reply.

Newport, November 20. 1648.

The Commiſſioners Reply to his Majeſty's Anſwer.

"HAving peruſed your Majeſty's Paper of the 18*th* inſtant, given in as an Anſwer to ours of the 17*th*, which contained the Votes and Reſolutions of both Houſes upon ſome of your Majeſty's Anſwers to our deſires, expreſſed in a Paper of the 15*th* of September concerning the Church, We do humbly ſay, That the Houſes of Parliament did, as formerly, return thoſe Anſwers back as unſatisfactory, becauſe there were no Conceſſions of the thing deſired, which they had in their Judgments concluded to be ſo neceſſary for the good of the whole Kingdom, both Church and State, wherein they would not force your Majeſty's Conſcience, but deſire it may be informed, that ſo yours agreeing with theirs, who are your Great Council, there might be a Compliance throughout, and a Concurrence in theſe and all other things, for healing Breaches, compoſing Differences, and ſettling a bleſſed Peace within your Dominions: and therefore we in purſuance of their Directions have made bold to preſs your Majeſty ſo often both in our Papers and Debates, and muſt ſtill perſiſt.

"As for the Particulars inſiſted upon, firſt for the Abolition of Epiſcopacy, we take leave to ſay, It is not the Apoſtolical Biſhop, which the Bill deſired of your Majeſty intends to remove, but that Epiſcopacy which was formerly eſtabliſhed by Law in this Kingdom, grown up to a height of outward Pomp and Greatneſs, and found by experience to be a Grievance to the Subject, a hindrance of Piety, an encroachment upon the power of the Civil Magiſtrate, and ſo a burden to the Perſons, Purſes, and Conſciences of Men. Whereupon the Parliament finding it to be for the honour of your Majeſty and profit of the Subject to take it away, deſire this Bill for that purpoſe, not medling with the Apoſtolical Biſhop, nor determining what that Biſhop is whom the Apoſtles mention in Scripture, but only to put him down by a Law who was ſet up by a Law. Nothing can be more proper for Parliaments, than to alter, repeal, or make Laws, as experience teacheth to be for good of the Commonwealth: but, admitting that Apoſtolical Biſhops were within the purport of this Bill, we humbly conceive, it doth not follow, that therefore in Conſcience it muſt not be paſſed; for we may not grant, that no occaſion can make that alterable, which is found to have ſure foundation only in the practice of the Apoſtles, not in a Precept: we ſuppoſe that ſome things have been altered, which the Apoſtles practiſed. That Circumſtances many times change the nature of moral Actions: That for the attaining of a great Good, or the avoidance of a great Evil, that which ſingly conſidered were not fit to be done, perhaps a fault if it were, may become a Duty, and a Man be bound in Conſcience to do it: and if ever Circumſtances could have a more powerful and conſiderable operation than in this particular, we humbly leave to your Majeſty's Conſideration. But this is ſaid only by the way, and admitting for argument ſake, not granting the ground upon which your Majeſty is pleaſed to go in the refuſing to paſs this Bill.

That Biſhopricks being diſſolved, their Lands revert to the Crown.

"2. For the Sale of Biſhops Lands, which your Majeſty apprehends to be Sacrilege, we humbly offer that Biſhopricks being diſſolved, their Lands, as of all Corporations, naturally by the Law of our Land revert to the Crown, which is their Founder and Patron, and heretofore held it no Sacrilege to diſpoſe of Biſhops Lands to its own and others uſe by Act of Parliament, which was an ordinary practice in your Majeſty's Predeceſſors, Kings and Queens of this Nation: beſides, we might ſay, that in all ages, and even under the Ceremonial Law, imminent and urgent neceſſity, eſpecially by publick, hath diſpenſed with the otherwiſe imploying of conſecrated things.

"Then whereas your Majeſty is pleaſed to ſay, you cannot communicate in a publick Form of Divine Service, where it is uncertain what the Miniſter will offer to God; we humbly beſeech you to be informed, that the Directory which your Majeſty hath granted to eſtabliſh for three years, doth ſet down the matter of the Prayer which the Miniſter is to obſerve, only Words and Expreſſions, and Enlargements upon the Subject are left to his Diſcretion, for the exerciſe of his Gifts, ſo as the ſubſtance of what he is to ſay, will be manifeſted to your Majeſty. Yet give us leave to add further, it can be no Objection againſt joining with a Miniſter in prayer, not to know beforehand the very words that he will ſay; for then one muſt not hear any Prayer before Sermon, where every ſeveral Miniſter hath a ſeveral Form, and muſt vary ſtill according to occaſion.

“ Upon the whole matter we hope your Majeſty, after a more ſerious conſideration, will eaſily diſcern the juſt Cauſe which the two Houſes of Parliament have to remain, as they do, unſatisfied, ſeeing your ſuſpenſion of Epiſcopal Government for three years doth not meet with their Fears, nor can prevent the Inconveniences which muſt neceſſarily follow upon the return of Biſhops, and the Power which you reſerve unto them after the time. For firſt, a Biſhop ſo qualified as your Majeſty expreſſeth, ſhall riſe again then, is wholly in your Majeſty's Choice, and unavoidable by the Parliament, with whom, if you will not agree before, depends meerly upon your Majeſty's Will, no other Government can be ſet up; and then this Epiſcopacy returns, and that with ſo great Power, that the Biſhop may chooſe if any Miniſter at all ſhall be made in the Church of England, and thoſe that ſhall, to be at his Devotion, he having the negative Voice in Ordination, which we humbly conceive the Scripture holds not forth to have been in that Biſhop, who is there mentioned in thoſe Writings of the Apoſtle, and conſequently that which your Majeſty endeavours to preſerve not to be the primitive Office of a Biſhop.

“ Then the Lands which your Majeſty alledgeth to be ſo heavily charged with Leaſes of 99 years; we humbly ſay, there is a Rent which you are pleaſed to reſerve to him, and the Reverſion after thoſe years elapſed, ſo as the Proprietor and Propriety ſtill continues as before, and will be apprehended to be but a door left open for the ſame Greatneſs and Pomp, with the Conſequence thereof, to be re-admitted upon the firſt opportunity; which being, it will be impoſſible to free Mens Minds from fears, and the Diſtempers which thoſe Fears will occaſion: beſides, it cannot be expected the Presbyterian Government ſhould be complied with, and exerciſed with either Profit or Comfort to the Church in general, or to particular Perſons, either the Governors or the Governed ever had, ſeeing it is to be ſo ſhort-liv'd, and moſt Men ſo apt to reſiſt Government, who will thereby be ſo emboldned againſt this. So as it is much to be doubted, that what your Majeſty hath done, ſuppoſing it will quiet the preſent Diſtractions, and give way for calmer Debates afterwards, may rather be a means of further and greater Troubles, and put us at a larger diſtance from a Compoſure of the Buſineſs of the Church for the time to come, than we are now. And therefore we hope your Majeſty will pardon our preſſing in this manner, and not think it unreaſonable that the Houſes of Parliament do ſo inſiſt upon theſe particulars, which to them appear of ſo great Conſequence. The intention is not, as was ſaid before, to offer violence to your Majeſty's Conſcience, but that you would pleaſe to rectify it, by being better informed, that both your ſelf and People may have Cauſe of rejoycing upon theſe grounds and many more, too long to be here inſerted. We again humbly beſeech your Majeſty to review our former Papers, call to mind thoſe Reaſons and Arguments which in debate have been uſed upon this Subject, and ſuch other as your own Wiſdom upon the recollection of your Thoughts will ſuggeſt to you; and then all conſidered, that you will be pleaſed to give your Royal Conſent to the particulars above-ſpecified, according to our deſire expreſſed in our Paper of the 15*th* of September.

For his Excellency the Lord General Fairfax.

Lieut. Gen. Letter to the General.

My Lord,

I Find a very great ſenſe in the Officers of the Regiments, of the Sufferings and the Ruin of this poor Kingdom, and in them all a very great zeal to have impartial Juſtice done upon Offenders; and I muſt confeſs I do in all from my Heart concur with them, and I verily think and am perſuaded, they are things which God puts into our Hearts: I ſhall not need to offer any thing to your Excellency; I know God teaches you, and that he hath manifeſted his Preſence ſo to you, as that you will give glory to him in the eyes of all the World. I held it my duty, having received theſe Petitions and Letters, and being deſired by the Framers thereof, to preſent them to you; the Good Lord work his Will upon your Heart, enabling you to it, and the Preſence of Almighty God go along with you. Thus prays, my Lord,

THE Houſe gave thanks to their Miniſters, Mr. Sedgwick and Mr. Cocken, for their Sermons; and ordered Mr. Brooks and Mr. Watſon to preach the next Faſt-day.

A Letter from Col. Hammond with a Copy of Orders for ſecuring his Majeſty.

A Letter this day came from Col. Hammond from Farnham-Caſtle, with a copy of the Orders from the General Council of the Army, and their Letter to Col. Ewers and others for ſecuring his Majeſty's Perſon in the Iſle of Wight.

The Houſe acquaint his Excellency with a diſlike of the Orders for ſecuring the King.

The Houſe ordered that a Letter ſhould be forthwith ſent to his Excellency, to acquaint him that theſe Orders and Inſtructions from him to Col. Ewers, for ſecuring his Majeſty's Perſon in the Iſle of Wight, are contrary to their Reſolutions and Inſtruction given to Col. Hammond; and that it is the pleaſure of the Houſe, that his Excellency recal the ſaid Orders, and that Col. Hammond be ſet at liberty to attend his charge in the Iſle of Wight.

Thurſday, November 30.

THE Houſe had much debate this day whether the Remonſtrance of the Army ſhould be taken into ſpeedy conſideration, and it was reſolved in the Negative by near 90 Votes.

A Letter from his Excellency was reported from the Committee of the Army, wherein his Excellency takes notice that they intend not to furniſh him with any Monies for Contingencies, which of neceſſity muſt be had for pay of Meſſengers, and other daily and incident charges to the Army; and therefore his Excellency muſt be forc'd thereby to receive Monies for this purpoſe out of the Collectors and Receivers hands, where he can find it, if ſpeedy courſe be not taken to ſupply him.

His Excellency muſt be forced to receive Money from the Collectors, &c.

The Houſe ordered hereupon that it ſhould be referred to the Committee of the Army to take ſuch courſe as they ſhould think fit for pay of the Arrears of the Army.

The Arrears of the Army to be ſpeedily paid.

The reſt of this day was ſpent in a grand Committee to conſider of pay for the reduced Officers of the Kingdom.

From the Head Quarters was certified, That upon a very full Council this day, a Declaration was agreed upon in further proſecution of the ends of their late Remonſtrance, and alſo to declare the reſolution of the Army to march up to London: The Declaration follows.

A Declaration of a Council of War for further proſecution of their Remonſtrance, and the Army's Reſolution to march up to London.

The Declaration of his Excellency the Lord General Fairfax and his General Council of Officers, ſhewing the grounds of the Army's advance towards the City of London.

BEing full of ſad Apprehenſions concerning the danger and evil of the Treaty with the King, and of any accommodation with him, or reſtitution of him thereupon; We did by our late Remonſtrance upon the reaſons and grounds therein expreſſed make our application thereby unto the preſent Houſe of Commons, that the dangerous evil of that way might be avoided, and the Peace of the Kingdom ſettled upon more righteous, ſafe and hopeful Grounds, viz. a more equal diſpenſing of Juſtice and Mercy in relation to things done or ſuffered in the late Wars, and the eſtabliſhing of the future Government of this Kingdom upon a ſafe ſucceſſion and equal conſtitution of Parliaments; and that for the ending of preſent, and avoiding of future differences, to be ratified by an Agreement and Subſcription of the People thereunto.

This courſe we took out of our tender care, and earneſt deſire that all ways of Extremity might be avoided; and that thoſe matters of higheſt concernment to the publick Intereſt of this Nation might be purſued and provided for if poſſible by thoſe, whoſe proper work and truſt it was: and herein we are willing to hope, That the Perſons ſo truſted, or the majority of them, might poſſibly have been either driven into that deſtructive way by forcible Impulſions, or lapſed thereinto through ſome inconſideration or miſapprehenſions and conceived Jealouſies: and therefore we did carefully decline the inſiſting upon any thing that might continue or renew any former Jealouſies or Animoſities, and keep only to ſuch things as were of neceſſity or advantage to the common cauſe, and of common and equal concernment to thoſe that have engaged in it, which things we preſſed in the way of reaſon and perſuaſion, only that they might be duly and timely conſidered. But to our grief we find, inſtead of any ſatisfaction, or reaſonable anſwer thereto, they are wholly rejected without any conſideration of them, whatever Reaſon or Juſtice might be in the things ſet forth or propounded therein: for what leſs can be underſtood when the things propounded were mainly for the avoidance of evil appearing in the Treaty with the King? and yet they put off the conſideration of them, till there ſhould be no place for any conſideration at all. Firſt, laying it aſide till Monday laſt, by which time the Treaty, as then ſuppoſed, Anno 1648.

would have been concluded; but that failing, and two days more being added to the Treaty, the conſideration of our Remonſtrance in the day appointed was waved and laid aſide; the Treaty the mean while going on in the former Way and Terms, and like to be concluded the very next day. Now tho we are far from that preſumption that the things ſhould therefore be anſwered or conſidered, becauſe propounded by us, ſave for the Reaſon, Juſtice or publick concernment therein, yet having no Anſwer or any thing ſhewed us to the contrary, we cannot but, upon the grounds remonſtrated, and many more which might be added, remain confident in our former apprehenſions concerning them: and ſeeing the prevailing part of thoſe to whom we did apply, have as it were their eyes wilfully ſhut, and ears ſtopt againſt any thing of Light or Reaſon offered to them, we find no place left for our former charitable or hopeful Apprehenſions concerning their Error in ſuch evil ways, but remain fully aſſured of the danger and deſtructiveneſs thereof, as to all thoſe publick ends for which they were intruſted, and alſo of the juſt advantage and neceſſity which lie in the things we have propounded and inſiſt on. We now ſee nothing left to which their engaging and perſiſting in ſuch ways, and rejection of theſe better things propounded, can rationally be attributed, leſs than a treacherous or corrupt neglect of, and apoſtacy from the publick Truſt repoſed in them; altho we could wiſh from our Souls we might yet find the contrary, nevertheleſs we do not in theſe things aſſume a ſtanding power of Judgment as of right or truſt to conclude others thereby, acknowledging that to lie moſt properly in thoſe whom the People daily chooſe and truſt to judg for them. But the conſideration that ſuch Power where it is committed but in truſt, and that neither this nor any other People did ever give up their natural capacities of common ſenſe or reaſon as to the ends and Fundamentals of that Truſt; and that as to the breach of ſuch Truſt, there is no higher formal power of Man in being to appeal unto for judgment in ſuch caſe as all others concerned in ſuch breaches of Truſt will, ſo as we cannot but exerciſe that common Judgment which in our natural capacities is left to us: and tho in ſmaller failures of ſuch Truſt, which might be born without hazard of deſtruction to that Intereſt, and thoſe People for which eſpecially the Truſt is, or where the Truſtees were of an indifferent equal conſtitution in reference to the whole, or where we had an orderly and open way left for a juſt ſucceſſion of another formal and proper Judicature to be appealed unto in due time, we ſhould not oppoſe or hold forth our private Judgments to the leaſt diſturbance of that orderly and peaceable courſe of Judgment ſo eſtabliſh'd, yet in our preſent caſe we are ſo fully convinc'd of the greatneſs and deſtructiveneſs of thoſe evils we have declared againſt, and of the neceſſity and eſſentiality of thoſe better things we have deſired and propounded, and how inconſiſtent it is with the publick Truſt and fundamental Ends of it, ſtill to purſue the one and reject the other, as that we dare with confidence appeal therein to the common Judgments of indifferent and uncorrupted Men, and to the more righteous Judgment of God above all.

A treacherous or corrupt neglect of publick Truſt, to lay the Remonſtrance aſide.

Their Conviction of the great Evils they declare againſt.

The Parliaments Incompetency to judg of their breach of Truſt.

And as the Incompetency of this Parliament in its preſent Conſtitution to give an abſolute and concluſive Judgment for the whole, eſpecially to be the ſole Judges of their own performance of breach of Truſt, doth make the juſter way for ſuch an Appeal; ſo indeed we ſee no other way left for Remedy, in regard the preſent unlimited continuance of this Parliament doth exclude the orderly Succeſſion of any other more equal formal Judicature of Men, to which we might hope in due time other ways to appeal.

They appeal from this Parliament to the extraordinary Judgment of God for obtaining a more orderly Judicature, &c.

Thus when we apprehend our ſelves in the preſent caſe both neceſſitated to, and juſtified in an Appeal from this Parliament in the preſent Conſtitution as it ſtands, unto the extraordinary Judgment of God, and good People; and yet in the proſecution of this Appeal, as we ſhall drive it on, but to the ſpeedy obtaining of a more orderly and equal Judicature of Men in a juſt Repreſentative, according to our Remonſtrance, wherein to acquieſce, ſo in the preſent procuring of Juſtice with the Peoples eaſe and quiet, and in the ſettling of the Kingdom upon a due, ſafe, and hopeful Succeſſion of Parliaments, it is our hearts deſire, and ſhall be our endeavour, that ſo much both of the matter and form of the preſent Parliamentary Authority may be preſerved as can be ſafe, or will be uſeful to thoſe ends, until a juſt and full Conſtitution thereof, both for matter and form, ſutable to the publick ends it ſerves for, can be introduced.

And

An. 1648.

They ſhould rejoice if the majority of Commons were ſenſible of the evil of their late way, &c.

And therefore firſt, it ſhould be our great rejoycing, if God ſaw it good, that the majority of the preſent Houſe of Commons were become ſenſible of the evil and deſtructiveneſs of their late way, and would reſolvedly and vigorouſly apply themſelves to the ſpeedy execution of Juſtice, with the righting and eaſing of the oppreſſed People, and to a juſt and ſafe ſetlement of the Kingdom upon ſuch Foundations as have been propounded by us and others for that purpoſe, and would for the ſpeedier and ſurer proſecution of theſe things, exclude from Communication in their Councils, all ſuch corrupt and apoſtatized Members, as have appeared hitherto, but to obſtruct and hinder ſuch matter of Juſtice, Safety, and publick Intereſt, and to pervert their Councils a contrary way, and have therein ſo ſhamefully both falſified and forfeited their Truſt.

That the honeſt Members would by Proteſtation acquit themſelves, and withdraw from the reſt.

But however, if God ſhall not ſee it good to vouchſafe that Mercy to them and the Kingdom, we ſhall Secondly deſire, That ſo many of them as God hath kept upright, and ſhall touch with a juſt ſenſe of thoſe things, would by proteſtation acquit themſelves from ſuch breach of Truſt, and approve their faithfulneſs, by withdrawing from thoſe that perſiſt in the guilt thereof, and would apply themſelves to ſuch a Poſture whereby they may ſpeedily proſecute thoſe neceſſary and publick ends, without ſuch Interruptions, depravations of their Councils from the reſt to their endleſs Trouble, Oppreſſion and Hazard of the Kingdom as formerly: and for ſo many of them, whoſe Hearts God ſhall ſtir up thus to do, we ſhall therein in their caſe of extremity, look upon them as Perſons having materially the chief truſt of the Kingdom remaining in them; and though not a formal ſtanding Power to be continued in them, or drawn into ordinary Precedents, yet the beſt and moſt rightful that can be had, as the preſent ſtate and exigence of Affairs now ſtand: And we ſhall accordingly own them, adhere to them, and be guided by them in their faithful Proſecution of that Truſt, in order unto, and until the introducing of a more full and formal Power in a juſt Repreſentative to be ſpeedily endeavoured.

Theſe Proceedings are not for their own advantage but the publick Intereſt.

If they would anſwer their Remonſtrance, they would lay down Arms, &c.

Now yet further, to take away all Jealouſies in relation to our ſelves, which might withhold any honeſt Members from this Courage; as we have the witneſs of God in our Hearts, that in theſe Proceedings we do not ſeek, but even reſolve we will not take advantages to our ſelves, either in point of Profit or Power; and that if God did open unto us a way, wherein with honeſty and faithfulneſs to the publick Intereſt and good People engaged for us, we might preſently be diſcharged, ſo as we might not in our preſent Imployments look on, and be acceſſary to, yea ſupporters of the Parliament in the preſent corrupt oppreſſive and deſtructive Proceedings, we ſhould with rejoicing, and without more ado, embrace ſuch a Diſcharge, rather than interpoſe in theſe things to our own vaſt trouble and hazard: ſo if we could but obtain a rational aſſurance for the effectual proſecution of theſe things, we ſhall give you any proportionable aſſurance on our parts, concerning our laying down of Arms, when, and as we ſhould be required. But for the preſent as the Caſe ſtands, we apprehend our ſelves obliged in duty to God, this Kingdom and good Men therein, to improve our utmoſt abilities in all honeſt ways, for the avoiding of theſe great Evils we have remonſtrated, and for proſecution of the good things we have propounded; and alſo that ſuch Perſons who were the Inviters of the late Invaſion from Scotland, the Inſtigators and Encouragers of the late Inſurrections within this Kingdom, and thoſe forcible ways failing, have ſtill purſued the ſame wicked Deſigns by treacherous and corrupt Council, may be brought to publick Juſtice, according to their ſeveral Demerits. For all theſe ends we are now drawing up with the Army to London, there to follow Providence as God ſhall clear our way.

No abſolute Condeſcenſion yet of his Majeſty.

The Commiſſioners from the Treaty returned this day; no ſuch thing as an abſolute Condeſcenſion by his Majeſty to ſign the Propoſitions, but upon Terms: the Commiſſioners make their Report to the Houſe to morrow.

Col. Cook's Narrative, containing certain Paſſages which happened at the Iſle of Wight, about the King's being carried to Hurſt-Caſtle.

November 29. 1648.

Col. Cook's Narrative of the King's being carry'd to Hurſt-Caſtle.

‘THAT Evening between the Hours of 7 and 8, the King ſent for the Duke of Richmond, the Earl of Lindſey, and Col. Edward Cook, who were all three together at the Duke of Richmond's Lodgings at Newport in the Iſle of Wight, with all ſpeed to attend him, who accordingly haſtned to the Court.

‘The two Lords entring into the King's inner Room, whilſt the Colonel waited in the outward for further Orders.

‘The King acquainted the Lords, that one of his Servants had been ſent for by a Perſon in a kind of diſguiſe, who having inform'd him that the Army would that night ſeize upon the King's Perſon, abruptly left him.

‘The Duke of Richmond acquainting the King that Col. Cook attended without, was commanded to call him in. The King asked him whether he had heard any thing that the Army deſigned to ſeize upon him that night: he anſwered, Not any thing ſo much as tending towards it; adding, ſurely if he had he would have acquainted the King with it. The King giving the Colonel the reaſon of his queſtion, commanded him to find out Major Rolph, and enquire of him what he knew of it, who was then left as Deputy Governour by Col. Hammond, with Directions that on all occaſions he ſhould addreſs to the King through the ſaid Col. Cook, as himſelf had uſually done during the Treaty.

‘Col. Cook having the King's Commands and opportunity, finding Major Rolph in his Chamber, acquainted him that the King ſent him to enquire of him, whether the Army reſolved to ſeize upon him that night: he anſwered, Not as he knew of; adding, You may aſſure the King from me, that he may reſt quietly this night, for on my Life he ſhall have no diſturbance this night. Col. Cook obſerving he plac'd ſo much Emphaſis in thoſe words, this night, though that was all he was commanded from the King to ask, urg'd him further, whether there really was any ſuch Deſign at all: after a little pauſe, he anſwered, It was impoſſible for him to know the preſent Purpoſes of the Army at ſo great a diſtance, but that yet he had received no ſuch orders. The Col. replied, But if you ſhall hereafter, ſhall I be ſure ſo timely to be made acquainted with them, as that the King may not be ſurprized with the execution of them? To which requeſt he ſeemingly conſented, anſwering, that was but a due reſpect to the King.

‘Col. Cook returning to the King, gave an account of all theſe Circumſtances, who in the mean time having been informed that a conſiderable number of the Army were that night landed in the Iſland, commanded Col. Cook to Major Rolph to enquire the truth; who thus anſwered him, that he knew freſh Forces would e're long come over to relieve thoſe that then paſt on Duty there, but that as yet he was not certain of their being landed. Which anſwer alſo Col. Cook repeated to the King, who in that ſhort time of his Abſence had received a further information that 2000 Foot were ‘ drawn up about Cariſbrook-Caſtle, at which the King ſeemed to be moſt ſtartled, ſaying, Sure there muſt needs be ſome extraordinary Deſign on foot, that ſuch a body of men ſhould not only be ſo privately landed, but alſo in ſuch a bitter night as this is be expoſed to ſuch extremity of Weather, the wind blowing very high, and the rain falling very faſt; the King expreſſing a great deſire to be ſatisfied in the Truth of this, and doubting that he might not be clearly dealt with by Major Rolph. Col. Cook offered his Service to go and ſee, but the King, reflecting on the ſeverity of the Weather, refuſed to expoſe him, yet owning it an important Particular to be rightly informed of; which the Colonel obſerving, importuned the King, if he could ſo long be diſpenſed with from his Majeſty's Service there, that he would give him leave to go, he knowing no other Expedient for the King's certain ſatisfaction; he alſo preſt the Lords to intercede for him, and at laſt obtained leave from the King, his Majeſty adding theſe gracious expreſſions, That he hoped he being young and healthy would receive no prejudice by it, and that he might live to requite it, repeating his deſire to know the truth of it.

‘ The Col. took leave, and having ſoon got himſelf and Horſes ready, fortunately groped out his way through the dark, and found the Caſtle, which having carefully rounded, and finding no body without, went to the Gate, and having performed the uſual Ceremonies, as giving the word to the Corporal, and ſheltred himſelf under the Gate, ſent his deſires to the Governour one Capt. Borman, a Gentleman of that Iſland, who commanded a Militia-Company there, to come to him; in the mean time diſcourſing with the Souldiers to try what he could get out of them, but found they were altogether ignorant, being a Company of the Iſlanders newly march'd in, the two Army-Companies formerly gariſoned there being drawn down into the Town of Newport. After a longer ſtay than he expected, the Meſſenger return'd with an excuſe that the Captain could not conveniently come out to him, but invited him in, who, when he came into the Parlor, was ſurpriz'd with the ſight of about a dozen Officers of the Army, moſt of whoſe Faces he knew; and after mutual Salutations he addreſt himſelf to the Governour, deſiring to ſpeak with him, who, he obſerved, firſt asked and obtained leave of thoſe Officers: wherefore asking him in private what he meant by that, the Governour plainly told him, he was no better than their Priſoner in his own Gariſon: for they had threatned him with immediate death, if he but ſo much as whiſpered with any of his own Servants. The Col. asked him whether he could imagine the Cauſe of all this; he anſwered, he ſuppoſed there was ſome conſiderable Deſign on foot, but he knew not what it was, adding, that he underſtood that the Captain that commanded the Troop of Horſe in the Iſland, was in the ſame condition, and that his Lieutenant commanded in his place, but that he knew no other Cauſe for either, unleſs that they ſuſpected that they had too much duty for the King, which gave the Colonel the opportunity of asking the particular Queſtion, Whether he knew any thing of the King's being to be ſeized upon that night; who anſwered, It was not improbable but that was the Deſign, though he knew nothing of it.

‘ Col. Cook having as much light as the Governour could give him, took leave, and haſtned to give the King an exact account of all had paſt.

Ann. 1648.

'But found at his return a great alteration at Court; Guards not only ſet round the King's Lodgings, and at every Window, but even within doors alſo; nay Sentinels on the King's very Chamber door, that the King was almoſt ſuffocated with the Smoke of the burning Match: which haſtned the Colonel to Major Rolph, to complain of the rudeneſs of the Soldiers, whom he found in his Bed, it being now near 12 a Clock. Having entred his Chamber againſt the will of his Servant, after his Apology he made his complaint, and received this Anſwer, That he was no way guilty of it, that the two Companies being late drawn out of the Caſtle, could not that night have quarters provided for them, and therefore had ordered them to double the Guards, not foreſeeing this would happen; but the next day he would redreſs all things himſelf, with all due reſpect to the King, and conſult him in it, and that in the mean time he was confident on the Colonel's Complaint to the Captain of the Guard, he would draw off the Men from being offenſive to the King, adding that if the Colonel found it needful, he might make uſe of his name to the Captain of the Guard, whom the Colonel taking in his return to the King, prevailed with him to draw off all thoſe that were any annoyance to the King, to a more tolerable diſtance. At Col. Cook's return to the King, he made him repeat over all Paſſages that had happened that night, which when compared, and duly conſidered, the King, the Duke of Richmond, and the Earl of Lindſey (for the Earl of Southampton being indiſpoſed, was before that time returned to his own Lodgings, and the Marquiſs of Hartford had taken leave of the King, and left the Iſland that morning) all concluded the Army would ſuddenly ſeize upon the King's Perſon; which being taken for granted on all hands, the next queſtion was, in this deſperate caſe what was to be done: The Lords argued for the King's attempting an immediate eſcape; for he would better bring about a perſonal Treaty with the Parliament, which he ſo much coveted, when out of the reach of the Army, than when within their Power; and this would certainly ſecure the ſafety of his Perſon, which elſe might be very much in danger. But before they could proceed to debate the manner of this eſcape, the King prevented it; thus arguing againſt the Eſcape it ſelf, urging the difficulty if not impoſſibility of accompliſhing it, and the conſequence ſhould he miſcarry in the Attempt, his exaſperating the Army, and diſheartning his Friends: nay what if the Army ſhould ſeize him, they muſt preſerve him for their own ſakes, for that no party could ſecure their own Intereſt without joyning his with it.

'The Earl of Lindſey replied, Take heed Sir leſt you fall into ſuch hands, as will not ſteer by ſuch rules of Policy: Remember Hampton-Court, where your eſcape was your beſt ſecurity.

'The Duke of Richmond adding, that yet he thought an eſcape feaſible enough; and turning about to Col. Cook, asked how he paſt to and fro; who anſwered, he had the Word: the Duke asked whether he could paſs him too? who anſwered, he made no queſtion but he could, at which the Duke took a Leaguer Cloak, and made the Colonel go along with him through all the Guards, and ſo returned again to the King, acquainting him what he had done, and with what eaſe, and thence took the advantage again to perſwade the King's attempting to eſcape.

‘Who on a ſudden turning himſelf from the two Lords that were diſcourſing with him at the Window, to Col. Cook who ſtood drying himſelf by the Fire, ſaid, Ned Cook what do you adviſe in this caſe? who humbly anſwered, He ſuſpected his own Judgment too much, to preſume to offer any advice, conſidering the greatneſs of the danger, and the Perſon concerned in it; that his Majeſty had his Privy Counſellors with him, whom he humbly beſought him to liſten to, obſerving what they preſt to, at which the Lords reſum'd their former diſcourſe of attempting an eſcape.

‘But the King turning about again ſaid, Ned, I command you to give me your advice.

‘At which the Colonel beg'd leave, that after he had premiſed ſome particulars, he might ask his Majeſty a queſtion; who permitting him, Suppoſe, ſaid he, I ſhould not only tell your Majeſty that the Army would very ſuddenly ſeize you, but by concurring Circumſtances fully convince your Majeſty it would be ſo; that I have the Word, Horſes ready at hand, a Veſſel attending me, and hourly expecting me; I am ready and deſirous to attend you, and this diſmal dark night, as if it were ſuted for the purpoſe, for that I can foreſee no difficulty in the thing, which I ſuppoſe to be the true ſtate of this Cauſe: the only queſtion now is, what will your Majeſty do?

‘Who after a ſmall pauſe pronounced this poſitive anſwer, they have promiſed me, and I have promiſed them, and I will not break firſt.

‘The Duke of Richmond urging the Colonel to ſpeak, he craved leave to argue that point with the King, who ſaid, with all his heart: I preſume, ſaid the Colonel, your Majeſty intends by thoſe words, they and them, the Parliament; if ſo, the Scene is now changed, your preſent apprehenſion ariſing from the Army, who have already ſo far violated the Votes of Parliament, as to invade your Majeſty's freedom, and teſtify by changing the ſingle Sentinel of State at your outward Door, into ſtrong Guards on your Bed-Chamber, which is in it ſelf a Confinement, and the probable Forerunner of a ſpeedy abſolute Impriſonment.

‘The King reply'd, However he would not break his Word, and bad him and the Earl of Lindſey good night, and that he would go take his reſt as long as he could; which Sir, reply'd Col. Cook, I fear will not be long; the King anſwered, as pleaſe God.

‘The King perceiving great uneaſineſs and diſorder in the Colonel, ſaid, Ned, what troubles you? who reply'd, Sir, to conſider the greatneſs of your Majeſty's danger, and unwillingneſs to obviate it. The King reply'd, Ne'er let that trouble you, were it greater, I would not break my word to prevent it: Sir, ſaid the Colonel, will your Majeſty but reſpit the Reſolution, and give me leave to ſtep and call my Lord Southampton? What needs that, ſaid the King, are not thoſe my two Friends? pointing to the Duke of Richmond, and Earl of Lindſey; I tell you they are my two true Friends: ſaid the Colonel, be pleaſed then to conſult them; ſaid the King, I am reſolved, go ye two to Bed, meaning the Earl of Lindſey and Col. Cook, for the Duke of Richmond was then in waiting, and if I have need of you I will ſend for you, whereupon both took leave.

‘But the Duke of Richmond ſtept after Col. Cook, to conſult him whether or no he had beſt put off his Clothes that night, who anſwered, he himſelf as wet as he was would not, for notwithſtanding Maj. Rolphs Promiſes he feared the King would ſoon be diſturbed: the Duke aſked whether he ſhould let the King know what his opinion was, who anſwered with all his Heart, and that he would ſtay in hopes that might occaſion ſome new Diſcourſes of the Buſineſs; but the Duke ſoon returned, and told him, the King was reſolved to go to Bed. It was then almoſt one a clock, and tho Col. Cook went not to bed all Night, yet all things were carried with ſo great ſecrecy and quiet, that not the leaſt noiſe was heard, nor the leaſt cauſe of ſuſpicion given.

An. 1648.

‘ In the morning juſt at break of day the King hearing a great knocking at his Dreſſing-Room Door, ſent the Duke of Richmond to aſk what it meant, who enquiring who was there, was anſwered, one Mildmay one of thoſe Servants the Parliament had put to the King, and Brother of Sir Henry: the Duke demanded what he would have, and was anſwered there were ſome Gentlemen from the Army very deſirous to ſpeak with the King; which account the Duke gave the King: but the knocking encreaſing, the King commanded the Duke to let them into the Dreſſing-Room, but before the King could get out of his Bed, thoſe Officers ruſhed into his Chamber, and abruptly told the King, they had orders to remove him: from whom, ſaid the King; they replyed from the Army: the King asked whither he was to be removed; they anſwered, to the Caſtle: the King asked what Caſtle; again they anſwered the Caſtle: the Caſtle, ſaid the King, is no Caſtle; he told them he was well enough prepared for any Caſtle, and required them to name the Caſtle: after a ſhort whiſper together, they ſaid Hurſt-Caſtle; the King replyed they could not name a worſe, and called to the Duke of Richmond to ſend for the Earl of Lindſey and Col. Cook: at firſt they ſcrupled at the Earl of Lindſeys coming; but the King ſaying why not both ſince both lie together? they promiſed to ſend for both, but ſent for neither.

‘ And tho the Duke of Richmond had ordered the King’s Breakfaſt to be haſtned, yet when he was ſcarce ready, the Horſes being come, they hurried him away, only permitting the Duke to attend him ſome two miles, and then told him he muſt go no further; where he ſadly took leave and kiſſed the King’s Hand, whoſe laſt words were, Remember me to my Lord Lindſey and Col. Cook, and command Col. Cook from me, not to forget the Paſſages of this Night.

‘ The Duke returned directly to the Earl of Lindſeys Lodgings, on which it ſeems a Guard had been ſet in the Night, to keep him from the knowledg of what was doing, at leaſt to confine him from ſtiring forth had he known it, and ſurprized both the Earl of Lindſey and Col. Cook with the account of the King’s being carried away, with all its circumſtances, delivering the King’s concluding Demands to Col. Cook.

‘ Wherefore whilſt all Paſſages were ripe in their Memories, Col. Cook by the aſſiſtance, and with the approbation of the Duke of Richmond and Earl of Lindſey, drew up this Narrative.

CHAP. XXXIII.

Proceedings in Parliament from December 1. till January 1. 1648.

Friday, December 1.

The General's Letter to the City of the Army's advance, &c.

THIS Day came a Letter from the General and Council of the Army to the City of the Army's advance to London, upon which a Common Council was called preſently; take the Letter as follows.

The Lord General's Letter to the Lord Mayor, Aldermen and Common Council of London, concerning the Army's advance up to the City of London, and deſiring the advance of 40000 l. preſently for the pay of the Army.

The Grounds of their advance on their late Remonſtrance and Declaration ſlighted by the Parliament.

My Lord and Gentlemen,

BEing upon an immediate advance with the Army towards London, we thought good hereby to give you notice thereof; for the grounds and neceſſity leading us hereunto, we refer you to our late Remonſtrance, and to our late Declaration concerning the ſame: we have only this further to add, that as we are far from the leaſt thought of Plunder or other wrong to your City, or any of the Places adjoining, which we hope your former experiences of us will give you cauſe enough to credit us in; ſo for the better prevention of any diſorder in the Souldiery, or of any abuſe or inconvenience to the Inhabitants in the quartering of the Souldiery at private Houſes,

We earneſtly deſire that you would take a preſent courſe for the ſupply of Money to pay theſe Forces while we ſhall be neceſſitated to ſtay there: upon which we aſſure you, we ſhall ſo diſpoſe of them into great and void Houſes about the City as much as may be poſſible, as that few or none of the Inhabitants ſhall be troubled with Quartering of any Souldiers at all. And for this purpoſe we deſire that forty thouſand Pounds may be forthwith provided upon the ſecurity of your Arrears, to be ready to be paid out to the Forces to morrow night if poſſible: And we ſhall be ready to receive from you any intimations for the further prevention of hurt or inconvenience to the City in this buſineſs. I remain

Your Lordſhips aſſured
Friend and Servant,

The Houſe this day heard the Report of the Commiſſioners from the Iſle of Wight of his Majeſty's ſeveral Conceſſions as formerly related in order, which was read twice over, and the greateſt part of the day ſpent in debate thereof. About two of the Clock in the Afternoon they came to the Queſtion, Whether they ſhould now debate whether his Majeſty's Anſwers and Conceſſions reported by them are ſatisfactory or unſatisfactory; and it was reſolved in the Negative that they would not then debate it further, or let the Queſtion be put, but that the Debate thereof ſhould be reſumed to morrow morning at 9 of the Clock.

An. 1648.

Ld Wenman, Mr. Hollis, Mr. Pierpoint had the thanks of the Houſe.

Mr. Speaker according to order of the Houſe gave the Lord Wenman, Mr. Hollis and Mr. Pierpoint, with three of the Commiſſioners who came laſt from the Treaty, Thanks for their good Pains and Care in managing of the Treaty.

The Committee of Common Council communicated the General's Letter to the Houſe.

A Committee of the Common Council came down this day, and acquainted the Houſe, that they had received a Letter from his Excellency, upon which the Lord Mayor called a Common Council, who would not do any thing thereupon till they had known the Pleaſure of the Houſe therein.

The Houſe agree, the ſpeedy providing 40000 l. for payment of the Army.

The Letter was read, and theHouſe debated thereupon till 8 a Clock at night. At laſt they came to this reſolution, That the Houſe taking notice of the great Arrears due by the City of London to the Army do declare, That it is the pleaſure of the Houſe that the City do forthwith provide 40000 l. of their Arrears upon ſecurity of their ſaid Arrears.

Reſolved, That the Houſe doth leave it to the City either by Committee or Letter, or otherwiſe as they ſhall think fit, to addreſs themſelves to the General.

The Houſe deſire his Excellency not to remove the Army nearer London.

They further reſolved, That a Letter ſhould be written to the General, upon the Heads of the Debate now had in the Houſe; and that his Excellency be acquainted therein, that it is the Pleaſure of the Houſe, that his Excellency remove not the Army nearer London.

Saturday, December 2.

THIS day the Houſe reſumed the Debate according to Order of the King's Conceſſions and Anſwers upon the Treaty: the Debate was very high, and took up the whole day yet they came to no concluſion, or any Vote paſſed, but put off the further Debate till Monday morning.

The General with ſeveral Regiments took up their Quarters in Whitehall, St. James's, &c.

This Day the General with ſeveral Regiments of Horſe and Foot marched to London, and took up their Quarters in White-Hall, St. James's, the Meuſe, York Houſe and other great vacant Houſes in the Skirts of the City, and ſome of the Villages about, no offence being given any where.

The City active in levying Arrears of Aſſeſſments.

The City ſent a Letter to the General, That they will do their utmoſt in levying their Arrears of Aſſeſsments to the Army, and are very active to that purpoſe, and at preſent advance ſome thouſand pounds as deſired to pay off Quarter; but deſire the Souldiery may be removed further from London, and a right underſtanding may be, to which all fair Correſpondence is promiſed.

Monday, December 4.

The Queſtion whether his Majeſty's Anſwer was ſatisfactory not yet decided.

THIS Day the Houſe of Commons according to former Order took into further debate his Majeſty's Conceſſions, whether ſatisfactory or not, about which they ſpent all Friday and Saturday laſt Week, and not one Vote paſt, and the Queſtion in no way likely to be decided this day.

Being upon this debate, a Letter came to the Speaker from the Officers deputed by Col. Hammond to take the charge of his Majeſty in the Iſle of Wight, That his Majeſty was removed thence to Hurſt-Caſtle by order of the General and Council of the Army: for better ſatisfaction, take the Letter it ſelf.

Letter from Col. Hammond's Officers, of removing the King to Hurſt-Caſtle.

Right Honourable,

Y*ESTERDAY there came into the Iſle ſome Officers of the Army, viz. Lieut. Col.* Cobbett, and Capt. Merryman, with Inſtructions from the General and Council of War directed to themſelves and the Commander in chief here, forthwith to ſecure the Perſon of the King in Carisbrook-Caſtle, as before the Treaty, till they ſhould receive reſolution from the Houſes upon their late Remonſtrance: and they underſtanding, that the management of the Affairs of this Iſland was by Col. Hammond committed to our ſelves or any two of us, they acquainted us with their Inſtructions, deſiring our concurrence with them, that ſo the preſent work intended by them, might with leſs difficulty be accompliſhed. While we were in debate of theſe things, there came in a Meſſenger from the General with an Order under his Hand and Seal, directed to the Gentlemen, commanding them immediatly to take the Perſon of the King into their charge, and to remove him from thence into Hurſt-Caſtle, requiring us by name with all other Officers and Souldiers in the Iſle to be aiding and aſſiſting to them therein; two of us, viz. Major Rolph, and Capt. Hawes, upon ſight of that Order declared our ſelves obliged not to diſobey the General's Commands, but conceived our ſelves bound to yield obedience thereunto by our Commiſſions; the other of us, viz. Capt. Boreman, declared his Judgment, that his duty lay immediately to the Governour who had intruſted him, contrary to thoſe Inſtructions and Commiſſion he could not act, neither was he of himſelf in a capacity to oppoſe them in that Service. Capt. Hawes being diſſatisfied in the Action, manifeſted his unwillingneſs to join in it, and his Reſolution neither directly nor indirectly to oppoſe it. But theſe Gentlemen with the concurrence of the Army Forces here, and the aſſiſtance of a freſh Troop of Horſe, and one Company of Foot, which landed in the Night, in purſuance of their Commands, very civilly made their addreſſes to the King, according to another Order from the General, for his Uſage with all Civility, and due Reſpect unto his Perſon: between five and ſix a Clock this Morning, ſome of the Gentlemen, who by the Parliament were appointed to attend him, acquainted his Majeſty with thoſe Orders and Inſtructions they had in charge from his Excellency the Lord General concerning him, who preſently and quietly conſented thereunto, and ſet forward in his Coach from Newport at eight of the Clock this Morning towards Hurſt Caſtle, with Mr. Harrington, Col. Harbots and Capt. Mildmay, and other of his Servants to attend him. Now we do aſſure you, that in the whole Tranſaction of this great Affair, there neither was nor is the leaſt diſturbance in this Iſle. Thus we have with all clearneſs and faithfulneſs given you a full and impartial Account of theſe late Proceedings here; having ſo done, we ſubſcribe our ſelves

Your humble Servants,

Carisbrook-Caſtle,

Major Rolph,
Capt. Boreman, and
Capt. Hawes.

Poſtſcript.

Since the Writing hereof, we have intelligence that his Majeſty is ſafely arrived at Hurſt-Caſtle.

The Houſe diſowns any conſent in ſeizing the King.

The Houſe upon reading this Letter entred into a new debate, and voted, That the ſeizing upon the Perſon of the King and carrying him Priſoner to Hurſt Caſtle, was without the advice or conſent of the Houſe.

After this again they debated of his Majeſty's Conceſſions, and ſat all the Day and Night, but came to no reſolution till the next Morning.

From

Major Gen. has ordered a Line to be drawn 3 parts about the Caſtle of Pontefract, &c.

From Pontefract Leaguer by Letters this Day, to this purpoſe: The Lieutenant General being gone to London, Major Gen. Lambert is appointed to come in chief to the Leaguer: The Line is drawn three parts about the Caſtle, and we are now raiſing Works for Batteries; and tho the Enemy are penned up that they dare not ſtir forth, yet they are very active both with great and ſmall Shot, and ſometimes do us hurt, they have very few or no Horſe in the Caſtle, they are about 300 in the Caſtle, Gentlemen and others; the Souldiers are very poorly clad, and cannot be induced to make a Salley, at leaſt 60 of them are fallen ſick at this time; they have plenty of all ſorts of Proviſion for a Siege, and if nothing elſe hinder, they will not be ſtarved in 12 Months. Capt. Jackſon is now by Order from Lieut. Gen. Cromwel removed from the Scarborough Leaguer to Pontefract, and they are upon their March by the way of Helmſley-Caſtle. Of the State of Scarborough-Caſtle, more particularly thus: Upon Wedneſday-Night laſt there came out the Governour's Enſign, who declared that upon our taking of their Boat from their Sally-Port the Night before they were fearfully alarm'd, upon which the common Souldiers fell into a mutiny, deſiring the Governour to make Terms for their marching out, for that their Fiſh will laſt but a Month, their Fire three Weeks, tho their Corn and Butter would laſt longer; their greateſt wants are of Clothes and Shoes, of which they had provided good ſtore to have got in by their Boat, but prevented, and their Harbinger General, Lieut. Sallet, is now come in and ſubmitted to us upon mercy.

The taking of a Boat from Scarborough-Caſtle Sally-Port much alarm'd them.

Ld Antrim has left Ormond, and is to be Generaliſſimo for the Pope.

From Ireland came Letters, which ſay, That the Lord Marquiſs of Antrim hath relinquiſht the Marquiſs of Ormond, and is impowered Generaliſſimo for the Pope's intereſt in this Kingdom, and to that purpoſe is gone to Owen Roe, as is conceived, to claim his Authority; where by the way he writ a Letter to Col. Jones deſiring that a Gentleman might be admitted to Dublin, with Propoſitions tending to engage the Northern Party under the Command of Owen Roe to the Parliament's ſervice; which if this his Requeſt might be granted, in his opinion it was reputed feaſible; but his overture being denied, he made no further ſtay, but marcht on: This be ſure of, tho there is no truſting any of them, that Antrim and Ormond will be found mortal Enemies; for at Ormond's laſt being in France, Antrim ſtrained hard to impeach him of High Treaſon before the Queen and the Court there.

Antrim and Ormond mortal Enemies.

A Ceſſation at Kilkenny for a Month.

There is a Ceſſation agreed at Kilkenny for one Month: They are very buſie about the Peace, and 'tis certain 'tis either concluded, or will be very ſpeedily.

Tueſday, December 5.

The Houſe ſitting all Night voted his Majeſty's Conceſſions ſatisfactory.

THIS Morning early, the Houſe having ſate all Night, the Queſtion was put and voted, That his Majeſty's Conceſſions to the Propoſitions of Parliament upon the Treaty are ſufficient grounds for ſettling the Peace of the Kingdom.

Mr. Peirpoint, &c. to be a Committee to go to the General.

They likewiſe voted, That Mr. Peirpoint, Sir John Evelin of Wilts, Mr. Aſhurſt, Mr. Maynard, Sir Thomas Withrington, Col. Birch, and Mr. Solicitor be a Committee appointed to go this Afternoon to the Head Quarters to confer with the General and the Officers of his Army for continuance of a good correſpondency between the Parliament and the Army.

A Proclamation of the General, that all who have not perfected their Compoſitions depart 10 Miles from London.

The General cauſed a Proclamation to be made by beat of Drum and ſound of Trumpet, requiring all in the later and former Wars, who have not perfected their Compoſitions, to depart the late Line ten Miles diſtant from London for a Month, or elſe to be proceeded againſt as Priſoners of War.

Alſo the enſuing Proclamation, that his Soldiers do no Prejudice to any of the City, viz.

A Proclamation for his Souldiers to do no prejudice to the City, &c.

> “These are to require all Officers and Souldiers of Horſe and Foot, who ſhall quarter in and about the City of London, and Suburbs thereof, That they behave and demean themſelves civilly and peaceably towards all ſorts of People, not giving any juſt cauſe of offence, or provocation by language or otherwiſe, upon pain of ſuch ſevere puniſhment as to a Court-Martial ſhall be thought meet; and not do any unlawful violence to the Perſons or Goods of any, either in their Quarters or elſewhere, upon pain of Death. And for the more due execution hereof, all Commanders and Officers are hereby required not to be abſent from their ſeveral and diſtinct Charges, without leave firſt had in writing from their Superiours, upon pain of ſuch Puniſhment as the Party injured ſhall ſuſtain, and ſuch further Cenſure as to Juſtice ſhall be thought fit. Given under my hand, Decemb. 4. 1648.

> T. Fairfax.

Some more Forces of the Army came to London this day and yeſterday, they ſtill quarter in the Suburbs, none in the City; the private Souldiers quartered in great Houſes lie upon the Boards, and have no Beds, and but a little, if any Firing, which is very hard this Seaſon. The General has ſent to the City to provide Bedding, to be allowed out of the Arrears, or otherwiſe Quarters to be provided for the Souldiery in the City. No Money paid yet from the City to the Army.

Wedneſday, December 6.

Col. Rich and Pride*'s Regiments a Guard to the Parliament.*

THIS Day Col. Rich's Regiment of Horſe, and Col. Pride's Foot were a Guard to the Parliament, and the City Trained Bands diſcharged.

Several Members excluded.

Several Members going to the Houſe were ſeized upon, and kept in Cuſtody by ſpecial Order from the General and Council of the Army; which the Houſe of Commons then ſitting being informed of, it was ordered that the Serjeant at Arms attending the Houſe of Commons ſhould be required forthwith to go to the ſaid Members ſo ſeized, and under a Guard in the Queen's Court and Court of Wards, and acquaint them that it is the pleaſure of the Houſe that they forthwith attend the Service of the Houſe. The Serjeant returning, brought anſwer, That the Captain of the Guard had Order to ſecure them, which Order he was to obey before any other Command; and therefore could not in proſecution thereof diſmiſs them till he had other Orders to the contrary.

The Committee's Report.

The Houſe then ordered that the Committee named yeſterday to go to the General, ſhould make their Report, which they did, his Excellency deſiring them to adviſe with his Council of War about this Anſwer.

They then ordered that the Committee, or any three of them, ſhould further attend his Excellency and the Army for the ſaid Anſwer.

Lieut. Col. Axtel brings a Meſſage from the Army to the Houſe.

The Houſe was then alſo informed that ſome Officers of the Army were at the door with a Meſſage from the Army: they were called in, and Lieut. Col. Axtel acquainted the Houſe that he was commanded by the General, and the General Council of War, to acquaint the Houſe that they had ſomewhat to preſent unto them, which will be ready for their preſent view. Lieut. Col. Axtel withdrawing, the Houſe ordered that he ſhould be called in the ſecond time, and that he ſhould deliver his Meſſage once more to the Houſe, which he did accordingly: The Houſe hereupon returned this Anſwer, That the Houſe will be ready to receive it.

Col. Whaley, &c. preſented to the Houſe the Propoſals of the Army.

Not long after Col. Whaley with other Officers of the Army came to the Houſe; and preſented the Propoſals and Deſires of the Army, as the ground of this day's Proceedings, deſiring them to take them into ſpeedy Conſideration. The Houſe after the Officers were withdrawn, ordered a Committee ſhould be appointed to treat with his Excellency, and his General Council of War, concerning the diſcharge of their Members, and that they ſhould report with all convenient ſpeed.

The Sum of the Propoſals of the Army this day, briefly take thus:

The Propoſals accuſing Denzil Hollis, &c. of Faction and perſonal Intereſt.

HAving with others for a long while ſadly beheld and taſted in your Proceedings the miſerable Fruits of Counſels divided and corrupted by Faction and perſonal Intereſt, even to the neglect, betraying and caſting away all that's publick and good, to the lengthning out of endleſs Troubles, Burden and Damage, to the continuance and widening of that iſſue of Blood whereby theſe Nations have been ſo much polluted and conſumed, and to the perpetual hazard and bondage, and deſtruction to them at laſt.

And ſeeing no better or other way, we propound and demand as followeth:

1. Whereas Denzil Hollis Eſq; Lionel Copley Eſq; Major General Maſſey, and others of your Members, whoſe names you well know, were in the year 1647. impeached by your ſelves for Treaſon, or for high Crimes and Miſdemeanors, in relation to the treaſonable Engagement in the City of London: the violence then done upon the Parliament, the levying of a new War, and other Evils in maintenance and proſecution thereof; and upon clear Proofs againſt them, were by your Cenſure expelled the Houſe, and diſabled from further Truſt therein, and upon new Writs iſſued out, new Members were choſen and returned in ſome of their rooms; and yet by the prevalence of their Faction, when in the laſt Summer's War divers faithful Members were ingaged abroad upon neceſſary publick Service, and others through malignant Tumults and Diſturbances could not ſafely attend the Houſe, the ſame Perſons were afterwards readmitted to ſit in the Houſe and vote as formerly, without any trial or ſatisfaction in the things whereof they were accuſed.

M. G. Brown concern'd in the Scots Invaſion.

2. Whereas by the Confederacy of Major General Brown, now Sheriff of London, with the ſaid impeached Members and others, the Scots were invited and drawn in to invade this Kingdom the laſt Summer, inſomuch as when upon their actual Invaſion the Houſe proceeded to declare them Enemies, and thoſe that adhered to them Traitors; yet the ſaid Confederates and other treacherous Members, to the number of 90 and odd, as upon the diviſion of the Houſe appeared, did by their Counſels and Votes endeavour to hinder the Houſe from declaring againſt their confederate Invaders: We deſire, That the ſaid Maj. Gen. Brown may be alſo ſecured and brought to Judgment, and that the reſt of the ninety and odd Perſons diſſenting againſt the ſaid Vote may be excluded the Houſe.

3. Whereas in a continued Series of your Proceedings for many Months together, we have ſeen the prevalence of the ſame treacherous, corrupt and divided Councils, through Factions and private Intereſts oppoſing or obſtructing Juſtice in all kinds, diverting your Councils from any thing of publick good, hindring any proceedings to any ſuch Settlement, as would conſiſt with ſecurity to the publick Intereſt, or put a real end to the Troubles, Burdens or Hazards of the Kingdom, and precipitating into treacherous and deſtructive Compliances and Conjunctions with the acknowledged Enemies thereof, as in the Votes of No more Addreſſes to the King, &c. the juſtneſs and neceſſity whereof you had once ſo cleared to the World; alſo in the Votes for entertaining or ſeeking after all that perſonal Treaty: And laſtly, in the Votes declaring the King's paſt Conceſſions to be a ground for the Houſe to proceed upon for the Settlement of the Peace of the Kingdom, notwithſtanding the viſible inſufficiency and Defects of them in things eſſentially concerning the publick Intereſt and Liberties of the Kingdom, as thoſe propounded in our late Remonſtrance are, and in other matters both Religious and Civil. We therefore moſt earneſtly deſire, That all ſuch faithful Members who are innocent in theſe things, would immediately, by proteſtation and publick declaration, acquit themſelves from any guilt of or concurrence in the ſeveral Votes or Counſels here before particularly mentioned, as corrupt or deſtructive, that the Kingdom may know who they are that have kept their truſt, and diſtinguiſh themſelves from the reſt that have thus falſified the ſame; and that all ſuch as cannot or ſhall not ſo acquit themſelves particularly, may be immediately excluded or ſuſpended the Houſe, and not readmitted until they have given clear ſatisfaction therein to the Judgment of thoſe who now ſo acquit themſelves, and the grounds of ſuch ſatisfaction be publiſhed to the Kingdom.

They deſire the Members innocent, by Proteſtation and Declaration to acquit themſelves, &c.

4. Thus, ſuch as by faithfulneſs have retained their Truſt, being ſet in a condition to purſue and perform the ſame, without ſuch Interruptions, Diverſions, and Depravations of Councils as formerly: We ſhall deſire, and hope you will ſpeedily and vigorouſly proceed to take order for the execution of Juſtice, to ſet a ſhort period to your own Power, to provide for a ſpeedy ſucceſſion of equal Repreſentatives according to our late Remonſtrance, wherein differences in the Kingdom may be ended, and we and others may comfortably acquieſce; as for our parts, we hereby engage and aſſure you we ſhall.

That ſuch as have been true proceed to the execution of Juſtice.

The names of the Members ſeized on this day by the Army, are as followeth.

Thurſday, December 7.

Lieutenant General Cromwel came the laſt night to Town, and ſat this day in the Houſe.

The Houſe conſidered of the great and faithful Services performed by L. G. Cromwel to the two Kingdoms of England and Scotland, and ordered the hearty Thanks of the Houſe ſhould be given to him for the ſame; he being then preſent, Mr. Speaker gave him Thanks accordingly.

Thanks given to Cromwel.

The Houſe ordered that Serjeant Earl ſhould be required to go down to Norwich to execute the Commiſſion of Oyer and Terminer and Goal-Delivery: Mr. Hugh Audley Sheriff of the ſaid County was required to go down into the ſaid County.

Many Members of the Houſe were this day forbid to enter the Houſe, becauſe ſomething was to be that day debated concerning themſelves, and therefore they ought not to be Judges in their own Cauſe. Sir Edward Partridg, Mr. Dodrich, and Sir Tho. Dacres ſent their Letters to the Speaker, acquainting the Houſe that they were denied entrance into the Houſe, who ordered thereupon that the Committee formerly appointed to go to the General, ſhould go this day, and treat concerning the reſtitution of their Members.

The Houſe then debated whether the Remonſtrance and Propoſals of the Army ſhould be debated Saturday next or no, and it paſt in the Affirmative.

The Houſe further ordered that a day of Humiliation ſhould be ſet apart for the Houſe, and that to morrow be the day, and that Mr. Marſhal, Mr. Caryl, and Mr. Peters do preach.

The Members of the Houſe that were ſeized, removed.

The Members ſeized on by the Army were this Day removed from Mr. Duke's Houſe (commonly called Hell) in Weſtminſter, where they were all laſt night, to two Inns in the Strand, viz. the King's Head and the Swan, and there have a Guard upon them.

Friday, December 8.

A ſolemn Faſt with a Collection.

THE Houſe kept a ſolemn Faſt in their Houſe, and ordered that there ſhould be a Collection made by the Members for the poor Souldiers Widows and Wives, and diſtributed by the Serjeant at Arms, which was done accordingly.

The Houſe then adjourned till Monday next; the Lords having alſo the day before adjourned till Tueſday.

This day by Order of the General and General Council, two Regiments of Foot and ſeveral Troops of Horſe were appointed to quarter in London, and accordingly took up their Quarters in Blackfryers, and ſome at Ludgate and Paul's Church.

They likewiſe by order ſecured the Treaſuries at Weavers, Haberdaſhers, and at Goldſmiths-Hall, which was done without any moleſtation. From Haberdaſhers and Goldſmiths-Halls they took away no Caſh; from Weavers-Hall above 20000 l. For the ground of all, take the General's Letter and Declaration to the City, as followeth.

My Lord;

The General's Letter and Declaration on his ſeizing the Treaſuries aforeſaid.

“I Have given order to Col. Dean, and ſome others, to ſeize the Treaſuries of Goldſmiths Hall, and Weavers-Hall, that by the ſaid Monies I may be inabled to pay Quarters whilſt we lie hereabouts, having alſo ordered Receipts and Aſſurance to be given to the Treaſurers of the ſaid Monies, that they ſhould be fully reimburſt for the ſaid Sums out of the Aſſeſſments of the City due to the Army, and out of other Aſſeſſments thereunto belonging; and indeed, although I am unwilling to take theſe ſtrict Courſes, yet having ſent ſo often to you for the ſaid Arrears, and deſired Sums of Money to be advanced by you (far ſhort of the Sums due from you) yet I have been delayed and denied, to the hazard of the Army, and the prejudice of others in the Suburbs upon whom they are quartered: wherefore I thought fit to ſend to ſeize the ſaid Treaſuries, and to ſend ſome Forces to quarter in the City, until I may be ſatisfied for the Arrears due unto the Army: and if this ſeem ſtrange unto you, it is no leſs than that our Forces have been ordered to do by the Parliament in the ſeveral Counties of the Kingdom, where Aſſeſſments have not been paid, and there to continue until they have been paid.

“And here give me leave to tell you the Counties of the Kingdom have born Free-Quarter, and that in a great meaſure for want of your paying your Arrears equal with them: wherefore theſe ways if they diſlike you, yet they are merely long of your ſelves, and are of as great regret to me and to the Army, as to your ſelves; we wiſhing not only the good and proſperity of your City, but that things may be ſo carried towards you as may give you no cauſe of jealouſy. I thought fit to let you know, That if you ſhall take a ſpeedy Courſe to ſupply us with 40000 l. forthwith, according to my former deſire, and provide ſpeedily what alſo is in Arrears, I ſhall not only cauſe the Monies in the Treaſuries to be not made uſe of, but leave them to be diſpoſed of as of right they might, and alſo cauſe my Forces to be withdrawn from being in any ſort troubleſom or chargeable to the City; and “ let the World judg whether this be not juſt and equal dealing with you.

“ I reſt, my Lord,

The Horſe ſent into London this day to ſecure the Monys in the Halls abovesaid, ſome of them through Miſtake went to the Grand Exciſe; which the General underſtanding, they were preſently recalled, and this Letter ſent to the Commiſſioners of Exciſe, viz.

The General's Letter upon it.

Gentlemen,

WHereas upon this preſent 8th of December, a Party of Horſe and Foot came to the Exciſe-Office in Broadſtreet, *which perhaps will occaſion ſome to think the Army came thither with a purpoſe to interrupt any more levying of the Exciſe: Theſe are to aſſure them, the ſaid Forces came thither by a miſtake, and that there was not any Intention to give Interruption unto the due levying of the Exciſe, or to ſeize upon any Money in Caſh: And that you may proceed as formerly according to thoſe Ordinances and Orders of Parliament which you have received concerning the ſame: And that no moleſtation or hindrance ſhall be given by the Army. A Committee from the Lord Mayor, &c. to attend his Excellency with theſe Propoſitions.

2. And of thoſe Arrears all that Mony paid into the Treaſury ſince the 30*th* of November laſt, to be accounted part of the 40000 l. deſired; and that with the Mony received out of Weavers-Hall, and the 5500 l. lately received of the Treaſurers, the reſt ſhall be paid on Monday next.

My Lords and Gentlemen,

“I Have peruſed your Paper, and I find the point of Security hath much troubled you and us, whereby we are yet without our Money, and Neceſſities daily grow upon us; to prevent which and to make things clear, which I do not conceive your Paper does, I deſire that you will within 14 Days, or ſooner if you pleaſe, cauſe all the Money charged upon the City of London for the Army until the 15 of March next, and in Arrears, to be brought in; This being done, I ſhall both repay the Money brought from Weavers-Hall, and withdraw all the Forces from the City; the continuance of which in the City in the mean time will I conceive faclitate your Work in collecting your ſaid Monies.

Monday, December 11.

A Debate ordered by the General, &c.

THE Houſe ſate not this day. To the General and the General Council of the Army there is preſented a new Repreſentative, or an Agreement of the People, propounded as a Rule for future Government in the eſtabliſhment of a firm and laſting Peace: This Repreſentative or Agreement to be ſubſcribed throout the Kingdom. The General Council of the Army appointed a ſpeedy debate and conſideration of it: and becauſe the Repreſenters offer the ſame alſo to the conſideration of all Men, who are left at liberty to give their Reaſons for or againſt it, we will now for better ſatiſfaction give you the Heads of this Agreement ſomewhat largely, as followeth.

Care not to return into a ſlaviſh condition.

Their Repreſentatives to be equally conſtituted.

“HAving by our late Labours and Hazards made it appear to the World at how high a rate we value our juſt Freedoms; and God having ſo far owned our Cauſe, as to deliver the Enemies thereof into our hands, we do now hold our ſelves bound in mutual Duty to each other, to take the beſt care we can for the future to avoid both the danger of returning into a ſlaviſh Condition, and the chargeable Remedy of another War: for as it cannot be imagined that ſo many of our Countrymen would have oppoſed us in this Quarrel, if they had underſtood their own good, ſo we may ſafely promiſe to our ſelves, that when our common Rights and Liberties ſhall be cleared, their endeavours will be diſappointed that ſeek to make themſelves our Maſters. Since therefore our former Oppreſſions, and not yet ended Troubles have been occaſioned either by want of frequent National Meetings in Council, or by the undue or unequal Conſtitution thereof, or by rendring thoſe Meetings ineffectual: We are fully agreed and reſolved to provide that hereafter our Repreſentatives be neither left to uncertainty for time, nor be unequally conſtituted, nor made uſeleſs to the end for which they are intended.

In order whereunto they declare and agree,

For the diſſolution of this Parliament.

“1. That to prevent the many Inconveniences apparently ariſing from the long continuance of the ſame Perſons in Authority, this preſent Parliament be diſſolved upon or before the laſt day of April, in the Year of our Lord 1649.

The whole Repreſentative to be 300.

“2. That the People of England, being at this day very unequally diſtributed by Counties, Cities or Burroughs, for the election of their Repreſentatives, be more indifferently proportioned; and to this end, That the Repreſentative of the whole Nation ſhall conſiſt of 300 Perſons: and in each County, and the Places thereto ſubjoined, there ſhall be choſen to make up the ſaid Repreſentative at all times, the ſeveral numbers for each Town and County, for England and Wales mentioned, in all amounting to 300.

“For the manner of Elections they propound,

The Electors Natives, not receiving Alms.

“1. That the Electors of every Diviſion ſhall be Natives or Deniſons of England, ſuch as have ſubſcribed this Agreement, not Perſons receiving Alms, but ſuch as are aſſeſſed ordinarily towards the relief of the Poor, not Servants to, or receiving Wages from any particular Perſon. And in all Elections, except for the Univerſities, they ſhall be Men of one and twenty Years old or upwards, and Houſe-keepers dwelling within the Diviſion for which the Election is: provided that until the end of 7 Years next enſuing, the ſame time herein limited for the end of this preſent Parliament, no Perſon ſhall be admitted to, or have any Hand or Voice in ſuch Elections, who have adhered to or aſſiſted the King againſt the Parliament in any of theſe Wars or Inſurrections, or who ſhall make or join in or abet any forcible oppoſition againſt this Agreement; and that ſuch as ſhall not ſubſcribe it before the time limited for the end of this Parliament, ſhall not have Vote the next Election; neither if they ſubſcribe afterwards, ſhall they have any Voice in the Election next ſucceeding their Subſcription, unleſs their Subſcription were ſix Months before the ſame.

Qualifications of the Elected.

“2. That until the end of 14 Years, ſuch Perſons, and ſuch only, may be elected for any Diviſion, who by the Rule aforeſaid are to have Voices in Elections in one Place or other: Provided that of all thoſe none ſhall be eligible for the firſt or ſecond Repreſentatives, who have involuntarily aſſiſted the Parliament againſt the King, either in Perſon before the 14 day of June, 1645. or elſe in Money, Plate, Horſe or Arms, lent upon the Propoſitions before the end of May, 1643. or who have joined in or abetted the treaſonable Engagement in London in the Year 1647. or who declared or engaged themſelves for a Ceſſation of Arms with the Scots who invaded the Nation the laſt Summer, or for compliance with the Actors in any of the Inſurrections the ſame Summer, or with the Prince of Wales or his Complices in the Revolted Fleet.

The Penalty of electing, &c. without right.

“3. That whoever by the Rules in the two next preceding Articles are incapable of Election, or to be elected, ſhall aſſume to vote in, or to be preſent at ſuch Elections for the firſt or ſecond Repreſentative, or being elected, ſhall preſume to ſit or vote in either of the ſaid Repreſentatives, ſhall incur the pain of confiſcation of the Moiety of his Eſtate to the uſe of the Publick, in caſe he have any Eſtate viſible to the value of 50 l. and if he have not ſuch an Eſtate, then he ſhall incur the pain of Impriſonment for three months. And if any Perſon ſhall forcibly oppoſe, moleſt or hinder the People capable of Election, as aforeſaid, in their quiet and free Election of their Repreſentatives; then each Perſon ſo offending ſhall incur the pain of Confiſcation of his whole Eſtate both real and perſonal; and if he have not an Eſtate to the value of 50 l. ſhall ſuffer Impriſonment during one whole Year without Bail or Mainprize: provided that the Offender in each ſuch Caſe be convicted within three Months next after the committing of his Offence.

150 always to be preſent in Parliament.

“4. That one hundred and fifty Members at leaſt be always preſent in each ſitting of the Repreſentatives, at the paſſing of any Law, or doing of any Act whereby the People are to be bound.

Proviſion for a Council of State.

“5. That every Repreſentative ſhall within twenty days after their firſt Meeting, appoint a Council of State for the management of publick Affairs, until the firſt day of the next Repreſentative; and the ſame Council to act and proceed therein, according to ſuch Inſtructions and Limitations as the Repreſentatives ſhall give, and not otherwiſe.

“6. That to the end all Officers of State may be certainly accomptable, and no Factions made to maintain corrupt Intereſts, no Member of the Council cil of State; or any Officer of any Salary in Army or Gariſon, nor any Treaſurer or Receiver of publick Monys, ſhall, while ſuch, be elected to be a Repreſentative; and in caſe any ſuch Election ſhall be, the ſame to be void: and in caſe any Lawyer ſhall be choſen of any Repreſentative or Council of State, then he ſhall be uncapable of Practice as a Lawyer during that Truſt.

No Officer to be a Member of the Repreſentative, &c.

The Power of the Repreſentative.

“ 7. That the Power of the Peoples Repreſentatives extend not, without the conſent or concurrence of any other Perſon or Perſons, to the enacting, altering, repealing and declaring of Laws, to the rejecting and aboliſhing Officers at Courts of Juſtice, and to whatſoever is not in this Agreement excepted or reſolved from them.

Are not to reſtrain Conſcience, &c.

“ As particularly, (1.) We do not empower our Repreſentatives to continue in force, or make any Laws, Oaths and Covenants, whereby to compel by Penalties or otherwiſe any Perſon to any thing in or about matters of Faith, Religion, or God's Worſhip; or to reſtrain any Perſon from the profeſſing his Faith or exerciſe of Religion, according to his Conſcience, in any Houſe or Place, except ſuch as are, or ſhall be ſet apart for the publick Worſhip: nevertheleſs the Inſtruction or Direction of the Nation in a publick way for the matters of Faith, Worſhip or Diſcipline, ſo it be not compulſive, or expreſs Popery, is referred to their Diſcretion.

Not to force any to ſerve againſt his Conſcience.

“ (2.) We do not empower them to impreſs or conſtrain any Perſon to ſerve in War either by Sea or Land, every Man's Conſcience being to be ſatisfied in the Juſtneſs of that Cauſe wherein he hazards his Life.

None to be queſtioned for publick differences, &c.

“ (3.) That after the diſſolution of this preſent Parliament, none of the People be at any time queſtioned for any thing ſaid or done in reference to the late Wars, or publick Differences, otherwiſe than in execution or purſuance of the Determination of the preſent Houſe of Commons againſt ſuch as have adhered to the King or his Intereſt againſt the People, and, ſaving the Accompts for publick Monys received, ſhall remain accomptable for the ſame.

No Perſon by virtue of Tenure, &c. free from ſubjection.

“ (4.) That in any Laws hereafter to be made, no Perſon by virtue of any Tenure, Grant, Charter or Patent, Degree or Birth, ſhall be privileged from Subjection thereto, or being bound thereby as well as others.

All Privileges or Exemptions to be void.

“ (5.) That all Priviledges or Exemptions of any Perſon from the Laws, or from the ordinary courſe of legal Proceedings, by virtue of any Tenure, Grant, Charter, Patent, Degree or Birth, or of any place of Reſidence or Refuge, ſhall be henceforth void and null, and the like not to be made, nor revived again.

Not to meddle with the Execution of Laws, &c.

“ (6.) That the Repreſentatives intermeddle not with the execution of Laws, nor give Judgment upon any Man's Perſon or Eſtate, where no Law hath bin before provided, ſave only calling to an account and puniſhing publick Officers for abuſing or failing in their Truſt.

No Member to be a Receiver, &c.

“ (7.) That no Member of any future Repreſentative be made either Receiver, Treaſurer, or other Officer during that Imployment, ſaving to be a Member of the Council of State.

A Council of State may ſummon a Repreſentative, &c.

“ 8. That the Council of State in caſe of imminent danger or extreme neceſſity, may in each interval ſummon a Repreſentative to be forthwith choſen, and to meet, ſo as the Seſſions thereof continue not above forty days, and ſo it diſſolve two months before the appointed time for the meeting of the next Repreſentative.

Publick ſecurities to be made good.

“ 9. That all Securities given by the publick Faith of the Nation ſhall be made good by the next and all future Repreſentatives, ſave that the next Repreſentative may continue or make null in part or in whole, all gifts of Monys made by the preſent Houſe of Commons to their own Members, or to any of the Lords, or to any of the Attendants of either of them.

Every Officer that reſiſts the Orders of the Repreſentative to dye.

“ 10. That every Officer or Leader of any Forces in any preſent or future Army, or Gariſon, that ſhall reſiſt the Orders of the next, or any future Repreſentative, except ſuch Repreſentative ſhall expreſly violate this Agreement,

"These things we declare to be eſſential to our juſt Freedoms, and to a through compoſure of our long and woful Diſtractions: And therefore we are agreed and reſolved to maintain theſe certain Rules of Government, and all that join therein, with our utmoſt poſſibilities againſt all oppoſition whatſoever.

This day his Excellency the Lord Fairfax, and his Council of War, agreed upon a Declaration concerning their Reſolution to preſerve and protect the freedom of Trade and Commerce, which for better ſatisfaction take as followeth:

Ld Fairfax's Declaration to preſerve the Freedom of Trade.

‘WHereas the Enemies of the peace of this Kingdom being ſufficiently ſenſible how all their Deſigns for the ruin and deſtruction thereof, have by the bleſſing of God upon our endeavours, been rendred abortive and made ſucceſsleſs to the producing of that effect, have, notwithſtanding out of their reſtleſs deſire to bring their wicked purpoſes into execution, watched for and purſued all opportunities that they could either make or meet with conducing to that end, and have not ceaſed to lay upon us, and lade us with all manner of ſlander and clamour, that might not only make us unacceptable to thoſe of whom we have beſt deſerved, but alſo render us odious to all the World; and being informed that the ſaid Enemies of the Kingdom, have, upon occaſion of ſome of our late juſt and neceſſitated Actions, given publickly out, and written to all parts beyond the Seas, that we intend to put all into ruin and confuſion, and to ſeize upon all mens Eſtates, deſtroy Property, Trade, and Commerce, and that their Goods cannot be in any ſecurity while we are in this Town, or keep in our hands any of the Strengths of the Kingdom; and underſtanding that hereupon Bills of Exchange begin to be queſtioned, and ſome Perſons begin to convey away their Goods, We being very ſenſible how much the Wealth, Freedom and Happineſs of this Kingdom is concerned in the freedom and fulneſs of the Trade and Commerce thereof, and how much the ſaid Enemies of peace ſhould purſue their aforeſaid wicked end, if their ſaid Calumnies ſhould go on to be believed: We do therefore hereby declare, That as by all the Adventures of our Lives and Blood we have ſought nothing more than the proſperity of this Kingdom, and the eſtabliſhing of Juſtice and Righteouſneſs in the Land: ſo there is nothing more that we abhor than thoſe wicked Calumnies, that we ſhould invade the Property of any not wilfully making themſelves Enemies, or do any thing any way to hinder or obſtruct that Trade and Commerce, by which this Kindom doth both ſubſiſt and flouriſh. But that we ſhall in a more eſpecial manner, protect, defend, encourage and maintain in all juſt ways, according to the Law of Nations, and the manner hitherto practiſed in this Kingdom, all manner of Trade, Traffique and Commerce, either by Engliſh or Strangers; and that we ſhall neither do, nor ſuffer to be done, as far as in our Power, any violence, wrong or injuſtice to the Perſons or Goods of any, as aforeſaid, exerciſing any Trade or Commerce either by Sea or Land; which we thought fit to publiſh for the ſatisfaction all Perſons concerned herein.

An Information was given againſt a Gentleman that ſate in the Houſe, tho no Member, that he was a Delinquent, and had been in Arms againſt the Parliament. This was anſwered in his behalf, That as Prince Rupert's Forces marcht through Windſor, and the Gentleman being drinking in the Town, was forct to ſhew himſelf ſomewhat active amongſt them at preſent, and that was all that they could make of it: the Houſe ordered notwithſtanding, that this buſineſs ſhould be referred to the Committee of Complaints to examin the truth of the Information, and to report the ſame to the Houſe.

The Prince has ſold the Braſs Guns of 8 Ships, &c.

Theſe Ships go to Garnſey and Silly, &c.

Intelligence was brought to the Houſe from ſeveral hands, that the Prince of Wales was making ready 8 Ships, having taken out and ſold the Braſs-Guns that were in them, all but ſuch as was fit for the Field, and put Iron ones in their room, which Ships are to be commanded by Prince Rupert, the Prince being to return to his Mother. Theſe 8 Ships are to go firſt to Guarnſey and Silly, and ſettle thoſe Iſlands, then to Ireland to aſſiſt the Marquiſs of Ormond for reducing that Kingdom to the obedience of his Majeſty, and then comes an Army over into Wales and ſo for England. That ſuch Prizes as ſhall be taken be appropriated to the aforeſaid uſes. Agents are diſpatched to the ſeveral Princes and States of Chriſtendom, for Freedom as formerly with his Majeſty of England, for augmentation of this Fleet: and to make it more formidable againſt the Engliſh, all undone, decayed and diſcontented Gentlemen, are invited to join and provide Ships; which is in part done, divers being gone out of the Weſt-Parts already to Silly and Ireland. There goes with Prince Rupert 1000 Souldiers beſides Sailors, alſo very many Gentlemen or Reformadoes, the Inhabitants of the Iſland of Garnſey, &c. its intended they be moulded into Regiments, and imployed by Sea or Land, as being like to prove more advantageous than their livelyhood there; beſides other notable deſignes on Foot as to Ireland, not fit here to be mentioned. This buſineſs was debated, and thereupon ordered that ſome go to the Lord Admiral to conſult with him, what is neceſſary to be done, whoſe readineſs in that and good affection to a ſure Settlement of this Kingdom, hath been amply manifeſted ſince his return; and that the Letter from Ireland, which ſaid he had made Agreement with the Prince, is falſe and ſcandalous.

A Conſult ordered with the Ld Admiral about it.

Among others of quality, that this day went to bid welcome to his return from Sea, were his Excellency the Lord Fairfax, and Lieut. General Cromwel.

This day came the Remonſtrance from the North, of the Officers under Major General Lambert, which was preſented to the General and General Council, with a Letter from the Major General as followeth.

May it pleaſe your Excellency,

Lambert's Letter to the General about the Remonſtrance of his Officers, &c.

THIS Day according to former appointment there was a General Meeting of Officers here, who reſolved upon a Declaration to be preſented to your Lordſhip and your General Council, and appointed Capt. Bayns with Capt. Bradford to wait upon your Excellency therewith, and to give you an account of their Proceedings. They have deſired me to acquaint your Excellency, that they have appointed a ſtanding Council of Officers to meet on Friday every Week to receive, conſult, and adviſe upon ſuch publick Affairs,

Affairs as your Excellency or your General Council ſhall think fit from time to time to communicate to them, for keeping a right underſtanding and mutual correſpondency between the Forces, that there may be a joint acting in this publick Service.

They alſo deſire thoſe Officers may be admitted to ſit with your General Council, to the end they may receive the better Information, and have account of ſuch publick Affairs wherein they may be concerned: And this is all at preſent from your Excellency's humble and Faithful Servant,

J. Lambert.

The Remonſtrance is too large to inſert, but it is in complyance with the Army's Remonſtrance, and what they deſire further in proſecution of that, take briefly thus in their own words, viz.

“Our great deſire therefore is, that the Remonſtrance of the Army may be ſpeedily and effectually acted upon, with ſuch Wiſdom, Caution, Self-denial, Care and Conſideration as that both the common and boſom Enemy may be prevented in their preſent or future obſtructing, oppoſing Deſigns, and may not have time and advantage to raiſe new Diviſions, Troubles; and thoſe good Conceptions, which God hath thus begotten in you, and through you remonſtrated to this Kingdom, in which all the well-affected free ingenuous Spirits will moſt readily cloſe, and freely act with you, may not become an untimely Birth as heretofore, but proſcuted to the life, ſo as the Kingdom may reap the fruit of all our labours, and its own ſufferings.

“Tho we ſhall not take upon us to adviſe or direct your Council in the proſecution thereof, yet we take the boldneſs to offer our ſenſe and thoughts, deſiring that on the one hand your Actings may be full and effectual, ſo on the other care may be taken, that they may be with as much ſatisfaction as can be to all ſuch tender Spirits as do agree with you in the juſtneſs and goodneſs of the things propoſed, but notwithſtanding are not ſo clear in uſing of that means that you may be forced to take for that end.

That the General's Actions may be to the ſatisfaction of all.

“That the ſame care may be had for the taking away of all preſent and future objections of wilful and unneceſſary Forces; and that all impartial Men may be ſatisfied, that your Actings proceed not from your Will or Intereſt, nor ſhall extend further, than ſingly and clearly to redeeming of the juſt Liberty of this Nation, and the ſettling of it in Peace and Quietneſs.

Care for taking away all objections of wilful and unneceſſary Forces.

“To all which we ſhall humbly and briefly offer,

“That only ſuch things may be inſiſted upon, as may put a reaſonable and certain Period to this preſent Parliament, and may for the future eſtabliſh free ſucceſſive Parliaments, duly elected according to the Proviſion in the Remonſtrance.

A reaſonable Period to be put to this Parliament.

“That there may be a ſure Proviſion made for the more equal diſtributions of Elections through the whole Kingdom.

Equal Elections.

“That no Perſon engaged in this War againſt the Parliament, may either elect or be elected to be Members of the Parliament.

None to be Electors or elected, who acted againſt the Parliament.

“That ſome certain Proviſion may be made, that no Perſons that may be elected Members of Parliament, contrary to the Proviſion in the Remonſtrance, may be admitted thereto before they are tried whether duly elected accordingly, and approved by ſome faithful Men, to be carefully choſen, appointed and authorized to judg thereof.

“All which being ſettled, the Army provided for, ſo as no Free-Quarter may be taken, and ſuch other common and ordinary things as concern the Adminiſtration of Common-Juſtice, the preſent Quiet of the Kingdom, and all other things whatſoever may be left to the Power and diſpoſal of the next free and duly elected Parliament, which we conceive may be the moſt proper Inſtruments in the hand of God for ſettling the Kingdom.

No Free-Quarter to be taken after this Settlement.

“Theſe Ends and Principles ſo long as you are carried forth to purſue, which we hope you will never forſake, you may be aſſured of our concurrence and aſſiſtance to the utmoſt of our Powers.

Perſons to be puniſh'd for providing unwholeſome Victuals for the Mariners.

The Houſe was informed, that the Mariners have been much endangered and abuſed by unwholſeom Victuals; they therefore ordered that it ſhould be referred to a Committee to conſider of this great abuſe, and how the Perſons may be puniſhed for the ſame, and how prevented for the time to come.

The Houſe deſire to ſatisfy Col. Rainsboroughs Widdow.

A Letter this day came from the Lord General, Recommending the diſtreſſed condition of the Wife of late Col. Rainsborough to their ſerious Conſideration, deſiring that ſpeedy Payment may be made of her late Husbands Arrears, for the Maintenance of her and her Children. The Houſe had ſome debate hereof, and a Committee was appointed to conſider how and in what manner the ſaid Monies may be certainly charged, the Houſe being very deſirous to give ſatisfaction herein, as was deſired.

The Eſtates of Delinquents who compound not their Arrears to be ſequeſtred.

The Commons had debate of the Arrears by Delinquents for their Compoſitions due upon Bond, which they found to be above 200000 l. Whereupon the Houſe paſſed Inſtructions for the Committee of Goldſmiths-Hall to ſend for ſuch, and ordered an Ordinance to be brought in for the ſaid Committee to have power to ſend Officers and Meſſengers to ſequeſter the Eſtates of ſuch Delinquents in the ſeveral Counties of the Kingdom, as pay not their Arrears of Compoſition upon the firſt and ſecond payment; ordered alſo a Liſt to be brought in of thoſe that are in Arrear of the laſt Moiety, as alſo of thoſe that have paid none.

Scarborough to be ſpeedily ſurrendred.

From before Scarborough December the 16, they write thus: We have been fed long with Expectation from the Governour, to admit of a real Treaty; we find him very plauſible of late, and more complying now than ever. I ſuppoſe we ſhall make but ſhort Work of this buſineſs, having great hopes and ſome aſſurance of a ſpeedy Surrender. We hear our Brethren of Scotland are not well pleaſed with the late Tranſactions in England. The Royal Party would fain be heading, but little danger of any attempt thereof till the Spring; but I doubt not of Argile's Fidelity and Performance of his former Engagement.

And from Scotland, December 12. ſay the Letters, All things are quiet here; the Lord Lothian and Mr. G——g are coming to London to aſſiſt Sir John Chieſley. Here is a bearing up by our diſaffected in hope of Ormond's ſettling Ireland, and the Earl of Antrim maſtering the North.

Capt. Pen took an Iriſh Ship.
Ld Inchequin in fear of a Surprize.

From the Ships attending upon the Coaſts of Ireland, and from Kinſale, came Letters thus: After 8 days beating at Sea, we met a Dutch-Ship laden with Wine, Salt, &c. for Waterford, which we took; its a good Ship of 300 Tun, 14 Guns, the Merchant is an Iriſh Man: Capt. Pen carried her to Briſtoll, with the Gentleman exchanged for the Ld Inchequin's Son; the ſaid Lord as we are informed was in ſuch fear of ſurprize by the Officers and Inhabitants of Cork, that he was enforced to do ſuch things as are no way agreeable to his mind, telling the Marquiſs of Ormond, he could not be ſecure without an Iriſh Guard, whereupon greater differences daily ariſe, and nothing ſettled as to thoſe Parts; which as it is a juſt reward of his dealing, ſo it's a fair opportunity for the Parliament to get poſſeſſion of thoſe parts. The Ceſſation is continued till January 1. between the Rebells and Ormond, who will it's believed not join or agree, untill it be known what will be the concluſion between King and Parliament.

Wedneſday,

THE Houſe this day ordered, That in reſpect Mr. Bond was much indiſpoſed to preach the next Faſt, therefore Mr. Peters might be named in his ſtead, which was aſſented unto.

An Ordinance that Lord Mayors, &c. be no Malignants.

The Committee appointed to attend the General for his Anſwer concerning the ſecluded Members, made report this day of the ſubſtance of his Excellency's ſaid Anſwer, which was to this purpoſe, viz. That the matter which that Committee came to him upon, was of great concernment, and his Excellency believed, that they did not expect a preſent Anſwer from him concerning the ſame, that he would prepare a ſpeedy Anſwer as might be thereunto, and deſired in the mean time the Houſe would not trouble themſelves to ſend any more to him concerning this buſineſs.

The Gen. Anſwer about the ſecluded Members reported.

The Houſe then took into debate, whether this Anſwer was ſatisfactory or not, or whether they ſhould renew the ſaid Meſſage to his Excellency; the Houſe in debate hereupon ordered, that the ſaid Meſſage ſhould be renewed by ſome of the Committee that preſented the former Meſſage to him.

The Meſſage to his Excellency renewed.

Two new liſted Souldiers in Col. Deanes Regiment, Henry Matthews, and Robert Rowe, were this day tryed by a Court Martial, and ſentenced to ride the Wooden-Horſe at the Royal Exchange, for an Hour at Exchange-time; and on Saturday next at the ſame place to run the Gantelope through Col. Deanes Regiment: this was a piece of Juſtice upon theſe two for the Example of others, who under the colour of being Souldiers, care not what knavery they act. Their Crime was this: Theſe with two more who eſcaped, took upon them to apprehend a Citizen of London, under pretence of a Warrant from the Council of War, and that they had a great charge againſt him, when there was no ſuch matter; but they thought by this means to get Mony of him. The Citizen forthwith makes ſome Officers at White-Hall acquainted therewith, and the Council of War diſclaiming the Act, ſend for the Souldiers, that made this bold attempt.

Their Lordſhips returned ſome Amendments to the Ordinance, concerning Lieutenant Colonel Lilburne, which was aſſented unto by the Commons.

General Council debated the Power in matters of Religion.

Power in Civils.

The General Council of the Army have had many large debates this Week upon that reſerve in the Repreſentative, in matters of Religion; ſome Presbyterian Miniſters have been diſcours'd withal, and at laſt an expedient is agreed upon, which will give ſatisfaction: much debate alſo upon the power of the Repreſentative in Civils, as how far they might proceed to puniſh, not being directed by a known Law.

Saturday, December 23.

THE Houſe this day ordered that Mr. Peters, Mr. Cockaine and Mr. Foxley, ſhould have the thanks of the Houſe for the great pains they have taken in preaching Yeſterday before the Houſes of Parliament at Margarets Weſtminſter, and that they ſhall have the ſame benefit as others, to print their Sermons if they pleaſe.

A Committee to report their Opinions concerning moſt of the City being in the Treaty.

A Committee of Common Council came down this day to the Houſe, acquainting them, that by Ordinance of Parliament, none ſhould have Freedom to be elected Lord Mayor, Aldermen, or Common Council Men in the City that have born Arms againſt the Parliament, been in the late Rebellion, or ſigned the Petition for a perſonal Treaty with his Majeſty; that they found that the City of London were ſo generally engaged in the ſaid Petition for a perſonal Treaty, that all the old Common Council Men, whom they were on Thurſday laſt to elect, were generally engaged therein excepting a very ſew; and that they could not find Men enough out of the ſaid Reſtriction to elect, or that would ſtand for Common Council-Men, Queſt-Men, Jury-Men, Conſtables, and other Officers of the City: therefore deſired that ſome ſpeedy courſe may be taken therein.

The Houſe debated hereupon, and at laſt ordered, that this buſineſs ſhould be referred to the conſideration of a Committee, who were ordered to report their opinions to the Houſe on Monday morning, that an expedient may be found out, whereby the City may be ſupplyed with Officers.

A Charge of ſpeedy puniſhment againſt great Delinquents to be drawn up.

The Houſe had much debate this day about bringing the great Delinquents of the Kingdom to ſpeedy puniſhment, and ordered a Committee of 38 to conſider of drawing up a Charge, and for that purpoſe to receive all Informations and Examinations of all Witneſſes for the matters of Fact againſt the King, and all other Delinquents, that may be thought fit to be brought to condign Puniſhment.

County of Somerſet encouraged an Aſſociation, &c.

THE Commons voted, that a Letter ſhould be ſent from the Houſe by way of encouragement to the County of Somerſet, to go on with ſettling their Aſſociation with the well affected, and the Forces of the Counties adjacent. They ordered Major Withers 1000 l. in part of a greater Sum, to be charged upon the Exciſe in courſe, with 8 per cent, per ann. from May 7. 1643, moſt part of it being lent Monys ſince that time. Seven Members of the Houſe declared their Diſſents to the Vote of December 5. 1648. The Committee named on Saturday laſt to conſider how to proceed in a way of Juſtice againſt the King, was enjoined to ſit this Afternoon. The Ordinance concerning the Militia of the Kingdom, is to be reported to morrow: moſt part of the day was ſpent in debate, whether the ſecluded Members ſhould be readmitted or not, but came to no reſult.

A Committee to conſider how to proceed againſt the King.

No Reſult about the ſecluded Members.

The Lords had a conferrence with the Commons, about Monys formerly granted unto the Lord Willoughby, part of his Arrears being 3000 l. which he had by Hand and Seal paſt over to ſuch as he was indebted unto, who accepted the ſecurity. The Commons upon his joining with the Prince, vote the Mony to pay the Lancaſhire Forces: the Lords conceived it a wrong to the Men to whom it was aſſigned, and recommend it to the Commons. They being very few that ſit in the Lords Houſe, it was ordered that all within 20 Miles appear by Thurſday, and all more remote within 14 Days after the receipt of the Order: it was moved that a Fine of 500 l. be ſet upon thoſe that did not appear, but not agreed unto.

A Petition kindly accepted from Norfolk, &c.

A Petition was this day preſented to the Houſe of Commons, in the name of the Inhabitants of the County of Norfolk, and very gratefully accepted: the Petition was as follows.

To the Honourable the Commons of England aſſembled in Parliament;

The Humble Petition of the well affected Gentlemen, and others the Inhabitants of the County of Norfolk and County of the City of Norwich,

Humbly ſheweth,

“That after a vaſt expence of Blood and Treaſure for many years continuance, we have expected a firmer eſtabliſhment of our native Liberties, but by the juſt hand of God upon us for our old and new Provocations in our unchriſtian Diviſions, and abominable Self-ſeeking that is amongſt us, even of all conditions, and through the reſtleſs malice of our ſecret and open Adverſaries, we are under the ſhadows of hope caſt back into as great fears and dangers as ever, having no greater ſecurity againſt our former evils than at firſt, if ſo much. Now to the end we may not deliver our ſelves to ruin by neglecting of our firſt Principles, ſeal'd with Oaths, Vows and Covenants, as well as the naturalities of Senſe and Reaſon, aſſuring common and publick, if not univerſal good hereby; We humbly offer theſe following Offers to the Honourable Houſe for the Redreſs of preſent, and prevention of future evils.

That the King, &c. be brought to Juſtice.

“Firſt. That preſent inquiry be made, who have been the chief Inſtruments of the King in the former or this latter War, and the late inviting and bringing in the Scots; and that he himſelf and all ſuch as have been the moſt notorious Incendiaries and Inſtruments in ſhedding Blood, may without further delay be brought to due and impartial Juſtice; the remiſſneſs in which upon ſerious Inquiſition we fear to be one of the chiefeſt cauſes of God's ſo great diſpleaſure in the ſeveral Judgments now on this Nation.

That the Courts of Juſtice, &c. be ſettled.

“2. That Courts of Juſtice, both for Law and Equity, Judges, Officers, and Fees certain, and Laws in the vulgar Tongue, and all other things concerning the Adminiſtration of Juſtice in this Kingdom, may without reſpect of Perſons be ſo ſpeedily ſettled as may agree moſt with the rule of Chriſtian Duty, juſt Reaſon, and the true Birthright and Privilege of Engliſh Men; and that accordingly impartial Commiſſioners be forthwith authorized and imployed to try the ſeveral Perſons that had any hand in the Mutinies in Norwich, Kent, and other Counties.

That the diſcharge of Debts be aſcertained.

“3. That ſome ſpeedy courſe be taken whereby the way of diſcharge of the Debts, eſpecially the publick Debts of the Kingdom, may be aſcertained, and to that end, that no more Compoſitions be made with Delinquents till they be all diſcharged, and the laſt Penny due as Arrears, or ſhall become due to the Army, ſatisfyed; and ſuch as ſhall be thought fit to be ſold, to be aſcertained, and the ſame accordingly performed, extending as well to the new as old Delinquents; and that all further Taxes for the ſecurity of the Kingdom may throughout the whole Kingdom be made as eaſy, and laid as proportionably, and ſo to be levied, as can by your Wiſdoms be conceived.

That ſuch as acted againſt the Parliament be diſcharged all Offices.

“4. That ſuch as have been in action in the laſt Wars, or formerly againſt the Commonwealth, may be diſcharged from all Offices and places of Truſt in Parliament or elſewhere; that under the notion of a Peer we be not voted or contrived into ruin by them that could not beat us into it; and to that end that a ſpecial Committee be ordained to order and regulate Affairs of State during the Intervals of Parliament.

That the Power of Militia may not be conferred on Malignants.

“5. That the Power of the Militia of the Kingdom may not be confer'd by your Authority upon Malignants or Neuters, but that the ſame may be put into ſuch hands only, whoſe Integrity, Fidelity and Affection to the Parliament cannot juſtly be ſuſpected.

That the Army's Faithfulneſs be vindicated againſt Aſperſions.

“6. That the Army, whoſe Faithfulneſs and Conſtancy we cannot but acknowledg, may be vindicated againſt all unjuſt Odiums and Aſperſions caſt upon them, eſpecially for their late Proceedings in order to impartial Juſtice on the capital Offenders, the beſt means to eſtabliſh this dying and almoſt miſerably deſtroyed Nation; and for the better preventing the odium of the People againſt them, occaſioned by Free-Quarter, that conſtant Pay be provided for them.

And Your Petitioners ſhall pray.

Petition of the Ld General's Officers, &c. in Kingſton.

For the Right Honourable the Commons of England aſſembled in Parliament.

The Humble Petition of his Excellency's Officers, and Souldiers in his Gariſon of Kingſton upon Hull.

Humbly Sheweth,

“That your Petitioners having with the late Addreſſes of this County ineffectually offered their own deſires for civil Juſtice to be done upon the Perſons and Eſtates of capital Offenders in the former and latter War, but finding that in the unmaſquing of theſe juſt Deſires of the Reprehenſions of the Houſe by their denyal or neglect, have hitherto ſtamped ſo great a diſcouragement on our minds and memories, as had almoſt ſilenced Truth and Innocency it ſelf; did not the ſatisfaction we have received from the Remonſtrance of our moſt renowned General, and his General Council of the Army, reinforce our courage and reſolution to caſt off that diſcommendable crime, of bluſhing at a virtuous Action, lying under the burden of ſo unſutable a ſilence in ſo common a concernment as hath throughly ingaged us in thoſe Re-Addreſſes to your Honours, wherein we devote our adherence to his Excellency, and the Army in their Remonſtrance, and the particulars of it; in which purſuance we re-petition your honourable and ſpeedy comportment, not doubting but the effectuating thereof will crown your former Councils, and perfect our preſent Peace: nor want we further hope, that the great Reaſon and Juſtice therein rendred will ſo powerfully on your parts perſuade, that you will not repent the Grant of what we have petitioned or ſerved for. Thus not fearing that our duty therein ſhall arrive at labour in vain, we do aſſert unto our ſelves, that our Love and Service to the publick Good, and your juſt Power and Privilege, ſhall ever run in an undivided Channel, which would otherways by the wounds of ſeparation bleed to Death. That your Honours may prove the Repairers of our Breaches, and the true proper Parents of Peace,

Your Petitioners will ever pray, &c.

Bethell's Articles about Scarborough approved.

A Letter this day was read from Col. Bethell of the Surrender of Scarborough, and a Copy of the Articles for Surrender thereof incloſed: the Houſe after the reading thereof voted, that they approved of and confirmed the ſaid Articles. They likewiſe ordered the Meſſenger that brought this good news ſhould have 40 l. given him.

Mr. Phelps to ſupply the Place of Clerk of Parliament.

Mr. Elſing the Clerk of the Parliament being of late much indiſpoſed to execute his place, they ordered Mr. Phelps, formerly Clerk of the Committee of plundred Miniſters, ſhould officiate the ſaid Place, he procuring a Deputation from Maſter Elſing.

13000 l. allowed to be tranſported to the Eaſt-Indies.

A Petition was this day preſented to the Houſe from the Merchants trading to the Eaſt-Indies, deſiring that they may have leave as formerly for the Tranſportation of 13000 l. worth of Bullion. The Houſe granted their Petition, and ordered the ſame accordingly.

A Petition of Col. Mackworth's &c. to the Ld Gen.

Several Petitions and Declarations have been preſented to the General and his Council at White-Hall in complyance with the Army's Remonſtrance; and the like to the Houſe of Commons, whereof ſome have been printed already: this following to the General (not being printed) is here inſerted.

To

Ann. 1648.

To his Excellency the Lord Fairfax, General of the Parliament's Forces in this Kingdom;

The Humble Petition of Col. Mackworth and the reſt of the Officers and Souldiers in the Gariſons of Shrewsbury and Ludlow in the County of Salop.

Humbly ſheweth,

Their diſlike of the Treaty with the K.

Their Concurrence with the Army's Remonſtrance.

“THat the Hearts of your Petitioners have been never freed from Fears, ſince they perceived a reſolution in the Houſes of Parliament to admit and carry on a perſonal Treaty with the King, which being petitioned ſo clamorouſly, cryed out for, and at length perfidiouſly ſought for by the Parliaments profeſſed Enemies, could never be imagined to be intended for good to the Parliaments Friends; and for that reaſon alone, beſides the many more of great weight againſt it, could never certainly have been effected, had not ſome of thoſe intruſted by the Kingdom, by Combination with the King's Party vigorouſly promoted his deſign in a Parliamentary way, as that which at length muſt conſummate and confirm whatever was plotted for the King's End and Purpoſes. But that God who comforteth the Abject, and loves to turn the Wiſdom of Carnal Men into Folly, hath in part freed us from our former Fears; and he having diſappointed them in their other deſigns, which were but in order thereunto, hath diſappointed them alſo in this, by putting an end (if at this diſtance we have the Truth) unto that evil Treaty, which notwithſtanding, and that our hopes are again revived by that faithful and judicious Remonſtrance lately ſent by your Excellency, and your Council of Officers to the Parliament, wherein the miſchiefs of the late Treaty and Miſeries lying yet upon the Kingdoms, with their probable Remedies, are declared, whereunto we hereby moſt gladly witneſs our Concurrence; yet ſuch is the Apoſtacy of ſome, Treachery of many, and untowardlineſs, or, to ſpeak the beſt, coldneſs of the moſt, that new Contrivances will not be wanting ſuddenly, nay are already begun in Ireland, as appears by the Marquiſs of Ormond's Declaration now publiſhed to the World, for the deſtroying of the well-affected Party in the three Kingdoms, and all that adhere to them, under ſuch Notions and Names as themſelves pleaſe to give them, and for the better fruſtration of all that good, which this Parliament, while they acted upon right Principles and unto right Ends, ſo happily had began.

Deſire the late Petitions of London, Leiceſter, &c. may be regarded.

“Wherefore your Petitioners humbly beſeech your Excellency, as you tender the Honour of God, the Welfare of this Nation in general, and more eſpecially the Lives and Liberties of thoſe of the Nation, that have engaged out of Conſcience and Honeſty for this Parliament, that you would ſtill continue to repreſent to the Houſe of Commons the deſires of us and of all their real Friends in the Kingdom, and earneſtly to mediate with them to conſider and regard the ſeveral late Petitions from London, Leiceſterſhire, the Northern Counties, and other places ſent them, leſt it be imputed to their perpetual diſhonour, that they have deſerted their firſt Principles, or intend to hearken to the Councils and Perſuaſions of their Enemies, rather than of thoſe who have hazarded their Lives and Fortunes in theirs and the Kingdoms juſt Quarrel; not ceaſing to lay before them the great Diſtractions and Dangers of the Nation, and how needful a preſent Settlement is by virtue of that Authority they have hitherto claimed and exerciſed, with any more Addreſſes to the King, who is not like to ſurceaſe the execution of thoſe miſchiefs he, and his Party by his Inſtigation, have unalterably reſolved: and to beſeech them, that after a general Invocation upon God, appointed throughout the Land for Direction and Succeſs, they would ſet all other Buſineſſes of leſſer Conſequence aſide, till this great Buſineſs of Settlement be effected.

That Juſtice be done on great Delinquents.

“And becauſe there is little hope of Peace with God or Man, while the Authors of our former and late Troubles, and of the Blood ſhed in the three Kingdoms, eſcape unpuniſhed; that your Excellency would be pleaſed to endeavour, that Juſtice may be done upon them in ſome exemplary way, ſuitable to their Crimes, without reſpect of Perſons, according to “God's own way of Proceeding, who is no reſpecter of Perſons; that ſo ſuch Snakes may be no longer nouriſhed in our Boſoms, who do but watch their opportunities at length to ſting us to Death. Many Grievances and Burdens by Free-Quarter, unequal Taxes, irregular corrupt and extorſive Proceedings in Courts of Juſtice, and other groſs miſcarriages in Government of the Commonwealth, call for ſpeedy Redreſs. But might the mentioned particulars be once ſeriouſly intended, we ſhould not need to deſpair of ſome Reformation in thoſe; In reference to all which, we ſhall depend upon the ordinary Remedy by Parliament, till God declare by evident Demonſtrations of his Will in the paſſage of his Providence, that that extraordinary is to be reſorted unto, which is never denyed in caſe of extremity to any People. And having thus ſet before our eyes, from what God ſeems to have diſcovered by his miraculous paſt Deliverance, and leading us in ſafety through all the difficulties our Enemies could deviſe, to hinder our departure out of ſpiritual and civl Bondage, that there remains for us yet a promiſed Canaan; We do therefore reſolve, God ſtrengthning us, to follow your Excellency and the reſt of thoſe Conductors raiſed up and ſpirited for ſo great a Work, through a Sea of Blood, to attain the Fruition thereof.

Signed by us the ſeveral Officers of the ſeveral Companies in the ſaid Gariſons, for our ſelves and the ſaid Companies, by their Appointment and Agreement.

Mayor of Wincheſter, &c. deliver a Speech to his Majeſty, notwithſtanding the Votes of Parliament.

From Windſor, December 25. Sir, I am ſorry there ſhould be the leaſt ground of Jealouſy or cauſe of any Report, that honeſt Col. Ewer, Governour of Hurſt-Caſtle, ſhould refuſe to deliver us the King; If I had not been ſatisfied it was the Report of the Malignants, I ſhould have been more troubled at it. When we came with him to Wincheſter, the Wiſe Mayor and Aldermen of that Corporation, came to meet him at the Towns end, with a learned Speech, and according to former cuſtom, preſented their Mace unto his Majeſty. The Commander in chief came afterwards to the Mayor, and told him, that the Houſe had voted, that no Addreſſes ſhould be made to, or received from the King, and that ſuch as did either, were declared to be Traytors; that himſelf in making this Addreſs, had brought himſelf and his Brethren within the Compaſs of that Vote; and that they muſt all be proceeded againſt as Rebels and Traytors. The Mayor and his Brethren being much terrified herewith, ſome of them became humble Suitors to the Colonel that commanded the Brigade, to mediate for them to the Parliament for mercy, as being ignorant and ſimple of any ſuch Votes and Proceedings of Parliament, begging with much importunity for Pardon for what they had done, and they ſhould ever be more cautious what they did in the like caſe for the future. His Majeſty coming to Bagſhot after Dinner, called for his Coach, which they told him was gone before: he then commanded his Horſe to be brought him; which he perceived lame, asking his Groom how he came ſo; he anſwered, that ſince his Majeſty's coming into that Town, a piece of a Nail had unfortunately run into his Foot, at which his Majeſty was much troubled. A Knight hereupon near that Town, ſent him a brave Gelding, which the Party was ſomewhat fearful might be too light of Foot for them, therefore ſome good Horſe were commanded for Flankers till he came off the Downs: he rode very faſt, but when all things are conſidered, you'l find he might have taken more leiſure.

His Majeſty angry about the lameneſs of his Horſe.

Things quiet about Dublin.

Dublin December 14. Theſe Parts are quiet beyond expectation, which we can impute to nothing but the diviſions among our Enemies: 100 Foot from each Regiment and about 300 Horſe begin their march to morrow, under Command of Col. Caſtell towards the Nobbe, a Gariſon of the Enemies, which we took in twice laſt Year, and utterly demoliſhed; yet ſuch is the Situation thereof, that it hath been again fortified: thoſe in it are ſo active, and therein ſo obnoxious to our Quarters, that if we deſtroy it not, we ſhall be exceedingly prejudiced.

The laſt Intelligence from our Enemies declare their diſtractions both certain and great, not only at Kilkenny, but in other parts: we are from good hands aſſured, they are like to increaſe; for Owen Roe hath erected a Provincial Council for the North, which is to reſide at Belturbat in the County of Cavan, where himſelf and his Forces now are: he prepares for action, yet we believe not this way, but rather in the North and Weſt. Sir Robert Welſh and a Scotiſh Knight are lately landed at Galway from the Prince, himſelf ſhortly after expected, as neceſſary to carry on the Conqueſt of this Kingdom;

No Ceremonies to be obſerved to the King.

The Council of War, who now manage buſineſs as in relation to the King, have ordered the way of State and Majeſty about him, as to Perſons and Manner, viz. that nothing be done upon the Knee, and that all Ceremonies of State to the King be left off, and his Attendance is to be with fewer, and at leſs Charges, &c.

Ordinance for Election of Common-Council committed.

AN Ordinance of Explanation of the former Ordinance of Parliament of 20 of December inſtant concerning the electing of Common-Council-Men and other Officers of the City of London, was this day read the firſt and ſecond time, and upon the Queſtion committed.

Election of Common-Council to be as formerly.

And becauſe the well affected of the ſaid City ſhould be confident, that the Houſe would adhere to their ſaid former Ordinance concerning this buſineſs, They ordered that the Lord Mayor and Common-Council-Men, and others of the ſaid City ſhould be required to proceed in electing of a new Common-Council, according to the ſaid former Ordinance, and not otherwiſe.

Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy to be taken away.

And becauſe that the Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy, and others, are enforc'd upon all the People, before they can be made free of the ſaid City; The Houſe therefore ordered, for the prevention of the like Inconveniences for the future, that the ſaid illegal Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy, and all other of the like nature, ſhould be referred to the conſideration of the ſaid Committee, to whom this Ordinance was committed, to the end they may for the future be taken away.

A Committee reports an Ordinance for attainting the King of High-Treaſon.

The Committee appointed to conſider of the drawing up of a Charge againſt, and of the manner of the Tryal of his Majeſty, reported an Ordinance this Day to the Houſe for attainting him of High Treaſon, and for trying him by ſuch Commiſſioners as ſhould be nominated in the Body of the ſaid Ordinance: the Houſe having read it the firſt time, ordered it to be read the ſecond time to morrow Morning at 10 a Clock. The Charge runs thus.

The Charge againſt him.

" That Charles Stuart hath acted contrary to his Truſt, in departing from " the Parliament, ſetting up his Standard, making a War againſt them, and " thereby been the occaſion of much Bloodſhed and Miſery to the People " whom he was ſet over for good: That he gave Commiſſions to Iriſh Rebels, " &c. and ſince was the occaſion of a ſecond War, &c. beſides what he has " done contrary to the Liberties of the Subject, and tending to the deſtruction of the Fundamental Laws and Liberties of this Kingdom, &c.

Friday, December 29.

The foreſaid Ordinance committed.

THE Houſe according to former Order proceeded in the reading of the Ordinance for impeaching of Charles Stuart of High Treaſon the ſecond time; which done, they ſpent much time in debate thereof, and ordered that the ſaid Ordinance ſhould be committed to a Committee to be choſen for that purpoſe to conſider thereof, and report the ſame to the Houſe with all ſpeed.

The Houſe likewiſe ordered that the Pinnace called The Conſtant Warwick ſhould not be ſold, but diſpoſed of for the Service of the Kingdom, for which purpoſe it was ordered to be referred to the Committee of the Navy.

Maj. Pitcher ſhot to Death.

This Day the Major mentioned laſt week, was ſhot to Death in Paul's-Church-Yard: For better ſatiſfaction of the cauſe of his Death, take the Judgment of the Council of War paſt upon him as followeth.

The Judgment of the Council of War againſt him.

> “WHereas William Pitcher, known by the Name of Major Pitcher, having a long time ſerved in the King's Party againſt the Parliament, and in that Service having been a moſt violent and bitter Enemy, guilty of many and exorbitant Outrages; and upon the Articles for the Surrender of Worceſter, having engaged not to bear Arms any more againſt the Parliament, and yet being the laſt Summer found again in Arms againſt the Parliament at Pembrook, and there for that and other Cauſes upon Treaty for Surrender thereof, inſiſted upon to be at mercy for Quarter, but upon importunity of the Enemies Commiſſioners on his behalf, being allowed liberty to go beyond Sea within ſix Weeks, and not return into this Kingdom for the ſpace of two Years, without leave from the Parliament, otherwiſe to forfeit the Benefit of the Articles (which implyed, as was then declared, that in caſe of ſuch Forfeiture he ſhould have no Quarter, but die without Mercy) nevertheleſs the ſaid Major Pitcher hath continued ever ſince in England, and was found lurking in London ſince the Proclamation requiring all of the King's Party, who had not compounded, to depart the Town. And there being evidence of his lying here, in deſign to liſt Men for the King, in order to a new Diſturbance; the Council of War hath hereupon adjudg'd, that he has broke his Faith as a Souldier given in the ſaid Engagement at Worceſter, and forfeited the Benefit of his Articles at Pembrook: and upon this Ground, with other Reaſons aforementioned, have thought fit, that he ſhould have no further Quarter, but Death, according to the general Cuſtoms and Laws of War; and according to the Articles againſt Spies, have adjudged him to be ſhot to Death. In the Name and by the Authority of the Court Martial,

Dated at White-Hall this 29th Signed
Day of December, 1648. HENRY WHALEY Advocate.

Lilburne's Diſſent in ſome particulars from the Agreement of the People.

A Petition was delivered to the Council of the Army by John Lilburne and others by way of Diſſent in ſome particulars of the Army's Proceeding upon the Agreement of the People.

Report concerning the old and petty Cuſtoms.

The Committee of the Navy did this day report to the Houſe, the Anſwer of the Commiſſioners of the old and petty Cuſtoms, concerning the advance of 6000 l. for the preſent ſervice of the Navy. The Houſe ordered hereupon that it ſhould be referred to the Committees of the Revenues, and the Navy, to conſider of and confer with the ſaid Commiſſioners of the old and petty Cuſtoms, how the ſaid old and petty Cuſtoms may be ſettled for reimburſing the ſaid 6000 l. to be ſent to the ſaid Commiſſioners for the preſent Supply of the Navy.

Report of the Accounts at Goldſmiths-Hall.

The Committee formerly appointed to conſider of the State of Accounts at Goldſmiths-Hall, made a report this day to the Houſe of what Monys were due from Delinquents that have compounded, and paid no part of their Compoſition Monys; from other Delinquents that have paid in their firſt Moiety, but not the ſecond according to Ingagement: Likewiſe of what Monys are charged upon that Receipt; and what in Arrears to be paid by them according to ſeveral Ordinances of Parliament. The Houſe hereupon ordered that this Report ſhould be referred to the conſideration of a Committee to be named for that purpoſe, which accordingly was named.

The General Council of the Army ſat this Day alſo in White-Hall, and paſſed the remaining Articles of the Agreement of the People, and appointed a Committee to meet the next day, to conſider of a Form of Concluſion and Subſcription to this Agreement, as to the Officers of the Army.

Saturday, December 30.

THE Houſe of Commons this day heard the Petition of Mrs. Jennings, concerning her Brother a Member of the Houſe, his detaining her Portion from her, and will neither accompt nor anſwer her in Law, pleading his Priviledg as a Member of Parliament: the Houſe referred it to a Committee.

The Houſe ordered 2500 and odd Pounds owing Mr. Smithsby for Saddles and other Horſe Furniture.

The Committee appointed for Attainder of the King to make Proviſion in caſe he would not plead.

The Houſe again had reported to them the Ordinance of Attainder and Charge againſt the King, in the Name of Charles Stuart, for High-Treaſon; and ordered that the ſame ſhould be committed to the former Committee choſen for that buſineſs, who were to meet this Afternoon, and inſert the Names of ſuch Commiſſioners as ſhould be appointed by the ſaid Ordinance for the Tryal of him: they were likewiſe to make ſome ſpecial Proviſion in caſe the King ſhould refuſe to plead to the Charge againſt him, and were to make Report of the whole Buſineſs on Monday morning next.

Mr. Watſon has not the Thanks of the Houſe for his Sermon, and why.

The Houſe ſpent much time in debate of the two Miniſters that preached the laſt Faſt Day before them, whether they ſhould have the Thanks of the Houſe or not, one of them, Mr. Watſon, not acknowledging them to be a Parliament.

The Houſe at laſt came to this reſult, That Mr. Brooks ſhould have Thanks, and leave to print his Sermon if he pleaſed, but not the other. They had then much debate concerning the repealing the Ordinance for Monthly Faſts, and nominating peculiar days as occaſion offers, but came to no Reſult.

Proceedings in Parliament from January 1. till February 3. 1648.

An Act of the Commons of England aſſembled in Parliament for erecting a High Court of Juſtice for trying and judging of Charles Stuart King of England.

Act for erecting a High Court of Juſtice.

“WHereas it is notorious, That Charles Stuart, the now King of England, not content with thoſe many Encroachments which his Predeceſſors had made upon the People in their Rights and Freedoms, hath had a wicked Deſign totally to ſubvert the antient and fundamental Laws and Liberties of this Nation, and in their Trade to introduce an Arbitrary and Tyrannical Government; and that beſides all other evil Ways and Means to bring this Deſign to paſs, he hath proſecuted it with Fire and Sword, levyed and maintained a cruel War in the Land againſt the Parliament and Kingdom, whereby the Country has been miſerably waſted, the publick Treaſure exhauſted, Trade decayed, Thouſands of People murdered, and infinite other Miſchiefs commited; for all which high and Treaſonable Offences the ſaid Charles Stuart might long ſince juſtly have been brought to exemplary and condign Puniſhment: Whereas alſo the Parliament, well hoping that the Reſtraint and Impriſonment of his Perſon, after it had pleaſed God to deliver him into their Hands, would have quieted the Diſtempers of the Kingdom, did forbear to proceed judicially againſt him; but found by ſad experience, that ſuch their remiſſneſs ſerved only to encourage him and his Complices in the continuance of their evil Practiſes, and in raiſing of new Commotions, Rebellions and Invaſions. For prevention therefore of the like or greater Inconveniences, and to the end no chief Officer or Magiſtrate whatſoever, may hereafter preſume Traitorouſly and Maliciouſly to imagin or contrive the enſlaving or deſtroying of the Engliſh Nation, and to expect impunity for ſo doing: Be it ordained and enacted by the Commons in Parliament, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the Authority thereof, That Thomas Lord Fairfax, Oliver Cromwel, Henry Ireton Eſqs; Sir Hardreſſe Waller Knight, Philip Skippon, Valentine Walton, Thomas Harriſon, Edward Whaley, Thomas Pride, Iſaac Ewer, Richard Ingoldsby, Henry Mildmay Eſqs; Sir Thomas Honywood, Thomas Lord Grey of Groby, Philip Lord Liſle, William Lord Mounſon, Sir John Danvers, Sir Thomas Maleverer Baronet, Sir John Bourchier, Sir James Harrington, Sir William Alanſon, Sir Henry Mildmay, Sir Thomas Wroth Knight, Sir William Maſham, Sir John Barrington, Sir William Brereton Baronets, Robert Wallop, William Heveningham Eſqs; Iſaac Penington, Thomas Atkins, Rowland Wilſon Aldermen of the City of London, Sir Peter Wentworth Knight of the Bath, Henry Martin, William Pureſoy, Godfrey Roſvile, John Trenchard, Herbert Morley, John Barkſtead, Matthew Thomlinſon, John Blackiſton, Gilbert Millington Eſqs; Sir William Conſtable Baronet, Edmond Ludlow, John Lambert, John Hutchinſon Eſqs; Sir Arthur Haſlerig, Sir Michael Liveſey Baronets, Richard Salway, Humphrey Salway, Robert Tichburne, Owen Roe, Robert Manwaring, Robert Lilburne, Adrian Scroope, Richard Deane, John Okey, Robert Overton, John Huſon, John Desborough, William Goffe, Robert Duckenfield, Cornelius Holland, John Carew Eſqs; Sir William Armyn Baronet, John Jones, Miles Corbett, Francis Allen, Thomas Liſter, Benjamin Weſton, Peregrine Pelham, John Gourden Eſqs; Francis Thorpe Serjeant at Law, John Nutt, Thomas Chaloner, Algernon Sydney, John Anlaby, John More, Richard Darley, William Say, John Alured, John Fagg, James Nelthorpe Eſqs; Sir William Roberts Knight, Francis Laſſells, Alexander Rigby, Henry Smith, Edmond Wild, James Chaloner, Joſias Berners, Dennis Bond, Humphrey Edwards, Gregory Clement,

January 1.

The Ordinance of Attainder againſt the King again reported.

THIS Day (according to former Order) the Commons had again reported to them the Ordinance of Attainder againſt the King, in the Name of Charles Stuart, and the Names of ſuch Commiſſioners as ſhould try him, conſiſting of Lords, Commons, Officers of the Army, Aldermen, and other Commanders of the City, with ſome Gentlemen from the Counties, all of them conſiſting of 150; their Names before: and 20 of them are to be a Committee for the Tryal of him, and to give Sentence againſt him. By this Ordinance the Commiſſioners are limited to a Months time to make a full Determination of the Buſineſs. The Place of Tryal is not named in the Ordinance, ſo that whether it will be at Windſor or Weſtminſter is not yet known. The Ordinance is to be ſent to morrow to the Houſe of Lords for their concurrence. And to confirm the preſent Tryal and Foundation thereof, and prevention of the like for the future, the Houſe declared, viz.

The Houſes declare it High Treaſon in the King to levy War againſt the Parliament.

Reſolved, That the Lords and Commons aſſembled in Parliament, do declare and adjudg, That by the Fundamental Laws of this Realm it is Treaſon in the King of England for the time to come to levy War againſt the Parliament and Kingdom of England.

The Houſe ordered an Ordinance to be brought in for enabling the Commiſſioners of Southwales and Monmouth to proceed upon the ſequeſtring of Delinquents Eſtates in the ſaid Counties, and to remove Obſtructions therein.

A Letter this day came from Mr. Elſing, Clerk of the Houſe of Commons, deſiring the Houſe, by reaſon of his preſent Indiſpoſition, to appoint a Clerk to attend them. The Houſe hereupon voted that a Committee ſhould be appointed to ſend to Mr. Elſing, to take an account of him where the Books and Records of that Houſe are, and to inventory the ſaid Books and Records; and to preſent the names of fit and able Perſons, that a ſufficient Clerk may be elected out of them to be Clerk to the Houſe.

A Committee appointed to take an Account of the Books of the Houſe, &c.

They likewiſe voted Mr. Phelps to be Clerk-Aſſiſtant to the Houſe, and ordered Mr. Darnel the preſent Clerk-Aſſiſtant 200 l. in part of 500 l. out of the Revenue.

A Committee was appointed to conſider of Anticipations upon Goldſmiths-Hall, Exciſe, and other Treaſuries; and how to take off, or otherwiſe ſecure and ſatisfy the ſame, and to prevent Obſtructions in the bringing in of ſeveral Revenues.

A Committee to take off Anticipations, &c.

The Lord Chancellor at the late renewing of the Covenant in Scotland, ſtood up in his Pew, and made a publick acknowledgment of his late Failings in ſelf-ſeeking, and countenancing the laſt wicked Engagement, which he performed ſo orthodoxly with Tears, and ſo pathetically deſired the People to pray for him, that there was great weeping amongſt them. Some Lords at Hame, St. Clare, Hatfield, and others, are called before the Committee of Eſtates to give caution for their peaceable Behaviour in the Kingdom. Sir, Our approaches go on very forward, though our want of Pay be great; the Enemy ſeem much divided, and more diſcontented, ſome coming out daily by eſcape; our Guns are come to us, and we ſhall begin to make Batteries within theſe few days: It's great pity the Militia of this County ſhould be diſbanded, many of them being very honeſt.

The Enemy in Pontefract divided.

We hear of ſome Overtures made by the Army for engaging them, and all the Supernumeraries of this Kingdom for the Service of Ireland: The Service will be gallant, and the Deſign ſuperlative; and if old Noll, or any other Man of Gallantry and Fidelity do accept of that Brigade, he cannot want Men or Monies: Beſides, it will be a great diverſion of Deſigns both at home and abroad.

SIR,

‘Since the Parliament hath empowered us to raiſe Forces, and join our ſelves in Aſſociation with the Army, and other well-affected People in the adjacent Counties, We have not been altogether unactive in the ſaid buſineſs; but hope to bring it into ſuch a ſpeedy way, as may be ſafe for this County, eſpecially all the well-affected therein, and thoſe that join with us. Times may come poſſibly to put all the Honeſt Party of the Kingdom to their Shifts; and I could heartily wiſh that all other Counties of the Kingdom would begin betimes to provide for their own Securities; when they do deſire it, the opportunity being let ſlip, it may be too late: and ſurely if all the well-affected in each County would ſpeedily ſtrike into an Aſſociation, it might be a great Diverſion of all our Enemies Deſigns, and give us hope of quietneſs and peace in this Nation. And ſeeing that the Presbyterian Miniſters are to be fruſtrate in their Intentions to enjoy Pluralities, and the tenth part of every Man's Eſtate, the People being left to a free choice of their

‘their Miniſter, and what Miniſtry; no doubt but they will endeavour, and we find it now their main deſign in this County to preach down the Power of God in his Miniſters indeed, and to preach for forms of Government, and eſpecially for their God (the continuance of Tythes) of purpoſe to incenſe the People againſt this Reformation indeed both in Church and State, the benefit whereof our Childrens Children will have cauſe to bleſs us for. And in reſpect likewiſe that the Grand Delinquent of the Kingdom, Charles Stuart, is to be brought to ſpeedy Juſtice, for which we have much cauſe to bleſs God, we ſhall find his Party as active as the other; and tho the Presbyters made but a ſeeming, tho a real and abſolute Conjunction with their Brother Malignants for the carrying on of his traiterous Intereſts, yet we fear you ſhall find them this next Summer declaratively join with them for revenge of his Army, and all that have adhered to them. And therefore it is high time for all honeſt Men in the ſeveral Counties to aſſociate betimes, before it be too late.

Tueſday, January 2.

The Lords Concurrence deſired for trial of the King.

The Lords ſtick on that part, that it is Treaſon in the King, &c.

THE Ordinance for trial of the King was by Meſſage this day carried up to the Lords for their Concurrence: there ſat many more Lords this day in the Houſe than uſual of late, as the Earl of Northumberland, Earl of Mancheſter, Earl of Rutland, Lords North, Rochford, Maynard, Dacres, in all 16, the Earl of Denbigh Speaker. The Lords read the Ordinance, but ſtuck much upon that declaratory Vote, viz. The Lords and Commons do declare and adjudg, That (by the fundamental Laws of this Realm) it is Treaſon in the King of England, for the time being, to levy War againſt the Parliament and Kingdom of England, the Lords Concurrence to be deſired. At laſt they agreed, as to a preſent anſwer to the Commons, that they would ſend anſwer by Meſſengers of their own; and laying aſide the buſineſs, adjourned until Thurſday come ſevennight.

Wedneſday, January 3.

THE Committee that were formerly ordered to attend the Earl of Warwick for a Liſt of the Names of all ſuch Perſons who had any Command in the laſt Fleet, made Report thereof this day to the Houſe.

The Houſe ordered that the ſaid Liſt ſhould be referred to the Conſideration of the Committee of the Navy.

The Lords agree not to the Trial of the King.

The Houſe of Commons taking notice that the Lords had ejected their Ordinance for trial of the King, and adjourned for a Week, they firſt paſt Inſtructions for ſome of their Members to go up to examine the Lords Journal-book, concerning their Declaration and Ordinance that was the Day before ſent up for Trial of the King: and at their return they brought to the Houſe three Votes which their Lordſhips had made, viz. 1. To ſend anſwer by Meſſengers of their own: 2. That their Lordſhips do not concur to the Declaration: and 3. That their Lordſhips rejected the Ordinance for the Trial of the King.

Hereupon the Commons voted, that all Members of the Houſe of Commons, and others appointed by Order of that Houſe, or Ordinance of both Houſes of Parliament, to act in any Ordinance wherein the Lords are joined, be empowered and enjoined to ſit, act, and execute in the ſaid ſeveral Committees of themſelves, notwithſtanding the Houſe of Peers join not with them herein.

An Expedient concerning the King.

They then alſo ordered an Expedient to be brought concerning the King, the Subſtance like the former Ordinance for his Trial, with the foregoing Declaration intended for both Houſes, now to be by the Commons only: The Committee to ſit preſently, and to report it this Afternoon, during which time of that Committee's ſitting the Houſe adjourned.

Afterwards the Houſe ſat again, and the Ordinance was reported by the ſaid Committee according to the Inſtructions which were made, and recommitted back again to the ſaid Committee, and ordered to be brought in again the next day.

The ſaid Ordinance reported by the Committee.

The ſix Lords to be left out in this, and alſo the three Judges, Serjeant Bradſhaw, Serjeant Nichols, &c. to be put in, and Mr. Steel and others to be Aſſiſtants.

Six Lords to be left out, and 3 Judges to be put in.

Mr. Speaker acquainted the Houſe with a Letter he had received by the French Ambaſſador from the Queen of England out of France: the Letter upon Debate was laid aſide, and not read.

A Letter was ſent by his Excellency the Lord Fairfax to the ſeveral Counties hereafter named, about their Aſſeſſments for the Army, as followeth:

Excellency's Letter to ſeveral Counties.

Gentlemen,

“I Deſire you would cauſe the Arrears of the Aſſeſſments for the Army that is in your Counties to be forthwith brought unto your Treaſurers, and the laſt ſix Months ſeſſed, levyed, collected, and brought in as aforeſaid, to the end it may be ready to ſupply that Regiment who ſhall have your County for its Aſſignations of Pay, by Order and Warrant from the Committee of Lords and Commons for the Army, which you ſhall have very ſuddenly. This being performed, I ſhall take care that the heavy Burden of free Quarter ſhall be removed from all thoſe who ſhall duly pay in their Aſſeſſments: expecting your performance hereof, I remain

Queenſtreet,
Jan. 2. 1648.

Your very aſſured Friend,

T. Fairfax.

This Letter was ſent to the Committees of the ſeveral Counties hereunder named, viz. Kent, Surry, Barkſhire, Buckinghamſhire, Hartford, Bedford, Huntingdon, Cambridg, Suffolk, Norfolk, Eſſex, Middleſex, Suſſex, Hampſhire, Wiltſhire, Northamptonſhire, Leiceſterſhire, Warwick.

Thurſday, January 4.

THE Houſe this day, as was appointed, had the Ordinance for the Trial of the King by the name of Charles Stuart, reported with ſome Amendments: And in reſpect the Houſe of Lords had rejected it, they ordered the Houſe ſhould be turned into a grand Committee to conſider of the Power of the Commons of England when aſſembled in Parliament: In fine, the Committee came to this Reſolution, that it ſhould be reported to the Houſe theſe Votes following as the opinion of the ſaid Committee, viz.

A grand Committee to conſider of the Power of the Commons.

Reſolved, That the Commons of England aſſembled in Parliament do declare, That the People under God are the Original of all juſt Powers.

They do likewiſe declare, That the Commons of England Aſſembled in Parliament, being choſen by, and repreſenting the People, have the ſupreme Authority of this Nation.

They do likewiſe declare, That whatſoever is enacted and declared Law by the Commons of England aſſembled in Parliament, hath the force of Law, and all the People of this Nation are included thereby, although the conſent and concurrence of the King and Houſe of Peers be not had thereunto.

The People are the Original of Power.
The Commons in Parliament have the ſupreme Authority.
What the Commons enacts, has the force of Law.

Theſe being reported to the Houſe, the Houſe put them one after another to the queſtion, and there was not one Negative Voice to any one of them. Then an Ordinance for Trial of Charles Stuart was again read and aſſented unto, and ordered to be forthwith ingroſſed in Parchment, and to be brought in to morrow Morning.

An Ordinance aſſented for trying the King.

An. 1648.

The Houſe ordered that the Clerk of that Houſe ſhould be enjoyned not to give out any Copy of the ſaid Ordinance for Trial of Charles Stuart, either to any Member of the Houſe, or any other whatſoever.

Friday, January 5.

Ld Mayor to proceed to new Election of Common Council.

THE Houſe was informed that the City of London did inſiſt upon the giving Oath to the new elected Common Council-men, and that they would not admit them till they had taken the ſaid Oaths. The Houſe hereupon ordered that the Lord Mayor of the ſaid City ſhould be required to ſuſpend the taking the ſaid Oaths, and proceed to perfect their Elections of Common Council-men.

Scandalous and unlicenſed Pamphlets to be proſecuted.

The Houſe this day ſpent ſome time in debate of ſcandalous and unlicenſed Pamphlets, and how far they are prejudicial and diſhonourable to this Nation, and deſtructive to preſent Affairs: and for prevention and ſuppreſſion of the ſame for the future, the Houſe ordered that his Excellency the Lord General ſhould be deſired to command his Marſhal General of the Army by himſelf and Deputies to put the Ordinance of the 28*th* of September, 1647. concerning ſcandalous and unlicenſed Pamphlets, into ſpeedy execution.

All Acts to be entred in a large Book.

The Houſe taking notice that the Acts, Ordinances, and other Records of this and former Parliaments have been much neglected to be entred in any Journal-books, but lie abroad in Papers and Rolls, whereby they are ſubject to be loſt: The Houſe thereupon ordered that a large Book of Vellum ſhould be forthwith made up, and all the ſaid Records entred therein.

A Committee to receive publick Monies concealed, &c.

The Committee appointed by the General and the Council of the Army ſat at Whitehall, for the receiving of any publick Monys concealed by any Committees, particular Treaſurers, or any others, and for taking any juſt and probable Propoſitions for raiſing preſent Monys for payment of the Debts of the Common-wealth.

In each of which ſpecial Care ſhall be taken, that the People ſhall not be burdened by any Impoſitions: ſo that the Diſcoverers and Propoſers ſhall be fully rewarded out of the Mony brought in, as the Parliament hath already provided by Ordinance; and Arrears due to any that have truly and faithfully ſerved the Parliament and Kingdom, ſhall be proportionably allowed out of ſuch Monys as they can diſcover to this Committee, who meet de die in diem at Whitehall from 9 in the morning till 12 at noon, and from 3 in the afternoon until 5.

Saturday, January 6.

Ordinance for trying the King.

THE Ordinance of Parliament for trying of the King was this day brought in fairly ingroſſed in Parchment according to former Order, and was read and aſſented unto: the manner of his Trial as before; the time and place whether at London or Windſor, nothing further; but that is left to the Commiſſioners who are to try him, and they are to meet on Monday next in the Painted Chamber Weſtminſter, and to proceed in order as to the Trial, which they are to go on withal without intermiſſion.

Scots deſire the King may not be tried without the Advice of their Nation.

A Letter came from the Committee of Eſtates in Scotland reſident here, laying open and preſſing much for Unity of Councils and Actions, according to the Covenants betwixt the two Kingdoms, deſiring that the Houſe would not proceed to try or execute the King till the advice of that Nation be had thereunto. The parliament of Scotland ſat down laſt Thurſday the 4*th* Inſtant: We will not preſage any thing of their Proceedings until it diſcover it ſelf.

The Scots Letter was not read, but ordered to be conſidered of another time. The Houſe had much debate concerning Proceedings of Law, the iſſuing of Writs, and the like, in what Name they ſhould now be made, in relation that King and Lords are laid aſide.

The Houſe referred it to a Committee to draw up an Expedient, and report to the Houſe with ſpeed.

The Common-Council of London this day agreed upon an Order to be publiſhed in all Churches to morrow about the Aſſeſſments of the Army.

January 16.

A Fortnights pay order'd for the Army.

WHereas the ſum of 19000 l. being a Fornights pay for the Forces under the command of his Excellency the Lord Fairfax, is required to be paid out of the Arrears of the four former Aſſeſſments, on or before Wedneſday next, or elſe that the whole Army muſt of neceſſity be quartered in the City of London; for prevention whereof, a Committee by order of Common-Council, made their Addreſs unto the Committee of the Army, with a deſire that the ſaid Committee would be pleaſed to forbear the quartering of Souldiers in the City until that day, or ſuch further time as might be obtained, in which time the ſaid 19000 l. ſhall be paid. To which the Committee of the Army returned Anſwer:

The Committee's Anſwer.

That if they ſhall not underſtand upon Thurſday next that the ſaid Mony ſhall be paid to the relief of the ſaid Forces on Friday next, or then receive the names of thoſe which are in arrear upon the ſaid Aſſeſſments, that then they ſhall be forced to quarter the whole Army within this City on Saturday next, and eſpecially on them that are in Arrear. Wherefore for the better avoiding of inconveniences and danger to the City, it is the deſire of this Court and Common-Council, that the ſeveral Miniſters of this City will to morrow in the Forenoon and Afternoon openly publiſh this unto the Congregations, and effectually move and ſtir up the People to pay their Mony in Arrears for the ſaid Army on Monday next, wherein the ſaid 19000 l. may be furniſhed as is required.

This day the general Council of Officers heard the whole Report of the Officers appointed to propoſe what particulars of the Agreement of the People were fundamental or eſſential, and what not; and paſſed a Declaration or form of Subſcription to the Agreement. The Alterations are to be propounded to the Council on Monday next: and then the whole Agreement will be finiſhed, and accordingly ſubſcribed.

Monday, January 8.

Sir Charles Coot defeated a Party of Rebels in the County of Galloway.

THIS Day a Letter was read in the Houſe of Commons from Sir Charles Coot from Londonderry in Ireland, giving an account of the preſent Affairs and condition of the Parliament's Forces under his Command; which was to this purpoſe, That a while ago he marched forth with the Forces of the Province of Connaught from his Head Quarters, to the Town and Fort of Sligo, 70 Miles into the Enemies Country, to a place called Shrewel in the County of Galloway; that after a little conflict with the Rebels, ſome of them were killed; and that his Party burned great Store of their Corn, preyed the Country all along, brought away 1000 of their Cows, and returned without loſs: That from thence he returned to Londonderry to his Command, where he apprehended Sir Robert Stuart, and hath ſince ſent him over with a Charge againſt him: That ſince this he is poſſeſſed of Kilmore, and 14 great Guns, which Sir Robert Stuart endeavoured to block up both by Sea and Land, whereby to ſtarve and take the City at pleaſure, in ſtopping and offering to ſink the Ships with the late Proviſions the Parliament ſent thither for the relief of the City, and ſeveral other Veſſels from England and Scotland, which he would not ſuffer to paſs or traffique with the City, until it was neceſſitated to grant him advantageous Conditions. He alſo intimated his ſeizing of Leſfard Fort, Caſtle Dorrige, and Caſtle M. Gra. the Fiſhings of Loughfoyle, and ſome Cuſtoms of Londonderry.

Seized Sir Robert Stuart, &c.

Sir Robert Stuart to be tried, and Sir Charles Coot to be reliev'd.

The Houſe after reading hereof, and the Charge encloſed againſt Sir Robert Stuart, voted, That it ſhould be referred to the Lord General and Council of War, to try Sir Robert Stuart, upon the matters charged againſt him, and that the Proſecutors do give in their Charge againſt him to the Council of War; and that the ſaid Council be deſired to ſecure the Perſon of the ſaid Sir Robert Stuart, till the ſaid Trial be ended. They likewiſe voted that it ſhould be referred to the General and Council of War to take into conſideration the deſires of Sir Charles Coot to have Relief and Supplies ſpeedily ſent unto him.

The Conſideration of ſecuring the Holy-Iſland, was then preſented to the Parliament: and they ordered thereupon that the Lord General ſhould be deſired to take ſpecial care of the Safeguard thereof. They gave Sir Charles Coot thanks for his extraordinary Services, and confirmed his Poſſeſſion of Culmore Fort, and other places; approved of his apprehending Sir Robert Stuart, and others, that fled into, and that were engaged againſt the Parliament and Army in this Kingdom, and likewiſe Scotland in the laſt Summer's Rebellion.

Thanks given to Sir Charles Coot, &c.

They voted that the Counties of Northumberland, Cumberland, Weſtmorland, Biſhoprick of Durham, and Towns of Newcaſtle and Barwick ſhould ſince the 28*th* of November laſt have the benefit of the Sequeſtrations of all Delinquents, and the Fines of old Delinquents for their new Delinquencies, for the disbanding of the Forces raiſed in thoſe Counties and Places.

Counties of Northumberland, &c. to have the benefit of Sequeſtrations.

The general Council of the Army intended to perfect the Agreement this day, if the ſitting of the Commiſſioners for the Trial of the King in the Painted Chamber, had not prevented them. The Houſe roſe betimes likewiſe in relation to that buſineſs. The Commiſſioners being met in the painted Chamber at Weſtminſter about three of the Clock (his Excellency being one, but ſat not at the Table, but went away immediately) after a ſhort Ceremony performed, they fell to debate, and came to this Reſolution, viz. That to morrow Morning a Herald ſhould proclaim and invite the People to bring in what matter of Fact they had againſt Charles Stuart King of England; That on Wedneſday next the Commiſſioners for the Trial of the King intend to ſit again concerning that buſineſs, and to direct all Perſons to bring in the Charge on that day.

From the Leaguer before Pontefract Caſtle by Letters January 6. thus:

Letter from Pontefract. Much fear of the Scots again.

SIR,

'Since the laſt Poſt little hath happened in theſe parts. The Major General is not returned from the disbanding of Col. Rhodes, and Col. Cholmley's Regiments of Horſe, in regard the work hath been very difficult and troubleſome; yet I preſume by this time the buſineſs is well nigh over: here is no viſible diſquiet as yet in theſe parts, or any thing tending viſibly thereunto, if this unlucky Hole were but reduced, which I fear will be the utter undoing of this poor Country; beſides the continuance of our hard Duty in this extream unſeaſonable Weather, more than all the Forces of the Kingdom beſides.

'The poor People in theſe parts are afraid of Jocky again, hearing Rumours as if they were preparing for a ſecond Invaſion: and I perceive that is the great hope of this beſieged Enemy. For my part I am apt to believe they are as great Enemies to theſe late Acts of the Army as can be, and would moſt willingly find a plauſible way of entrance, yet I think at preſent they are not much to be feared. Their new Parliament began the 4*th* inſtant.

Tueſday,

Tueſday, January 9.

THEIR Lordſhips had in debate their laſt Votes about trial of the King, and that ſomething ſhould be publiſhed to ſatisfy upon what grounds they rejected the Commiſſion for trial of the King, but came to no Reſolution herein; they have ſat this week, but done nothing we hear of.

Lds came to no reſult, rejected the Commiſſion for trying the King.

This morning (according to order of the Commiſſioners for trial of the King yeſterday) Proclamation was made in Weſtminſter-Hall to give notice that the Commiſſioners were to ſit again to morrow, and that all who had any thing to ſay againſt the King might then be heard. This Proclamation was in this manner made; Serjeant Dendy, Serjeant at Arms to the Commiſſioners, rid into Weſtminſter-Hall, with the Mace belonging to the Houſe of Commons on his Shoulders, and ſome Officers alſo attending him all bare, and 6 Trumpeters on horſeback; a Guard of Horſe and Foot attending in the Palace-yard. The Trumpeters ſounded in the middle of the Hall, and the Drums beat in the Palace-yard, and Proclamation was made as aforeſaid.

A Herald makes Proclamation, that all People give in their Charge againſt the King.

The Houſe of Commons then ſitting ordered that Serjeant Dendy ſhould forthwith make the ſame Proclamation about the Trial of the King, and in the ſame manner, at the Old Exchange, and in Cheapſide, London, which was accordingly done.

Serjeant Dendy does the ſame at the Old Exchange and Cheapſide.

The Houſe this day had much debate what alteration of Proceedings ſhould be made in Courts of Juſtice, now that the King and Lords (as by the Votes you had laſt week) were to be laid aſide; and whether all Writs ſhould run in the name of one Perſon (as formerly Carolus Dei Gratia, &c.) or not.

At laſt they came to this reſult, That the Name of any one particular Perſon ſhould not be inſerted as the ſtile of any Common Writ or otherwiſe for the time to come; and that it ſhould be referred to the Committee for ſettling Proceedings in Courts of Juſtice to conſider how and in what manner the ſtile ſhould be hereafter.

Name of one Perſon not to be mentioned in any common Writ.

They likewiſe voted that this preſent Great Seal of England ſhould be broken in pieces, and that a new one ſhould be forthwith made; yet in the mean time all Proceedings under the Great Seal to be good till the new one be confirmed.

The Great Seal to be broken, and a new one to be made.

They conſidered what ſhould be engraven on the ſaid New Great Seal, and ordered that the Arms of England, the Harp, and the Arms of Ireland ſhould be engraven on one ſide of the ſaid Seal.

That the Inſcription on that ſide the Seal ſhould be [The Great Seal of England.]

That the Inſcription on the other ſide of the ſaid Seal, where the Sculpture or Map of the Parliament is to be engraven, ſhall be theſe words: In the firſt year of freedom by God's Bleſſing reſtored, 1648.

The Houſe ordered that Col. White, Colonel of the Regiment of the Nottinghamſhire Horſe, ſhould be treated with concerning the Accounts of his Regiment, what Pay they have received, and what Quarters they have taken, to the end the Houſe may take ſpeedy courſe for paying them according to the deſire of the ſaid Regiment.

Col. White to give in the Arrears of his Regiment.

Proclamation was alſo this day made throughout London by order of the General, as followeth:

By his Excellency Thomas Lord Fairfax Lord General.

“ FOraſmuch as divers Delinquents, ill-affected Perſons, have of late made “ their reſort to the City of London, the Suburbs and places adjoining, with “ Deſigns (as there is cauſe to believe upon grounds more than probable) to “ embroil this Kingdom in further troubles: And whereas by Order of Parlia“ ment of the fifth of this inſtant January, I am deſired to take order, and pro“ hibit all Delinquents and Papiſts from coming to or ſtaying in the City of “ London, or Liberties thereof, within the Line of Communication, and with-
“ in 10 miles of the City of London, and to ſecure the Perſons of ſuch as ſhall
“ be found within the Limits aforeſaid, 6 days after the date thereof, except “ ſuch Perſons as ſhall be licenſed under the hands of Mr. Francis Allen, and Proclamation for all Delinquents, &c. to depart 10 miles from London.

Ann. 1648.

“Mr. Samuel Moyer, to come to proſecute their Compoſitions with effect, or ſuch as have already compounded for their Delinquency, and paid in their ſeveral Monies according to Orders and Directions of Parliament given to them in that behalf.

“Theſe are therefore to require all Perſons who have engaged for the King in the firſt and ſecond War, and have adhered unto or aſſiſted him or his Party therein, and are now reſiding in London, or within 10 miles diſtance therefrom, that within 24 hours after publication hereof, they depart from the ſaid City and Suburbs, and all places within 10 miles diſtance thereof, and not to return for the ſpace of one Month next enſuing after publication thereof: and whoever ſhall be found and taken contrary hereunto, they ſhall be dealt withal as Priſoners of War, except ſuch as are excepted in the above-cited order of Parliament.

Given under my Hand and Seal in Queenſtreet, January 9. 1648.

A Petition was preſented to the General, and deſired to be inſerted as followeth:

To his Excellency Thomas Lord Fairfax, General of all the Land-Forces raiſed by the Parliament, and continued for the defence of the juſt Rights and Freedoms of this Nation; and to his General Council.

Petition from the Iſle of Wight, &c. to bring notorious Criminals to juſtice.

The Humble Petition of the Officers and Souldiers, together with divers of the well-affected Inhabitants in the Iſle of Wight, Portſmouth, and Hurſt.

Sheweth,

“THAT our equal ſenſibleneſs (with our Fellow Souldiers and Country-men) of the overflowing Miſeries, and inſupportable Grievances by the War brought, and ſubject to be continued upon the People by common Enemies and Apoſtates; alſo our ſad Apprehenſions of the late diſmal and deluſive Treaty with a dangerous, political, and conquered Enemy, and our earneſt love to Righteouſneſs, Peace and Union, upon juſt Principles, doth invite us to declare our ſincere Affection to, and approbation of, the juſt and reaſonable Deſires mentioned in the large Petition of September 11, laſt, with the Petitions of divers Counties, and that ſeaſonable Remonſtrance of your Excellency and Council, in conjunction with the ſaid large Petition: and calling to mind the manifold Diſpenſations of God to this Nation, by the continued Succeſſes given to the unwearied Labours of your Excellency, and the Army under your command, againſt the Enemies of our Peace, in the firſt and ſecond War, together with the preſent inforced and neceſſary undertaking in behalf of all the faithful and cordial People of this Nation, which hath freely adventured their Lives, and all that was dear to them in that common Cauſe of publick Good, it encourageth us to believe that the ſame God which hath bleſſed you in the former, will alſo crown theſe your honorable Endeavours with happy ſucceſs in the latter.

“Wherefore we humbly deſire that your Excellency and Council will ſtill manifeſt your conſtant and ſincere Affections (in purſuance of Juſtice) to a righteous Settlement, (by vigorous and ſpeedy Actings) not leave place for your ſelves to be diverted from thoſe your declared Reſolutions, but ſingly and impartially proceed, that ſo the grand Diſturbers of this Nation's peace may either be cleared of thoſe great and hainous Crimes publickly declared and laid to their charge, or elſe condemned according to principles of Law and Juſtice.

“And that ſuch only for the future may be employed in any places of Office and Truſt in the Common-wealth, as are of known Fidelity to the publick Intereſt; the heavy Burdens of the unwearied People may with all convenient ſpeed be removed; and that after the great expence of Blood

“ and Treaſure, the Nation may enjoy that long deſired iſſue of a firm and laſting Peace. For the ſpeedy accompliſhment whereof, we do and ſhall in the ſtrength of God with all readineſs and cheerfulneſs engage our Lives and all that is dear unto us, with your Excellency and all others who ſhall join with you herein, being willing to caſt our whole Might into that common Treaſury for the obtaining of ſo reaſonable and juſt Ends aforementioned.

And your Petitioners ſhall ever pray.

Subſcribed by above 1600 Perſons, and preſented to his Excellency by Lieut. Cuppage, Lieut. Ward, Enſign Fox, Marſhal Templer, and Mr. Darnford Maſter Gunner of Portſmouth.

Wedneſday, January 10.

THE Houſe this day conſidered of Mr. Prynns Anſwer, returned by two Members of Parliament Friday laſt concerning the Pamphlet entituled The Memento, to which his Name was, whether he would own it or not, which was to this Purpoſe; That when he ſhould be ſent unto in a legal way, and by a lawful ſufficient Authority to be reſolved therein, he would anſwer them as ſhould be deſired.

Mr. Prynn to be taken into cuſtody for denying the Parliament's Supremacy.

The Houſe hereupon ordered, that Mr. Prynn by this Anſwer doth deny the Supreme Authority of this Kingdom.

That the Serjeant at Arms ſhould be required forthwith to take the ſaid Mr. Prynn into cuſtody till further order.

The Committee appointed to conſider of ſettling Proceedings in Courts of Juſtice, again made Report thereof this day to the Houſe, who read an Ordinance to this purpoſe before the ſecond time, and upon the Queſtion recommitted it: and becauſe the Commiſſioners concerning the King's Tryal were to ſit at two of the Clock this Afternoon, the Houſe adjourned till to morrow morning.

The Ordinance of the Proceedings of the Court of Juſtice recommitted.

The Commiſſioners for the Tryal of the King met accordingly this Afternoon in the Painted Chamber. The High Court of Juſtice for Tryal of the King, ſate again this day, and ſo likewiſe Yeſterday. Their ſitting hitherto hath produced little more than what you had already: the whole time having been ſpent about ſettling the Court, and for more orderly proceeds, and the chuſing a Preſident, Aſſiſtants, Clerks, other Officers, the calling of their Members, and ſummoning ſuch as have not appeared.

A Declaration of the Army, deſiring the Parliament's concurrence to it.

A Declaration was read before the Council of the Army at White-Hall, to be preſented with the Agreement to the Houſe after ſubſcribed. And another Declaration to be publiſhed to the Kingdom with the ſaid Agreement to to this purpoſe, viz. ‘That having ſince the end of the laſt War waited for a Settlement of the Peace and Government of the Nation: and having not found any ſuch eſſayed or endeavoured by thoſe, whoſe proper Work it was; but their many Addreſſes and others in that behalf, rejected and oppoſed, and only a corrupt cloſure endeavoured with the King on Terms ſerving only to his Intereſts and theirs that promoted it: And being thereupon for the avoidance of that evil, and to make way for a better Settlement, neceſſitated to take extraordinary ways of remedy (when the ordinary were denyed) now to exhibit the utmoſt endeavours for ſuch a Settlement, whereupon they may with comfort diſband and return to their Homes and Callings, and that all Jealouſies may be removed to oppreſs or domineer over the People by the Sword: and that all may underſtand the Grounds of Peace and Government, they have at laſt (through God's Bleſſing) finiſhed the draught of ſuch a Settlement in the nature of an Agreement of the People for Peace among themſelves; it containing the beſt and moſt hopeful Foundations for the Peace and future well Government of this Nation, that they can poſſibly deviſe. And they appeal to the Conſciences of all that read it, to witneſs whether they have therein provided or propounded any thing of advantage to themſelves in any capacity above others, or ought, but what is as good for one as for another; not doubting but that thoſe worthy Patriots of Parliament will give their Seal of Approbation thereto, and all good People with them. But if God ſhall (in his righteous Judgment to this Nation) ſuffer the People to be ſo blinded as not to ſee their own common Good and Freedom endeavoured to be provided for herein, or any to be ſo deluded with their own and the publick Prejudice, as to make oppoſition thereto; whereby tho the effect of it be hindred, they have yet by the preparation and tender thereof diſcharged their Conſciences to God, and Duty to their native Country, in their utmoſt Endeavours for a Settlement unto a juſt and publick Intereſt; and hope they ſhall be acquitted before God and good Men, from the blame of any further Troubles, Diſtractions and Miſeries to the Kingdom, which may ariſe through the neglect or rejection thereof. Thus much of the Declaration.

Tueſday, January 16.

An Act to adjourn the Term.

THIS Day the Houſe paſſed an Act for the Adjournment of the next Term for 14 days.

They had ſome debate about Papers ſent from Scotland, directed to William Lenthall Eſq; Speaker of the Houſe of Commons, and no more, whereas they uſe to add, to be communicated to the Houſe of Commons, by this acknowledging them a Houſe; and ſo the Houſe thought not fit to read them.

The Scots Parliament renews the Covenant.

From Scotland the Letters ſay: The Parliament began there on January the 4, ſome 3 or 4 days before: the Committee of Eſtates received the Conſtitutions of it, or the Elections of the Members, and there was not any choſen that was not in, or adhered unto the late Ingagement. The firſt day they ſate was by them kept as a day of Humiliation: Mr. Lirrington preached; the Sermon being ended, the Covenant was renewed and taken by every Member. The day following, the Ld Lanerick and the Ld Hume were ſent for and examined, and ordered to be put in ſecurity, not to take up Arms to diſturb the Peace of the Kingdom; which they refuſing, their Perſons were confined. The Ld Hartfield, the Ld Lythgow, the Ld Sinclaire, and ſome others were ſent for ſhortly after, who all put in ſecurity to act nothing to the Prejudice of that Kingdom's Peace and and Safety. The Wedneſday following was obſerved as a day of Humiliation; and the Proceedings of the Parliament of England being reported, it was taken into deep conſideration, and the whole Parliament in general (no Man contradicting it) did diſſent from the Proceedings of the Parliament of England; firſt in the Toleration of Religion in order to the Covenant: 2dly. In the Tryal of the King. 3dly. In alteration of the Form of Government. The Ld Lauderdale and the Earl of Callendar are come thither from Holland.

They diſſent from the Parliament of England.

Pontefract, January 13. Major General Lambert lately returned hither from the disbanding of two Militia Regiments of Horſe, and is now again gone to the disbanding of Col. Bethell's and the Foot Regiments lately before Scarborough; wherein it is hoped there will not be much difficulty, unleſs want of Mony retard the Work. He is very active and painful upon theſe publick Services, and if Affairs ſucceed well in the South, theſe miſerably deſtroyed Parts, and the whole Kingdom ſhall reap the Fruit thereof. This Enemy is yet reſolute, and keeps us upon hard Duty, but we hope in a ſhort time he will appear but fool-hardy. Our Guns and Mortar-pieces, together with the Ammunition, is now come into this Town, and they will play very ſhortly: they now and then drop away out of the Caſtle, but are ſtill very active with their great and ſmall Shot to prevent our Work.

Lambert's return from disbanding 2 Militia Regiments.

Tueſday, January 16.

This Day the Houſe paſſed an Act for Adjournment of the next Term for 14 days, as followeth:

The Act for adjourning the Term.

THE Commons aſſembled in Parliament, holding it convenient and neceſſary for divers weighty Reaſons and Occaſions, to adjourn part of the next Term of Hilary, that is to ſay, from the firſt return thereof, called Octabis Hilarii, until the return of Craſtino Purificationis next enſuing: Be it therefore ordained and enacted by the Commons aſſembled in Parliament, and by the Authority aforeſaid, that the ſaid Term of Hilary be adjourned, that is to ſay from the return of Octabis Hilarii, unto the ſaid return of Craſtino Purificationis. And all and every Perſon or Perſons, which has Cauſe or Commandment to appear in any of the Courts at Weſtminſter, in or at the ſaid return of Octabis Hilarii, or in or at any Day or Time from and after the ſaid return of Octabis Hilarii, and before the ſaid return of Craſtino Purificationis, may tarry at their Dwellings, or where their Buſineſs otherwiſe ſhall lye, without reſorting to any of the ſaid Courts for that cauſe, before the ſaid return of Craſtino Purificationis next coming; and that without Danger or Forfeiture, Penalty or Contempt to be in that behalf. And be it ordained and enacted by the Authority aforeſaid, that Writs of Adjournment ſhall be directed to the Juſtices of the ſaid Courts, giving them authority to adjourn the ſaid Term of Hilary; that is to ſay, from Octabis Hilarii, until the ſaid return of Craſtino Purificationis, as before is ſaid: And the ſaid Adjournment ſhall be made in the firſt Day of the ſaid Octabis Hilarii. And be it further enacted and ordained, that all Matters, Cauſes, and Suits depending in any of the ſaid Courts, ſhall have continuance, and the Parties ſhall have Day from the Date of theſe Preſents unto Craſtino Purificationis, *as before is ſaid: And the Commiſſioners of the Great Seal are required to iſſue forth Writs accordingly. H. Scobell, Cler. Parl. D. Com.

Wedneſday, January 17.

THIS day the Commons took into conſideration the preſent ſitting of the Parliament of Scotland; and to the end that there may be a fair correſpondence between the Kingdoms, the Houſe ordered it to be referred to the Committee of Derby-Houſe to bring in a Liſt of the Names of ſome to be ſent Commiſſioners to the Parliament of Scotland.

A Correſpondence to be betwixt both Kingdoms.

Petition from the Iſle of Wight, &c.

A Petition was preſented from Ipſwich in the behalf of Mr. Kiffin and Mr. Knolles; and it was ordered thereupon, that they ſhould go down and be permitted to preach there as was deſired.

A Petition was likewiſe preſented to the Commons, with large Subſcriptions, from the Iſle of Wight, Portſmouth, Southampton, Poole, Hurſt, Weymouth, Malmeſbury, and other publick-ſpirited Perſons, with a Repreſentation of ſeveral Grievances of the Kingdom.

A Committee to conſider of the Petitions.

The Commons choſe a Committee to conſider of this, and all other Petitions of this nature, and paſſed Inſtructions for them to begin with thoſe things firſt, which are moſt of concernment to the preſent Settlement of the Kingdom.

The High Court of Juſtice ſat again this Night, and had the Charge brought in abbreviated, but thought it ſtill too large, therefore ordered to recommit it again to be made more brief. Mr. Steel Attorney General is ſick.

The Commiſſioners to have the Sword and Mace bearing the Arms of the King.

The Commiſſioners had large debate, whether they ſhould have in Court both a Sword and Mace having upon it the Arms of the King: It was reſolved to have both. In the mean time the King to be brought to Sir Robert Cotton's Houſe on the back ſide of Weſtminſter-Hall, in order to his Tryal upon the Commiſſioners ſitting in Weſtminſter-Hall.

Thurſday, January 18.

A Meſſage from the Lds concerning adjourning the Term.

A Meſſage this day came from the Lords, which was grounded upon the Diſſent of the Lords Commiſſioners of the Great Seal, joyned with the Commoners, That they could not agree to paſs the Act of the Commons for adjourning the Term, without the Lords concurrence was had thereto; and that by the Inſtructions given to the ſaid Commiſſioners, the Commons Commiſſioners could do nothing without aſſent of one of them. Their Lordſhips therefore ſent down a Meſſage to the Commons, deſiring their concurrence to an Ordinance for adjourning the Term for a Fortnight, and that the Commiſſioners of the Great Seal of England may be required to paſs the ſame under the Great Seal of England.

That all Committees have power to act, tho the Lords join not.

The Commons having formerly declared, that the Supreme Power of England is veſted only in the People and their Repreſentatives, and therefore voted that all Committees, which before conſiſted of Lords and Commons, ſhould have power to act to all intents and purpoſes, tho the Lords join not herein:

The Commons agreed not with the Lds Meſſage.

The Queſtion was put whether they ſhould adhere to their former Votes, and decline the Power of their Lordſhips, or elſe own the Lords as formerly by agreeing with them in this Ordinance. This held much debate in the Houſe, and at laſt the Queſtion was put whether the Houſe would concur with their Lordſhips herein; and it was reſolved by the Commons aſſembled in Parliament, that the Houſe would not agree with their Lordſhips herein, but would ſend Anſwer by Meſſengers of their own.

Theſe two Buſineſſes was the debate of the whole Day.

The High Court of Juſtice ſate again this day, and Report was made of the Proof to the ſeveral Articles in the ſaid Charge, which took up much time in reading over.

Major Gen. Maſſey eſcaped from St. James's.

This Evening Major General Maſſey, one of the ſecluded Members, made his Eſcape from St. James's, where he was priſoner.

Friday, January 19.

All Delinquents to pay the laſt Moiety of their Fines.

THE Commons having formerly appointed a Committee to peruſe the Books, and certify to the Houſe what Mony was owing to the State by Receipts of Goldſmiths-Hall, and what charged thereupon by ſpecial Ordinance of Parliament to particular Perſons; the ſaid Committee made Report thereof to the Houſe. In proſecution whereof, an Ordinance was brought in to the Houſe, requiring all Delinquents to make ſpeedy Payment of the laſt Moiety of their Fines (for which they ſtood engaged by good ſecurity to the ſaid Committee) within 20 Days after publication of the ſaid Ordinance, or elſe to be ſequeſtred by the Committees of the ſeveral Counties. This Ordinance took up much time to debate, being read the ſecond time, and upon the Queſtion committed.

The Place of Lieutenant of the Ordnance of the Tower referred to a Committee.

A Motion was this day made in the Houſe concerning the place of Lieutenant of the Ordnance of the Tower, formerly granted by Ordinance of Parliament to Sir Walter Earl a Member of the Houſe of Commons, one of the ſecluded Members; that the ſaid Place might be ſequeſtred. The Houſe had ſome debate of this Buſineſs, and being not inclinable to diſpoſe of the ſaid Place at preſent, made no poſitive Order therein, but ordered that this Buſineſs ſhould be referred to the conſideration of a Committee.

Sir J. Pawlet's Buſineſs put off.

The Houſe further ordered, that the Report concerning Sir John Pawlet ſhould be referred till Monday morning next, in reſpect of other great Affairs then in conſideration.

The K. brought to St. James's.

The High Court of Juſtice for Tryal of the King, this day met after the riſing of the Houſe in the Painted Chamber, and heard the Proof to the ſeveral Articles of Impeachment againſt the King, who this day was brought from Windſor to St. James's, where he lodged this Night.

The Agreement of the People to be preſented to the Houſe.

This Day the General Council of the Army met at White-Hall, where the Draught of the Agreement of the People was ſubſcribed by many Officers preſent, and Sir Hardreſs Waller and 16 other Officers nominated to preſent it next morning to the Houſe of Commons.

Capt. Burley's Son taken.

Information is come from Guernſey, that a Boat broke away from Caſtle-Cornet, which the Enemies perceiving, immediatly ſent forth a Shallop to recover it; after which the Governour of Guernſey, Col. Ruſſell, ſent another, and took it, and therein Capt. Burley (Son to that Capt. Burley that was executed in the Iſle of Wight) and ſent him Priſoner to Portſmouth.

A Petition from North-Wales.

A Petition was this day preſented to the General Council of the Army at White-Hall from the well affected of the Counties of North-Wales. A Petition well penned, too large to be here inſerted; but it is in full complyance with the Remonſtrance of the Army, and the Petitions from ſeveral other Counties to bring Delinquents to Puniſhments: and after the reading thereof, two Officers of the Army were appointed to return the Thanks of the Council to the Gentlemen of North-Wales, who brought it, and alſo ſignify unto them, how much their Hands were ſtrengthened, and their Hearts encouraged to go on in the great Affairs they are about by ſuch a ſeaſonable Overture as this.

The Act being read, the Court was called; every Commiſſioner preſent, thereupon riſing to his Name.

[It is to be remembred, that at this time, the Lady Fairfax (Wife to the General) being above in a Window, interrupted the reading of the following Names of the Commiſſioners, &c. by ſpeaking aloud to the Court then ſitting, that her Husband the Lord Fairfax was not there in Perſon, nor ever would ſit among them, and therefore they did him wrong to name him as a ſitting Commiſſioner.]

Commiſſioners preſent at Weſtminſter-Hall, January 20. 1648.

John Bradſhaw Serjeant at Law, Lord Preſident; Oliver Cromwell, Henry Ireton, Sir Hardreſs Waller, Valentine Walton, Thomas Harriſon, Edward Whaley, Thomas Pride, Iſaac Ewer, Thomas Lord Grey of Groby, William Lord Mounſon, Sir John Danvers, Sir Thomas Maleverer Baronet, Sir John Bourchier Knight, Iſaac Penington Alderman of London, Henry Martin, William Purefoy, John Barkſtead, John Blackiſton, Gilbert Millington, Sir William Conſtable Baronet, Edmond Ludlow, John Hutchinſon, Sir Michael Liveſey Baronet, Robert Tichburne, Owen Roe, Robert Lilburn, Adrian Scroope, Thomas Horton, Thomas Hammond, John Liſle, Nicholas Love, Vincent Potter, Auguſtine Garland, Richard Deane, John Okey, John Huſon, William Goffe, Cornelius Holland, John Carew, John Jones, Thomas Lyſter, Peregrine Pelham, Francis Allen, Thomas Chaloner, John More, William Say, John Alured, Francis Laſſells, Henry Smith, James Chaloner, Humphry Edwards, Gregory Clement, John Fry, Sir Gregory Norton Baronet, Edmond Harvey, John Ven, Thomas Scot, William Cawley, Anthony Stapeley, John Downs, John Dixwell, Simon Meyne, James Temple, Peter Temple, Daniel Blagrave, John Browne.

Ann. 1648.

This done, the Court commanded the Serjeant at Arms to ſend for the Priſoner, and thereupon Col. Thomlinſon, who had the Charge of the Priſoner, within a quarter of an hours ſpace brought him, attended by Col. Hacker, and 32 Officers with Partizans, guarding him to the Court, his own Servants immediatly attending him. Being thus brought up in the Face of the Court, the Serjeant at Arms with his Mace receives him, and conducts him ſtraight to the Bar, having a Crimſon Velvet Chair ſet before him. After a ſtern looking upon the Court, and the People in the Galleries on each ſide of him, he places himſelf in the Chair, not at all moving his Hat, or otherwiſe ſhewing the leaſt reſpect to the Court; but preſently riſeth up again, and turns about, looking downwards upon the Guards placed on the left ſide, and on the multitude of Spectators on the right ſide of the ſaid great Hall: the Guard that attended him in the mean time dividing themſelves on each ſide the Court, and his own Servants following him to the Bar.

The Preſident's Speech to the King.

The Priſoner having again placed himſelf in his Chair with his Face towards the Court; and Silence being again ordered and proclaimed, the Lord Preſident in the Name of the Court, addreſſed himſelf to the Priſoner, acquainting him, That the Commons of England aſſembled in Parliament, being deeply ſenſible of the Evils and Calamities that had been brought upon this Nation, and of the innocent Blood that had been ſpilt in it, which was fixed upon him as the principal Author of it, had reſolved to make Inquiſition for this Blood; and according to the Debt they did owe to God, to Juſtice, the Kingdom and themſelves, and according to that fundamental Power that reſted, and Truſt repoſed in them by the People, other means failing through his Default, had reſolved to bring him to Tryal and Judgment, and had therefore conſtituted that Court of Juſtice before which he was then brought, where he was to hear his Charge, upon which the Court would proceed according to Juſtice.

Mr. Cook ſpeaks.

Hereupon Mr. Cook, Solicitor for the Commonwealth, ſtanding within the Bar, with the reſt of the Counſel for the Commonwealth, on the right Hand of the Priſoner, offered to ſpeak; but the Priſoner having a Staff in his Hand, held it up, and ſoftly laid it upon the ſaid Mr. Cooks Shoulder two or three times, bidding him hold. Neverthleſs the Lord Preſident ordering him to go on, Mr. Cook did, according to the Order of the Court to him directed, in the Name and on the behalf of the People of England, exhibit a Charge of High-Treaſon and other High Crimes, and did therewith accuſe the ſaid Charles Stuart King of England; praying in the Name and on the behalf aforeſaid, that the Charge might be accordingly received and read, and due Proceedings had thereupon; and accordingly preferred a Charge in writing, which being received by the Court, and delivered to the Clerk of the Court, the Lord Preſident in the name of the Court ordered it ſhould be read.

But the King interrupting the reading of it, the Court notwithſtanding commanded the Clerk to read it, acquainting the Priſoner, that if he had any thing to ſay after, the Court would hear him. Whereupon the Clerk read the Charge, which is as followeth.

The Charge againſt the King.

THAT the ſaid Charles Stuart, being admitted King of England, and therein truſted with a limited Power to govern by, and according to the Laws of the Land, and not otherwiſe; and by his Truſt, Oath and Office, being obliged to uſe the Power committed to him for the Good and Benefit of the People, and for the Preſervation of their Rights and Liberties: yet neverthleſs out of a wicked Deſign to erect and uphold in himſelf an unlimited and Tyrannical Power to rule according to his Will, and to overthrow the Rights and Liberties of the People, yea to take away and make void the Foundations thereof, and of all Redreſs and Remedy of Miſ-government, which by the Fundamental Conſtitutions of this Kingdom were reſerved on the Peoples behalf in the Right and Power of frequent and ſucceſſive Parliaments, or National Meetings in Council; He the ſaid Charles Stuart, for accompliſhment of ſuch his Deſigns, and for the protecting of himſelf and his Adherents in his and their wicked Practices, to the ſame Ends hath traitorouſly and maliciouſly levyed War againſt the preſent Parliament, and the People therein repreſented, particularly upon or about the thirtieth day of June, in the year of our Lord 1642, at Berverly in the County of York; and upon or about the 30th day of July in the year aforeſaid in the County of the City of York; and upon or about the 24th day of Auguſt in the ſame year, at the County of the Town of Nottingham, where and when he ſet up his Standard of War; and alſo on or about the 23d day of October in the ſame year, at Edghil or Keynton-field in the County of Warwick; and upon or about the 30th day of November in the ſame year at Brentford in the County of Middleſex; and upon or about the 30th day of Auguſt in the year of our Lord 1643, at Caverſham Bridg near Reading in the County of Berks; and upon or about the 30th day of October in the year laſt mentioned, at or upon the City of Gloceſter; and upon or about the 30th day of November in the year laſt mentioned, at Newbury in the County of Berks; and upon or about the 31ſt day of July in the year of our Lord 1644. at Cropredy Bridg in the County of Oxon; and upon or about the 30th day of September in the laſt year mentioned, at Bodmyn and other places near adjacent, in the County of Cornwal; and upon or about the 30th day of November in the year laſt mentioned, at Newbury aforeſaid; and upon or about the 8th day of June in the year of our Lord 1645, at the Town of Leiceſter; and alſo upon the 14th day of the ſame Month in the ſame year, at Naſeby-field in the County of Northampton. At which ſeveral times and places, or moſt of them, and at many other places in this Land, at ſeveral other times within the years aforementioned, and in the year of our Lord 1646. he the ſaid Charles Stuart hath cauſed and procured many thouſands of the free People of this Nation to be ſlain: and by Diviſions, Parties, and Inſurrections within this Land, by Invaſions from foreign Parts, endeavoured and procured by him, and by many other evil ways and means, he the ſaid Charles Stuart hath not only maintained and carried on the ſaid War both by Land and Sea, during the years before-mentioned; but alſo hath renewed, or cauſed to be renewed, the ſaid War againſt the Parliament and good People of this Nation in this preſent year 1648. in the Counties of Kent, Eſſex, Surry, Suſſex, Middleſex, and many other Counties and places in England and Wales, and alſo by Sea. And particularly He the ſaid Charles Stuart hath for that purpoſe given Commiſſion to his Son the Prince, and others, whereby, beſides multitudes of other Perſons, many ſuch as were by the Parliament intruſted and imployed for the ſafety of the Nation (being by him or his Agents corrupted to the betraying of their Truſt, and revolting from the Parliament) have had Entertainment and Commiſſion for the continuing and renewing of War and Hoſtility againſt the ſaid Parliament and People as aforeſaid. By which cruel and unnatural Wars, by him the ſaid Charles Stuart levyed, continued, and renewed as aforeſaid, much innocent Blood of the free People of this Nation hath been ſpilt, many Families have been undone, the publick Treaſure waſted and exhauſted, Trade obſtructed and miſerably decayed, vaſt Expence and Damage to the Nation incurred, and many parts of this Land ſpoiled, ſome of them even to deſolation. And for further Proſecution of his ſaid evil Deſigns, He the ſaid Charles Stuart doth ſtill continue his Commiſſions to the ſaid Prince, and other Rebels and Revolters both Engliſh and Foreigners, and to the Earl of Ormond, and to the Iriſh Rebels and Revolters aſſociated with him; from whom further Invaſions upon this Land are threatned, upon the procurement, and on the behalf of the ſaid Charles Stuart.

All which wicked Deſigns, Wars, and evil Practices of him the ſaid Charles Stuart, have been, and are carried on for the advancement and and upholding of a perſonal Intereſt of Will, Power, and pretended Prerogative to himſelf and his Family, againſt the publick Intereſt, Common Right, Liberty, Juſtice, and Peace of the People of this Nation, by and from whom he was intruſted as aforeſaid.

By all which it appeareth that the ſaid Charles Stuart hath been, and is the Occaſioner, Author, and Continuer of the ſaid unnatural, cruel, and bloody Wars; and therein guilty of all the Treaſons, Murders, Rapines, Burnings, Spoils, Deſolations, Damages, and Miſchiefs to this Nation, acted and committed in the ſaid Wars, or occaſioned thereby.

Saturday January 20.

Lieut. General Hammond, &c. preſents the Agreement of the People to the Houſe.

THE Houſe was informed that Lieut. General Hammond, and many other chief Officers of the Army were at the door to preſent ſomething of great concernment to them from the General Council of the Army: they ordered that they ſhould be called in, which done by the Serjeant at Arms attending the Houſe, they acquainted them that they were commanded by the General Council of the Army under his Excellency's Command, and in the name of all the ſaid Army, to preſent to their ſpeedy and ſerious conſideration a Petition from the ſaid General Council, intituled, An Agreement of the People of England, and a Declaration concerning the ſame.

The chief Officers withdrawing, the Houſe ordered that the ſaid Petition ſhould be read, which accordingly was done; and in reſpect they had ordered to riſe at 12 a Clock in order to the King's Trial, which was to hear his Charge before the Commiſſioners in Weſtminſter-Hall, they had not time then to hear the ſaid Agreement.

Whereupon they ordered, that the thanks of the ſaid Houſe ſhould be given to thoſe Gentlemen for their particular and great Services to the whole Kingdom; and that they ſhould be deſired to return their hearty thanks to the General Council of Officers, and all the Army under the General's Command, for all their unwearied and gallant Services to this Nation; and that the ſaid Petition and their Anſwer ſhould be forthwith printed and publiſhed, that the Kingdom may take notice of the Union and Affection between the Parliament and the Army: and for the Agreement and Declaration, they ſhould be taken into ſpeedy and ſerious Conſideration. The Officers being again called in, Mr. Speaker returned them an Anſwer to this purpoſe.

The Commons of the City to call a Common Council.

An Ordinance was this day read in the Houſe of Commons, authoriſing and requiring any ſix of the Common Council of the City of London, upon any emergent occaſions, as they ſhall think fit, to ſend to the Lord Mayor for the time then being, to call a Common Council in the ſaid City. And in caſe the Lord Mayor ſhall refuſe to call one, that then they ſhall have Power to call a Common Council themſelves, and any 40 of them to have full Power to act without the Lord Mayor. This Ordinance was read the firſt time.

Dr. Juxton order'd to wait on the King.

The Houſe had debate upon Report of a late Conference between the King and Mr. Peters; that the King very earneſtly deſired for better ſatisfaction of ſome ſcruple of Conſcience, he might have one of his own Chaplains admitted to him: The Houſe hereupon ordered Dr. Juxton late Lord Biſhop of London ſhould be permitted to attend the King.

Commiſſioners of the Seal to iſſue Writs for adjourning the Term.

The Houſe ordered that the Commiſſioners of the Great Seal ſhould iſſue forth Writs for adjournment of the next Term, according to the Act aforeſaid, notwithſtanding the Lords Commiſſioners Non-adherence.

The High Court adjourn to Weſtminſter-Hall.

This day the High Court of Juſtice for trial of the King ſat in the Painted Chamber, and from thence adjourned about two in the afternoon to the place built for that Court in Weſtminſter-Hall. The Preſident had the Mace and Sword carried before him, and 20 Gentlemen attended as his Guard with Partizans, commanded by Col. Fox.

After an O Yes made, and ſilence commanded, the Act of the Commons in Parliament for ſitting of the ſaid Court was read, and the Court was called, there being above 60 Members of it preſent. Then the King (who lay the night before in St. James's, and was brought this day to Whitehall, and thence by Water guarded with Muſqueteers in boats to Sir Robert Cotton's Houſe) was brought to the Bar. To which there attended him Col. Hacker, with about 30 Officers and Gentlemen with Halberts. At his coming to the foot of the Stairs, he was met with the Mace of the Court, and conducted to a Chair within the Bar, where he ſat down in the face of the Court.

The King brought to the Bar, where he ſat.

The Lord Preſident in a ſhort Speech acquainted the King with the cauſe of his being brought thither; that it was in order to his Trial upon a Charge againſt him by the Commons of England, which was then to be read, and the King to give his anſwer thereunto.

His Majeſty offered to ſpeak.

His Majeſty made an offer to ſpeak ſomething before reading of the Charge, but upon ſome interruption was ſilent. And then his Charge was read, by which he was charged, by the name of Charles Stuart King of England, as guilty of all the Blood that hath been ſhed in theſe Wars at Keynton, Brentford, Newbury, and ſuch other places as he was preſent at in Arms againſt the Parliament, and other particulars very large. The King ſmiled at the reading of his Charge, and after reading of it demanded of the Lord Preſident, by what lawful Authority he was brought thither? Being anſwered, In the name of the COMMONS of England: He replied, he ſaw no Lords there, which ſhould make a Parliament, including the King; and urged, That the Kingdom of England was hereditary and not ſucceſſive; and that he ſhould betray his Truſt, if he acknowledged or anſwer'd to them, for that he was not convinced they were a lawful Authority. So that after he had been often commanded to anſwer, and refuſed, he was remanded to Sir Robert Cotton's Houſe, and afterwards removed back to St. James's, where he lay this night; and the Court adjourned till Monday 10 a Clock in the Forenoon, further to conſider of this buſineſs.

His Majeſty demands by what Power he was brought thither.

Is commanded to anſwer, but refuſes.

On Sunday great concourſe of People went out of London to Weſtminſter; but if to ſee the King, they were diſappointed, who was then at St. James's under a ſtrong Guard. A ſolemn Faſt was kept at Whitehall this day by the Commiſſioners for trial of the King.

Many People came from the City to Weſtminſter, to ſee the King.

Monday, January 22.

THIS day the Commiſſioners from the Kingdom of Scotland delivered in to the Houſe of Commons ſome Papers, and a Declaration from the Parliament of Scotland, wherein they expreſs a diſlike of the preſent Proceedings about the Trial of the King, and declare that the Kingdom of Scotland has an undoubted Intereſt in the Perſon of the King, who was not (they ſay) delivered to the Engliſh Commiſſioners at Newcaſtle for the ruin of his Perſon, but for a more ſpeedy ſettlement of the peace of his Kingdoms: That they extreamly diſſent and declare againſt the Trial of him, and that this preſent way of proceeding againſt him leaves a deep Impreſſion on them, and ſits heavy on all their Spirits, in regard of the great Miſeries that are like to enſue upon theſe Kingdoms.

Scots Commiſſioners deliver ſome Papers of diſlike of the Trial of the King.

The Scots Commiſſioners by their Papers further moved the Houſe that they might have leave to make their perſonal Addreſſes to the King.

Move for an Addreſs to the King.

The Houſe upon reading the whole referred it to a Committee to draw up an anſwer to the Parliament of Scotland.

A Committee to anſwer the Scots.

This Declaration with ſome other Papers from the Parliament of Scotland, were likewiſe preſented by the Scots Commiſſioners to his Excellency the Lord Fairfax.

The Scots Declaration preſented to his Excellency.

From Pontefract Leaguer by Letters this day of the 19*th* inſtant came thus: By this Poſt is ſent to his Excellency and General Council, a Letter congratulating tulating their happy Proceedings, wherein was likewiſe the Concurrence of the Officers of the Militia-Regiments at this Leaguer, who (I believe) will ſhortly make a fuller manifeſtation of their Concurrence with the reſt of the Army in this great and neceſſary Work of the Kingdom. The Major General is ſtill upon diſbanding the Forces lately before Scarborough, and not returned hither. We are with our Approaches come very near the Walls of the Caſtle, ſo that the Enemy do prejudice us with ſtones, and now and then kill a Man: few recover that are wounded.

An. 1648.

The Caſtle of Pontefract does hurt.

The Letter to the General follows:

May it pleaſe your Excellency;

The Letter to the General.

B*Y underſtanding that the Commons of* England in Parliament have lately voted the ſupreme Power of the Kingdom to be in the People, and derivatively in them (their Repreſentatives) for the making, repealing, and confirming all Laws, and by virtue of that Power have appointed an High Court of Juſtice for the trial of the King, as alſo to bring to Juſtice other the captiv'd Enemies of our Peace and Freedoms; We begin to ſee ſome hopes of reaping the happy fruits of our hard Labours, and long Services for the ſettling of this Nation in the Enjoyment thereof, and are unable ſufficiently to expreſs our joyful reſentment of (the Kingdom being like to receive an ineſtimable benefit by) your late moſt neceſſary wiſely managed Action, in ſecuring and ſecluding thoſe Members of the Houſe, that carried on that Series of wicked, corrupt, treacherous Counſel and Deſign to betray the Kingdom to perpetual Slavery for their own ends, largely mentioned in your Remonſtrances, Declarations, and more particularly in your late humble Anſwer of the third of January inſtant to the Parliament's demand of the reaſon of your ſecuring and ſecluding the ſaid Members, which we hope has given them (as we doubt not all well-affected unprejudiced People thereby will with us receive) full ſatisfaction thereunto, and that they will plainly perceive the good hand of God leading you to, and acting you in that high and harmleſs Service of the Kingdom, as a manifeſt token of his Preſence, and that very way he had appointed to break in pieces thoſe ſtrange deſtructive Counſels, which doubtleſs would have ſoon involved the Kingdom in more War and Troubles to its utter ruin.

Neither can we hide our great rejoicing to ſee your Prudence, Care, and Conſtancy in the Kingdom's preſent neceſſary Work, nor our obſervation of that Preſence, Power, and Wiſdom of God carrying you on therein; which as we doubt not but the Parliament, and all the well affected at leaſt will ſee, and the whole Kingdom (though moſt unworthy) enjoy the benefit of, ſo you alſo (upon your humble, careful, and tender walking in your high and ſlippery places) will perceive a continuation of this Divine Preſence, not only to the ſilencing and preventing of all your Enemies, who watch and labour for your falling, but even in the perfecting of the ſame, ſo as all the People ſhall acknowledg it is the work of God alone.

Pontefract,
Jan. 19. 1648.

Signed in the Name of the Council of Officers at the Leaguer before Pontefract-Caſtle.

Tho. Margetts.

This day the High Court of Juſtice for trial of the King ſat again in Weſtminſter-Hall. For better ſatisfaction to the Kingdom, and for that ſeveral imperfect Copies have been printed, we will give you the Proceedings of his Trial exactly.

Proceedings of his Majeſty's Trial at his 2d appearance.

The Court being ſat, O Yes made, and ſilence commanded, the King was ſent for; whereupon Mr. Solicitor Cook moved the Court, That whereas he had at the laſt Court in the behalf of the Commons of England exhibited a Charge of High Treaſon, and other high Crimes, againſt the Priſoner at the Bar, whereof he ſtands accuſed in the name of the People of England, and the Charge was read, and his Anſwer required, he was not then pleaſed to give anſwer, but inſtead of anſwering, did there diſpute the Authority of this High Court: His humble Motion was, That the Priſoner may be directed to make a poſitive anſwer, either by way of Confeſſion or Negation, which if he ſhall refuſe to do, that the matter of charge may be taken pro confeſſo, and the Court may proceed according to Juſtice.

Lord Preſident. Sir, You may remember at the laſt Court you were told the occaſion of your being brought hither, and you heard a Charge read againſt you, containing a Charge of High Treaſon, and other High Crimes againſt this Realm of England; and inſtead of anſwering, you interrogated the Court's Authority and Juriſdiction. Sir, The Authority is the Commons of England in Parliament aſſembled, who require your anſwer to the Charge either by confeſſing or denying.

King. When I was here laſt, 'tis very true I made that Queſtion: And truly if it were only my own particular caſe, I would have ſatisfied my ſelf with the Proteſtation I made the laſt time I was here againſt the legality of this Court, and that a King cannot be tried by any ſuperiour Juriſdiction on Earth: but it is not my caſe alone, it is the freedom and the liberty of the People of England; and do you pretend what you will, I ſtand more for their Liberties: for if Power without Law may make Laws, may alter the fundamental Laws of the Kingdom, I do not know what Subject he is in England that can be ſure of his life or any thing that he calls his own: Therefore when that I came here I did expect particular Reaſons to know by what Law, what Authority you did proceed againſt me here: And therefore I am a little to ſeek what to ſay to you in this particular, becauſe the Affirmative is to be proved; the Negative often is very hard to do, but ſince I cannot perſwade you to it, I ſhall tell you my Reaſons as ſhort as I can.

My Reaſons why in Conſcience and Duty I owe to God firſt, and my People next, for the preſervation of their Lives, Liberties, and Eſtates; I conceive I cannot anſwer this till I be ſatisfied of the legality of it. All Proceedings againſt any Man whatſoever ——

Lord Preſident. Sir, I muſt interrupt you, which I would not do, but that what you do is not agreeable to the Proceedings of any Court of Juſtice; you are about to enter into argument and diſpute concerning the Authority of this Court, before whom you appear as a Priſoner, and are charged as a High Delinquent. If you take upon you to diſpute the Authority of the Court, we may not do it: nor will any Court give way unto it. You are to ſubmit to it: you are to give a punctual and direct anſwer, whether you will anſwer your Charge or no, and what your anſwer is.

King. Sir by your favour, I do not know the Forms of Law, I do know Law and Reaſon, though I am no Lawyer profeſſed. But I know as much Law as any Gentleman in England; and therefore (under favour) I do plead for the Liberties of the People of England more than you do: and therefore if I ſhould impoſe a Belief upon any without Reaſons given for it, it were unreaſonable; but I muſt tell you, that by that Reaſon that I have as thus informed, I cannot yield unto it.

Lord Preſident. Sir, I muſt interrupt you, you may not be permitted: you ſpeak of Law and Reaſon; it is fit there ſhould be Law and Reaſon, and there is both againſt you, Sir: the Vote of the Commons of England aſſembled in Parliament, it is the Reaſon of the Kingdom; and they are theſe two that have given being to that Law according to which you ſhould have ruled and reigned. Sir, you are not to diſpute our Authority, you are told it again by the Court: Sir, it will be taken notice of that you ſtand in contempt of the Court, and your Contempt will be recorded accordingly.

King. I do not know how a King may be a Deliquent, by any Law that ever I heard of: all Men (Delinquents or what you will) let me tell you they may put in Demurrers againſt any Proceeding as legal; and I do demand that, and demand to be heard with my Reaſons; if you deny that, you deny Reaſon.

Lord Preſident. Sir, you have offered ſomething to the Court, I ſhall ſpeak ſomething to you, the Senſe of the Court: Sir, neither you nor any Man are permitted to diſpute that point, you are concluded, you may not demur to the Juriſdiction of the Court: if you do, I muſt let you know they overrule your Demurrer; they ſit here by the Authority of the Commons of England, and all your Predeceſſors and you are reſponſible to them.

King. I deny that, ſhew me one Precedent.

Lord Preſident. Sir, you ought not to interrupt while the Court is ſpeaking to you: This Point is not to be debated by you, neither will the Court permit you to do it; if you offer it by way of demur to the Juriſdiction of the Court, they have conſidered of their Juriſdiction, they do affirm their own Juriſdiction.

King. I ſay, Sir, by your ſavour, That the Commons of England was never a Court of Judicature; I would know how they came to be ſo.

Lord Preſident. Sir, you are not to be permitted to go on in that ſpeech, and theſe Diſcourſes.

Then the Clerk of the Court read as follows:

Charles Stuart King of England, You have been accuſed on the behalf of the People of England, of High Treaſon, and other high Crimes; the Court have determined, that you ought to anſwer the ſame.

King. I will anſwer the ſame ſo ſoon as I know by what Authority you do this.

Lord Preſident. If this be all that you will ſay, then Gentlemen you that brought the Priſoner hither, take charge of him back again.

King. I do require that I may give in my Reaſons why I do not anſwer; and give me time for that.

Lord Preſident. Sir, it is not for Priſoners to require.

King. Priſoners! Sir, I am not an ordinary Priſoner.

Lord Preſident. The Court has conſidered of their Juriſdiction, and they have already affirmed their Juriſdiction; if you will not anſwer, we will give order to record your Default.

King. You never heard my Reaſons yet.

Lord Preſident. Sir, your Reaſons are not to be heard againſt the higheſt Juriſdiction.

King. Shew me that Juriſdction, where Reaſon is not to be heard.

Lord Preſident. Sir, We ſhew it you here, the Commons of England; and the next time you are brought, you will know more of the pleaſure of the Court, and it may be their final determination.

King. Shew me where-ever the Houſe of Commons were a Court of Judicature of that kind.

Lord Preſident. Serjeant, take away the Priſoner.

King. Well Sir, remember that the King is not ſuffered to give in his Reaſons for the Liberty and Freedom of all his Subjects.

Lord Preſident. Sir, you are not to have Liberty to uſe this Language: how great a Friend you have been to the Laws and Liberties of the People, let all England and the World judg.

King. Sir, under favour, it was the Liberty, Freedom, and Laws of the Subject that I ever took to defend my ſelf with Arms; I never took up Arms againſt the People, but for the Laws.

Lord Preſident. The command of the Court muſt be obeyed; no Anſwer will be given to the Charge.

King. Well, Sir.

And ſo he was guarded forth to Sir Robert Cotton's Houſe.

Then the Court adjourned until the next day.

His Majeſty ſtill perſiſting not to own the Court, they refuſed to permit him to deliver his Reaſons againſt the Juriſdiction of the Court by word of mouth: Nevertheleſs his Majeſty thought fit to leave them in writing to poſterity, which follow in theſe words:

The King's Reaſons againſt the Juriſdiction of the Court.

“Having already made my Proteſtations, not only againſt the illegality of this pretended Court, but alſo, That no earthly Power can juſtly call me (who am your King) in queſtion as a Delinquent, I would not any more open my Mouth upon this occaſion, more than to refer my ſelf to what I have ſpoken, were I in this caſe alone concerned: but the Duty I owe to God in the preſervation of the true liberty of my People will not ſuffer me at this time to be ſilent: For, how can any free-born Subject of England call Life or any thing he poſſeſſeth his own, if Power without Right daily make new, and abrogate the old fundamental Laws of the Land? which I now take to be the preſent caſe. Wherefore when I came hither, I expected that you would have endeavoured to have ſatisfied me concerning theſe grounds, which hinder me to anſwer to your pretended Impeachment. But ſince I ſee that nothing I can ſay will move you to it (tho Negatives are not ſo naturally proved as Affirmatives) yet I will ſhew you the reaſon why I am confident you cannot judg me, nor indeed the meaneſt Man in England: For I will not (like you) without ſhewing a Reaſon, ſeek to impoſe a Belief upon my Subjects.

“There is no Proceeding juſt againſt any Man, but what is warranted either by God's Laws, or the municipal Laws of the Country where he lives. Now I am moſt confident this Day's Proceeding cannot be warranted by God's Laws: For on the contrary, the Authority of Obedience unto Kings is clearly warranted, and ſtrictly commanded in both the Old and New Teſtament, which if denied, I am ready inſtantly to prove.

“And for the Queſtion now in hand, there it is ſaid, That where the word of a King is, there is Power; and who may ſay unto him, What doſt thou? Eccleſ. 8. 4. Then for the Law of this Land, I am no leſs confident, that no learned Lawyer will affirm, That an Impeachment can lie againſt the King, they all going in his Name: And one of their Maxims is, That the King can do no wrong. Beſides, the Law upon which you ground your Proceedings, muſt either be old or new: if old, ſhew it; if new, tell what Authority, warranted by the fundamental Laws of the Land, hath made it, and when. But how the Houſe of Commons can erect a Court of Judicature, which was never one it ſelf (as is well known to all Lawyers) I leave to God and the World to judg: And it were full as ſtrange, that they ſhould pretend to make Laws without King or Lords Houſe, to any that have heard ſpeak of the Laws of England.

“And admitting, but not granting, that the People of England's Commiſſion could grant your pretended Power, I ſee nothing you can ſhew for that; for certainly you never asked the Queſtion of the tenth Man in the Kingdom, and in this way you manifeſtly wrong even the pooreſt Ploughman, if you demand not his free conſent: nor can you pretend any colour for this your pretended Commiſſion, without the conſent at leaſt of the major part of every Man in England of whatſoever Quality or Condition, which I'm ſure you never went about to ſeek, ſo far are you from having it. Thus you ſee that I ſpeak not for my own Right alone, as I am your King, but alſo for the true liberty of all my Subjects, which conſiſts not in the power of Government, but in living under ſuch Laws, ſuch a Government, as may give themſelves the beſt aſſurance of their Lives, and property of their Goods: nor in this muſt or do I forget the Privileges of both Houſes of Parliament, which this Days Proceedings do not only violate, but likewiſe occaſion the greateſt Breach of their publick Faith that (I believe) ever was heard of, with which I am far from charging the two Houſes: for all the pretended Crimes laid againſt me, bear date long before this Treaty at Newport, in which I having concluded as much as in me lay, and hopefully expecting the “Houſes Agreement thereunto, I was ſuddenly ſurprized and hurried from thence as a Priſoner; upon which account I am againſt my Will brought hither, where ſince I am come, I cannot but to my Power defend the antient Laws and Liberties of this Kingdom, together with my own juſt Right. Then for any thing I can ſee, the higher Houſe is totally excluded; and for the Houſe of Commons, it is too well known that the major Part of them are detained or deterred from ſitting: ſo as if I had no other, this were ſufficient for me to proteſt againſt the lawfulneſs of your pretended Court. Beſides all this, the Peace of the Kingdom is not the leaſt in my Thoughts; and what hope of Settlement is there, ſo long as Power reigns without Rule or Law, changing the whole Frame of that Government, under which this Kingdom hath flouriſhed for many hundred Years? (nor will I ſay what will fall out in caſe this lawleſs, unjuſt Proceeding againſt me do go on) and believe it, the Commons of England will not thank you for this Change; for they will remember how happy they have been of late Years under the Reigns of Queen Elizabeth, the King my Father, and my ſelf, until the beginning of theſe unhappy Troubles, and will have cauſe to doubt, that they ſhall never be ſo happy under any new: and by this time it will be too ſenſibly evident, that the Arms I took up, were only to defend the fundamental Laws of this Kingdom, againſt thoſe who have ſuppoſed my Power hath totally changed the antient Government.

Ann. 1648.

“Thus having ſhewed you briefly the Reaſons why I cannot ſubmit to your pretended Authority, without violating the Truſt which I have from God for the Welfare and Liberty of my People, I expect from you either clear Reaſons to convince my Judgment, ſhewing me that I am in an Error (and then truly I will anſwer) or that you will withdraw your Proceedings.

“This I intended to ſpeak in Weſtminſter-Hall on Monday January 22. but againſt Reaſon was hindered to ſhew my Reaſons.

Tueſday, January 23.

THE Commons this day had an Ordinance reported for ſettling of the Courts of Juſtice, and in what way Writs ſhould be iſſued for the future; That Writs out of Chancery ſhould go in the name of the Chancellor, or Keepers of the Seal; alſo in other Courts, in the Name of the Judg or Judges: And whereas it has been formerly charged upon Malefactors, that they have acted contrary to the peace of our Soveraign Lord the King, his Crown and Dignity; it is now to be thus, againſt the Peace, Juſtice and Council of England.

The King's 3d appearance before the Court.

This Day the High Court of Juſtice for trial of the King ſat again in Weſtminſter-Hall, 73 Perſons preſent. The King comes in with his Guard, looks with an auſtere Countenance upon the Court, and ſits down.

Mr. Cook, Solicitor General, moved the Court, That whereas the Priſoner at the Bar, inſtead of giving anſwer to the Charge againſt him, did ſtill diſpute the Authority of the Court, That as according to Law, if a Priſoner ſhall ſtand as contumacious in contempt, and ſhall not put in an iſſuable Plea Guilty or not Guilty of the Charge given againſt him, whereby he may come to a fair trial, that by an implicite Confeſſion it may be taken pro Confeſſo, as it hath been done to thoſe who deſerved more favour than the Priſoner at the Bar has done: and therefore that ſpeedy Judgment be pronounced againſt him.

Lord Preſident. Sir, You have heard what is moved by the Counſel on the behalf of the Kingdom againſt you: Sir, you may well remember, and if you do not, the Court cannot forget what delatory dealings the Court has found at your hands. You were pleaſed to propound ſome queſtions; you had our Reſolutions upon them: You were told over and over again, that the Court did affirm their own Juriſdiction; that it was not for you nor any other man to diſpute the Juriſdiction of the ſupreme and higheſt Authority of England, land, from which there is no appeal, and touching which there muſt be no diſpute; yet you did perſiſt in ſuch Carriage as you gave no manner of obedience, nor did you acknowledg any Authority in them, nor the High Court that conſtituted this Court of Juſtice.

Sir, I muſt let you know from the Court that they are very ſenſible of theſe delays of yours, and that they ought not, being thus authorized by the Supreme Court of England, to be thus trifled withal; and that they might in Juſtice, if they pleaſed, and according to the Rules of Juſtice, take advantage of theſe delays, and proceed to pronounce Judgment againſt you: yet nevertheleſs they are pleaſed to give direction, and on their behalfs I do require you, That you make a poſitive Anſwer unto this Charge, that is againſt you, Sir, in plain terms; for Juſtice knows no reſpect of Perſons: you are to give your poſitive and final Anſwer in plain Engliſh, whether you be guilty or not guilty of theſe Treaſons laid to your charge.

The King after a little pauſe ſaid;

When I was here yeſterday, I did deſire to ſpeak for the Liberties of the People of England; I was interrupted, I deſire to know yet whether I may ſpeak freely or no.

Lord Preſident. Sir, you have had the reſolution of the Court upon the like queſtion the laſt day, and you were told that having ſuch charge of ſo high a nature againſt you, your work was, That you ought to acknowledg the Juriſdiction of the Court, and to anſwer to your Charge. Sir, if you anſwer to your Charge, which the Court gives you leave now to do, though they might have taken the advantage of your contempt; yet if you be able to anſwer to your Charge, when you have once anſwered, you ſhall be heard at large, make the beſt Defence you can: But, Sir, I muſt let you know from the Court, as their Commands, that you are not permitted to iſſue out into any other Diſcourſes, till ſuch time as you have given a poſitive anſwer concerning the matter that is charged upon you.

King. For the Charge, I value it not a ruſh; it is the Liberty of the People of England I ſtand for: For me to acknowledg a new Court, that I never heard of before; I that am your King, that ſhould be an Example to all the People of England, to uphold Juſtice, to maintain the old Laws; indeed I do not know how to do it. You ſpoke very well the firſt day that I came here (on Saturday) of the Obligations that I had laid upon me by God, to the maintenance of the Liberties of my People: the ſame Obligation you ſpake of, I do acknowledg to God that I owe to him, and to my People, to defend as much as in me lies the antient Laws of the Kingdom. Therefore until that I may know that this is not againſt the fundamental Laws of the Kingdom, by your favour, I can put in no particular Anſwer. If you will give me time, I will ſhew you my Reaſons why I cannot do it; and thus ——Here being interrupted, he ſaid,

By your favour, you ought not to interrupt me; how I came here I know not; there's no Law for it, to make your King your Priſoner. I was in a Treaty upon the publick Faith of the Kingdom, that was the known —— two Houſes of Parliament, that was the Repreſentative of the Kingdom; and when that I had almoſt made an end of the Treaty, then I was hurried away and brought hither, and therefore —— Here the Lord Preſident ſaid, Sir, you muſt know the pleaſure of the Court.

King. By your Favour, Sir.

Lord Preſident. Nay, Sir, by your favour, you may not be permitted to fall into thoſe Diſcourſes: you appear as a Delinquent, you have not acknowledged the Authority of the Court; the Court craves it not of you, but once more they command you to give your poſitive Anſwer —— Clerk, do your Duty.

King. Duty, Sir?

The Clerk reads a Paper, requiring the King to give a poſitive and final Anſwer by way of confeſſion or denial of the Charge.

King. Sir, I ſay again to you, ſo that I might give ſatisfaction to the People of England of the clearneſs of my Proceedings, not by way of anſwer, not in this way; but to ſatisfy them, that I have done nothing againſt that truſt that hath been committed to me, I would do it: but to acknowledg a new Court againſt their Privilege, to alter the fundamental Laws of the Kingdom, Sir, you muſt excuſe me.

Lord Preſident. Sir, This is the third time that you have publickly diſowned this Court, and put an Affront upon it; how far you have preſerved the Privileges of the People, your Actions have ſpoke it: and truly, Sir, Mens Intentions ought to be known by their Actions, you have written your meaning in bloody Characters throughout the whole Kingdom; but, Sir, you underſtand the pleaſure of the Court—— Clerk, record the Default——— and Gentlemen you that took charge of the Priſoner, take him back again.

King. I will ſay this one word more to you; if it were my own particular, I would not ſay any more, nor interrupt you.

Lord Preſident. Sir, you have heard the pleaſure of the Court, and you are (notwithſtanding you will not underſtand it) to find that you are before a Court of Juſtice.

Then the King went forth with his Guard to Sir Robert Cotton's Houſe, where he lay the laſt Night and this; and the Court adjourned till the next day.

Wedneſday, January 24.

THE Houſe this day only met and adjourned.

This day it was expected the High Court of Juſtice would have met in Weſtminſter-Hall about 10 of the Clock; but at the time appointed one of the Uſhers by Direction of the Court (then ſitting in the Painted Chamber) gave notice to the People there aſſembled, That in regard the Court was then upon the examination of Witneſſes in relation to preſent affairs in the Painted Chamber, they could not ſit there, but to appear upon further Summons.

‘ was the King's Standard.

He ſaith alſo, ‘ That he did afterwards ſee the King at Cropredy-bridg, in the ‘ Head of his Army in a fallow Field there; and did ſee the King in purſuit of ‘ Sir William Waller's Army, being then routed, which was about July 1644.
‘ And at that time this Deponent did ſee many People ſlain upon the ground.

And further this Deponent ſaith, ‘ That in or about the Month of November
‘ 1644. he did ſee the King at the laſt Fight at Newberry, riding up and down

‘ Friends; and that ſince his Majeſty was pleaſed to juſtify the Parliament's ‘ firſt taking up Arms, the moſt of the Presbyterian Party, both Souldiers and ‘ others, would ſtick cloſe to him. To which the King anſwered thus, That ‘ he would have all his old Friends know, that though for the preſent he was ‘ contented to give the Parliament leave to call their own War what they ‘ pleaſed; yet that he neither did at that time, nor ever ſhould decline the ‘ Juſtice of his own Cauſe.

And this Deponent told the King, ‘ That his buſineſs was much retarded,
‘ and that neither Col. Thomas, nor any other could proceed to action, through ‘ want of Commiſſion.

The King anſwered, ‘ That he being upon a Treaty would not diſhonour ‘ himſelf; but that if he this Deponent would take the pains to go over to the ‘ Prince his Son (who had full Authority from him) he the ſaid Deponent, or ‘ any for him, ſhould receive whatſoever Commiſſions ſhould be deſired; and

The Witneſſes being examined as aforeſaid, the Court adjourned for an hour.

R. P. of London, Scrivener, was produced a Witneſs to the Charge againſt the King, who being ſworn and examined, ſaith,

‘ That upon occaſion of ſome tampering by the King's Agents with the Independents in and about London, to draw them from the Parliament's Cauſe to the King's Party, which was diſcovered by ſome of thoſe ſo tampered with, unto ſundry Members of the Committee of Safety, they directed a carrying on of a ſeeming Compliance with the King: That he this Deponent travelling to Oxford in January 1643. had a ſafe Conduct under the King's Hand and Seal, which he this Deponent knoweth to be ſo, for that the King did own it, when he was told that this Deponent was the Man that came to Oxon with that ſafe Conduct.

And this Deponent alſo ſaith, ‘ That after ſundry Meetings between him and the E. of Briſtol, about the drawing of the Independents unto the King's Cauſe againſt the Parliament, the Subſtance of the Diſcourſe at which Meetings, the ſaid Earl told this Deponent, was communicated to the King, he this Deponent was by the ſaid Earl brought to the King to confer about that Buſineſs; where the King declared, That he was very ſenſible that the Independents had been the moſt active Men in the Kingdom for the Parliament againſt him, and thereupon perſwaded this Deponent to uſe all means to expedite their turning to him and his Cauſe: and for the better encouragement, the King promiſed in the word of a King, That if they, the Independents, would turn to him, and be active for him againſt the Parliament, as they had been active for them againſt him, then he would grant them whatſoever freedom they would deſire: and the King did then refer this Deponent unto the Earl of Briſtol for the further proſecuting of the ſaid Buſineſs.

‘ And the ſaid Earl thereupon (this Deponent being withdrawn from the King) did declare unto this Deponent, and willed him to impart the ſame unto the Independents for their better incouragement, That the King's Affairs proſpered well in Ireland: That the Iriſh Subjects had given the Rebels (meaning the Parliament's Forces) a great defeat: That the King had ſent the Lord Byron with a ſmall Party towards Cheſhire, and that he was greatly multiplied, and had a conſiderable Army, and was then before Namptwich, and would be ſtrengthned with more Souldiers out Ireland, which were come and expected daily. And when this Deponent was to depart out of Oxford, four ſafe Conducts, with blanks in them for inſerting of what names this Deponent pleaſed, were delivered to him under the King's Hand and Seal; and one Ogle was ſent out of Oxon with this Deponent to treat about the delivering up of Alisbury to the King, it being then a Gariſon for the Parliament, and at the ſame time Oxford was a Gariſon for the King.

Several Papers and Letters of the King's, under his own hand, and of his own writing, and other Papers, are produced and read in open Court.

T. C. a Member of the Houſe alſo reporteth ſeveral Papers and Letters of the King's writing, and under the King's own hand.

After which the Court ſat private.

The Court taking into Conſideration the whole matter in charge againſt the King, paſſed theſe Votes following, as preparatory to the Sentence againſt the King; but ordered that they ſhould not be binding finally to conclude the Court; viz.

‘ Reſolved upon the whole matter, That this Court will proceed to Sentence of ‘ Condemnation againſt Charles Stuart King of England.

‘ Reſolved, &c. That the Condemnation of the King ſhall be for a Tyrant, ‘ Traitor, and Murderer.

‘ Reſolved, That the Condemnation of the King ſhall be likewiſe for being a ‘ Publick Enemy to the Commonwealth of England.

‘ Reſolved, That this Condemnation ſhall extend to Death.

The Court adjourned it ſelf till to morrow at one of the Clock in the Afternoon.

January 26. 1648.

Here the Court ſat private.

The Draught of a Sentence againſt the King, is according to the Votes of the 25th inſtant prepared: and after ſeveral Readings, Debates, and Amendments by the Court thereupon; ‘ Reſolved, &c. That this Court do agree to the Sentence now read.

‘ Reſolved, That the ſaid Sentence ſhall be ingroſſed: That the King be ‘ brought to Weſtminſter to morrow to receive his Sentence.

The Court adjourn'd it ſelf till the morrow at 10 of the Clock in the morning to this place; the Court giving notice that they then intended to adjourn from thence to Weſtminſter-Hall.

Thurſday and Friday, January 25 and 26. 1648.

THE Houſe this day met again, and adjourned.

The High Court for Trial of the King proceeded in the hearing of Witneſſes to prove the ſeveral parts of the Charge againſt him: ſome proving that they ſaw him preſent at the ſetting up of his Standard; others that they did ſee him in the Field in ſuch and ſuch Fights with his Sword drawn, and ſo as in his Charge, &c. When he is next called, if he plead, the Witneſſes will be ready to ſpeak Viva voce; and if he ſtill refuſe to plead, 'tis probable the Court will give preſent Sentence.

The Charge againſt the King publiſhed by it ſelf. And I have given you ſomewhat largely the Particulars of his Trial: We will for the better ſatiſfaction, in order to Judgment thereupon to be paſſed, give you ſomewhat more fully the Heads of his Charge, which was thus:

THAT Charles Stuart being admitted King of England, and therein truſted with a limited Power to govern by, and according to the Laws of the Land, and not otherwiſe: And by his Truſt, Oath, and Office, being obliged to uſe the Power committed to him for the good and benefit of the People, and for the preſervation of their Rights and Liberties; yet nevertheleſs out of a wicked Deſign to erect and uphold in himſelf an unlimited and tyrannical Power to rule according to his Will, and to overthrow the Rights and Liberties of the People; yea to take away and make void the Foundations thereof, and of all redreſs and remedy of Miſgovernment, which by the fundamental Conſtitutions of this Kingdom were reſerved on the Peoples behalf, in the Right and Power of frequent and ſucceſſive Parliaments, or national Meetings in Council; he the ſaid Charles Stuart for accompliſhment of ſuch his Deſigns, and for the protecting of himſelf and his Adherents in his and their wicked Practices to the ſame ends, hath traitorouſly and maliciouſly levyed War againſt the preſent Parliament, and the People therein repreſented more particularly.

At Beverly in Yorkſhire, at Nottingham (when and where he ſet up his Standard of War) at Edghil and Keynton-field, at Brentford, at Caveſham-bridg, at the Siege of Glouceſter, at Newberry-fight, at Bodmin, and other places in Cornwal; at the Town of Leiceſter, at Naſeby-field, and ſeveral other times and places. That he has cauſed and procured many thouſands of the free People of the Nation to be ſlain; and by Diviſions, Parties, and Inſurrections within this Land, by Invaſions from foreign Parts, endeavoured and procured by him, and by many other evil ways and means; his giving Commiſſions to his Son the Prince, and other Rebels and Revolters both Engliſh and Foreigners, and to the Earl of Ormond, and to the Iriſh Rebels and Revolters aſſociated with him, from whom further Invaſions upon this Land are threatned, upon the procurement and on the behalf of the ſaid Charles Stuart.

All which wicked Deſigns, Wars, and evil Practices of him the ſaid Charles Stuart, have been and are carried on for the advancing and upholding of the perſonal Intereſt of Will and Power, and pretended Prerogative to himſelf and his Family, againſt the Publick Intereſt, Common Right, Liberty, Juſtice, and Peace of the People of this Nation, by and for whom he was intruſted as aforeſaid.

By all which it appeareth, That he the ſaid Charles Stuart has been and is the Occaſioner, Author and Contriver of the ſaid unnatural, cruel, and bloody Wars, and therein guilty of all the Treaſons, Murders, Rapines, Burnings, Spoils, Deſolations, Damage and Miſchief to this Nation acted or committed in the ſaid Wars, or occaſioned thereby.

January 27. 1648. Poſt Merid.

Weſtminſter-Hall.

The Lord Preſident and the reſt of the Commiſſioners come together from the Painted Chamber to Weſtminſter-Hall, according to their adjournment, and take their Seats there, as formerly: and three Proclamations being made for attendance and ſilence,

The Court is called.

The Commiſſioners preſent:

John Bradſhaw Serjeant at Law, Lord Preſident of this Court; John Liſle, William Say, Oliver Cromwell, Henry Ireton, Sir Hardreſs Waller Knight, Sir John Bourcher Knight, William Heveningham, Iſaac Penington Alderman of London, Henry Martin, William Purefoy, John Barkſtead, Matthew Thomlinſon, John Blackiſton, Gilbert Millington, Sir William Conſtable Baronet, Edmond Ludlow, John Hutchinſon, Sir Michael Liveſey Baronet, Robert Tichburne, Owen Roe, Robert Lilburn, Adrian Scroope, Richard Deane, John Okey, John Huſon, William Goffe, Cornelius Holland, John Carew, John Jones, Miles Corbet, Francis Allen, Peregrine Pelham, Daniel Blagrave, Valentine Walton, Thomas Harriſon, Edward Whaley, Tho. Pride, Iſaac Ewer, Thomas Lord Grey of Groby, Sir John Danvers, Sir Thomas Maleverer Baronet, John More, John Alured, Henry Smith, Humphry Edwards, Gregory Clement, Tho. Wogan, Sir Gregory Norton Baronet, Edmond Harvey, John Ven, Tho. Scot, Tho. Andrews Alderman of London, William Cawley, Anthony Stapeley, John Downs, Thomas Horton, Thomas Hammond, Nicholas Love, Vincent Potter, Auguſtine Garland, John Dixwell, George Fleetwood, Simon Meyne, James Temple, Peter Temple, Tho. Wayte.

The Priſoner is brought to the Bar, and Proclamation is again (as formerly) made for ſilence, and the Captain of the Guard ordered to take into his Cuſtody all ſuch as ſhould diſturb the Court.

The Preſident ſtood up, with an intention of addreſs to the People, and not to the Priſoner, who had ſo often declined the Juriſdiction of the Court; which the Priſoner obſerving, moved he might be heard before Judgment given, whereof he received aſſurance from the Court, and that he ſhould be heard after he had heard them firſt.

Whereupon the Preſident proceeded, and remembred the great Aſſembly then preſent, of what had formerly paſſed betwixt the Court and the Priſoner, the Charge againſt him in the name of the People of England, exhibited to them, being a Court conſtituted by the Supreme Authority of England; his refuſal three ſeveral days and times to own them as a Court, or to anſwer to the matter of his Charge; his thrice recorded Contumacy, and other his Contempts and Defaults in the precedent Courts: upon which the Court then declared, that they might not be wanting to themſelves, or to the Truſt repoſed in them, and that no Man's wilfulneſs ought to ſerve him to prevent Juſtice, That they had therefore thought fit to take the Subſtance of what had paſſed into their ſerious conſideration, to wit, the Charge, and the Priſoner's Contumacy; and the Confeſſion which in Law doth ariſe upon that Contumacy; the notoriety of the Fact charged, and other the circumſtances material in the Cauſe; and upon the whole matter, had reſolved and agreed upon a Sentence then ready to be pronounced againſt the Priſoner. But that in regard of his deſire to be further heard, they were ready to hear him, as to any thing material which he would offer to their conſideration before the Sentence given, relating to the defence of himſelf concerning the matter charged; and did then ſignify ſo much to the Priſoner, who made uſe of that leave given, only to proteſt his reſpects to the peace of the Kingdom, and liberty of the Subject; and to ſay, That the ſame made him at laſt to deſire, that having ſomewhat to ſay that concerned both, he might before the Sentence given be heard in the Painted Chamber before the Lords and Commons; ſaying, It was fit to be heard, if it were Reaſon which he ſhould offer, whereof they were Judges: and preſſing that point much, he was forthwith anſwered by the Court, and told,

That that which he had moved, was a declining of the Juriſdiction of the Court, whereof he had caution frequently before given him.

That it tended to further delay, of which he had been too much guilty.

That the Court being founded (as often had been ſaid) upon the Authority of the Commons of England, in whom reſted the Supreme Juriſdiction, the Motion tended to ſet up another, or a co-ordinate Juriſdiction in derogation of the Power whereby the Court ſat, and to the manifeſt delay of their Juſtice, in which regard he was told they might forthwith proceed to Sentence; yet for his further ſatisfaction of the entire Pleaſure and Judgment of the Court upon what he had then ſaid, he was told, and accordingly it was declared, that the Court would withdraw half an hour.

The Priſoner by command being withdrawn, the Court make their receſs into the Room called, The Court of Wards, conſidered of the Priſoner's Motion, and gave the Preſident direction to declare their Diſſent thereto, and to proceed to the Sentence.

The Court being again ſet, and the Priſoner returned, was according to their Direction informed, That he had in effect received his Anſwer before the Court withdrew; and that their Judgment was (as to his Motion) the ſame to him before declared, That the Court acted and were Judges appointed by the higheſt Authority, and that Judges were not to delay, no more than to deny Juſtice: That they were good words in the great old Charter of England, Nulli negabimus, nulli vendemus, nulli deferemus Juſtitiam vel Rectum: That their Duty called upon them to avoid further delays, and to proceed to Judgment, which was their unanimous Reſolution.

Unto which the Priſoner replied, and inſiſted upon his former deſires, confeſſing a delay, but that it was important for the Peace of the Kingdom, and therefore preſſed again with much earneſtneſs to be heard before the Lords and Commons.

In anſwer whereto he was told by the Court, That they had fully before conſidered of his Propoſal, and muſt give him the ſame anſwer to his renewed deſires, that they were ready to proceed to Sentence, if he had nothing more to ſay.

Whereunto he replied, he had no more to ſay, but deſired that might be entred which he had ſaid.

Hereupon, after ſome Diſcourſe uſed by the Preſident, for vindicating the Parliament's Juſtice, explaining the nature of the Crimes of which the Priſoner ſtood charged, and for which he was to be condemned; and by way of exhortation of the Priſoner to a ſerious repentance for his high Tranſgreſſions againſt God and the People, and to prepare for his eternal Condition.

Ann. 1648.

The Sentence formerly agreed upon and put down in Parchment-writing, O Yes being firſt made for ſilence, was by the Court's Command ſolemnly pronounced and given. The Tenor whereof followeth.

The Sentence againſt the King.

WHEREAS the Commons of England aſſembled in Parliament, have by their late Act, intituled, An Act of the Commons of England aſſembled in Parliament, for erecting an High Court of Juſtice for the trying and judging of Charles Stuart King of England, Authoriſed and conſtituted us an High Court of Juſtice for the trying and judging of the ſaid Charles Stuart for the Crimes and Treaſons in the ſaid Act mentioned: By virtue whereof the ſaid Charles Stuart hath been three ſeveral times convented before this High Court, where the firſt day, being Saturday the 20th of January inſtant, in purſuance of the ſaid Act, a Charge of high Treaſon and other high Crimes, was in the behalf of the People of England, exhibited againſt him, and read openly unto him, wherein he was charged, That he the ſaid Charles Stuart, being admitted King of England, and therein truſted with a limited Power to govern by and according to the Law of the Land, and not otherwiſe; and by his Truſt, Oath, and Office, being obliged to uſe the Power committed to him, for the good and benefit of the People, and for the preſervation of their Rights and Liberties; yet nevertheleſs out of a wicked Deſign to erect and uphold in himſelf an unlimited and tyrannical Power to rule according to his Will, and to overthrow the Rights and Liberties of the People, and to take away and make void the foundations thereof, and of all redreſs and remedy of miſgovernment, which by the fundamental Conſtitutions of this Kingdom were reſerved on the Peoples behalf in the Right and Power of frequent and ſucceſſive Parliaments, or national Meetings in Council; he the ſaid Charles Stuart, for accompliſhment of ſuch his Deſigns, and for the protecting of himſelf and his Adherents in his and their wicked Practices, to the ſame end, hath traitorouſly and maliciouſly levyed War againſt the preſent Parliament, and People therein repreſented, as with the circumſtances of time and place is in the ſaid Charge more particularly ſet forth; and that he hath thereby cauſed and procured many thouſands of the free People of this Nation to be ſlain; and by Diviſions, Parties, and Inſurrections within this Land, by Invaſions from foreign Parts, endeavoured and procured by him, and by many other evil ways and means, he the ſaid Charles Stuart hath not only maintained and carried on the ſaid War both by Sea and Land, but alſo hath renewed, or cauſed to be renewed, the ſaid War againſt the Parliament, and good People of this Nation in this preſent year 1648. in ſeveral Counties and Places in this Kingdom in the Charge ſpecified; and that he hath for that purpoſe given his Commiſſion to his Son the Prince, and others, whereby, beſides multitudes of other Perſons, many ſuch as were by the Parliament entruſted and imployed for the ſafety of this Nation, being by him or his Agents corrupted, to the betraying of their Truſt, and revolting from the Parliament, have had Entertainment and Commiſſion for the continuing and renewing of the War, and Hoſtility againſt the ſaid Parliament and People: and that by the ſaid cruel and unnatural War ſo levyed, continued and renewed, much innocent Blood of the free People of this Nation hath been ſpilt; many Families undone; the publick Treaſure waſted; Trade obſtructed, and miſerably decayed; vaſt expence and damage to the Nation incurred, and many parts of the Land ſpoiled, ſome of them even to Deſolation; and that he ſtill continues his Commiſſion to his ſaid Son, and other Rebels and Revolters, both Engliſh and Foreigners, and to the Earl of Ormond, and to the Iriſh Rebels and Revolters aſſociated with him, from whom further Invaſions of this Land are threatned by his procurement, and on his behalf: and that all the ſaid wicked Deſigns, Wars, and evil Practices of him the ſaid Charles Stuart, were ſtill carried on for the advancement and upholding of the perſonal Intereſt of Will, Power, and pretended Prerogative to himſelf and his Family, againſt the Publick Intereſt, Common Right, Liberty, Juſtice and Peace of the People of this Nation: And that he thereby hath been and is the Occaſioner, Author, and Continuer of the ſaid unnatural, cruel and bloody Wars, and therein guilty of all the Treaſons, Murders, Rapines, Burnings, Spoils, Deſolations, Damage, and Miſchief to this Nation, acted and committed in the ſaid Wars, or occaſioned thereby; whereupon the Proceedings and Judgment of this Court were prayed againſt him, as a Tyrant, Traitor, and Murderer, and publick Enemy to the Commonwealth, as by the ſaid Charge more fully appeareth. To which Charge, being read unto him as aforeſaid, he the ſaid Charles Stuart was required to give his Anſwer; but he refuſed ſo to do: And upon Monday the 22d day of January inſtant, being again brought before this Court, and there required to anſwer directly to the ſaid Charge, he ſtill refuſed ſo to do; whereupon his Default and Contumacy was entred: And the next day, being the third time brought before the Court, Judgment was then prayed againſt him on the behalf of the People of England for his Contumacy, and for the matters contained againſt him in the ſaid Charge, as taking the ſame for confeſt, in regard of his refuſing to anſwer thereto. Yet notwithſtanding this Court (not willing to take advantage of his contempt) did once more require him to anſwer to the ſaid Charge; but he again refuſed ſo to do: Vpon which his ſeveral Defaults, this Court might juſtly have proceeded to Judgment againſt him both for his Contumacy, and the matters of the Charge, taking the ſame for confeſt as aforeſaid.

Yet nevertheleſs this Court, for its own clearer Information, and further ſatisfaction, have thought fit to examine Witneſſes upon Oath, and take notice of other Evidences, touching the matters contained in the ſaid Charge, which accordingly they have done.

Now therefore upon ſerious and mature Deliberation of the Premiſes, and Conſideration had of the notoriety of the matters of fact charged upon him as aforeſaid, this Court is in Judgment and Conſcience ſatisfied that he the ſaid Charles Stuart is guilty of levying War againſt the ſaid Parliament and People, and maintaining and continuing the ſame; for which in the ſaid Charge he ſtands accuſed, and by the general Courſe of his Government, Counſels and Practices, before and ſince this Parliament began (which have been and are notorious and publick, and the effects whereof remain abundantly upon record) this Court is fully ſatisfied in their Judgments and Conſciences, that he has been and is guilty of the wicked Deſigns and Endeavours in the ſaid Charge ſet forth; and that the ſaid War hath been levyed, maintained and continued by him as aforeſaid, in proſecution, and for accompliſhment of the ſaid Deſigns; and that he hath been and is the Occaſioner, Author, and Continuer of the ſaid unnatural, cruel, and bloody Wars, and therein guilty of High Treaſon, and of the Murders, Rapines, Burnings, Spoils, Deſolations, Damage and Miſchief to this Nation acted and committed in the ſaid War, and occaſioned thereby. For all which Treaſons and Crimes this Court doth adjudg, That he the ſaid Charles Stuart, as a Tyrant, Traitor, Murderer, and publick Enemy to the good People of this Nation, ſhall be put to Death by ſevering of his Head from his Body.

Ann. 1648.

January 27.

The Sentence agreed on, and ordered by this Court the 26th inſtant to be ingroſſed, being accordingly ingroſſed, was read.

Reſolved, That the Sentence now read ſhall be the Sentence of this Court for the Condemnation of the King, which ſhall be read and publiſhed in Weſtminſter-Hall this day.

The Court hereupon conſidered of certain Inſtructions for the Lord Preſident to manage the buſineſs of this day in Weſtminſter-Hall; and ordered, Inſtructions given by the Court to the Preſident.

That the Lord Preſident do manage what diſcourſe ſhall happen between him and the King, according to his diſcretion, with the advice of his two Aſſiſtants; and that in caſe the King ſhall ſtill perſiſt in excepting againſt the Court's Juriſdiction, to let him know that the Court do ſtill affirm their Juriſdiction.

That in caſe the King ſhall ſubmit to the Juriſdiction of the Court, and pray a Copy of the Charge, that then the Court do withdraw and adviſe.

That in caſe the King ſhall move any thing elſe worth the Court's conſideration, that the Lord Preſident, upon advice of his ſaid Aſſiſtants, do give order for the Court's withdrawing to adviſe.

That in caſe the King ſhall not ſubmit to anſwer, and there happen no ſuch cauſe of withdrawing, that then the Lord Preſident do command the Sentence to be read; but that the Lord Preſident ſhould hear the King ſay what he would before the Sentence, and not after.

And thereupon it being further moved, whether the Lord Preſident ſhould uſe any Diſcourſes or Speeches to the King, as in the caſe of other Priſoners to be condemned was uſual before the publiſhing of the Sentence, he received general Directions to do therein as he ſhould ſee cauſe, and to preſs what he ſhould conceive moſt ſeaſonable and ſutable to the occaſion. And it was further directed, That after the reading of the Sentence, the Ld Preſident ſhould declare that the ſame was the Sentence, Judgment, and Reſolution of the whole Court, and that the Commiſſioners ſhould thereupon ſignify their conſent by ſtanding up.

The Court forthwith adjourned it ſelf to Weſtminſter-Hall.

Proceedings of the Court at his Majeſty's third appearance.

THE High Court of Juſtice ſat in Weſtminſter-Hall. The Lord Preſident was in Scarlet. After the calling of the Court the King came in his wonted Poſture with his Hat on; a Cry was made in the Hall as he paſſed, for Juſtice and Execution. Upon the King's coming, he deſired to be heard. The Lord Preſident anſwered, he muſt hear the Court firſt. After which the Lord Preſident ſet forth the Intentions of the Court to proceed againſt the Priſoner; and withal offered that the King might ſpeak, ſo it were not matter of Debate. The King deſired, that in regard he had ſomething to ſay for the Peace of the Kingdom, and the Liberty of the Subject, before Sentence were given, he might be heard before the Lords and Commons in the painted Chamber. Hereupon the Court withdrew into the Court of Wards, and the King to Sir Robert Cotton's Houſe. After about half an hours debate, the Court returned from the Court of Wards with this Reſolution, That what the King had tendred tended to delay; yet if he would ſpeak any thing for himſelf in Court before Sentence, he might be heard. The King declaring he had nothing more to ſay, the Lord Preſident made a large Speech, ſetting forth the King's miſgovernment, and proving by Law how Kings were accountable to their People, and the Law which was their Superiour; and produced ſeveral Inſtances of Kings being depoſed and impriſoned by their Subjects, eſpecially in his own native Kingdom of Scotland, where of 109 Kings, moſt were depoſed, impriſoned, ſoned, or proceeded againſt for miſgovernment; and his own Grandmother removed, and his Father an Infant crowned.

After this the Clerk of the Crown was commanded to read the Sentence, which recited the Charge and the ſeveral Crimes of which he had been found guilty. For all which Treaſons and Crimes the Court did adjudg, That he the ſaid Charles Stuart, as a Tyrant, Traitor, Murderer, and publick Enemy, ſhall be put to death, by the ſevering of his Head from his Body.

The King then deſired to be heard, but it being after Sentence, it would not be admitted. As the King paſſed the Hall, there was another Cry for Juſtice and Execution. The King went with a Guard to Sir Robert Cotton's, and thence to Whitehal. The time and place of Execution is not yet appointed.

The King deſired to be heard, but was rejected.

The Houſe had the Act again reported for altering the Forms of Writs, and other Proceedings in Courts of Juſtice which before were in the Name of the King, which Act upon the Queſtion was aſſented unto, and no Concurrence of the Lords to be deſired therein. The Houſe conſidered, in caſe of Execution of the King, that if any in the Kingdom ſhould attempt or go about to proclaim Prince Charles, or any of that Line King of England, as uſually hath been done in this Nation after the Death of Kings; and the better to leave all without excuſe herein,

The Houſe agree to alter the Forms of Writs without Concurrence of the Lords.

They ordered that a Committee ſhould be appointed to draw a Proclamation to be publiſhed throughout the Kingdom, to declare it High Treaſon in any Perſon or Perſons to proclaim any King of England without the conſent of the Parliament; and that none under pain of Impriſonment, or ſuch other Puniſhments as ſhall be thought fit to be inflicted on them, ſhall preach or ſpeak any thing contrary to the preſent Proceedings of the Supream Authority of this Nation, The Commons of England aſſembled in Parliament.

Ordered that none of the K's Race be proclaimed on pain of High Treaſon.

A Member of the Army acquainted ſome Members of Parliament with the deſires of his Majeſty, that in reſpect Sentence of Death was paſſed upon him, and the time of his Execution might be nigh, the Houſe would give him leave to ſee his Children: And alſo that he might have the benefit to receive the Sacrament, and prepare himſelf for Death; and in order thereunto that he might have Dr. Juxton late Biſhop of London to have the Privilege to be private with him in his Chamber: The Houſe ordered the ſame accordingly.

The Houſe ordered the King might ſee his Children, receive the Sacrament, and Dr. Juxton to be with him.

The Houſe ordered that all their Members ſhould be required to meet on Monday Morning at the Houſe by 8 of the Clock, there being much buſineſs that would be offered to the Houſe on that day.

This night the King lodged in Whitehall. Sunday Dr. Juxton preached before the King in his private Lodgings. The High Court, and the Lord Preſident with them, kept a Faſt in the Chappel at Whitehall on Sunday.

January 27.

A more full account of this days Action take as follows, viz.

The King being come in his wonted Poſture with his Hat on, ſome of the Souldiers began to call for Juſtice, Juſtice, and Execution. But ſilence being commanded, his Majeſty began:

I deſire a word to be heard a little, and I hope I ſhall give no occaſion of interruption.

The Preſident anſwered,

You may anſwer in your time; hear the Court firſt.

His Majeſty replied,

If it pleaſe you Sir, I deſire to be heard, and I ſhall not give any occaſion of interruption, and 'tis only in a word. A ſudden Judgment ——

Preſident. Sir, you ſhall be heard in due time, but you are to hear the Court firſt.

King. Sir, I deſire it, it will be in order to what I believe the Court will ſay; and therefore, Sir —— —— A haſty Judgment is not ſo ſoon recalled.

Preſident. Sir, you ſhall be heard before the Judgment be given; and in the mean time you may forbear.

King. Well Sir, ſhall I be heard before the Judgment be given?

An. 1648.

Preſident. Gentlemen, It is well known to all, or moſt of you here preſent, That the Priſoner at the Bar hath been ſeveral times convented and brought before this Court, to make anſwer to a Charge of Treaſon, and other High Crimes exhibited againſt him in the name of the People of England: To which Charge being required to anſwer, he hath been ſo far from obeying the Commands of the Court, by ſubmitting to their Juſtice, that he began to take upon him to offer Reaſoning and Debate unto the Authority of the Court, and to the Higheſt Court that appointed them to try and judg him: But being overruled in that, and required to make his Anſwer, he was ſtill pleaſed to continue contumacious, and refuſe to ſubmit to anſwer. Hereupon the Court, that they might not be wanting to themſelves, nor the truſt repoſed in them, nor that any Man's wilfulneſs prevent Juſtice, they have thought fit to take the matter into their Conſideration; they have conſidered of the Charge; they have conſidered of the Contumacy, and of that Confeſſion which Law in doth ariſe upon that Contumacy; they have likewiſe conſidered of the notoriety of the Fact charged upon the Priſoner; and upon the whole matter they are reſolved, and are agreed upon a Sentence to be pronounced againſt the Priſoner. But in reſpect he doth deſire to be heard before the Sentence be read and pronounced, the Court hath reſolved that they will hear him.

Yet, Sir, thus much I muſt tell you beforehand, which you have been minded of at other Courts, That if that which you have to ſay, be to offer any debate concerning the Juriſdiction, you are not to be heard in it; you have offered it formerly, and you have ſtruck at the Root; that is, the Power, and Supream Authority of the Commons of England, which this Court will not admit a debate of; and which indeed it is an irrational thing in them to do, being a Court that acts upon Authority derived from them. But, Sir, if you have any thing to ſay in defence of your ſelf concerning the matter charged, the Court hath given me in command to let you know they will hear you.

King. Since I ſee that you will not hear any thing of debate concerning that which I confeſs I thought moſt material for the peace of the Kingdom, and for the liberty of the Subject, I ſhall wave it, I ſhall ſpeak nothing to it: But only I muſt tell you, That this many a day all things have been taken away from me, but that that I call dearer to me than my Life, which is my Conſcience and my Honour. And if I had a reſpect to my Life more than the Peace of the Kingdom, and the Liberty of the Subject, certainly I ſhould have made a particular Defence for my ſelf; for by that at leaſtwiſe I might have delayed an ugly Sentence, which I believe will paſs upon me. Therefore certainly Sir, as a Man that hath ſome underſtanding, ſome knowledg of the World, if that my true Zeal to my Country had not overborn the care that I have for my own preſervation, I ſhould have gone another way to work than that I have done.

Now, Sir, I conceive that an haſty Sentence once paſt may ſooner be repented of, than recalled: And truly the ſelf-ſame deſire that I have for the peace of the Kingdom, and the liberty of the Subject, more than my own particular ends, makes me now at laſt deſire, That I having ſomething to ſay that concerns both, before Sentence be given, that I may be heard in the Painted Chamber before the Lords and Commons. This Delay cannot be prejudicial unto you, whatſoever I ſay. If that I ſay be not Reaſon, thoſe that hear me muſt be judg; I cannot be Judg of that that I have. If it be Reaſon, and really for the welfare of the Kingdom, and the Liberty of the Subject, I am ſure on it it is very well worth the hearing: Therefore I do conjure you, as you love that that you pretend, (I hope it is real) the Liberty of the Subject, the Peace of the Kingdom, that you will grant me this hearing before any Sentence be paſt. I only deſire this, That you will take this into your Conſideration; it may be you have not heard of it beforehand. If you will, I will retire, and you may think of it: But if I cannot get this Liberty, I do proteſt, That theſe fair ſhews of Liberty and Peace are pure Shews, and that you will not hear your King.

Preſident. Sir, you have now ſpoken.

King. Yes, Sir.

Preſident. And this that you have ſaid, is a further declining of the Juriſdiction of this Court, which was the thing wherein you were limited before.

King. Pray excuſe me, Sir, for my interruption, becauſe you miſtake me. It is not a declining of it; you do judg me before you hear me ſpeak. I ſay it will not, I do not decline it: tho I cannot acknowledg the Juriſdiction of the Court, yet, Sir, in this give me leave to ſay, I would do it, tho I did not acknowledg it. In this I do proteſt, it is not the declining of it, ſince I ſay, if that I do ſay any thing but that that is for the Peace of the Kingdom and Liberty of the Subject, then the Shame is mine. Now I deſire that you will take this into your conſideration: if you will I will withdraw.

Preſident. Sir, this is not altogether new that you have moved to us, not altogether new to us, tho the firſt time in Perſon you have offered it to the Court. Sir, you ſay you do not decline the Juriſdiction of the Court.

King. Not in this that I have ſaid.

Preſident. I underſtand you well, Sir; but nevertheleſs that which you have offered, ſeems to be contrary to that Saying of yours, for the Court are ready to give a Sentence. It is not, as you ſay, That they will not hear the King, for they have been ready to hear you; they have patiently waited your Pleaſure for three Courts together to hear what you would ſay to the Peoples Charge againſt you: To which you have not vouchſafed to give any Anſwer at all. Sir, this tends to a further delay. Truly Sir, ſuch delays as theſe, neither may the Kingdom nor Juſtice well bear. You have had three ſeveral days to have offered in this kind what you would have pleaſed. This Court is founded upon that Authority of the Commons of England, in whom reſts the Supreme Juriſdiction. That which you now tender, is to have another Juriſdiction, and a co-ordinate Juriſdiction. I know very well you expreſs your ſelf, Sir, that notwithſtanding that you would offer to the Lords and Commons in the Painted Chamber, yet nevertheleſs you would proceed on here; I did hear you ſay ſo. But, Sir, that you would offer there, whatever it is, muſt needs be in delay of the Juſtice here; ſo that if this Court be reſolved and prepared for the Sentence, this that you offer, they are not bound to grant. But, Sir, according to that you ſeem to deſire, and becauſe you ſhall know the further pleaſure of the Court upon that which you have moved, the Court will withdraw for a time.

This he did to prevent diſturbance.

King. Shall I withdraw?

Preſident. Sir, you ſhall know the pleaſure of the Court preſently.

The Court withdraws for half an hour into the Court of Wards.

Serjeant at Arms. The Court gives command that the Priſoner be withdrawn; and they give order for his return again.

After which they returned; and being ſat, the Preſident commanded,

Serjeant at Arms, ſend for your Priſoner; who being come, the Preſident proceeded.

Sir, You were pleaſed to make a Motion here to the Court to offer a deſire of yours touching the propounding of ſomewhat to the Lords and Commons in the Painted Chamber for the Peace of the Kingdom. Sir, you did in effect receive an anſwer before the Court adjourned: Truly Sir, their withdrawing and adjournment was pro forma tantum; for it did not ſeem to them that there was any difficulty in the thing. They have conſidered of what you have moved, and have conſidered of their own Authority, which is founded, as it hath been often ſaid, upon the ſupreme Authority of the Commons of England aſſembled in Parliament. The Court acts according to their Commiſſion. Sir, the return I have to you from the Court is this, That they have been too much delayed by you already; and this that you now offer, hath occaſioned ſome little further delay; and they are Judges appointed by the higheſt Authority; and Judges are no more to delay, than they are to deny Juſtice: They are good words in the Great Old Charter of England, Nulli negabimus, nulli

An. 1648.

nulli vendemus, nulli deferemus Juſtitiam. There muſt be no delay. But the truth is, Sir, and ſo every Man here obſerves it, that you have much delayed them in your contempt and default, for which they might long ſince have proceeded to Judgment againſt you; and notwithſtanding what you have offered, they are reſolved to proceed to Sentence and to Judgment; and that is their unanimous conſent.

King. Sir, I know it is in vain for me to diſpute; I am no Sceptick for to deny the Power that you have, I know that you have Power enough. Sir, I muſt confeſs I think it would have been for the Kingdom's Peace, if you would have taken the pains to have ſhewn the lawfulneſs of your Power.

For this Delay that I have deſired, I confeſs it is a Delay, but it is a Delay very important for the Peace of the Kingdom: For it is not my Perſon that I look at alone, it is the Kingdom's Welfare and the Kingdom's Peace.

It is an old Sentence, That we ſhould think on long before we reſolve on great matters ſuddenly. Therefore Sir, I do ſay again, that I do put at your doors all the inconveniency of a haſty Sentence. I confeſs I have been here now I think this week; this day 8 days was the day I came here firſt: But a little delay of a day or two further may give peace, whereas a haſty Judgment may bring on that trouble and perpetual inconveniency to the Kingdom, that the Child that is unborn may repent it. And therefore again, out of the Duty I owe to God and to my Country, I do deſire that I may be heard by the Lords and Commons in the Painted Chamber, or any other Chamber that you will appoint me.

Preſident. You have been already anſwered to what you even now moved, being the ſame you moved before, ſince the Reſolution and the Judgment of the Court in it; and the Court now requires to know whether you have any more to ſay for your ſelf than you have ſaid, before they proceed to Sentence.

King. I ſay this Sir, That if you hear me, if you will give me but this delay, I doubt not but I ſhall give ſome ſatisfaction to you all here, and to my People after that; and therefore I do require you, as you will anſwer it at the dreadful day of Judgment, that you will conſider it once again.

Preſident. Sir, I have received Direction from the Court.

King. Well, Sir.

Preſident. If this muſt be reinforced, or any thing of this nature, your Anſwer muſt be the ſame, and they will proceed to Sentence, if you have nothing more to ſay.

King. I have nothing more to ſay; but I ſhall deſire that this may be entred what I have ſaid.

Preſident. The Court then, Sir, hath ſomething to ſay unto you, which I know, altho I know it will be very unacceptable, yet notwithſtanding they are willing and reſolved to diſcharge their Duty.

His Majeſty anſwered, I would deſire only one word before you give Sentence, and that is, That you would hear me concerning thoſe great Imputations that you have laid to my Charge.

Preſident. Sir, you muſt give me now leave to go on: for I am not far from your Sentence, and your time is now paſt.

King. But I ſhall deſire you will hear me a few words to you; for truly, whatever Sentence you will put upon me, in reſpect of thoſe heavy imputations that I ſee by your Speech you have put upon me. Sir, it is very true that——

Preſident. Sir, I muſt put you in mind: Truly Sir, I would not willingly at this time eſpecially interrupt you in any thing you have to ſay that is proper for us to admit of: But, Sir, you have not owned us as a Court, and you look upon us as a ſort of People met together, and we know what Language we receive from your Party.

King. I know nothing of that.

Preſident. You diſavow us as a Court, and therefore for you to addreſs your ſelf to us, and not to acknowledg us as a Court to judg of what you ſay, it is not to be permitted. And the truth is, all along from the firſt time you were pleaſed to diſavow and diſown us, the Court needed not to have heard you one word; for unleſs they be acknowledged a Court, and engaged, it is not

Caroli I.

not proper for you to ſpeak. Sir, we have given you too much Liberty already, and admitted of too much delay, and we may not admit of any further; were it proper for us to do it, we ſhould hear you freely; and we ſhould not have declined to have heard you at large, what you could have ſaid or proved on your behalf, whether for totally excuſing, or for in part excuſing thoſe great and hainous charges that in whole or in part are laid upon you. But, Sir, I ſhall trouble you no longer; your Sins are of ſo large a dimenſion, that if you do but ſeriouſly think of them, they will drive you to a ſad conſideration, and they may improve in you a ſad and ſerious Repentance. And the Court doth heartily wiſh that you may be ſo penitent for what you have done amiſs, that God may have mercy at leaſtwiſe on your better part. Truly, Sir, for the other, it is our parts and duties to do that which the Law preſcribes. We are not here Jus dare, but Jus dicere: We cannot be unmindful of what the Scripture tells us; for to acquit the Guilty is of equal abomination as to condemn the Innocent. We may not acquit the guilty. What Sentence the Law affirms to a Traitor, a Murderer, and a publick Enemy to the Country, that Sentence you are now to hear read unto you, and that is the Sentence of the Court.

Make an O Yes, and command ſilence while the Sentence is read.

Which done, the Clerk read the Sentence drawn up in Parchment.

WHEREAS the Commons of England in Parliament had appointed them an High Court of Juſtice, for the trial of Charles Stuart King of England, before whom he had been three times convented, and at the firſt time a Charge of High Treaſon, and other Crimes and Miſdemeanors was read in the behalf of the Kingdom of England, which Charge being read unto him as aforeſaid, he the ſaid Charles Stuart was required to give his anſwer, but he refuſed ſo to do.

[Here the Charge was repeated.]

[Expreſſing the ſeveral paſſages of his refuſing in the former Proceedings.]

For all which Treaſons and Crimes, this Court doth adjudg, That he the ſaid Charles Stuart, as a Tyrant, Traitor, Murderer, and a publick Enemy, ſhall be put to death by the ſevering of his Head from his Body.

Which being read, the Preſident added,

" The Sentence now read, and publiſhed, is the Act, Sentence, Judgment,
" and Reſolution of the whole Court.

To which they all expreſſed their aſſent by ſtanding up, as was before agreed and ordered.

His Majeſty then ſaid,

Will you hear me a word, Sir?

Preſident. Sir, you are not to be heard after the Sentence.

King. No, Sir?

Preſident. No, Sir, by your favour, Sir. Guard withdraw your Priſoner.

King. I may ſpeak after Sentence, by your favour, Sir, I may ſpeak after Sentence, ever. By your favour, hold: the Sentence, Sir — I ſay Sir, I do — I am not ſufferered to ſpeak, expect what Juſtice other People will have.

His Majeſty being taken away by the Guard, as he paſſed down the Stairs, the Soldiers ſcoffed at him, caſting the ſmoke of their Tobacco (a thing very diſtaſtful unto him) and throwing their Pipes in his way.

As he paſſed along, hearing the Rabble of Souldiers crying out, Juſtice, Juſtice; he ſaid, Poor Souldiers, for a piece of Mony they would do ſo for their Commanders.

In the Evening a Member of the Army acquainted the Committee with his Majeſty's deſire, That ſeeing they had paſſed a Sentence of death upon him, and his time being nigh, he might ſee his Children, and Dr. Juxton Biſhop of London might be admitted to aſſiſt him in his private Devotions, and receiving the Sacrament. Both which were granted.

And the next day being Sunday, he was attended by the Guard to St. James's, where the Biſhop preached before him upon theſe words, In the day when God ſhall judg the Secrets of all Men by Jeſus Chriſt according to my Goſpel.

January 29. 1648.

Upon Report made from the Committee for conſidering the time and place of the executing of the Judgment againſt the King, the ſaid Committee have reſolved, That the open Street before Wihtehall, over againſt the Banqueting-houſe, is a fit place, and that the ſaid Committee conceive it fit that the King be there executed to morrow, the King having already notice thereof: The Court approved thereof, and ordered a Warrant to be drawn for that purpoſe, which ſaid Warrant was accordingly drawn and agreed unto, and ordered to be ingroſſed; which was done, and ſigned and ſealed accordingly as followeth, viz.

At the High Court of Juſtice for the trying and judging of Charles Stuart King of England, Jan. 29. 1648.

Warrant for executing the King.

W*HEREAS* Charles Stuart King of England is, and ſtandeth convicted, attainted and condemned of High Treaſon, and other high Crimes; and Sentence upon Saturday laſt was pronounced againſt him by this Court, to be put to death by the ſevering of his Head from his Body; of which Sentence, Execution yet remaineth to be done: Theſe are therefore to will and require you to ſee the ſaid Sentence executed in the open Street before Whitehall, upon the morrow, being the 30th day of this inſtant Month of January, between the hours of 10 in the Morning, and 5 in the afternoon of the ſame day, with full effect. And for ſo doing, this ſhall be your ſufficient Warrant. And theſe are to require all Officers, Soldiers, and others, the good People of this Nation of England, to be aſſiſting unto you in this Service.

Monday, January 29.

Such Members as voted the King's Conceſſions a ground of Peace, to be wholly excluded.

THIS day the Houſe ſat early (as was appointed) and one of the late ſecluded Members coming into the Houſe, occaſioned them to conſider of that buſineſs: Upon which they voted, That ſuch Members as voted December 5. laſt, That the King's Conceſſions were a ground of ſettling a Peace in this Nation, ſhould not be readmitted, but diſabled to ſit any longer Members for the future.

Dutch Ambaſſadors read their Inſtructions in French.

The Dutch Ambaſſadors had their Audience in the Houſe. They read their Inſtructions and Letters of Credence in French, but had no Copies thereof in Engliſh (as uſual) but ſaid, Copies ſhould be prepared againſt to morrow Morning. Their deſire was to interceed for the King's Life, and to keep and preſerve a fair Correſpondency between this Nation and the States of Holland; but having no Tranſcripts ready, and being unwilling to leave the Original, the Houſe at that time could not proceed in debate thereof.

This day an Act paſſed for alteration of ſeveral Names and Forms heretofore uſed in Courts, Writs, Grants, Patents, &c. and ſettling of Proceedings in Courts of Law, Juſtice, and Equity, within the Kingdoms of England and Ireland, Dominion of Wales, and Town of Berwick upon Tweed, as followeth:

Act for altering of Writs, &c.

Be it enacted by this preſent Parliament, and by Authority of the ſame, That in all Courts of Law, Juſtice, or Equity; and in all Writs, Grants, Patents, Commiſſions, Indictments, Informations, Suits, Returns of Writs; and in all Fines, Recoveries, Exemplifications, Recognizances, Proceſſes and Proceedings of Law, Juſtice, or Equity, within the Kingdoms of England and Ireland, Dominion of Wales, and Town of Berwick upon Tweed: Inſtead of the Name, Stile, Title, and Teſt of the King heretofore uſed, That from henceforth the Name, Stile, Title and Teſt of Cuſtodes Libertatis Angliæ Authoritate Parlamenti, ſhall be uſed, and no other. And the Date ſhall be the year of our Lord, and none other: And that all Duties, Profits, Penalties, Iſſues, Fines, Amerciaments and Forfeitures whatſoever, which heretofore were ſued for in the Name of the King, ſhall from henceforth be proſecuted, ſued for, and recovered in the ſaid Name of Cuſtodes Libertatis Angliæ Authoritate Parlamenti, and no other: And in all or any of the Proceedings aforeſaid, where the words were (Juratores pro domino Rege) from henceforth it ſhall be (Juratores pro Republica) And where the words in any of the Proceedings aforeſaid uſed to be (Contra Pacem, Dignitatem, vel Coronam noſtram) that from henceforth theſe words (Contra Pacem publicam) inſtead of them or any of them ſhall be only uſed. And all Judges, Juſtices, Officers and Miniſters of Juſtice whatſoever are to take notice hereof, and are hereby authoriſed and required to proceed accordingly, and no otherwiſe: And whatſoever from henceforth ſhall be done contrary to this Act, ſhall be, and is hereby declared to be null and void. Provided always that all Writs iſſued out of the Chancery, and all Writs Patents of the Juſtices of the one Bench, and of the other, Barons of the Exchequer, Commiſſions of Oyer and Terminer, Goal Delivery, and Juſtices of the Peace, and all other Commiſſions, Patents and Grants, made and paſſed under the Great Seal of England, ſhall ſtand good and effectual in the Law, notwithſtanding the death of the King, any thing in this Act, or in any Article therein contained, or any Law, Statute, or Cuſtom, to the contrary thereof in any wiſe notwithſtanding. And it is hereby further ordained and enacted by the Authority aforeſaid, That all Writs Original already iſſued out under the Great Seal, and all Actions, Suits, Bills or Plaints now depending in any Court of Record, and all Proceſs, Pleas, Demurs, Continuances and Proceedings in every ſuch Action or Actions, Suits, Bill and Plaints, ſhall be returnable, ſtand good and effectual, and be proſecuted and ſued forth in ſuch manner and form, and in the ſame State, Condition and Order: the ſaid Changes and Alterations to be as before in this Act is expreſſed; the death of the King, or any Law, Cuſtom or Uſage, to the contrary thereof in anywiſe notwithſtanding. And that any variance that ſhall be occaſioned by reaſon thereof touching any the ſaid Writs, Proceſs or Proceedings in the Name, Stile, Teſt, or otherwiſe, ſhall not be any wiſe material, as concerning any default or error to be alledged or objected thereunto.

Ann. 1648.

The King was Saturday and Sunday at Whitehall, Dr. Juxton ſat up with him all Saturday night; Sunday he din'd and ſupp'd in his Bedchamber, and ſeem'd very cheerful. This day means was made to deliver a Letter to him from the Prince, which the King no ſooner received, but burnt it.

This day the King was removed to St. James's, where his Children from Syon-Houſe came to viſit him, but ſtayed not long: he took the Princeſs in his Arms and kiſſed her, gave her his Bleſſing, and 2 Seals that he had, wherein were two Diamonds; ſhe wept bitterly. The Prince Elector Duke of Richmond, and others made ſuit to ſee him, which he refuſed. This night he lay at St. James's.

Scots Miniſters preach againſt the Engliſh Army, &c.

From Scotland they write, That the Miniſters of the Kirk preach againſt the Army in England, and their Proceedings againſt their King. They ſay they are bound by their Covenant to preſerve Monarchy, and that in the Race of the preſent King. Their Parliament have paſſed ſeveral Votes, That thoſe that have been in the late Engagement againſt England, ſhall not bear any Office as long as they live, except ſuch of them as were under age, and ſhall maniſeſt their Repentance; ſuch as ſat in Committees, and took their Oaths, ſhall not bear Office for ten years; ſuch as never evidenced their diſlike of their way of petitioning, ſhall not bear Office for 5 years; ſuch as are prophane Swearers, laſcivious Perſons, and ſuch as do not worſhip God in their private Houſes, are not to be admitted to any place of Truſt. Earl Loutherdale expreſſeth a readineſs to give obedience to all Decrees of Parliament, but that was not thought fit, and therefore he was ordered to appear by Writ, which was accordingly: a Committee is to conſider of him. The Earl of Glencarne having by Petition to Parliament made his way, his Petition being myſterious as to that of owning them as a Parliament, it's to be conſidered.

From Dartmouth January 26. thus: We had the other day a ſight of Prince Rupert, with about 14 revolting Ships ſailing by our Coaſt, and bending towards Ireland; they drive the whole Channel before them, and ſeize upon many ſeveral Veſſels, but one of great value, laden with Cloth, worth 50000 l. We apprehend a great neglect in not having any Navy abroad: one of this Fleet was driven in here the 26*th*, where ſhe now remains. The Maſter reports that the Fleet is very poorly victualled, and worſe manned, having got but 400 Mariners amongſt them.

Tueſday, January 30.

THIS Day his Majeſty was brought from St. James's about 10 in the Morning, walking on foot through the Park, with a Regiment of Foot for his Guard, with Colours flying, Drums beating, his private Guard of Partizans, with ſome of his Gentlemen before, and ſome behind, bare-headed; Dr. Juxton late Biſhop of London next behind him, and Col. Thomlinſon (who had the Charge of him) to the Gallery in Whitehall, and ſo into the Cabinet-Chamber, where he uſed to lie, where he continued at his Devotion, refuſing to dine (having before taken the Sacrament) only about 12 at Noon he drank a Glaſs of Claret Wine, and eat a piece of Bread. From thence he was accompanied by Dr. Juxton, Col. Thomlinſon, Col. Hacker, and the Guards before-mentioned, through the Banqueting-Houſe, adjoining to which the Scaffold was erected, between Whitehall-Gate, and the Gate leading into the Gallery from St. James's. The Scaffold was hung round with black, and the Floor covered with black, and the Ax and Block laid in the middle of the Scaffold. There were divers Companies of Foot and Horſe on every ſide the Scaffold, and the Multitudes of People that came to be Spectators were very great. The King making a paſs upon the Scaffold, look'd very earneſtly on the Block, and asked Col. Hacker if there were no higher; and then ſpake thus, directing his Speech to the Gentlemen on the Scaffold.

King's Speech on the Scaffold.

King. I ſhall be very little heard of any Body here, I ſhall therefore ſpeak a word unto you here. Indeed I could hold my peace very well, if I did not think that holding my Peace would make ſome Men think that I did ſubmit to the Guilt, as well as to the Puniſhment. But I think it is my Duty to God firſt, and to my Country, for to clear my ſelf both as an honeſt Man, a good King, and a good Chriſtian. I ſhall begin firſt with my Innocency: In troth, I think it not very needful for me to inſiſt long upon this, for all the World knows I never did begin the War with the two Houſes of Parliament; and I call God to witneſs (to whom I muſt ſhortly make an account) that I never did intend to incroach upon their Privileges. They began upon me: It is the Militia they began upon; they confeſt that the Militia was mine, but they thought it fit to have it from me: And to be ſhort, if any Body will look but to the Dates of the Commiſſions, their Commiſſions and mine, and likewiſe to the Declarations, will ſee clearly that they began theſe unhappy Troubles, not I. So that as to the guilt of theſe enormous Crimes that are laid againſt me, I hope in God, that God will clear me of it; I will not, I'm in Charity: God forbid that I ſhould lay it upon the two Houſes of Parliament; there is no neceſſity of either, I hope they are free of this guilt: for I believe that ill Inſtruments between them and me, has been the chief Cauſe of all this Bloodſhed; ſo that by way of ſpeaking, as I find my ſelf clear of this, I hope (and pray God) that they may too: yet for all this God forbid that I ſhould be ſo ill a Chriſtian, as not to ſay that God's Judgments are juſt upon me; many times he does pay Juſtice by an unjuſt Sentence, that is ordinary: I only ſay this, that an unjuſt Sentence (meaning Strafford*) that I ſuffered to take effect, is puniſhed now by an unjuſt Sentence upon me; that is, ſo far I have ſaid to ſhew you that I am an innocent Man. Now for to ſhew you that I am a good Chriſtian. I hope there is* (pointing to Dr. Juxton) a good Man that will bear me witneſs. That I have forgiven all the world, and even thoſe in particular that have been the chief Cauſers of my death; who they are God knows, I do not deſire to know, I pray God forgive them. But this is not all, my Charity muſt go further; I wiſh that they may repent: for indeed they have committed a great Sin in that particular; I pray God with St. Stephen, that this be not laid to their Charge; nay not only ſo, but that they may take the right way to the peace of the Kingdom, for Charity commands me not only to forgive particular Men, but my Charity commands me to endeavour to the laſt gaſp the peace of the Kingdom. So, Sirs, I do wiſh with all my Soul, and I do hope there is ſome here will carry it further, that they may endeavour the peace of the Kingdom. Now, Sirs, I muſt ſhew you both how you are out of the way, and I will put you in the way: Firſt you are out of the way; for certainly all the way you ever have had yet, as I could find by any thing, is in the way of Conqueſt. Certainly this is an ill way; for Conqueſt, Sirs, in my opinion is never juſt, except there be a good juſt Cauſe, either for matter of wrong, or juſt Title; and then if you go beyond it, the firſt quarrel that you have to it, that makes it unjuſt at the end, that was juſt at firſt: But if it be only matter of Conqueſt, then it is a great Robbery. As a Pirate ſaid to Alexander the Great, That he was the great Robber, he was but a petty Robber: and ſo, Sirs, I do think the way that you are in, is much out of the way. Now, Sirs, for to put you in the way; believe it, you will never do right, nor God will never proſper you, until you give him his due, the King his due (that is, my Succeſſors) and the People their due, I am as much for them as any of you: You muſt give God his due, by regulating rightly his Church (according to his Scriptures) which is now out of order: for to ſet you in a way particularly, now I cannot; but only this. A National Synod freely called, freely debating among themſelves, muſt ſettle this, when that every opinion is freely and clearly heard. For the King indeed I will not (then turning to a Gentleman that touched the Ax he ſaid, Hurt not the Ax that may hurt me) As for the King, the Laws of the Land will clearly inſtruct you for that; therefore becauſe it concerns my own particular, I only give you a touch of it. For the People: And truly I deſire their Liberty and Freedom, as much as any Body whomſoever; but I muſt tell you, That their Liberty and Freedom conſiſts in having of Government, thoſe Laws by which their Life and their Goods may be moſt their own. It is not for having ſhare in Government (Sirs) that is nothing pertaining to them. A Subject and a Soveraign are clean different things; and therefore until they do that, I mean, That you do put the People in that Liberty as I ſay, certainly they will never enjoy themſelves. Sirs, it was for this that now I am come here. If I would have given way to an Arbitrary Way, for to have all Laws changed according to the Power of the Sword, I needed not to have come here; and therefore I tell you (and I pray God it be not laid to your Charge) that I am the Martyr of the People.

An. 1648. People. In troth, Sirs, I ſhall not hold you much longer: for I will only ſay this to you, That in truth I could have deſired ſome little time longer, becauſe that I would have put this that I have ſaid in a little more order, and a little better digeſted, than I have done; and therefore I hope you will excuſe me. I have delivered my Conſcience, I pray God that you take thoſe Courſes that are beſt for the good of the Kingdom, and your own Salvation.

Dr. Juxton. Will your Majeſty, though it may be very well known your Majeſty's Affections to Religion; yet it may be expected that you ſhould ſay ſomewhat for the Word's ſatisfaction in that particular.

King. I thank you very heartily my Lord, for that I had almoſt forgotten it. In troth Sirs, my Conſcience in Religion, I think is very well known to the World; and therefore I declare before you all, That I die a Chriſtian according to the Profeſſion of the Church of England, as I found it left me by my Father; and this honeſt Man (meaning the Biſhop) I think will witneſs it. Then turning to the Officers, ſaid, Sirs, excuſe me for this ſame, I have a good Cauſe, and I have a gracious God: I will ſay no more. Then turning to Col. Hacker, he ſaid, Take care that they do not put me to pain; and Sir, this and it pleaſe you——But then a Gentleman coming near the Ax, the King ſaid, Take heed of the Ax, pray take heed of the Ax. Then the King ſpeaking to the Executioner, ſaid, I ſhall ſay but very ſhort Prayers, and then thruſt out my hands. Then the King called to Dr. Juxton for his Nightcap; and having put it on, he ſaid to the Executioner, Does my Hair trouble you? who deſired him him to put it all under his Cap, which the King did accordingly by the help of the Executioner and the Biſhop. Then the King turning to Dr. Juxton, ſaid, I have a good Cauſe, and a gracious God on my ſide.

Dr. Juxton. There is but one Stage more: This Stage is turbulent and troubleſom. It is a ſhort one. But you may conſider, it will ſoon carry you a very great way; it will carry you from Earth to Heaven, and there you ſhall find to your great joy the Prize; you haſte to a Crown of Glory.

King. I go from a corruptible to an incorruptible Crown, where no diſturbance can be.

Dr. Juxton. You are exchanged from a temporal to an eternal Crown, a good Exchange.

Then the King took off his Cloak and his George, giving his George to Dr. Juxton, ſaying, Remember (it is thought for the Prince) and ſome other ſmall Ceremonies paſt. After which the King ſtooping down, laid his Neck upon the Block; and after a little pauſe, ſtretching forth his hands, the Executioner at one blow ſevered his Head from his Body. Then his Body was put in a Coffin, covered with black Velvet, and removed to his Lodging-Chamber in Whitehall. Being imbalmed and laid in a Coffin of Lead to be ſeen for ſome days, at length upon Wedneſday the 17*th* of February, it was delivered to four of his Servants, Herbert, Mildmay, Preſton, and Joyner, who with ſome others in mourning Equipage attended the Herſe that night to Windſor, and placed it in the Room which was formerly the King's Bedchamber.

Next day it was removed into the Deans-Hall, which was hung with black, and made dark, and Lights were ſet burning round the Herſe. About three in the afternoon the Duke of Richmond, the Marqueſs of Hartford, the Earls of Southampton and Lindſey, and the Biſhop of London, came thither, with two Votes paſſed that Morning, whereby the ordering of the King's Burial was committed to the Duke, provided that the Expences thereof exceeded not 500 l. This Order they ſhewed to Col. Whichcot the Governor of the Caſtle, deſiring the Interment might be in St. George's Chappel, and according to the form of the Common Prayer: The latter Requeſt the Governor denied, ſaying, That it was improbable the Parliament would permit the uſe of what they had ſo ſolemnly aboliſhed, and therein deſtroy their own Act.

The Lords replied,

That there was a difference betwixt deſtroying their own Act, and diſpenſing with it; and that no Power ſo binds its own hands, as to diſable it ſelf in ſome Caſes. But all prevailed not.

The Committee to whom the enſuing Proclamation was referred made report hereof, and the Houſe aſſented to the ſame: Here take it at large.

Proclamation againſt proclaiming any of the late King's Race.

“WHereas Charles Stuart King of England, being for the notorious Treaſons, Tyrannies and Murders committed by him in the late unnatural and cruel Wars, condemned to death; whereupon after execution of the ſame, ſeveral Pretences may be made, and Titles ſet on foot unto the Kingly Office, to the apparent hazard of the publick Peace: For prevention whereof, Be it enacted and ordained by this preſent Parliament, and by Authority of the ſame, That no Perſon or Perſons whatſoever do preſume to proclaim, declare, publiſh, or any way promote Charles Stuart, Son of the ſaid Charles, commonly called the Prince of Wales, or any other Perſon, to be King or Chief Magiſtrate of England, or of Ireland, or of any the Dominions belonging to them, or either of them, by colour of Inheritance, Succeſſion, Election, or any other Claim whatſoever, without the free Conſent of the People in Parliament firſt had and ſignified by a particular Act or Ordinance for that purpoſe; any Statute, Law, Uſage, or Cuſtom to the contrary hereof in anywiſe notwithſtanding.

“And be it further enacted and ordained, and it is hereby enacted and ordained, That whoſoever ſhall contrary to this Act proclaim, declare, publiſh, or any way promote the ſaid Charles Stuart the Son, or any other Perſon, to be King, or Chief Magiſtrate of England, or of Ireland, or of any the Dominions belonging to them, or to either of them, without the ſaid conſent in Parliament ſignified as aforeſaid, ſhall be deemed and adjudged a Traitor to the Commonwealth, and ſhall ſuffer the pains of Death, and ſuch other Puniſhments as belong to the Crimes of High Treaſon. And all Officers as well Civil as Military, and all other well-affected Perſons are hereby authoriſed and required forthwith to apprehend all ſuch Offenders, and to bring them in ſafe Cuſtody to the next Juſtice of the Peace, that they may be proceeded againſt accordingly.
